

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

Harvard College Library

FROM THE BEQUEST OF
SUSAN GREENE DEXTER

HISTORY OF ALABAMA AND DICTIONARY OF ALABAMA BIOGRAPHY

BY THOMAS McADORY OWEN, LL.D.
Lawyer, Founder and Director Alabama State Department of Archives and History, and author of numerous historical and bibliographical publications

IN FOUR VOLUMES

VOLUME IV

CHICAGO
THE S. J. CLARKE PUBLISHING COMPANY
1921

U521045.2
✓

HARVARD COLLEGE LIBRARY
DEXTER FUND
Apr 4, 1925

Copyrighted, 1921,
BY
MARIE BANKHEAD OWEN

Dictionary of Alabama Biography

L

LACEY, EDWARD PULASKI physician, was born October 1, 1856, at Maylene, near Montevallo, Shelby County; son of James P. and Ann (McInnis) Lacey, the former a native of Livingston County, Ky., who removed to Jefferson County, and later settled in Shelby County, where he remained until his death in 1884, being a soldier of the Seminole Indian War and a major in the Alabama State troops; grandson of William and Rebecca Lacey, who lived in Livingston County, Ky., prior to his location in Jefferson County, and of Murdock and Mary McInnis of Montevallo; great grandson of Gen. Edward Lacey, who, at the age of sixteen, settled in Chester District, S. C., and at the commencement of the Revolution, joined the army and rose to the rank of colonel, soon after peace was won the war clouds again rose and he was elected brigadier-general, and was also appointed one of the first county court judges in Chester District, which he also represented in the legislature of South Carolina. The Laceys immigrated from England and settled on the Chesapeake Bay and removed to Cumberland County, Va. Edward Pulaski Lacey received his elementary education in the public schools of Shelby County, where he completed his studies in the high school. He graduated in medicine at Vanderbilt university, February, 1883, and entered upon the practice at Woodward in 1885, as resident physician for the Woodward iron company. Two years later he took up his residence in Bessemer where he remained until his death. He was surgeon for the Bessemer rolling mill, several railway systems of the section and on the surgical staff of the Elizabeth Duncan hospital. He served two terms as city councilman, and was for twelve years a member of the board of education of Bessemer. He was a Democrat and served one term on the Jefferson County Democratic executive committee, from which county he was also elected to the Alabama legislature, 1900-01. He had the distinction of leading the ticket in the general election in the fall of the former year. He was for ten years a member of the Alabama national guard and in which he was assistant surgeon with the rank of first lieutenant on the staff of Col. L. V. Clark, 1898. He was not connected with any church, nor secret society, but was a member of the Jefferson County medical association, the American medical association and the National geographical society. Married: (1) January 8, 1884, in Talladega, to Maggle E., daughter of William and Elizabeth Morris of Mobile; (2) January 22, 1913, at Chattanooga, Tenn., to Mrs. Rachael L. Rains, daughter of C. F. and Clara Landis of that city. Children: by the first marriage: 1. Philip, resident engineer for the Hazelhurst construction company, Lakeland, Fla.; 2. William, superintendent of ore mines for the Woodward iron company, near Bessemer; 3. James C., locomotive engineer, Louisville and Nashville railroad, Bessemer; 4. Joseph E., engineer in the government service, Huntington, W. Va.; 5. Ann; 6. Kate; 7. Robert; 8. Charles M. Last residence: Bessemer.

LACKEY, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, and a resident of Lawrence County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on April 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $79.78; sums received to date of publication of list, $239.34.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840, aged 87.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

LACKEY, WILLIAM MARTIN, lawyer, was born March 31, 1856, in Tallapoosa County; son of James M. and Elizabeth (Wiley) Lackey, who were married in Talladega County, and lived in what is now Clay County, the former a soldier in Hilliard's legion, C. S. Army, who served about a year, then contracted a fever and died in a hospital in Chattanooga, Tenn., the latter who married Judge Hiram M. Evans of Clay County, after her first husband's death; grandson of Adam Lackey, who emigrated from South Carolina to Tennessee when a young man and settled near the Alabama line, was married there and moved to Tallapoosa County in 1836, moved to Jackson County in 1866, and later to DeKalb County, where he died in 1891. Mr. Lackey obtained his early schooling at Lineville, Clay County; began the study of law under W. J. Pierce; and was graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL.B., 1880. He began the practice of law immediately after his graduation, and has been practicing in Alabama since that time. He resided at Ashland for some time and later moved to Dadeville. He was elected to the State senate from the eighth senatorial district, composed of Talladega and Clay Counties, 1890-1894. He is a Democrat. Married: January 5, 1896, to Imogene Disharoom. Residence: Dadeville.

LACKLAND, JOHN T., lawyer, was born about 1852, in Virginia, and died December 26, 1914. He moved to Alabama when a young man; was admitted to the bar at Eutaw; located at Grove Hill in the practice of law; practiced for a number of years alone, then formed a partnership with Massey Wilson, which continued until the election of the latter as attorney general, 1902; was elected circuit judge in 1904; and re-elected for a term of six years, November 8, 1910.

LACY, ERNEST RENFROE, lawyer, was born October 11, 1877, in Talladega County; son of Sheriff and Mary (McCullough) Lacy, the former a native of Randolph County, who lived at different times in Randolph, St. Clair, and Talladega Counties, until 1882, when he moved to Jasper, is a lawyer, has served as county solicitor, register in chancery, representative in the legislature, and solicitor of the law and equity courts; grandson of Abner Wise and Martha Ann (Brewster) Lacy, of Ashville, the former of a Virginia family and the latter of a South Carolina family, and of John Marion and Ruth (Skinner) McCullough, of Macon County, the former a Confederate soldier who was killed at the battle of Peach Tree Creek, July, 1864. The McCulloughs came from South Carolina to Alabama, and the Skinners from Georgia. Mr. Lacy attended Howard College, 1894-1895; attended the law school of the University of Alabama during the session of 1899-1900, graduating, LL. B.; began the practice of law at Jasper, January 15, 1902; and represented Walker County in the State legislature, 1907-1911. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 3, 1903, at Jasper, to Gaye Musgrove, daughter of John B. and Zou (Musgrove) Long. Residence: Jasper.

LACY, SAMUEL CHAPMAN, farmer, was born August 5, 1879, at Pea Ridge, Dallas County; son of Theophilis and Mary Newell (Pettus) Lacy, the former a native of Huntsville, who moved to Dallas County, and served during the last year of the War of Secession as a member of the Fourth Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army; grandson of Theophilis and Fannie (Binford) Lacy, of Huntsville, and of Edmund Winston and Mary Lucinda (Chapman) Pettus (q. v.). His great-great-grandfather Lacy came from England and settled in Virginia, afterward moving to North Carolina. Mr. Lacy received his early education in the country schools, and attended Marion Military Institute for two sessions. Since leaving school, he has engaged in farming, with the exception of a short time when he served as fireman on the Southern Railway. He represented Dallas County in the State legislature, 1907, as a Democrat. Married: January 23, 1901, at Jones' Switch, to Evelyn Furniss Hogg, daughter of Alexander Preston and Pallie Letitia (Harville) Hogg, the former a lineal descendant of James Hogg, the Scotch poet. Children: Evelyn Letitia. Residence: Valegrande.

LACY, SHERIFF, lawyer and register in chancery, was born May 7, 1853, in Randolph County; son of Abner Wise and Martha (Brewster) Lacy, the former a native of Maury County, Tenn., who settled in St. Clair County, where he held numerous official positions and was at the time of his death, in 1887, probate judge of the county; grandson of William and Mary (Wise) Lacy who lived in Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, and of Sheriff and Malinda (Wortham) Brewster of South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. He received a common school education in St. Clair and Talladega Counties, and read law in the office of Bradford and Bishop, in Talladega, 1879-81. He was licensed to practice his profession the latter year, and in 1882, located at Jasper, where he has since resided. In 1883, he was appointed register in chancery for Walker County and has continued to fill that office. He was a member of the Alabama legislature, 1898-99; county solicitor, Walker County, 1886-87-88; for several years a member of the board of aldermen, Jasper; member city board of education. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: December 24, 1876, to Mary Ella, daughter of John Marion and Ruth (Skinner) McCollough, of Macon County, the former a native of Anderson District, S. C., a Confederate soldier under Hood and was killed in Peachtree Creek battle, near Atlanta, Ga. Children: 1. Ernest Renfro (q. v.); 2. Cecil Justus; 3. Clyde; 4. Pauline; 5. Ruth; 6. Lorene. Residence: Jasper.

LAFOY, JAMES, a soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Washington County; private in infantry and cavalry, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on September 9, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $25.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

LAGARIE, J. K., physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of New York, 1886. Residence: Forkland.

LAIRD, HENRY WESLEY, lawyer and merchant, was born in 1819, in South Carolina, and died in 1879, in Geneva. He was orphaned in early boyhood and came from the home of an elder brother in South Carolina to the home of another brother, Louis Laird, who was living in Eufaula; later studied law in a private office in Elba; merchandised in Montgomery between 1840, and 1855, and in Geneva until the War of Secession broke out. He entered the Confederate service as captain of Co. E., Sixth Alabama infantry regiment, commanded by Col. Benjamin B. Baker. The company was raised by him in Geneva and was called the "Gulf Rangers," later, was a member of Co. K, Alabama cavalry, under Col. C. H. Colvin and Gen. James Clanton. When the call to arms came he answered promptly, left his store, telling his clerks to sell what they could and to give what was left to the family of any needy soldiers. Later he was ordered to clear out raiders from the section, which he did successfully, but his store and home were burned. After the close of the war he practiced law in Elba and Geneva. He represented Geneva County in the constitutional convention of 1875.

He was a Democrat. Married: July 7, 1867, to Laura Luzene, daughter of Van and Martha Mathis (Jackson) Stoudenmiller, who lived at Aberfoil and later at Tuskegee, Auburn, and Pensacola, Fla.; granddaughter of Jeremiah Jackson of Independence, Autauga County, and of Louis Stoudenmiller, in the Dutch Bend, near Autaugaville, Autauga County. Children: 1. Henry Stanmore, lawyer, m. Nellie Walker, Pensacola, Fla.; 2. Frank Jackson, m. Kate Cumba, Geneva; 3. Adele; 4. Jessie, m. C. P. Atkinson, Greensboro; 5. Walter Marcellus, dentist, m. Dorothy Mercer, Demopolis. Last residence: Geneva.

LAIRD, HERVEY WOODFORD, business man, was born June 26, 1869, at Beaver Ridge, Knox County, Tenn.; son of Orville Dyer and Mary Crawford (Stephens) Laird, the former who was born at Oneida Castle, N. Y., studied medicine in the University of Michigan and served, on the Union side, as lieutenant of artillery, in the War of Secession; grandson of Orville P. Laird, and of the Rev. Rufus M. and Nancy M. Stephens, who lived at Beaver Ridge. Mr. Laird was educated in the common county schools. He was in the newspaper business from about 1890 to the time of his entrance on deputy insurance commissioner's place, October 1, 1910. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: Lida Cassidy, the daughter of Judge Benjamin F. Cassidy of Anniston. Residence: Montgomery.

LAIRD, ORVILLE D., physician, was born January 20, 1840, in Columbus, Ga.; son of Dr. Orville P. and Nancy (Dyer) Laird, natives of Oneida County, N. Y., the former was a dentist, who lived in Georgia, and New York, removing in 1857 to Ohio, and later to Michigan. Dr. Laird was reared in New York, received a good academic education and began life as a clerk. In April, 1861, he enlisted in Co. E, Seventh Ohio infantry regiment, U. S. A.; later joined the 116th New York infantry regiment; was promoted in 1863 to quartermaster's department; and in 1861, lieutenant of light artillery. In 1859, he graduated as M. D. from Ann Arbor, Michigan. After cessation of hostilities, he practiced in Tennessee, locating at Clinton, in 1866. He engaged in the railroad and furnace business in 1869; was appointed U. S. commissioner for the district court, northern district of Alabama; later moved to Cross Plains. Married: October 25, 1865, to Mary C., daughter of Rev. R. M. and Nancy (King) Stevens, natives of Tennessee. Children: 1. Harvey; 2. George Edgar; 3. James G. Residence: Cross Plains.

LAMAR, ANDREW JACKSON, Confederate soldier and Methodist minister, was born May 29, 1847, at Cowpens, Walton County, Ga., son of Andrew Jackson and Mary Athena (Jackson) Lamar, the former born at Milledgeville, Baldwin County, Ga., lived at Cowpens; grandson of Zechariah and Mary (Robinson) Lamar, who lived at Milledgeville, and of William H. and Mildred (Cobb) Jackson, who lived at Athens, Ga.; great-grandson of James Jackson, who came, when a boy, from England, was major in the Revolutionary Army, governor of Georgia, and U. S. senator, and whose remains are buried in the Congressional cemetery, Washington, D. C. Rev. Mr. Lamar received early education in private schools of Athens, Ga., and attended the University high school at Athens. In 1863, he entered, as a member of the sophomore class, the University of Georgia, Athens. In 1864, he left the University to join the Confederate Army. In 1865, when eighteen years of age, and just after the surrender at Appomattox Court House, he came to Alabama and settled on a plantation in Lowndes County. In 1872, he graduated in the law department of the University of Georgia, receiving the degree of B. L. At a religious meeting at Letohatchie, Lowndes County, he experienced conversion; being called to preach, was licensed, in August, 1874, at Calhoun, Lowndes County; in December, 1874, joined the Alabama conference of the Methodist church, South. Since 1903, he has been publishing agent of the M. E. Church, South. In the War of Secession, he was a private in Carlton's battery, Cabbell's battalion of artillery, Army of Northern Virginia. He is a Democrat; Mason; and a member of the Chi Phi college fraternity. Married: (1) in 1878, to Martha Elsworth, of Mobile, whose ancestry was English, her father coming, between 1840 and 1850, to Mobile; (2) June 9, 1897, in Selma, to Mary Virginia, daughter of Rev. Henry and Missouri (Phillips) Urquhart, father long a member of the Alabama Conference, whose ancestors were of Scotch descent, and several generations have lived in Alabama. Children: 1. Martha, m. William M. Teague, jr., of Montgomery. Residence: Nashville, Tenn.

LAMAR, HOWARD, lawyer; graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. A. degree, in 1882. Residence: Jasper.

LAMAR, THEODORE JEMISON, teacher, son of Dr. William Harmong and Ann Maria (Gleen) Lamar (q. v.). Prof. Lamar was graduated from the Agricultural and mechanical college, A. B., 1869, later A. M.; co-principal of West Georgia college; also of Opelika seminary; president, Auburn female college; vice president, Tuscaloosa female college, 1887; principal of the Prattville graded schools; principal, Opelika training school; founder of the Lamar training school for young men, Jasper, 1894, and at one time superintendent of education, Walker County. Married: Orlena Augusta, daughter of Cromwell Cleveland, a member of the Georgia legislature and a signer of the ordinance of secession of that State, and a direct descendant of one of the Cromwells who left England on the downfall of Oliver Cromwell. Children: 1. Leander, died in infancy; 2. Theodore J., jr., a labor leader, founder, and editor of the "Labor Review," married Edna Alice Ramsey; 3. Orlena Augusta; 4. Louis, died young; 5. Charles Cromwell; 6. Carrie Amanda; 7. William Harmong. Residence: Jasper.

LAMAR, WILLIAM HARMONG, jr., lawyer and solicitor of the postoffice department, was born at Auburn, December 11, 1859; son of Dr. William Harmong and Ann M. (Glenn) Lamar (q. v.). He graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, A. B., 1881; Georgetown university, LL. B. 1884, and LL. M., 1885; began the practice of law at Washington, D. C., and Rockville, Md., 1885; was a member of the Maryland house of representatives, 1894; first lieutenant, Co. K, First Maryland volunteer infantry, later captain, U. S. volunteer signal corps, Spanish-American war, and saw service as signal officer under Maj. Gen. Jas. H. Wilson, in Porto Rico campaign; was brevetted major, 1899; assistant attorney, U. S. department of justice, 1906-13; assistant attorney general, now solicitor, of the post office department since May 1, 1913. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a member of the Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Delta Phi fraternities. Married: June 21, 1887, to Virginia Longstreet, daughter of Justice L. Q. C. and Virginia L. (Longstreet) Lamar, of the U. S. Supreme court, of Oxford, Miss., and Washington, D. C. Children: 1. Virginia Longstreet; 2. Augusta (Glenn); 3. L. Q. C.; 4. William Harmong, jr. Residence: Rockville, Md.

LAMAR, WILLIAM HARMONG, physician, was born at Augusta, Ga., July 13, 1827, and died at Jasper; son of Col. Harmong and Martha Ann (Young) Lamar, the former a member of the Georgia State militia, and later a resident of Glenville, Barbour County; grandson of John Lamar, planter and slave owner of Georgia, and his wife, who was a Miss Apling, and of William Young, of Baltimore, Md., and Augusta, Ga.; and the sixth in descent from Thomas Lamar, sr., an early French emigrant to Virginia who was naturalized in Maryland. He attended the academy at Apling, Ga., Emory college, Oxford, and graduated from the Southern botanical medical college at Macon, Ga. He began the practice at Auburn in 1854, where he remained until 1895, when he removed to Jasper. Although unable to serve in the C. S. Army, he employed a substitute and several times visited the firing line himself. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. He was the author of a book of poems and was the contributor of many articles to the state press. Married: January 7, 1847, at Glenville, to Ann Maria, daughter of Rev. John Bowles and Maria (Allen) Glenn (q. v.). Children: 1. Theodore J., married Orlean Augusta Cleveland (q. v.); 2. Charles R., minister of the Texas and Alabama conferences, and now a resident of Montgomery, m. Laura Cain; 3. Glennie C., m. T. S. Phillips; 4. William Harmong, m. Virginia Longstreet Lamar (q. v.); 5. Howard, lawyer, graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, A. B. 1882, A. M. (honorary), 1887; is a Democrat; admitted to the bar, 1889, and has since practiced at Jasper, m. Alma Hayes; 6. Annie, unm.; 7. George Holt, m. Edith Stonestreet, and lives in Rockville. Last residence: Jasper.

LAMBERT, JOSEPH SHOMO teacher, Baptist minister, was born on March 8, 1869, at Mount Pleasant, Monroe County; son of Andrew Jackson and Josephine Henrietta (Shaunfield) Lambert, who lived at Mt. Pleasant, the former a farmer, who was ordained a minister in the Missionary Baptist church when he was twenty years old, and was actively engaged in the ministry fifty-eight years, who after his wife's death, moved to Bay Minette, Baldwin County, and spent the last six years of his life there, the latter who was born in Mobile, shortly after her parents came from Germany, who was left an orphan in infancy and was reared by relatives; grandson of Andrew and Rebecca (Hurst) Lambert, who moved to Alabama from Georgia in pioneer days, settled in Mt. Pleasant, Monroe County, and, late in life moved to Claiborne. He received his early schooling from his father and mother, and from Prof. William M. Webb, at Perdue Hill; entered Howard college in 1889 and attended two sessions regularly; taught school at Bluff Springs, Fla., 1891-1892; returned to Howard college, September, 1892, and was compelled to withdraw in March, 1893, because of ill health. He taught school until 1901; was appointed county superintendent of education for Baldwin County to fill an unexpired term by Supt. John W. Abercrombie, February, 1901; was successively elected to that office every term until 1917, when he entered the service of the State department of education of Alabama. He was ordained to the ministry in the Bay Minette Missionary Baptist church in January, 1895, and has served as pastor in the towns of Bay Minette and Flomaton, and in country pastorates. He is a Democrat; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: May 15, 1900, at Mobile, to Lennie, daughter of Richard Montgomery and Nannie (Farmer) Simmons, who lived at Adairville, Ky.; granddaughter of Dr. D. G. and Frances (Edmonson) Simmons, the former a native of Virginia, who moved to Adairville, Ky., early in life. Children: 1. a son, d. in infancy; 2. Margaret Josephine, b. March 21, 1902. Residence: Montgomery.

LAMBERT, MARY ELIZA PERINE TUCKER, author, was born at Cahaba, November 6, 1838; daughter of Edward M. Perine and wife, both of the New England States. She was educated in the North; and obtained employment as a journalist in New York City, becoming a regular contributor to the "Ledger," and other New York papers. Among her works are: "Poems," 1867; "Loew's Bridge, A Broadway Idyl," 1868, and "Life of Mark M. Pomeroy," 1868. Married: (1) John M. Tucker, of Mill-edgeville, Ga., (2) Col. James H. Lambert, of the Philadelphia Press.

LAMKIN, GRIFFIN, planter, was born in Virginia and died in Jasper, June 10, 1856; son of Peter and Winifred (Dockins) Lamkin, both of Virginia. He was a man of sound education. He entered the War of 1812 as a captain and was promoted to lieutenant colonel. He removed from Virginia to Madison County, about 1800, carrying a hundred slaves with him. By going surety he lost the greater part of his fortune and removed to Walker County, then a part of Tuscaloosa County. He was clerk of the circuit court of Tuscaloosa from 1844 to 1862. He was a Democrat; Baptist; and Mason. Married: (1) December 24, 1800, in Madison County, to Betsey, daughter of James and Susanna Clark; (2) March 24, 1831, in Tuscaloosa County, to Sarah, daughter of Samuel and Sally Thacker. By these two marriages there were eighteen children: by first wife: 1. Susannah Bibb; 2. Peter Sharpe; 3. John James; 4. Betsey Clark; 5. Mary Booker; 6. Griffin; 7. Petronilla; 8. George Griffin; 9. Eliza Bibb; 10. Lucy Clark; 11. Thomas Richard; by his second wife: 12. Petronilla, m. Elias Right; 13. Mariah Jane; 14. Peter Lamkin; 15. Hannah, m. William B. Orear; 16. Sarah E., m. John C. Ryan; 17. Thomas Peter; 18. Martha Jane, m. W. L. Sides. Last residence: Jasper.

LANCASTER, JOHN AUSTIN, was born December 15, 1839, near LaGrange, Ga., and died March 6, 1901, at Wetumpka; son of Capt. William and Martha Ann (Goss) Lancaster, the former a North Carolinian, who moved to Tallapoosa County in 1837, served in the C. S. Army, and died in service; grandson of Jesse Hamilton and Mary Ann (Haygood) Goss, who lived near Vernon Ferry and LaGrange, Ga.; great-grandson of Benjamin and Susannah (Davis) Goss, Virginians, who moved to Wilkes County, Ga., 1803, and later to Newton County, Ga.; great-great-grandson of Jonathan and Lucy (Gibbs) Davis, the former the founder of that branch of the Davis family in the United States, who was kidnapped in England in childhood, and brought to this country, was married in Virginia, and settled in Orange County, Va. The Lancaster family is descended from two brothers, younger sons of a branch of nobility of that name in England, who came to Virginia during the early colonization of that state. The Goss family settled in Virginia prior to 1661, having been driven from Germany, their native country, by religious persecutions. Mr. Lancaster received his education in the public and private schools of Troup County, Ga., and Tallassee; volunteered at the outbreak of the War of Secession, as a private; became first lieutenant, Co. I, Seventeenth Alabama regiment; was dangerously wounded at Franklin; was elected captain and was acting as such, though without commission, at the end of the war; taught school after the war for a short time; engaged in planting and stock raising in Elmore County; was elected sheriff of Elmore County in 1870, the first Democrat to be elected to a public office in that county after the war; was elected probate judge of that county in 1874, and was continuously re-elected to that office until his resignation in 1890 before the expiration of his term; was the owner, though not the editor, of several weekly newspapers published in Elmore County, 1874-1900. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: March 1, 1866, in Elmore County, to Frances Aldora, daughter of Robert Pinckney and Minerva (Ramsey) Lett, who lived near Good Hope, the former a Georgian, who served in Co. A, Thirty-fourth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, and was severely wounded near Chattanooga. Her great-grandfather was a captain in the Revolutionary War. Children: 1. William Lycurgus (q. v.); 2. Eulala Viola, m. John R. Gamble; 3. Jessie Aldora, m. Robert Tyler Goodwyn (q. v.); 4. Minnie Lee, m. Dr. T. H. Street; 5. John Austin, m. Ida M. McCullers; 6. Effie Lena, m. H. S. Taylor. Last residence: Wetumpka.

LANCASTER, WILLIAM LYCURGUS, business man, State treasurer, was born March 4, 1869, near Tallassee; son of Judge John Austin and Frances Aldora (Lett) Lancaster (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Elmore County; and at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., but resigned because of physical disability before graduation. He farmed in Wilcox and Marengo Counties, two years; merchandised in Wetumpka, eight years; organized the Bank of Wetumpka, of which he became president; has farming and stock raising interests in Elmore County; has served on the Democratic executive committee of Elmore County, and of the fifth congressional district; has been alderman and city treasurer of Wetumpka; trustee of the Alabama State department of archives and history; trustee of the Southern university, Greensboro, 1902-1908; represented the tenth district in the State senate, 1903, and Elmore County in the house of representatives, 1907; was elected State treasurer, November 1914. He is a Methodist; a Mason; Odd Fellow; Red Man; Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World; and has been both president and vice president of the Alabama State bankers association. Married: April 20, 1892, at Kellyton, Coosa County, to Bessie, daughter of Ben Lloyd and Mary (Hester) Gaddis, of that place. Children: 1. Mary Aldora; 2. William Lloyd. Residence: Wetumpka.

LANDERS, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, resided in Benton County, June, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

LANDMAN, GEORGE PURDOM, cotton factor, was born in January, 1839, in Madison County; son of George P. and Eliza (Griffin) Landman, and brother of James Henry Landman (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Madison County, and began life in 1854, as a clerk for John Reed; became attached to the firm of Bradley, Wilson and company, of New Orleans, La., having charge of their office at Huntsville. He served throughout the War of Secession as a member of the 4th Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army. In 1869, he embarked with his brother, J. H. Landman, in the cotton business which he still pursues. He is a Knight of Pythias and a Methodist. Married: August 30, 1860, to Mary F., daughter of Joseph Sively, of Madison County. Children: 1. Lucy Lee; 2. Lilly B., m. Robert S. Halsey; 3. Laura, m. Jesse F. Young; 4. Arthur S.; 5. Joseph; 6. George P., jr. Residence: Huntsville.

LANDMAN, JAMES HENRY, cotton factor, was born February 23, 1835, in Madison County; son of George P. and Eliza (Griffin) Landman, the former was a native of Madison County, and a farmer; grandson of William Landman, of Virginia; great-grandson of an immigrant Landman from Germany. He received a good elementary education in the schools of Huntsville, and began life in 1849 as a clerk for J. H. Beadle, a merchant of Huntsville, where he remained six years; was employed by Bradley, Wilson and company, from 1855 to 1862, when he enlisted in Kelley's troopers, organized in Madison County, later being made assistant quartermaster in Forrest's command, where he remained until the war closed. He was engaged with his brother from 1866 to 1869, in general mercantile business, shortly afterwards embarking in cotton, their present business. He was tax assessor of Madison County from 1880 to 1884. He belongs to the Knights of Pythias; Knights of Honor; Ancient Order of United Workmen; and is a Methodist. Married: (1) in September, 1861, to Fannie M., daughter of Hampton W. Kelly, of Madison County; (2) in 1885, to Fannie, daughter of Joseph Carruthers, of Huntsville. Children: by first wife, 1. Minnie F., m. G. K. Miller, Huntsville; 2. Lizzie V., m. Gordon Greenfield, Pine Bluff, Ark.; 3. James H. J.; 4. Howard F.; by second wife: 5. Harry C.; 6. Frank. Residence: Huntsville.

LANE, ALEXANDER OSCAR, lawyer and judge, was born October 29, 1848, in Macon County, and died in Birmingham; son of Dr. Alexander and Mary E. (Phillips) Lane, both natives of Georgia. He received a liberal education and was for a short time principal of a boys high school at Clayton. Reading law under Chancellor John A. Foster he was admitted to the bar in 1869, and began the practice in Ozark. In 1873 he located in Birmingham, where the next year he formed a partnership with John T. Terry. Upon Mr. Terry's retirement from the practice he formed a partnership with E. T. Taliaferro and B. H. Tabor; later and for many years, he was associated with Frank S. White in the practice. In 1880 he became editor of the "Iron Age"; was elected mayor of Birmingham in 1882, re-elected in 1884 and 1886, and again in 1890. Since 1892 he continually practiced his profession. He was appointed associate judge of the tenth judicial circuit, provided by the act of 1907. At the time of the change of the form of government for the city of Birmingham in 1911, he was appointed one of the three commissioners for a term of four years. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: in May, 1875, to Minnie, daughter of Col. John T. and Elizabeth (Kerr) Terry, the former of Chester District, S. C.; the latter of Sumter County; granddaughter of William Kerr of that county. Children: 1. Alma, m. Benson Cain, Birmingham; 2. Minnie, m. Louis Hart, of Gadsden; 3. Terence; 4. Lucile, m. ——— Bailey, of St. Louis; 5. Frank. Last residence: Birmingham.

LANE, CHARLES PAUL, lawyer and editor, was born March 28, 1854, in Madison County, and died May 1, 1907, in Huntsville; son of George Washington and Martha Nicholas (Davis) Lane (q. v.). He was educated in Huntsville, and studied law in the office of Col. Luke Pryor and Robert M. McClellan in Athens. He was admitted to the bar in 1873, and practiced law in Athens and Huntsville. He was elected to the State legislature from Limestone County in 1881; was nominated by the Greenback convention as their candidate for attorney general in 1882; and was three times nominated by the Republican party as candidate for governor of Alabama. He served as a Blaine and Logan elector in 1884, and in 1885 established the "New South," at that time the only Republican paper in the state. Later he founded the "Evening Tribune," another Republican newspaper, and was editor and publisher of both at Huntsville. During the year 1887, Mr. Lane was the representative in the north of four large land companies, the Sheffield, Decatur, Florence, and Huntsville. He was president of the Alabama commercial club for three terms, and a member of the Episcopal church. Married: January 4, 1881, at Tuskegee, to Eleanor Wimberly, daughter of John Lucas and America (Watson) Abercrombie; granddaughter of James H. and Lavinia (Chilton) Abercrombie, and of Michael Watson, who married a Miss Ross of South Carolina. Children: 1. Madge Westmoreland, m. Judge Milo Abercrombie, Tuskegee; 2. Mattie Morton; 3. Lalie Bradley, m. Carl N. Brown, Cedar Town, Ga.; 4. Charles Day, m. Blanche Fowler, Huntsville; 5. Elizabeth Richardson, m. Alex McCallister, Huntsville; 6. James Abercrombie; 7. William Rison, Huntsville. Last residence: Huntsville.

LANE, GEORGE WASHINGTON, lawyer, was born in 1806, in Cherokee County, Ga., and died in 1864, in Louisville, Ky.; son of Johnathan and Elizabeth (Colley) Lane, also of Cherokee County. Other members of the family connection were Gen. Joseph Lane, of Oregon, and Gen. James H. Lane, of Kansas. In 1821, he came to Alabama with his parents and settled in Limestone County. After receiving an elementary education, he read law under Judge Daniel Coleman, and entered upon the practice in Athens. He was elected to the Alabama legislature, 1829 and 1832, and during the latter year was elected judge of the county court. Two years later he was elected circuit judge and was reelected, holding the office twelve years. In 1848, he was a Taylor elector for the state-at-large. After leaving the circuit bench, he opened a law office in Huntsville. Like large numbers of his fellow citizens in that section of the state, Judge Lane was a strong Union man, and during the War of Secession period was appointed Federal district judge by President Lincoln. He accepted the office but did not exercise its functions. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: Martha Nicholas, daughter of Nicholas and Martha (Hargrave) Davis (q. v.). Children: 1. Robert Wilson, m. Mrs.

Matte Goode, and died in Confederate service, a member of Forrest's cavalry; 2. George Gale; 3. Martha Davis; 4. Nicholas; 5. Mary; 6. Kate Gasskin, m. Robert Ross Townes; 7. Belta Collier; 8. Mary Fearn, m. Theo. Westmoreland; 9. Charles Paul, m. Ella Abercrombie; 10. Hector Davis, m. Madge Mason. Last residence: Louisville, Ky.

LANE, HECTOR DAVIS, planter, was born August 26, 1880, at Athens; son of Hector Davis and Madge (Mason) Lane, the former a native of Huntsville, who served in the Alabama legislature, was first commissioner of agriculture elected by popular vote; grandson of George Washington and Martha (Davis) Lane (q. v.), of Huntsville, the former who was a Federal judge, and of Dr. Joseph J. and Margaret Mason; great-grandson of Nicholas Davis, president of the Alabama senate, and a Whig presidential elector. He was educated at the North Alabama agricultural school at Athens; at Webb school, Bell Buckle, Tenn.; and at the University of Alabama. He was occupied as a coal dealer until 1902, and since 1903 has engaged in planting. He represented Limestone County in the State legislature during the session of 1911, and served for a time after the adjournment as assistant clerk in the department of agriculture and industries. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married January 29, 1902, at Courtland, to Jessie Olivia, daughter of Malcolm Joseph and Florence (Burkhead) Gilchrist, of Courtland; granddaughter of Dr. J. D. Burkhead, a prominent Presbyterian minister. Children: 1. Anne Burkhead; 2. Malcolm Gilchrist. Residence: Courtland.

LANE, JAMES HENRY, educator, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born July 28, 1833, at Mathews Court House, Mathews County, Va., and died September 21, 1907, at Auburn; son of Walter Gardner and Mary Ann Henry (Barkwell) Lane, the former of whom was born at the old family homestead, "Goshen," Mathews County, and was colonel of the Mathews' militia during the War of Secession, and member Virginia legislature; grandson of William and Dorothy Lane of Virginia, and of Thomas and Elizabeth (Wells) Barkwell of the "Pleasure House" in Princess Anne County, Va., the former a sergeant in the War of 1812; great-grandson of Ezekiel Lane, one of the early settlers of Mathews County when it was a part of Gloucester County. James Henry Lane received his preparatory education in private schools and from tutors; graduated with honor from the Virginia military institute in 1854; in 1857, graduated from the University of Virginia, in the scientific course, with the degrees of C. E. and M. A. The honorary degrees of LL. D. and Ph. D. were conferred upon him by Trinity college, North Carolina and the University of West Virginia, respectively. He began his career as a teacher in a private family in 1854, and became assistant professor of mathematics in the Virginia military institute in 1857; taught in a private school, 1858-59; professor of mathematics and commandant in the West seminary of Florida, 1859-60; professor of natural philosophy and instructor in tactics in North Carolina military institute, 1860-61; teacher in a private school in Concord, N. C., 1865-67, and in Richmond, Va., 1867-72; professor of natural philosophy and commandant in the Agricultural and mechanical college of Virginia, 1872-80; teacher in a private school at Wilmington, N. C., 1880-81; professor of mathematics in Missouri school of mines and metallurgy, 1881-82; professor of civil engineering in Alabama polytechnic institute, 1882-1907. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he was elected major of the First North Carolina volunteers, subsequently known as the "Bethel Regiment." A scouting party which he led brought on the battle of Bethel, the first battle of the war. He was elected lieutenant-colonel of his regiment, September 1, 1861, and colonel of the 28th North Carolina infantry regiment, a fortnight later. He was in all of the large battles of the Army of Northern Virginia, from the beginning of the war to its close and was wounded three times. On the death of Gen. Lawrence O'Brien Branch, Col. Lane, "for gallant and meritorious conduct" was recommended by Generals Lee, Jackson and A. P. Hill, and appointed brigadier-general assigned to the command of Branch's brigade, which petitioned for his promotion and assignment to them. His command served in the rear guard of Lee's army on its retreat from Sharpsburg and afterward from Gettysburg and took an active part in the famous "Pickett's charge," and also helped to save the day at the "Bloody Angle." He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Author: numerous articles in the current press and journals in regard to matters connected with the war. Married: September 13, 1869, at Richmond, Va., Charlotte Randolph, daughter of Benjamin Lincoln and Jane Eliza (Hardaway) Meade of that city; granddaughter of Everard Meade, aide upon Gen. Lincoln's staff and later a general in the Revolutionary War, and of Daniel and Anne (Eggleston) Hardaway; great-granddaughter of Daniel and Susannah (Everard) Meade, and of Daniel Hardaway; great-great-granddaughter of Andrew and Mary (Latham) Meade, the former a native of Ireland who settled in Nansemond County, Va., in 1745, and of Thomas and Mary (Drewery) Hardaway. Anne Eggleston was the sister of Maj. Joseph Eggleston of Revolutionary fame. Susannah Everard was the daughter of Sir Richard Everard, Essex, England, the last proprietary governor of Carolina from 1726 to 1730, whose wife, Susannah Kidder, was the daughter of Dr. Richard Kidder, Bishop of Bath and Wells. Children: 1. Lidle Hardaway, Richmond, Va.; 2. Mary Barkwell, m. George Petrie (q. v.), Auburn; 3. Kate Meade, Auburn; 4. Lottie Everard, m. Matthew Scott Sloan, Birmingham. Last residence: Auburn.

LANE, L. M., lawyer, living in 1913. Residence: Greenville.

LANE, M. C., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Butler County.

LANE, MARSHALL HALL, Baptist minister, was born July 9, 1845, at Washington, Wilkes County, Ga.; son of Dr. James H. and Mary C.

(Simpson) Lane, natives of Wilkes County, Ga., the former a physician, who was educated at Mercer university, and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Georgia; grandson of Rev. Micajah A. Lane, of the Baptist church, who came from Virginia to Georgia when he was but six years of age, and after a long service in the ministry, died in 1887 at the age of ninety-seven, and of William Simpson, one of the original settlers of Wilkes County, Ga., a native of Virginia, of Scotch-Irish ancestry, and a member of one of the oldest families in Georgia. Mr. Lane was reared in Wilkes County; educated in Wright and Hoyt high school; entered the C. S. Army at the age of seventeen as a member of Wingfield's battery, Hill's corps, Cutt's battalion, Army of Virginia; served at the battles of Gettysburg and Petersburg, and in all of the engagements from Gettysburg until the close of the war; after the war, attended Rockby institute, Georgia, taught by Col. R. M. Johnson; entered the University of Virginia where he studied law for two years; returned home and formed a partnership with Gen. Toombs and Gen. DuBose, with whom he practiced law for three years; and since that time has given his whole attention to the ministry and the cause of education. He has been pastor of several churches in Georgia; of the Central Baptist church, Nashville, Tenn.; traveled for two years as an evangelist in Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas; took charge of the Hern institute, Georgia, 1871-1877; and of the Baptist church at Cave Springs, Ga., 1872-1877. He has been pastor of the Baptist church at Jacksonville since 1877; was also pastor for two years of the Alpine Baptist church in Tallagea County; and had conferred upon him the honorary degree of D. D. by the University of Alabama in 1886. He is a Democrat. Married: October 6, 1868, to Undine Brown, of Hancock County, Ga., daughter of Dr. Algernon S. Brown, physician, of Georgia. Children: 1. John S.; 2. Edward McIntosh; 3. Mary Undine; 4. Louise E.; 5. Sidney B.; 6. Eugene C.; 7. Bluebell C.; 8. James A.; 9. Marshall H., jr.; 10. Marguerite T.; 11. Reynolds; 12. a boy, d. in infancy. Residence: Jacksonville.

LANEY, ZACHARIAH WILLIAM, business man, was born January 29, 1829, in North Carolina; son of Evan and Leah (Secrist) Laney, natives of Mecklenburg County, N. C., who emigrated to Talbot County, Ga., in 1836, moved to Alabama in 1848, and settled on a large tract of land in Dale County. He was reared on the home plantation and attended the common schools of Dale County, and the high school at Louisville. He taught two terms in a country school; became clerk in a business house in Abbeville until 1861; taught school in Abbeville, 1861-1865. He tried to enlist in the C. S. Army in 1863, but was not allowed to serve because of ill health. At the close of the war he engaged in mercantile business. He became a notary public in 1863; was elected a member of the town board; is a Baptist; a Democrat; a Royal Arch Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: in 1860, to Ann B. Culver, a native of Hancock County, Ga., born in November, 1840, daughter of L. D. and Melvinia A. Culver, who were natives of Hancock County, Ga., and lived at that place until 1859, when they went to Alabama, and settled on a plantation in Lawrenceville, Henry County. Children: 1. Pet, m. William O. Long, business man and clerk of the court of chancery, Abbeville, children, Lloyd, Daisy and J. B.; 2. Charles Levin, b. January 3, 1863, d. November 12, 1885, merchant and clerk in probate office at Abbeville, m. (1) Ada Lee, (2) Rossie L. Adams; 3. Zachariah William, jr., b. August 15, 1871, clerk in probate office, Abbeville, m. Lula Lee Trawick. Two other children are deceased. Last residence: Abbeville.

LANG, GEORGE, Presbyterian minister and educator, a native of Wellwood, Ayreshire, Scotland; son of George MacCracken and Mary Law (James) Lang, of Houston, Renfrewshire; grandson of John and Jennie Hannah Lang, and of John and Mary (Law) James, the former of Houston, the latter of Nitshill, Scotland. He came to America in 1883, and his early education was received in Carbon Hill and Chickasaw, and his college and university work was done at the Southwestern Presbyterian university, Clarksville, Tenn., 1900-06; University of Edinburgh, 1907-08; Columbia university, N. Y., and at the University of Berlin, 1912-13. He graduated from the Theological seminary, Clarksville, Tenn., with the A. B., 1905, and B. D., 1906, degrees. The Alabama Presbyterian college gave him the honorary degree of D. D., in 1916. He served as pastor of the North Birmingham Presbyterian church, 1906-07; was professor Alabama Presbyterian college, 1909-16; professor, Southwestern Presbyterian university, 1916-17; professor of philosophy, University of Alabama since 1918; served as executive-secretary of the State council of defense for Alabama, April-September, 1918. He is a Presbyterian; Mason; and member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Author: brochure, "Our economic future." Unmarried. Residence: University.

LANGDON, CHARLES CARTER, editor, mayor of Mobile, member Alabama legislature and constitutional conventions, 1865 and 1875, secretary of State was born August 5, 1805, at Southington, Conn., and died at Mobile, June 8, 1889; son of Captain Giles and Sarah (Carter) Langdon, the former a soldier in the American Revolution, farmer and member of the Connecticut legislature; grandson of Giles and Ruth (Andrews) Langdon, of Southington; great-grandson of Joseph and Rachel (Cowles) Langdon, the latter a daughter of Samuel Cowles of Farmington, Conn.; great-great-grandson of Joseph and Susannah (Root) Langdon, the former a son of George Langdon who immigrated from England about 1646, settling first at Springfield, Mass., and dying at Northampton in 1678. Mr. Langdon was reared on his father's farm and educated at common school and the Episcopal academy at Cheshire, Conn., defective eyesight preventing his further education. He taught in Connecticut district school from his sixteenth to his twentieth year, but abandoned this work to accompany his elder brother, Levi, to Marion, Perry County, who had established a dry goods store at that place in 1825; candidate for Alabama legislature in 1832 and 1833, defeated both times; moved to Mobile, 1834, where he engaged in the cotton commission business with Martin A. Lee; again defeated for the State legislature in 1838 on the Whig platform; appointed editor "Mobile Daily Advertiser" 1838; mayor of Mobile 1849, annually re-elected with exception of one year, until 1855; defeated for congress in 1851; represented Mobile in legislature 1855-6, and 1862; member constitutional conventions of 1865 and 1875; elected to legislature 1881-82-83; unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1872 and again in 1878; appointed secretary of State 1885, appointment confirmed by election 1886. He was an earnest Whig and strong Union man but from the secession of Alabama he loyally supported his State and county. He was ever greatly interested in agriculture and was a trustee of the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn. Married: August 6, 1829, at Southington, Conn., to Eliza, daughter of Roswell Moore. Children: 1. Sarah L.; 2. Leontine L.; 3. Henry Clay; 4. a son, died in infancy; 5. Charles Carter, jr., died from an illness resulting from exposure during the War of Secession having fought with the Confederacy four years. Last residence: Mobile.

HON. JOHN H. BANKHEAD

LANGDON, DANIEL WEBSTER, landscape architect, was born May 5, 1864, at Marion; son of Daniel Webster and Emma Elizabeth Coast (Nelson) Langdon; grandson of Levi Langdon; great-nephew of Charles Carter Langdon (q. v.). He was assistant Alabama geological surveyor, 1883-89; assistant professor chemistry, University of Alabama, 1889; fellow, geological society of America, 1890; original fellow and secretary, American society of landscape architects, 1889-90; regent Sigma Nu college fraternity, 1885-90. Married: August 17, 1896, at New Haven, Conn., Bernice Francis.

LANGHORNE, JOHN MILLER, physician, was born November 9, 1817, in Bedford County, Va., and died October 13, 1907, at Uniontown; son of William and Catharine (Calloway) Langhorne, natives of Warwick and Bedford Counties, respectively, who lived later in Roanoke County, Va.; grandson of John Scarisbrook and Elizabeth (Langhorne) Langhorne of Cumberland County, Va., and of James and Elizabeth (Early) Calloway of Bedford County; great-grandson of William and Mary (Scarisbrook) Langhorne, of "Gambell," a member of the house of burgesses for Warwick County, 1772-74-75, and of the conventions of 1775; great-great-grandson of John Langhorne, member of the house of burgesses from Warwick County, 1748; great-great-great-grandson of Capt. John Langhorne who settled in Warwick County, as early as 1675 and was a member of the house of burgesses for that county in 1676-77. He received his academic education in the common schools of Virginia and graduated with distinction from the Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, Pa. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Uniontown, Perry County, 1845, and at once began a useful and successful career which continued through the remainder of his life. The surrounding country quickly recognized his ability and his services and skill were called upon by suffering humanity for miles around. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: November 17, 1852, at Marion, to Lucy Ann, daughter of Henry Clinton and Serena Ryng (Rootes) Lea of that place; granddaughter of Thomas Reade and Sarah (Battaille) Rootes; great-granddaughter of Thomas Reade and Maria Jacqueline (Smith) Rootes; great-great-granddaughter of Philip and Mildred (Reade) Rootes; great-great-great-granddaughter of Thomas and Lucy (Gwyn) Reade; great-great-great-great-granddaughter of Col. George and Elizabeth (Martian) Reade, the former having been secretary of the commonwealth of Virginia, 1637-71; great-great-great-great-granddaughter of Robert and Mildred (Winderbanke) Reade of Linkenholt, England; great-great-great-great-great-granddaughter of Sir Thomas and Frances (Dymoke) Winderbanke; great-great-great-great-great-granddaughter of Sir Edward Dymoke of Scrivelsby, hereditary champion of the king, which position was held in the family by virtue of descent from Robert de Marmion, Lord of Fontenay, who accompanied William the Conqueror to England, and whose family it is said were hereditary champions to the Duke of Normandy for many generations previously. Children: 1. Marion Cobb, m. William J. Vaiden (q. v.), Uniontown; 2. William Henry, m. Mary Crome Chadwick, Chapel Hill, Tex.; 3. John Miller m. Kate Montague Corcoran, Uniontown; 4. Rena Rootes, m. John Cooke, Uniontown; 5. Lucy Lea, m. William Henry Tayloe (q. v.), Uniontown. Last residence: Uniontown.

LANGLEY, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, resided in Chambers County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

LANIER, CLIFFORD ANDERSON, author, business man, and educator, was born April 24, 1844, at Griffin, Spalding County, Ga., and died in Montgomery, November 3, 1908; son of Robert Sampson and Mary Jane (Anderson) Lanier, the former of French ancestry, a native of North Carolina, who later removed to Macon, then Griffin, Ga., where he practiced law, the latter a Virginian of Scotch-Irish stock; grandson of Sterling and Sarah (Fullwood) Lanier, who lived in Macon, Ga., and later in Montgomery, and of Hezekiah Anderson of Nottoway County, Va. He received his elementary education in private and public schools of Macon, Ga., and entered Oglethorpe university, Midway, Ga., but his studies were interrupted by the events of the War of Secession. While here he was greatly influenced by Prof. Talmage, brother of the famous pulpit orator. He read law under his father-in-law, Judge David Clopton, and was admitted to the bar. He was for years proprietor of the old Exchange hotel with which he first became associated when a lad as clerk. In 1865, he returned from the war to resume this position, later taking managerial charge which he relinquished in 1884, although he retained a business connection with this famous hostelry until his death. He was at one time superintendent of the city schools of Montgomery and his portrait hangs in the auditorium of the Sidney Lanier high school, which was named in honor of his poet-musician brother. He entered the Confederate Army as a private in the Macon volunteers, Georgia, April, 1862, and was afterwards transferred to Milligan's Independent corps of signal men. He served in the Virginia campaigns until 1864; was signal officer on the blockade runner Talisman, which vessel was lost. He escaped to Cuba, ran the blockade at Galveston, Texas, and reached Macon, May, 1865, after the close of hostilities. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Author: "Thorn-Fruit," a novel; "Apollo and Keats on Browning and other poems"; "Love and loyalty at war"; "Dialect poems," in collaboration with his brother; "The Power of Prayer"; "Uncle Jim's Baptist revival hymn"; "The Power of affection, or Voting in Alabama"; "Friar Servetus," a paraphrase; "Ritual of the United Confederate Veterans." Married: November 26, 1867, at Montgomery, to Wilhelmina (q. v.), daughter of David and Martha (Ligon) Clopton (q. v.), the latter the daughter of Lieut.-Gov. Robert and Wilhelmina (Fullwood) Ligon (q. v.), of Tuskegee. Children: 1. Wilhelmina, m. (1) William Lehman Durr, deceased, (2) John Tilly, of Montgomery; 2. Clifford m. Mary Siebels Ball, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

LANIER, JAMES CRAWFORD, business man and legislator, was born November 5, 1846, in Clarke County, Ga.; son of Walter and Mary E. (Mead) Lanier of that place; grandson of Thomas J. Mead. He was educated in the common schools. He served eighteen months in Co. D, 1st Georgia cavalry regiment, C. S. Army. During 1903 he served in the legislature from Talladega County. He is a farmer and merchant. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: to Mary E., daughter of John F. and Mary J. (Burge) Sproull, of Stilesboro, Ga. Residence: Kymulga.

LANIER, WILHEMINA (CLOPTON), patriotic worker, was the daughter of David and Martha (Ligon) Clopton (q. v.). She was a member of the Alabama division, United Daughters of the Confederacy; president of the Cradle of the Confederacy chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of Montgomery; and served as acting president of the Ladies' memorial association. Married: Clifford Lanier (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

LANDALE, ISAAC, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Montgomery County; private Delaware Line; enrolled on September 9, 1828, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1826; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $720.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Vol. xiv, Sen. Doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Fayette County, June 1, 1840, aged 80.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

LAPSLEY, JOHN W., pioneer citizen, was a native of Tennessee, his parents being Virginians. He came to Selma in 1826 as a youth from Kentucky. He was first employed as a clerk, later forming a partnership with R. H. Crosswell and embarking in the mercantile business. At the expiration of two years he entered Transylvania law school, Lexington, Ky., graduating in 1835. He returned to Selma and practiced until 1860, when he retired. He was interested in the railroads of Selma, taking especial interest in the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad. Last residence: Selma.

LAPSLEY, SAMUEL NORVELL, Presbyterian missionary, was born April 14, 1866, in Selma, and died at Underhill, Lower Congo, March 26, 1892; son of Judge James W. and Sara Eliza (Pratt) Lapsley. He was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1884, and A. M., 1885, and during the year, 1884-1885, was an instructor in the university. He obtained his theological training at Union seminary, Virginia, and at McCormick seminary, Chicago, and was graduated from the latter institution, B. D., 1888. Before granted his license, he was engaged in successful home-mission work among the poor, ignorant and destitute. He supplied the churches at Birmingham and Decatur, and at Royalton, Minn., during his vacations, and served as pastor of the Presbyterian church at Anniston, 1888-1889. Being much interested in the spiritual welfare of the negro race, he offered himself and was accepted as a missionary to Africa. In company with Rev. W. H. Shepherd, a negro, who was also accepted, he sailed from New York February 26, 1890, for the Congo Free State in Africa, and reached that place after some necessary delay in England for an outfit, and in Belgium for an interview with King Leopold, founder of the Congo Free State. He selected Luebo as a site for the Presbyterian mission, and began the work with Mr. Shepherd. He had many attacks of the African fever, but worked on until it gained too great a foothold and he had to give up to the disease. While returning from the coast, where he had gone to secure titles to the mission property, he became fatally sick, and died at Underhill, just below the cataracts of the Congo. Last residence: Luebo, Congo Free State, Africa.

LARY, WASHINGTON T., lieutenant colonel, 6th Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

LATHAM, MILTON SLOCUM, U. S. senator and banker, a resident of Alabama in his early life, was born at Columbus, O., May 23, 1827, and died in New York city, March 4, 1882; son of Bela Latham. He was a graduate of Jefferson college, Pa.; removed to Alabama, where he taught in Russell County; studied law; was admitted to the bar, 1848, and appointed clerk of the circuit court. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the recorder's court in San Francisco the same year; district attorney of Sacramento and El Dorado Counties, 1850-51; and in 1852 was elected a representative in congress on the Democratic ticket. He declined a reelection; in 1855 was appointed clerk of the port of San Francisco; was elected governor in 1853, and took the seat, but the day after his inauguration, January, 1860, he was chosen senator to succeed David C. Broderick, who had been killed in a duel the previous September. He served out the unexpired term to March 3, 1863. During his last year his sympathies for the southern states were pronounced. He returned to San Francisco, engaged in the practice of the law, became president of the London and San Francisco bank, and later of the California Pacific railroad company. He was twice married. Last residence: San Francisco.

LATHEM, J. E. T., business man, was born in 1837, in Trussville, and died August 8, 1913, in Birmingham. He was reared in Trussville, and served in the C. S. Army, as a member of Gen. John H. Morgan's Second Confederate cavalry. He was a pioneer of Birmingham and Jefferson County, and had lived in Birmingham for thirty years prior to his death. He was an enthusiastic Mason, was founder of the Georgia Anne Davis lodge, No. 348, of Trussville, and was worshipful master of that lodge for thirteen years. Married: Children: 1. Dr. G. M.; 2. Dr. Sinkler N.; 3. William T., vice president of the Commercial bank and trust company, Birmingham; 4. John D., president of the Monarch livery company, Birmingham; 5. Alf H., deputy clerk of the circuit court; 6. Mrs. William H. Pattie, wife of the county superintendent of convicts; 7. Josephine. Last residence: Birmingham.

LATHRAM, LESLIE PRITCHETT, Methodist minister, was born March 3, 1865, at Hayneville, Lowndes County; son of John Jackson and Frances Jane (Shepherd), the former a Methodist minister, teacher and later merchant, living first in Pike County, then in Escambia County, Fla., later at Powelton, a member Alabama conference, 1821-1865; grandson of Daniel and Mahala (Townley) Shepherd, of Scotch and English descent respectively. His grandfather Townley, was a soldier in the Revolution; great-grandfather Townley, lost his life at sea while returning home to settle up a family estate, and great-grandfather Shepherd, first settled in North Carolina, but afterward removed to Escambia County, Fla., where he died of yellow fever. He was educated in the common schools of his native county and at Powelton, Fla.; licensed to preach when sixteen years of age; admitted to conference in December, 1885, at Union Springs; was four years Conference missionary secretary. He is now serving at Marianna, Fla. He is a Mason, and Knight of Pythias. Married: December 1, 1887, at Lawrenceville, Henry County, to Vida May, daughter of James Russell and Elizabeth Frances (Price) Hill, natives of North Carolina and South Carolina, respectively. Children: 1. Maude Evelyn; 2. Leslie Wade; 3. Bertie McSwain; 4. Elizabeth. Residence: Marianna, Fla.

LA TOURETTE, JOHN, early surveyor and cartographer in Alabama.

LATTIMORE, JOHN COMPERE, educator, was born March 25, 1862, at Marion, and died in March, 1915; son of Rev. John Lee and Catherine (Shivers) Lattimore. He graduated from the National normal college, 1886, and received the B. S. 1895, and M. S., 1896, from Baylor university. He was superintendent of schools, Falls County, Texas, 1887-90; principal of the preparatory school 1890-92, professor of mathematics, 1892-97, chairman of faculty, 1897-99, at Baylor university; superintendent of the city schools of Waco, Tex., 1899-1915. He was a member of the faculty, Texas-Colo- rado Chautauqua, Boulder, Colo., 1900; member of the Texas State board of examiners, 1900-05; and president Texas State teachers association, 1899. Married: June 20, 1889, to Lucy Edens, of Okolona, Miss. Last residence: Waco, Tex.

LATTY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution. "On the 30th ult., James Latty, an old citizen of this county in the 102nd year of his age. He was a native of North Carolina, but had lived on the head waters of Brierfork for two generations. He volunteered in the revolutionary war; but his father, being in a helpless condition, furnished means for a substitute for his son."—The Southern Advocate, Huntsville, April 11, 1860.

LAUDERDALE, JAMES, railroad man, was born in March, 1836, in Rhea County, Tenn.; son of James and Jane (Johnson) Lauderdale, natives of Tennessee, the former removed from Rhea County to Bradley County, Tenn., about 1838, and aided in removing the Indians from that county, was later elected sheriff and represented Bradley County, several times in the legislature of Tennessee; grandson of Gen. James Lauderdale who was intimately associated with Gen. Jackson in the War of 1812, and who was killed at the battle of New Orleans. The first Lauderdale emigrated from Scotland to Virginia in colonial days. He received a good common school education, and began work as a clerk in 1853, for Reynolds and Hughes at Cleveland, Tenn.; in 1855, he became local agent for the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia and worked as such eighteen months; resigned at that time and in fall of 1856, entered firm of Reynolds and Hughes at Cleveland, the name becoming J. Lauderdale and company. He enlisted in 1861 as a private in the Lookout battery, later being promoted first lieutenant. He was with the Southern express company after the war several months; subsequently worked for John M. Bridges, agent at Atlanta for the State railroad of Louisiana; Southern passenger agent for two years for the Atlanta and Washington railroad company; for one year, agent of the Selma and Meridian railway at Meridian, Miss.; agent for Western railroad company at Selma from 1871 to 1880, removed to Columbus, Ga., where he remained one year; then made agent for East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company, and the Memphis and Chattanooga railroad company at Chattanooga, where he remained until 1885, when he resigned to accept agency of Western railroad of Alabama, at Selma. He is a Democrat; Mason; and Presbyterian. Married: in 1875, to Florence Howard, of Dallas County. Children: one son and two daughters. Residence: Selma.

LAVENDER, HUGH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 79, and a resident of Greene County; dragoon S. C. Militia; enrolled on February 10, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $66.21.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

LAVENDER, WILLIAM WEBB, lawyer, was born September 27, 1868, at Greensboro, Hale County; son of William Hellen and Jane (Warr) Lavender, the former a native of Greensboro, N. C., who came to Alabama when a child, and lived at Greensboro, where he was a planter and mill man; grandson of William and Nicie (Hellen) Lavender, of Greensboro, N. C., and of John H. and Virginia (Lindsey) Warr, of Canton, Miss. He received his early instruction from a governess; attended Southern University, Greensboro; was graduated from Howard College, with first honors, B. A., 1888; and from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1891. He began the practice of law at Centerville in 1891; was appointed county solicitor of Bibb County, 1892; represented that county in the State legislature, 1896, and 1910. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Knight of Pythias; and a member of Sigma Nu college fraternity. Married: in September, 1896, at Centerville, to Ella Sue Davidson, daughter of Col. James L. and Susan (Powell) Davidson, of Centerville, the former a colonel in the C. S. Army, a judge of probate of Bibb County, and a descendant of the Davidson family of North Carolina. Children: 1. William Davidson. Residence: Centerville.

LAVERTY, JOHN STACKHOUSE, merchant, was born May 11, 1856, at Parkesburg, Chester County, Pa.; son of Charles and Margaretta McClure (Stackhouse) Laverty, who lived at Parkesburg, Leaman Place, and Philadelphia, Pa., served as an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad for fifty-two years, and was a member of the board of education of Lancaster County for a number of years; grandson of Robert and Rebecca (Morgan) Laverty, of Morgantown, Pa., the former a representative in the Pennsylvania state legislature from Chester County, elected on the Tory ticket, and of John and Elizabeth (McFarland) Stackhouse, who lived near Parkesburg, Pa.; great-grandson of Samuel Laverty, a native of Lancaster County, Pa., whose father, an Irish immigrant, settled in Philadelphia County, Pa. Through an accident, Mr. Laverty lost the sight of one eye when he was twelve years old, and a year later became totally blind. Prior to the accident, he had attended the public schools at Leaman Place, Pa., and later entered the Philadelphia school for the Blind, where he was graduated after six years of training. The year after his graduation, he entered upon his life's vocation of teaching music. His first position was that of musical director in the Louisiana State School for the Blind, at Baton Rouge, which position he held for several years. He was then elected to the musical department of the Alabama School for the Blind at Talladega, and held that position for twenty-one years. He opened a music store in Talladega in 1888, and a branch house in Gadsden in 1905, incorporating the business at Gadsden in 1910, under the name of the Laverty Music Company. He is a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: July 8, 1880, at Baton Rouge, La., to Maria Louisa, daughter of Richard and Mary Warren (Newcomb) Loucks, of that place, the former a lawyer, and at one time attorney general of Louisiana; granddaughter of Henry Loucks, a lawyer in Albany, N. Y., and of Francis Dana Newcomb, whose father, Richard English Newcomb, was probate judge of Greenfield, Mass., for twenty-eight years, and served in the Massachusetts legislature. Children: 1. Charles DeWilton, m. Frances Ella Thornton; 2. Phebe Maria, m. Dr. Edwin Gray Little; 3. Mary Warren, m. Marion McDonald Lawrence; 4. John Stackhouse, deceased; 5. Robert Latta, m. Daisy Alston Armstead; 6. Margaretta Nye, m. Rufus Cobb Fell. Residence: Talladega.

LAVRETTA, C. L. mayor of Mobile, 1894-97.

LAW, EVANDER McIVER, teacher, major general, C. S. Army, and college president, was born August 7, 1836, at Darlington, S. C.; son of Ezekiel Augustus and Sarah Elizabeth (McIver) Law, both of Darlington, S. C., the former an active lawyer, member of the state legislature, county judge, and commissioner in equity in his state for many years; grandson of William and Mary (Dubose) Law, the former served in Marion's command during the last year of the Revolutionary War, and of Evander Roderick and Eliza (Cowan) McIver, the former a brigadier general of the South Carolina forces during the nullification troubles of 1831-33, a planter of Darlington, S. C., who removed to Macon county; great-grandson of George and Anna (Lards) Law, the former of a Scotch-Irish family who emigrated from Ireland about 1760, settled in Williamsburg County, S. C., was a soldier in Marion's command during the American Revolution; great-grandson of Evander Roderick McIver and wife, Miss Kolb, sister of Capt. Abel Kolb of General Marion's brigade, who was killed by the Tories; great-great-grandson of Evander Roderick McIver, who emigrated from Scotland in 1746, and settled near Society Hill, Darlington County, S. C. General Law was educated in the primary schools of his district, at old St. John's academy, and the South Carolina military academy, graduating from the latter, November 20, 1856, with the B. S. degree. He was assistant professor of belles lettres at the Academy, during his senior year. He commenced the study of law at Yorkville, S. C., 1858, after having occupied the chair of history and belles lettres in King's Mountain military institute in that place, from January, 1857, until May, 1860; removed to Tuskegee, September, 1860, establishing the Tuskegee military high school of which he was principal at the outbreak of the war. He entered the Confederate Army as captain of the Alabama Zouaves, afterward Co. B, 4th Alabama infantry regiment, January to May 2, 1861; lieutenant-colonel of the regiment, May 2 to October 28, 1861; and, colonel, Oct. 28, 1861. He was commissioned brigadier-general, October 3, 1862, and promoted to major general, March 20, 1865, holding this commission until April 26, 1865, when he surrendered with Gen. Joseph E. Johnston. He took part in the capture of Pensacola at the outbreak of the war; commanded his company at Dalton, Ga., when it became Co. B, 4th Alabama infantry regiment; was wounded at the first battle of Manassas; led the 4th Alabama at Seven Pines; commanded Whiting's brigade during the rest of the seven days fight; was at the battle of Gaines' Mill; and commanded the brigade at second Manassas, Boonsborough and Sharpsburg. He took command of a brigade composed of the 4th Alabama, 44th Alabama, 6th North Carolina, 54th North Carolina and the 57th North Carolina infantry regiments just prior to the battle of Fredericksburg. The organization of his brigade under which some changes were made in January, 1863, now consisted of the 4th, 15th, 44th, 47th and the 48th Alabama infantry regiments. He commanded General Hood's division on the third day at Gettysburg. He again commanded the same division at Chickamauga and on the Knoxville campaign. He commanded his own brigade at the Wilderness, Spottsylvania and at Cold Harbor. After the surrender he returned to South Carolina where he lived as a planter and engaged in the railroad business until 1872 when he again moved to Alabama, where he organized the grange, of which he was secretary, 1872-1876. In November, 1881, he returned to Yorkville, S. C., where he was associate principal of the King's Mountain institute, 1883-84. He engaged in farming and engineering until 1893, when he removed to Florida, establishing in 1894, the South Florida military institute at Bartow, organized as a private enterprise, but which was made a state institution one year later. He resigned the superintendency of this school in 1903, becoming in 1905, editor of the "Bartow Courier-Informant." General Law was commander of the Florida division, United Confederate Veterans, 1899-1903, and is honorary commander of that organization at the present time. He was chairman of the commission to erect a monument on the battlefield of Olustee; member of the commission named to erect the Florida monument at Chickamauga; member on the commission to place Florida's representatives in Statuary Hall at Washington; Florida commissioner at the Peace Reunion at Gettysburg, July 1-4, 1913; one of the founders of and honorary president of Gettysburg peace memorial association; chairman, board of trustees of Sumerlin institute, 1904-1912; member of the county board of public instruction of Polk county, Fla., 1912-1920, when he was removed by Governor Catts. He is an Odd Fellow; Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Author: of a number of articles for magazines and other publications relating to the War of Secession. Married: March 9, 1863, at Columbia, S. C., to Jane Elizabeth, daughter of William Albert and Camilla Catherine (Torrence) Latta of Yorkville, S. C.; granddaughter of Robert and Jane (Allison) Latta, and of James and Ann (Davidson) Torrence; great-granddaughter of William Latta, who emigrated to America from Ireland, shortly before the Revolutionary War, settled in Iredell county, N. C., and married a Miss Davidson, of Charlotte. The Allison, Davidsons and Torrences were all strong Whigs in the Mecklenburg section of North Carolina during the Revolution. Children: 1. Evander McIver, m. Louise Boyd, Miami, Fla.; 2. William Latta, m. Elizabeth H. Whitner, Rock Hill, S. C.; 3. Annie Latta, m. Philip B. Johnston, Bartow, Fla.; 4. Edwin Augustus, m. Nelle Holbrook, Bartow, Fla. Residence: Bartow, Fla.

LAW, FRANCIS MARION, Baptist minister, was born May 15, 1828, in Sumter District, S. C., and died May 11, 1903, at Belton, Tex.; son of Isaiah H. and Sarah (Gholdson) Law. He was educated for a physician at the Medical college of Georgia; removed in early manhood to Alabama with his parents; and practiced his profession at Wetumpka and Selma. He was ordained a Baptist minister in 1855; for five years served as financial secretary of the Alabama Baptist Bible and Colportage society; was chaplain on the Steamboat "Bethel" operating on Mobile Bay during the War of Secession; removed to Texas, served at Brenham, Plantersville, Houston and Bryan. He was one of the editors of the "Baptist Standard"; president of the board of trustees of Baylor college; and was one of the founders of the Educational commission in Texas. He was married and left descendants. His son, Francis Marion, jr., is president of the First national bank of Houston. Last residence: Bryan, Tex.

LAW, JOHN, Scottish financier and adventurer. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

LAW, JULIUS A., lieutenant colonel, 2nd Alabama reserves, C. S. Army.

LAWLER, JOAB, public official, representative in congress, was born June 12, 1796, in Monroe County, N. C., and died May 8, 1838, in Washington, D. C. His parents moved to Tennessee when he was a youth, moved to Mississippi territory in 1815, later settled in Madison County, and in 1819, in Shelby County. He received a common school education, to which he added by study and reading. He held the offices of clerk of the circuit court, and county judge of Shelby County, between 1821-1826; was elected to the State legislature from Shelby County, 1826-1831; served Bibb and Shelby Counties in the State senate, 1831-1832, resigning in the latter year to accept the position of receiver of public money for the Coosa land district tendered him by President Andrew Jackson; held that office at Mardisville, Talladega County, until elected to congress in 1835.

over Eli Shortridge and Pleasant H. May, both of Tuscaloosa; was re-elected to congress in 1837 over Hon. H. W. Ellis of Tuscaloosa, and died during that session of congress. He was treasurer of the University of Alabama from 1833 until 1836. He united with the Baptist church in 1826, and shortly afterward was ordained to the ministry. From the time of his ordination to his election to congress, he filled the office of pastor. The Talladega, now Alpine, and the Talladega town churches were originated by his ministry and he was their pastor. He was a Whig. Mr. Lawler is buried in the congressional cemetery at Washington, D. C. Married: to Miss Baker, sister of Hon. Robert A. Baker of Dallas County. Children: 1. Gen. Levi W. (q. v.). Last residence: Washington, D. C.

LAWLER, LEVI WELBOURNE, business man, was born in 1816, in Madison County; son of Joab Lawler (q. v.). He moved with his parents to Talladega County in 1835; was well educated; and when he was nineteen years old, succeeded his father as receiver of public monies of the Coosa land district, under appointment of President Jackson. After four years in that office, he was suspended because of his opposition to the administration of President Van Buren, but was restored to the position in 1841 by President Tyler, and held it for another term of four years. On the expiration of his term of office he returned to Talladega County from DeKalb, where he had moved with the office, and gave his attention to planting. While a resident of DeKalb County, he was elected a brigadier general of militia. In 1848, he located in Mobile and engaged in the commission business. He was a delegate for the state at large to the Charleston convention in 1860; was elected to the State legislature in 1861; and was re-elected in 1863, serving in that body throughout the entire period of the War of Secession, and for three years as chairman of the committee on ways and means. He continued in the commission business after the war, and was a member of the firm of Baker, Lawler & Company of Mobile. In 1874, he was appointed by Gov. Houston as one of the state commissioners to adjust and liquidate the State debt. For many years he was one of the trustees of Howard college, and of the Agricultural and mechanical college of Alabama. He was a member of the Baptist church. Married: (1) to Miss Jenkins of Talladega County; (2) to a grand-daughter of Hon. William Smith of South Carolina, a member of the First U. S. congress. Last residence: Talladega.

LAWLER, ROBERT THOMPSON, farmer, miller and legislator, was born September 4, 1858, at Brownsboro, Madison County; son of John and Susan Ann (Thompson) Lawler, the former of Brownsboro, served in Capt. Thomas Taylor's company, C. S. Army, the latter of Buckingham County, Va.; grandson of Benjamin and Rhoda (Whitaker) Lawler, of Maysville, and of Robert and Ann Thompson of Buckingham County, Va. He was educated in the schools of Brownsboro, Maysville and Larkinsville. He is a farmer and miller. He represented Madison County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; a Cumberland Presbyterian; an Odd Fellow; and Woodman of the World. Married: October 7, 1890, at Maysville, to Aggie Gilbert, daughter of Lenard and Catherine (Pickens) Lamberson, of Brownsboro. Residence: Brownsboro.

LAWRENCE, JOHN, merchant and planter, was born November 2, 1825, in Jefferson County, Tenn.; son of James and Chelnessa (Doherty) Lawrence, who came to Alabama in 1839 and settled on a farm near Cedar Bluff; grandson of James Lawrence who moved from North Carolina to Jefferson County, Tenn., where he married a Miss Cate; great-grandson of Thomas Lawrence, who fought in the Revolutionary War, and settled in North Carolina, and of Gen. George Doherty, who served in the Creek War of 1812-1815. He is brother of Dr. George D. W. Lawrence, who was graduated from the medical college at Augusta, Ga., practiced medicine at Gaylesville and in Cedar Bluff, was surgeon-general of the State militia before the War of Secession and during that war served as post surgeon, being prevented from entering the field by ill health, served as county health officer after the war; and of Robert Lawrence, a merchant and farmer of Cedar Bluff, who was vice president of the North Georgia and Alabama exposition, held at Rome, Ga., 1888, one of the organizers of the Cedar Bluff Land, Mining & Manufacturing Company, editor of the "Industrial Free Press." The Lawrence family is an ancient family of England. The progenitor of the branch in this country came to America early in colonial times and settled in Virginia. Mr. Lawrence was reared on a farm and educated in the common schools and at a college in Jefferson County, Tenn. He taught school for a short time, then read law and was admitted to the bar, but never practiced law. He engaged in the mercantile business at Gaylesville from 1851-1854; moved to Cedar Bluff and remained there and on a farm on the Chattanooga River near there until the fall of 1862, when he moved to a plantation near Cedar Bluff in the Coosa Valley. He was elected a member of the Alabama state convention in 1865 for the reorganization of the State government; was elected to the State legislature from Cherokee County in 1865; was re-elected in 1866, and in 1878. He was a Democrat, a Mason and a Baptist. Married: (1) in June, 1854, at Cedar Bluff, to Emily E. (Hampton) Watt, who died February 18, 1887; (2) December 22, 1887, in Chattanooga, Tenn., to Martha A. Cate, daughter of William T. Cate, sheriff of Hamilton County, Tenn., who was murdered by a gang of desperadoes in 1882. Children, by first marriage: 1. James R.; 2. George G.; by second marriage: 3. Nellie C.; 4. Samuel Cate. Last residence: Cherokee County.

LAWRENCE, WILLIAM HAYWOOD, publisher and editor, was born March 18, 1860, at Tuscaloosa; son of William Haywood and Elvira E. (Caldwell) Lawrence, the former of whom entered the C. S. Army as corporal in the Warrior Guards under Robert E. Rhodes as captain, was promoted to captain of Co. K., Eighth Alabama cavalry, C. P. Boll, colonel, and was killed in battle, October 12, 1864, near Rome, Ga., during an attempt to check Sherman's raid through Georgia; grandson of William Haywood and Mary (Prince) Lawrence (q. v.), and of John S. and Mary (Eddins) Caldwell, of Tuscaloosa. He was educated in private schools at Tuscaloosa, and spent two years in the University of Alabama. He became a printer, publisher and editor, entering the business first in the office of the Tuscaloosa "Blade" in 1873, when he was thirteen years of age. Afterwards, he established a paper at Clanton, in 1881. He has served as secretary of the county Democratic committee of Chilton County, is a Baptist and a Knight of Pythias. Married: August 8, 1888, in Montgomery, to Emily Jordan Reid, daughter of Samuel G. and Clara (Gerald) Reid, of Montgomery, the former the editor of the Montgomery "Advertiser" during the War of Secession, 1861-1865, editor of the Montgomery "Bulletin" after the War, and U. S. Marshal under President Grant's administration. Children: 1. Minnie Reid, m. Thomas J. Auld, Portsmouth, Va.; 2. Julia C., m. Mavens E. McConnell, Livingston. Residence: Livingston.

Rich B Kelly.

LAWRENCE, WILLIAM HAYWOOD, planter, was born September 24, 1791, at Raleigh, N. C., and died June 22, 1858; son of Josiah and Charity (Haywood) Lawrence, the former a native of New Jersey, who moved from that state to North Carolina, and was either a brother or nephew of the naval hero, James Lawrence; grandson of Col. William and Charity (Hare) Haywood, who lived in Edgecombe County, N. C., the former colonel of militia forces of Edgecombe County, N. C., a member of the council for Halifax District in 1775, a member of the provisional congress of North Carolina at Halifax, April, 1776, and November, 1776, a member of the committee in the last named body which drafted the state constitution and bill of rights, a member of the council of state in 1776, and one of the commissioners who signed the Revolutionary currency of North Carolina; great-grandson of Col. John and Mary (Lovett) Haywood, who came from New York and settled in Edgecombe County, N. C., the former colonel of colonial militia, a member of the North Carolina assembly, 1746-1752, commissioner of coast fortifications in 1748, treasurer of the northern counties of the colony, 1752, surveyor to Earl Granville who was last of the lord proprietors of North Carolina. Mr. Lawrence moved from North Carolina and settled at LaGrange, where he built the first college building of old LaGrange college. In 1836, he moved from LaGrange and settled at Tuscaloosa. He was a planter, and was "such a fair and just man that he was arbitrator among his neighbors in many differences and was called 'judge' by his neighbors on account of their appreciation of his fairness among them."

Married: (1) to Mary Prince; (2) May 16, 1836, at Tuscaloosa, to Idegerthe L. Anthony, daughter of Henry Tate and Mary Caroline (Lovell) Anthony, natives of Henry County, Va., who were married December 1, 1805, granddaughter of Mary and Nancy (Tate) Anthony, and of William and Mary (Marshall) Lovell, the latter a sister of Chief Justice John Marshall, great-granddaughter of Joseph Tate of Albemarle County, Va. Children, by first marriage: 1. Oliver James, b. December 6, 1818, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1840, and A. M., 1841, practiced law at Tuscaloosa, enlisted in the C. S. Army as private in Tarrant's Alabama battery, was wounded at Corinth, Miss., and died as a result of his wounds, 1864, m. Margarie Ridgeway; 2. Charity Hare, d. in Mississippi, m. Mr. Neville; 3. Josiah, d. in 1842, unmarried; 4. Mary, d. at nineteen years of age, unmarried; 5. Arabella Timesia, d. in Greensboro, m. James W. McCrary; 6. Col. Robert J., colonel of the Fourteenth Mississippi regiment, d. at Shubuta, Miss., m. Bettie Ledgyard; 7. Maria, m. Haywood Parker; 8. Harriet, deceased, m. John Colgin; 9. Capt. William Haywood, b. July 30, 1830, became a merchant at Tuscaloosa; enlisted in the C. S. Army as corporal of the Warrior Guards, 1861, was made captain of infantry in 1862, served as captain of cavalry, Eighth Alabama regiment, 1863-64, killed in battle near Rome, Ga., October 12, 1864, m. Elvira Caldwell, child, William Haywood, jr. (q. v.); by second marriage: 10. Lieut. Nicholas P., served with the Forty-third Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, d. in 1867, m. Kitty Vaughn; 11. Lieut. Charles M., served with the Forty-third Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, killed December 14, 1863, at Beanes Station, Tenn.; 12. Sergt. Henry A., served with the Forty-third Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, killed at Petersburg, Va., December 25, 1864; 13. Idegerthe L., d. December 13, 1909, m. Alto V. Lee (q. v.); 14. Sherwood H., d. in 1913, m. Mamie Allen. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

LAWSON, JAMES HENRY, business man, was born September 27, 1848, at Talladega; son of James and Mary (Elliott) Lawson, the former who was born in Sevierville, Tenn., lived at Ashville, St. Clair County, and Talladega, served as postmaster of Talladega, and as justice of the peace for forty-seven consecutive years; grandson of Robert and Martha (Nickles) Lawson, of Sevierville, Tenn., and Talladega, and of Capt. Thomas and Elizabeth Elliott, of Winchester, Tenn., and Talladega. Mr. Lawson was educated in the schools of Talladega; served as a private in Co. A, Maj. Joseph Hardie's battalion of reserves, Alabama State troops, in the War of Secession; served as county surveyor for more than twenty years; was a public school trustee for eighteen years; and was for a number of years a member of the county board of education. He represented Talladega County in the State legislature, 1896-1897, and again in 1907. He is a Methodist and an Odd Fellow. Married: December 31, 1873, at Talladega, to Alice E. Cross, daughter of Col. Thomas J. and Eliza (Edwards) Cross, the latter a descendant of a Revolutionary soldier. Residence: Talladega.

LAWSON, WILLIAM HENRY, farmer, member of the Alabama legislature, and Confederate soldier, was born May 12, 1845, in Chambers County; son of David and Martha Jane (Lyle) Lawson, both natives of Georgia. He was reared in Coosa County, and on July 19, 1861, at the age of seventeen years, he enlisted in the Confederate service as a private in Co. C, 13th Alabama infantry regiment, serving under Colonel Winston, Birkett D. Fry, and James Aiken, and under Stonewall Jackson and A. P. Hill in the Army of Northern Virginia until the surrender at Appomattox. He participated in the battles of Yorktown, Williamsburg, Seven Pines, the Seven Days before Richmond, South Mountain, Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Bristoe Station, the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, and the fighting about Petersburg. At the close of the war he returned to his home, and later removed to Montgomery County, where he conducts a successful plantation. He has held the position of chairman of the Democratic county committee, and membership on the State committee, and two years was chairman of the congressional committee, and was active in the overthrow of carpet-bag and negro rule. In 1878-79, and 1884-85, he was a member of the State legislature. For four years he was clerk of the convict department. Married: (1) in 1871, to Ellen Ready, (2) in 1886, to Virginia Lee Steagall. Children: six sons and four daughters. Residence: Montgomery County.

LAY, GEORGE WILLIAM, clergyman, was born on February 26, 1860, at Huntsville; son of Bishop Henry Champlin and Elizabeth Withers (Atkinson) Lay (q. v.). He received his early education at St. Paul's preparatory school, Concord, N. H.; took his A. B. degree at Yale, 1882; B. D., General theological seminary, N. Y. 1886; and D. C. L. from the University of the South at Sewanee, 1915. He was ordained deacon in the Protestant Episcopal church, 1885, and priest, 1886; was assistant minister St. Paul's parish, Erie, Pa., 1885-87; St. George's parish, Newburgh, N. Y., 1887-88; master in St. Paul's school, Concord, N. Y., 1888-1907; secretary board of missions, diocese of New Hampshire, 1895-1907; and since 1907 has been rector at St. Mary's school, Raleigh, N. C. He is a Democrat; and a member of the Psi Upsilon college fraternity. Married: June 26, 1894, to Anna Booth Balch, of Baltimore, Md. Residence: Raleigh, N. C.

LAY, HENRY CHAMPLIN, Protestant Episcopal bishop, was born at Richmond, Va., December 6, 1823, and died at Baltimore, Md., September 17, 1885; son of John Olmsted and Lucy Emma (May) Lay. Bishop Lay graduated from the University of Virginia, 1842, and from the Episcopal theological seminary, Alexandria, 1846; received the degree of D. D. from Hobart college, 1857, and from William and Mary college, 1873; and LL. D. from Cambridge University, England. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop Meade in Christ's church, Alexandria, July 10, 1846, and served the following six months at Lynnhaven. He accepted a call to the Church of the Nativity, Huntsville, 1847, and while here was ordained a priest, July 12, 1848, by Bishop Nicholas Hamner Cobbs. He remained at Huntsville for twelve years, leaving that place at his election as missionary bishop of the South-West. He was consecrated at Richmond, Va., October 23, 1859. After the War of Secession his jurisdiction was somewhat restricted and his title was changed to missionary bishop of Arkansas. He was elected and translated as the first bishop of Eaton, April 1, 1869, when the diocese of Maryland was subdivided. He wrote many books and tracts. Married: May 13, 1847; to Elizabeth Withers, daughter of Roger and Mary T. (Withers) Atkinson, granddaughter Thomas and Elizabeth (Grammer) Withers, all of Bristol Parish, Va.; great-granddaughter of Thomas and Priscilla (Wright) Withers, the former clerk to Anthony Walke, in Nansemond County, Va., and afterwards private secretary to Gov. Dinwiddie. Children: 1. Rev. George, m. Anna Booth Balch (q. v.); 2, 3 and 4. names unknown. Last residence: Baltimore.

LAY, WILLIAM PATRICK, promoter and developer, was born June 11, 1853, in Cherokee County; son of Cummins M. and Elizabeth (McGhee) Lay, who lived in Cherokee County, the former a pioneer in the operation of steam boats on the upper Coosa River in Alabama, to which vocation he devoted his life; grandson of John Lay, who moved from Virginia to Cherokee County in the early settlement of the state, and was a pioneer in the flat boat trade, from the upper stretches of the Coosa River, during high-water, down through the great rapids on that river to Wetumpka and Mobile, and of John McGhee of Tennessee. He was educated in the common schools, and at the age of eighteen began the machinist's trade in the engine department of extensive railroad shops, working at that trade for six years. He went on the road for a time as locomotive engineer, and in 1874 went to Gadsden as bookkeeper for William P. Hollingsworth. He became executor of Mr. Hollingsworth's estate in 1879, then embarked in the lumber business in Gadsden, and conducted that business until 1890. It was largely through Mr. Lay's efforts that the first blast furnace was located at Gadsden in 1883. He built and owned the first electric light plant in Gadsden in 1887, and in 1888 figured largely in the construction of the railroad from Anniston to Gadsden, now a part of the Louisville and Nashville system. He was president of a hotel company that built the Printup Hotel in Gadsden; was instrumental in inducing the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company to build a connecting section of railroad between Gadsden and Oneonta in Alabama; and it was due solely to his efforts that the Southern Steel Company, now the Standard Steel Company, located its plant in Gadsden in 1902. In 1903, he built and owned the little water-power plant on Big Wills Creek near Attalla, which now supplies the city with its electric current. Mr. Lay has been an active worker for the improvement of the Coosa-Alabama River for more than a third of a century, and has been chairman of the Coosa River Improvement Association for more than twenty years. As a part of his plans to bring about a dual development of that kind, he organized and incorporated the Alabama Power Company in 1906, which company built the power plant on Lock 12 of the Coosa River. He has been a member of the city council of Gadsden twice; was an elector at large for the state of Alabama in 1812 to vote for President Wilson; was commissioner at large from Alabama to the St. Louis exposition in 1903; and was chairman of the Alabama conservation commission in 1908. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. He compiled the original Coosa River Memorial in 1899, is author of a booklet entitled "The Great Coosa-Alabama River and Valley, Georgia and Alabama," and of several other booklets treating on the Coosa-Alabama River and the benefits to be derived from the proper improvement thereof. Married: April 26, 1876, at Gadsden, to Laura J. Hollingsworth, daughter of William P. and Mary Josephine (Lewis), of that place, the former a major in the C. S. Army, War of Secession, and a merchant at Gadsden. Children: 1. Earl, insurance man, m. Mary Martin, Gadsden; 2. Carl, merchant, m. Josephine Caldwell of Jacksonville, Gadsden; 3. Tracy, deputy consul general for the United States in London, unmarried; 4. Orville, chief chemist of the Woodward Iron Company, Woodward, unmarried; 5. Everett, Gadsden. Residence: Gadsden.

LAZARUS, LEW, manufacturer, was born July 4, 1853, in Louisville, Ky. In 1872, he went to Houma, La., where he resided two years; removed to Muncie, Ind., remaining here, for two years, and from this place went to Shelbyville, Ky. In 1886 he removed to Birmingham, where he has since resided. He is engaged in the manufacturing business. He is a Mason. Married: in 1879, to Hannah Schwab, of Louisville, Ky. Children: 1. son; 2. daughter. Residence: Birmingham.

LAZENBY, E. M., planter and mill owner, was born on September 27, 1823, in Columbia County, Ga.; son of Ellis and Frances (Zachrey) Lazenby, the former a Georgian, the latter a descendant of an old Virginia family; grandson of Ellis Lazenby, a Marylander who emigrated to Georgia in early youth. He was reared on a farm, with no facilities for securing an education; emigrated to Alabama, about 1844, where he engaged as a bridge builder with the Western railroad; removed in 1853, to Butler County, where he farmed until the close of the War of Secession when he became identified with the mercantile and milling business. He is a Democrat, and Methodist. Married: December 14, 1848, in Butler County, to Mary, daughter of James K. Benson, a soldier of the War of 1812, and one of the garrison of Fort Bibb, in the spring of 1818, when Capt. Butler, in honor of whom Butler County is named, and several others were surprised and massacred by the Indians. Children: 1. John G., m. Mrs. L. J. Powers; 2. James M., m. Carrie Green; 3. George; 4. Henry G., m. Ella Floyd, Monterey; 5. Frances, m. J. G. Reynolds. Residence: Forest Home.

LAZENBY, GEORGE SAMUEL, planter was born July 6, 1854, in Butler County; son of Elias Marlon and Martha J. (Benson) Lazenby, the former a native of Columbus, Ga., who came to Alabama about 1850, was a farmer and mill operator, and during the War of Secession, served as a bridge builder; grandson of James K. Benson, and his wife, a Miss Drake, the former who came to Alabama from South Carolina in 1816, was among the first settlers of Butler County, and was in Fort Bibb when Gen. Butler was killed by the Indians. The Bensons were of English stock. He obtained his early education in country schools; attended Greenville Institute, 1873-1874, and Southern University, 1874-1875. He is a planter and merchant; a Democrat; and has served as steward in the Methodist Episcopal church, south, for forty years. Married: (1) September 16, 1875, to Carrie Clayton Greene, daughter of Captain A. C. and Mary (Purifoy) Greene, who came to Alabama from Georgia in 1856, and settled in Monroe County, the former who served in the C. S. Army; (2) February 1, 1911, to Mary Edna Davis, daughter of Epinetus Monroe Davis, of Prattville. Children: 1. George Claudius, m. Elizabeth Howard; 2. Mary Etta, m. Dr. Conrod Wall; 3. Vandiver; 4. Augustus Greene. Residence: Forest Home.

LAZENBY, M. E., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Demopolis.

LEA, ALLEN, major, 2nd, also known as 19th, battalion, Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

LEA, COLUMBUS W., lawyer, was born in 1800, in Clarke County, Ga., and died in 1869, in Marion; son of a Georgia planter, a native of Virginia, who married a Miss Moffat, also of Virginia. He was educated at the University of Georgia and shortly after graduation opened a law office at Marion, practicing for several years but finally becoming a planter. He represented Perry County in the legislature, 1832, 1833, 1834, 1835, 1837, and 1844. He was elector for Pierce and also for Douglas, and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1865. Married: Miss Parker, of Tuscaloosa and left descendants. Last residence: Marion.

LEA, HENRY CLINTON, lawyer, was born in 1803, in Clarke County, Ga., and died in December, 1854; nephew of Columbus W. Lea (q. v.). He graduated from the University of Georgia, and came to Alabama in 1829; read law; was admitted to the practice; and was elected solicitor soon after. He represented Perry County in the State senate, 1836 and 1839; was in the house, 1847 and 1851; and was elected solicitor in 1853. Married: August 5, 1828, to Serena Ryng, daughter of Col. Thomas Reade and Sarah Ryng (Bataille) Rootes, the former a distinguished lawyer and member of the house of delegates in 1793, of Virginia; granddaughter of Thomas Reade and Martha Jacquelin (Smith) Rootes, of Federal Hill, near Fredericksburg, Va., and afterwards of White Marsh, Gloucester County, Va.; great-granddaughter of Capt. John and Mary (Jacquelin) Smith, of Shooter's Hill, the former a member of the house of burgesses from Middlesex, Va., 1737-68, of Col. Philip and Frances (Wilcox) Rootes, the former of "Rosewall," King and Queen County, Va., and sheriff of that county in 1765; great-great-granddaughter of Maj. Philip and Mildred (Reade) Rootes, the former the earliest ancestor to whom the family has been traced, who lived at "Rosewall" in King and Queen County, owning lands in New Kent and Orange Counties, and was justice of King and Queen County, in 1739, of Edward and Martha (Cary) Jacquelin, the former of County Kent, England, who emigrated to America, locating in Virginia in 1697, and of Augustine and Sarah (Carver) Smith, of Virginia; great-great-granddaughter of William and Martha (Scarbrook) Cary, of Warwick County, Va., of John and Elizabeth (Cradock) Jacquelin, of County Kent, England, of John Carver, of Gloucester County, Va., of Thomas Reade, of Virginia, and of John and Mary (Warner) Smith, of Virginia, the former captain in the provincial service, and Burgess from Gloucester County; great-great-great-granddaughter of Col. Augustine and Mildred (Reade) Warner, of Warner Hall, Va., and of John and Anne (Bernard) Smith, the former lieutenant colonel and speaker of the house of burgesses, of Virginia; great-great-great-great-granddaughter of Thomas Smith, emigrant, of Richard and Ann (Corderoy) Bernard, the former a native of Petsoe Parish, Buckinghamshire, England, who located in Gloucester County, Va., the latter of St. Andrew's in the Wardrobe, England; great-great-great-great-granddaughter of John Bernard, governor of the Bermudas. Children: 1. Lucy, m. Dr. J. M. Langhorne (q. v.); 2. Sumter, (q. v.); 3. Henry C., m. Bettie Moseley; 4. Martha, m. James A. Harwood; 5. Mary Willis, m. B. F. Harwood. Last residence: Perry County.

LEA, SUMTER, lawyer, was born February 16, 1835, in Perry County; son of Henry Clinton and Serena Rynge (Rootes) Lea (q. v.). He attended the University of Alabama until his junior year, studied law, and was admitted to the bar, opening his law practice in Marion. He was elected captain of the first military company organized at Marion, and immediately upon the secession of the state from the union, went with that company under orders of the governor of Alabama to take possession of Fort Morgan, on Mobile Bay, January 8, 1861. Later he enlisted in the C. S. Army, and was appointed adjutant of the Twenty-eighth Alabama regiment. After the battle of Murfreesboro, he was discharged from military service on account of loss of sight. Later, when his vision was partially restored he was appointed to a position on the staff of a brigadier general, but was forced to decline the appointment. He reported as a staff officer to Richmond, Va., from his plantation in Dallas County; took part in the battle of Selma, and was taken prisoner during that engagement. After the war he practiced law in Marion. He was elected a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1875 from Dallas County, and represented that county in the state legislature in 1884. He moved to Birmingham in 1887, and soon after became permanently blind. Married: December 11, 1860, in Cahaba, to Susan Isadore Hill. Children: 1. Samuel Hill; 2. Lucy; 3. Sumter; 4. Susie; 5. Lillian; 6. Thomas R. R.; 7. Lucian D. Residence: Birmingham.

LEACH, SEWELL JONES, dentist and business man, was born in New York City, November 14, 1812, and died in Tuscaloosa, August 6, 1885; son of Ephraim Leach and Sophia (Jones) Leach. His educational advantages were limited as he was unable to attend school longer than four months in any one year. At the age of eighteen, he took up the profession of teaching and for two years conducted a school in the state of New York. He then took up the study of dentistry at Utica, N. Y., and removed to Mobile, 1837, where he began the practice of his profession. Remaining there only one year, he moved to Tuscaloosa and engaged in the jewelry business with his brother, Cyrus Sidney Leach; moved to Uniontown, 1840, and again practiced dentistry at the same time managing his plantation in Marengo County. Returning to Tuscaloosa, 1842, he resumed the practice of his profession. He, with Dr. F. A. P. Barnard, afterwards president of Columbia college, New York, successfully conducted a series of experiments in producing sun pictures, antedating the promulgation of the discovery by the distinguished Frenchman, Daguerre. Dr. Leach throughout his entire life was a machinist of the rarest ability. On account of his practical knowledge of machinery he was employed to purchase the outfit for the first cotton mill built in Tuscaloosa, 1846, and also for the paper mill. He established, 1852, on the banks of the Warrior River, in Tuscaloosa, the Leach and Avery iron and plow co. It was destroyed by fire, 1859, rebuilt, and during the war was employed in casting cannons for the Confederate government, until 1864, when it was burned by the Federals. On account of declining health, 1878, he accepted the less arduous position of general superintendent and machinist of the Tuscaloosa cotton mills, into which the foundry was converted. He was a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and an Episcopalian. Dr. Leach, although a northerner by birth, was a man of strong southern feeling. Married: October 10, 1839, to Elizabeth Faulcon, daughter of James Harris and Rebecca Emily (Alston) Fitts (q. v.). Children: 1. James Harris, d. in infancy; 2. Sidney Fitts (q. v.), m. Mary Lee Peck; 3. Emily Alston, m. James Slaughter Carpenter; 4. Samuel Thomas, student at the University of Alabama, 1862-63, member of Fowler's battery, C. S. Army, 1863-65; 5. Norma Lela, m. John Snow (q. v.); 6. Carolyn Medora, m. Edward E. Kirkham; 7. Susan Virginia, d. young; 8. Lelia, d. in infancy; 9. Sewall Leach, University of Alabama, 1874-76, bookkeeper, 1888-94, manager laundry and electric light plant of University of Alabama, general manager S. F. Alston furniture co., m. Kate Brantley Arrington, of Tuscaloosa; 10. Edward Faulcon, Univeristy of Alabama, 1874-77, agent U. S. express co., Birmingham, 1887-92, private, Co. F, Second Alabama volunteer regiment, Spanish-American War, m. Marie Louise Tait, of Montgomery; 11. Fitts, d. young. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

LEACH, SYDNEY, physician, was born January 25, 1875, at Tuscaloosa; son of Sidney Fitts and Mary Lee (Peck) Leach, who lived at Tuscaloosa, the former a soldier in the C. S. Army, who served as a sergeant in Fowler's battery, Smith's regiment of artillery; grandson of Sewell Jones and Elizabeth (Faulcon) Leach (q. v.), and of Elijah Woolsey and Lucy (Randall) Peck, of Tuscaloosa. He was educated in the Tuscaloosa public schools; attended University high school at Marion, and Marion military institute; was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1894 and from the University of Virginia, M. D., 1896. He served in various hospitals in New York, and was a member of the house staff of the New York polyclinic medical school and hospital in 1899; was appointed first assistant physician of the Alabama insane hospital, and served in that capacity, 1899-1904; since that time has been practicing medicine at Tuscaloosa. He is a Democrat, an Episcopalian, and a Mason. Married: April 25, 1900, at Tuscaloosa, to Nanieta Somerville McEachin, daughter of Archibald Bruce and Eudora (Somerville) McEachin, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Minturn Peck, d. 1904; 2. Mary Lee; 3. Sidney McEachin, d. 1906; 4. Archibald Bruce; 5. Eudora Somerville; 6. Randall Peck. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

LEADBEATER, LAWRENCE C., teacher and lawyer, was born in 1873, and died September 15, 1917, in Birmingham. He received his higher education at the University of Virginia, graduating with the M. A. degree. Later he taught Latin at the Marion military institute, but returned to the University in 1897, to study law. He was associated in his law practice with Benjamin Russell, George P. Bondurant, and Forney Johnson, and finally he became a partner in the firm of Tillman, Bradley and Morrow. Last residence: Birmingham.

LEADBETTER, DANVILLE, captain U. S. Army, brigadier-general C. S. Army, was born in Livermore, Maine, in 1811, and died at Clifton, Canada, September 26, 1866. In 1832 he entered the West Point Military Academy; was graduated brevet second lieutenant, First Artillery on July 1, 1836; transferred to engineers, November 1, 1836; transferred to artillery, December 31, 1836; transferred to engineers, July 31, 1837; was promoted to first lieutenant, July 7, 1838; commissioned captain, October 16, 1852; and resigned December 31, 1857. From 1838 to 1845, Lieut. Leadbetter served on garrison duty at Oswego Harbor, New York; from 1845 to 1848 he was in charge of the engineer agency in New York for the purchase and shipment of supplies for the construction of fortifications; he was then a member of a joint commission of naval and engineer officers for examination of the Pacific coast; in 1853 he was in Mobile as superintending engineer of the repairs of Ft. Morgan and the building of Ft. Gaines; the custom house at Mobile was built under his superintendence. Resigning from the army, Capt. Leadbetter lived as a private citizen of Mobile until the outbreak of the War of Secession; he accepted the commission of lieutenant-colonel from Alabama and was placed in command of Ft. Morgan; in August, 1861, he was assigned to duty in Richmond as acting chief of the Engineer bureau; in November, 1861, Col. Leadbetter was assigned to the command of the troops stationed for the protection of the railroad between Bristol and Chattanooga, his duties being to reconstruct bridges, repair and keep open the line of communication between these two points; he also had the arduous task of preserving order and in holding in check the disaffected and insurgent east Tennesseans along the line of the railroad and in the adjoining regions. On March 6, 1862, Col. Leadbetter was promoted to the rank of brigadier-general; on April 29, 1862, he had an encounter with the Federal army marching upon Chattanooga; he was in command of a brigade, with Gen. Bragg in his campaign in Kentucky; he was later ordered to Mobile to superintend the construction and completion of its defensive works; and on October 23, 1863, Gen. Leadbetter was announced as chief of the engineer department of the army of Tennessee. His first work with that army was the construction of the lines along Missionary Ridge, while Gen. Bragg was investing Chattanooga. Gen. Leadbetter left Longstreet, November 23, 1863, and arrived in Dalton, Ga., December 3; served the Confederacy faithfully until the close of the war; at its close removed to Mexico and afterwards to Canada. Married: to a Mrs. Hall, nee Kennedy, a native of Alabama. Last residence: Clifton, Canada.

LEAK, TILMAN, planter and merchant, was born April 1, 1809, at Zebulon, Pike County, Ga., and died August 11, 1872, at Montgomery; son of Rev. Samuel Leak, Baptist minister, of Zebulon. He was educated in the schools of Zebulon and Griffin, Ga., and engaged in farming. He served in the Indian war of 1833-36; and later, on the Mexican frontier. He removed to Alabama and settled at Wetumpka, of which place he was mayor, in 1850; later locating in Montgomery, he engaged in merchandising and planting operations. He was a Whig and then a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: October 20, 1831, in Zebulon, Ga., to Mary Ann Ford. Children: 1. Susan Providence, m. Alfred Franklin; 2. Rebecca Jane, m. Platt Croom Stout; 3. Charlton Shepard; 4. Henry Cunningham; 5. William Wesley; 6. Tilman Ford, m. Rebecca McLemore; 7. Fannie Anna, m. J. R. Warren. Last residence: Montgomery.

LEATH, JAMES HILL, manufacturer and legislator, was born March 22, 1864, at Broomtown, Cherokee County; son of James Hill and Hasseltine (Rickey) Leath, who lived at Centre, Cherokee County. He was educated in the common schools of Centre; in 1880 he engaged in printing at Centre, on the "Cherokee Advertiser"; in 1887 was editor of "The Telephone," a weekly paper at Centre, and in 1888 of the "Sylacauga Argus"; removed to Birmingham in 1889, where for ten years he was a printer. He is a cigar manufacturer, and prominent in labor circles. He was one of the representatives in the legislature from Jefferson County, in 1901, and was author of the State printing bill, the union label bill and mechanics lien law for Jefferson County, and a child labor law. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. He is unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

LE BARON, WILLIAM A., commission merchant, and vice-consul, was born November 7, 1827, at Pensacola, Fla.; son of Charles and Ann (McVoy) Le Baron, the former a native of New Orleans, La., a merchant; grandson of Colonel Le Baron, a quartermaster, with the rank of colonel in the Seminole War, and for some years vice-consul at Mobile for Mexico and Spain, and of Martin McVoy, a native of Scotland, who migrated to Baldwin County, and piloted Gen. Andrew Jackson and his army from Mobile to Pensacola in the War of 1813. Mr. Le Baron was educated in Mobile, completing his studies at Spring Hill college perfecting himself in Spanish as well as in English. In 1846 he helped to organize the "Mobile cadets," and engaged in the cotton compress business, 1856. In 1862, he was elected lieutenant colonel 24th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, but resigned this office a few months later to enter the navy, acting from 1863 to the close of the war as clerk to Commodore E. Farrand. On the restoration of peace between the sections he joined his father in the commission business, becoming soon afterwards a partner in the firm. He was appointed in 1881, vice-consul at Mobile for Spain; and in 1888 for Mexico, and in 1889, for Nicaragua. He is a Democrat and Roman Catholic. Married: in 1848, to Eliza J. Robb, a native of the city of Mexico. Children: nine children were born of this union. Residence: Mobile.

LEDBETTER, EMMETT WALTON, banker, was born October 31, 1868, at New Hope, Madison County; son of J. M. and Mary (McDonald) Ledbetter, who lived at New Hope and at Anniston. He was prepared in the common country schools, and was graduated from Southern University, B. S., 1890. He entered the banking business at Anniston in 1890; became cashier of the Bank of Piedmont; served as councilman of Piedmont, 1894, and 1897-1898; as mayor of Piedmont, 1896; councilman of Sylacauga, 1901; cashier of the Bank of Sylacauga; and was a delegate from Talladega County to the constitutional convention of 1901. He was a private in the Anniston Rifles, 1890; is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Residence: Sylacauga.

LEDBETTER, SAMUEL LEONIDAS, physician, graduate of the Medical college of Louisville, Ky., 1879. Residence: Birmingham.

LEDBETTER, W. G., business man, was born in 1851, in Madison County; son of John W. and Elizabeth (Glover) Ledbetter, natives, respectively, of Virginia and South Carolina, the former of whom was born in 1811, and came to Alabama in 1821; grandson of Archie Ledbetter. He was reared in his native county, and, due to the outbreak of the War of Secession, received but a limited education. After the war, he went to New York, and for nine years was connected with a wholesale hat business. For five years after that time, he engaged in the manufacture of tobacco in Lynchburg, Va., then moved to Winston, N. C., and continued the manufacture of tobacco in that place for four years. He came to Alabama in 1887, and located in Anniston, where, during the same year, he assisted in the organization of the bank of that city. He was elected vice-president of the bank of Anniston for two years, then was elected president, and has continued to hold the latter position. On the organization of the Piedmont Land Improvement Company in 1890, he was chosen vice-president, and in 1892, was elected president of the company. He was made a director of the Anniston Land Company when it was organized; was the organizer of the Ledbetter Land Company and is president of the Woodstock Iron Company. He is a Baptist and a Mason. Married: in 1877, to Sarah Draper, a native of Oxford, daughter of Daniel D. and Caroline (Woods) Draper, natives of South Carolina. Children: 1. Ruth; 2. Ralph; 3. Grace; 4. Willie G. Three other children are deceased. Residence: Anniston.

LEE, ALTO VELA, lawyer, was born December 28, 1844, at Louisville, Barbour County; son of Lovard and Susan Emeline (Loveless) Lee, the former a native of Augusta, Ga., who moved to Barbour County in 1832, served in the Indian wars, led a company in the C. S. Army, and prior to the War of Secession was a general of militia; grandson of Needham and Lydia (Pryor) Lee, and of William Loveless. He was prepared in the schools of Clayton to enter the University of Alabama, but was prevented from attending the university by joining the C. S. Army, January 17, 1861. He became orderly sergeant in the Clayton Guards, the first company organized in Barbour County, and served with that company for a year; assisted in the organization of the Lee Guards, and was made second lieutenant in that company; resigned from that company because of ill health in 1863; accepted a cadetship at the University of Alabama for eight months, and at the end of that time returned home and raised a company of which he was elected captain; led his company in the battles of Blakely and Spanish Fort; was taken prisoner in the latter engagement, and held on Ship Island. After the war he studied law in the office of Col. D. M. Seales at Clayton; was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law in 1867; served as mayor of Clayton for a number of years; was solicitor of Barbour County, 1868, 1872, and 1874-1876; was elected solicitor of the eighth judicial district, 1876-1880; was re-elected in 1880 and 1886, serving in that office for sixteen years; and later became associate judge of the city court of Gadsden. He was a trustee of the University of Alabama for six years; is a Democrat; a Methodist, serving the church as secretary of the Eufaula district conference and as statistical secretary of the Southern Alabama Conference; and is a Mason. Married: December 19, 1866, in Tuscaloosa, to Lillie Lawrence, daughter of William Haywood and Ildegerte Lucy (Anthony) Lawrence, of Tuscaloosa; granddaughter of Josiah and Charity (Haywood) Lawrence; great-granddaughter of Col. William Haywood, who was colonel of militia forces of Edgecombe District, N. C., a member of the provincial congress of North Carolina at Halifax in April, 1776, a member of the committee in that body which drafted the State constitution and the bill of rights a member of the council of state in 1776, and one of the commissioners who signed the Revolutionary currency of North Carolina; great-great-granddaughter of John Haywood who moved from New York to North Carolina, was a colonel of militia, a member of the North Carolina assembly, 1746-1752, commissioner of coast fortifications in 1748, and surveyor to Earl Granville. Children: 1. Lawrence Haywood, m. Augusta Alston; 2. Vela, m. George W. Peach; 3. William Lovard (q. v.); 4. Charles W., m. Nettie Passmore; 5. Henry Fitzhugh (q. v.); 6. Alto Vela (q. v.). Residence: Gadsden.

LOUIS B. WHITFIELD

LEE, ALTO VELA, lawyer, was born July 28, 1876, at Clayton, Barbour County; son of Alto Vela and Lillie (Lawrence) Lee (q. v.); and brother of Henry Fitzhugh Lee (q. v.), and of William Lovard Lee (q. v.). He was prepared for college in Clayton Academy; was graduated with honor from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1897, M. A., 1899, and LL.B., 1903. He taught as principal of the Clio public school, 1897-1898; was a fellowship student at the University of Alabama, 1898-1899; principal of Attalla public school, 1899-1902; served as commandant of the University of Alabama, 1902; and began the practice of law in Gadsden in 1903. He is owner of a half interest in the Etowah Abstract Company; was elected to the State legislature from Etowah County, 1907; and to the State senate from the sixth district, 1915; is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; and an Elk. Married: February 28, 1906, at Attalla, to Eloise Frost, daughter of Clarence Miller and Anna Lavinia (Hudspeth) Frost, of that place; granddaughter of George Washington and Eliza Jane Frost, and of William L. and Sophia Hudspeth. Children: 1. Eloise; 2. Lillian. Residence: Gadsden.

LEE, B. E., Cumberland Presbyterian minister; living in 1913. Residence: McCalla.

LEE, COLUMBUS W., lawyer, planter, was born in 1800, in Clarke County, Ga., and died in 1869 in Perry County; son of Greene Lea, a wealthy planter, who married a Miss Moffat.

Both of his parents were Virginians. He was a cousin of Henry Clinton Lea (q. v.), and changed his name from Lea to Lee. He received his collegiate education from the University of Georgia, and opened a law office in Marion soon after his graduation. He was the law partner at different times of A. B. Moore and J. P. Graham, but retired from the practice of law early, in order to devote his time to his planting interests. From 1832 to 1838, he was elected annually to the legislature with the exception of one year; and was again a representative from Perry County in 1844. His party being in the minority in Perry County, he was defeated two or three times for the State senate. In 1852, he served on the Democratic electoral ticket for Pierce and King, and in 1860 was on the Douglas electoral ticket. He opposed the policy of secession in 1861, but after the measure was passed in Alabama, supported the state in her efforts for defense. He was a delegate from Perry County to the constitutional convention of 1865, and soon after canvassed the state for congress unsuccessfully, in opposition to Joseph T. Taylor. The latter part of his life was passed in retirement. He was a Baptist. Married: to Elizabeth Parker of Tuscaloosa. A number of his descendants reside in Perry County. One of his sons, Wayne Emmet Lee, a planter in South America, was born November 30, 1843, served as a captain in the C. S. Army and was married in 1868, at Marion, to Sue Billingslea. Last residence: Perry County.

LEE, DAVID, Baptist minister, was born February 4, 1805, in Johnston County, N. C.; son of Joel Lee (q. v.); brother of George and Hanson Lee (q. v.). Rev. Mr. Lee removed with his parents to Alabama and located in Conecuh County in 1817. He began to exhort in 1827, was ordained in 1833, and served the Hopewell church, Mount Willing, for over thirty-five years. Author: many religious papers. Married: Mary Coleman, of Mt. Willing. They left many descendants. Last residence: Mount Willing.

LEE, ELI FRANKLIN, Presbyterian minister, was born March 28, 1879, at Newton Grove, Sampson County, N. C.; son of Arthul and Elizabeth Jane (Coats) Lee, the former a native of Johnston County, N. C., who moved to Newton Grove, Sampson County, N. C., served in the C. S. Army, and was county surveyor of Sampson County for about twenty-five years; grandson of Westbrook and Esther (Smith) Lee, who lived near Peacock's Cross Roads, Johnston County, N. C., and of William and Emily (Hudson) Coats, who lived near Rosin Hill, Sampson County, N. C.; great-grandson of Joab Lee; great-great-grandson of Jesse Lee of Fayetteville, N. C., and of Westbrook Lee, one of four brothers, Westbrook, Samuel, William and Noah Lee, who emigrated from Arlington Heights, Va., to North Carolina during the latter part of the eighteenth century, and who were closely related to the family of Gen. Robert E. Lee; great-great-great-grandson of Joel Lee who came from England early in the eighteenth century. Ancestors on both sides of the family were named Lee, but the two families were not related. Rev. Lee received his preparatory training in the public schools of North Carolina and in Turlington institute at Smithfield, N. C. He was graduated from Trinity college, cum laude, A. B., 1905; from Columbia university, M. A., 1908; from the Union theological seminary, New York, 1909; and completed all courses for the degree of Ph. D. in Columbia university, 1911. He began teaching in the public schools of North Carolina when he was sixteen years of age; entered as a candidate for the ministry in 1901; became assistant pastor of the Arlington Avenue Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, N. Y., from April, 1907 until January, 1909; was ordained by the Brooklyn Presbytery, June 2, 1909; served as pastor of the St. Albans Presbyterian church, St. Albans, Long Island, N. Y., 1909-1912; pastor of West End Presbyterian church, Birmingham, 1912-1913; pastor of Buffalo Presbyterian church at Greensboro, N. C. He is an Independent Democrat and a Royal Arch Mason. He is author of "Social Solidarity and Race Inequalities in the South," 1911. Married: August 16, 1905, at East Durham, N. C., to Elsie Arnana Barbee, daughter of Bartlett Washington and Louvinia Tarpley (Smith) Barbee, of Durham, N. C.; granddaughter of Gray and Sarah Hawkins (Scoggins) Barbee; great-granddaughter of John Barbee, who married a Miss Morris. Residence: Greensboro, N. C.

LEE, GEORGE LASSITER, Baptist minister, was born November 28, 1819, near Burnt Corn, Conecuh County, and died February 16, 1867; son of Joel Lee (q. v.); brother of David and Hanson Lee (q. v.). He received a good English education and during his ministerial career served the Bethlehem association as clerk and moderator. Married: Nancy C. Henderson, of Monroe County. There were ten children born of this union. Last residence: Conecuh County.

LEE, GEORGE WASHINGTON, Baptist minister, was born October 30, 1842, in Covington County, and died at McKenzie, Butler County; son of Greenbery and Martha Jane (Taylor) Lee, the former a native of Putnam County, Ga., who went to Alabama and resided at Westover, Covington County; grandson of Richard and Martha Taylor, of Putnam County, Ga. Mr. Lee received a limited education in the country schools; was ordained a Primitive Baptist minister, November 15, 1871; was in the ministry for forty years, serving churches in Butler, Covington, Crenshaw and Conecuh Counties, and other places; was clerk of the Antioch Primitive Association for thirty years; and was pastor for thirty years of Elizabeth church. For ten years he taught school, and for two terms was tax collector of Butler County. He represented Butler County in the State legislature in 1903. During the War of Secession, he was a member of Co. B, and Co. C, Seventeenth Alabama Infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and lost his arm at Vicksburg. He was a Democrat. Married: (1) February 17, 1864, to Rhoda A. E. Mitchell, daughter of R. M. J.

Mitchell; (2) to Rebecca L., daughter of Joseph Howell, of Butler County. Last residence: McKenzie.

LEE, HANSON, Baptist minister, was born December 27, 1815, in Johnston County, N. C., and died May 7, 1862; son of Joel Lee (q. v.); brother of David and George Lee (q. v.). He was a graduate of Southwestern theological college, Eastern Tennessee, receiving the degree of A. M. He was ordained in 1844, and in connection with preaching adopted teaching as a profession. He first taught at Brooklyn, later in Georgia, and was president of Mossy Creek college, Eastern Tennessee. In 1854 he founded Mount Lebanon college, Louisiana, became the president and founded the "Louisiana Baptist." Married: Martha Cates. Last residence: Mt. Lebanon, La.

LEE, H. A. G., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference; pastor of the Court Street church, Montgomery, 1837.

LEE, HENRY FITZHUGH, accountant, State Auditor, was born August 31, 1874, at Clayton, Barbour County, son of Alto Vela and Lillian Frances (Lawrence) Lee, (q. v.); brother of Alto Vela Lee (q. v.), and William Lovard Lee (q. v.). Mr. Lee was educated in the common schools of Clayton, and later took a business course in Columbus, Ga. In 1900 he was chief clerk of the probate court in Eufaula, having charge of the business of the branch court house there. He served as examiner of public accounts under Governors Jelks and Comer, 1906-1911; was chief clerk in State auditor's office, 1911-15; secretary, State board of equalization, 1915-1919, and was elected State auditor in November, 1919. He is a Democrat, a Methodist, a Mason, a Knights of Pythias, and a Woodman of the World. Married: January, 1897, at Clayton, to Wyllanne Pruett, daughter of Judge William H. and Anne (Browder) Pruett of Eufaula. Children: 1. Henry Fitzhugh, jr. Residence: Montgomery.

LEE, JACOB MARTIN, physician and planter, was born November 10, 1810, at Charleston, S. C., and died April 30, 1874, at Carlowlville; son of Paul Smyrna Hudson and Jane (Martin) Lee, who lived at Carlowlville, the former a native of Charleston, S. C., a major in the army; grandson of Stephen and Dorothea Allison Lee, who lived at Charleston, S. C., the latter the widow of Rev. Hugh Allison, of that place; great-grandson of Thomas and Mary (Giles) Lee, the former a native of Bridgetown, Barbadoes; great-great-grandson of Francis Lee and Mary of Barbadoes, who bore the same coat of arms as Harry Lee, one of the captains of London, and the son of Robert, Lord Mayor of London in 1602. The coat of arms was granted December 20, 1593. He was educated in the schools of Charleston, S. C., and was graduated, M. D., from Charleston university of medicine. He became a physician and planter, and practiced in Carlowlville and the surrounding country from 1835 to 1872. He was a Democrat and an Episco-pallian. Married: January 10, 1832, in Charleston, to Rebecca Ballard, daughter of Thomas and Eliza (Maxwell) Fishburn, who lived at Walterboro and Charleston, S. C. Children: 1. Paul Cornelius, b. January 10, 1835, d. March 13, 1875, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., and from the University of Pennsylvania, M. D., 1858, served as surgeon in the C. S. Army, and later, as a physician at Montgomery, m. Bettie Scott Pollard; 2. Thomas Fishburn, b. April 8, 1837, d. June 22, 1865, at Mobile, attended the University of Alabama, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, M. D., 1860, physician at Tuscaloosa, m. Lucy J. Foster; 3. Harriet Eliza, Selma, m. Josiah Henry Smith, deceased; 4. William Julian, b. June 8, 1840, d. August 15, 1865, attended the University of Alabama, served as lieutenant, Third regiment, Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army; 5. Frances Eleanor, m. Andrew Pickens Calhoun, both deceased; 6. Sarah Mallet, Birmingham, m. Robert James Lide, deceased; 7. Florence Olivia, m. James Francis Calhoun, both deceased; 8. Mary Louisa, Selma; 9. Jacob Martin, m. Rosa Mary Jordan, both deceased; 10. Eliza Martin, m. William Asbury Bibb, Albany. Last residence: Carlowlville.

LEE, JESSE, Baptist minister, was born in 1803, in Alabama, and died October 9, 1872. He became a preacher in 1837, and removed to Caddo Parish, La., in 1847. He also served at Shreveport and Sumner Grove.

LEE, JOEL, pioneer settler and planter, was born January 4, 1773, at Smithfield, N. C., and died October 21, 1862. He came to Alabama in 1817, settling near Burnt Corn, Conecuh County. He was a planter and was the first justice of the peace in Alabama. He was a Baptist and a Democrat. Married: Media Lassiter. Children: 1. Owen; 2. Susan, m. (1) Mr. Williams, (2) Dr. John Miller, (3) Frank Farrow; 3. Martin, m. Nancy Partin; 4. Lee, m. Emily Witherington; 5. David (q. v.), m. Mary Coleman; 6. Eliza, m. Elazarus Carter; 7. Robert, m. Parthenia Autrey; 8. Mary Ann, m. Sebastian Witherington; 9. Hanson (q. v.), m. Mary Cates; 10. George Lassiter (q. v.), m. Nancy C. Henderson. Last residence: Conecuh County.

LEE, JOHN COOK, farmer and legislator, was born January 22, 1856, in Perry County; son of John and Harriet (Cook) Lee, the former of Anson County, N. C., the latter of LaGrange, Ga.; grandson of Solomon and Martha Lee. He was educated in the common schools, and at Howard college. He represented Perry County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) to Ludie Sears, of Eutaw; (2) October 24, 1894, in Montgomery, to Lynda, daughter of J. C. and Florence (Fowlkes) Tarrant, of Marion. The Fowlkes family was of English descent who settled in Virginia, two of whom, Joseph and John, were officers in the War of the Revolution. The mother of Mrs. Florence Fowlkes was Mary Bradley, of South Carolina. Children: by first wife, 1. John C., jr.; 2. Pettus; 3. Sears; by second wife, 4.

Edward Tarrant; 5. Bradley Fowlkes. Residence: Marion.

LEE, LAWRENCE H., lawyer, was born August 2, 1867, at Clayton; son of Alto V. and Lillie (Lawrence) Lee; brother of Fitzhugh Lee (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Clayton; graduated A.B., in 1887, and LL.B., in 1888, from the University of Alabama. He served as solicitor for Barbour County, 1889-90; alderman of Clayton, 1896-97; and representative from his county to the State legislature, 1898-99. In September, 1901, he removed to Gadsden and was city attorney, 1902-03. He was appointed reporter of the supreme court of Alabama, November 29, 1905, and still holds that position. Married: October 29, 1889, to Augusta, daughter of Judge Augustus H. Alston (q. v.). Children: 1. Lilly, m. Dexter Rood, of New Haven, Conn.; 2. Mildred, m. Capt. Charles Buckner, U. S. Army; 3. Theodosia; 4. Lawrence H., jr. Residence: Montgomery.

LEE, MARY (GRAVES) GRAVES, vice-president, for Alabama of the Confederate ladies memorial association of the South, was born October 15, 1835, in Abbeville District, S. C., and died in Montgomery September, 1916; daughter of Dr. Thomas and Harriet (Lomax) Graves, of Abbeville S. C.; niece of Col. Tennant Lomax (q. v.); granddaughter of Dr. George and Mary (Scott) Graves; great-granddaughter of Samuel Scott, a Revolutionary soldier of the South Carolina line. In 1856 she removed with her parents from South Carolina to Glenville. Some years previous to the War of Secession she removed with her husband to Lafayette County, Ark. During the war she and her husband opened both home and private hospital for the benefit, without charge, to sick and wounded Confederates. In 1868, their property swept away, they came to Montgomery to make their home, and opened a large private hotel. This business she carried on, after her husband's death until her own demise. She engaged actively in the patriotic labors of Montgomery women; was member of Sophie Bibb chapter, U. D. C.; vice-president, and later president of the Ladies memorial association of Montgomery, the oldest patriotic organization in America, concerning the War of Secession, and as president, caused the placing of the memorial tablet in the hall of representatives in the Capitol, Montgomery; was elected vice-president, for Alabama, of the Confederate States memorial association; assisted materially, in assembling the money to erect the Chickamauga monument, Chickamauga Park. She was active in caring for the inmates of the Soldiers home, Mountain Creek; vice-president for Alabama Confederate Southern memorial association. Married: in 1859, to Dr. J. C. Lee, of near Glenville. Last residence: Montgomery.

LEE, MOSES J., farmer, was born in 1830, in Greene County, Ga.; son of Charles S. and Elizabeth (Broughton) Lee, natives of Greene County, Ga., who moved to Alabama in 1835, and settled in Chambers County, moved after a few years to Bullock County, then to Coffee

County in 1850, and finally moved to Elba where they spent the remainder of their lives; grandson of William Lee, a native of Virginia, and a member of the distinguished Lee family of that state, who served in the Revolutionary War, and moved from Virginia to Greene County, Ga., and of John H. Broughton, a South Carolinian, who moved to Greene County, Ga., and served in the Revolution. Mr. Lee was reared on a farm, received a common school education, and attended LaGrange male college. When he was twenty years of age, he began life for himself as a clerk in Bullock County; later he was for a time in the collecting business; then became occupied in farming. He was also, at different times, engaged in the mercantile business. During the War of Secession, as his four brothers and three brothers-in-law were in the C. S. Army, Mr. Lee remained at home to take care of the family. Later he entered the State service, and became captain of a company which performed provost duty. Married: in 1862, at Union Springs, to Georgia A. Coleman, a native of Morgan County, Ga., who was educated at Union Springs, daughter of James M. and Patience Coleman, natives of Wilkes and Morgan Counties, respectively, who moved to Bullock County in 1844, and to Coffee County in 1860, the former a merchant and planter who died in 1868, the latter who died in 1892, in Gainesville, Ga. Children: 1. Charles S.; 2. Robert E.; 3. Moses J.; 4. Lillie, deceased; 5. William J.; 6. Mary; 7. John C., deceased; 8. Jack D.; 9. Edward Lamar; 10. Anna. Residence: near Elba, Coffee County.

LEE, NEEDHAM, farmer, was born December 10, 1808, in East Tennessee; son of Needham and Susan (Bailey) Lee (q. v.). He was raised upon a farm and had little opportunity for attending school. He came to Alabama with his parents in 1816, and eventually became a farmer in Shelby County. He was elected justice of the peace in 1839, and served in that position continuously until 1888. He was elected tax collector in 1847, and at different times refused the candidacy for the State legislature, for sheriff and for probate judge. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: (1) May 13, 1829, to Nancy Wharton, who was born August 10, 1809, in South Carolina, and died December 24, 1869, daughter of Stephen and Sarah (Griffin) Wharton, natives of South Carolina, who came to Alabama in the twenties, the former of whom was a son of a colonel in the Revolution; (2) February 2, 1871, to Martha (Stripling) Broadenax, daughter of Aaron and Susan Stripling. Children, by first marriage: 1. Edward Fields, served in Co. B, Second Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army; 2. Stephen Wharton, served in the C. S. Army; 3. Susan J.; 4. William Martin, entered the C. S. Army as second lieutenant, was promoted to captain of Co. C, Tenth Alabama regiment, was wounded in the seven days fight before Richmond, and died in a hospital shortly afterward; 5. James Lacy, served in the Second Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army; 6. Parthena; 7. Anna P.; 8. Hellen N.; 9. Martha

M.; 10. Josephine. Last residence: Shelby County.

LEE, NEEDHAM, Sr., pioneer, was born in Virginia, and died in 1820, at his home in Cahaba Valley, Shelby County; son of Thomas and Mary Lee, the former of whom is said to have been very closely related to Light Horse Harry Lee. Not much is known of his early life, but he probably lived for a time at Crab Orchard, Ky., then in Hawkins County, Tenn., and later at Bean Station, Knox County, Tenn. It is possible that he lived in Cumberland County, Tenn., also. He moved to Alabama in 1816, and settled in Cahaba Valley, Shelby County, which was at that time St. Clair County, Alabama territory, living there until his death. The second year after his arrival he was a candidate for the legislature and was defeated by a majority of one vote. He served as justice in the first court ever held in Shelby County, and held that office until his death. When he came to Alabama, his second son brought the family and party down the Tennessee River to Gunter's Landing, while Mr. Lee and his eldest son brought the horses and stock overland. The family walked from Gunter's Landing, one hundred miles to the place of settlement. At least three of his sons and forty-six of his grandsons served in the War of Secession, a record probably unequalled in the United States. Married: probably in Virginia, to Susan Bailey. Children: 1. Thomas, served in the War of 1812, married, children, Frederick, d. in War of Secession, Willis, captain in C. S. Army, and Bailey; 2. Col. William Carroll, served in the War of 1812, and in the Indian Wars, where he was promoted to colonel, married, children, William Carroll, jr., served in C. S. Army, John Shakelford, served in the C. S. Army, Martin, enlisted in the C. S. Army from Mississippi, James Ed and Rev. Polk Darcus, both of whom served in Co. A, Tenth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, Henry Gaines, Bryan Oldham and Robert Edward; 3. Winifred, m. James Bailey; children, James Irwin and Tom, both of the Twentieth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, William, Needham and John Sevier, the last two of whom enlisted in Co. K., Thirtieth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army; 4. Zilpha, m. Samuel Acton, children, Needham, member of the home guard during the War of Secession, John and Dr. Samuel, both of Co. K, Thirtieth Alabama regiment, the latter surgeon of the regiment, Gaines, served in the Twentieth Alabama and died on Dag Creek, Dr. William Madison, served in the Thirtieth Alabama and was shot down while leading a charge, Aaron Crawford, served with the Twentieth Alabama, and Thomas Monroe; 5. Ingram, married, children, James, served in Whistnant's Company, C. S. Army, Edward Givins, served in the Tenth Alabama infantry, and S. A.; 6. John W., married, children, Perry, served in Second Alabama cavalry and died at home before the war was over, Sidney, Thomas, Gregory and William C., the latter two of whom served in the Tenth Alabama infantry, and Needham; 7. Sallie, m. Edward Byrum, children, Alden, Marion, served with Co. K, Thirtieth Alabama, killed in 1864 in front of Atlanta, Ga., Mal, Co. K, Thirtieth Alabama infantry, Enarden, Silas, Co. K, Thirtieth Alabama, and William; 8. Elizabeth, m. Rev. William Acton, children, John Vincent, William H., and James Gaines, all of whom served in the C. S. Army; 9. Needham, jr. (q. v.); 10. Henry R., married, children, Mitchell and Capt. Melvin, members of Alabama regiments, C. S. Army, and William; 11. Edward, served in the C. S. Army with the Twentieth Alabama regiment, married, children, Warren, Co. B, Second Alabama regiment, Thomas, Co. C, Tenth Alabama, and James J. Polk; died about close of war; Perry, enlisted in Twentieth Alabama, d. of measles at Mobile, married, children, William and Shelley, members of Alabama regiments, C. S. Army, Needham, and A. Jackson; 13. Mary, m. Malden Roy, children, Bill, Marion, Lafayette, and Perry, the first three served in the C. S. Army; 14. Gaines, married, child, David Needham; 15. Susan, m. Wesley Hall Hollingsworth, children, John Perry, and Ed Columbus, both served in C. S. Army, the latter captured and held prisoner at Syracuse, N. Y.; 16. Martin; 17. James Franklin, served throughout the War of Secession. Last residence: Cahaba Valley, Shelby County.

LEE, ROBERT MONROE, farmer, was born August 19, 1846, at Louisville, Barbour County; son of Needham and Emiline (Lewis) Lee, the former a native of Jefferson County, Ga., who served in the Indian War of 1836; grandson of Needham and Lydia (Pryor) Lee, and of Elvy and Emeline (Benton) Lewis, of North Carolina. His Lee ancestors came from England to Virginia in the sixteenth century. He was educated in the common schools of Louisville; entered the C. S. Army, March 10, 1862, joining Co. A, Forty-fifth Alabama infantry regiment; participated in the battle of Murfreesboro, and in all subsequent battles of the Western Army until July 22, 1864, at which time he was captured; was carried to Camp Chase, Ohio, as a prisoner of war, and paroled March 2, 1865. After the war, he engaged in farming; represented Barbour County in the State legislature, 1907; is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason. Married: January 19, 1881, to Annie T., daughter of Dr. John A. and Sarah Elizabeth (Huey) Reynolds, of Louisville. Children: 1. Robert Davis, deceased; 2. George Greer; 3. Huey Reynolds. Residence: Clio.

LEE, SIDNEY W., business man; president of the Alabama grocery company. Residence: Birmingham.

LEE, WILLIAM D., lawyer, was born August 18, 1833, in Perry County; son of David and Haran (Holmes) Lee, natives of North Carolina, the former who came to Perry County in 1818, remained one year and returned to North Carolina to be married, brought his wife back with him to Alabama, and became one of the largest planters in the state; brother of Richard Henry Lee, a graduate of the University of Alabama, A. B. and A. M., a merchant at Mobile and a planter in Perry County, who was married in 1855 to Tabitha Jordan Curry, and died November 10, 1878. Mr. Lee was graduated from Howard college, 1852, and attended the law school of the University of Virginia for two years. He was admitted to the bar in Perry County, 1855, and was practicing law at Marion at the time of the outbreak of the War of Secession. He enlisted in the C. S. Army as a private in the Eighth Alabama cavalry, 1862, and served until the end of the war. He returned to Perry County, and engaged in planting on the old homestead until 1869, when he moved to a farm in Greensboro. He was appointed a member of the state board of inspectors of convicts by Gov. O'Neal, March 1, 1883, and was re-appointed at the end of two years for the succeeding four years. Married: in July, 1860, to Imogen, daughter of Matthew Hobson, a planter of Hale County. Residence: Greensboro.

LEE, WILLIAM ITHAMER, teacher, was born August 13, 1876, in Covington County; son of Samuel Asberry and Hulda (Deal) Lee of McKenzie, the former a Confederate soldier; grandson of Eli and Sarah (Piles) Lee, of Covington County, and of George W. and Tabitha Deal, of Butler County. The Lees came from England and settled in South Carolina, later moving to Georgia and from there to Alabama. Mr. Lee received his education in the public schools of Butler County; in Georgiana high school; and the State normal school, Troy. He began teaching in 1898; taught eleven years in the public schools of Butler, Covington and Geneva Counties, and for nine years as principal of the McKenzie public school; was mayor of McKenzie, 1912; and was elected to legislature from Butler County, 1918. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Woodman of the World. Married: October 21, 1903, at McKenzie, to Ethel Estelle, daughter of James R. and Mittie Harper of McKenzie; granddaughter of Robert Alexander and Susie (Purnell) Harper, and of John and Sarah (Sellers) McPherson. Children: 1. Mary Evelyn; 2. Hulda Madia. Residence: McKenzie.

LEE, WILLIAM LOVARD, lawyer, was born April 17, 1873, at Clayton, Barbour County; son of Alto Velo and Lillie (Lawrence) Lee (q. v.). He attended the public schools of Clayton, and the University of Alabama, graduating from the latter place in 1892. He read law in the office of Lee and Lee, Clayton, and began the practice of his profession at Columbia, in 1895. He served as city attorney, 1897-1899; mayor, 1899-1903; and a representative in the State legislature from Houston County, 1907. He is a Democrat, having served as a member of the executive committee of Henry County, 1896-1898, 1901-1903, as chairman of the same, 1898-1899, and as a member and secretary of the executive committee of Houston County, 1903-1906. He is a Methodist; a Knight of Pythias; and a Mason. Married: in 1896, to Ellen, daughter of Peter F. and Ellen (Cassady) Thomas, of Lawrenceville, the former a Confederate soldier. Children: 1.

William Lovard, jr.; 2. Wallace Thomas; 3. Eloise. Residence: Columbia.

LEEDY, WILLIAM BIBB, real estate and insurance man, was born December 25, 1846, at Aberdeen, Monroe County, Miss.; son of Lorenzo Dow and Sarah Ann (Bibbs) Leedy, who were married and lived in Huntsville, the former a native of Abingdon, Va., born February 22, 1816, who lived at that place until he was eighteen years of age, when he moved to Alabama and located at Huntsville, the latter a native of Madison County, born in 1818; grandson of James Leedy, a teacher and farmer, who lived at or near Abingdon, Va., and of William and Sarah (Garrett) Bibb, of Huntsville, the former a Virginian, born in 1783, in Goochland County, who died and was buried in Huntsville, 1883, the latter also a native of Virginia, born in 1785, in Amherst County, who died and was buried in Huntsville, 1839; great-grandson of James and Elizabeth (Bibb) Bibb, cousins, and William and Ann (George) Garrett, the former a native of Amherst County, Va., who moved to Nashville, and fought in the Revolutionary War, first enlisting as a private, then entering the artillery service. Mr. Leedy was reared and educated at Aberdeen, Miss., until, on account of the death of his mother in 1851, and of his father in 1862, he went to live with his mother's people at Huntsville. At that time Huntsville was occupied by Federal troops, and Mr. Leedy, with several of his boy friends and schoolmates accepted a position as clerk under a quartermaster in the U. S. army, on condition that he should not be required to take the oath of allegiance. When the troops were withdrawn previous to Hood's advance in Tennessee, in November, 1864, Mr. Leedy took part in the immediate organization of a cavalry company for the C. S. Army. His company was mustered in as Co. I, Fourth Alabama cavalry, Russell's regiment, Forrest's command, and he became second sergeant of the company. In the first fight in which he took part, on Hood's retreat to the Tennessee River, he and a number of his comrades were captured and imprisoned at Nashville. When the fact that he had held a clerical position under the Federal quartermaster at Huntsville was discovered, he and eighteen others, similarly situated, were charged as spies and tried before a "drum head" court martial. They were offered the choice of taking the oath of allegiance and going north until after the surrender, or of being convicted and sentenced to death. Before the sentence could be carried into effect, Gen. Forrest sent an officer to Nashville under the flag of truce with the warning that he should hang a Federal officer for every one of the nineteen that were executed. Proceedings were stayed until the matter was brought before President Lincoln, who gave orders which resulted in the exchange of the nineteen for Federal prisoners in Libby prison. Sergt. Leedy obtained his freedom at Richmond, March, 1865, and was on a sixty day furlough at the time of Lee's surrender. He gave himself up at Meridian, Miss.; was paroled, and given transportation to Huntsville. He became a pharmacist at Memphis, Tenn., 1866-1870, attending a college of pharmacy at Philadelphia, Pa., 1868-1869. He entered the banking business at Huntsville in 1870; became a partner of W. R. Risen and company, bankers, 1876-1887; moved to Birmingham in 1887, and became a dealer in real estate and insurance. He is a member of W. J. Hardee camp, United Confederate Veterans; and has been a colonel on the staff of Gen. George P. Harrison, and of George B. Gordon, S. D. Lee, Clement Evans Gordon, and Bennett H. Young. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and an Elk. Married: September 18, 1873, at Memphis, Tenn., to Kate Stratton, who died June 9, 1914; daughter of John Thomas and Emma (Ferguson) Stratton, of Memphis, natives, respectively, of Franklin, Ky., and Brownsville, Tenn.; granddaughter of Henry and Margaret (Rayburn) Stratton, Virginians, who moved from their native state to Franklin, Ky., then to Holly Springs, Miss., and finally to Memphis, Tenn., and of James Butler and Eliza (Gibbs) Ferguson, natives, respectively, of Belfast, Ireland, and Wilmington, N. C. Children: 1. John Stratton, unmarried; 2. William Bibb, jr., m. Mabel Roy, Birmingham, child, Katherine Leedy; 3. Emma Stratton, m. I. F. Young, Birmingham, child, Kate Leedy. Residence: Birmingham.

LEEPER, JAMES THEOPHILUS, judge, was born September 23, 1832, at Moulton, Lawrence County; son of Samuel and Elanora (Stone) Leeper, the former born in Georgia in 1800, was taken to Tennessee in 1809, and came to Alabama in 1821, settling in Lawrence County, was merchant in early life, later studying law, and twice representing Shelby County in the legislature, and died in 1871. In the extreme youth of James T. Leeper, his parents moved to Talladega County, where he received a common school education. In 1848, young Leeper moved to Shelby County, but in 1850, returned to Talladega to be employed as clerk in the probate office, a position he held for a year and a half. Coming again to Shelby, he was employed in the same capacity. In 1854, he was admitted to the bar. In 1855, he assisted M. H. Cruickshank, register in chancery for Talladega, with the duties of his office. The next year he was himself appointed register for Shelby County by Chancellor James B. Clark, of Eutaw. In connection with his duties as register, he entered upon the practice of law, in co-partnership with his father. He was elected a member of what is known as the "Parson's Convention" of 1865. In 1865, he was appointed solicitor for his circuit by Gov. Parsons; in 1866, formed a partnership with Mr. Lewis; two years later, was appointed register in chancery for the district of three counties, Jefferson, St. Clair and Shelby, by Chancellor Woods, afterward associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. The year following, 1869, he was appointed judge of probate for Shelby County by Gov. W. H. Smith. He held that and other important offices continuously for the greater part of fifty years. He was a prohibitionist; a Presbyterian; a Mason; and Odd Fellow. Married: November 1, 1857, to Antoinette M. Bandy. Children: 1. Samuel B.; 2. James T., attorney at Columbiana; 3. Olive, m. Frank Nelson of Birmingham; 4. Charles Stone, banker of Birmingham; 5. Lucile, m. Andrew Grizzard Patterson, of Falkville. Last residence: Shelby County.

DR. JOHN H. PHILLIPS

LEFTWICH, JABEZ, representative in congress, born 1762, was a native of Bedford County, Va.; educated in the common schools; colonel of a regiment in the War of 1812; and a representative in congress from that State, 1821-25. He removed to Madison County, about 1827, and represented that county in the general assembly, 1835 and 1836. He died in 1855 and left numerous descendants in the State. Last residence: Madison County.

LEGRAND, MILTON PAUL, physician, business man, was born November 10, 1832, at Wadesboro, N. C., and died September 22, 1893, in Montgomery; son of William C. and Jane (Paul) LeGrand, natives of North Carolina, of Huguenot and English ancestry, respectively, who came to Alabama in 1837, and settled at Tuskegee where they spent the remainder of their lives, the former dying in 1839, and the latter in 1842. He received his early education at Tuskegee, and as a preliminary step toward preparing himself for the medical profession, entered a drug store at Marion. At the end of four years, he returned to Tuskegee and opened a drug store on his own account. He conducted that store for about three years, then opened a similar business in Montgomery on a much larger scale. His failing health caused him to give up the drug business, and after a rest of a year or two, he entered the grocery and dry goods business, and built up the largest trade in that line that Montgomery had ever possessed. He continued in that business until 1882. He was one of the organizers of the Montgomery and Florida railroad company, and was elected its president in 1881. In June, 1886, finding other business affairs too pressing, he declined re-election to the presidency, and was made vice president of the company. On the organization of the Commercial fire insurance company in 1876, Mr. LeGrand was made president. In 1889, he organized the Bank of Montgomery, which he conducted until his death. He had served for two years in the C. S. Army, having retired from active service because of his physical condition. Married: in February, 1854, at Tuscaloosa, Louisa Jones, who died August 21, 1891, daughter of Dr. Erastus W. Jones, of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Milton Paul, b. March 25, 1861, at Tuscaloosa, d. in August, 1913, at his summer home on Perdido Bay, was graduated from Vanderbilt university, B. S., 1883, and from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1894, began the practice of law with Horace Stringfellow in the firm of Stringfellow and LeGrand, became president of the Bank of Montgomery on the death of his father, and held that position until 1900, when that bank and the Merchants and planters bank were consolidated, became vice-president of the resulting Merchants and planters bank, was on Gov. Jones' staff for four years, and on Gov. Seay's staff four years, occupying the position of judge advocate general of state troops, m. April 27, 1893, to Mary Virginia Goldthwaite, daughter of Robert W. and Annie (Paul) Goldthwaite (q. v.), of Montgomery; 2. William Homer, planter, b. June 15, 1871, attended the University of Alabama, m. Kate Elsberry, Montgomery; 3. Eloise, d. in 1900, m. J. Craig Smith (q. v.), formerly state treasurer. Last residence: Montgomery.

LEGRANDE, JOHN C., president of the medical association of Alabama, 1900.

LEIGH, JOHN DAVID, lawyer, circuit judge, was born June 25, 1872, at Pollard, Escambia County; son of Norvelle Robertson and Catherine (Burnett) Leigh (q. v.). He was educated at Brewton collegiate institute, and was graduated from the law school of the University of Alabama, 1894. He entered the practice of law at Brewton, July 21, 1894; has acted as solicitor for fourteen years; and is now judge of the twenty-first judicial circuit composed of the counties of Monroe, Conecuh, Escambia and Baldwin. He has been county chairman of the Democratic executive committee for twenty-seven years; is a trustee and steward in the Methodist Episcopal church, South; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: February 26, 1908, at Brewton, to Mabel, daughter of William and Florence Crook, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Catherine Burnett, b. 1909. Residence: Brewton.

LEIGH, NORVELLE ROBERTSON, lawyer, circuit judge, was born May 31, 1836, at Brooklyn, Conecuh County; son of John David and Nancy (Robertson) Leigh, who lived at Williamsburg, Covington County, Miss., the former a native of Virginia, who moved with his father to Savannah, Ga., when a boy, and moved to Brooklyn, Conecuh County, in 1820, became a farmer and merchant, and died December 28, 1848; grandson of Norvelle Robertson a native of Georgia, of Scotch descent, a Baptist minister, who lived in Mississippi and preached the gospel for seventy-two years, and died in 1857, at the age of ninety-four years. On his father's side, his ancestors were Scotch-Irish immigrants who settled in Virginia in colonial days. He was educated in the common schools of Conecuh County, and when he was fifteen years of age became a clerk in the mercantile house of Charles Williford, at Quitman, Miss., remaining with that concern until 1855. During the latter year, he went to Milton, Fla., and became a clerk in a store owned by his brother. In 1857, he purchased his brother's stock and followed the general mercantile business until the beginning of the War of Secession. He entered the C. S. Army as second lieutenant of a company of mounted rangers, and on the reorganization of the company eight months later, was chosen captain of Co. E, Fifteenth regiment of cavalry, and commanded that company until the close of the war. For some time after the war, he engaged in farming in Conecuh County, but in 1867, entered the mercantile and timber business at Pollard, Escambia County, and continued in that business until 1879. He was elected probate judge of Escambia County in 1880, and was subsequently re-elected until he had held the position for twenty-four successive years. He is a Democrat, a Baptist and a Mason. Married: March 31, 1864, at Belleville, Conecuh County, to Catherine, daughter of John H. and Margaret (Donald) Burnett, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Maggie, m. David M. Hand, Birmingham; 2. Katie, m. E. S. McMillan, merchant, Brewton; 3. Norvelle Robertson, jr., b. July 23, 1870, was graduated from the University of Alabama, LL.B., lawyer at Brewton, member of the constitutional convention of 1901; 4. John David, (q. v.). Residence: Brewton.

LEIGH, WILLIAM, Baptist minister, was born October 4, 1790, in Amelia County, Va., and died July 31, 1873, at Florence. He presided as moderator over the Sandy Creek Baptist church, Amelia County, Va., in his seventeenth year; was licensed to preach, August 5, 1810; and was ordained to the gospel ministry by a presbytery, June 16, 1821. He was a minister for sixty-three years and an ordained minister for fifty-two years. At the meeting of the Muscle shoals association in 1823, Elder Leigh, who had recently moved to Alabama, proposed that the association advise the churches to take into consideration the subject of missions within the bounds of the association. His proposition was rejected by the churches, though the association that year appointed four missionaries. He continued his efforts to infuse a missionary spirit among the Baptists of northern Alabama, and through his influence a missionary society was organized in Carmel church of which he was a member, June, 1824. The society met with much opposition, even up to 1846, when the association by its action became a missionary body. He advocated and secured the organization of a missionary society which met at the same time and place of the association. He was clerk of the association in 1839; moved to Kentucky in 1849, and remained there four years; returned to Alabama in 1854, and resided in Moulton until 1856; moved to Florence and lived there until his death. He was the Whig candidate for the State legislature from Franklin County in 1840, but was defeated. He had no charge of churches previous to his death, but preached occasionally. He was buried with Masonic honors at the graveyard near Leighton, which place takes its name from him. He was grand master of the grand lodge of Masons of Alabama in 1834, and was author of a work on Masonry entitled "The Ladies' Masonry or Hieroglyphic Monitor, containing all the emblems explained in the degrees of the Holy Virgin and Heroine of Jerico duly arranged," published in 1851. He was twice married, but the names of his wives are unavailable. He had several children by his first wife. One daughter was married to Elder Richard B. Burleson, and died in Moulton; and another married Mr. Ligon, son of Chancellor D. G. Ligon. Last residence: Florence.

LEITH, MARTIN LUTHER, lawyer, was born February 19, 1868, near Corona, Walker County; son of Michael Porter and Sissaline (Chilton) Leith, the former a native of Centerville, who lived at Carbon Hill, and was a Confederate soldier; grandson of George and Elizabeth (Branner) Leith, and of Richard and Sallie (Key) Chilton, all of whom came from Rockingham County, Va., to Jefferson County, Tenn., and later moved to Alabama, settling in Bibb County; great-grandson of Ebenezer Leith, a Baptist preacher, who came from Scotland. Mr. Leith was educated in the common schools of Walker County; worked on a farm until he was nineteen years of age, after which he spent six years working in coal mines; studied law under Thomas L. Sowell; was admitted to the bar in December, 1897, in Walker County; has continuously practiced law in that county; was elected to the State senate from the twelfth district in 1907-1911; and re-elected in 1919. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Woodman of the World. Married: October 18, 1891, in Walker County, to Clelia, daughter of John K. and Mary (Johnson) Guthrie, of Townley, Walker County, the former a planter, and sheriff of Walker County during the War of Secession; granddaughter of Robert Guthrie, a Baptist preacher, and a merchant. Children: 1. Carlos, deceased; 2. Vera, m. David Erskine Moore; 3. Quinnie, m. Ralph Root; 4. Willie, m. Leo Edwards. Residence: Jasper.

LENNARD, JOHN BORUM, planter, was born January 1, 1807, on his father's plantation located on Kettle Creek, near Washington, Ga., and died December 6, 1870, at Woodland, Freestone County, Tex.; son of John Borum and Mary (Wood) Lennard, natives of Virginia, who after their marriage removed to Wilkes County, Ga.; grandson of Thomas and Nettie (Borum) Lennard, of Virginia, and of Capt. and Katherine (Price) Wood, natives of Virginia, the former was either a captain or colonel in the Revolutionary War, and was killed in battle, his widow, Katherine Price Wood, married again, and removed to Georgia, where she was celebrated during the war period for several acts of bravery, carrying important dispatches and molding bullets for Washington's army. The Lennards are descended from French Huguenots who migrated to Virginia. The maternal lines are Scotch-Irish. John Borum Lennard received his education at Washington, Ga., and after his father's death, which occurred when he was fourteen years of age, he entered the mercantile business. Upon suffering severe losses by fire, he engaged in agriculture and left a valuable landed estate to his heirs. In 1847, he removed from Washington, Ga., to Nixburg, Coosa County, but after the War of Secession located in Texas. He was a major of cavalry in the Florida Indian Wars, 1833, his regiment being commanded by Col. Robert Toombs of Georgia. In 1861 he was a member of the Alabama Secession convention; a Whig in politics and opposed to the State's withdrawal from the Union, but finally yielded and voted with the majority for the inevitable. He was a Methodist; and Mason. Married: (1) December 2, 1829 to Sarah Frances, daughter of Joseph and Mrs. Anne (Grinnage) Beard Marshall, of Columbia County, Ga.; granddaughter of Levi Marshall; great-granddaughter of Daniel Marshall, a pioneer Baptist minister and closely related to Chief Justice John Marshall, niece of Dr. Nathan Crawford, who was grandfather of Senator Charles Culberson of Texas, and also related to Gov. Crawford, W. H. Crawford, and Nathan Crawford Barrett, notable characters in Georgia's political history; (2) April 14, 1835, to Jane Daniel, also of Georgia; (3) to Eliza Townsend of Alabama. Children: by the first marriage, 1. Joseph Marshall, graduate Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, surgeon in the Confederate Army, Nixburg; 2. John Borum, III, planter, Lieutenant, C. S. Army, m. L. A. Smith, daughter of Alexander Smith of Coosa County, a member Alabama legislature before the War of Secession, resided at Alexander City; by the second marriage, 3. Mary Ann, m. Alexander Kendrick; 4. William Daniel, died of fever in Virginia as a Confederate soldier; 5. Eliza J., m. A. M. Kendrick; 6. Thomas C., killed at the battle of South Mountain, fighting with the Confederates; 7. Sarah, m. John A. Smith; by the third marriage, 8. Kate E., m. M. H. Harris, Freestone County, Texas; 9. Alice L., m. W. P. Oden, Sylacauga; 10. Ellen, m. A. J. Oden, Sylacauga. Last residence: Woodland, Texas.

LENTZ, HENRY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant N. C. Militia; enrolled on June 14, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $59.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $148.32.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

LESESNE, JOSEPH WHITE, lawyer, chancellor, was born in 1811, in Georgetown, S. C., and was drowned by the upsetting of a sailboat in Mobile Bay, October 15, 1856, while crossing from his residence at Point Clear; son of John Lesesne; grandson of Daniel and Mary (Simons) Lesesne. His family was of Huguenot extraction, being descended on the paternal side from Isaac Lesesne, the founder of the family in South Carolina, who emigrated to America in 1679, and on the maternal side from Benjamin Simons, a Huguenot, who was a member of the assembly in 1761. The Simons family is prominent and widely connected in South Carolina. His great-grandmother was Mary Esther DuPré, whose family were Huguenots of noble extraction. One of his Lesesne ancestors was a captain under Gen. Francis Marion in the Revolution. He received his education chiefly in and around New Haven, Conn., and attended Yale college when he was seventeen years old. He left Yale with Andrew P. Calhoun and others who refused to inform upon a fellow student, and entered the South Carolina college, at Columbia, where he was graduated with first honors, 1832. He then engaged in politics; wrote for the "Columbia Telescope," a Nullification paper; and became co-editor of that paper. He went to Yorkville, S. C., in December, 1834, and read and practiced law for one year, then moved to Mobile where he spent the remainder of his life. He was associated in the practice of law in Mobile with John Forsyth and William D. Dunn, and soon took high rank at the bar. He was appointed by Gov. Fitzpatrick as commissioner to make the annual examination into the affairs and condition of the Branch bank of Alabama, at Mobile; and on the death of Chancellor Crenshaw, in 1847, was appointed chancellor of the southern division by Gov. Martin. The legislature elected him to that position for a term of six years, over Hon. Francis Bugbee, of Montgomery, and he filled the office during that time. During the heated controversies of 1855-1856, he assisted in the political guidance of the "Register," and acquired considerable reputation as a political writer. He was a Democrat of the Calhoun school. Married: December, 1834, to Miss Cooper, a daughter of President Thomas Cooper, of South Carolina college. His eldest son was drowned with him, but another son, a member of the capsized party, was rescued. Henry Deas Lesesne, who was connected with the Alabama steel works, at Mobile, in 1900, is a grandson. Last residence: Mobile.

LESLIE, WILLIAM PERRY, lawyer, was born in 1819, in Monroe County, and died October 10, 1867, at Pascagoula, Miss. He was a brother of Judge John W. Leslie, who was born May 11, 1814, in Pendleton District, S. C., and died September 10, 1897, in Monroeville, who was judge of probate of Monroe County, and occupied other prominent positions in the public affairs of the county. His father was a planter. He was reared on a farm until he was eighteen years of age, then became clerk in a store for two years. He moved to Claiborne and read law in the office of A. B. Cooper for about two years, and was admitted to the bar in 1840 or 1841. He practiced law in Sparta in partnership with W. B. H. Howard for several years, then returned to Claiborne in the spring of 1843, and formed a partnership with Mr. Cooper which lasted until 1850, when Mr. Cooper moved to Wilcox County. At that time he formed a partnership with Judge R. C. Torrey, and remained in that association until 1861. In 1861, he was elected to the State senate from the district composed of Monroe, Covington and Conecuh Counties. He was a Union man and opposed to secession, but after war was actually in force, he raised a company of artillery, principally from Monroe County, in the fall of 1861, and volunteered as a private. He was assigned to a second lieutenantancy, and remained in service until some time in 1863, when he was relieved because of ill-health. At the close of the war, he sold his property in Monroe County and in 1866 moved to East Pascagoula, Miss., and erected on the bay a large steam saw and planing mill. He was also founder of several industrial establishments at Claiborne. On a visit to Mobile on business in October, 1867, he contracted the yellow fever and soon after died. Married: in April, 1847, to Miss Agee, daughter of W. A. Agee of Monroe County, and sister of Hon. N. A. Agee. He had six children. Last residence: Pascagoula, Miss.

LESTER, JOHN HENRY, business man, was born July 9, 1873, near Attalla; son of James H.

and Elizabeth G. (Cox) Lester, the former a physician in and around Crudup, the latter who was born near Attalla; grandson of James Madison and Elizabeth (Goodwin) Lester, who moved to Rome, Ga., and from there to Columbus, Ga., and of Thomas and Mary Anne (Boyd) Cox, the former of whom was born in East Tennessee and came to Alabama when about six years old, the latter a native of Talladega County; great-grandson of Edward Cox, who served with distinction in the Revolutionary War. He received a common school education and at the age of seventeen entered the Bank of Attalla as collection clerk. He was promoted to bookkeeper, teller, and in 1895 to cashier, and is also one of the stockholders and directors in the bank. He is a stockholder and director in the wholesale firm of B. B. S. grocery company at Attalla; and, in partnership with T. C. Banks, owns the Attalla manufacturing company. He served as city treasurer, 1895-1903; is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: April 17, 1901, to Jack J. Jolly, of Birmingham, daughter of Col. Jack Jolly, a lawyer of Birmingham, who was a colonel in the C. S. Army during the War of Secession. Children: 1. Jewell H. Residence: Attalla.

LETCHER, JOHN TALBERT, lawyer and city commissioner of Montgomery, was born December 2, 1881, at Shorter, Macon County, and died May 7, 1916, in Montgomery; son of Dr. Francis Marion and Claudia Caroline (Howard) Letcher, the former a native of Fish Pond, Coosa County, who lived later at Central Institute, Elmore County, in New Orleans, La. and Montgomery, the former a surgeon in C. S. Army; grandson of John David and Ann Matilda (Bozeman) Letcher of Elmore County, and William John and Ann Flewellen (Billingslea) Howard of Shorter; great-grandson of Giles and Agnes (Talbert) Letcher, the former a native of Edgfield District, S. C., who located in Alabama in early boyhood, and of James and Elizabeth (Slatter) Billingslea of Jones County, Ga.; great-great-grandson of Joseph Letcher, of John and Louisa (Stoner) Howard, and of James and Mary (Smith) Billingslea of Wilkes County, Ga.; great-great-great-grandson of Rhesa and Hanna (Few) Howard, the latter a relative of William Few, signer of the Constitution from Georgia, of Peter and Mary (Miner) Stoner of Virginia, and of Solomon and Nancy (Flewellen) Slatter; great-great-great-great-grandson of Joel and Frances (Bastin) Slatter of North Carolina, and great-great-great-great-great-grandson of William Flewellen and wife who was a Miss Branch. He received his elementary education in the public schools of Shorter and Cross Keys; was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1901, M. S., 1902. He was master of Sewanee grammar school, 1902-03. In 1903 he was admitted to the bar, and at once began the practice in Montgomery. He was elected alderman of Montgomery in October, 1909, and served until April, 1911; was appointed in May of that year city commissioner. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; a Red Man; Knight of Pythias; Mason; and member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Married: September 7, 1911, at Gadsden, to Lillian, daughter of William Thomas and Mattie Elizabeth (Hamrick) McCord of that place. Children: 1. Talbert, daughter. Last residence: Montgomery.

LETCHER, MARION, U. S. consular official, a native and for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in Macon County, September 5, 1872; son of Dr. Francis Marion and Claudia Caroline (Howard) Letcher, and a brother of John Talbert Letcher (q. v.). He graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1894; taught at Hamner Hall, 1895-97; was principal Seale high school, 1897-98; 1st lieutenant Co., A., Fifth U. S. infantry regiment (Immuned), Spanish-American war, 1898; president Douglassville college, Ga., 1900-01; employed in U. S. Bureau of education, Washington, 1903-09; consul at Acapulco, Mex., 1909-11, Chihuahua, 1911-16; acting foreign trade adviser, department of state, Washington, since June 10, 1916; appointed consul general, April 16, 1917; rendered valuable aid to Gen. Pershing during the punitive expeditions of 1916-17. He is a member of the Sigma Nu college fraternity; a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: November 7, 1901, to Marilu Ingram, of Coweta County, Ga. Residence: Chevy Chase, Md.

LETSON, JESSE WALTER, teacher, was born March 25, 1873, at Adger, Jefferson County; son of Andrew Jackson and Mattie Frances (Jones) Letson, the former a native of Griffin, Spalding County, Ga., who lived in Jefferson County; grandson of Dr. W. T. and Susan Letson, of Old Jonesboro, the former of German descent, and of Nathan and Winnie Jones, of McCalla. He received his early schooling at McCalla; attended Howard college, 1896-1897; and summer sessions at the State university, at Knoxville, Tenn., and Valparaiso, Ind.; finally graduating, B. S., in 1911. He began the work of a public school teacher in a rural school in Fayette County, 1891; and has taught in Fayette, Shelby, Jefferson, and Walker Counties. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and an Odd Fellow. Married: June 30, 1897, at Siluria, to Emma Eugenia, daughter of William Caples and Sarah Emma Benton, of that place. Children: 1. Neilmore Hobson; 2. Eunice Thelma; 3. Elsie May; 4. Vivian Dora; 5. Jesse Walter, jr. Residence: Jasper.

LETSON, WILLIAM PALESTINE, teacher, was born December 4, 1870, at Falls City, Winston County; son of William Henry and Susan Emiline (Steward) Letson, the former who was born in Fredonia, Chambers County, lived at Mountain Home, Sparta, South Lowell, and Glen Allen; grandson of George John and Nancy (Martin) Letson, of Fredonia, the former a Georgian, who came to Alabama about 1840, and lived in Chambers and Lawrence Counties, who served in the C. S. Army with Gen. Lee in all of his campaigns from the first of the War of Secession until the surrender at Appomattox, and of Manly Palestine and Susan Steward, of Jasper. The Letson family came from Holland to South Carolina, and the great-grandfather Letson served in the Revolution. Mr. Letson was educated in the common schools and the Glen Allen school. He began to teach at Poplar Springs, in 1888, and since that time has been teaching in Marion and Fayette Counties. He served as county superintendent of education, 1898-1900; and represented Marion County in the State legislature, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: March 29, 1903, at Stricklin, Marion County, to Martha Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Andrew Jackson and Nancy Jane McWhirter, of that place, the former of Irish descent; great-granddaughter of Archibald Whitehead, who was with Gen. Jackson in the Creek War, 1813. Children: 1. Lorenz Hearsh; 2. Lothair Everett; 3. Burwell Braxton; 4. Kermit. Residence: Glen Allen.

LEVERT, ENGENE V., grand master, grand council, Masons, 1866-67.

LEVERT, OCTAVIA (WALTON) author, was born in 1810, at "Bellevue," near Augusta, Ga., and died March 13, 1877, at that place; daughter of George and Sally Minge (Walker) Walton, the former a native of Georgia, who removed to Pensacola, Fla., was territorial secretary under Gen. Andrew Jackson, at one time acting governor, removed to Alabama and was mayor of Mobile, 1837-39; granddaughter of George and Dorothy (Camber) Walton, the former a native of Prince Edward County, Va., was apprenticed to learn the trade of carpenter, studying at night, removed to Georgia at end of apprenticeship in 1769, studied law, admitted to the bar in 1774, practiced in Augusta, secretary of the provincial congress in 1774, member of committee of safety, member council of safety, served several terms in State legislature, delegate to continental congress, 1776-81, signer of Declaration of Independence, soldier in Revolutionary War, captured at Savannah, governor of Georgia, 1779-81, chief justice of Georgia, 1773-86, elected a delegate to the federal constitution convention in 1787, but declined, governor in 1789, chief justice in 1793, appointed to the United States senate to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of James Jackson, serving from November 16, 1795, to February, 1796, commissioner to treat with the Indians at Easton, Pa., and to negotiate a treaty with the Cherokees in Tennessee, and judge of the middle circuit of Georgia, whose silver garter buckles are preserved in the Alabama State department of archives and history, his wife the daughter of Mr. Camber, an Englishman of Georgia who returned to England at the outbreak of the Revolutionary War; and of George and Eliza (Talbot) Walker; great-granddaughter of John and Mary (Moseley) Talbot, the former a native of Amelia County, Va., member of the house of burgesses, one of the signers of the Williamsburg declaration of independence, June 4, 1774, removed to Georgia in 1783, served several times as member of the state legislature, died in Wilkes County, Ga., brother of Gov. Matthew Talbot, of Georgia; great-granddaughter of Matthew and Annie (Williston) Talbot, the former a native of Ireland, whose people by lineage were from Castle Talbot, Ireland, and descendants of the Earl of Shrewsbury, who emigrated to America, located in Maryland, later removing to Virginia, and residing at different times in Amelia, Prince George, Lunenburg, Charlotte and Bedford Counties, Va., and of Col. William Moseley, of Princess Anne County, Va. Madame LeVert received her education from her grandmother, mother, and an old Scotch tutor. At the age of twelve she spoke fluently French, Italian and Spanish and conversed in French with Lafayette upon his visit to Pensacola. She also christened the new capital of Florida "Tallahassee." She spent 1833-34 in a tour of the United States and everywhere was received with enthusiasm. In 1835 she moved to Mobile with her parents and spent the years 1853-54, and 1855 in Europe. Up to that time she was the only American who obtained access to the better circles of European society and in 1855 she was an officially accredited representative from Alabama to the Paris exposition. She met such interesting people as the Brownings, Napoleon III, Empress Eugenie, Pope Pius IX, Harriet Hosmer, Crawford Ives, Lamartine and others; in America she numbered among her personal friends such distinguished citizens as Washington Irving, Edwin Booth, Henry W. Longfellow, Henry Clay, Millard Fillmore, N. P. Willis, Jefferson Davis, Daniel Webster, Alexander H. Stephens, Robert Toombs and John C. Calhoun. She was one of the originators of the plan of the American women to preserve Mount Vernon and was for years vice-regent for Alabama of the Mount Vernon association. Although opposed to secession she remained in Mobile throughout that period and did all in her power to alleviate the sufferings of Southern soldiers. In 1865 she and her daughters made a last visit to New York and Washington. She appeared for a time in 1874 as a public reader and later returned to her old home near Augusta, Ga. Author: "Souvenirs of travel," 1857. Married: in 1836, in Mobile, to Dr. Henry Strachey LeVert, son of Dr. Claude LeVert, fleet surgeon to Rochambeau, and wife, a Miss Metcalf, of Virginia, niece of Admiral Edward Vernon, under whom Lawrence Washington served at the battle of Carthage and in whose honor he later named his home, "Mount Vernon." Children: 1. Octavia, d. unmarried; 2. Annette, m. Regyle Reab, of Augusta, Ga. A son and daughter died in infancy. Last residence: "Bellevue," near Augusta, Ga.

LEVY, EDWARD S., rabbi, a resident of Alabama for some years, was born February 6, 1851, at Philadelphia, Pa., and died February 26, 1914, at Fort Smith, Ark. He received his early education in the public schools and later attended the Hebrew educational school of Philadelphia, where he completed his classical education and a theological course. He became a teacher in the Hebrew orphan asylum in New York city, at the same time continuing the study of theology in preparation for the rabbinate. In 1877 he received his first call, it being to the congregation of Augusta, Ga.; and removed to Selma in 1887. After serving in Selma for twenty years removed to Fort Smith, Ark., and remained there until his death. He was the author of many articles published in different periodicals. Married: (1) at Augusta, Ga., to Frances, daughter of Moses and Elise (Schwartz) Goldsmith, of that place; (2) in 1907, at the home of her sister in Selma, to Fanny, daughter of Simon and Elise Cohen of Montgomery. No children. Last residence: Fort Smith, Ark.

LEWIS, AARON, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Clarke County; private S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on April 20, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $53.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $160.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Vol. xiv, Sen. Doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Pike County, June 1, 1840, aged 80.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

LEWIS, AXIOM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, resided in Clarke County, June 1, 1840, with William R. Hamilton.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

LEWIS, B. E., primitive Baptist preacher, was born January 12, 1830, in Montgomery County, and died September 27, 1900, in Montgomery County. He served in the War of Secession in the C. S. Army, and joined the Primitive Baptist church in the fall of 1866, at Bethlehem church, Montgomery County. A few years later he was chosen deacon and was set apart to that office by Elder B. A. Waker and O. H. P. Cook. After serving the Bethlehem church for several years, he joined the Bethel church in Montgomery County, and served there as clerk and deacon until his death. Married: December 20, 1854, to Elizabeth J. Talley. Two sons and two daughters died in infancy and two of his daughters are living. Last residence: Montgomery County.

LEWIS BENJAMIN H., lawyer, was born February 4, 1885, nine miles east of Troy; son of Benjamin H. and Sarah (Hutchison) Lewis, the former who was born at Woodville, Pike County, resided at Henderson in the same county, where he died September 15, 1882, and the grandson of John and Sarah Lewis, who lived at Monticello, and of William and Barbary Hutchison, also of Monticello. Benjamin H. Lewis, jr., was educated in the old field schools of Pike County and in R. W. Pruet's Academy, at Troy. He read law under Hon. W. D. Roberts, at Elba; was admitted to the bar, May 12, 1882; practiced in Elba until February, 1883, when he moved to Andalusia, where he has ever since resided in the practice of his profession; and was judge of the city court of Andalusia, 1907-1911. He is a Democrat; has served several times as chairman of the county executive committee, and often as a delegate to state conventions. He is a member of the Woodmen of the World. Married: Ella E., daughter of Dr. S. I. S. and Lizzie (Pynes) Cawthon, of Andalusia. Residence: Andalusia.

LEWIS, BURWELL BOYKIN, lawyer, representative in congress, president University of Alabama, was born July 7, 1838, at Montgomery, and died October 11, 1885, at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa; son of Paul Hamilton and Elizabeth (Shortridge) Lewis (q. v.). He was left an orphan when quite young, and made his home with his uncle, Judge George Shortridge, at Montevallo. He was prepared for college in a private school, in Montevallo, taught by a Mr. Lewis; and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1857, before completing his nineteenth year. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by his alma mater in 1880. He studied law with Judge John Haralson in Selma, and commenced the practice of law in Shelby County with Col. John S. Storrs, of Montevallo. On the outbreak of the War of Secession, he helped organize a company of cavalry for the C. S. Army and was offered the captaincy of the company but refused the position. He became second lieutenant, and was soon promoted to first lieutenant. The company was mustered in with the Second Alabama regiment of cavalry as Co. B, and served during the war in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia, and the Carolinas. Lieut. Lewis was, during the greater part of his service, in command of his company, and, often, of the battalion. At the end of the war, he resumed the practice of law at Shelby. After the death of Col. Storrs, he became at different times, the law partner of Judge J. T. Leiper of Columbiana, and of Gov. Rufus Cobb. He was elected to the State legislature from Shelby County in 1870, and was returned in 1871. He moved to Tuscaloosa in 1872, and formed a partnership with Col. A. C. Hargrove, which continued until he retired from the profession. He was elected to the U. S. congress in 1874 as a representative of the state at large, and was again elected in 1878, but resigned the office before the end of his term, in order to accept the presidency of the University of Alabama, and the professorship of constitutional and international law at that institution. He served in that capacity from July, 1880, until the time of his death. He was a Democratic presidential elector in 1868, and was very active in the reconstruction of the state after the war. He was a Methodist; a Mason; and was author of numerous pamphlets on current topics. He was writing a book on political economy at the time of his death.

Married: January 21, 1860, at the University of Alabama, to Rose, daughter of Dr. Landon Cabell and Louisa Frances (Garland) Garland (q. v.), third cousins, the former of whom was at that time president of the University of Alabama, who later was president of the University of Mississippi, was one of the founders of the Vanderbilt university, and was first chancellor of that institution, holding that position for more than twenty years until his death in 1895; granddaughter of David S. Garland, whose mother, Jane Meredith, was a niece of Patrick Henry. Both parents were descended from distinguished Virginia ancestry. Mrs. Lewis had thirteen cousins killed during the War of Secession. She is a former president and corresponding secretary of the Pelham chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and a member of the Sumter chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Children: 1. Elizabeth, deceased, m. (1.) Louis L. Bradfield, (2.) C. E. Morris; 2. Caroline Matilda, m. J. Alexander Montgomery, Birmingham; 3. Rose, m. Robert Eden Scott Rives, Birmingham; 4. Louise, artist, Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga.; 5. Nan Meem, was graduated from Vanderbilt university, B. A., Miller school, Va.; 6. Nellie Bryce, Birmingham; 7. Bertha Boykin, m. Hugh Barr Miller, Hazelhurst, Miss. Last residence: University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa.

ROBERT JEMISON, V

LEWIS, DAVID PETER, lawyer, governor of Alabama, was born in 1820, in Charlotte County, Va., and died July 3, 1884, at Huntsville; son of Peter C. and Mary Smith (Buster) Lewis, of Virginia. His father was of Welsh and his mother of English ancestry. He moved to Madison County with his parents in childhood, and grew up there, receiving a college education. He studied law in Huntsville; was admitted to the bar; and settled in Lawrence County where he built up a successful practice. He represented Lawrence County in the State constitutional convention of 1861, and voted against secession, but signed the secession ordinance after it had been passed by the convention. He was elected to the Confederate provisional congress at Montgomery by the convention, but resigned his seat. In 1863 he was appointed judge of the circuit court of Alabama by Gov. Shorter, and after holding the position for several months, passed through the army lines to Nashville, Tenn., where he remained until the close of the war. He returned to Alabama in 1865, and settled in Huntsville in the practice of his profession. He was elected governor of Alabama to succeed Gov. Lindsey, by the Republican party, in 1872, and served until 1874. The turmoil of the reconstruction period had not yet subsided when he entered the office, and he was unfortunate in the period of his incumbency. He doubled the taxes on the people, and recognized a body of Republicans claiming to be legally elected, and since known in the history of the state as the "court-house legislature," and appealed to the military authorities, still dominant in Alabama, to uphold his action. The matter was finally referred to the attorney-general of the United States for settlement, and under his decision the Democrats had the majority. The Republicans, however, gained the ascendancy and secured a majority for the election of their chosen candidate, George E. Spencer, to the U. S. senate. The radical state officers under Gov. Lewis spent a total of about one hundred fifty-five thousand dollars more of the state money than the officers under the succeeding administration. After serving his term of office, Gov. Lewis resumed the practice of law in Huntsville. He was never married. Last residence: Huntsville.

LEWIS, DIXON HALL, lawyer, representative in congress, U. S. senator, was born August 10, 1802, in Hancock County, Ga., and died in New York City, October 25, 1848; son of Francis and Mary Dixon (Hall) Lewis, the former a native of Dinwiddie County, Va., who moved with his parents to Hancock County, Ga., in his youth, and in 1818, moved with his family to Alabama and settled in Lowndes County; grandson of Francis Lewis who lived in Dinwiddie County, Va., and of Dixon and Anna (Hunt) Hall, who lived in Hancock County, Ga., and in Montgomery County, the former a soldier in the Revolution; great-grandson of John and Catherine (Croy) Lewis, of Belvoir, and of John and Anne (Bolling) Hall, the former a justice in colonial times, the latter a member of the Bolling and Randolph families. The Lewis family is of Welsh descent; the original emigrant, Robert Lewis, came with his wife Elizabeth from Graves End, England, in April, 1635. Mr. Lewis received his early education from Mount Zion academy, under the direction of Rev. Nathan S. S. Beeman, and was graduated from Columbia college, South Carolina, 1822. He read law in the office of Judge Hitchcock in Cahaba; was admitted to the bar in 1823; and opened a law office in Montgomery in 1825. The following year he was elected to the State legislature from Montgomery County, and was re-elected in 1827 and 1828. He was a leading member in the counsels of the legislature, and in 1827 made a report in the house on the relation and policy of the State toward the Indian tribes within its territorial limits, which established for him a high position as a legislator and exerted an influence in the removal of the remaining tribes from the state. Mr. Lewis was elected a representative in congress in 1829 from southern Alabama, and was again elected in 1831, defeating Gov. Murphy of Monroe County. He was returned to congress in 1833, 1835, 1837, and 1839, with little opposition, and during the latter year, during the contest for speakership which lasted three months, was seven times balloted for as the nominee of his party for the position, but was defeated by the faction of his party controlled by Senator Benton. In 1841, he was elected to congress for the seventh time, that time on the general ticket with Hon. H. W. Hilliard of Montgomery as his opponent; and two years later defeated Hon. Henry C. Lee of Perry. He resigned in 1844, after a service of fifteen consecutive years in the house of representatives, in order to accept the appointment made by Gov. Fitzpatrick to the U. S. senate to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of the Hon. William R. King to the court of France. His appointment was ratified the following December by the legislature. In 1847, Mr. Lewis was reelected to the Federal senate over Hon. William R. King, who had become a candidate for his former seat, and Judge A. F. Hopkins, and was serving in that body at the time of his death. During his service in the national house of representatives, he was chairman of the committee on ways and means, and in the senate was chairman of the financial committee. His politics were of the extreme state-rights school, and he advocated nullification and secession. He was a trustee of the University of Alabama, 1828-1831. His death occurred while on a visit to New York City, and the city authorities arranged a public funeral.

Married: March 11, 1823, in Autauga County, to Susan Elizabeth, daughter of Gen. John Archer Elmore (q. v.), a soldier in the Revolution, who moved to Laurens District, S. C., and served in the State legislature, married a Miss Martin, sister of Abram Martin of Montgomery, and moved to Autauga County in 1819, where he became a representative in the Alabama legislature; sister of Frank Elmore, who succeeded John C. Calhoun in the U. S. senate after the latter's death, but survived him only a few months, of John Elmore, a distinguished lawyer at the Montgomery bar, of Rush Elmore, appointed chief justice of the territory of Kansas by Franklin Pierce, of William A. Elmore, superintendent of the New Orleans mint during President Buchanan's administration, and of Col. H. M. Elmore, who commanded a Texas regiment in the C. S. Army, during the War of Secession. Her eldest sister married Benjamin Fitzpatrick, who was three times governor of Alabama, and was U. S. senator at the time of secession. Mrs. Lewis moved from Alabama to Texas in 1854, with her surviving children. Children: 1. Laura Ann, m. Robert Lindsey Scott; 2. Francis Maxcy, served in the C. S. Army, War of Secession, m. Carrie Baker; 3. John Archer, b. 1829, d. 1850; 4. Mary Susan, b. 1830, d. 1850; 5. Dixon Hall, b. February 3, 1834, served as a captain in Emons regiment, C. S. Army, War of Secession, d. April, 1899, m. in 1860, to Sarah Hill, of West Texas; 6. William Henry, killed in the battle of the Wilderness, 1864; 7. Sarah Terry Fitzpatrick, b. 1838, d. 1839. Last residence: Washington, D. C. and Lowndes County.

LEWIS, J. N., Presbyterian minister, was a native of Pennsylvania, and died in Bagdad, Fla. He was educated at Lafayette college and Union seminary. He labored in Pennsylvania for eighteen years; removed to Virginia serving first as a colporteur and then as a minister, serving at Danville for six years. He moved to Alabama and served in Dallas County, later removing to Florida. Last residence: Bagdad, Fla.

LEWIS, JOSIAH, Methodist minister, president Southern university, was born May 4, 1839, at Raytown, Talliaferro, Ga., and died January 13, 1885, at Sparta, Ga.; son of Josiah and Elizabeth (Moore) Lewis, sr., who lived at that place, the former a native of Siloam, Greene County, Ga., who lived at Sparta, Ga., and was a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, south; grandson of Walker and Mary (Graham) Lewis, who lived at Siloam, Green County, Ga., the latter a native of Mecklenburg County, N. C., and of Gen. John P. and Nancy (Davis) Moore, who lived near Lincolnton, Ga.; great-grandson of J. H. Lewis, who was born either in Mecklenburg or Dinwiddie County, Va., and who lived in both counties. He attended various common schools where his father was stationed, and was graduated from Emory college with first honors, A. B., 1859, and A. M., 1862. He studied law and was admitted to the bar, but never practiced the profession. He entered the C. S. Army in 1861, and served through the four years of the war. He accepted a professorship in Emory college in 1866, and taught Greek and Latin in that institution until 1877. He became a professor in the Southern university at Greensboro in 1877, and became chancellor of that university in 1879. He resigned the latter position in 1881, and entered the Methodist itineracy. The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Trinity college, North Carolina, in 1878. He was a Democrat; and a frequent contributor to magazines. Married: (1) May 3, 1866, to Mary Rosina Hubert, who died April 14, 1873, at Athens, Ga., daughter of Dr. Robert W. and Nancy (Turner) Hubert, who lived at Warrenton, Ga.; (2) March 25, 1875, at Monticello, Fla., to Sarah Williamson Lamar, who lives at Marietta, Ga. Children by first marriage: 1. Laura Elizabeth, m. Barry Palmer Harris, Brunswick, Ga.; 2. Mary Rosina, d. October 15, 1904, m. Osiah George Mingledorff, Guyton, Ga.; 3. Claudia Julia, unmarried, Sparta, Ga.; 4. Josiah Sidney, professor of languages and mathematics at Rhinehart college, Waleska, Ga.; by second marriage: 5. Sarah Lamar, unmarried, Marietta, Ga.; 6. Dr. Lamar Thompson, Luzon, Philippine Islands; 7. Col. Miles Walker, Jacksonville, Fla. Last residence: Sparta, Ga.

LEWIS, LORENZO DOW, Presbyterian minister, was born July 11, 1847, near Gaylesville, Cherokee County; son of Chrisman and Annie (Webb) Lewis, the former a native of Chestnut Hill, Jefferson County, Tenn., who lived at Davis Cross Roads, Cherokee County, and was a blacksmith; grandson of Gabriel and Debie Lewis, of Chestnut Hill, Jefferson County, Tenn., the former a soldier in the War of 1812, and of Thomas Webb, of Chestnut Hill, Tenn.; great-grandson of Shellie Lewis; great-great-grandson of George Lewis, who came with his two brothers, Amos and Mordecai, to the United States from Wales in 1794. He received his early education in Cherokee County, at Davis Cross Roads, and attended the Cumberland university for three years. He became a minister of the Presbyterian church, and served the greater part of his life in that calling. Married: to Indiana Alabama, daughter of John Tyler and Melvinie Culpeper, who lived near Gaylesville, after coming from Tennessee to Alabama. Children: 1. Lottie, Birmingham, m. Robert L. McNutt, deceased, five children; 2. Minnie, m. Robert Engle, one child; 3. Mack, married, four children, Mill Creek, Okla.; 4. O. W., married, five children, Bessemer; 5. W. M., married, two children, Rosedale; 6. Leona, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

LEWIS, NECY, business man, was born August 7, 1888, at Midway, Bullock County; son of Necy and Fredonia (Sellers) Lewis, of Bullock County; grandson of Necy and Rebecca Lewis and of Gamaliel Sellers and wife, all of Bullock County. The Lewis family is of English descent, and came early to North Carolina, later removing to Alabama. Mr. Lewis received his early education in the public schools at Midway; attended the Troy normal school; and in 1910 received the degree of B. S. from the University of Alabama. He taught school at Enterprise and Brundidge, 1910-1913; and in the latter year went into business at Midway. He was elected to the State legislature as a representative from Bullock County, 1919. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: November 25, 1910, at Midway, to Emma Claire, daughter of James Milton and Nettie (Owens) Bishop, of that place. Children: 1. Neco; 2. James Milton. Residence: Midway.

LEWIS, OSCAR SCOTT, lawyer, was born June 12, 1872, at Tuskegee, Macon County; son of Lawrence and Marion (Kelton) Lewis, the former who was born at Boolnose, Sweden, emigrated to America in 1855 and came to Tuskegee in 1859, entered the C. S. Army, January, 1861, as a member of the Zouaves, was wounded at the first battle of Manassas, but fought throughout the war; grandson of Lawrence and Katherine Lewis, natives of Bollnäs, Sweden, and of Milton Scott and Elizabeth Mariah Kelton, of Tuskegee. He received a high school education; studied law and entered upon the practice in January, 1898, at Tuskegee, in partnership with Wilbur F. Foster; served as mayor of Tuskegee, 1903-1909; was captain of Co. K, Second infantry, Alabama national guard, 1908-1914; was appointed chancellor of the southeastern division to succeed Hon. W. R. Chapman, October 1, 1915; and was elected to the State senate from the twenty-sixth district, 1915. He is an Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: July 7, 1907, at Atlanta, Ga. to Eva, daughter of Barzillai Yale and Miranda (Roys) Sage, of that city. Children: 1. Oscar Yale; 2. Eva Placide. Residence: Tuskegee.

LEWIS, THOMAS H., major of Lewis' battalion Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

LEWIS, W., Methodist minister, pastor of the Court Street church, Montgomery, 1911; transferred to Alabama from the Georgia conference. Deceased. Last residence: Atlanta, Ga.

LEWIS, WILLIAM LINN, teacher, was born November 20, 1808, in Chester District, S. C., and died May 17, 1895, at Talladega; son of Samuel and Mary (Lemon) Lewis, the former a native of Wales, the latter of Irish descent; grandson of William Lewis. He was educated in the schools and academies of Chester District, S. C., and at the age of twenty-one years, began teaching school at an academy at Providence, near Lowrysville, Chester District, S. C. In 1830, he moved to Alabama, and settled in Perry County, where he taught school for a time. Six years later he returned to Chester District, S. C., for two years, then moved to Talladega County, and was a resident of that place for nearly sixty years. The greater part of his life was spent in teaching school, although he did not teach with any degree of regularity after the War of Secession. He was county superintendent of education for a number of years; and was an elder in the Marble Springs Presbyterian church in Talladega County. Married: (1) January 3, 1839, in Chester County, S. C., to Sarah Pogue, who died in 1847; (2) February 26, 1848, to Esther Adams, who died September 7, 1881, daughter of James and Mary Adams, who lived near Talladega. Children: 1. a son, killed in the battle of Sharpsburg, 1861; 2. Robert S., Sterrett, Shelby County; 3. Mary, m. Mr. Sweetman, Jacksonville, Fla.; 4. Sallie, m. Mr. Elder, Guthrieville, S. C.; 5. Eppie, Talladega; 6. Janie A., m. Mr. Sparling, Tuscaloosa; 7. Julia, m. Mr. Elliott, Talladega; 8. Fannie, Talladega. Last residence: Talladega.

LIDDELL, DANIEL, merchant, was born May 30, 1850, in Gwinnett County, Ga.; son of William C. P. and Evaline B. (Wynne) Liddell, natives of Georgia and South Carolina, who came to Alabama in 1856, and settled near Hokes Bluff, in Etowah County, moving in 1859 to Gadsden, the former a third lieutenant in the C. S. Army, who was discharged from the service because of ill health. His grandfather Liddell was a soldier in the Revolutionary army. The Liddell family was among the earliest settlers of Georgia. Mr. Liddell was reared on his father's farm and received his education from the neighborhood schools. When he was twenty-one years of age, he moved to Texas and entered the mercantile business. Returning to Alabama after two years, he engaged in farming until 1876, when he again entered the mercantile business. He continued in that line until April, 1885, when he was appointed postmaster of Gadsden. He is a Democrat and served for several years as chairman of the county Democratic committee. He is a Baptist; a Mason; Odd Fellow; and Knight of Pythias. Married: November 10, 1874, at Gadsden, to Mary V. Nuckolls. He has three children living, and two who are deceased. Residence: Gadsden.

LIDDON, WILLIAM ABRAM, civil engineer, was born in 1793, in New Hanover County, N. C., and died December 19, 1853, in Bellefonte, Jackson County; son of Benjamin and Sarah (Rutledge) Liddon, also of New Hanover County, the latter belonged to the distinguished South Carolina family of that name, being at the time of her marriage to Col. Liddon, the widow of Maj. Abram Ivy; grandson of Benjamin Liddon, a native of Scotland, landed in Virginia, but afterwards settled in Wilmington, N. C., was a colonel in the Revolutionary War, and awarded a tract of land for special services located on Stone River, Rutherford County, Tenn., to which he removed. William Abram Liddon began his education in Wilmington, N. C., and later attended the best schools of Nashville, Tenn. He followed the custom of the period and learned the trade of a silversmith, later studied civil engineering, and for many years was county surveyor of Jackson County, to which he moved from Tennessee in 1830. He was an accomplished musician and for a long time used this talent for the pleasure of the community about Bellefonte, where he was leader and instructor of local musicians composing the brass band. He was justice of the peace at that place, and although a student of law never practiced it as a profession. On the other hand he freely gave of his knowledge to the poor of the land who were unable to employ legal advisers. He was a strong advocate of temperance, and among the first in his section to join that order. He was a Whig and Mason. Married: in 1818, near Shelbyville, Tenn., to Mary White, daughter of Henry and Margaret (Price) Davis of that place; great-granddaughter through her mother, of one of the noted Pinckneys of South Carolina. Children: 1. Sarah Jane, m. John Henry Crawford, Jacksonville; 2. Margaret, m. George Black, Arkansas; 3. Mary Tennessee, m. F. S. Parham, Chattanooga, Tenn.; 4. Eliza, m. Robert E. Neeld, Fayetteville, Tenn., later St. Petersburg, Fla.; 5. Nancy, third wife of Josiah Fisher, Chattanooga, Tenn.; 6. Caroline, m. William Hamby Cowden, Cherokee County, later of Palo Pinto County, Tex.; 7. Julia, second wife of Josiah Fisher; 8. Harriet Atwood, m. (1) Benjamin G. Salvage, Rome, Ga., (2) Alonzo Edwards, Midland, Tex.; 9. Cynthia, m. (1) Charles C. Dodson, Jacksonville, (2) Thomas Sterling of Connecticut, later of Los Angeles, Cal.; 10. Catherine Cobb, m. (1) Robert Moore, Rome, Ga., (2) William Hamby Cowden, Midland, Tex. Last residence: Bellefonte.

LIGHTNER, A. D., formerly general manager of Birmingham belt line railroad company. Residence: New Orleans.

LIGON, DAVID GREENHILL, lawyer, was born about 1792, in southwestern Virginia, and died in 1855. He was well educated and read law in Virginia, and in 1823, came to Alabama, where his maternal uncle, Hon. John L. Townes, of Madison, had already settled. He opened a law office in Courtland and resided there or in Moulton, with the exception of a short time, for the remainder of his life. He was elected to the State legislature from Lawrence County in 1829, but moved to Walker County shortly after, and resided there for a year or two. He was an unsuccessful candidate for congress twice, and in 1846 was elected chancellor of the northern division, defeating Alexander Bowie and Thomas D. Woodward. In 1851, he was elected by the legislature an associate justice of the supreme court to succeed Judge Silas Parsons who had resigned. Upon a reorganization of the court in 1853 he declined a re-election to the office. He had entered the ministry of the Christian church about the year 1845, and was preaching in Lawrence County when he was seized with apoplexy and died almost immediately. Married: Miss Greenhill, his cousin, who lived in Lawrence County after his death. Children: 1. Paschal, deceased, a senator in the Arkansas state legislature; 2. a daughter, Lawrence County. Last residence: Lawrence County.

LIGON, ELLEN LEE (BARRETT), osteopathic physician, was born August 10, 1862, on a plantation, "Patagonia," Lauderdale and Kemper Counties, Miss.; daughter of Benjamin Temple and Louisiana Adams (Martin) Barrett, the former of whom was born on the family estate "Presque Isle," King William County, Va., 1807, removed to Claiborne, 1836, and to Mobile, 1839, where he remained until his death in 1880; granddaughter of Dr. John Stracham and Anne Brooke (Temple) Barrett, who lived at "Presque Isle," prior to settling in Gainesville, and of John Taylor and Sarah (Beale) Martin, of "Aspen Grove," the family estate in James County, Va.; great-granddaughter of Col. Benjamin Temple, captain of Virginia dragoons, lieutenant-colonel of 1st Continental dragoons, transferred to the 4th dragoons during the Revolutionary War, of John Barret of "The Hermitage," the family estate in Louisa County, Va., mayor of Richmond, Va., 1791-98, of William Martin of Virginia, and of Joshua Beale, a native of Pennsylvania; great-great-granddaughter of Charles Barret, Burgess from Louisa County; great-great-granddaughter of Charles Barret of Louisa County, Va. The Barretts, Temples, Martins, and Beales, were all of English origin, and came to America before the Revolution. Ellen Lee Barret received her education in Mobile, graduating with first honors from the Bagby high school in 1877, and did post-graduate work at the same school in 1878. She graduated from the American school of osteopathy, February, 1900, with the degree of Doctor of Osteopathy and received the degree of M. D. from the Alabama State medical examining board, February, 1903. She began the practice as a physician in Mobile about 1900 and practiced there until 1906 when she removed to New York City. There she was licensed to practice osteopathy and remained in that city until 1911, at which time she returned to Mobile and resumed the practice of her profession. When her right to practice osteopathy in Alabama was questioned she was given the privilege of the floor of the Alabama senate and made her professional defense to that body. Two years later she made the fight before the Alabama legislature for the passage of a bill that would exclude fake osteopaths from the practice in Alabama, and put osteopathic practitioners under an osteopathic board. The bill passed the house but was lost in a tie vote in the senate, which was presided over at the time by a medical doctor. She is an Episcopalian; a member of the Colonial Dames; vice-regent of the Mobile Chapter, D. A. R.; member U. D. C.; and the Business woman's club. She organized, in 1888, and was for two years president of the Okolona book club, the oldest woman's club in Mississippi. Married: June 9, 1886, in Mobile, to Dr. Greenwood Ligon, son of Dr. William and Calpurnia (Greenwood) Ligon, who lived in Chickasaw County, Miss.; grandson of Thomas Ligon of Laurens District, S. C. Dr. William Ligon was a graduate of Transylvania medical college and located first in Athens, but in 1842, removed to Chickasaw County, where he bought what had formerly been the town site of Colbert. Children: 1. Lucile Barret, m. Clinton Rowland Macartney, Mobile; 2. Margherita. Residence: Mobile.

LIGON, ROBERT FULWOOD, lawyer, planter, legislator and lieutenant-governor of Alabama, was born December 23, 1823, in Watkinsonville, Ga., and died October 11, 1901, in Montgomery; son of Robert and Wilhelmina (Fulwood) Ligon, the former born on the country estate of his parents in Halifax County, Va., removing in 1810 to Georgia, where he practiced law and died at the age of thirty-five; grandson of Robert and Judeth (Scott) Ligon of Halifax County, Va., and of Major Robert and Jane Ware (Hunter) Fulwood of South Carolina and later of Ware County, Ga. The Ligon family is of French Huguenot extraction, the early ancestors going from France to England and thence to America, locating in Virginia and South Carolina, shortly after the Revolutionary War. Governor Ligon received his early education in the country schools of his native county and in the academy near Watkinsville. Later he attended the Georgia university. In 1844 he removed to Tuskegee, Macon County, where he read law under Judge David Clopton, was admitted to the bar and formed a partnership with his legal mentor. He later removed to Montgomery where he formed a partnership with James E. Cobb. Prior to the War of Secession he was a member of the legislature from Macon County and was State senator in 1864. During the heated campaign that restored white supremacy in the State following the reconstruction period, Senator Ligon was elected lieutenant-governor on the ticket with George S. Houston, governor, the office having been created by the constitution of 1867. It was however abolished in 1875, and not re-created until the adoption of the constitution of 1901. Lieutenant-Governor Ligon was elected to congress from the 5th district, 1876-78. He was captain of a company in the Mexican War, 1849; and elected captain of the "Macon Confederates," which was Co. F, 12th Alabama infantry regiment, Rodas' division, C. S. Army. He was a Democrat, and canvassed the state during the campaign of 1874, for his party. For many years he was president of the board of trustees, Alabama female college, and also a trustee of the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn. He was a Methodist and a Mason. Married: in 1850, at Watkinsville, Ga., to Emily, daughter of Edward Courtenay and Caroline Matilda (Brinton) Paine of that place, the former a distinguished lawyer, who had removed from Baltimore, where his parents resided, to Georgia. Mrs. Paine, his wife, was the daughter of Major Henry Brinton, who resided near Philadelphia and was of Quaker ancestry. Children: 1. Carrie, deceased, m. Edward T. Varner, Tuskegee; 2. Emma, m. Richard A. Johnson, Atlanta, Ga.; 3. Cornelia, m. Alexander H. Graham, Dallas, Texas; 4. Mattie, deceased, m. George P. Harrison (q. v.), Opelika; 5. Robert Fulwood, jr. (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

LIGON, ROBERT FULWOOD, lawyer, was born September 24, 1864, at Tuskegee; son of Robert Fulwood and Emily (Paine) Ligon (q. v.), of Tuskegee and Montgomery, the former who was lieutenant governor of Alabama; grandson of Robert and Wilhelmina (Fulwood) Ligon, of Halifax County, Va., who moved to Watkinsville, Clarke County, Ga., and of Edward and Matilda (Brinton) Paine, of Georgia. Both grandfathers were lawyers. Mr. Ligon was prepared at the Park high school at Tuskegee; and was graduated from the Agricultural and mechanical college, at Auburn, A. B., 1882. He was admitted to the bar, September, 1886; took the summer law course at the University of Virginia in 1888; was mayor of Tuskegee, 1886-1888; entered in a law partnership with Gen. George P. Harrison at Opelika, 1888; moved to Montgomery in 1892 and became law partner of the late Tennant Lomax; was elected clerk of the supreme court, 1898, and re-elected in 1904 and 1910; was appointed a trustee of the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1900; has served as captain of the Tuskegee light infantry, and lieutenant colonel on the staff of Gov. Jones and of Gov. Oates; was adjutant general of Alabama, 1896-1899, embracing the period of the Spanish-American War; was nominated brigadier general and inspector general of the Alabama national guard, by Gov. Jelks in 1903, and by Gov. Comer in 1907, and each time unanimously confirmed by the senate; was nominated brigadier general and quartermaster general by Gov. Emmet O'Neal in 1911, and again unanimously confirmed by the senate; was placed on the retired list of the national guard officers at his own request in 1911, with the rank of brigadier general. He is a Democrat and served as a delegate to the national convention, at Baltimore, 1912; is a Methodist; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity; of the Alabama State bar association; and has served as president of the Alumni association of the Alabama polytechnic institute. Married: January 31, 1895, at Montgomery, to Alleen, daughter of Dr. Thomas A. Means (q. v.), of Montgomery; granddaughter of Dr. Thomas Alexander Means, president of Emory College, Oxford, Ga., for a long time. Children: 1. Emily Castleton. Residence: Montgomery.

LILE, HENRY THOMAS, teacher, was born October 15, 1863, at Blount Springs, Blount County; son of John Allison and Louisa Elizabeth (Minor) Lile of Huntsville, and brother of William Minor Lile (q. v.). He acquired the foundation of his education in the Mountain Spring high school, established by his father in 1872, and was prepared for college by Prof. J. Ray Baylor of Albemarle County, Va. He subsequently entered the University of Virginia, but on account of the death of his father did not finish his course at that institution. His preparation had been so thorough, however, that at this time, 1883, when nineteen years of age, he was made professor of Latin and mathematics at his preparatory alma mater, Mountain Spring. Three years later, he returned to the University of Virginia for further study. He conducted his mother's planting interests during the period of his teaching and in 1901 established Lile's university school at Trinity, of which he was president for fifteen years. This school was built upon the beginnings of Mountain Spring school, which his father had founded for the education of his seven sons and the sons of his neighbors, its special purpose being the preparation of students for entrance to the University of Virginia. The patronage came from neighboring states and was limited to twenty boys. Prof. Lile was superintendent of education of Morgan County, 1896-98, and candidate for the State superintendency in 1898, but was defeated by Hon. John W. Abercrombie. Owing to the failure of his health, he gave up his school and removed to Evergreen, where he became president of the Second district agricultural school. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; and Knight of Pythias. Married: December 21, 1891, at Danville, Morgan County, to Emma, daughter of Jonathan Gibson and Martha (Burleson) Orr of Decatur. Mrs. Lile's maternal grandfather was a captain in Gen. Jackson's army during the Indian Wars in Alabama. He settled a farm where Decatur now stands in 1812, and his eldest son, Aaron Burleson, physician, was the first white child born in Morgan County, 1813, and is the father of Mrs. James K. Vardaman of Mississippi, wife of the former governor and U. S. Senator of that state. Children: 1. Henry Orr; 2. Louisa Glenn; 3. John Allison; 4. Richard Darwin. Residence: Evergreen.

LILE, WILLIAM MINOR, educator, was born March 28, 1859, at Trinity, Morgan County; son of John Allison and Louisa E. (Minor) Lile. He received the degree of LL. B. from the University of Virginia, in 1882, and the honorary degree of LL. D., from William and Mary college, in 1901. He was admitted to the Virginia bar in 1882; began the practice at Lynchburg; was a member of the firm of Kirkpatrick and Blackford, 1885-89; in partnership with R. G. H. Kean, 1891-93; since September 15, 1893, he has been professor of law, and since 1896, dean of the law school, University of Virginia. He is a member of the American and Virginia bar associations; member of Phi Beta Kappa and Kappa Sigma college fraternities; honorary member Phi Delta Phi college fraternity; director, Bologna society; member board of governors, Woodberry Forest school for boys, Orange, Va. He was founder, 1895, associate editor, 1895-97, editor, 1897-1901, editor-in-chief, 1901-02, Virginia Law Review. Author: "Elementary work on equity procedure for students," 1916; and monographs on various law topics. Married: January 25, 1888, to Maud Lee Carson, of Lynchburg, Va. Residence: University, Va.

LINCECUM, GIDEON, naturalist and pioneer settler, was born in April, 1793, in Hancock County, Ga., and died November 28, 1873, at Long Point, Texas. He was educated in a country school in South Carolina; served in the War of 1812; studied medicine and taught school in Georgia, removed to Tuscaloosa which was then located in the wilderness, later went to Mississippi and finally located in Texas. He was the collector of many valuable specimens in natural history. Last residence: Long Point, Texas.

LINDSAY, DAVID, soldier of the American Revolution. A soldier of this name is buried at Elliottsville, Shelby County, but no facts as to his age or service have been ascertained.

LINDSAY, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Marion County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on August 22, 1835, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

LINDSAY, MATTHEW W., lawyer, attorney general, was born in Tennessee, and died in Aberdeen, Miss. He came from Tennessee to Alabama and settled in Morgan County, and represented that county in the State legislature in 1835, 1836 and 1838. In 1839 he was elected attorney general of the state. He moved to Tuscaloosa in 1840, and identified himself with the Whig party, taking an active part in the campaign for Gen. Harrison, by addressing Tippecanoe Clubs and other assemblages. Sometime afterwards he moved to Aberdeen, Miss. Married: to Miss Perkins, daughter of Constantine Perkins (q. v.), at one time attorney general of the state, whose gallant behavior at the battle of Emuckfaw, under the command of Gen. Andrew Jackson, in loading the cannon with his musket as a ramrod, and firing it upon the Indians just in time to drive them back, is a matter of history. Last residence: Aberdeen, Miss.

LINDSAY, ROBERT BURNS, lawyer, governor of Alabama, was born July 4, 1824, in Lochmaben, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, and died February 13, 1902; son of John and Elizabeth (McKnight) Lindsay. He was educated at the parochial schools, at the University of St. Andrews, and was a prize student of the foundation bursary under the principalship of Sir David Brewster. He came to the United States in 1844 on a visit to his brother David R. Lindsay, a school teacher in North Carolina, and concluded to remain in this country. He accepted charge of a boys' academy in North Carolina, and in addition to his teaching, began the study of law under Col. Robert Treat Paine. In 1849 he moved to Tuscumbia, Franklin County, where he continued teaching school and studying law, until 1852 when he was admitted to the bar. He opened a law office in Tuscumbia, and the following year was elected to the State legislature as a representative of Franklin County. In 1857, he was elected to the State senate on the Democratic ticket, and during the same year was on the board of visitors to West Point Military Academy. He was appointed a presidential elector on the Democratic ticket in 1860, but when the breach in the party placed two candidates in the field, Douglas representing the Union wing and Breckenridge the states rights or southern wing, Mr. Lindsay who was a conservative and opposed to secession, refused to serve on the Breckenridge ticket and became an elector on the Douglas ticket. He resisted secession with all his power, but after the ordinance was passed, remained loyal to the state, and served for part of the time during the war in Roddy's cavalry, organized at Tuscumbia, in December, 1862. He was elected to the State senate in 1865, and in 1870, under the constitution of 1868, which permitted a foreign born citizen to hold the office of governor of Alabama, was nominated and elected governor by the Democratic conservative party, over Gov. William H. Smith, the radical incumbent. An attempt was made by Gov. Smith to contest his election and prevent his inauguration, but after a few stormy weeks, during which Gov. Smith called in the power of the Federal army to sustain him, Gov. Lindsay was left in possession of the executive authority. He served through his term and refused to allow his name to be presented for a second term. Two months after his term of governor had expired, he was stricken with paralysis, and became an invalid. He continued his law practice, although not as actively as before, and took no further part in politics. He was a Presbyterian, and one of the oldest members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in the state. Married: in 1854, to Sarah Miller, daughter of William Winston; sister of Gov. John Anthony Winston (q. v.); sister-in-law of Gov. Pettus, of Mississippi; and cousin of Edmund Winston Pettus (q. v.), U. S. senator from Alabama. Of nine children born to him, the following survive: 1. Mamie, m. Robert H. Watkins, formerly of the Birmingham "Age," resides in Washington, D. C.; 2. Minnie Burns, m. Joseph H. Nathan, lawyer, Sheffield; 3. Mattie I., Sheffield; 4. Maud, Sheffield. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

Father James E. Coyle.

2

4-74

LINDSEY, SAMUEL PERRIN, Baptist minister, was born September 15, 1855, at Buena Vista, Monroe County; son of William Kyser and Harriett (Newell) Lindsey, the former a native of Chestnut Corner, Monroe County, who lived at Buena Vista, and served in Co. G, Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, until he was taken prisoner at Manchester, Tenn., June 3, 1863; grandson of Rev. Larkin W. and Theresa (Dekle) Lindsey, who lived at Allenton, Wilcox County, Turnbull, Chestnut Corner, and Buena Vista, Monroe County, and of William W. and Elizabeth Henry (Fountain) Wiggins, who lived at Philadelphia, Monroe County, and Monroeville; great-grandson of Stephen Wiggins, who came from Sampson County, S. C., about 1818. He received his early education at Buena Vista, in Wilcox County, and at Monroeville; and was graduated from Howard college, A. B., 1893. He established the Pine Apple "Gazette" in 1882; clerked in the store of his uncle, Capt. William Stephen Wiggins; and entered the ministry in July, 1887. He was licensed to preach, September 11, 1887, and was ordained, September 26, 1888, at the Philadelphia Baptist church. He has served as pastor of churches in St. Clair, Jefferson, Walker, Monroe, Conecuh, and Escambia Counties, and Escambia County, Fla., and has served churches of prominence in Ensley City, Georgiana and Evergreen. For several years he was moderator of the Bethlehem Baptist association. He is a Mason. Married: June 17, 1890, to Julia, daughter of Noah Haggard and Tryphenia Richison (Mathis) Fancher, who lived near Montevallo. Children: 1. Harriet Tryphenia, deceased; 2. Perrin Fancher; 3. William Rupert; 4. Samuel Pleasant, deceased. Residence: Belleville.

LINDSEY, WALLACE HENRY, lawyer, was born October 8, 1872, at Gaston, Sumter County; son of Henry Thompson and Martha Jane (Wallace) Lindsey, the former a native of Greene County, who lived at Desotville, and served in the C. S. Army as lieutenant of Co. C, Fifty-fourth Alabama infantry regiment, 1861-1865; grandson of Ellis and Martha (Thompson) Lindsey, of DeSotville, the former who came to Alabama from Georgia in 1820, and of Daniel and Jennie (Kennedy) Wallace, of DeSotville and Spray, Miss., the former an Irishman, and the latter born in South Carolina, of Irish parents. He obtained his education in the common schools of Choctaw County, and at Chapel Hill academy, DeSotville. He began the practice of law at Butler, 1905, having read law while clerk of the circuit court of Choctaw County, to which office he was elected in 1898, and re-elected in 1904. He resigned that position in 1905, when he began to practice law. Prior to his election as clerk, he had taught in the public schools of Choctaw County. In 1907, he was appointed deputy solicitor of Choctaw County, a position which he held for some time; was a member of the board of education of that county, and at one time public administrator; and represented his county in the State legislature, 1907. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Royal Arch Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: December 28, 1904, at Butler, to Maggie, daughter of William B. and Janie (Brewster) Gilmer, of Butler, granddaughter of J. W. Brewster, an early settler of Choctaw County. The Gilmers came from Dallas County, and settled near Mt. Sterling, in Choctaw County. Children: 1. Mary. Residence: Butler.

LINN, E. W., bank cashier, was born in 1852, in Montgomery; son of Charles Linn, founder of the First national bank of Birmingham. He was educated in the public schools of his native city, and in 1870 entered the University of Illinois, from which he graduated two years later. For several years after completing college he conducted a farm; was a commercial traveler, for a Cincinnati hardware firm, for one year; appointed secretary and treasurer of the Linn iron works and held that place until he entered the First national bank as exchange clerk and collector, advancing to assistant cashier and finally to cashiership. In addition to his banking connections he was director of the Birmingham gas and illuminating company, and secretary-treasurer of the East Birmingham land company. He also acquired considerable real estate. Residence: Birmingham.

LINTON, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76 years, and a resident of Butler County; private N. C. Militia and State Troops; enrolled on Oct. 19, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $76.66.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Butler County, June 1, 1840, with Hugh Linton, aged 82.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

LIPSCOMB, ABNER SMITH, lawyer and associate justice supreme court, was born February 10, 1789, in Abbeville, S. C., and died December 3, 1857, near Austin, Tex.; son of Joel and Elizabeth (Childs) Lipscomb, natives of Culpeper County, Va., the former a Revolutionary officer, having moved to South Carolina prior to that event, afterwards migrated to the Mississippi Territory and settled on the Tombigbee River in Washington County, now a part of Alabama. Abner Smith Lipscomb secured the educational advantages afforded by the common schools of the period; studied law in the office of John C. Calhoun and George Bowie at Abbeville, S. C.; and settled in the practice in 1811 at St. Stephens, then Mississippi Territory. The following year he served as captain of a company of volunteers, raised to suppress the Indians of the southern frontier who had been excited by the War of 1812. He was a member of the Alabama Territorial legislature, 1818; judge of the supreme court of the State of Alabama, 1820-24; and chief justice, 1824-35. He resigned his seat upon the bench and removed to Mobile and in 1838 was elected from Mobile County to the legislature. Through his influence the common-law system of pleading was simplified and the judicature of the state rendered more uniform and expeditious. In 1839, he removed to Texas and in that state rendered public service of as high value as he had done in Alabama. President Lamar of the Republic of Texas invited him to accept the part of secretary of state in his cabinet and later he warmly espoused the policy of Texas annexation. He was elected to the Texas convention of 1845, and introduced the resolutions accepting the terms of annexation proposed by the Federal government. The provisions of the Texas constitution, adopted at that time, relating to homestead exemptions and marital rights, were largely the result of his influence. His services were recognized by his appointment to the supreme court of Texas, a position which he adorned for eleven years, and until his death. Lipscomb County, Texas, was named in his honor. The University of Alabama conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D. in 1834. Married: (1) in 1813, in the Mississippi Territory, to Elizabeth Gaines, daughter of a planter; (2) in 1843, to Mrs. Mary P. Bullock, daughter of Dr. Thomas Hunt of Austin, Texas. Children: he left a family of nine or ten children, among these, Ellen, m. Percy Walker (q. v.) and several of whom resided in Texas. Last residence: Austin.

LIPSCOMB, ANDREW ADGATE, Methodist minister, educator, and author, was born September 6, 1816, in Georgetown, D. C., and died November 23, 1890, in Athens, Ga.; son of Rev. William Corrie and Phoebe (Adgate) Lipscomb and grandson of John and Elizabeth (Degge) Lipscomb. He received his fundamental education in the best schools in Virginia, attending the Military academy at Georgetown. He entered the Methodist ministry in 1834; was pastor in Baltimore, Md., Alexandria, Va., and Washington, D. C., 1834-42, removing to Montgomery, during the latter year. His superior abilities were quickly recognized by his brethren, and he was elected president of the Alabama conference. Owing to ill health he withdrew from the active ministry and established the Metropolitan institute for young ladies in Montgomery, which was soon after destroyed by fire. In 1857, he was made president of the Female college, Tuskegee, and two years later chancellor of the University of Georgia. From 1860 to 1874 he held the latter position, except during the war period when the institution was closed. From 1875 to 1890 he was professor and professor emeritus of philosophy and criticism at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. He received the honorary degree of D. D. from the University of Alabama in 1851 and LL. D. from Emory college, 1853. He was a profound Shakesperian scholar and critic and was esteemed as one of the most learned men of his generation. Author: wrote editorials for Harper's magazine, and for more than forty years was a regular contributor to the Independent Methodist recorder, and Christian advocate. During his travels in Europe he wrote frequent letters to the senior class of the University of Georgia which were printed in the current press, the topic being principally a description of the educational institutions of the Old World. His public addresses were frequently printed in pamphlet form by the associations before which he had spoken. Other published works are "Our country;" "The Social spirit of christianity;" "Christian Heroism;" "Lessons in the life of St. Peter;" "Studies in the forty days." Married: (1) in Baltimore, to Blanche Henrietta, daughter of Rev. Benjamin Richardson of that city; (2) in Alabama, to Susan Dowdell. Children: by the first marriage, 1. Francis Adgate, adjunct professor of ancient languages, 1869-72, and professor belles-lettres and rhetoric, University of Georgia, 1872-73, died 1875. Last residence: Athens, Ga.

LISTER, JOSIAH, pioneer physician, was born in Georgia, and died at State Line, Miss. before the War of Secession; son of Erabourn Patterson Lister. He was a pioneer physician at old St. Stephens, and practiced at one time at Winchester, Miss. Married: Rebecca Powe of Winchester, Miss. Children: 1. Dora; 2. Joseph, both died in infancy. Last residence: State Line, Miss.

LISTER, J. N., telegrapher, was born June 6, 1840, near Aberdeen, Miss.; son of Jeremiah and Eliza (Bush) Lister, the former of Georgia removing to Mississippi from Alabama, but later returned; grandson of John Bush, an early settler and Indian fighter, of St. Clair County. He attended the schools of Cahaba, and early became interested in telegraphy. In 1858 he was placed in charge of the telegraph office at Cahaba; and later transferred to Selma. When the War of Secession opened, he was detailed to the telegraph department of the Confederate government at Cahaba, but later sent to Selma. At the close of the war, he was train-dispatcher at McDowell. In 1867, he located permanently at Demopolis, Marengo County, where he has since been connected with the telegraph service. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Christian. Married: December 1865, at McDowell to Joella Coats. They have eight children: Residence: Demopolis.

LITTLE, BENJAMIN F., merchant, farmer, railroad agent and real estate man, was born November 30, 1842, near Russellville; son of Claiborne and Sarah (Bruton) Little, the former a merchant, reared eight children, two sons, Coleman R. and John C., members of the 10th Mississippi infantry regiment, C. S. Army, lost their lives in the services of their country; great-grandson of Maj. William Russell of Tennessee, who served with Gen. Jackson in the battle of New Orleans, located in Alabama and for whom Russell's Valley was named. The paternal ancestry was of Irish stock. Mr. Little received his education in the schools of his community, and at the age of twelve began clerking in a store, eventually engaging for himself in the mercantile business in partnership with J. O. Jones, at Russellville and Florence. In 1861, he entered the Confederate States Army, enlisting as second sergeant, in Co. H, 4th Alabama infantry regiment. He participated in the first battle of Manassas, after which he was promoted to 2nd lieutenant; transferred, 1862, to the Army of Mississippi, and served in the forage department of Bragg's army; appointed to command a company of sharpshooters and was engaged at Bryantsville and Perryville; was made aide-de-camp of Woods' brigade on the retreat from Kentucky; appointed captain in the 5th Alabama cavalry; appointed recorder of the military court for the northern district of Alabama, where he served until the close of the war; appointed major, but did not receive his commission owing to the cessation of hostilities. After the war he located at Tusculum where he engaged in the real estate business. He had previously assisted the Sheffield and Birmingham railroad in procuring the right of way for its line. He is a Methodist and member of the Knights of Honor. Married: (1) August 2, 1864, at Tusculum, to Mattie, daughter of John D. Inman, a substantial citizen of that place; (2) Emma, daughter of Daniel Jones, of Holly Springs, Miss. Children: by the first wife, 1. John C.; 2. Mattie R., m. F. W. Ross; 3. Sac; by the second wife, 4. Lullie W.; 5. Edward; 6. Laura F.; 7. Henry; 8. Benjamin. Residence: Tusculum.

LITTLE, GEORGE, teacher and geologist, was born February 11, 1838, at Tuscaloosa; son of John and Barbara (Kerr) Little, the former a native of Corry Hill, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, a resident of Tuscaloosa from 1835-86, druggist there for forty years, teacher in Charleston, S. C., manager of the Iron works at Beatty's Ford, N. C., and connected with a number of other business activities; grandson of William and Janet Little, of Dumfriesshire, Scotland, and of George and Margaret (Pool) Kerr, also of Dumfriesshire, Scotland, the former was for forty years a teacher in Tuscaloosa, and died there at the age of ninety-two, in 1864, whose daughter Barbara (Kerr) Little, taught in Tuscaloosa also for forty years. Dr. Little received his early education from his mother and his cousin, Miss Mary Irving, George Bell, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and other teachers of the period. He attended the University of Alabama, 1851-55, and graduated with the A. B. degree. During 1857-58, he attended the University of Berlin and in 1858-59, studied at the University of Göttingen from which he received the Ph. D. degree. In 1906, the honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by the University of Alabama. He taught in Tuscaloosa, 1855-57-65; was professor of natural science, 1860-61-66-67, Oakland college, Mississippi; professor of mineralogy, and geology and agriculture, University of Georgia, 1876-78; State geologist, Mississippi, 1870-74; State geologist, Georgia, 1874-81; geological expert, Chattanooga, Tenn., 1889-92; geological expert, Tuscaloosa, 1892-1912; secretary Tuscaloosa board of trade, 1909-12. While a student at the University of Alabama, he held the rank of corporal and sergeant successively in the cadet corps. He entered the Confederate Army as a private in Lumsden's Battery, 1861, and was promoted through the successive ranks of orderly sergeant, lieutenant, captain of artillery, major and lieutenant-colonel at the close of the war. He is a Democrat and Presbyterian. He is a trustee, Pontotoc, Miss., Presbyterian collegiate institute; fellow American association advancement of science. Author: inaugural thesis for degree of Ph. D., Göttingen, Germany, 1859; "Selenium and the Seleniurets;" "Reports of progress of the mineral, geological and physical survey of Georgia;" "Ores, minerals and woods;" "Handbook of Georgia;" "Cretaceous fossil;" in Philadelphia Academy of Science, part iii, 1876; "Clays of Alabama," 1900. Married: May 13, 1869, at Sardis, Miss., to Caroline Patillo, daughter of Rev. Daniel Gillespie and Mary Ann (Patillo) Doak, who lived at Zion church, near Columbia, Tenn., the former was a native of Guilford County, N. C., the latter born in Person County, N. C., 1843; granddaughter of John Franklin Patillo and great-granddaughter of Rev. Henry Patillo, author of Patillo's sermons, and a soldier in the Revolution. Children: 1. Mary; 2. Daniel Doak, teacher, 1891-96, student Presbyterian theological seminary, Louisville, Ky., 1897-1900, pastor Presbyterian church, Montevallo; 3. George Kerr, U. S. engineer; 4. James Waddell, U. S. engineer; 5. John Goulding, civil engineer; 6. Margaret Carolyn. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

LITTLE, JOHN, Presbyterian minister, was born April 29, 1874, at Tuscaloosa; son of Dr. John and Amanda (Harris) Little (q. v.). He was prepared for college by Prof. W. H. Verner; was graduated from the University of Alabama B. A., 1893, and from the Presbyterian theological seminary of Kentucky, 1899. He was ordained to the ministry by the Presbytery of Louisville, Ky., 1899. Rev. Little was founder and superintendent of the Presbyterian colored missions of Louisville. The institution was opened February 1, 1898, and is in the nature of institutional churches for negroes, giving religious instruction and industrial training under the supervision of white teachers.

Married: (1) September 2, 1905, at Chicago, to Eleanor Tarrant, who died November 1, 1917, (2) August 16, 1919, to Bertha Hill Tarrant, daughters of Samuel A. and Eliza (Selleck) Tarrant, of Macon, Miss.; granddaughters of Charles and Mary Ann (Patton) Selleck. Children: 1. Elizabeth Tarrant; 2. John. Residence: Louisville, Ky.

LITTLE, JOHN, physician, banker, business man, was born June 19, 1841, at Tuscaloosa, and died February 1, 1919, in that place; son of John and Barbara (Kerr) Little, and brother of Dr. George Little (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa and by his mother and Dr. George Little. The years of 1856-59 were spent at the University of Alabama. He graduated with the degree of A. B., from Oakland college, Mississippi in 1860 and served as head of the preparatory department of that institution from his graduation until his entry into the C. S. Army; was a sergeant in Lumsden's Battery, Alabama light artillery, 1861-65; graduated as M. D. from Tulane, 1869, and was made first assistant at the Bryce insane hospital, by his friend Dr. Peter Bryce; entered general practice, 1875; and managed a drug store until 1881. He was elected cashier of the First national bank of Tuscaloosa in 1881 and served in that place until 1910 when he became vice-president, which position he held until his death. Dr. Little was treasurer of the Alabama Bryce insane hospital from 1884 until 1918 when he resigned. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: November 14, 1872, at Tuscaloosa, to Amanda, daughter of Richard Norfleet and Amanda M. (Banks) Harris, (q. v.) of that place. Children: 1. John III (q. v.), m., (1) Eleanor Tarrant, (2) Bertha H. Tarrant, Louisville, Ky.; 2. Richard Harris, m. 1902, Johnnie Darden, Tuscaloosa; 3. Robert Irving, Ph. D., assistant professor of modern languages at the University of Alabama, unm. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

LITTLE, JOHN BUCKNER, educator and editor, was born October 10, 1861; son of John G. and Sophronia E. (Howell) Little, of Greenville. He entered the University of Alabama in 1879, and received the degrees of A. B., 1883, and A. M., 1886, from this institution. He was assistant professor of chemistry, University of Alabama, 1883-87; president, South Alabama institute, Greenville, 1887-90; principal, Military academy, Huntsville, 1890-91; editor, "Tuscaloosa Times," 1886, "True Democrat," 1888, "State Review," 1895-96; later a teacher in Butler County. Author: "History of Butler County," 1885. Married: in 1890, to Lula Duncan, of Huntsville. Residence: Butler County.

LITTLE, JOHN GOODWIN, farmer, was born December 3, 1825, near Ridgeville, Butler County, deceased; son of Amos and Elizabeth (Hays) Little, who came from Union District, S. C., to Butler County in 1820, later moving to Conecuh County; grandson of John and Martha (Manning) Little, and of Thomas Norris and Cansody (Goodwin) Hays, all of Union District, S. C. The Hays, Little and Manning families were all of Irish stock, having come from near Cork, Ireland, to Maryland, prior to the Revolutionary war. Mr. Little was reared on a farm, and received a limited education in the country schools. In 1846, he became employed as overseer with Col. Estey of Mississippi for eighteen months; later invested in land near Cedar, Butler County; during the War of Secession raised provisions for the army; engaged in farming for five years after the war; moved to Monterey, where he lived for fifteen years; and in 1888 moved to Greenville, where he lived in retirement. He was a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: December 22, 1856, to Sophronia Elizabeth Howell, who died January 10, 1892. Children: 1. Theresa Jenella, m. Dr. James J. Garrett; 2. Susan Elizabeth, m. William Andrew Jackson Stuart; 3. John Buckner, who was assistant professor of chemistry, University of Alabama, 1883-1887, president of the Southern Alabama institute, Greenville, 1887-1890, principal of the Military academy at Huntsville, 1890-1891, editor of the "Tuscaloosa Times," 1886, of the "True Democrat," 1888, of the "State Review," 1895-1896, and author of "History of Butler County," m. Lula Mary Duncan; 4. Annie B., m. Dr. Frank H. Mason; 5. Charles Town, merchant, m. Eugene McDowell. Last residence: Butler County.

LITTLE, WILLIAM G., Jr., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Sumter County; president of the State senate, 1878-79.

LITTLE PRINCE, or TUSTENUGGEE HO-POIE, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

LITTLEPAGE, EMILY (LIPSCOMB), educator and patriotic worker, was born November 13, 1832, at Poplar Grove, King William County, Va., and died October 22, 1916, in Montgomery; daughter of Ambrose and Maria (Guthro) Lipscomb, who lived near Dillware Town, Va., a planter; granddaughter of Ambrose Lipscomb, and of Dr. Simon and Elizabeth (Quarles) Guthro, the former a native of Bordeaux, France, who came to America in 1776, graduated at the Philadelphia medical college, served as surgeon in the Revolutionary War and spent his remaining years in King William County, Va., where he practiced until his death in 1842. The Lipscomb family is of English origin, and furnished soldiers to the Revolutionary Army. Mrs. Littlepage received her early education in the private school of Mrs. Thomas Dabney, in King William County, Va., and later attended the Midway seminary, Essex County, Va., 1848. She taught in a private school in Montgomery, 1861; president of the Montgomery female institute, 1875; principal of the Hull Street, and later of the Lafayette, public schools of Montgomery, until 1907. She was intensely patriotic and took an active part in all the work done by the women of her section during the Mexican, Secession, Spanish-American and European Wars, from 1857 to 1916. Married: July 29, 1860, at Mount Hope, Va., to Hardin B. Littlepage, son of Col. Edmund and Martha A. (Hilliard) Littlepage of Oakdale, Va.; grandson of Hardin and Eliza Sutherland (Quarles) Littlepage, the former justice of King William County, 1799; great-grandson of Thomas and Ann (Burnly) Littlepage, justice of King William County, 1793; great-great-grandson of Edmund Littlepage; great-great-grandson of Richard Littlepage, II, Burgess New Kent, 1685; great-great-great-grandson of Richard Littlepage, I, a native of Kent, England. Children: 1. William C., Texas; 2. Emilie B., m. Thomas W. Hannon, Montgomery; 3. Hardin Beverly, Knob, Shasta County, Calif. Last residence: Montgomery.

LITTLETON, CHARLES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Lauderdale County; private Georgia Militia; enrolled on October 29, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Lauderdale County, June 1, 1840, aged 79.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

He is buried in a little country graveyard, 15 miles from Florence, Ala., and nearly a mile from Bethel Grove Methodist church on Middle Cypress Creek. His grave is marked by a stone which bears this inscription:

CHARLES LITTLETON.

Revolutionary Soldier.

Died March 29th, 1848, at 3 o'clock P. M.

Aged about 103 or 105 years.

Mrs. P. H. Mell, in Alabama Historical Society, Transactions, vol. iv, p. 554.

There is a discrepancy in the age given in the official records and on his tomb.

LITTLETON, JESSE TALBOT, college professor and dean, was born October 27, 1856, at Portsmouth, Norfolk County, Va.; son of Oscar and Martha Elizabeth (Bernard) Littleton, the former a native of Leesburg, Loudoun County, Va., who later by virtue of his being a Methodist minister, lived at a number of Virginia towns, being both pastor and presiding elder during his career; grandson of Thomas and Elizabeth (Buffington) Littleton, also of Leesburg, and of Overton and Martha Jane (Thomas) Bernard of Portsmouth, Va. The Bernard ancestry sprang from French Huguenot stock that belonged to the old aristocracy. The Buffingtons were New England people and the Littletons were of English ancestry. Dr. Littleton received his preparatory education in his home from his father. He later attended Locustville and Onancock academies in Accomac County, Va. He graduated with the A. M. degree in 1880 from Randolph-Macon, where he won the writer's prize in the college magazine, and also the mathematics prize and the Pace medal for the best English essay. He was for two years at Sauveur Collège des Langues, Amherst, Mass., and attended summer schools in Paris and Brussels. In 1877 he was assistant in Greek at Randolph-Macon; was professor of modern languages Wesleyan female college, Murfreesboro, N. C., 1881-83; taught Greek and German at Wofford college, S. C., 1883-86; principal of Belle Haven academy, 1887-90; taught English and modern languages in the Danville college for young ladies, 1890-93; and English and modern languages at Emory-Henry, Va., 1893-98. He also taught modern languages at the Southern university, Greensboro, 1898-1910, and at Woman's college of Alabama, of which last institution he was also for several years the dean. Since 1914 he has been president of the Thomas industrial institute, Florida. He was the founder of the Literary and scientific association at Greensboro. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Author: "Story of Captain Smith and Pocahontas"; "My pet cage bird"; "Spencer and Tennyson"; "The Drama"; "How shall I educate my girl"; "How shall I educate my boy"; "King Lear"; "The Idyls of the king"; "Our educational renaissance"; "Modern languages versus ancient." Married: December 26, 1882, at Farmville, Va., to Lucile, daughter of Leonidas and Martha Woodward (Chandler) Rosser of Portsmouth, Va.; granddaughter of John A. and Christina Elizabeth (Nollner) Chandler, the former a lawyer of Norfolk, Va., who was a member of the house of delegates from his county in 1831-32, president of the Virginia bank of Portsmouth; great-granddaughter of Kincher and Mary Rosser Henry, and of Jane Nollner. The Nollners were originally of German stock. Children: 1. Martha Elizabeth, M. A., University of Illinois, professor of French and German, Galloway college, Ark.; 2. Jesse Talbot, jr., Ph. D., University of Wisconsin; assistant professor of physics, University Michigan, Ann Arbor, m. Bessie Cook; 3. Leonidas, Ph. D., University of Illinois, professor of chemistry, Emory-Henry college, Va.; 4. Oscar Emory; 5. Lullie Bernard; 6. Wilbur Fisk; 7. Norman Lunnison; 8. Wallace Duncan. Residence: DeFuniak Springs, Fla.

LIVING, STEPHEN, sr., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, resided in Pike County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

LIVINGSTON, HENRY JAMES, lawyer, colonel C. S. Army, was born July 27, 1833, near Prattville, Autauga County, and died September 13, 1907, at Prattville; son of Robert Tatum and Rachel (Whitstone) Livingston, natives of South Carolina, who were married September 2, 1813, in Orangeburg District, S. C., and lived at that place until 1821, when they moved to Alabama, and settled in Autauga County, near Prattville. He studied law, was admitted to the bar, and practiced his profession at Prattville. During the War of Secession, he was colonel of the Eighth Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: September 24, 1863, near Benton, Lowndes County, to Eleanor E., daughter of George Livingston and Amanda Ann (Bishop) Stewart, who lived near Benton. Children: 1. George Stewart, b. June 19, 1865, near Benton, d. February 27, 1919, was graduated with honors from Southern university, 1885, was admitted to the bar, 1889, was appointed a trustee of the townsite board of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma Territory, by President Cleveland, 1893, became bookkeeper with the Prattville cotton mills and banking company, was elected judge of probate of Autauga County in 1898, and served in that office for three terms, married, two children; 2. John R., civil service, Chattanooga, Tenn.; 3. Mel, Prattville. Last residence: Prattville.

LIVINGSTON, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Morgan County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $21.67; sums received to date of publication of list, $61.01.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

LIVINGSTON, W. L., Presbyterian minister; living in 1913. Residence: Woodlawn.

LLOYD, BENJAMIN, primitive Baptist minister and compiler of hymns, was born October 6, 1804, in Talbot County, Ga., and died January 14, 1860, in Greenville; son of John E. and Elizabeth Lloyd. His paternal ancestors came from Wales with William Penn chiefly settling in Virginia, though members of the original family remained in Pennsylvania, others settled in Maryland, one branch continuing southward from Virginia. Benjamin Lloyd was a minister of the gospel, in the Primitive Baptist church. Under President Buchanan's administration, he was receiver of the land office of the United States, at Greenville. He was major of militia in the Indian War of 1836. Author: "Primitive hymns"; "The primitive hymns, spiritual songs, and sacred poems, regularly selected, classified and set in order, and adapted to social singings and all occasions of Divine Worship." Married: February 22, 1832, at Eatonton, Ga., to Naomi Ann, daughter of Elder Cary and Martha (Roundtree) Cox, who lived at Eatonton. The family of Roundtrees lived in Edgefield District, S. C. Children: 1. John Franklin, Confederate soldier, died from wounds received in battle of Chickamauga, Tenn., m. Mary Eliza Lee; 2. Cary Chappelle (q. v.), Confederate soldier and Baptist minister, m. (1) Susan M. Lee, (2) Julia A. Snelgrove; 3. Joseph Lafayette, Baptist minister, m. (1) Mary Ann Menderson; (2) Lucy Payne; 4. Columbus James, d. in infancy; 5. Eugene Emory, d. unmarried; 6. Benjamin, jr., Confederate soldier, killed during War of Secession in railroad accident, near Cleveland, Tenn., September 9, 1862; 7. Frances Elizabeth, d. in infancy; 8. William Holt, Confederate soldier, m. Mary Frances Reynolds; 9. Andrew Jackson, Confederate soldier, killed at the battle of Richmond, Va., July 2, 1862; 10. Wylie Willis, Confederate soldier, m. Carrie Cooper; 11. Jesse Cox, Confederate soldier, m. Mattie Eliza Reynolds; 12. Orren Datus, Confederate soldier, m. Mary E. Norvell; 13. Milton Stephens, Confederate soldier, m. Melissa Harwell; 14. Martha Ann Eliza, d. young; 15. Ichabod David, m. Mary Hundley; 16. Fannie Joe, m. Y. C. Norris; 17. Thomas Jefferson, m. (1) Fannie Perryman, (2) unknown; 18. James Buchanan (q. v.), m. (1) Maggie Herbert Adams, (2) Sallie Barnett

Adams; 19. Albert Adams, m. Lena Brown. Last residence: Greenville.

LLOYD, CARY CHAPPELLE, physician, was born April 2, 1834, at Talbotton, Talbot County, Ga.; son of Rev. Benjamin and Naomi Ann (Cox) Lloyd (q. v.). He received his academic education in the common schools of the period and completed his medical studies at the Jefferson medical colleges, Philadelphia, Penn., and Atlanta, Ga., graduating with honors in 1856, at the age of twenty-two, at the latter institution. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Greenville, the following year. He enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1861, at the outbreak of the War of Secession, Co. D, 17th Alabama cavalry regiment, and was made assistant regimental quartermaster with the rank of captain of cavalry. He is a Democrat, an ordained minister of the Missionary Baptist church, and was clerk of the Alabama Baptist association for twenty-five years. Married: April 28, 1858, at Mt. Willing, Lowndes County, to Susan Miller, daughter of Rev. David and Mary (Coleman) Lee of that place. Children: 1. Carrie Lee, m. John R. Brooks, Liberty, N. C.; 2. Francis Bartow, (q. v.) m. Sarah Lillian Carter, Butler Springs; 3. Eleanor C., Greenville. Residence: Greenville.

LLOYD, EDWARD READ, teacher and director experiment station, was born March 10, 1867, at Auburn, Lee County; son of William Edward Lloyd of that place. He was educated in the public schools and graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute with the degrees of B. S., in 1887, and M. S., in 1888. He attended the Graduate school, Columbus, Ohio, and Ames, Iowa, and took a course in agriculture at the University of Wisconsin. In 1888 he became assistant agriculturist of the Experiment station, Mississippi agricultural and mechanical college; was made agriculturist in 1890; vice-director in 1895; professor of agriculture, 1900; in 1906 was elected director of the Farmers institutes; and in 1910 was made director of the Experiment station. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: December 18, 1890, at Starkeville, Miss., to Fannie Abert, daughter of Henry Arthur and Mary Della (Billington) Bell of that place. Children: 1. Edward Read, jr.; 2. Lani. Residence: Agricultural College, Miss.

LLOYD, FRANCIS BARTOW (Rufus Sanders), editor and author, was born August 12, —, at Mt. Willing, Lowndes County; son of Cary Chappelle Lloyd (q. v.). He received his primary education in the common schools of the state, and concluded his studies at the Greenville high school under Prof. J. M. Thigpen. At twenty years of age he read law for a short time in the office of J. C. Richardson, but abandoned his profession for newspaper work. He was reporter on the "Selma Times" and afterwards, city editor. Later he entered the service of the "Montgomery Advertiser" and was city editor of that paper for six years. He was elected to the legislature of Alabama from Montgomery County, 1890-91, and was again returned to the lower house from Butler

JOHN W. McQUEEN

County. He was a Democrat and Baptist. Author: "Sketches of country life," a newspaper series published under the pen name of "Rufus Sanders," later made into a book by his wife and published as a memorial to him under the title, "Humor, wisdom and pathos," by Rufus Sanders. Married: Sarah Lillian, a graduate of the Alabama central female college, 1885, daughter of Harris and Clara Carter who lived at Butler Springs; granddaughter of William Carter, pioneer and planter of Pine Flat, Butler County. Children: 1. Francis Bartow, pharmacist, Brewton; 2. Mary, graduate of Judson college; 3. Clara Lee, graduate of Judson college, m. Leroy Monroe Parker, Equality. Last residence: Greenville.

LLOYD, FRANCIS ERNEST, botanist, a resident of Alabama, 1908-12, was born October 4, 1868, at Manchester, Eng.; son of Edward and Leah (Pierce) Lloyd, both natives of Wales, who removed to the United States about 1882. He was educated at the Liverpool institute, England; York collegiate institute, Pennsylvania; Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., A. B., 1891; and Princeton university, A. M., 1895, studied at Munich, 1898, and at Bonn, 1901. He was instructor in biology at Williams college, 1891-92; professor in biology and geology, 1892-95, and biology, 1895-97, at Pacific university, Forest Grove, Ore.; adjunct professor of biology, Teacher's college, Columbia university, 1897-1906; staff member of Desert botanical laboratory, Carnegie institution of Washington, 1906; instructor, Harvard summer school, 1907; cytologist, Arizona agricultural experimental station, 1907; director of the department of investigation, Continental-Mexican rubber company, 1907-08; professor of botany and plant physiologist, Alabama polytechnic institute and Alabama agricultural experimental station, 1908-12; and is now McDonald professor of botany, McGill university, Montreal. He was the editor of The Plant World, 1905-08, and is the author of various books and papers on botanical subjects. He is a Mason. Married: May 18, 1903, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas and Lucinda (Wotton) Hail, respectively of Northfield and Boston, Mass. Children: 1. Mary Elizabeth, deceased; 2. Francis Ernest L., jr.; 3. David Pierce C. Residence: Montreal.

LLOYD, JAMES BUCHANAN, merchant, was born February 2, 1857, near Old Fort Dale, Butler County; son of Benjamin and Naomi Ann (Cox) Lloyd (q. v.), the former who was born in Talbot County, Ga., emigrated to Alabama in 1836, lived in several places in the state, was a Primitive Baptist minister and the compiler of the "Primitive Baptist Hymn Book," was a major of Alabama militia in the Indian war of 1813, and receiver of the U. S. land office at Greenville under Buchanan's administration; grandson of Cary and Martha (Roundtree) Cox, of Eatonton, Ga. The Lloyds came from Wales with William Penn. Mr. Lloyd was educated in the Greenville schools, and after leaving school engaged in merchandising. He was postmaster at Pine Apple, 1891-1897; and represented Wilcox County in the State legislature, 1911. He is a Democrat and a member of the Christian church. Married: (1) November 8, 1882, to Maggie Herbert Adams, and (2) December 28, 1892, to Sallie Barnett Adams; both daughters of Dr. David and Martha (Blankenship) Adams, of Pine Apple; granddaughters of John and Mahalath (Atkins) Adams of Georgia, and of John and Eliza (Carter) Blankenship. Children, by second marriage: 1. James Adams. Residence: Pine Apple.

LLOYD, WILLIAM R., former secretary of the State tax commission.

LLOYD, W. S., pioneer Missionary Baptist preacher, who died in his pulpit; father of W. E. Lloyd, of Auburn.

LOBMAN, NATHAN, merchant, was born June 2, 1851, in New York City; son of Henry and Theresa (Steiner) Lobman, natives, respectively, of Heidelberg, Bavaria, and Tachan, Austria, who emigrated to New York in 1846 or 1847, and were married in that city, who came to Greenville in 1854, and moved to Montgomery in 1861, the former of whom engaged in cabinet making and merchandising until the death of his wife in 1876, when he went to Pineapple to live. He was educated in a school taught by Col. Thomas Herbert in Greenville, and after leaving school, clerked for two years in Greenville, for the firm of L. Bear and company. In 1869, he moved to Montgomery where he conducted a general store, and two years later moved to Pineapple, where he opened a general store in partnership with L. Steiner, under the firm name of Steiner and Lobman. After nineteen years in business together at Pineapple, Mr. Lobman and Mr. Steiner opened a wholesale drygoods house in Montgomery. Mr. Lobman was elected alderman of Montgomery in April, 1903. He is a director in the Peoples cotton factory, a director of the Commercial and industrial association, and a trustee of the Jewish Temple. He is a Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; a member of the National Union; and of the B'nai B'rith. Married: January 14, 1884, to Carrie, daughter of Joseph Pollock, of New York City. Children: 1. Theresa; 2. Walter; 3. Myron; 4. Bernard. Residence: Montgomery.

LOCKE, ANNIE REES, author, was born in Greensboro, Hale County; daughter of James Whitehead and Helen (Gayle) Locke, the former a student at Princeton college when the War of Secession broke out, left school and joined Co. D, 5th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, afterwards a planter, residing in Greensboro; granddaughter of John and Anne Eliza (Rees) Locke, the former sixth in descent from Sir Francis Locke of England whose son, Matthew Locke, emigrated to America during the Colonial period, settled in Pennsylvania, and shortly afterwards removed to Rowan County, N. C., where he supported the Revolution, being a member of the house of commons of North Carolina, in 1775, and of the convention that framed the constitution of 1776, brigadier-general State troops, served thirty years in the legislature, had four sons in the Revolutionary War, of whom Col. George Locke was cut to pieces on the King's highway, near Charlotte, by Carleton's dragoons to whose memory the Mecklenburg chapter, D. A. R., in recent years erected a monument, and of Gov. John and Clarissa Stedman (Peck) Gayle (q. v.). Miss Locke received her education at the Female academy, Greensboro. She prepared herself for the profession of librarianship and holds that position in the public library of Greensboro. Author: "The Flower of Fort Louis," which ran for one year as a serial in "Advance." She has also written numerous short stories and articles published in periodicals north and south. Unmarried. Residence: Greensboro.

LOCKE, HUGH ALLEN, lawyer, was born February 9, 1885, near Moscow, Fayette County; son of Robert and Susannah Francannah (Crenshaw) Locke, the former a native of Murfreesboro, Tenn., who lived at different places in that state, who served four years as a Confederate soldier, and was a civil engineer and a farmer. The grandson of David Shelton and Clarissa Caroline Crenshaw, who lived near Memphis, Tenn., and of Robert Locke, who was from the north of Ireland, of Scotch descent, came to America and finally settled near Memphis, Tenn., where he became a planter. The Crenshaws are of Welsh descent, and settled in North Carolina. Judge Locke was educated in the grammar and high schools of Somerville, Tenn. He graduated from Birmingham college, 1905, B. S.; from Vanderbilt university, LL.B., 1907, and the same year began the practice of law in Birmingham. He served as assistant solicitor of Jefferson County from January, 1911, to April, 1914; was elected judge of the tenth judicial circuit of Jefferson County, January, 1916; and is a trustee of the Birmingham-Southern college. He is a Democrat; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, south; is a Mason; a Shriner; an Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World; and a Maccabee. He is unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

LOCKE, THOMAS COURTNEY, major, U. S. Army, and assistant adjutant general of Alabama, was born September 10, 1881, at Clapham, Surrey County, England; son of Richard Langford and Eliza Julia (de Tunzelman) Locke, the former a native of New Castle West, Limerick County, Ireland, who was a civil engineer for the British government in India thirteen years, and was the London representative of the East India tea co.; grandson of John and Jane (Langford) Locke, of Dublin, Ireland, and of Waldemar and Georgina (Finch) de Tunzelman, of London, England. He is a descendant in the fourth generation from the great philosopher, John Locke, and of Reginald Courtney, Earl of Devon. Major Locke left England and came to Hillsboro County, Fla., moving in 1897 or 1898 to Mobile.

He was educated in the public schools of Florida and at the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, where in 1910 he received certificates in electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, mechanical drawing and physical geometry. He enlisted in Co. A, 2nd Alabama infantry regiment, Alabama National Guard, April 23, 1902, and has held commissions as second lieutenant, first lieutenant, captain, and on November 20, 1913, was commissioned major in the adjutant general's department. On June 18, 1916, he was assigned as adjutant of the 1st Alabama brigade; saw service on the Mexican Border at Nogales, Ariz., October 29, 1916, to March 18, 1917; became adjutant of mobilization camp, Montgomery, March 22, 1917; and continued as such until September 17, 1917, when he became adjutant of the 62nd infantry brigade, at Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga. He was overseas with the 31st Division, from October 31, 1918 until November 11, 1918, when he was placed in charge of the embarkation of troops at Bassens, Bordeaux, returning to America on August 10, 1919. He was appointed assistant quartermaster for the national matches, Navy rifle range, Caldwell, N. J., and on October 31, 1919, he was discharged from the service. He now holds rank of major, quartermaster corps, and on April 1, 1920, was appointed assistant adjutant general of Alabama. He is a Baptist and a member of the Kappa Sigma college fraternity. Unmarried. Residence: Montgomery.

LOCKETT, SAMUEL HENRY, educator, civil engineer, was born July 7, 1837, in Mecklenburg County, Va., and died October 12, 1891, at Bogota, United States of Colombia. He moved to Alabama with his father when he was a child; was graduated from Howard college at the age of sixteen; and in 1854, was appointed a cadet from Alabama to the U. S. military academy, at West Point. He was graduated with the second highest rank in his class, 1859; was made second lieutenant of engineers; appointed an assistant professor at West Point; and assisted in the construction of Forts Pulaski and Jackson, near Savannah, until his resignation, which immediately followed the secession of Alabama. He was made a major in the engineering corps of the army of the state of Alabama, in February, 1861, and served with Gen. Bragg at Pensacola, Fla., until August, 1861; succeeded Gen. J. F. Gilmer as chief engineer of the C. S. army, with the rank of captain upon the staff of Gen. A. S. Johnston; and at the battle of Shiloh acted with gallantry on the field. Promoted to major, he served on the staff of Gen. Pemberton as chief engineer, participating in the battle of Baker's Creek, constructing and improving the defenses of Vicksburg, and performed important duty all through the siege. After his exchange as one of the Vicksburg garrison, he served with distinction on the staff of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, and during 1864-1865 had charge of the defenses of Mobile, which he constructed with such ability as to win a wide reputation as an engineer. He also planned and partly constructed the defenses of Pensacola, Corinth, Vicksburg, Port Hudson, and Jackson. At the close of the war, he surrendered with the troops of Gen. Richard Taylor. After the war he became professor of mathematics and natural sciences at Judson institute, Marion, 1865-1867; professor of mechanics and engineering, and commandant of cadets, Louisiana State university, 1867-1873, and director of the Louisiana topographical survey, 1869-1873; was president of a school in Alabama, 1874-1875; was colonel of engineers in the Egyptian Army, 1875-1877. Upon his return to this country, he became professor of engineering and mechanics in the University of Tennessee; was principal assistant engineer to Gen. C. P. Stone in the placing of the Bartholdi statue of liberty, 1883-1884; constructed water and gas works in various cities of the United States, 1884-1888; was sent to Chili in 1888, and secured a twenty million dollar contract for the North and South American construction company; was appointed chief engineer to construct water works by the United States of Colombia, and was holding that position at the time of his death. Last residence: Bogota, United States of Colombia.

LOCKHART, H. C., lieutenant colonel of Lockhart's battalion, Alabama Exempts, during the War of Secession.

LOCKLIN, LAWRENCE WHEELER, merchant, was born February 27, 1867, at Perdue Hill, Monroe County; son of Charles William and Martha Barbara (Moore) Locklin, the former a native of Claiborne, Monroe County, who lived at that place and at Perdue Hill, was in the steamboat business at the outbreak of the War of Secession, and during the war was engaged as captain of steamships transporting men and equipment for the C. S. Army from Mobile to Montgomery, was president of the Mobile trade company from 1870 until he retired in 1872; grandson of William and Amelia (Wheeler) Locklin, of Milledgeville, Ga., who moved to Alabama in 1812, and of William and Mary Moore, who lived near Claiborne; great-grandson of Samuel Locklin, a Scot, who settled in Georgia, and of William Wheeler a merchant of Baltimore, Md., who moved to Claiborne in 1816. Mr. Locklin attended private and public schools at Perdue Hill; was a student at Howard college for three years; and was graduated at Eastman's business college, 1884. He became a member of the mercantile firm of Roberts, Locklin and company, in 1886, at Perdue Hill; later became president of the Claiborne ranch company at Perdue Hill; was a member of constitutional convention of Alabama in 1901; and served as supervisor of census for the first Alabama district, 1910. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: November 5, 1889, at Fort Worth, to Corinne, daughter of Robert and Estell (Agee) Rives, of Benton, Lowndes County; granddaughter of — Rives, a Virginian, and a descendant of Sir John Rives of Dorsetshire, England. Children: 1. Anderson J. Residence: Perdue Hill.

LOCKWOOD, J. L., business man, was born December 15, 1843, in Dubuque, Iowa; son of Ezekiel and Ann B. (Warren) Lockwood, both natives of New York, residents of Montgomery after 1846, the former a Baptist minister. Major Lockwood was educated at Lima, N. Y., and at Williamsburg, Mass., leaving the latter place in 1860, and locating in Montgomery. He entered the Confederate service in 1861, as a member of the "Dixie Rifles," which was afterwards assigned to the 22nd Alabama infantry regiment; promoted ordnance sergeant, and at the battle of Shiloh, to sergeant major; was made aide-de-camp on the staff of Gen. Frank Gardner, 1862, and served in this position until the battle of Murfreesboro; was transferred to the trans-Mississippi department and served there until the fall of Port Hudson; joined the Army of Tennessee at the battle of Chickamauga, and was commissioned adjutant of the 22nd Alabama regiment; served through the Georgia campaign and was badly wounded at Jonesboro. When the army was consolidated in 1864, he was promoted major and served with this rank until the close of the war. He participated in the battles of Shiloh, where he was twice wounded; Corinth, was wounded in the retreat to Saltillo, Perryville, and slightly wounded, Crab Apple Orchard, and a week's fighting on the retreat, Murfreesboro, Port Hudson, where he was twice wounded, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Dalton, Resaca, Kennesaw Mountain, Atlanta, Jonesboro, where he was badly wounded, Franklin and Boonville, N. C. After the cessation of hostilities, Major Lockwood returned to Montgomery and kept books. In 1871 he removed to Birmingham and went into the mercantile business, adding contracting. He became president of the Ellis drug company; director in the North Birmingham oil and asphalt company; a stockholder in a number of successful business enterprises; and served two years as alderman. He is a Mason; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; Knight of Honor; a Democrat; and Episcopalian. Married: (1) in May, 1873, to Jodie C., daughter of Dr. Thomas Martin, of Elmore County; 2. to Abigail H., his deceased wife's sister. Children: by the first wife, 1. and 2. both died in childhood; by the second wife, 3. Henry W. Residence: Birmingham.

LODOR, JOHN A., grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1863.

LOEB, JACQUES, wholesale merchant, was born March 31, 1855, at Reichshofen, Alsace, France, and died March 29, 1912, at Montgomery; son of Gabriel and Caroline (Baroch) Loeb, of Alsace, France. He was educated in Alsace, and came to America soon after the Franco-Prussian War in 1872, and settled in Montgomery. He entered the grocery and dry goods business and conducted that business until his death in 1912. He was president of the Winter Loeb grocery company of Montgomery; vice-president of the chamber of commerce, Montgomery; director of the New Farley national bank; secretary of the United Hebrew charities of Montgomery; a trustee of the Carnegie Library; a trustee of the Leo N. Levi memorial hospital, Hot Springs, Ark.; a member of the State militia of Alabama under Capt. John G. Winter and Capt. A. B. Garland of the Montgomery True Blues; a member of the Standard and Thirteen Clubs of Montgomery; a Democrat; president of the Young Men's Hebrew association; a member of B'nai B'rith; a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: January 28, 1885, in Montgomery, to Selena, daughter of Henry and Jeanetta Weil, who lived at Montgomery. Children: 1. Lucien S., Montgomery; 2. Cecile L., m. Gaston J. Greil (q. v.), Montgomery; 3. Blanche L., m. Louis A. Weil, New Orleans, La.; 4. Raphael J., m. Myrtle Kaufman, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

LOFTON, GEORGE AUGUSTUS, Baptist minister, was born December 25, 1839, in Pontotoc County, Miss.; son of John B. and Olivia Ann (Settle) Lofton, natives of Edgefield District, S. C. He received his early education in the common schools of Mississippi, at Starrs-ville, Fayetteville, and Monticello, Ga., and was attending Mercer university at the beginning of the War of Secession. He joined the Gate City Guards at Atlanta, Ga., in June, 1861, and was assigned to the First Georgia regiment of volunteers. He participated in the battle of Cheat Mountain, and in November, 1861, was discharged because of ill health. In the spring of 1862, he joined the Ninth Georgia artillery battalion, of which he was elected adjutant, and served with Humphrey Marshall in the fall of 1862; in Virginia, during the winter of 1862-1863; and in the spring of the latter year was stationed at Knoxville, Tenn. At Chattanooga, he was made aid to chief of staff of Gen. Buckner, and in November, 1863, took command of Battery A, Ninth battalion, and joined Gen. Longstreet in the battles of Campbell's Station and Knoxville. In the Lynchburg campaign he was presented with a captured battery, and in the latter part of 1864 rendered distinguished service in the Shenandoah Valley. He was next transferred to Richmond, and on the James River and at Drury's Bluff, commanded two batteries. From November, 1864, to the retreat from Richmond, he was actively engaged. He surrendered with Lee at Appomattox. After the war, Col. Lofton taught school in Webster County, until 1867, when he was admitted to the bar at Weston, Ga. He began to practice law at Americus, Ga., but in the fall of 1867, was licensed as a Baptist minister, and began to preach near Americus. In 1868, he was called to Antioch, Lee County, Ga., and ordained to the ministry. He preached at Shiloh and other places in Georgia until 1869; was called to Dalton in 1870, where he founded the Crawford high school, now the Joseph E. Brown institute; became pastor of the First Baptist church at Memphis, Tenn., in July, 1872; canvassed Tennessee in the interest of the centennial endowment for the Southern Baptist university in 1876; became pastor of the Third Baptist church at St. Louis, Mo., in January, 1877; resigned in November, 1881, having become prostrated from much work; returned to Georgia, and in January, 1884, again took charge of the church at Dalton, Ga.; and came to Talladega as pastor of the Baptist church in October, 1886. Married: March 29, 1864, to Ella E. Martin of Atlanta, Ga. Residence: Talladega.

LOFTON, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 73, and a resident of Pickens County; private, captain and sergeant S. C. Militia; enrolled on February 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $340; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,020.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He came from Pendleton District, S. C., to Alabama. The young people of his neighborhood knew him as "Grandsire Lofton" and loved him for his kind and genial disposition; some are still living who remember his interesting stories of the Revolution. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. He is buried at Bethesda church near Benevola; no stone marks his last resting place.—Mrs. P. H. Mell, in Alabama Historical Society, Transactions, vol. iv, p. 554.

LOGAN, STEPHEN DOUGLAS, lawyer, was born May 29, 1859, in Centreville; son of John H. and Levinia (Moseley) Logan, the former a native of Shelby County, N. C., born in 1802, who went, when quite young, with his parents to Tennessee, and later to Alabama, where they located at Centreville, who became captain of all the flatboats that floated to Mobile from Centreville, on the Cahawba and Alabama Rivers, and continued that enterprise in connection with farming for twenty-five years, after which time he devoted his entire attention to farming, the latter a native of Edgefield District, S. C., born in 1818, who came with her parents to Centreville when a small child. He was reared on a farm near Centreville; attended schools at that place and the Montevallo high school; and was graduated from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1877. He was admitted to the bar immediately after his graduation, and began the practice of law at Centreville. In addition to his law practice, he conducts a plantation near Centreville. He served as superintendent of education for Bibb County, 1886-1890. He is a Presbyterian. Married: (1) November 1, 1885, to Mamie V. Gardner, who was born November 4, 1865, in Centreville, daughter of John S. and Rebecca (Carson) Gardner; (2) January 20, 1898, at Talladega, to Alice A. Ivey. Children, by first marriage: 1. Gardner C., b. August 10, 1886; 2. Douglas C., b. March 10, 1889; 3. Edna L., b. December 16, 1890, d. August 15, 1891; 4. Winnie Rebecca, b. June 15, 1892. Residence: Centreville.

LOLLAR, JOHN B., farmer, was born November 30, 1835, near Jasper; son of John A. and Susan (Gillin) Lollar, the former of whom came to Walker County at its first settlement; grandson of Hugh Lollar, who named the town of Jasper. He was a brother of Hugh Lollar, jr., who served as sheriff of Walker County before the War of Secession, and who was killed at the battle of Murfreesboro. He was reared on a farm at Lost Creek, and entered the C. S. Army as third lieutenant of Co. G, Thirteenth Alabama cavalry regiment, under Col. Hewlitt. The regiment was consolidated with the First Alabama, commanded by Col. Boyle of Mobile, and for about a year did garrison duty at Columbus, Miss., later serving at other places in that state. For some years after the war, Mr. Lollar raised corn and cotton on Lost Creek. He was elected sheriff of Walker County in 1877; was elected tax collector in 1880; was appointed postmaster at Jasper, 1885; and in 1886 was elected clerk of the circuit court. Married: in 1857, to Elizabeth, daughter of Isaac Taylor, a citizen of Poplar Cove, who died in Texas. Children: 1. William R.; 2. Fannie E.; 3. Meta J.; 4. Queen Victoria; 5. Margaret E.; 6. Isaac H.; 7. Andrew J.; 8. Joe. Residence: Jasper.

LOMAX, CARRIE (BILLINGSLEA), patriotic worker, was born March 17, 1825, in Clinton, Jones County, Ga., and died June 30, 1907, in Montgomery; daughter of James and Elizabeth (Slatter) Billingslea. On her maternal side she was descended from a Revolutionary soldier. She was active in church work and a charter member of the Ladies memorial association. Her portrait hangs in the statehouse between the pictures of her two husbands, both distinguished in Alabama history. She was a Methodist. Married: (1) in 1848, to Reuben C. Shorter, (q. v.) of Eufaula, brother of Gov. John Gill Shorter (q. v.); (2) Col. Tennent Lomax (q. v.). Children: by the first marriage, 1. James Billingslea; 2. Reuben Clarke; by the second marriage, 3. and 4. twins, Carrie Elizabeth, died in childhood, and Tennent Lomax, jr., (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

LOMAX, TENNENT, lawyer, colonel, U. S. Army, was born September 20, 1820, in Abbeville, S. C., and was killed June 1, 1862, at Seven Pines, Va.; son of William and Eliza (Tennent) Lomax, the former a lawyer in Abbeville, who served in the South Carolina legislature; grandson of James and Jane (Dillworth) Lomax, and of William Peter and Martha (Middleton) Tennent; great-grandson of Maj. Hugh Middleton, of the Revolutionary Army. James Lomax emigrated from Rockingham County, N. C., to Abbeville District, S. C., where he built a colonial home and reared his family. He was the son of William Lomax, who came from England to America, and who was descended from Laurent Lomax, a companion of William the Conqueror. The original colonial ancestor of Gen. Lomax in the Tennent branch was Rev. William Tennent, a Presbyterian minister, who, in 1727, established the log college, from which sprang Princeton theological seminary. Four sons of William Tennent were Presbyterian ministers, and one of these, William Tennent, jr., was the founder of Tennent church, at Freehold, N. J. His son, Rev. William Tennent, of Charleston, S. C., father of William Peter Tennent, was known as the "preacher and patriot," and a slab commemorating him is on the walls of the Archdale church of Charleston, S. C.

Gen. Lomax's mother died at his birth, and his father died during his boyhood. He was educated at Randolph-Macon college, graduating fourth in a class of which Justice Clopton of the Alabama supreme court, was valedictorian, A. B., 1840. He received the degree of A. M. in 1851. After his graduation, he moved to Alabama, and read law in the office of John C. Calhoun, at Eufaula. On completing his studies, he was admitted to the bar, and engaged in the practice of law and in planting at Eufaula. Upon the outbreak of the war with Mexico, he raised a company, and became its captain. The organization became Co. D, First battalion Alabama infantry, and was on duty in the Department of Orizaba while Orizaba was occupied by the United States troops in 1848. Soon after his return to civil life, he moved to Columbus, Ga., where for several years, he became one of the proprietors and the editor of the Columbus "Times and Sentinel." He was elected State printer of Georgia, by the legislature of that state, and was president of the Democratic convention which first nominated Senator Joseph E. Brown for governor of Georgia. He was at one time tendered the position of charge d'affaires of the United States to Belgium, but declined the appointment. He returned to Alabama in 1857, and engaged in planting at Montgomery. While a resident of Columbus, Ga., he was captain of a military company for several years, and shortly after his removal to Montgomery, he became captain of the Montgomery True Blues, a position he held until the outbreak of the War of Secession. Through his influence the Second volunteer regiment was raised soon after the Harper's Ferry raid, and in 1861, as colonel of that regiment he was ordered to Pensacola by Gov. Moore to assist the Florida authorities in taking possession of the forts and navy yard. Forts Barancas and McRae were surrendered to him by Lieut. Slemmer of the U. S. Army, who withdrew to Fort Pickens, on Santa Rosa Island. Not being allowed to take Fort Pickens by assault, Gen. Lomax wrote to Gov. Moore asking their recall, and shortly after its return to Montgomery, the regiment disbanded.

In April, 1861, Gen. Lomax was elected lieutenant colonel of the Third Alabama infantry regiment, and repaired with it to Virginia. He became colonel by the promotion of Col. Withers, and was commissioned a brigadier-general just before the battle of Seven Pines, but remained in command of the regiment for that battle. On June 1, 1862, while at the head of his regiment, he was instantly killed. His body, which fell into the hands of Federal troops, was subsequently recovered and buried in the cemetery at Montgomery. Married: (1) in 1849, to Sophie Shorter, who died, March 18, 1850, daughter of Gen. R. C. Shorter of Eufaula, and sister of Gov. John C. Shorter; (2) Mrs. Caroline (Billingslea) Shorter, widow of Reuben C. Shorter, by whom she had two sons, daughter of Augustus and Elizabeth (Slatter) Billingslea, of English descent. Children: 1. a daughter, d. in infancy; 2. Tennent (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

LOMAX, TENNENT, lawyer, county solicitor, and member constitutional convention of 1901, was born April 29, 1858, at Montgomery, and died at that place November 21, 1902; son of Gen. Tennent Lomax (q. v.) and Carrie Shorter (Billingslea) Lomax (q. v.). He was educated in the public and private schools of Montgomery, and at the University of Alabama, receiving the M. A. degree in 1878, and B. L. in 1879. In July of the latter year he was admitted to the bar, and practised his profession in Montgomery continuously until his death. From 1878 to 1888 he was secretary of the Democratic State executive committee; lieutenant of the Montgomery True Blues, 1882-1887; delegate to the Democratic national conventions of 1888, 1896, and 1900. He was president of the Auditorium company of Montgomery, 1901; director of the Montgomery commercial and industrial association; the Capitol City bank, and the People's cotton factory. In 1902 he was elected as a delegate from the State at large to the Alabama constitutional convention, and served as chairman of the committee on preamble and declaration of rights. He was appointed assistant solicitor of Montgomery County under Capt. Fred S. Ferguson, in 1880, soon after entering the practice and upon the latter's retirement in 1886 was elected to succeed him as county solicitor, an office he occupied by successive elections for twelve years, and was filling at the time of his death. It has been said: "As a student, lawyer, political leader and business man Mr. Lomax was a leader of marked strength. As a parliamentarian and orator he was at the head of the young men of his generation and equal to many of his seniors in years and public service." He was a Democrat; Methodist; Knight of Pythias; member board of trustees, University of Alabama; Alabama historical association; Alabama bar association; Red Man; Odd Fellow; and commandant, Camp Holtzclaw, United sons of Confederate veterans. Unmarried. Last residence: Montgomery.

LONDON, ALEXANDER TROY, lawyer, was born February 28, 1847, at Wilmington, New Hanover County, N. C., and died August 27, 1908, while on a visit to Chautauqua, N. Y.; son of Mauger and Rachel Jane (Troy) London, who lived at Wilmington, N. C., the former a native of that place, a prominent lawyer of the old school; grandson of John and Anne Thorney (Mauger) London, who were married at Charleston, S. C., and lived at Wilmington, N. C., the former a native of London, England, who came to North Carolina before the Revolutionary War, having been married for the first time in England, and settled on the coast just below Wilmington, N. C., the latter a native of the Isle of Jersey, who came to Charleston, S. C., with her father in 1783, and who was descended on her mother's side from French Huguenots, and of Alexander and Francis (Shipman) Troy, who lived near Whiteside, Columbus County, N. C., the former who served for a long time as district solicitor, and died on his circuit and was buried at Wadesboro, N. C.; great-grandson of John and Mary (Wollaston) London, both of Brandon, Suffolk, England, of John Mauger, and of Michael and Jane (Potts) Troy, who were married in Pennsylvania, and moved to North Carolina at the time of the Wyoming Valley troubles, and settled in Salisbury, the former of whom came with his brother, Matthew Troy, from Londonderry, Ireland, about the year 1711, and settled in Pennsylvania.

Mr. London attended private schools in Wilmington, N. C., and read law in the office of his father. He was admitted to the bar at Wilmington, June 30, 1869, and began the practice of law in North Carolina, continuing his profession at that place until 1884, when he moved to Montgomery. He entered a law partnership with his uncle, Daniel Shipman Troy, and Henry C. Tompkin, at that place, and maintained that association until 1890, when he moved to Birmingham. He continued his practice in Birmingham until his death. He was elected a representative in the State legislature from Jefferson County in 1902. During the War of Secession, he served as first lieutenant and adjutant of the First North Carolina regiment, junior reserves. He was a Democrat, and an Episcopalian. Married: December 6, 1892, at Selma, to Mary L., daughter of Clifford Daniel and Louisa (Swift) Packe, who lived at Selma, the former a physician. Children: 1. Mary Packe; 2. Rachel Troy; 3. Alexandra Mauger, Birmingham. Last residence: Birmingham.

LONDON, JOHN, lawyer; president of the Alabama State bar association, 1910-11. Residence: Birmingham.

LONG, BENJAMIN McFARLAND, merchant, was born November 5, 1827, at Carrollton, Ga., and died June 17, 1903, at Cordova; son of John and Nancy Davis (Long) Long, who lived at Marshall's Ferry, Grainger County, Tenn., until 1826, when they moved to Carrollton, Ga., the former a native of Marshall's Ferry, Tenn., who served in the Georgia legislature, 1868-1869, and was clerk of the superior court at Carrollton, Ga., for forty years; grandson of Robert and Isabel (Leeper) Long, who lived at Marshall's Ferry, Tenn., and of James and Jane (Walker) Long, of Carter's Valley, Hawkins County, Tenn. The Long family came from Belfast, Ireland, and settled in Rockbridge County, Va., in 1750. Mr. Long was the first white child born in Carroll County, Ga., and was reared and educated at Carrollton. He was one of the first volunteers in the Mexican War, and served throughout that war under the command of Robert E. Lee. He became a merchant in partnership with his father at Carrollton, 1849-1856, and continued in the mercantile business for the remainder of his life. He moved to Alabama before the War of Secession, and settled near Cordova, Walker County. At the beginning of the war, he raised the first company from that county, was elected captain, and entered the C. S. Army as captain of Co. G, Col. Looney's regiment, Hindman's division. He conducted his business in Jasper for a long while after the war was ended, then moved to Cordova, and founded that town. He was a leader in the coal development of Walker County, and was directly responsible for the location of Indian head mills at Cordova. He was a member of the constitutional convention in 1865; served in the Georgia legislature, 1872-1874, and in the Alabama legislature, 1880-1882; was presidential elector from the sixth Alabama district in 1884; was a candidate for governor of Alabama on the Republican ticket, 1890; and was the candidate of that party for congress in 1894. He was opposed to secession, was originally a Whig, then became a Know-Nothing, and after the War of Secession was affiliated with the Republican party. He was a Methodist, and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: October 17, 1854, near Carrollton, Ga., to Amanda Caroline, daughter of Henry Pope and Melissa Caroline (Hinton) Wootten, who lived at Wilkes County, Ga., prior to their residence in Carroll County, Ga. Children: 1. Henry Whitfield, merchant at Cordova, 1884-1899, and at Carrollton, Ga., after that time, m. at Carrollton, Ga., Lula Mandeville; 2. John Benjamin, m. Missouri Musgrove, Jasper; 3. Carrie Gertrude, m. (1) Newton Carnak, (2) Roy Garner, Lawrenceburg, Tenn.; 4. Thomas Leeper (q. v.); 5. Robert Wootten, Jasper; 6. Ida Jane, m. Dr. J. M. Miller, Cordova; 7. Effie Lou, m. Horace Stewart, Carrollton, Ga.; 8. Ada Clare, m. Sidney Holderness, Carrollton, Ga.; 9. Pope McFarland, m. Bertie Ellis, Cordova; 10. Jesse Orville, m. Nona Bell Sprott, Jasper; 11. Edgar Wootten, m. Catherine Phifer, Cordova. Last residence: Cordova.

STERLING A. WOOD

LONG, DANIEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, and a resident of Madison County; dragoon Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on November 22, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $100; sums received to date of publication of list, $300.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

LONG, DANIEL, physician, deceased, of Irish descent, was reared in Laurens District, S. C. He was graduated from the Jefferson medical college at Philadelphia, Pa., and engaged in the practice of medicine. During the War of 1812, he was surgeon in the U. S. Army, under Col. Alston, of South Carolina, 1812-1815; moved to Perry County, near Marion in 1818, and continued his profession there. Married: in 1824, near Marion, to Mary, daughter of Thomas Billingsley, who lived near Marion. The Billingsleys came from North Carolina, and were of Scotch descent. Dr. Long left descendants. Last residence: Perry County.

LONG, JOHN LEE, business man, was born January 12, 1868, at Greenville; son of John T. and Louisa (Thagard) Long, who lived in Greenville; grandson of Solomon and Patience P. (Warr) Long, and of Rev. Solomon Thagard. In early life, Mr. Long clerked in a store, then went into business for himself as a cotton buyer. He has served Greenville several times as councilman, treasurer, and member of the school board; has been chairman of the board of revenue for Butler County; chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Butler County; a member of the State executive committee, and chairman of the congressional executive committee; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901; became a member of the staff of Gov. Joseph F. Johnston with the rank of lieutenant colonel; was elected to the State legislature in 1906, and was re-elected in 1910 and 1919; served in 1910 as chairman of the campaign committee having in charge the successful fight against the adoption of the proposed amendment to the State constitution providing for constitutional prohibition; was appointed chairman of the State tax commission in 1911, and held that position until September, 1913, when he resigned to enter business in Greenville. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: May 23, 1900, to Sallie Dickerson of Greenville. Residence: Greenville.

LONG, JOHN R., merchant, was born August 25, 1835, in Pickens County; son of Richard and Mary H. (Coleman) Long, natives of Virginia, who moved first to South Carolina, and in 1828, to Alabama, settling on a plantation in Pickens County, near Pickensville, until the death of the former in 1858. His paternal grandfather was born in Ireland, and his grandmother in England. He began life for himself as a clerk for Drury Miller, a merchant at Bridgeville, and remained there for three years, when, on the death of his father, he returned home and took charge of the plantation, at the same time conducting a farm of his own in Noxubee County, Miss. He enlisted in the C. S. Army in 1861, joining Co. C, Forty-first Alabama infantry, and remained in the service of the commissary department until the latter part of 1864, when he was discharged on account of disability for service. In 1866, he formed a partnership in the mercantile business with Dr. A. M. Wilkins at Pickensville, and at the same time formed a partnership with S. W. Hood, at Franconia. He maintained the latter association until 1869, when he sold his interest in the business at Franconia, and gave his entire attention to the store in Pickensville, assuming full control of the business in 1887. He was a township trustee for twenty years, and is a Mason. Married: (1) in 1869, to Dora Stinson, who was born in Pickens County, and died December, 1882, daughter of James and Nancy (Cotton) Stinson; (2) in November, 1886, to Mary Archibald, a native of Pleasant Ridge, Greene County. Children, by first marriage: 1. Walter, b. in January, 1871, a graduate of Marion military institute, 1892; 2. Julia, b. in March, 1873, attended Judson college; 3. Lillie, b. in December, 1875, attended Judson college; 4. John R., jr., b. in January, 1877, attended Pickensville institute; 5. Drury, b. in July, 1881; by second marriage: 6. Annie, b. in January, 1889. Residence: Pickensville.

LONG, NIMROD W. E., farmer, merchant, was born March 25, 1834, in Upson County, Ga.; son of Nimrod W. and Catherine (Davis) Long, the former a native of Baldwin County, Ga., born in 1800, who was married in Houston County, Ga., lived in Twigg and Upson Counties, Ga., until 1835, when he moved to Russell County, near Seale, and in 1863, moved to Columbus, Ga., where he was living at the time of his death in 1875, who served in the Seminole War in Florida, and represented Russell County in the state legislature in 1837 and in 1845. The Davis family was originally from North Carolina. Mr. Long was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1854, and was a civil engineer until the outbreak of the War of Secession, when he enlisted in 1862, as a private in Co. B, Fifty-first Alabama cavalry. He served mostly with the western army, at Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, in the Atlanta campaign, and following Sherman into the Carolinas. He was a member of a scouting company most of the time. After the war, he returned to his home and engaged in farming for ten years, then moved to Hurtsboro, where he conducted a mercantile business in addition to farming. He represented Russell County in the legislature from 1884-1888. Married: in 1860, at Perote, Bullock County, to Martha J. Gamble. Children: 1. George D., d. in infancy; 2. Jackson Edward, attended Vanderbilt university, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1885, practiced law at Eufaula four years, then at Birmingham, d. April 16, 1894, at Eufaula, m. October 26, 1887, at Eufaula, Mamie Bealle Dent, daughter of Capt. S. H. Dent of Eufaula, left three children; 3. Jesse L., bookkeeper at Columbus, Ga., d. in 1890, unmarried; 4. Nimrod Walton, d. May 10, 1887, while attending the University of Alabama; 5. Anne Frances, Hurtsboro; 6. Lunsford, d. 1890; 7. Queenelle, Hurtsboro. Residence: Hurtsboro.

LONG, RICHARD HUGHES, farmer, was born July 9, 1868, near Gainesville; son of Thomas McClery and Annie (Horn) Long, the former a Virginian, born at Castle Wood, Russell County, who lived near Gainesville, and was a Confederate courier for Gen. Archer, during the War of Secession; grandson of Richard Berny and Pricilla (Dickerson) Long and of Iredell Hughes and Elizabeth (Massey) Horn, of Greene County. The Longs came from Virginia after 1860 to Gainesville, where they have since remained. Mr. Long received his early education at the Cedar Grove military academy, Livingston. He attended Southern university, Greensboro, graduating in 1887 with a degree of B.P., and also studied civil engineering. He is a farmer; has served as examiner of Cheppama Indian Lands, 1893-4; as U. S. consul for the district of Sonora, Mexico, 1895 and 1897, and was mayor of his home town. He was elected to the State legislature from Sumter County in 1919. He is a Democrat and a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Married: at Gainesville, to Sallie Barnes, daughter of Charles McPherson Aduston and Annie (Barnes) Rogers, who lived near Warsaw. Children: 1. Annie Lida; 2. Sarah Elizabeth; 3. Janie Rogers; 4. Clarence Hughes; 5. Thomas McClery. Residence: Gainesville.

LONG, ROBERT A., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Washington County; father of Judge D. J. Long of Chatom.

LONG, THOMAS LEEPER, merchant, was born May 18, 1860, at Carrollton, Carroll County, Ga.; son of B. M. and Amanda C. (Wooten) Long (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Georgia. He is a merchant; was mayor of Carrollton, Ga., 1885; mayor of Jasper twice; presidential elector, 1892; representative from Walker County in the legislature of 1890 and 1900; and a member of the constitutional convention of 1901. He is now engaged in the real estate business in Florida, but retains his Alabama residence. He is a Democrat, and a Methodist. Married: May 29, 1889, at Livingston, to Augusta M. Sprott. Children: 1. Henry M., served as captain in 117th Field artillery, U. S. Army during the European War; 2. Carrie, m. —; 3. Fred. Residence: Jasper.

LONG, WILLIAM HAL, lawyer, was born April 15, 1877, in Dallas County; son of William Henry and Nannie Lane (Thompson) Long, the former a Confederate soldier, who served through the War of Secession in Co. D, Fourth Alabama infantry regiment; grandson of Dr. Daniel and Mary (Billingsley) Long, the former who was of Irish descent, a graduate of Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, who was assistant surgeon under Col. Alston of South Carolina in the War of 1812, and came to Alabama in 1818, and of John Simpson and Nancy Lane (Bryan) Thompson, the former a native of Wordmelow Island, S. C., who emigrated with his parents to Alabama, settling in Washington County, and later lived and died at Old Spring Hill, Marengo County, the latter whose grandfather was a member of Continental Congress, 1779; great-grandson of Samuel Alexander and Jane (McMean) Thompson. The Thompsons and Bryans were of English descent, the latter from Westmoreland County, Va. Mr. Long was educated in the public schools; was admitted to the bar, March 22, 1906; and practices law in Decatur. He was elected to the State legislature from Morgan County for the session of 1907. He has held many offices in the Alabama national guard; is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and an Elk. Residence: Decatur.

LONG, WILLIAM OATES, lawyer, was born November 20, 1860, at Banks, Pike County; son of James B. and Mary Jane (Oates) Long, the former a native and resident of Pike County, a soldier in the Fifteenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, who died in the service, the latter a sister of the late William C. Oates (q. v.), grandson of William and Sarah Oates, of Pike County. Mr. Long was educated in the village school at Abbeville, and at the University of Alabama where he was a student for three years. He has practiced law at Abbeville since 1881; was elected mayor of that town in 1882 and has been re-elected three times; served as register in chancery for Henry County, 1884-1898; was elected to the lower house of the State legislature in 1900, and to the State senate from the thirty-fifth district, 1902. He is a Democrat. Married: January 17, 1882, at Abbeville, to Pet, daughter of Z. W. and Ann B. (Culver) Laney, of Henry County. Residence: Abbeville.

LONGCRIER, J. H., Missionary Baptist minister; living in 1913. Residence: Jasper.

LONGSHORE, ADOLPHUS PARKER, lawyer, was born September 16, 1854, near Hickory Flat, Chambers County; son of Levi and Mary Ann (Parker) Longshore, the former who was born near Newberry Court House, in Newberry District, S. C., moved early in life with his parents to Alabama, and enlisted as a private in the Thirty-eighth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, serving four years, grandson of Euclidus and Sarah Longshore, the former who emigrated from England to Pennsylvania, served as a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and died during the war, and of John and Fannie (East) Parker, of Chambers County, the former an English immigrant. Mr. Longshore received his early education in the public schools of Chambers and Coosa Counties, later attended Washington and Lee university but did not graduate on account of lack of means. Reading law with Osceola Kyle, he was admitted to the bar in Wetumpka in 1878; commenced to practice at Alexander City; two years later moved to Dadeville; and in 1885 removed to Columbiana. He was a member of the legislature of 1888-89, 1890-91, 1894-95, and 1918-19; was elected judge of probate of Shelby County, in 1898; re-elected in 1904 and 1910; and entered the practice of law in 1917 with F. G. Koenig and W. L. Longshore. He was first a Democrat, later a Populist, and is now a Republican. He is a Missionary Baptist; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 1, 1882, at Dudleyville, to Fannie Terrell, daughter of William Andrew and Laura Jennings, of that place, the former who served in the War of Secession. Children: 1. Lallage; 2. Houston, deceased; 3. A. P., jr.; 4. Annie Laurie, m. Sam Friedman; 5. William Levi; 6. Alice; 7. Leslie; 8. Mary Nell; 9. Paul; 10. Frances; 11. James; 12. Louise. Residence: Columbiana.

LONGSTREET, JAMES, soldier, was born in Edgefield District, S. C., January 8, 1821, and died January 2, 1904; son of James and Mary Ann (Dent) Longstreet of New Jersey and Maryland respectively. He removed with his parents to Alabama in 1831 and was appointed from that State to the U. S. military academy at West Point, where he was graduated in 1842 and assigned to the Fourth U. S. infantry, and served in the Indian and Mexican wars. He rose to the rank of lieutenant-general, C. S. Army, and was accredited to Alabama for his whole Confederate service. After the war he united with the Republican party; was appointed surveyor of customs at New Orleans by President Grant; later was supervisor of internal revenue of Louisiana; postmaster at Gainesville, Ga.; U. S. minister to Turkey; U. S. marshal for district of Georgia; and after 1897, was commissioner of Pacific railroads. Married: (1) March 8, 1848, to Maria Louise Garland of Lynchburg, Va., who d. December 28, 1889; and (2) September 8, 1897, to Helen Dortch, of Atlanta, Ga. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

LOOKINGBILL, DANIEL, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, a resident of Dallas County; private 14th U. S. Regular; enrolled on July 30, 1831, payment to date from July 25, 1831; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $250.89; acts military establishment.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. Resided also in Marion, Fayette and Tuscaloosa Counties.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

LOOMIS, JOHN C., professor of ancient languages at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1869-70. He held the A. M. degree.

LORE, DAVID, member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the sixth district; grand-father of G. W. Russell of Eufaula.

LORIMORE, T. B., minister of the Christian church. Residence: Mars Hill.

LOTT, ELISHA B., public official, was born October 16, 1819, in Mobile County; son of Jesse and Levica (Williams) Lott, the former a native of Georgia, a farmer, who settled in Mobile County in 1800, and died in 1843, the latter a native of Washington County, who died about 1875. He was reared on a farm in Mobile County, and was educated in the common schools of the county. When he was eighteen years of age, he went to Mobile, and after clerking for several years, engaged in merchandising for himself. He continued in that business until 1853; was elected tax collector of Mobile County in 1854; and was elected to that office thirteen times, serving in all thirty-seven years. He made a trip to California in 1849 on account of the impaired condition of his health, and returned in 1852. During that time, he devoted his attention to mining. He served in the C. S. Army as a member of the Thirty-sixth Alabama infantry regiment, 1862-1865, and at the close of the war held the rank of first lieutenant. He was wounded at the battle of Chickamauga and was disabled for three months. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; and a member of the Young Men's Christian Association. Married: January 20, 1845, to Mary E. Swain, of Mobile. He had eleven children of whom four sons and six daughters are living. Last residence: Mobile.

LOUGHRIDGE, ROBERT MCGILL, Presbyterian minister and missionary, was born December 24, 1809, at Laurens, S. C., and died July 8, 1900, at Waco, Tex.; son of James and Deborah Ann (McGill) Loughridge, the former a native of County Antrim, Ireland, a tailor, who came to America in 1796, and settled in Laurens, S. C., who raised a battalion of cavalry to defend the state during the nullification excitement and was elected major, moved to Alabama in 1822 and settled in St. Clair County where he engaged in farming, moved to Greene County in 1830, or 1831, and laid out the town of Mesopotamia, later Eutaw, and died in 1837 while on a trip to Texas, the latter a South Carolinian, of Scotch-Irish Presbyterian stock; grandson of Allen and Sarah (Eccles) Loughridge, who lived in Ireland, and of Robert and Elizabeth (Gray) McGill, of Abbeville, S. C. He received his early education in an academy at Eutaw, and was graduated A. B. from Miami University, Oxford, O., in 1837. He received the honorary degree of D. D. from his alma mater in 1886. He spent one year at the theological seminary at Princeton university, and left school in 1838 because of his father's death. He continued the study of theology under Rev. Dr. J. H. Gray, and was licensed to preach by the Presbytery at Eutaw, April 9, 1841. He preached in the churches at Oxford, Paynesville and Elizabeth for six months, and was appointed missionary to the Creek Indians, west of Arkansas, by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions and ordained as evangelist at Clinton, October 15, 1842.

The following month he set out on horseback on the journey to the Indian territory to offer the Indians a school and a preached gospel. Among his letters to the chiefs he bore one from the U. S. secretary of war, commending him and his mission. The Creeks had, five years before, driven out the missionaries of the Presbyterians and other churches, and Rev. Loughridge was making the prospecting tour to ascertain if the planting of a mission would now be allowed. Presenting his letters to the chiefs, he was told that in a council to be held three weeks later, they would consider his application and give him an answer. The council first consented to his teaching a school but would not give permission to preach. When Mr. Loughridge declined to come unless allowed to preach the council consented to his preaching at the school but no where else. He yielded to their demands, and while preparing for removal to the field, spent some time visiting churches in Alabama and Mississippi where he presented the claims of the Indian mission work. He located at the town of Coweta, and started his school in an Indian hut. A year later, he erected a substantial hewn log house of seven rooms, and took eight or ten boys and girls to board at the school on the condition that they should work part of the time. That was the beginning of the great and successful system of manual labor boarding schools among the Indians. For two years Dr. Loughridge preached at the Mission, then as missionaries of other denominations had come in and were allowed to preach anywhere, he appealed to the chiefs for the removal of the restriction placed upon him and his request was granted.

About six years after the planting of the Coweta school the Nation enlarged the capacity of the buildings and founded another manual labor school at Tallahassee which was placed in the charge of Dr. Loughridge as superintendent. During the War of Secession, the work was suspended, and Dr. Loughridge moved with his family to Texas where he spent eighteen years serving churches in the Presbyteries of central and western Texas. In 1880 he accepted an invitation to return to the Creek Nation to take charge of a school at Weleetka, and after conducting that school for some years, resigned and devoted himself to preaching and preparing books and translations in the Indian language. He returned to Texas in 1892, and, though more than eighty years of age, was for several years actively engaged in the work of the ministry, serving home mission fields in the Presbytery of central Texas. He translated several of the gospels into the Creek language; compiled the Creek hymn book and tracts; prepared a "Dictionary of Creek and English Words;" and was author of "The Mode of Baptism, as taught and practiced by Jesus Christ." He was a Democrat. Married: (1) December 6, 1842, at Selma, to Olivia Diantha Hills, who died in 1845, daughter of David Hills of Rome, N. Y.; (2) December 4, 1846, to Mary Avery, who died in January, 1850, daughter of Joseph Avery of Conway, Mass.; (3) October 15, 1853, at Park Hill, Cherokee Nation, to Harriet Johnson, who was at that time principal of a mission school in the Indian territory, and who died May 23, 1900, daughter of James and Ursula Johnson of Sturbridge, Mass. Children, by first marriage: 1. Robert Hill, Ph. D., m. Bessie M. Webb; 2. Olivia Diantha, d. in childhood; by third marriage: 3. Mary Belknap, m. Joseph T. Somerville; 4. Harriet Elisebeth, missionary, d. April 11, 1889, m. Rev. A. T. Graybill; 5. John Gray, d. August 17, 1860; 6. James Allen, m. (1) Ruth Patillo, d. 1894, (2) Emma Foster. Last residence: Waco, Tex.

LOVE, ANDREW PICKENS, merchant, was born October 12, 1818, in Anderson District, S. C., and died September 19, 1896, at China Grove, Pike County; son of James and Ann (Dowdell) Love, natives of South Carolina, the former of whom was born in Anderson District, and became a tanner, moved to Alabama, and lived in Tuscaloosa County, in Greene County, at Pleasant Hill, Dallas County, at Monticello, Pike County, and finally at Wetumpka, where he died. His education was limited to the old log cabin country school at Monticello, and he became a merchant, dealing in general merchandise in Troy, Linwood, and China Grove. He was elected sheriff of Pike County in 1850, and was a delegate to the secession convention in 1861. During the War of Secession, he became captain of Co. I, Twenty-second Alabama infantry regiment, organized at Troy, and later was made captain of Co. I, Fourth battalion of Alabama cavalry. As senior captain, he commanded the Fourth battalion, which joined Phillip's legion, Hampton's cavalry. He was an old line Whig, and a strong Union man, but went with the state when Alabama seceded. He was a Methodist, and was worshipful master of his lodge of Masons. He was never married. Last residence: China Grove, Pike County.

LOVEJOY, THOMAS E., banker and president of the Manhattan life insurance company, was born September 16, 1875, at Spalding, Macon County, Ga.; son of P. H. and Henrietta (McKenzie) Lovejoy, the former born in Jasper County, Ga., resided at Hawkinsville, Ga., was a merchant and planter, for years active in politics; grandson of W. C. and Catharine (Parker) Lovejoy, who lived in Jasper County, Ga., and of J. H. McKenzie, who lived at Montezuma, Ga. He received his early education in public schools of Hawkinsville, Ga., and collegiate education at Sadlers Bryant and Stratton business college of Baltimore, 1893. From 1894 to 1909, he was engaged in varied kinds of business in Hawkinsville, conducting a retail grocery business, sharing in the organization of banks and becoming vice-president of one until 1913, being proprietor of a department store, organizing and being president of the Gulf line railway company. In March, 1909, he moved to Montgomery, to accept the vice-presidency of the Montgomery bank and trust company, of which he was president, 1910-13. In April, 1913, he was elected as vice-president of the Exchange national bank of Montgomery. In May, 1913, he was called to the presidency of the Manhattan life insurance company of New York, and was the youngest man ever president of any one of New York's prominent insurance companies. He is director in several financial institutions in Alabama, Georgia, and New York. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: November 9, 1897, in Talbotton, Ga., to Fannie, daughter of Harry C. and Susie (Dowdell) Brown, who lived at Talbotton. Mrs. Lovejoy died September 3, 1910, in Montgomery. Children: 1. Susie; 2. Henrietta; 3. Frances; 4. Thomas E., Jr. Address: New York City.

LOVELACE, EDWIN MARSHALL, business man, was born July 14, 1854, at Pleasant Hill, Dallas County; son of Basil Manly and Amanda (Lovelace) Lovelace, the former a native of Edgefield District, S. C., who moved to Alabama with his parents, lived in Dallas County until 1859, then moved to Escambia County; grandson of Aaron Lovelace, of English parentage, who was born in South Carolina, married a Miss Blalock, and later moved to Dallas County, and of Thomas Lovelace, of Edgefield, S. C. Mr. Lovelace was educated in the common schools of Brewton, and at Brooklyn high school. He left school at the age of sixteen years to work in a logging camp, and has since been engaged in the timber business in all its branches. He has been president of the Lovelace lumber company for many years; a director in the Bank of Brewton; commissioner of Escambia County, 1904-1910; alderman of Brewton for eight years; president of the board of trustees of the Brewton institute; and State senator from the twenty-first district, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Knight of Pythias; a Knight of Honor; and an Elk. Married: to Frances, daughter of Captain B. B. and Elizabeth (Flournoy) McKenzie, of Eufaula, the former of whom was captain of Co. B, Love's Fourth Alabama infantry battalion, later a part of the Jeff Davis legion, one of the most conspicuous commands of the army of northern Virginia. Children: 1. Edwin McKenzie; 2. William Yancey; 3. Barnes Flournoy. Residence: Brewton.

LOVELADY, ROBERT FRANKLIN, druggist, was born August 24, 1865, at Danville, Morgan County; son of Clark C. and Martha Jane (Sherrell) Lovelady, of Danville; grandson of William H. and Eliza (Malone) Lovelady, the former a Revolutionary soldier, who came from England, and settled in Danville, and of Wiley B. Sherrell, of Danville. He attended the common schools of Danville; studied pharmacy at home; and passed the State board of pharmacy, May 17, 1887. He entered the drug business at Pratt City, 1888; served as president of the Amzi Godden company, 1899-1901; established the Harris, Lovelady furniture company in 1891; served as alderman of Pratt City, 1897-1904; and represented Jefferson County in the State legislature, 1907. He is a Democrat; a Methodist, serving the church as steward for more than twenty years; and a Mason; Shriner; and Knight Templar. Married: October 20, 1887, at Verbena, to Henrietta E., daughter of Alonzo L. Haralson, of that city; granddaughter of Col. W. B. Haralson of Selma, and of Jack Chappell. Children: 1. Robert Grady; 2. William Earnest; 3. Mable Browning; 4. Miriam Elizabeth; 5. Henry Clyde. Residence: Pratt City.

LOVELL, William S., major, 1st battalion Georgia infantry regiment, C. S. Army; major, 36th, Villepigue's, Georgia infantry regiment; major, 1st Confederate infantry regiment, formerly the 36th Georgia.

LOVEMAN, ROBERT, lyric poet and author, was born April 11, 1864, at Cleveland, Ohio; son of David Reuben and Esther (Schwartz) Loveman, the latter the daughter of Alexander Schwartz, all natives of Hungary, the parents coming to America during the early eighties. He received his academic education in the schools of Crawford and Dalton, Ga., and graduated from the University of Alabama with the A. M. degree, later studying and traveling abroad. He has for the past twenty-five years contributed to the highest class magazines. He has published several books of verse, 1889, 1893, 1897, 1900, among them, "A book of verse;" "The gate of silence," 1905; "Songs from a Georgia garden;" "The blushful South," 1909, "On the way to Willowdale," 1912; "Sonnetts of the strife," 1917. Reviewers both in America and England, have given Mr. Loveman's poems the very highest praise, and have compared his work to the greatest lyric poets. His poem "The rain song," has been declared by the critics to be "one of the best songs in American poetry, and the most widely copied poem since the days of Longfellow and Tennyson." Unmarried. Residence: Dalton, Ga.

LOVETT, JAMES ARCHIBALD BRADFORD, teacher, was born March 3, 1848, in Winston County, and died October 19, 1910, at Bessemer; son of Abel J. and Mary (Hardwick) Lovett, who lived near Shelby, the former a native of Georgia; grandson of Thomas Lovett, of Georgia, who was of Scotch descent, and of James and Violetta (Elder) Hardwick, who lived in Georgia, the former a member of the Alabama legislature for several years, whose father came from England. He was educated at Ashville, and at the age of fifteen ran away from school to enter the C. S. Army. He was made drummer boy in the Fifty-eighth Alabama regiment, Co. G, under Capt. A. B. Vandegrift, and after two months' service, was captured, June, 1863, and held a prisoner at Camp Chase and at Fort Delaware until the close of the war. After the war, he worked his way through the theological department of the Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., and was graduated with the degree of D. D. He received the degree of A. M. from the college at Winchester, Tenn. He joined the ministry of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, and was pastor of churches at Huntsville, Winchester, Tenn., and Beech Grove, Tenn. After giving up the ministry on account of throat trouble, he entered the profession of teaching. In 1882, he organized the Huntsville grade schools, and later was made superintendent of the city schools of Huntsville, and superintendent of education of Madison County. He was at one time secretary of the Southern interstate cotton convention, and was appointed as one of a committee to visit President Roosevelt in the interest of the expansion of the cotton market. He was elected to the presidency of Blount college in 1889; established Spring Lake college, at Springville, and later, the Montezuma university, since destroyed by fire, at Bessemer; and was twice elected president of the Ninth district agricultural school, which replaced Blount college after its destruction by fire. He was one of the founders of the Birmingham dental school in 1893, and of the Birmingham medical college in 1894. In the former he was professor of chemistry and metallurgy, and in the latter, of chemistry and toxicology. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a member of Camp William Rose McAdory of Confederate Veterans. He established an educational journal, "The Teacher at Work," said to have been the first educational journal in the state, in Huntsville, about 1886. Married: September 2, 1866, to Frances Priscilla, daughter of William and Ellen Gilbert, who lived at Highland, Shelby County. Children: 1. Edward Goode, deceased; 2. Dr. James Marion, m. (1) Emma Mae Baker of Huntsville, (2) Olive Nichols of Delavan, Ill.; 3. Mary Eleanor, Bessemer; 4. Dr. William Abel, m. Fannie Kemp Dennis, Birmingham; 5. Richard Beard, deceased; 6. Susie Mae, deceased. Last residence: Bessemer.

LOWE, RARTLEY M., merchant, brigadier general state militia, was born in Edgfield, S. C., and died in New Orleans, La. His parents were from Maryland, of an old family which came over from England with Lord Baltimore. His father, who had been a captain in the Revolutionary Army, moved from South Carolina soon after Gen. Lowe's birth, to Florida and accepted service with the Spanish government for which he received a very large grant of land. Gen. Lowe subsequently moved to Huntsville, and became a successful merchant at that place, until the financial revulsion of 1837 swept away his fortune. He was elected a brigadier general of Alabama militia, under the major-generalship of Benjamin Patteson. After his reverses at Huntsville, he moved to New Orleans, and engaged in the factorage and commission merchant business, and continued in that business until his death. Married: to Sarah Sophia Manning. Children: 1. Sophia, b. in Huntsville, m. Col. Nicholas Davis of Huntsville; 2. Dr. John Thomas, b. November 6, 1824, d. about 1893, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., A. M., 1851, and from the University of Pennsylvania, M. D., 1846, served as chief surgeon of Gen. Loring's division of infantry, C. S. Army, War of Secession, and practiced medicine at Aberdeen, Miss.; 3. Robert Joseph, b. July 11, 1836, attended the University of Alabama, studied law and was admitted to the bar, lawyer at Huntsville, represented Madison County in the State legislature, 1859, enlisted in the first company raised in north Alabama, for the C. S. Army, was assigned to the Fourth Alabama regiment, commanded by Col. E. J. Jones, became a victim of camp or typhoid fever after the forced march to Manassas, and died in 1864, m. Matilda Holding, left two sons, one of whom is Robert Joseph (q. v.); 4. William Manning (q. v.). Last residence: New Orleans.

LOWE, ROBERT JOSEPH, lawyer, was born January 31, 1861, at Huntsville; son of Robert Joseph and Matilda (Holding) Lowe, of Huntsville, the former a lawyer, who served in the State legislature, 1859-1861, enlisted in the Fourth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, as a private, and died as a result of camp fever brought on by the forced march to Manassas; grandson of Gen. Bartley M. and Sarah Sophia (Manning) Lowe (q. v.), and of Richard Holding, of Huntsville, who came from North Carolina to Alabama and became an early settler of Madison County. He was educated in private schools of Huntsville, was graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1881, and was admitted to the bar at Huntsville, that same year. In the fall of 1881, he moved to Birmingham, and began the practice of law. In 1884, he became associated with William H. Smith, former governor of Alabama, and David D. Smith, his son, in the law firm of Smith and Lowe. He continued in that firm for about ten years, then practiced alone. He was a member of the State legislature, from Jefferson County, 1888-1889; and a member of the constitutional convention of 1901 from the state at large. He served as first sergeant of the Madison County rifles, 1879, 1880; as first lieutenant of the Birmingham artillery, 1882; and as captain of the latter, 1883-1886. He was elected chairman of the Democratic county executive committee, 1898-1900; chairman of the state executive committee, 1898, 1900 and 1902; chairman of the Democratic caucus of the constitutional convention; was a delegate from the state at large to the national convention in 1900; and was temporary chairman of that delegation. Married: (1) in May, 1892, at Athens, to Harriett Emily Pryor, who was killed in a storm at Birmingham, March 25, 1901, daughter of Senator Luke Pryor (q. v.); (2) in April, 1902, at Eufaula, to Carrie (Cochrane) Jackson, daughter of Judge John Cochran, of Eufaula. Child, by second marriage: Robert J., b. March 24, 1903. Residence: Birmingham.

REV. JUNIUS M. BATTE

LOWE, WILLIAM MANNING, lawyer, representative in congress, was born January 16, 1842, in Huntsville, and died October 12, 1882, at Huntsville; son of Gen. Bartley M. and Sarah Sophia (Manning) Lowe (q. v.). He attended the public schools at Florence; the law department of the University of Tennessee, from which he was graduated in 1860; and was a student at the University of Virginia in 1861, when he volunteered as a private in the Fourth Alabama Infantry, C. S. Army. He was dangerously wounded at the first battle of Manassas, and on his recovery served as lieutenant colonel on the staff of Gen. Clanton, in Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee, until captured at the battle of Franklin. He was held prisoner at Camp Chase and Fort Delaware until three months after the surrender. He was elected solicitor of the Huntsville circuit in 1865, and held the position until ousted from office by the reconstruction measures in 1868. In 1870, he represented Madison County in the State legislature; was elected a delegate to the state constitutional convention of 1875; was elected as a Greenback Democrat to the Forty-sixth congress, 1879-1881, and successfully contested the election of Joseph Wheeler to the Forty-seventh congress, 1882, in which he served until his death. Last residence: "The Grove," Huntsville.

LOWE, WILLIAM THOMAS, lawyer, was born September 14, 1860, at Reform, Pickens County; son of Marcus Wilburn and Susan (Shelton) Lowe, of Pickens County, the former a second lieutenant in the C. S. Army; grandson of John Franklin and Patsy (Munday) Lowe, and of Crispen and Susan Shelton, all of whom lived near Reform, Pickens County. He was prepared in the common schools, and was graduated from Florence normal school in 1884. He studied law in the office of Judge W. P. Chitwood at Moulton, Lawrence County, and began the practice of law at that place in 1887; was a delegate from Lawrence County to the constitutional convention of 1901; represented that county in the State legislature, 1903; moved to Decatur where he has since practiced law, 1904; and was elected to the State senate from the second district, 1906. He is a Democrat, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 8, 1888, in Moulton, to Sarepta, daughter of William D. and Frances L. (Lynch) Irwin, of Moulton. Residence: Decatur.

LOWRY, SAMUEL, H., physician, was born October 16, 1850, in Huntsville; son of John T. and Virginia H. (Miller) Lowry, the former of Scotch-Irish descent, a merchant and planter at Huntsville, a member of the firm of Lowry, Hamilton and company, merchants, and of the lumber firm of Mayhew and Lowry, who served in the commissary department of the C. S. Army, War of Secession, and died in 1886; grandson of Rev. Samuel and Elizabeth (Tate) Lowry, the former a minister in the Cumberland Presbyterian church. He attended the schools of Huntsville and the University of Virginia, where he began the study of medicine and was graduated from the Bellevue hospital medical college, New York, M. D., 1873. He began the practice of his profession later in that year in partnership, with Dr. Dement of Huntsville, and has continued in that place. He has served as health officer of the city of Huntsville and the county of Madison; has acted as secretary of the county board of censors; is a member of the Madison County medical society; a member of the college of counsellors of the State medical association; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 26, 1890, in Huntsville, to Jimmie L., daughter of Robert L. Pulley of that place. Children: 1. John Tate. Residence: Huntsville.

LUCAS, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution. Mary, wife of James Lucas, a resident of Montgomery County, was enrolled on January 12, 1838, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $600.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile. She resided in Montgomery County, June 1, 1840, with Jane W. Freney, aged 80.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

LUCAS, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on January 10, 1837, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; annual allowance, $20; no record made of any payment.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

LUCAS, RANDOLPH, soldier of the American Revolution, private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on January 10, 1837, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; annual allowance, $20; no record of any payment having been made.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

LUCKIE, JAMES BUCKNER, physician and surgeon, was born July 16, 1833, in Newton County, Ga.; son of William Dickinson and Eliza (Buckner) Luckie, natives of Georgia, of Scotch descent. Dr. Luckie was educated at the common schools of his native county, and at Gwinnett institute. He began the study of medicine under Dr. John B. Headrick; attended course of lectures in Augusta, Ga., in winter of 1853-54; later graduated at Pennsylvania medical college, in 1855. He immediately began the practice of his profession at Newton County, Ga.; removed in 1856 to Olean, Pike County, where he practiced until the outbreak of the war. In 1861 he raised a company of infantry and reported to Montgomery. The Confederate government being unable to equip them, the company was disbanded. Dr. Luckie was appointed assistant surgeon, however, and was ordered to Knoxville for duty, accompanied General Kirby-Smith, on his invasion of Kentucky as medical purveyor, a rank to which he was raised from that of assistant surgeon; was later inspector of hospitals. After the return to Knoxville, he was made chief of the bureau of small-pox and vaccination for the army of east Tennessee. When General Kirby-Smith was sent to the Trans-Mississippi department, he was at his own request assigned to field duty, in Grace's brigade, first in the 16th, then in the 43d Alabama till the close of the war. After the cessation of hostilities, he located at Pine Level, Montgomery County, and resumed his practice, removed soon however to Montgomery where he practiced until 1872, when he removed to Birmingham. He represented the thirteenth district in the senate of 1880, and was for many years a councilman of Birmingham. He organized the City fire department, and was its first chief; also the Birmingham rifles and artillery. He is a Mason. Married: (1) Eliza Imogen, daughter of James F. and Eliza Fielder, of Georgia; (2) in 1866 to Susan Oliver, daughter of James R. and Sarah Dillard, of Montgomery County. He is the father of nine children, among these, Lorenzo Foster (q. v.). Residence: Birmingham.

LUCKIE, LORENZO FOSTER, dentist, was born December 20, 1875, in Jefferson County; son of Dr. James Buckner and Susan Oliver (Dillard) Luckie (q. v.). Dr. Luckie was educated in the common schools of his native county and took a special course in dentistry. He served as 1st sergeant Co. G, 1st Alabama regiment, volunteer, Spanish-American War, and clerk to mustering officer. Residence: Birmingham.

LUEDEMANN, GUIDE, merchant, was born in Erfurt, Germany; son of Frederick A. and Christina (Linsdorff) Lueddemann, the former of whom was an officer in the Prussian Army, emigrated to America in 1847, locating in Ohio, and later on at Milwaukee, Wis. Guide Lueddemann received a good common school education, and engaged in the mercantile business; in 1864, he located at Nashville, Tenn.; in 1866, he removed to Tuscumbia where he formed a partnership with H. Lelforth, and engaged in the dry goods business until 1868, when Mr. Lelforth withdrew and was succeeded by James N. Sampson, of New York, under the firm name of Lueddemann and company. This is the oldest business house in Tuscumbia and one of the strongest in Colbert County. He is a Mason and Knight of Pythias. Married: at Nashville, to Johanna Chisholm. Children: 1. Frederick; 2. Max; 3. Ernest; 4. Frieda. Residence: Tuscumbia.

LULL, FRANCIS WAYLAND, lawyer, was born October 19, 1872, at Wetumpka, Elmore County; son of Cabot and Sarah Graham (Crow) Lull, the former a native of Norwich, Conn., who came when a youth in 1852 to Wetumpka, was the first Democratic mayor of that town after reconstruction, clerk of probate court and probate judge of Elmore County, merchant; grandson of Albe and Mary Levina (Cabot) Lull, and Joseph and Lenora (Hall) Crow; great-great-grandson of Thomas Lenoir. The founder of the line in America was Thomas Lull, of Ipswich, Mass., born in 1636, ancestor of Timothy Lull, a Revolutionary soldier. Francis Wayland Lull was educated in the public schools of Wetumpka; graduated at the University of Alabama, with the degree of LL. B., 1896; began the practice of law, January, 1897, in Wetumpka; served as mayor, October, 1910-14; was first lieutenant, Co. E, Alabama National Guard, 1900-04. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Odd Fellow; Red Man; and Knight of Pythias. Married: August 7, 1901, at Wetumpka, to Ida Bell, daughter of Berry and Eliza Phillips of Tuskegee. Children: 1. Sarah Eugenia, d. in infancy; 2. Ida Bell; 3. Frank W., jr. Residence: Wetumpka.

LUMPKIN, WILLIAM H., lawyer, born February 6, 1882, at Forney, Cherokee County; son of John Alfred and Susan (Mathews) Lumpkin, the former of Floyd County, Ga., the latter of Forney, Cherokee County; grandson of Hiram Lumpkin, of Polk and Floyd Counties, Ga., and of William and Mary Mathews of Forney. The family belongs to the noted Lumpkins of Georgia, and the Barringers of North Carolina, one of whom was in congress. Mr. Lumpkin was educated in the common schools of Forney, in the Agricultural college of Dahlgonega, Ga., and in the law department of the University of Michigan. He is engaged in the practice of law at Center, and served in the State legislature in 1911. He is a Democrat; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: September 10, 1906, at Dalton, Ga., to Lula, daughter of Hugh Walker and Lula Cardon, of Center; granddaughter of Judge Samuel K. McSpadden, who was in the State senate, 1857-1863, and was colonel of the Nineteenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; great-granddaughter of John Garrett of Cherokee. Residence: Center.

LUMSDEN, CHARLES L., teacher and soldier, was born May 12, 1834, at Petersburg, Dinwiddie County, Va., and killed in 1867; son of Charles and Martha Laura (Jones) Lumsden of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Sussex County, Va., respectively. He was educated in the private schools of Petersburg, Va., and graduated at the Virginia military institute in 1858; after his graduation, taught until the opening of the War at the Alabama military institute at Tuscaloosa. He served throughout the War of Secession as captain of Lumsden's battery. He was an Episcopalian. Married: Hattie Raoul, of Tuscaloosa, who bore him two children. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

LUNDY, P. H., clerk of the Alabama Baptist State convention, 1853. He held a charge at Prattville at one time.

LUPTON, FRANK ALLEMONG, physician and surgeon, was born January 6, 1873, at Tuscaloosa; son of Nathaniel Thomas and Ella Virginia (Allemong) Lupton (q. v.). He was reared in his native county and was educated in the common schools, after completing his primary work, he entered the Alabama polytechnic institute and took his B. S. and M. S. in 1891 and 1892, respectively; later attended

Johns Hopkins university where he was graduated with the degree of M. D., in 1899; immediately began the practice of medicine in Birmingham, in association with Dr. Lewis Coleman Morris, where he has since practiced. He was professor of bacteriology and clinical microscopy in the Birmingham medical college. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and Elk. Married. Residence: Birmingham.

LUPTON, NATHANIEL THOMAS, educator and fifth president of the University of Alabama, was born December 19, 1830, near Winchester, Frederick County, Va., and died June 11, 1893, at Auburn; son of Nathaniel C. and Elizabeth (Hodgson) Lupton, natives of Virginia, of English descent. He received his early schooling at Newark, Del.; was graduated from Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa., M. A., 1849. He became professor of chemistry at Aberdeen female college, Mississippi, 1851-1852; professor of chemistry at Petersburg female college, Virginia, 1852-1853, and president of that institution, 1854-1857; was professor of chemistry at Randolph-Macon college, Virginia, 1857-1858; attended the University of Heidelberg, Germany, and studied chemistry and physics under Prof. Robert Wilhelm Bunsen, 1874-1875, at the same time selecting the apparatus for the chemistry department of Southern university; was professor of chemistry and physics at Southern university, 1859-1871; professor of chemistry and fifth president of the University of Alabama, 1871-1874; resigned his position at the University of Alabama to take charge of the chemistry department of the new Vanderbilt university, at Nashville, Tenn., and again visited Europe to select apparatus for his department, 1874; attended the congress of orientalists in London, England, 1874; professor of chemistry, Vanderbilt university, 1874-1885; resigned his position as dean of the pharmaceutical faculty and professor of chemistry at Vanderbilt university, to accept the position of State chemist of Alabama and professor of chemistry at the Alabama polytechnic institute, which position he held from 1885 until his death in 1895. During the War of Secession, he served as chemist of the Confederate mining and nitre bureau for the manufacture of gunpowder. He was a Democrat; a Methodist, steward in the church and three times delegate to the general conference; and was a Mason. Dr. Lupton was vice president of the American society for the advancement of science, 1880; president of the Association of official agricultural chemists, 1892; was twice president of the Chemical section of the American scientific association; a member of the Victorian institute of England; and of the Pharmaceutical society of Great Britain. He was author of "Elementary Principles of Scientific Agriculture," 1880, and of numerous articles on chemical subjects published in various scientific journals; was correspondent to scientific journals in the United States and Europe; and contributed largely to Indian and Mound Builders' relics of the Smithsonian institution.

Married: September 26, 1854, at Newtown,

Va., to Ella Virginia Allemong, daughter of Rev. John and Hannah (Paine) Allemong, who lived at Newtown, Va., the latter of Huguenot ancestry. The Allemong family was introduced in America by three brothers who landed at Charleston, S. C., about 1740. Two of those brothers settled in Virginia, one of whom was the great-great-grandfather of Mrs. Lupton. Children: 1. Kate, deceased, who was the first woman to graduate from Vanderbilt university, M. A., 1897, was professor of physics and chemistry in the State normal school at Farmville, Va., translated from the French Fenelon's "Education of Girls," contributed articles to scientific journals, m. Prof. L. W. Wilkinson of Tulane university, one son, Lupton Allemong; 2. Frank (q. v.), was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1891, and M. S., 1892, assistant instructor of chemistry at that institution, 1892-1893, was graduated from Johns Hopkins university, M. D., 1899, and since then has been a practicing physician at Birmingham, m. Mary Watts Woods of Charlottesville, Va., daughter of Capt. Micajah Woods, two children, Micajah Woods Lupton and Virginia Lupton; 3. Ella, m. Maj. R. E. Noble, U. S. Army. Last residence: Auburn.

LUSK, JOHN ALEXANDER, lawyer, was born November 29, 1859, at Salem, S. C.; son of Erastus Capehart and Eleanor Swafford (Alexander) Lusk, the former a member of the First South Carolina cavalry regiment, Hampton's brigade, C. S. Army, who moved from South Carolina to Guntersville, in 1866, became a merchant and farmer until his death in 1901; grandson of Nathan and Rosanna (Capehart) Lusk, and of Garlington and Mary Ann (Swafford) Alexander, all of old Pickens District, S. C. Mr. Lusk was educated in the public schools; was admitted to the bar in 1877; practiced until 1883 in Blount County, with the exception of one year of travel in the west; has practiced in Guntersville since 1883; was appointed circuit solicitor in 1885 and elected in 1886; represented Marshall County in the State legislature, 1903; was elected to the State senate from the fifth district, in 1907, and again in 1915; and was appointed associate railroad commissioner to succeed Maj. John G. Harris, deceased, July 15, 1908. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: October 27, 1887, in Huntsville, to Leila Lee, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Lee (Coles) Fearn, of Marshall County. The Fearns are intermarried with the Lee family of Virginia; and the first ancestor of the Coles family in America was John Coles, who came from Ireland before the Revolution. Children: 1. Robert Fearn; 2. John Alexander, jr.; 3. Walter Coles; 4. Marion Fearn; 5. Elizabeth Lee. Residence: Guntersville.

LUSK, LORENZI D., physician, was born October 7, 1829, near Walhalla, Pickens County, S. C.; son of Nathan and Rosannah (Capehart) Lusk, the former a native of Pickens County, S. C., born March 20, 1793, who was a hatter and farmer, and lived near Walhalla, S. C., where he died December 28, 1872; grandson of Henry and Eleanor (McKidy) Lusk, the former who entered the Revolutionary army when a boy, and served under Andrew Pickens; great-grandson of James Lusk, who served in the Indian wars prior to the Revolution, and was shot through the body in one encounter with the Indians but recovered, and who was severely wounded in the Revolutionary War and left for dead, but survived on that occasion also. The Lusk family came from Ireland and first settled in southwestern Pennsylvania, moving later to Virginia, then to the Carolinas. Dr. Lusk attended the common schools of his neighborhood; came to Alabama in 1852 and located in Marshall County; and taught school for two years. He began reading medicine during those two years, and in 1856 moved to Guntersville. He was graduated in medicine at Nashville, Tenn., in 1858, and began the practice of medicine and surgery at Guntersville in that year. He was actively engaged in the practice of medicine until 1888, when he retired and entered the banking business, subsequently becoming president of the Bank of Guntersville. For thirty years Dr. Lusk was also an extensive and successful planter. He was elected probate judge of Marshall County in 1868, and held the office until November, 1874, when he was not a candidate for re-election. He served as vice-president of the Wyeth City land and improvement company, which he helped organize; and was interested in the Coosa and Tennessee railroad company. He was an Independent Democrat, opposed to secession; was a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: in September, 1859, to Mary Emma, daughter of Allen and Roxanna (Hodges) Lovelless, who lived where Decatur, Ga., now stands, and later at Guntersville. Children: 1. Emerson, b. August 23, 1860, d. January 14, 1862; 2. Margarette Euphrasia, b. September 1, 1863, m. Thomas L. Farrow; 3. Phocian B., physician and farmer, b. June 17, 1866, m. Mary Thomason, daughter of Dr. William L. and Ida (Pearce) Thomason, Guntersville; 4. Thurston G., physician, b. September 1, 1869, m. (1) Mary Todd, (2) Clementine Tetédoux, New York City; 5. Mary Emma, b. November, 1872, m. Oliver Day Street (q. v.), Guntersville. Last residence: Guntersville.

LUTHER, SARAH EMERSON, teacher, was born November 20, 1874, at Lake City, Columbus County, Fla.; daughter of Oliver Perry and Sarah Jane (Emerson) Luther, of Rockingham County, N. C., who removed to Florida, previous to the War of Secession, in which he could not participate personally, but gave freely of his means; niece of Frank Luther, lieutenant in Forrest's cavalry, of Rev. Andrew Jackson Emerson, chaplain, and John L. Emerson, brothers, and members of a North Carolina regiment decimated at Gettysburg, John losing his life, and of Thomas Emerson, blockade-runner off the North Carolina coast, 1862-64. She was educated at the Lake City academy; graduated from the high school at the age of fourteen; from Decherd college, Tenn., with first honors, 1894; Normal school, Warrensburg, Mo., 1888-90; Columbia university, 1908; student of Chicago university correspondence school, 1910-12. She began teaching in the rural schools of Alabama in 1890; was elected professor of English, in the Troy normal; teaches in summer schools in Alabama and Tennessee; principal of the Castelberry high school; superintendent of education for the county of Conecuh; now connected with the State department of education. She is the originator of the lyceum for rural schools in Alabama, now formally adopted as a part of the regular work of all the normal schools of the State, and was the first teacher to demonstrate the success of the girls' canning club movement, 1911. She urges the idea of the school as the center of activity of rural life. She is unmarried, but has adopted some orphan relatives to whom she is giving educational advantages. Residence: Montgomery.

LYLE, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 84, resided in Covington County, June 1, 1840, with John B. Dixon.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

LYMAN, EDWARD SHERMAN, lawyer, was born July 7, 1862, at Montevallo, Shelby County; son of Henry R. and Lucy (Hart) Lyman, the former a native of Meridian, Conn., who came to Montevallo about 1850; grandson of Samuel and Lucy (Dickinson) Hart, of Kensington, Conn.; and a descendant of Richard Lyman, the progenitor of the family in America, who came from England to Boston, 1661, first settled at Charlestown, Mass., and moved to Hartford, where he was one of the original proprietors, in 1865. The first American maternal ancestor, Deacon Stephen Hart, emigrated from England about 1632, settled first at Cambridge, Mass., and went to Hartford, which was named for him, with Mr. Hooker's company in 1635. Mr. Lyman was educated in the common schools of Montevallo; was admitted to the bar in 1884; was appointed special judge of the circuit court of Shelby County by Gov. W. J. Samford, and held the spring term, 1901; was elected first mayor of Montevallo to serve for two years, 1901; has served as treasurer of the Girls' technical institute since 1907; represented Shelby County in the State legislature, 1903; and has been judge of the law and equity court of Shelby County for a number of years. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: November 22, 1887, at Montevallo, to Florence May, daughter of French and Florence (Killough) Nabors, of that place; great-granddaughter of Col. Edward Lacey, an officer in the Revolutionary Army. Residence: Montevallo.

LYNN, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Morgan County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on September 24, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $74.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $222.99.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Vol. xiv, Sen. Doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Morgan County, June 1, 1840, aged 76.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

LYNNE, SEYBOURN ARTHUR, lawyer, was born July 5, 1877, near Somerville, Morgan County; son of David Wilson and Susan Jane (Russell) Lynne, both of Morgan County; grandson of Moses Wilson and Elizabeth Lynne, of Somerville, Morgan County, and of Samuel E. and Matilda E. Russell, of Center Grove, Morgan County, both grandfathers serving in the C. S. Army; great-great-grandson of Col. James Russell, a Scotch immigrant who settled in South Carolina. Mr. Lynne was educated in the Somerville public schools; the Somerville academy; in 1895 received B. S. degree, and in 1896 the A. B. degree, at Morgan County college. He studied law under Judge E. M. Russell, taking the law course at the University of Alabama in 1897-1898, and began to practice his profession at Decatur in 1898. In 1903 he represented his district in the State senate. He was elected city attorney for Decatur in 1918; and was elected to the legislature from Morgan County in 1919. He is a Democrat; was a delegate to the State convention which nominated delegates to the Constitutional convention; and a delegate to the Democratic national convention which nominated Judge Parker for president. He is a Baptist; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; and a J. O. U. A. M. Married: at Decatur, April 19, 1906, to Annie Leigh, daughter of Col. C. C. and Julia W. Harris, of that place. Children: 1. Seybourn Harris; 2. Julia Leigh; 3. Russell Wilson. Residence: Decatur.

LYON, ANNE BOZEMAN, author, was born February 25, 1860, in Mobile, Mobile County; daughter of Thomas Temple Armstrong and Mary Morgan Coffee (Heard) Lyon, the former a native of Stokes County, N. C., later a resident of Mobile, where he was successfully engaged in the wholesale mercantile and cotton business, major in the Confederate Army; granddaughter of William H. and Elizabeth (Armstrong) Lyon of Stokes County, N. C., and later of Demopolis, and of Maj. Franklin Coffee and Ann Matilda (Bozeman) Heard of Milledgeville and Augusta, Ga., and later of Mobile; great-granddaughter of Betheland (Gaines) Lyon, daughter of James and Elizabeth (Strother) Gaines of Virginia, sister of Gen. Edmund Pendleton and Col. George Strother Gaines, soldiers and distinguished pioneer builders of Alabama. The Lyon family is of English origin, the founder in America having migrated from that country to Massachusetts. Col. James Lyon of Henry County, Va., one of the descendants of the emigrant, was a notable figure in the French and Indian Wars. Through intermarriage, the subject of this sketch is related to the Dabneys, Daltons and other distinguished Virginia families. The ancestral connections reach to France, Ireland, Wales and England. Anne Bozeman Lyon received her preparatory and academic education in Locquet institute and other schools in New Orleans, La., and in the Quigley and Towle schools of Mobile, specializing in modern languages and music. Author: Her first published verses appeared in the "Memphis Appeal," in 1884-86, and in the "Louisville Courier-Journal" about the same date. Character sketches, verses, short stories and negro dialect stories from her pen were published in the "New Orleans Times-Democrat" during 1892. "Vanity Fair," became the publishing medium during 1895-96. She was the successful contestant for recognition of merit in Short Stories, and Current Literature, winning the prize in the latter for a dramatic etching, entitled "The Mourner," thirteen hundred competitors being in the contest. Other writings by her are: "No Saint," a novel, 1890; "Early missions of the South," a booklet, 1895; "Padre Felipo," a short story, published in Poor Soul's Advocate, 1895; "A Futile amendment," published in Southern Magazine, Louisville, Ky.; "Ninita," published in Mid-Continent; "Chitto's marriage," published in The Telegraph, Cincinnati; "L'Huile de Marie," published in The New World, Chicago; "Casemir-Jacques," published in National Magazine, Boston. In addition to the foregoing, she has also done much newspaper and feature work, and has written a number of historical articles from time to time. Residence: Mobile.

LYON, FRANCIS STROTHER, lawyer, representative in congress, was born February 25, 1800, in Stokes County, N. C., and died December 31, 1882, in Demopolis; son of James and Betheland (Gaines) Lyon, who lived on their estate, a fine tobacco farm, in Stokes County, N. C., the former a native of Henry County, Va.; grandson of Col. James and Christine (Harmon) Lyon, who lived in Henry County, Va., and of James and Elizabeth (Strother) Gaines, the former a captain of a company of North Carolina militia in the battle of Guilford Court House, Revolutionary War, and a member of the convention of a colony of North Carolina, which ratified the constitution of the United States; and a descendant of Francis Strother of Culpeper County, Va. He was uncle of George Gaines Lyon (q. v.). He attended the common schools of North Carolina, and early in the year 1817 came with his brother, James G. Lyon, to live with his uncle, George Strother Gaines, the agent of the U. S. government then in control at the St. Stephens agency for the Indians, on the Tombigbee River, above Mobile. Mr. Lyon was for a time employed in the bank at St. Stephens, and then in the office of the clerk of the county court. He studied law under Abner S. Lipscomb, W. H. Crawford and Henry Hitchcock; was admitted to the bar in 1821, and practiced at Demopolis. The following year he was elected secretary of the State senate, and held that office by successive elections for eight years. He was elected State senator from the district comprised of Marengo and Wilcox Counties, in 1833, and from Marengo and Sumter Counties in 1834. During his first term in the senate he was defeated for the presidency of that body by Hon. John Erwin of Greensboro, and in the next year, was elected president of the senate over Mr. Erwin.

Mr. Lyon was elected to congress in 1835, defeating Robert Emmet Bledsoe Bayton, of Dallas County, and Joseph Bates of Mobile; and was reelected in 1837. In 1845, when the state bank and its branches were placed in liquidation, he was selected with William Cooper and Clement C. Clay as a commissioner to adjust all claims. After that commission made its report to the State legislature in 1847, and was discharged, Mr. Lyon was continued as sole commissioner until the final settlement in 1853. He was chosen as chairman of the State convention of the Democratic party in 1860, and by that convention was sent as a delegate to the Charleston convention of 1860, where the southern delegates withdrew, he among them. He was a representative in the State legislature in 1861; was elected to the provisional Confederate congress but declined to serve; was elected to the first congress under the constitution of the Confederate States of America, 1862-1864. He was elected to the second Confederate congress in 1864, and served until the close of the war. He was a delegate to the State constitutional convention of 1875, and made the draft of the constitution adopted by the convention. He was elected a State senator in 1876. He was an Episcopalian.

Married: March 4, 1824, in Demopolis, to Sarah Serena, daughter of Allen and Sarah (Norwood) Glover (q. v.), who lived at that place; grandson of Frederic and Elizabeth (Cato) Glover. Children: 1. Mary Amanda, m. William H. Ross, merchant at Mobile, served as major in the C. S. Army; 2. Sarah Norwood m. Oliver H. Prince, a law partner of Mr. Lyon before the War of Secession, who was killed while commanding a company in the Forty-third Alabama infantry in the assault upon Gen. Thomas's corps at Chickamauga, September 20, 1863; 3. Helen Gaines, New York City, m. Gen. Zachary Cantey Deas (q. v.), deceased, a cotton broker, a brigadier general in the C. S. Army; 4. Amelia; 5. Eugenia; 6. Frank Glover, d. March 13, 1893, planter at Demopolis, private and lieutenant, C. S. Army, on staff of Gen. Z. C. Deas, m. Sarah Henley, daughter of John W. Henley; 7. Ida, m. Dr. William M. Polk, physician, an officer in the C. S. Army, New York City, son of Gen. Leonidas Polk, C. S. Army. Last residence: Demopolis.

LYON, GEORGE GAINES, lawyer, was born January 11, 1821, in Washington County; son of James Gaines and Rosa (Fisher) Lyon, natives of North Carolina, the former a lawyer and for several years clerk of the circuit court and register in chancery in Washington County, who went to Mobile in 1827 where he engaged in the real estate business in addition to the practice of law and was for a time register in chancery; nephew of Francis Strother Lyon (q. v.); and grandnephew of George S. Gaines and Gen. E. P. Gaines, who were among the first settlers of Alabama. He studied law at Yale college law school, and began the practice of law in Mobile, soon afterward moving to Demopolis. He was admitted to the bar in February, 1840, and later was admitted to practice before the supreme court. During the war, he held the office of sequestrator, and was one of the commissioners of the Confederate government; was appointed governor's aid for west Alabama during the administration of Gov. John Gill Shorter; and was appointed U. S. circuit court commissioner. He declined two nominations of the Whig party to run for the State legislature, once for the lower house and once for the senate, and in 1868 refused to be a candidate for the office of chancellor. In 1875, he was appointed by Gov. George S. Houston as commissioner of immigration. He was a Mason and an Episcopalian. Married: in April, 1850, to Annie G. Glover, daughter of Allen and Mary A. (Diven) Glover, of Marengo County. Children: 1. James G., deceased; 2. Allen G., deceased; 3. Norman, deceased; 4. Francis Strother, d. January 19, 1888, in his twenty-fourth year, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1886, and was a law student in his father's office at the time of his death; 5. Rosa, d. in the burning of the steamer Gardner, on the Tombigbee River in 1887, m. William T. Rembert; 6. Susie D., d. with her sister in the burning of the Gardner, m. Julius P. Rembert; 7. George Gaines, Jr., b. April 5, 1860, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., and from the Pulte medical college, Cincinnati, O., M. D., 1888, agent, Southern express company, Little Rock, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn., 1882-1886, physician at Mobile, m. Rebecca R. Ulmer; 8. Mary G.; 9. Annie G. Last residence: Demopolis.

LYON, MATTHEW, publisher, editor, Baptist minister, was born August 27, 1812, in Warren County, Tenn.; son of Maj. James Lyon, who published papers in New Orleans before the War of 1812, and who was the first person to publish a newspaper in the English language in Mobile; grandson of Col. Matthew, a native of County Wicklow, Ireland, born July 14, 1750, who emigrated to America some time after his father had been put to death for engaging in a conspiracy against the British crown, resided in Connecticut and was married to a Miss Hosford, a niece of Ethan Allen, moved to Vermont, known then as the New Hampshire grants in 1774, and settled in Wallingford, joined Ethan Allen in the capture of Fort Ticonderoga, served as adjutant of Col. Warner's regiment under Gen. Montgomery in Canada, 1775, was commissioned paymaster with rank of captain in the Continental regiment commanded by Seth Warner, resigned from the army in 1778, served the state of Vermont as a member of the council of safety, captain in the militia, pay-master general, deputy secretary to Gov. Chittenden and his council, assistant to the treasurer and colonel of militia, represented Arlington in the Vermont legislature, 1779-1784 and Fair Haven for ten years between 1783 and 1797, was the founder of Fair Haven in 1783, where he built saw and grist mills, established an iron factory, manufactured paper and established a printing office publishing "The Farmer's Library," was elected to the U. S. congress in 1793 and commenced the publication of "The Scourge of Aristocracy," was indicted for criticising the president under the alien and sedition laws in 1798, fined one thousand dollars and imprisoned four months, and while in prison was re-elected to congress, was married secondly to Buelah (Chittenden) Galusha, daughter of Gov. Thomas Chittenden, was the unsuccessful anti-Federalist candidate for the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth congresses, 1791-1799, and was elected by his party to the Sixth and Seventh congresses, 1799-1801, moved from Vermont to Kentucky in 1801 on advice of Andrew

NATHAN L. MILLER

Jackson and founded the town of Eddyville, Ky., declined the position of commissary general of the western army offered him by President Jefferson; was a representative in the Kentucky legislature, 1802, and a representative in the Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh congresses, 1803-1811, opposed the second war with England, which stand cost him his seat in the Twelfth congress, was appointed U. S. factor to the Cherokee nation in Arkansas Territory by President Monroe in 1820, was elected the second delegate to congress from Arkansas, but did not live to take his seat, died August 1, 1822, at Spadra Bluff, Ark.

Elder Lyon attended the town academy for several years in Cheraw, Chesterfield District, S. C., and was brought up as a printer in the printing office of his father who established the first newspaper in that town. From December, 1829, to March, 1831, he worked during the congressional sessions in the printing office of Gen. Duff Green, editor of the "United States Telegraph," Washington, D. C. He returned home and became a printer at Camden, S. C.; in 1837, conducted "The Baptist," a monthly publication established at Nashville two years before; worked on the "Huntsville Democrat" for Philip Woodson, 1838; taught school at Pleasant Ridge, Greene County, 1840; and in 1841 became a printer in Pickensville, remaining in Pickens County for about fourteen years. He practiced law, and became register in chancery at Carrollton for four years. Early in 1849, he was licensed to preach by the Carrollton Baptist church, and later in the year was ordained to the ministry. After preaching for two or three years, he resigned from the law and taught school in connection with his duties as a minister. He served in Pickens County as pastor of the churches at Ebenezer, Providence, Spring Hill, Carrollton and Pickensville. In 1854, he moved to Brooksville, Miss., and taught school and preached there for three years. In 1858, he was pastor of Grenada church, Mississippi, and a teacher in the Baptist female institute at that place. In 1859, he started "The Baptist Messenger," a weekly publication which was discontinued during the first year of the war, and while conducting the paper, preached in various churches in Mississippi. Moving from Memphis, he lived successively in Hernando, Panola, and Grenada, Miss., preaching, printing and teaching at different times. He was a missionary of the Home Mission Board, 1865-1869; settled at Winona, Miss., in 1868, where he printed and preached; moved to Moulton for a short time, was called back to Central church, Holmes County, Miss.; became pastor at Carrollton in 1876, and in Moulton, in 1880, and after that time served in churches at Danville, Enon, Harmony and Pleasant Grove. Married: June 25, 1843, in Sumter County, to Susannah Muscogee Compere, daughter of Elder Lee Compere (q. v.). Children: 1. Compere Adolphus, enlisted in the C. S. Army, participated at the battle of Shiloh, and served until the last month of the war when he was dragged from a sickbed and murdered by Federal troops; 2. Laura, m. W. P. Chitwood, Tusculumbia. Last residence: Tusculumbia.

LYONS, ALBERT SIDNEY, business man, was born February 22, 1864, at Mobile; son of Mark and Amelia (Horsler) Lyons, of Mobile, the former a native of New York city, who moved to Mobile in early life, served as an officer in the First Florida volunteer infantry, C. S. Army, and was at Fort Pillow with Gen. N. B. Forrest, later became an officer in Gen. Randall Gibson's division, surrendering with that command in 1865, and represented Escambia County in the State legislature, 1878-1879. He was educated at Pollard and at St. Joseph's college, Spring Hill; entered business at Mobile, 1882; served as councilman of the city of Mobile, 1891-1894; as alderman from 1897 until 1911, when the form of municipal government was changed to a commission; was elected to the State senate from the Mobile district in 1898; represented Mobile County in the State legislature, 1903, and 1907; and during the latter year was chairman of the general council and mayor pro tem of the city of Mobile. He was chief of ordnance and lieutenant colonel of cavalry on the staff of Maj. Gen. J. W. Whiting of the Alabama state troops, 1892-1894, and chief of engineers and colonel of cavalry on the staff of Gov. Johnston, 1896-1900. He is a Democrat. Residence: Mobile.

LYONS, JOHN B., grand master, grand council, 1906; grand high priest, grand chapter, Masons, 1912.

LYONS, PAT J., wholesale grocer, mayor of Mobile, was born January 16, 1850, in Mobile; son of Thomas and Johanna Lyons, of County Waterford, Ireland, who emigrated to America, and settled in Mobile in December, 1849. He attended school for a few years but was compelled to leave school when a boy to earn his living. He engaged in all sorts of odd jobs until he was thirteen years old when he entered the steamboat service on the Alabama River, between Mobile, Selma and Montgomery, and by successive promotions became clerk, captain and finally owner of several steamers. He followed that life until 1889, when he retired and gave his entire attention to the wholesale grocery business as a member of the firm of Michael and Lyons, which had been organized seven years before that time. In addition to being president of that firm, he is president of the Southern supply company; vice president of the City national bank and trust company; and a stockholder and director in various other enterprises at Mobile. He served as a member of the city council of Mobile for twelve consecutive years; was president of the council and mayor of the city. He is a Democrat; a Roman Catholic; an Elk; and a member of the Mobile Mardi-gras societies. Residence: Mobile.

M

McADORY, ISAAC WELLINGTON, teacher, was born September 17, 1843, at Pleasant Hill, eighteen miles southwest of Birmingham, Jefferson County; son of Thomas and Emily Elmore (Owen) McAdory, a daughter of Thomas Owen who died in Okolona, Mississippi; grandson of Thomas and Celia (McAshan) McAdory, who removed from Hopkinsville, Ky.,

about the year 1818, and both of whom were of Irish descent, their parents having emigrated to this country from Ireland. Prof. McAdory received his education in the Jonesboro Salem academy, in Jefferson County, and on March 1, 1862, joined the Confederate army, enlisting as a private in Co. H, Twenty-eighth Alabama regiment. He was in the army of Tennessee from April 6, 1862, and participated in the battle of Shiloh and all other battles until April 26, 1865, when Gen. Johnston surrendered the army in North Carolina. He was county superintendent of education from October, 1899, until 1913, and during this time public schools were established in all the communities in the county in reach of all the children, but with separate schools for white and colored children. Prof. McAdory commenced teaching June 1, 1866, and taught regularly for about eleven months every year for about twenty-three years. He has never engaged in any other business and now owns a farm in Jefferson County, where he has resided for the past seven years. He is a Democrat and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: near Pleasant Hill, to Alice Eulalia, daughter of Isaac W. and Martha (Prude) Sadler. Children: 1. Wellington Prude (q. v.), graduate of Harvard college, Jefferson County, graduate in medicine and surgery at the University of Virginia, m. Lilly Hunt at East Lake; 2. Isaac Sadler, m. Mrs. Cora Scott at Auburn; 3. Martha Caroline, graduate of Randolph-Macon female college, Lynchburg, Virginia, taught several years in various colleges, m. Lawrence Otis Caldwell, October, 1913; 4. Margaret Eulalia, graduate in drawing and art at Columbia University, New York, teacher of art and supervisor of art in Jefferson County public schools; 5. Richard Rose, graduate of agriculture in the Polytechnic institute at Auburn, June, 1919, served in World war from 1917 to end of war, teacher, m. Louise Bradley; 6. Thomas, graduate of Polytechnic institute at Auburn in 1900; engaged in engineering for two years; studied law and graduated from the University of Alabama, 1912; practiced law and was engaged in that profession at the time of his death in May, 1913; two boys and one girl died in infancy. Residence: Jonesboro.

MCADORY, ROBERT A., lawyer and lieutenant, C. S. Army, was born October 14, 1845, in Jefferson County; son of Col. James and Nancy Tucker (Saddler) McAdory, the former a native of South Carolina, an early settler of Jefferson County and one of its wealthiest planters and slave holders, who served in the Creek War of 1836, as captain of the only company which went out from Jefferson County on that occasion, the latter a native of North Carolina and related to the Tucker family of Virginia; brother of Allons T., of the Confederate Army, who was killed at Dranesville, Va., of William R., captain of Co. H, 28th Alabama infantry regiment, killed at Missionary Ridge, of Chambers, who was wounded at Corinth, and of James S., a graduate of Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, Penn., assistant surgeon of the 36th Mississippi infantry regiment, who died as the result of exposure in the Confederate service, in 1865. He was admitted to the University of Alabama in 1862, and in 1863, entered the Confederate service as a private in Captain Storr's company, the "University cadets." In December, 1863, he was promoted to second lieutenant of Co. H, 28th Alabama infantry regiment, with which he served in Manigault's brigade, Hindman's division, Hardee's corps, army of Tennessee, until the close of the war. He participated in the campaign from Dalton to Atlanta, including the battles of Resaca, New Hope Church, Kenesaw Mountain, Atlanta, Ezra Church and Jonesboro, and commanded his company at the memorable battles of Franklin and Nashville, Tenn. In 1868, he graduated in law at the University of Mississippi, where he was under the tutorship of L. Q. C. Lamar. He began his practice in Elyton, and in 1868, removed to Birmingham. Married: in 1869, to Harriet E., daughter of Alfred Du Puy, of Jefferson County, and granddaughter of Col. John M. Du Puy, of French Huguenot descent. Last residence: Birmingham.

MCADORY, ROBERT JOHN, physician, was born August 15, 1872, at Mobile; son of James and Esther Louise (Sweeney) McAdory, the former a native of Liverpool, England, who lived at Mobile, and served in a Mobile company in the C. S. Army, was an alderman of Mobile, and was lieutenant of the Gulf City guards at the time of his death in 1878; grandson of Robert and Catherine McAdory, who emigrated to America from Belfast, Ireland, and settled in Mobile, and of John and Jane Eliza (Swan) Sweeney, who lived at Ft. Barancas, Fla., and Mobile, the former who emigrated to America at an early age from southern Ireland, and settled in Pensacola, who was engaged for the greater part of his life under the government in the construction of the fortifications at Barancas, Fla., the latter a native of New York City, whose parents emigrated to that place from Londonderry, Ireland. He was educated in the common schools of Washington, D. C. attended St. John's college, Annapolis, Md., Columbian university, Washington, D. C., and Stanford university, California; and was graduated from the medical department of the University of the City of New York, M. D., 1897. After his graduation, he spent one year in the New York City hospitals. During the Spanish-American War, he was acting assistant surgeon in the revenue cutter service, following which and up to 1903 he was acting assistant surgeon in the U. S. Army, serving in the Philippine and Hawaiian Islands and California. He was in private practice in Washington, D. C., 1903-1907, in Los Angeles, Calif., 1907-1913, and since then has been travelling, with San Francisco as his residence. During the war with Germany he served as first lieutenant in the medical reserve corps, U. S. Army. Residence: San Francisco, Calif.

MCADORY, WELLINGTON PRUDE, physician, was born February 28, 1875, in McCalla, Jefferson County; a son of Isaac Wellington and Alice Eulalia (Sadler) McAdory (q. v.), Wellington Prude McAdory received his education in Howard college at East Lake, graduating A. B., in June, 1895; University of Virginia, 1897, M. D.; and took a post graduate course in the New York post graduate school hospital which he completed July, 1899. He is now practicing medicine and surgery in Birmingham. He is a Democrat; Mason, having taken all of the degrees from first to thirty-third inclusive in the Scottish Rite and is a Knight Templar in the York Rite; a member of Sigma Nu, college fraternity; a member of Psi Chi, medical fraternity; and is president of the Fraternal hospital in Birmingham. He is likewise a member of the Baptist church. Married: November 7, 1900, at East Lake to Lillie Belle, daughter of William Hunt. Residence: Birmingham.

McAFEE, GREEN TALIAFERRO, teacher, merchant, lawyer, was born March 4, 1804, in Rutherford County, N. C., and died July 9, 1884; son of Abner and Delilah (Green) McAfee, who lived at Rutherfordton, N. C., the former a native of that place, born March 7, 1774; grandson of Anderson C. McAfee, who fought in the battle of King's Mountain in the Revolutionary War. The family came to America from Scotland. Mr. McAfee received his early education in the log cabin schools of North Carolina, and added to the knowledge gained there by study and reading under his own direction. He left his home in North Carolina for the new wilderness state of Alabama in 1823, in order to join his kinspeople, the Greens and Perkins family. He first located in St. Clair County and taught school for a time, then established a store on Beaver Creek, a few miles east of Ashville. He was elected to the State legislature as a representative from St. Clair County, and during his attendance in that body, drew up the bill establishing Talladega County. He moved to Talladega County in 1832, the year the county was established, and was elected county judge, which office he held ten years. He built the first store-house in the city of Talladega, and as he spoke the Indian language, had a large trade among the Indians as well as among the whites. He opposed secession until the state left the union, then gave two sons and all his wealth to the cause of the Confederacy. He was elected to the State senate, 1868-1870, and was chairman of the judiciary committee; and practiced law from 1869-1879. He was originally a Whig in politics, and after the War of Secession, a Republican; and was a Baptist. Married: (1) March 13, 1828, at Ashville, St. Clair County, to Charlie Ann Hall, of Centre, Cherokee County, a ward of Gen. Garrett of Cherokee, government Indian agent; (2) December 13, 1837, to Elizabeth Letcher Scales, of Talladega, who died August 28, 1869. Children, by first marriage: 1. Augustus Wellington, b. November 2, 1829, d. at Matamoras, September 8, 1846, volunteer in Capt. J. O. Shelley's rifle regiment, Mexican War; 2. Mary Eliza Emma, b. October 20, 1832, d. March 8, 1903, m. Dr. John H. Vandiver, children, Mrs. Charles Vandiver Cannon, Spartanburg, S. C., J. Wellington Vandiver, Talladega, and Dr. C. W. Vandiver, Fort Meyers, Fla.; by second marriage: 3. Nicholas Scales, m. (1) Eliza Page, deceased, (2) Annie Easton; 4. Charlie Ann, m. Fred B. McLure, Pulaski, Tenn.; 5. Elizabeth Lake, m. Alvah David Bennett, Brooklyn, N. Y.; 6. Green Prior Perkins, deceased. Last residence: Talladega.

McAFEE, major, 6th battalion, Confederate infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

McALEXANDER, EDWARD, major and later lieutenant colonel, 27th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

McALISTER, ANGUS, former State senator from Covington and Dale Counties.

McALPINE, BLANTON, public official, member of Alabama legislature, and merchant, was born February 27, 1804, in Georgia; son of Solomon and Elizabeth McAlpine, the former a native of Scotland who settled in Georgia. He was educated in the common schools of his native state and immigrated to Mobile where he engaged in the mercantile business. He was a member of the legislature from Mobile County, 1841, and mayor of the city of Mobile, 1845-46. An interesting coincidence in regard to Mr. McAlpine's legislative service was that his brothers, Solomon and Jefferson C. were State senators from Greene and Sumter Counties, respectively, at the same time he was serving in the house. He removed from Mobile to California between 1846-50, where he died. Last residence: California.

McALPINE, FRANK CLARKE, soldier, was born June 21, 1880, at Talladega; son of Frank Clisby and Martha (Clarke) McAlpine, the former a native of Coosa County, who lived at Talladega, served as alderman several terms and as city treasurer for a number of years; grandson of Dr. Augustine Irvine and Martha (Clisby) McAlpine, of Talladega, and of Thomas and Martha (Carde) Clarke, of Cincinnati, O., the former a native of England, and the latter of County Dunn, Ireland; great-grandson of Paul Clisby, of Wales, who lived in Boston, Mass., was in the shipping business and served in the Revolutionary Army, and of Robert McAlpine, a Presbyterian minister, a lieutenant in a Tennessee company, who fought under Gen. Jackson in the battle of Talladega, whose father came from Scotland. He was educated in the private and public schools of Talladega, the Talladega military academy, and in the Alabama polytechnic institute. He was occupied in the mercantile business, and as a planter and animal husbandryman, 1899-1916. He enlisted in Co. L, Third infantry, National guard of Alabama, 1894, and was appointed successively, corporal, sergeant and captain, serving until 1906; became captain of Co. L, Thirty-fifth infantry, 1907-1912; captain of Troop M, First Alabama cavalry, 1916-1917, and major of that organization in the latter year; major of the One hundred seventeenth field artillery, 1917-1919, and of the Fortieth field artillery, Fourteenth division. He was graduated from the School of Fire, Fort Sill, Okla., December, 1917; served as regimental artillery instructor, One hundred seventeenth artillery, January to April, 1918; senior artillery instructor, Fourth officers training school, Camp Wheeler, Georgia, May to July, 1918; Brigade training school, Camp Jackson, South Carolina, July to October, 1918; Overseas service, October to December 1918; Brigade training school, Coetquedon, France; assistant camp inspector, Camp Custer, Michigan, March to October, 1919; and since that time has served as morale officer, education and recreation officer, naturalization officer and polo officer at Camp Custer. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; Elk; and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. Married: February 5, 1908, at Talladega, to Sarah, daughter of John W. and Ophelia (Montgomery) Bishop, of Talladega. Residence: Headquarters, Camp Custer, Michigan.

McALPINE, R. E., Presbyterian minister of North Alabama.

McALPINE, ROBERT BROWN, Presbyterian minister, was born January 25, 1848, near Rockford, Coosa County; son of Aurelius Emmons and Harriet Newel (Brown) McAlpine, the former a native of east Tennessee, born 1826, educated in Jacksonville, where his father resided in 1837, studied medicine in New Orleans, located in Three Creeks, Union County, Ark., where he died March 27, 1886; grandson of Rev. Robert and Mary E. (Temple) McAlpine, of Jacksonville and Coosa County, the former graduated at Greenville college, east Tennessee, under Rev. Charles Coffin, D. D., and was captain in the U. S. Army, under Andrew Jackson in the war with Great Britain in 1812, studied theology later and entered the Presbyterian ministry, conducted for a time in Jacksonville a classical school attended by Gen. Hindman, Gen. Forney and Dr. Curry, and of Duncan Brunn, who was a successful planter in Arkansas, whither he removed from Brunnsville, about 1855-56. The family came originally from North Carolina. Robert Brown McAlpine attended school at private institutions, Mt. Holly, Arkansas, of which Prof. Espey Watts was principal and at Three Creeks academy, Ark. He entered Davidson college, N. C., in 1867, graduated in 1870 with the degree of A. B., afterwards, for work done received the degree of A. M.; graduated from Theological seminary of Columbia, S. C., 1873; took post graduate course at University of Virginia, entering in 1874; spent nearly a year at Princeton seminary and university, entering in 1879; was ordained in the ministry, May 12, 1877, and held pastorates at Uniontown, Goldsboro, N. C., Columbus, Miss., and Gadsden. He taught theology for nine years, beginning August, 1889, in the Stillman institute for training colored ministers, under the care of the Southern Presbyterian church; has been chairman of committee on Christian education and ministerial relief and trustee in two institutions of learning for short periods. Married: June 2, 1880, at Selma to Mary Elvira, daughter of Hon. Benjamin Hogan and Eliza Reese (Tucker) Craig, of Midway, Ga.; granddaughter of Hon. James D. and Elvira S. (Berry) Craig of Cahaba, who removed to Selma after the War, and in the seventies to San Francisco, Cal., and granddaughter of Mary (Bivens) Tucker. Benjamin Hogan Craig was married to his wife December 4, 1856, at Midway, Ga., lived a while at Cahaba, moving to Selma in 1859; a member of the legislature of 1900-02, the constitutional convention of 1901; a lawyer and for many years register in chancery of Dallas County. Children: 1. Laura Craig, m. Frank Freeman, Birmingham; 2. Mary Kirby, Tuscaloosa; 3. Gertrude Elvira, Tuscaloosa; 4. Robert Brown, jr., Meridian, Miss. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

McAULEY, JOSEPH CUNNINGHAM, Presbyterian minister and member constitutional convention, 1865, was born August 29, 1823, in Autauga County, and was killed November 18, 1876, at Mumford, while attempting to board a train; son of Daniel and Anna (McNeill) McAuley, the former born on the Isle of Wight, England, and emigrated to this country early in life, and the latter a native of North Carolina, removed to Autaugaville about 1815; grandson of Lochlin and Margaret McAuley of Scotland, later of the Isle of Wight, and of Robert and Eliza McNeill of North Carolina. The family is one of a large number of Scotch families who early located in North Carolina, and scattered over the South. He was educated in town schools at Mardisville, Talladega County; studied law in the office of Hon. Alexander White, of Talladega, but never practiced; entered the ministry of the Southern Presbyterian church, in Selma, in April, 1873; had charge of the primary department of Oxford college, Calhoun County, when Messrs. Dodson and Borden were principals; was county school commissioner; president of the county fair association, and one of the leaders of the grange movement; represented Calhoun County in the constitutional convention of 1865; and was ordnance officer of the 51st Alabama mounted infantry regiment from March, 1863, to 1865. He was ordained ruling elder when he was twenty-one years of age and held this office until he was ordained to the ministry in 1873. He was a Whig and a Mason. Married: January 10, 1845, near Alexandria, Calhoun County, to Sarah Frances, daughter of James and Sarah (McKinney) Hampton, who lived near Watkinsville, Clarke County, Ga., later moving to Calhoun County. Children: 1. Emma F., m. Peter Pelham, son of Dr. Atkinson Pelham (q. v.), and resides at Poulan, Ga.; 2. James D., m. Ezze Martin, residence White Plains; 3. Thomas J., m. Lula Morrison, residence Albertville; 4. Robert, m. May Young, residence Reddick, Fla.; 5. Mary E., m. George Boggs, of Selma; 6. Edward P., m. Elise Barry, residence Delta, Macon County, Ga.; 7. Pelham, deceased; 8. William A., deceased. Last residence: Alexandria.

McAULEY, WILLIAM HALL, Presbyterian minister and foreign missionary, was born December 1, 1811, in Montgomery County, N. C., and died at Stockton, Baldwin County, January 15, 1885; son of Daniel and Ann (McNeill) McAuley, and brother of Joseph C. McAuley (q. v.). He received his early education in the village schools of Autaugaville; later became a student in Danville, Ky.; received his theological training at Princeton college, and was ordained in the Presbyterian ministry, April, 1840. Immediately thereafter, accompanied by his wife and three others who had been his fellow students at Princeton, he set sail from Boston, August 5, 1840, for India. The party was stationed at Futiguer, but ten years later, owing to the ill health of his wife, Mr. McAuley returned to Alabama, where he served as pastor in Talladega, two years; in Uniontown, fifteen years; and at Stockton, seven years, and where he died and was buried. Married: June 3, 1840, to Emma, daughter of Robert and Rebecka (Gulick) Bayles, of Princeton, N. J. Children: 1. Anna Rebecka, m. William Brown, deceased; 2. Emma, m. William Russell; 3. Eliza Jennetta, m. E. J. Harrison, residence Birmingham; 4. William Daniel, m. Ella Underwood; 5. Robert Chalmers, m. Laura Dean; 6. Mary Elizabeth, m. John M. Bowie. Last residence: Stockton.

McBRYDE, ANDREW, grand treasurer, grand chapter of Alabama, Masons, 1826; father of Wade A. McBryde (q. v.).

McBRYDE, WADE ALLEN, druggist, was born May 6, 1840, at Montgomery; son of Andrew and Ann Rebecca (Allen) McBryde, who moved to Montgomery in 1819, the former a native of Charlotte, N. C.; grandson of Andrew and Harriet (Henderson) McBryde, the former of whom was born in 1784 in Charleston, S. C., and died in 1828 in Montgomery, and of Wade and Katie (Carpenter) Allen, of Montgomery; great-grandson of Dr. Thomas Henderson of Charlotte, N. C., who was a surgeon in the Revolutionary Army under Gen. Nathaniel Greene. He received his education in the common schools of his neighborhood, and became a druggist in Montgomery in 1853, continuing that profession for the greater part of his life. He was captain of Co. F, Third Alabama regiment, until 1865; served as chief of the fire department in 1876 and 1877; was elected alderman from Ward 6, Montgomery, 1877-1881; and was appointed commissary general with the rank of colonel of cavalry on the staff of Gov. E. A. O'Neal, 1885-1887. He is a Democrat; a vestryman in the church of the Holy Comforter; a Mason; was grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, 1875; an Elk; and a member of the National Union. Married: September 28, 1869, to Caroline Virginia Sayre, daughter of Philemon D. and Caroline Virginia Sayre, of Montgomery, the former a native of New Jersey, and the latter, of Georgia. Residence: Montgomery.

MCCAIN, JOHN RICHMOND, business man, was born January 28, 1865, at Lineville; son of Rev. James Erwin and Minerva D. (Sims) McCain, the former a native of Tennessee, a Methodist minister, who lived at Lineville and other places; grandson of James G. and Sadie McCain, of Lineville, and of Reuben and Nancy Sims, of Center. Mr. McCain was educated in the common schools of Clay County, and at Lineville college, graduating from the latter place, Ph. B., 1892, and A. B., 1896. He also attended the Southern university, Greensboro, and Columbian university, Washington, D. C. He taught school for some years; was elected to the State senate from the eighth district, 1898, and served two terms; served as State land agent, November 16, 1901, to January, 1907; was land clerk in the State auditor's office, 1907-1911; superintendent of the North East Alabama agricultural and industrial institute, 1911-1913; was appointed postmaster of Lineville by President Woodrow Wilson, May, 1913; and held that position until November, 1914, when he was elected to the State senate from the thirty-fourth district, 1914. He is now connected with the U. S. internal revenue office at Birmingham. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Knight of Pythias. Residence: Lineville.

MCCALL, CHARLES EDWARD, accountant, was born November 21, 1867, at Desotenville, Choctaw County; son of Dr. Daniel and Nancy Elizabeth (Thompson) McCall, of Desotenville; brother of Daniel T. McCall (q. v.); grandson of John and Mary (Campbell) McCall, the former a native of Scotland, who emigrated to South Carolina from this state, moved to Florida, thence to Alabama, where he died, and of Benjamin and Sarah Meniffee (Davis), who lived in Hale, Autauga and Choctaw Counties. Mr. McCall received his early education in the common schools of Choctaw County; and afterwards was three years in Dr. Seth S. Melten's school at Mt. Stirling. He received his higher education in the Cooper institute at Daleville, Miss., and in the University of Alabama, from which he graduated in 1885, with the degree of A. B. After graduation he taught school for ten years. He was the founder and editor of "The Choctaw Advocate," Butler, 1890-1892; was admitted to the practice of law in 1908; was probate judge of Choctaw County, 1898-1909; assistant examiner of public accounts of Alabama, 1909-1910; appointed chief examiner of public accounts, April, 1911. He is a Methodist; a Royal Arch Mason; past chancellor of Knights of Pythias; a Woodman of the World; a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles; and of the Sigma Nu fraternity. Married: to Mary Rebecca Collins, of Collinsville, Miss., daughter of James Madison and Amanda (Etheridge) Collins, of Lauderdale County, Miss. Children: 1. Charles Campbell; 2. Willard; 3. Mary; 4 and 5, twins, d. in infancy. Residence: Montgomery.

MCCALL, CHARLES RODERICK, consul and teacher, was born October 3, 1858, at Perote, Pike County, and died August 24, 1898, at Troy; son of Daniel Alexander and Serena (Dennis) McCall, the former a native of Cumberland County, N. C., who came to Alabama in 1839, settled in Barbour County where he engaged in planting, merchandising, and steam boating until 1856 when he removed to that part of Pike County, now embraced in Bullock, was elected probate judge of Bullock, admitted to the bar early after the war and practiced in Union Springs as a partner of Col. James N. Arrington; grandson of Judge Charles A. and Esther (Maddox) Dennis of Orion, Pike County, among the early settlers there, coming from Talbot County, Ga., represented Pike County in the legislatures of 1826-27-29-35. Mr. McCall received his early education in Union Springs where he was taught by E. J. McIver, Angus McDonald, and C. L. McCartha; graduated at the University of Alabama with the degree of A. B. in 1878, and M. A., in 1879. Of five prizes competed for by his class he won the prize in Greek and the two first prizes offered in English. On the day of his first graduation, he was elected instructor in Latin and English in the university and held this position for two years. In 1880 he resigned from his professional duties to become editor of the "Greenville Advocate." Three years later he removed to Troy to become editor and part proprietor of the "Troy Messenger." In 1885 he was appointed by Secretary of State Bayard, vice-consul general of the United States at Rio de Janeiro, was promoted by President Cleveland to be consul at Santos, Brazil, which promotion was made on recommendation of Assistant Secretary of State, James D. Porter: "for merit and for tried efficiency in the consular service." During his residence in Brazil he learned to speak Portuguese and Spanish and increased his knowledge of French and German. He resigned the consularship in 1889, shortly before President Harrison was inaugurated, and returning to Alabama became editor and part owner of the "Union Springs Herald." In 1890 he was unanimously elected teacher of languages in the State normal school at Troy where he taught Latin, Greek and French until his death. During the summer of 1896-97 he taught Latin, Greek and Spanish in the schools of the Monteagle assembly, Monteagle, Tenn., besides delivering a course of lectures before the assembly on literary and historical subjects. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: November 28, 1889, at Ocean Springs, Miss., to Emily, daughter of Thomas C. and Sarah Foster. Last residence: Troy.

MCCALL, DANIEL THOMPSON, physician, was born September 4, 1849, at DeSotenville, Choctaw County; son of Daniel and Nancy Elizabeth (Thompson) McCall; brother of Charles E. McCall (q. v.); grandson of John and Mary McCall and of Benjamin F. and Sarah Thompson, all of DeSotenville. He was educated at Cooper's institute, Spring Hill, Miss., at Pushmataha and Furman, and graduated at the University of Alabama, 1886, with the A. B. degree, completing his medical studies, 1894, at the Louisville medical college, now the University of Louisville, Ky. He entered immediately upon the practice of his profession at Gaston where he remained four years. In 1899 he located in Butler where he remained until 1908 when he entered upon a post graduate course in diseases of children, studying in New York. Completing this work he located in Mobile. He was county health officer of Choctaw, 1899-08; member county board of school commissioners, Mobile County, 1912-18, and president of that board, 1918-19; president board of health, Mobile County, 1916, and chairman of that board, 1917-18; member State board of education, 1919. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and Knight of Pythias. Married: July 10, 1907, at Butler, Choctaw County, to Caroline Winston, daughter of Green Berry and Rosa Lee (Wilcox) Bush, of that place; granddaughter of Judge Curtis Nash and Sallie Battle Dade (Winston) Wilcox, the latter a descendant of Peter Fontaine, an Episcopal clergyman in colonial Virginia, the former a descendant of Jonathan Wilcox, a Puritan settler of Connecticut. Children: 1. Daniel Thompson, jr.; 2. Winston Bush. Residence: Mobile.

MCCALL, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on January 5, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $60.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Con., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCCALLA, WILLIAM AUGUSTUS, civil engineer and Chevalier Légion de la Honneur, was born November 7, 1866, at Lewis Turnout, Chester District, S. C.; son of Richard Calvin and Margaret Elisa (Lewis) McCalla. He was educated by tutors in Tennessee; at the public and private schools of Tuscaloosa, and at the University of Alabama, 1883-1886. He began his life work in September, 1886, as a civil engineer. On June 30, 1917, he was commissioned a major of engineers, and on September 12, 1917, was called into service, and was assigned to the 25th Engineers at Camp Devon, Ayer, Mass.; sailed for France November 25, 1917, in command of 504th Engineer's battalion; promoted lieutenant colonel February 13, 1919; returned to United States, April 20, 1919; discharged April 24, 1919. His entire service in France was with the Department of construction and forestry in S. O. S., and engineer officer in charge of construction of A. S. P. C., No. 2. He was made a Chevalier in the Legion of Honor by the French government, in recognition for his valuable services during the European struggle. Upon his return to Alabama he was selected as assistant State highway commissioner which position he now occupies. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: June 2, 1897, to Fannie Mae, daughter of Jake and Frances (Lynch) Raiford, of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Margaret Carolyn, graduate of the University of Alabama. Residence: Montgomery.

MCCALLEY, HENRY, tutor in chemistry at the University of Alabama, 1879-83.

MCCANN, JAMES EDWARDS, Methodist minister, was born September 3, 1857, at Newbern, Hale County; son of John Wilson and Jane Teresa (Goff) McCann, the former spent his boyhood in his native state and his early manhood in Alabama, where he taught school in Clay County, admitted to the Methodist ministry by the Conference in 1845 at Mobile, and of which he was a member for forty-four years; grandson of Michael and Polly (Bishop) McCann of Hawkins County, Tenn., the former a member of the Tennessee bar who died at the age of forty-one; and of Edmund and Lucretia (Wells) Goff, of Jackson County, Miss.; great-grandson of James McCann who immigrated from Ireland and settled in Virginia, a Roman Catholic in religion, a physician by profession, surgeon in the Revolutionary War, twice married, his second wife, a widow Arnold, who bore two children, Michael, and a daughter, who married a Reese. James E. McCann was educated in the village schools, and graduated at the Southern university, A. B., 1877; taught school for two years after graduation, joined the Alabama conference at Tuskegee, December, 1879, has held pastorates in Alabama and California conferences continuously since admission to the ministry. Married: October 1, 1884, at Santa Maria, Calif., to Sarah Ann, daughter of Irving Noland and Sarah Esther (Condit) McGuire. Her father was a "Forty-niner," and her mother was from Ohio. Children: 1. James, jr.; 2. Irving Goff, pastor Green street congregational church, Chicago, m. daughter of William H. Sands, Richmond, Va.; 3. Annie Ezell, m. a Russell of Columbus, Ga.; 4. John Wilson; 5. Christine Esther; 6. Ruth Aline; 7. Allie Boone; 8. Mary. Residence: Eufaula.

DR. JOHN D. S. DAVIS

MCCANN, JOSEPH D., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Talladega County.

MCCARTER, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 69, and a resident of Greene County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on November 4, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Greene County, June 1, 1840, aged 76.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MCCARTHA, CLARENCE LINDEN, teacher, was born March 15, 1841, in Fairfield County, S. C.; son of Jeremiah and Emily (Britain) McCartha; grandson of Jesse McCartha and wife, who was a Miss Boland, of Lexington County, S. C.; paternal great-grandparents immigrated from Scotland, and the family of his grandmother came from Hesse Cassel. Professor McCartha was taught at home by his parents until sixteen years of age; entered sophomore class at Columbia academy, Columbia, S. C.; was graduated from Wofford college, A. B., June, 1861, post-graduate (non-resident) work led to the A. M. degree in 1864; has taught continuously from January, 1862, until the present, doing academic and classical work in Columbia and Abbeville, S. C., Lawrenceville, Union Springs, Gordon, Geneva, and Newton, Bluffton, Ga., and Greenwood, Fla.; professor in Troy State normal college, 1889-90; in Southern university, 1890-92; and again in State normal college, Troy, 1892 to date. He has been local preacher in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, since 1858; and ordained local deacon in 1866. He is a Mason. He is the author of "The lost tribes of Israel, or Europe and America in history and in prophecy," 1893; and "A catechism of English grammar," 1901. Married: (1) December 5, 1861, in Spartanburg, S. C., to Susan Jane Farrow; (2) July 7, 1870, in Henry County, to Loula Louise, daughter of George W. and Lucinda Ann (Latimer) Culver, descendants of early settlers of Hancock County, Ga. Children: 1. William Emory, deceased; 2. Sallie Marion, m. Dr. Horatio D. Vaughn; 3. Mamie Warren, m. William M. Newell, residence Samson; 4. Lillie Jane, d. in infancy; 5. Dolly, d. in infancy; 6. Clarence Linden, m. Mabel McSwain, residence Troy; 7. Emily Chicora, m. Cephas K. Knox of Troy. Residence: Troy.

MCCARTNEY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Madison County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $51.34; sums received to date of publication of list, $128.35.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCCARTY, MICHAEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 90, resided in Jefferson County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MCCARY, JAMES H., business man, was born March 11, 1862, in Maplesville, Chilton County; son of Jarvis Fletcher and Evalina M. (Lilly) McCary, the former a native of Chilton County, a merchant, who served in the Twentieth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, was wounded at the battle of Resaca, and died from the wound in a hospital at Macon, Ga.; grandson of St. Clair D. and Elizabeth (Atkinson) McCary, natives of South Carolina, who went to Chilton County in 1820, and purchased lands from the Indians. His great-grandfather served in the War of 1812. He received his early education in the schools of Clanton, and attended the Alabama polytechnic institute at Auburn. After leaving school in 1881, he clerked in a hotel at Blount Springs until 1883, then moved to Birmingham and clerked in a hotel there for a year. In 1884, he became occupied as a merchandise broker, and the next year established himself as a wholesale grocer and produce dealer. He continued in that business for many years, under the firm name of J. H. McCary and company. He has served as president of the board of trade; as president of the board of police commissioners; is a director in the Building and loan association; was an organizer and director in the Birmingham national bank. He was a Lieutenant of State militia under Col. Thomas G. Jones, and one of the organizers of the Jefferson Volunteers. He has been a member of the county Democratic executive committee; a steward in the Methodist church; president of the board of trustees of the Order of Elks; a Knight of Pythias; and a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Married: October 30, 1888, to Frances, daughter of William F. and Elizabeth Nabers of Birmingham. Children: 1. William; 2. James H., jr.; 3. Helen; 4. Carolyn. Residence: Birmingham.

MCCARY, RICHARD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, and a resident of Bibb County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on June 12, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from May 3, 1819; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,497.31; transferred from Edgefield District, S. C., from March 4, 1827.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He also resided in Washington County.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MCCASKILL, JOHN, lieutenant colonel, 3rd Confederate cavalry, C. S. Army.

MCCASLIN, ROBERT HORACE, Presbyterian minister, was born June 3, 1883, at Sweetwater, Monroe County, Tenn.; son of Joseph Henry and Margaret Ella (Magill) McCaslin, the former also a native of Monroe County, residing at Sweetwater and later at Sanford, Fla., a hardware merchant for thirty years, member of the Democratic executive committee of Monroe County for many years, a trustee of the Tennessee military institute, and a ruling elder in the Presbyterian church; grandson of William and Lydia (Messimer) McCaslin, of Monroe County, and of James Franklin and Margaret (Johnston) Magill, of Madisonville, Tenn. The name, McCaslin, was originally MacCausland, and descended from that Baron MacCausland of Ulster, who went to Ireland during the reign of James VI. In 1841, two brothers of the family came to America, one settling in South Carolina, the other, William McCaslin, going to Virginia, where he served with the patriots of that state in the War of the Revolution. His son, John, moved to North Carolina and there reared a large family. His second son, William, was born in Buncombe County, N. C., removed to Monroe County, from which he entered the Confederate Army as Captain of Co. D, 62nd Tennessee infantry regiment. The founder of the maternal line was William Magill of Scotland, born 1670, whose son, William, came to America and settled in Augusta County, Va., and was a part of the Scotch-Irish immigration that came to this country, 1725-40. After the Revolutionary War, he, with his son, James, settled in Greene County, Tenn., the latter having served in the Revolutionary War as a member of the 12th Virginia regiment, his second wife being Margaret McMeans. His son, Nathaniel, married Jane Rankin, and was a planter. His son, James Franklin, was born in 1825 and died in 1901, a prominent citizen of the county, a planter and devout Presbyterian, having been a ruling elder in his church for nearly fifty years. Dr. McCaslin received his early education in his native home, among his teachers being Dr. Lynn Bachman, a Presbyterian minister and for half a century a teacher, a distinguished orator, and Confederate soldier. In 1900 he graduated from Sweetwater military college with the B. S. degree and three years later took the A. B. degree at Maryville college. In 1906, he completed his course at the Union theological seminary, Richmond, Va., and received the Ph. D. degree from Central university, 1909, and the honorary degree of D. D., from Richmond college, 1912. He was ordained as a clergyman of the Presbyterian church at Knoxville, Tenn., 1906, his first pastoral charge being the First Presbyterian church at Cleveland, Tenn., where he served until 1908, at which time he was called to the First Presbyterian church at Bowling Green, Ky. In 1913, he assumed the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church in Montgomery, where he still remains. Dr. McCaslin takes a profound interest in the civic affairs of his adopted city and State. He was appointed a member of the education commission by Gov. Thomas E. Kilby to revise and recommend an educational standard for Alabama, and in 1920 appointed by the Governor as a member of the State board of education; president of Montgomery Rotary club, 1918; director Alabama children's home society; director Montgomery chamber of commerce since 1915; vice-chairman, Montgomery War camp community service, during the World war; director and vice-president Montgomery Y. M. C. A.; director Montgomery associated charities; member Navy league of the U. S.; National geographic society; director Alabama branch of the League to enforce peace, and of the Interracial commission of the South; chaplain, 2nd infantry regiment, A. N. G. He is a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 7, 1906, in Richmond, Va., to Grace Nelson, daughter of Rev. Dr. John and Virginia (Bagby) Pollard, a prominent Baptist minister and professor in Columbian college, having served pastorates in Baltimore and Richmond, and for twenty years a professor in Richmond college; granddaughter of Col. John Pollard, a distinguished attorney of King and Queen County, Va., whose mother was Katherine Robinson, a member of the family that produced Christopher Robinson, president of the King's council, and John Robinson, speaker of the house of burgesses. Children: 1. Susie Virginia; 2. Robert Henry, deceased. Residence: Montgomery.

MCCLANAHA, J. M., member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Shelby County.

MCCLELEN, SAMUEL DURHAM, farmer, was born August 5, 1820, in Winchester, Franklin County, Tenn., and died December 11, 1887, at Piedmont; son and youngest of eight children of Samuel and Frances (Kelley) McClelen, of York, S. C., whence they removed to Georgia, thence to Tennessee, and finally in 1834 to Talladega County, where he died in 1846, and his wife four years later, the former was a boy in South Carolina during the Revolutionary War. His father was a native of Ireland of Scotch ancestry, and his name was either Thomas or Robert McClelen. S. D. McClelen was educated in the common schools; and located near Alexandria as a farmer, where his life was spent, excepting six years in Talladega County. In 1838 he aided in the removal of the Indians from the State. He held the office of justice of the peace; was county commissioner; and a member of the legislature of 1861. He was captain of Co. E, 32nd Alabama infantry regiment; resigned in 1863 on account of ill health; in 1864 re-entered the service as captain of a cavalry troop in Major Joseph Hardie's battalion, and served until the close of hostilities. He was elected sheriff of Calhoun County, and served during the reconstruction period. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: (1) February 7, 1839, near Alexandria, to Sarah, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Autrey) Hill, of Gwinnett County, Ga.; and (2) May 10, 1846, to Deborah, daughter of James and Sarah (Shields) Price of Sevier County, Tenn., who removed to Alabama in the thirties. Children, by first wife: 1. Bailey George, born January 18, 1840, m. Louise Walker, July 18, 1864, was a member of Co. D, 10th Alabama infantry regiment, from June 18, 1861, to the end of the struggle, has lived in Calhoun County practically his whole life, five children, and now resides in Alexandria; by second wife: 2. Elisha Durham, born October 24, 1847, near Jacksonville, and died November 28, 1915, at White Plains, his last residence, a farmer and a merchant, m. (1) in 1874, Dollie Barron, of Jackson County, who bore one daughter, and (2) Sallie Glover, of Cherokee County, by whom he had seven children. Last residence: Piedmont.

MCCLELLAN, AURORA (PRYOR), club-woman, was born May 28, 1846, at Acacia Grove, Limestone County; daughter of Luke and Isabella Virginia (Harris) Pryor; granddaughter of Luke I. and his second wife Anne Batte (Lane) Pryor (q. v.); great-granddaughter of Luke Pryor of Dinwiddie County, Va. Through her ancestress, Anne (Bland) Pryor she is the direct descendant of Richard Bennett, colonial governor of Virginia, and William Randolph of Turks Island, Va. Mrs. McClellan was educated at the Tennessee conference female institute, and as amanuensis to her father in his legal practice acquired a knowledge of law which was later of much use to her state. She founded the Athens chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and was its regent for four years and for two terms regent for Alabama and is honorary life regent of Alabama in that organization; member of the Athens chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy; vice-president of the National floral association; member of the Society of Colonial dames and of the order of Descendants of colonial governors of America. She is a member of the Christian church. Mrs. McClellan is particularly remembered for her work during her regency of the Alabama D. A. R., by marking historic places and primitive roads of the State. She also was responsible for the purchase of rugs, draperies, and first furniture contributed to the Alabama room in the Continental memorial hall at Washington. Through her efforts the golden rod was adopted by a number of organizations as the national flower of the United States, and the schools of Alabama as the State flower. Married: February 7, 1872, at Athens, to Robert Anderson McClellan (q. v.). Children: 1. Thomas Cowan (q. v.); 2.

Aurora Anderson, d. in infancy; 3. Memory, m. Robert Henry Walker, of Athens; 4. Son, died in infancy. Residence: Athens.

MCCLELLAN, ROBERT ANDERSON, lawyer, State senator, member of constitutional convention, 1875, was born December 24, 1843, in Lincoln County, Tenn., and died July 27, 1898, at Athens; son of Thomas Joyce and Martha Fleming (Beattie) McClellan, the former of whom was born July 2, 1811, in Rockingham County, N. C., migrated to Tennessee and thence to Alabama in 1844; brother of Thomas Nicholas McClellan (q. v.); grandson of William and Matilda (Joyce) McClellan of Rockingham County, N. C.; great-grandson of William and Hannah (Beavers) McClellan of Loudon County, Va., captain of cavalry during the Revolutionary War. Mr. McClellan was educated by private tutors and was at a preparatory school in Lincoln County, Tenn., at the outbreak of the war between the States when he enlisted in Co. C, Seventh Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, under Colonel J. C. Malone, and served for the duration of the war, being a lieutenant at the time of surrender. He read law in the office of Judge Wm. H. Walker at Athens; was admitted to the bar, November 10, 1868; elected to constitutional convention 1875, and in the same year elected to the State senate where he served one term. Although a Christian, Mr. McClellan had no church affiliation. He was a charter member of the Scotch-Irish society of America. Married: February 7, 1872, at Athens, to Aurora Pryor (q. v.). Children: 1. Thomas Cowan (q. v.); 2. Aurora Anderson, d. in infancy; 3. Memory, m. Robert Henry Walker, of Athens, one son, William McClellan Walker; 4. a son, died in infancy. Last residence: Athens.

MCCLELLAN, THOMAS COWAN, lawyer and associate justice Alabama supreme court, was born January 11, 1873, in Athens; son of Robert Anderson and Aurora (Pryor) McClellan (q. v.); grandson of Thomas J. and Margaret (Beattie) McClellan, and of Luke and Isabella Virginia (Harris) Pryor (q. v.). He received his early education in his native town, and was for two years a student at the University of Alabama, 1890-92, but did not graduate. He was mayor of Athens for ten years, and a trustee of the University of Alabama from 1899 to date. In 1906 he was elected an associate justice of the supreme court of Alabama, re-elected November 5, 1912, for six years, and again re-elected in 1918. Married: (1) December 20, 1894, at Athens, to Emily, daughter of Judge James E. and Emily (Donelson) Horton, of Athens, (2) to Sue Ruth Philips, of Pulaski, Tenn. Children: by the first marriage, a son, who died before reaching manhood; 2. Ruth. Residence: Athens.

MCCLELLAN, THOMAS NICHOLAS, chief justice of the supreme court of the State of Alabama, was born February 23, 1853, in Limestone County, and died in February, 1906; son of Thomas Joyce and Martha Fleming (Beattie) McClellan, the former a native of Lincoln County, Tenn., a Whig, member of the constitutional conventions of Alabama in 1861, and in 1865, and a member of the house of representatives from Limestone County in 1862, who had come to Limestone County in 1844, and died there in 1887; brother of Robert Anderson McClellan (q. v.); grandson of John and Joanna (Moore) Beattie, of the same county. His paternal ancestors are Scotch-Irish, emigrating from north Ireland, and his maternal ancestors came from England, both branches settling in Virginia. On both sides his ancestors were soldiers in the War of the Revolution. Judge McClellan was educated in the common schools, and at Oak Hill college, Tennessee. In June, 1872, he took his degree of LL. B. in the law department of Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn. He began the practice in September, 1872, at Athens, in co-partnership with his brother, Captain Robert A. McClellan. He was register in chancery of Limestone County, 1874-76; State senator, 1880-84; State attorney-general, 1884-89; associate justice supreme court, 1889-98; and was chief justice, from November, 1898, until his death. He was a Democrat, and was unmarried. Last residence: Montgomery.

McCLUNG, FRANCIS B., major, and later lieutenant colonel, 1st Confederate infantry battalion, C. S. Army.

McCLUNG, JAMES WHITE, lawyer and speaker of Alabama house of representatives, was born June 6, 1798, at Knoxville, Tenn., and died May 31, 1848, at Huntsville; son of Col. Charles and Margaret (White) McClung, the former born near Leaman place, Leacock township, Lancaster County, Pa., who removed to Knoxville which he surveyed, was first clerk of Knox County, U. S., commissioner to superintend running the Cherokee boundary line established by the Treaty of Holston, charter trustee Blount college, 1794, second lieutenant territorial cavalry of Hamilton District, 1795, delegate from Knox County to the first constitutional convention of Tennessee of 1796, and a member of the committee which drafted the instrument, died while in Harrodsburg, Ky., on a visit, and his remains in December, 1904, brought to Knoxville; grandson of Matthew and Martha (Cunningham) McClung, the former a Scotch-Irish immigrant from Ireland to Lancaster County, and of Gen. James and Mary (Lawson) White, of Knoxville, parents of Hon. Hugh Lawson White, the former a captain in the North Carolina militia, 1776-1781, a Revolutionary soldier, proprietor and founder of Knoxville, lieutenant colonel commandant of Knox County in its organization in 1792, chairman of the first court of that county, delegate to the convention that framed the constitution of Tennessee, state senator from Knox County and speaker of the senate 1797, 1801, 1803, 1805, commissioned brigadier general East Tennessee militia volunteers, and commanded a brigade in the Creek War, though then an old man; great-grandson of Moses and Mary (McConnell) White, and of Hugh Lawson, all probably of Rowan County, N. C., and great-great-grandson of Moses and Mary (Campbell) White, from Lancaster, Pa., to Rowan County, and of Scotch-Irish stock also. James White McClung attended Blount college at Knoxville, where he had his early training and graduated at the University of North Carolina, A. B. 1816. He read law under James Hopkins, the most eminent lawyer at the Lancaster bar; was admitted to practice in 1819 in that place; and at once located in Huntsville, where he was "Commissioned" as a lawyer by the territorial governor. He entered the house of representatives from Madison County in 1822, served again in 1826; speaker of the sessions of 1835, 1837 and 1838; elected in 1842 and served as chairman of the judiciary committee; again returned in 1844, and made chairman of the committee on ways and means "on account of the critical state of the public debt." In 1845 he was elected to the senate for a four year term, and he headed the judiciary committee in both that and the session of 1847. He made the race for governor in 1841 on an independent ticket, but was defeated by Benjamin Fitzpatrick, the Democratic nominee. Of this campaign Miller, "Heads of the Alabama Legislature," 1842, says "He was beaten by a majority that perhaps taught him it was better to belong to one of the political parties, with avowed principles, than to stand on solitary ground, fighting for what others could not see or understand, however obvious his policy to himself." As a lawyer he stood at the head of the bar "his qualifications as a presiding officer were of the highest order," and in natural ability he was the peer of any of his contemporaries. Married: (1) April 29, 1823, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Gov. David Brydie and Jane (Mills) Mitchell, of Savannah, and later of Milledgeville, Ga.; (2) in 1834, to Elizabeth F., daughter of Elliott and Sally (Littlepage) Spotswood, who lived near Huntsville; (3) June 26, 1839, at Fayetteville, Tenn., to Margaret E., daughter of Isaac and Matilda (Penn) Patrick. Children, by first marriage: 1. Charles, m. (1) Laura Bunch, no issue; (2) Alice Deaderick, of Knoxville; 2. Mary Ann, m. Pleasant Miller McClung, her first cousin, killed in battle at Knoxville, 1863; 3. David Brydie Mitchell, d. young; 4. Hugh Lawson White, m. Trophie Catherine Carlisle, of Aberdeen, Miss.; 5. Thomas Fearn, d. young; 6. Matthew, who upon being adopted by his mother's friend, Mrs. John Robinson, of Huntsville, changed his surname to Robinson by an act of the legislature, m. Eliza Snodgrass, of Cherokee County; by second marriage: 7. James White, m. (1) Bettie Heiskell, of Morganton, Tenn., (2) Sarah T. Balard, of Canton, Ark.; 8. Elliott Spotswood, m. Pattie Booth of Vicksburg, Miss.; by third marriage: 9. William Penn, m. Virginia Taul Anderson, residence Memphis; 10. Annie Parsons, m. Andrew Jackson White; 11. Frank Armstrong, m. Buell Drake and resided in Chattanooga; 12. Howard, d. in infancy; 13. Arthur Henderson, a lawyer, m. Mary Adelle Lee, of Pickens County. Last residence: Huntsville.

McCLURE, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant N. C. Militia; enrolled on May 10, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revo- Intionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCCLUSKEY, JOHN DANIEL, lawyer and legislator, was born August 6, 1841, at Newburg, Franklin County, and died at Vernon, Lamar County; son of James and Amanda Fitz Allen (Chiles) McCluskey, the former a native of Londonderry, County Derry, Ireland, who migrated to Alabama, the latter a native of Virginia; grandson of Samuel and Fannie Chiles, of Bowling Green, Caroline County, Va., and of Bartholomew and Mary (McLeod) McCluskey, of Londonderry, Ireland; great-grandson of Henry Chiles, a soldier of the Revolution, who lost an arm while engaged in carrying dispatches from Washington to Lafayette. He attended the common schools of Lawrence and Franklin Counties, and the LaGrange college in North Alabama. He enlisted in the 38th Tennessee infantry regiment, C. S. Army; was wounded at battle of Perryville, later placed in command of a company of sharpshooters and assigned to Col. Jeff Forrest's command; later attached to 5th Alabama cavalry regiment; was captured at Selma, and carried to Macon where he was paroled. He was admitted to the bar in 1868, at Aberdeen, Miss.; practiced six years there and then removed to Vernon, where he resided until his death. He was at one time mayor of Vernon and was a representative from Lamar County in the legislature of 1892 and 1903. He was a Democrat; Baptist; and an Odd Fellow. Married: August 9, 1874, to Matilda Catherine, daughter of William and Leodice (Springfield) Kuykendall. Children: 1. Fannie Fitz, deceased, m. Charles V. Thompson; 2. Thommie Pocahontas, deceased, m. William Zach Huggins; 3. Johnnie Dave, now resides in Arkansas. Last residence: Vernon.

MCCOLLUM, J. W., deceased missionary to Japan.

MCCOLLUM, WILLIAM W., grand master, grand council, 1832-85; deputy grand high priest, grand chapter, Masons, 1885-86.

MCCONAUGHY, JAMES LACEY, coal operator, was born October 21, 1852, in Jefferson County; son of William and Harriet (Lacey) McConaughy, the former a native of Delaware who removed to Dallas County, about 1840 and later to Montevallo; grandson of Patrick and Mary (Hanson) McConaughy, natives of Ireland who came to Delaware in 1806, and of Joshua Lacey, a Kentuckian who settled in Jefferson County, pioneer period; great-grandson of Gen. Edward Lacey, one of the heroes of the American Revolution. Mr. McConaughy received a high school education; entered at an early age upon a business career; and has been for more than thirty years connected with the Montevallo coal mining company. He assisted in securing for Montevallo the location of the Alabama girls' technical institute. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: June 26, 1895, at Talladega, to Conradine, daughter of James and Lavinia (Smith) Skaggs, of that place. She was a graduate of the University of Nashville, vice-president Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, 1892-1893; and chairman of the scholarship committee Alabama girls' technical institute. Children: 1. Hazel; 2. James Lacey. Residence: Montevallo.

MCCONNELL, FELIX GRUNDY, lawyer, member of Congress, was born April 1, 1809, at Nashville, Tenn., and died September 10, 1846, in Washington, D. C.; son of Major John Perry and Martha Campbell (Kennedy) McConnell, natives respectively of Fayetteville, Tenn., and Augusta County, Va.; grandson of John and Martha (Campbell) McConnell; great-grandson of Robert and Esther (Edmiston) Kennedy; great-great-grandson of William and Martha (Campbell) Kennedy. He was educated in Tennessee and located in Talladega County, in 1834, and there read law and entered upon the practice. Possessed of a magnetic personality he quickly made friends and in 1838 was elected to represent his county in the lower house of Alabama legislature. The next year he was elected to the State senate and served four years. In 1843 he was elected to congress and two years later re-elected. He was a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: October 23, 1835, at Mardisville, to Elizabeth Jennings, daughter of William and Hannah (Ballinger) Hogan of that place; granddaughter of Richard and Sarah (Jennings) Ballinger; great-granddaughter of William Jennings, captain in the Revolutionary War. The mother of Captain Jennings was the niece of Benjamin Franklin. Children: 1. Kathleen, m. Gen. Charles M. Shelley (q. v.); William Kennedy (q. v.), m. Martha Ellen Smith; 3. Olivia, second wife of Gen. Shelley; 4. Felix Grundy. Last residence: Talladega.

MCCONNELL, JAMES, sen., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 83, resided in Lime-stone County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MCCONNELL, WILLIAM KENNEDY, commandant Alabama university, tax collector and railroad agent, was born March 25, 1841, in Talladega County, and reared from the age of eight until of age by an uncle in Tennessee; son of Felix Grundy and Elizabeth (Jennings) McConnell (q. v.). He attended LaGrange college and, leaving there, joined Co. B, 16th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, as a private; soon afterwards made color-bearer, and later drillmaster of volunteers, promoted to lieutenant of engineers, transferred to 30th Alabama infantry regiment. He participated in the battles of Wild Cat, Mill Springs or Fishing Creek, Shiloh, Farmington, Corinth, Boonsville, Chattanooga, Munfordville, Perryville, Vicksburg, Chickasaw Bayou, Warrenton, Baker's Creek, Big Black River bridge, Lookout Mountain, Atlanta, Jonesboro, Dalton, Franklin and Nashville. He was placed in command of his company at the Baker's Creek fight by order of Gen. Stephen D. Lee, and at Jonesboro was made adjutant of Shelley's brigade. At the close of hostilities he returned home for a brief stay and then proceeded to Mexico where he remained for two years. Returning to Alabama, he located in Selma, but shortly afterwards was appointed commandant of the State university. Later he was appointed tax collector for Dallas County, and held that office seven years. In August, 1884, he located in Talladega where he was employed as railroad and express agent. He is a Mason and Knight of Honor. Married: May 7, 1868, to Martha Ellen Smith, of Columbia, Tenn. Children: four in number. Residence: Talladega.

McCONNELL, W. S., retired business man. Residence: Birmingham.

McCONNICO, FRANK HAWTHORN, physician; graduate of the medical department of Tulane university, New Orleans, 1899; licensed to practice by the county board of Wilcox the same year. Residence: Montgomery.

McCONNICO, WILLIAM WASHINGTON, farmer, was born August 12, 1838, at Allenton, Wilcox County, and died January 19, 1918; son of Charles Timothy and Mary (Robinson) McConnico, the former a native of Sumter District, S. C., who resided at Claiborne, Monroe County, and later at Allenton; grandson of William Washington and Mary Ellis (Spann) McConnico, and of Dr. Allen and Sally (Hill) Robinson, of Allenton. The McConnico family is of Scotch origin. The first immigrant to America was William McConnico, who settled in Virginia, and his sons moved to South Carolina and to Tennessee. W. W. McConnico was given the educational advantages of the neighborhood schools; became a farmer; was justice of the peace for twenty years; was for one year in the First Alabama infantry regiment, and later a captain in Hannon's brigade of cavalry, serving from February 2, 1861, to May, 1865. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: December 1, 1859, at Pine Apple, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Jefferson and Catherine (King) Hawthorn, of Belleville, Conecuh County; granddaughter of Joshua Hawthorn, a native of North Carolina, who emigrated to Alabama, and of John King, who came to Alabama from South Carolina. Mrs. McConnico died February 19, 1918. Children: 1. Mary Catherine, m. Dr. S. O. Jones, of Snow Hill; 2. Stonewall, who resides at Snow Hill, planter, sheriff of Wilcox County, 1896-1900; 3. Etta Hawthorn, Snow Hill; 4. Frank Hawthorn, physician, graduate of Tulane university, 1899, and now resides in Montgomery. Residence: Snow Hill.

McCORD, DAVID, grand treasurer, grand lodge, Masons, 1821-25.

McCORD, E. O., lawyer, editor, was born March 1, 1867, in Conyers, Ga.; son of William H. and Ellen G. (Davis) McCord. He received his early schooling in Rockdale County, Ga., and attended the North Georgia agricultural college for two years. He went to Alabama and taught school in Marshall County for several years, during which time he was instrumental in the founding of Blount college at Blountsville. He taught languages and science in Blount college in its initial year; was superintendent of the Attalla public school for two years; moved to Albertville and founded the "Marshall County News"; studied law and edited that paper for two years; was admitted to the Madison County bar in 1889; and entered the practice of law four years later at Albertville. He is a steward in the Methodist Episcopal church, and superintendent of the Sunday school; is a Knight of Pythias and an Odd Fellow. Married: in March, 1890, to Rena B., daughter of Dr. F. N. and Pamela E. (Doyle) Hudson, of Blountsville. Children: 1. Minnie Lee; 2. Eric Oliver; 3. Frank Henry; 4. Roy Davis; 5. Winnie Ruth. Residence: Albertville.

McCORD, LEON CLARENCE, lawyer, was born June 21, 1876, at Conyers, Rockdale County, Ga.; son of William Henry and Ellen Grant (Davis) McCord, of Albertville, Marshall County, the former whose parents came from Ireland to Georgia, was major of the Nineteenth Georgia infantry regiment, serving through the War of Secession and was for a number of years one of the county commissioners of Marshall County. Mr. McCord was educated in the schools of Albertville, Attalla, and Blountsville, and was graduated from the law department of Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. He is a lawyer, having practiced at Scottsboro and Guntersville eight years before becoming secretary of the supreme court in 1903, which position he held for six years. He served as second lieutenant of Third Texas volunteers in the Spanish-American War; is at present battalion adjutant, Third infantry, Alabama national guard. From January, 1911, to January, 1915, he served as a member of the railroad commission. On the death of Judge W. W. Pearson, May 9, 1916, he was appointed to serve out the unexpired term for judge of the fifteenth judicial circuit. He is a Democrat, and has been on the state executive committee from the seventh congressional district for four years; is a Methodist; a Knight of Pythias; and an Elk, having been at the head of the charities committee for a number of years. Married: February 20, 1906, at Lynchburg, Va., to Bobbie, daughter of Willis Richard and Mary Frances (Sanderson) Tanner, of Lynchburg, Va., the former an officer in the C. S. Army; grand-niece of Governor Tanner of Virginia. Residence: Albertville.

McCORD, ROBERT A., major, 14th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

McCORKLE, ALEXANDER B., Presbyterian minister, was born October 15, 1806, near Lexington, Rockbridge County, Va., and died September 4, 1886, in Talladega; son of Alexander and Mildred (Welch) McCorkle, who lived near Lexington, in Rockbridge County, Va., the former of whom was born there, lived at that place all his life, was captain of a company of militia for many years, and was a magistrate; grandson of John and Rebecca (McNutt) McCorkle, who lived at the McCorkle homestead on North River, near Lexington, the former a soldier in the Revolution, who fought at the battle of King's Mountain, was wounded at the battle of Cowpens, and died on the retreat of Green's army to North Carolina, and was buried at Beattie's Ford, in Lincoln County, N. C., the latter who married Robert Glasgow after the death of her first husband, and was the ancestress of the Glasgow family of Rockbridge County and Richmond, Va. It is believed that John McCorkle came from Lancaster County, Pa., to Rockbridge County, Va., some years before the Revolution, bought a farm, and was married at that place. Mr. McCorkle was prepared for college in the common schools of the county, and was graduated from Washington College, Lexington, Va., 1827. He spent some months at Princeton theological seminary, but failing health compelled him to give up his studies for a time, and he returned to Rockbridge, later engaging in business with his brother, Samuel McCorkle, at Lynchburg, Va. He finished his theological course at Union seminary, Hampden Sidney, Va.; was licensed by the Lexington presbytery in 1835, and ordained in 1836. He was stated supply and evangelist for two years after his licensure in Rockingham County, Va.; was pastor of Savannah and Bethel churches, Augusta County, four years; labored as domestic missionary in Cherokee and Chattooga Counties, Ga., for four years; took charge of the church at Talladega in 1845, and served that church until failing health led to his resignation in 1871. He was instrumental in founding the Synodical college for women in Talladega in 1849, and was the first president of the board of trustees, doing valuable work in raising the original endowment. Married: November 2, 1842, at "Pleasant Green," Chattooga County, Ga., to Lucilla Agnes, daughter of Rev. James and Sarah (Ramsey) Gamble, who lived on Cowpasture River, in Augusta County, Va.; granddaughter of Dr. James Ramsey and of Rev. James Gamble, who received as a land grant from George III a large part of the section around Fort Defiance, Augusta County, Va. Children: 1. and 2. names unknown; 3. Alexander Gamble, b. December 27, 1845, in Talladega, d. October 27, 1881, at Wolf's Summit, W. Va., taught school until his death, m. Ida Chitfield; 4. Sallie Lyle, teacher, Talladega; 5. Rev. William Parsons, b. 1855 in Talladega, Presbyterian minister, author of "Christian Science a False Christ," served various charges in Synod of North Carolina, pastor of the First church, Savannah, Ga., six years, pastor of Anderson memorial church, Martinsville, Va.; 6. Mildred Welch, b. 1859, Talladega, d. September 8, 1890, near Summerville, Ga. Last residence: Talladega.

GAYLORD B. CLARK

MCCORMACK, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 89, and a resident of Perry County; private Georgia Militia; enrolled on September 17, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $90; sums received to date of publication of list, $270.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCCORMACK, GEORGE BRYANT, coal operator and banker, was born April 4, 1859, at Plattin, Jefferson County, Mo.; son of Reed and Lucinda Catherine (Kindrick) McCormack, the former judge of the County court of Jefferson County, a representative in the Missouri legislature two terms, a resident of Plattin and of Hematite, Mo., and later of Birmingham; grandson of Hardy and Elizabeth (Mitchell) McCormack of Plattin, and Patrick and Phoebe (Fuller) Kindrick of Lebanon, Va.; great-grandson of Peter P. McCormack, who came to America from Dublin, Ireland, as a soldier in the British Army under Lord John Rawlin, but who deserted to the American Army, with which he fought through the Revolutionary War. His great-great-grandfather married a Scotch woman and lived in or near Dublin. Mr. McCormack was educated in the public schools of Jefferson County and in Carleton institute, St. Francis County, Mo. He began his business career as a merchant's clerk in his native state; was a telegraph operator, and railroad agent in Arkansas; bookkeeper, stenographer, private secretary, coal mine superintendent, superintendent and later general manager of coal mines, blast furnaces, steel plants, iron ore mines, and quarries both in Tennessee and in Alabama. He later became a banker, and is now a merchant, banker, coal and iron ore operator and interested in an insurance company. He is a Democrat; has no church affiliations; and is a Mason. Married: August 20, 1881, to Leonora Augusta, daughter of Maurice Ludwig and Margaret (Johnson) Lichtenstadt, of Atlanta, Ga. Children: 1. Maurice Donnell, d. in infancy; 2. Carr, president Newcastle coal company, m. Mrs. Myrtle (Hickey) Phillips, Newcastle; 3. George Bryant, Jr., owner and operator, Black Creek coal company, m. Hawsie Norvell, Birmingham; 4. Margaret, m. (1) Thomas Owen Gillespy, (2) William Lawrence, Montgomery; 5. Alfred Shook, d. in boyhood; 6. Harry Jones, owner and operator, Remlap cooperage company, m. Madge Blair; 7. Perry Reed, m. Kitty Sibley, Newcastle; 8. Katherine, unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

MCCORMACK, JOS. R., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 96, resided in Jackson County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MCCORMICK, GEORGE C., merchant, was born July 25, 1843, in Louisville, Barbour County; son of William and Anne (McKigney) McCormick, of Scotch and Irish descent respectively, the former a native of Richmond County, N. C., and who in 1835, at the age of eighteen, came to Barbour County, was in the Indian Wars, 1836; grandson of John McCormick, a native of Scotland, who came to the United States when a young man and located in North Carolina. Mr. McCormick was educated in the common schools of his native county. On April 4, 1861, he joined the "Louisville Blues," with which he saw service at Pensacola, and also a year's service in the army of Tennessee. Later he was a first lieutenant of Co. D, Hilliard's legion, and after reorganization, his company was in the 59th Alabama infantry regiment. He was so seriously wounded at the battle of Chickamauga that he was kept almost a year in a hospital. Upon recovery, he joined his regiment in the trenches of Petersburg, and served throughout the war. After the war he located in Eufaula, became a successful business man; organized the McCormick-Kendall grocery company in 1890, of which he was president; and served as member of the city council of Eufaula. He is a Democrat; a Knight of Pythias; Knight of Honor; United Workman; and a Presbyterian. Married: February 17, 1867, to Catherine Love, daughter of Dr. George L. Allan. Children: 1. William Love, student at the University of Alabama, 1884, m. Henrietta Fontane Copeland, residence, Eufaula; 2. Annie, m. E. Y. Dent, of Eufaula; 3. George R. Residence: Eufaula.

MCCORMICK, JOHN H., 33rd degree Honorary Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

MCCORVEY, THOMAS CHALMERS, teacher and author, was born August 18, 1851, on his father's plantation in Monroe County; son of Judge Murdock and Lydia Jane (Ranaldson) McCorvey, the former a native of Robeson County, N. C., who removed to Monroe County with his parents in territorial days, was probate judge of that county, 1856-68, soldier in the Creek Indian War, 1836, teacher and planter; grandson of John Murphy and Barbara (McMillan) McCorvey, both natives of Scotland, who came to America as children with their parents about 1783, settled in Robeson County, N. C., later, 1817, removing to Monroe County, and of Drewry Allen and Mary (Singletary) Ranaldson, natives of Cumberland County, who removed to Monroe County, about 1816; great-grandson of Archibald and Mary (Allen) Ranaldson, the former a native of Scotland who emigrated to America after the battle of Culloden, settled in Cumberland County, N. C., where he married, the latter the daughter of a Cape Fear River planter and of the family of the North Carolina Revolutionary soldier, Drewry Allen. The Allen and Singletary families are of English descent. The Ranaldsons, or McRanaldsons, belong to the clan Ranald branch of the McDonald clan. The three closely connected families of Murphys, McCorveys, and McWilliamses came from Kintyre, Scotland, about 1783, and settled in Robeson County, N. C. Colonel McCorvey received his early education under the direction of his father and sisters and at Monroeville academy; attended Erskine college, S. C., 1870-71; entered the University of Alabama, 1871, Ph. B. 1873, LL. B. 1874, A. M. 1878, LL. D. 1906; commandant of cadets, University of Alabama, 1874-88; student history and economics, University of Chicago, 1898. He has been an officer and professor in the University of Alabama since graduation in 1873, having taught at different periods, military science, psychology, ethics, economics, history, and political science. He was appointed by President Cleveland in 1886, as a member of the board of visitors of the West Point military academy, and by Governor Kilby, in 1919, as a member of the Alabama centennial commission. He is a Democrat; baptized a Presbyterian but attends the Episcopal church; and was a member of the Knights of the White Camellia, in reconstruction days. Author: "The government of the people of the State of Alabama," 1895; "The masses and classes in Southern politics," in vol. 4, Transactions of Alabama historical society; "Samuel Minturn Peck," in Library of Southern literature; and of numerous magazine and newspaper articles. Married: July 22, 1880, at Green Springs, to Netta Lucia, daughter of Henry and Julia (Ashe) Tutwiler (q. v.). Children: 1. Jean Campbell; 2. Gessner Tutwiler, m. Emily Cameron Gray, of Mobile; 3. Eleanor Parker, m. George Doherty Johnston, jr., University; 4. Thomas Chalmers, deceased. Residence: University.

MCCORVEY, WILLIAM GILBERT, judge and legislator, was born July 10, 1856, at Monroeville, Monroe County; son of Neal and Sarah Jane (Beard) McCorvey, the former a private in the Confederate Army; grandson of John and Barbara McCorvey, and of Neal Beard. He was taught by private tutors at Monroeville and studied law in the office of Thomas L. Sowell, Monroeville. He served as a member of the State legislature, 1893-94; was a county solicitor; register in chancery; and judge of the law and equity court of Monroe County from the date of its establishment until abolished. He served as second lieutenant in the Monroe County corps during its existence. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 28, 1893, at Scotland, Monroe County, to Elizabeth, daughter of William and Margaret (Du Bose) Nettles of that place. Children: 1. William G., jr.; 2. Joseph Finley. Residence: Monroeville.

MCCOSKLIN, —, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, resided in Sumter County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MCCOY, FRANKLIN J., major, 21st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

MCCOY, HENRY R., major, 34th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

MCCOY, JAMES HENRY, Methodist Episcopal minister and bishop, was born August 6, 1868, in Blount County, and died March 22, 1919, in Birmingham; son of Dr. William Clark and Annie (Vaughn) McCoy, the former a native of Missouri, a courier under Gen. Stonewall Jackson, in the War of Secession, who came to Alabama after the war, married, entered the North Alabama conference, and at one time served as agent of Southern university. Bishop McCoy received the A. M. degree from Southern university, Greensboro. His first work was at Bessemer, where he went immediately after graduation. He was admitted on trial in the North Alabama conference, 1889, and his first appointment was Oakland Circuit; pastor, South Decatur, 1891; Dadeville and Alexander City, 1892-93; Wesley Chapel, Birmingham, 1894-95; Tuscaloosa, 1896-98; Huntsville, 1898-1901; editor, 1902-06, "Alabama Christian Advocate," at the same time preaching at Five Points, South Highlands, Birmingham, and helping organize the Highland Methodist church; president, Birmingham college, 1906-10. At the general conference in Asheville, N. C., May 17, 1910, he was elected bishop, serving until his death. Married: (1) December 31, 1895, to Annie Bradley, of Birmingham, granddaughter of Rev. J. R. Gurley, one of the pioneer preachers of Alabama, (2) in 1917, to Mary Norman Moore (q. v.). Children: by first wife, 1. William Richard; 2. Margaret; 3. Jean; 4. James. Last residence: Birmingham.

MCCOY, MARY NORMAN (MOORE) teacher, was born August 6, 1874, at Huntsville; daughter of William Henry and Mary Prince (Poe) Moore, the former a native of Chapel Hill, N. C., who lived in Huntsville from 1824 until the date of his death, August 7, 1891, having moved from North Carolina with his parents when he was two years old, who was a lawyer, a planter, a colonel of militia in the C. S. Army, and judge of the city court; granddaughter of Edward and Jean (Tyson) Moore, who lived near Chapel Hill, N. C., the latter whose parents were Scotch Quakers, and of Washington and Selina Shirley (Norman) Poe, of Macon, Bibb County, Ga., who were of English and Irish descent, the former a lawyer, who was nominated and elected to the U. S. house of representatives and refused to serve, and who was, through his mother, Frances Winslow, connected with the Beverlys, Johnstons and Wyatts; great-granddaughter of Samuel and Letitia (Dalton) Moore, the latter an English gentlewoman; great-great-granddaughter of John Moore of Albemarle County, Va., an officer in the Virginia house of burgesses, who came from England about 1759, and is said to have married a daughter of Pierre Jouett of Revolutionary fame, and of William Norman, of the Third Virginia regiment, Capt. Lee's company, of Weeden's brigade. Her ancestors on both sides served in the Revolutionary War with the Continental troops. Miss Moore received her early education from her parents at home, and was graduated from Huntsville female college at the age of fifteen, with the degrees of Mistress of Literature and Mistress of Latin. She attended summer school at Harvard university; read law; and for six years was engaged in commercial life. She began teaching in Huntsville in 1892; and taught successively in the Hamburg high school, Arkansas, the Huntsville academy, the Huntsville public schools, and was elected president of Athens college, July, 1904. She is a Methodist; is president of the North Alabama woman's missionary society; a member of the general board of missions, Methodist Episcopal church, South; and has contributed to church periodicals. Married: in 1917, to Bishop James H. McCoy (q. v.). Residence: Athens.

MCCOY, THOMAS W., business man, was born about 1803, in Augusta, Ga. He moved to Alabama and became a merchant at Mobile, and was extensively connected with the business of insurance, and well acquainted with the principles and details of banking. He was elected to the State legislature in 1842, and was made a member of the joint examining committee on the State bank and branches. He introduced a bill to better the currency of Alabama, by dividing a certain per cent of specie on the circulation and funding the balance of the bank issues, in State bonds bearing five per cent interest, and payable five years after issuance. "When a member inquired of Mr. McCoy for the purpose of embarrassing him, if he had not supported the measures which his correspondents placed at the bottom of the panic, he promptly replied that he had voted for the liquidation of all the branch banks, and he gloried in the act; to him it was the proudest reflection of his life; and when his children became old enough to read the journal of the house, it was his consolation that they would see his name recorded in favor of the wisest financial movement that had ever been made in the state. He thanked his God that he had lived to take part in the session; that it had seemed peculiarly fortunate to him, after declining so many previous solicitations to become a candidate, he had yielded at last, and now he was satisfied." For a number of years, Col. McCoy commanded the First Alabama regiment, an organization composed of volunteer companies; and upon the resignation of Maj.-Gen. Bates, of the Sixth division, he was elected his successor. He moved to Baltimore, Md., late in his life. He was a Whig. Married: Miss Poe, a daughter of George Poe, formerly cashier of the United States branch bank at Mobile. He had a daughter named Angusha. Last residence: Baltimore.

MCCOY, WILLIAM CLARKE, Methodist minister and Confederate courier, was born October 8, 1843, in Monroe County, Mo., and died August 14, 1891, at Decatur. He was educated in the common schools of his native state, and in 1836 the honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Emory college, Oxford, Ga. He entered the Confederate Army as a private in Quantrell's rangers, was later transferred to the Army of Northern Virginia; served under Stonewall Jackson and soon became one of the great general's trusted couriers. It was said of him: "shot and shell were never too thick for him to go to any part of the field of battle for his beloved general." He was captured May 12, 1864, and taken as a prisoner of war to Elmira, N. Y. At the close of the war he settled in Alabama. He was converted while in prison at Elmira, under the ministry of the Rev. Mr. Blount of Alabama, and in November, 1869, was licensed to preach. The following year he traveled Marshall circuit as a supply. In 1870 he was appointed to Sand Mountain mission, and in 1872 served the Coftown circuit. In the fall of that year he was ordained deacon and appointed to the Van Buren circuit which he served four years. He was ordained elder in 1874 and served the Jones Valley circuit for four years. He was appointed presiding elder of the Birmingham district in 1880 and remained in that responsible place four years. After serving the Decatur charge for a few months he was appointed financial agent of the Southern university, Greensboro, by Bishop McTyeire and in 1886 was elected editor of the "Alabama Christian Advocate" which latter position he filled for four years. In 1890 he was returned to the Decatur district, and while there his useful life was brought to a close. In 1889 he was a delegate to the general conference and that body placed him on the board of missions. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Married: July 25, 1867, in Blount County, to Annie, daughter of Hiram Jackson and Maria Vaughn, of Summit. Children: 1. James Henry (q. v.); 2. Margaret, m. Jesse B. Wadsworth, Gadsden; 3. John Pierce, m. Elizabeth Cochran, Birmingham; 4. Annie, m. Rev. L. D. Patterson, Sungkiang, Ku, China; 5. Sallie, m. Rev. G. M. Davenport, Jonesboro. Last residence: Decatur.

MCCRARY, CLEOPAS RHETT, farmer and legislator, was born November 8, 1851, in Muscogee County, Ga.; son of Timothy Green and Elizabeth Ann (David) McCrary, the former a native of Georgia, was a soldier from that state in the Indian wars, and received a land grant near Columbus; grandson of Rev. Jacob and Margaret David, of Harris County, Ga. His paternal ancestors were of Irish descent, and the maternal ancestors of Welsh stock. He was educated in the common schools and at Bowdon college, Georgia. He has been a farmer in Lee County since 1885, and was a representative from that county in the legislature of 1903. He is a Democrat; and a Missionary Baptist. Married: January 4, 1877, to Mary Frances, daughter of Richard and Sarah (Williamson) McNeely, of Lee County. Children: 2 sons, both graduates of the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn. Residence: Opelika.

MCCRAVY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 87, resided in Jackson County, June 1, 1840, with Thomas Coleman.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MCCRAW, ABNER GARY, Baptist minister, was born June 4, 1803, in Newberry District, S. C., and died January 14, 1861, at Selma; son of Stephen and Ann (Gary) McCraw, of South Carolina. He was educated in the schools of Newberry District, S. C., and when fifteen, sent by his father to prepare a home for his family in the wilds of Alabama. He was elected colonel of militia when twenty-one years of age, 1825, and was active in politics. Ordained to the Baptist ministry in 1831, he served largely as an evangelist for ten years, filling charges at Oakmulgee, Montevallo, and Selma; was president of the Baptist State convention many years. He was a Mason. Married: (1) in 1821, in Perry County, to Mary, daughter of Joshua and Sarah Jones; (2) in 1850, at Marion, to Sarah Kingsbury. Children: 1. Teretha, m. William Hale, Benson, La.; 2. Melissa W., m. Dr. Gary; 3. Ann G., m. W. B. Benson; 4. Abner Rush; 5. Sarah F., m. Dr. J. E. Prestridge; 6. James Travis; 7. Mary Catherine; 8. Elizabeth Jane, m. James S. Cleveland, Biltmore, N. C.; 9. Stephen N., m. Eppie Reynolds; 10. Ella L., m. Thomas Carson; 11. Jephtha Everette; 12. Joshua George, m. Sallie McCraw. Last residence: Selma.

MCCRAW, B. B. chancellor, 1868.

MCCREARY, ADAM, pioneer settler, was born about 1772, in Barnwell District, S. C., and died in 1844, in Conecuh County. About 1818 he removed to Alabama, settling in Conecuh County in the thrifty little community of Old Town. He was an extensive planter. He left many descendants in Alabama and other States. Last residence: Conecuh County.

MCCREARY, JOHN A., physician, was born November 11, 1832, in Conecuh County, near Evergreen; son of John and Narcissa (Autrey) McCreary, of Conecuh County; grandson of Adam McCreary, who was born in South Carolina in 1768, and moved to Conecuh County in 1818, settling near what is known as Old Town, and of Alexander and Parthenia B. (Irvin) Autrey, the former, born of French and German parents in North Carolina, January 4, 1780, moved to Georgia in 1810, then to Monroe County, and settled in 1815 in Conecuh County, where Hampton Ridge now stands, and is said to have been the second white man to make a permanent settlement in Conecuh County. Dr. McCreary attended school at Evergreen, and when he was eighteen years old became employed as a clerk in the store of George Christian at Evergreen. He remained in that occupation for three years, then purchased and conducted a store for himself until 1855, when he began the study of medicine under Dr. Jordan, at Evergreen. He took a course of lectures in the Eclectic school of medicine, Cincinnati, O., and was graduated from the University of Louisiana, at New Orleans, 1860. He began the practice of medicine at Sparta, and continued his profession at that place until 1862, when he enlisted in Co. H, Second Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army, and served in that company until the close of the war, being for the greater part of the time on detail duty in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. After the war, he returned home, and entered a partnership with Dr. Taliaferro for a few months, continuing the practice of medicine in connection with the drug business until 1866, when he gave his interest entirely to that business. He was elected treasurer of Conecuh County in 1888, and was re-elected in 1892; and has served as mayor of Evergreen for several terms. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; an Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) in October, 1860, to Marcella Johnston, who died in 1870, daughter of Asa Johnston; (2) in 1871, to Elizabeth Ethridge, daughter of John W. Ethridge. Children, by first wife: 1. Earnest, druggist, Evergreen; 2. Edward J., merchant, Evergreen; 3. John A., jr., attorney, Bessemer; by second marriage: 4. Marcellus; 5. Willie A.; 6. Lizzie Estelle; 7. Mattie Lou. Residence: Evergreen, Conecuh County.

MCCREARY, JOSEPH HARVEY, planter, was born about 1820, near Brooklyn, Conecuh County, and died in 1864, at Belleville; son of Adam McCreary, jr., of Barnwell District, S. C., who removed to Conecuh County in 1818; grandson of Adam McCreary, of Ninety-six, S. C., who was a soldier in the Revolutionary Army, South Carolina line. He was educated in the schools of his community; engaged in farming, and later was one of the founders of the town of Belleville. He acquired extensive holdings of land near that place, and erected a mill and engaged in trading and farming, to the day of his death. He was a Whig; and a Baptist. Married: in Conecuh County, to Almira Strange, whose parents also were pioneer settlers. Children: 1. Adam III, m. Miss Turk; 2. Joseph, m. Jane Crosby; 3. John, m. Sallie Stallworth; 4. Susan Jane, m. James Cunningham; 5. Almira; 6. Martha Frances, m. Robert Augustus Lee; 7. Robert James, m. Mary Stanley; 8. William, m. Mary Mervin; 9. Rubin Strange, m. Nannie Tomlinson; 10. Samuel Elijah, m. Mrs. Bilings. Last residence: Belleville.

MCCRORY, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution. "James McCrory is buried in a cemetery at 'Old Bethany Church' (Primitive Baptist), near the town of Vienna in Pickens County. The following inscription is on his tomb:

In Memory of
JAMES MCCRORY.

Died Nov. 24th, 1840, aged 82 years,
6 mo. and 9 days.

Deceased was a soldier of the Revolution and was at the battles of Germantown, Brandywine and Guilford Courthouse, and was one of Washington's lifeguard at Valley Forge and served his country faithfully during the war. Peace to the soldier's dust.

"The following account is from the Tuscaloosa Flag of the Union, December, 1840:

"James McCrory was born May 15, 1758, at Larga, on the river Bann, in the county of Antrim, Ireland. He sailed from Belfast in 1775 when he was 17 years old and landed at Baltimore July 1st, in the same year. In 1776 he settled in Guilford County, N. C., and enlisted in the Continental army in the same year. He was at the battle of Brandywine, September 11, 1777, under General Washington at the battle of Germantown, and wintered at Valley Forge in 1777-78. Subsequently he fought under General Greene at Guilford Court House, March 15, 1781, was in the battle of Eutaw Springs, and in the battle of Stono. He was with General Gates at his defeat at Camden and with General Morgan in the glorious victory at the Cowpens. For courage, good service and meritorious conduct he was promoted to the rank of ensign in the Life Guard of General Washington, and while acting in this capacity, he was taken prisoner and confined on board a prison ship for six months. He came to Alabama while it was yet a territory, and made his home at Tuscaloosa for the last twenty-five years of his life. This true patriot died November 24, 1840, at the age of eighty-two."

"In a list of North Carolina Continental troops published in the N. C. Historical and Genealogical Register, p. 424, is the name of James McCrory, ensign in the Ninth regiment, under Col. John P. Williams, May 2, 1777. Thomas McCrory was a captain in the same regiment. The services of James McCrory are also stated in the proceedings of the 27th Congress, 2d Session, in the Senate, February 4th, 1842, report of the Committee on Revolutionary Claims: 'James McCrory was a sergeant in Capt. Cook's company of the 9th regiment, enlisted on the 15th day of April, 1776, for the term of three years; on the 2d day of May, 1777, he was promoted to the rank of ensign. In January 1778, the nine regiments which composed the line, being reduced to three, the supernumerary officers were sent home, of which he was one. He then joined the nine months' men and marched to the south and was at the battle of Stono, the 30th of June, 1779, and was at Gates' defeat in August, 1780, and was taken prisoner on the 24th of February, 1781, by Tarleton's dragoons and was kept prisoner four months at Wilmington and then paroled; and in November, 1782, he took prisoner Colonel Bryant, a British officer, and gave him up to a regular officer of the American army."

In spite of this array of gallant services the committee reported adversely because of a technicality.—Mrs. P. H. Mell in Transactions of the Alabama Historical Society, Vol. iv, pp. 554-556.

Other details of his service: Ensign 9th Regular N. C. Line; enrolled on June 13, 1829, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1826; annual allowance, $240; sums received to date of publication of list, $2,160; John McCrory, agent.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Vol. xiv, Sen. Doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Pickens County, June 1, 1840, aged 82, with Robert McCrory.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MCCRORY, JESSE D., farmer, was born August 11, 1866, near Butler Springs, Butler County; son of William M. and Mary Ella (Wagnon) McCrory, the former a South Carolinian, who served three years and six months in the C. S. Army, was captured at Mobile and held prisoner on Ship Island three months, guarded by negro soldiers, and after the war, located at Stallings; grandson of Thomas McCrory, and of William C. and Jane Wagnon, the former a Confederate soldier. Mr. McCrory was educated in the common county schools; is engaged in farming and milling; was elected to the State legislature from Conecuh County, 1907; and has served as agent of the Mutual life insurance company of New York. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: October 28, 1886, near Bowles, to Fannie D., daughter of George and Lucindie Kyser, the former a native of South Carolina, who served in the Indian War of 1836, and in the C. S. Army. Residence: Bowles, Conecuh County.

MCCROSSIN, WILLIAM PATRICK, lawyer, was born March 21, 1861, at Philadelphia, Pa.; son of Patrick William and Sarah (Quigley) McCrossin, the former was born at Silver Hill, town of Strabane, County Tyrone, Ireland, whence he emigrated to Philadelphia, thence to Bedford County, Va., and later to Birmingham; grandson of Edward McCrossin, and of James and Bridget (Gallagher) Quigley, of Philadelphia. Judge McCrossin received his early education in the public schools of Philadelphia, and at "Wolf Hill," Bedford County, and graduated at La Salle college, Philadelphia, B. S., June 20, 1878. He first entered the coal business with his father, but in May, 1887, located in Birmingham, where he engaged in contracting and building with his brother, Edward J. McCrossin, until 1891. In that year he read law under Judge A. A. Coleman in Birmingham, was admitted to the bar March, 1892; was elected recorder of Birmingham, 1893, and reelected 1894 without opposition; in 1911 was appointed by Gov. Emmet O'Neal associate judge, and in 1912 senior judge of the criminal court of Jefferson County. He is a Democrat; a Roman Catholic; an Elk, a Knight of Columbus; and a Beaver. Married: March 9, 1886, in Philadelphia, to Helen Theresa, daughter of William and Theresa (Tierney) Delany, of that city. Children: 1. Edward Francis, graduate of Ohio State university, M. E., 1909; 2. William P., jr., University of Alabama, B. S., 1911, and later a student of Tulane university. Residence: Birmingham.

MCCULLOUGH, AUGUSTUS W., clerk U. S. circuit court, was born September, 1836, in Lancaster County, Pa., and died April 15, 1898, in Huntsville; son of James and Sarah (Garvin) McCullough, the former an Irish immigrant who at fourteen years of age settled in Lancaster County. He received a good education, graduated from the Millersville normal school and taught for a number of years. In 1865, he came to Alabama as agent of the Freedman's aid society of Philadelphia, organizing and superintending the schools of Huntsville. From 1868 to 1872 appointed by the State authorities, superintendent of public schools for Madison County. In 1874 he was made clerk of the U. S. circuit court by Judge Woods; 1875 clerk of the U. S. district court by Judge John Bruce. He was delegate to the Chicago Republican convention which nominated Garfield for president of the U. S., although he voted thirty-six times for Grant. He was also a delegate to the convention which nominated Blaine; chairman of the Republican central committee of Madison County, chairman of congressional committee and member of the State committee; an Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; United Workman and Forester. Married: (1) July 18, 1864, to Mary A. Zell of Pennsylvania who died leaving one child, Mrs. H. P. McEntire, of Huntsville; (2) September 24, 1865, in Philadelphia, to Mrs. Laura B. Jones, no children. Last residence: Huntsville.

MCCUNE, J. H., business man, was born in 1841, in Pennsylvania; son of J. B. and Mary (Wilson) McCune, natives of Pennsylvania. He was reared upon his father's farm in Pennsylvania, and received a good education. He enlisted in Co. A, Ninth Pennsylvania reserves, U. S. Army, in 1861, and served as a private for three years during the War of Secession. He fought at Drainsville, first and second Fredericksburg, and second Manassas, where he was taken prisoner, and subsequently at Gettysburg. After the war, he was occupied for several years as a carpenter in the coal works of Allegheny and the Eliza Furnaces of Pittsburgh. Later he was engaged at various places, superintending blast furnaces, contracting to build, and managing manufacturing enterprises in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, the greater part of the time the manager of the Riverside furnace and the Wheeling iron and nail works furnace, of Wheeling, W. Va. He came to Alabama in 1882, and built the Woodward furnace at Wheeling, where he remained for more than two years. He moved to Birmingham and conducted the Sloss furnace for a short time; was associated with Robert Roberts in manufacturing sheet-iron work and boilers; was placed in charge of the Henryellen coal mines; erected the second furnace for the Woodward company, and was made superintendent, resigning after one year's service; and from that time on devoted his attention to building furnaces in Birmingham. He is a Presbyterian and a Mason. Married: November 28, 1866, to Maggie J. Douglass. Children: 1. Hazle. Residence: Birmingham.

MCCURDY, WILLIAM DIXON, planter, was born March 25, 1836, near LaGrange, Ga.; son of Edward Sellers and Mary Jane (Harris) McCurdy, the former a North Carolinian, who lived in Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and about 1838, moved from Troup County, Ga., to Alabama, settling as a planter at Oakbowery; grandson of Edmund Harris, and his wife, formerly a Miss Hall, who lived at LaGrange, Ga., and had large planting interests in Chambers County. He was prepared in the common schools of Oakbowery, and was graduated from Emory college, Georgia, B. A., 1856. He has been a teacher, a railroad contractor, a miner, a hotel owner and a planter, and after 1861 was continuously engaged in the latter occupation at Lowndesboro. He was elected to the State senate at one time; represented Lowndes County in the State legislature to fill the unexpired term of Jesse Coleman, 1909-1911; and was re-elected to the legislature in 1911. He is a Democrat; a Methodist, and a member of the Phi Gamma Society at Emory college. Married: July 12, 1859, at Lowndesboro, to Cornelia Harper, daughter of Nathaniel Reese, a pioneer of that section of Lowndes County; granddaughter of Maj. Lewis Tyrus, a pioneer of Autauga County. Children: 1. Reese, deceased; 2. Claudia, m. William C. Cochran; 3. Alice, m. Robert W. Smith; 4. Edward Harris. Residence: Lowndesboro.

MCCUTCHEN, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Jackson County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on January 2, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. The following account is from the Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Jan. 27, 1835.

"JACKSON COUNTY, ALA., JAN. 19, 1835.

"It is our unhappy lot to announce that another Revolutionary Hero has gone! Col.

EDMUND R. McDAVID

John McCutchen, who, in 'the times that tried men's souls,' stood boldly forth in defense of the liberty and independence of his country, bidding defiance not only to oppression, but confronting the armed myrmidons of the Tyrant, was on the 17th (inst.) in the eightieth year of his age, summoned to 'another and a better world.'

"He engaged early in the Revolutionary conflict, was at the defense of Fort Moultrie, the battle at Eutaw Springs, and with a true patriotic zeal participated in all the perils and distress that so peculiarly characterized the unfeeling warfare, then waged throughout the Carolinas; nor did he retire until he had the satisfaction of beholding the independence of his country, for which he had so long and ardently struggled, permanently secured.

"Having devoted his youth to the service of his country in the field, in the maturity of manhood he engaged with those fearless and enterprising pioneers, who emigrating to the West, embarked in the arduous undertaking of reclaiming the fertile valley of the Tennessee from its then savage wilderness, and preparing it for the enjoyment of all the arts, luxuries and refinements of social life.

"He has ever been noted as a man of uncommon intellectual endowments—for the last forty years has been a professor of christianity of the Baptist order, and been esteemed by all as a worthy example and an honor to his profession. Thus ripe in years and rich in the consciousness of having at two different periods of his life, rendered important services to his country, and in the consoling hopes of a glorious immortality, the veteran has departed, leaving his relatives and numerous friends to mourn his loss.

"On Monday the 19th inst., as the citizens of this vicinity had convened to pay the last honors to the deceased, on motion of Maj. John B. Stevens, they constituted themselves into a meeting, for the purpose of making a public manifestation of their grief, to acknowledge the services, and express the high regard they have ever entertained for the principles of their departed friend. Col. James Smith was called to the chair and Maj. John B. Stevens appointed secretary—when the following resolutions were unanimously adopted, viz:

"Resolved, That, under a deep sense of the gratitude we owe to those sages and heroes who achieved our independence, we deem it a duty incumbent upon us, their sons, with a filial piety to pay every tribute of respect to their virtues and their valor, as the only remuneration in our power, for the manifold rights and privileges that we now enjoy.

"Resolved, That in the death of Col. John McCutchen, we have to lament the loss of one of that band of aged warriors, whose presence never fails to enliven our zeal in the cause of liberty and to remind us what it cost—that in him we have lost a firm patriot, a worthy citizen, a pious christian and an esteemed friend. And while we respectfully acknowledge his public services, stern integrity and private worth, we deeply sympathize with his widow and other members of his family in their bereavement.

"Resolved, That the above resolutions be signed by the Chairman and Secretary, and transmitted to the Democrat and Southern Advocate for publication.

"JAMES SMITH, Chairman."

"JOHN B. STEVENS, Secretary."

MCDANIEL, EDWARD DAVIES, physician and teacher, was born July 7, 1822, at the country home of his parents in Chester District, S. C., and died June 27, 1898, at Denver, Col., while on a tour in the west; son of William and Jane (Strong) McDaniel, a teacher and surveyor of Chester, S. C.; grandson of Edward and Elizabeth (McCaw) McDaniel, also of Chester District, a Revolutionary soldier. The founder of the American branch of the family was a native of the Isle of Jersey, who settled in Pennsylvania prior to the Revolution, and his descendants migrated southward. Dr. McDaniel received his elementary education in the schools of his native district; acquired a knowledge of bookkeeping; entered a mercantile life as a financial stepping stone; and later graduated from Erskine college, Due West, S. C., A. B., 1844. He removed to Dallas County in 1845, where he devoted himself to teaching. He studied medicine for one year under Dr. John Douglass of Chester, and read medicine alone for ten years before entering the medical college of South Carolina from which he graduated in 1857. Immediately upon completing his professional studies, he located in Camden, Wilcox County. In 1849 he was selected to superintend the manufacture of suitable telescopes for the astronomical observatory of Erskine college, S. C., and while attending to this duty he visited various institutions of learning. In 1854 he received the degree of M. A. from the University of Alabama, in recognition of his having sent the best prepared students to that institution. He was a member of the Wilcox County medical society; was its vice-president for many years; was for one year vice-president Medical association of Alabama, and president in 1876. In 1877 he received the honorary degree of LL. D. from the University of Alabama. During 1873-74 he occupied the chairs of chemistry, physiology and geology in the Wilcox female institute. He was employed during the War of Secession in various services for the Confederate government, as physician to the poor, and to the smallpox hospital in Camden, and as examining surgeon. He was a member of the Camden town council; served as president of the Wilcox agricultural and mechanical association; was for ten years professor of materia medica, therapeutics and chemical medicine in the medical college of Alabama at Mobile; and was emeritus professor of that institution at the time of his death. He was one of the vice-presidents of the first Pan-American medical congress held in Washington, D. C., in 1893; was for many years a member of the American medical association, and it was while attending its annual meeting at Denver in 1898, that he contracted the illness from which he died. He was interred at Camden. Author: "Irritation of the urinary organs, produced by santonica and santonine;"

"Hemorrhagic malarial fever in Alabama;" "Warm cerebrospinal bath in congenital apnoea;" and "New method of artificial respiration," known as McDaniel's method. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: May 12, 1858, in her father's home in Dallas County, to Matilda Blair, daughter of John and Lucy (Crenshaw) Tabb; granddaughter of Edward L. and Elizabeth B. Tabb, and of David and Elizabeth Crenshaw. Both the Tabb and Crenshaw families were natives of Mecklenburg County, Va., and both were connected with the Spottswood, Beverly, Burwell, Curtis, and other families of Virginia. Children: 1. Infant son; 2. Cornelia Ellen; 3. Mary Agnes; 4. Edward Leroy, m. Ida Sabra McDavid, Milton, Fla.; principal Santa Rosa academy, 1891-92, superintendent public instruction, Santa Rosa County, Fla., superintendent schools, died July 28, 1916; 5. Lucy Jane, m. David Jere Spiva, Camden; 6. John Beverly, m. Rosa Tait, Camden; 7. Kate, resides at Grantwood, N. J.; 8. James Moffatt, physician; 9. Matilda Tabb, m. Benjamin Merryman Cross, of Atlanta, Ga. Last residence: Camden.

McDAVID, EDMUND RICHARDSON, business man and secretary of State, was born February 2, 1870, at Huntsville; son of John Jackson and Mary Jane (Patton) McDavid, and brother of Robert Patton McDavid (q. v.). His early education was received in private schools, and from a tutor; attended the Florence State normal school, and Bingham school, Asheville, N. C., one year each; and at the University of Alabama, 1886-87. He became an employee of the Alabama national bank in 1887; later engaged in the insurance business; removed to New Orleans, La., in 1894, where he was cashier for the Standard oil co.; three years later transferred to Charleston, S. C., and after one year's residence there resigned his position to again engage in the insurance business in Birmingham; was secretary of the Southern mutual fire insurance company, and of the Birmingham underwriters' agency, which positions he held until in April, 1900, when he was appointed secretary of State by Gov. Wm. D. Jelks to fill the unexpired term of J. Thomas Heflin, who had been elected as representative in congress. Upon the expiration of his term of office in 1907 he returned to Birmingham where he engaged in the real estate and insurance business. He is a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: June 30, 1891, at Birmingham, to Mittie (q. v.), daughter of Rose W. and Sarah E. (Smith) Owen (q. v.); granddaughter of Dr. Joseph R. and Margaret (Jordan) Smith (q. v.). Children: 1. Rose Owen, m. Lonnie R. Munger; residence, Birmingham; 2. Edmund Richardson, jr.; 3. John Jackson, jr.; 4. Mitylene Owen. Residence: Birmingham.

McDAVID, MITTIE ROSE (OWEN), author, was born in Birmingham; daughter of Rose Wellington and Sarah Emma (Smith) Owen (q. v.), the former who was the founder of the Birmingham Southern college at Owenton, Birmingham, and the latter who was the daughter of Dr. Joseph Riley Smith (q. v.), who was a pioneer and capitalist of Birmingham, and who was the first white child born in Jefferson County; and a descendant of the Roses, Flemmings, Bollings, Scotts, Harrises, Owens, and Jordans of Virginia. Mrs. McDavid received her education at the Tuscaloosa Episcopal school and the Huntsville college, from which latter school she was graduated in English, French, and dramatic art. She is president of the Birmingham Writer's Club, a member of the National genealogical society of America, a member of the D. A. R., U. D. C., and is eligible to membership in the Daughters of the Crown and the Colonial Dames. She is also a member of the Episcopal church of the Advent, Birmingham. Author: "Princess Pocahontas"; "Children of the Meadows"; also short stories, poems, and genealogical and special feature work. Married: June 30, 1891, at Birmingham to Edmund Richardson McDavid (q. v.), son of Col. John J. McDavid; grandson of Gov. Robert M. Patton (q. v.). Her husband served his state both as state insurance commissioner and as secretary of state. Children: 1. Rose Owen, m. L. P. Munger; 2. Edmund R., jr.; 3. John Jackson; 4. Mitylene Jordan. Residence: Birmingham.

McDAVID, ROBERT PATTON, business man and secretary of State, was born April 16, 1867, at Huntsville, and died August 20, 1915; son of John Jackson and Mary J. (Patton) McDavid who lived at Huntsville and at Florence; grandson of Gov. Robert M. and Jane L. (Braham) Patton (q. v.), and of John and Nancy (Clayton) McDavid, who came to Madison County in its early years, the latter's ancestors being natives of Ireland; great-grandson of Gen. John Braham, (q. v.), and of Wm. and Nancy (Duroh) McDavid of Scotch ancestry who came from Ireland to South Carolina in 1785. Mr. McDavid received his first instruction in private schools in Huntsville, attended the Florence State normal college; and later entered the University of Alabama from which he graduated, A. B., 1885. He located in Birmingham, and engaged in newspaper work; was first a reporter on the "Evening Chronicle;" later took a position on the staff of the "Age-Herald," and rose from police reporter through the successive stages to the position of managing editor. In the mean time he was interested in the real-estate business. In 1894 he removed to Montgomery where he became correspondent for a chain of seventeen non-resident newspapers, through which he rendered incalculable service in presenting to the world the resources of Alabama. He was a clerk in the house of representatives during the 1894, 1896 and 1898 sessions of the legislature. In 1898 he was elected secretary of State, and re-elected in 1900, serving four years. In 1896 he was an alderman of Highland Park, then a suburb of Montgomery. He was aide de camp on the staff of Gov. Wm. J. Samford, with the rank of lieutenant colonel, and later upon the staff of Gov. Wm. D. Jelks. He was a trustee of the Troy normal school. He returned to Birmingham upon the conclusion of his second term of office and engaged in the real estate and insurance business. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: December 23, 1890, in Birmingham, to Virginia

Irene, daughter of Dr. Joseph R. Smith. Children: 1. Robert Patton, Jr.; 2. Mary Virginia; 3. Joseph R.; 4. Charles Jordan; 5. Ned R. Last residence: Birmingham.

MCDEARMON, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, and a resident of Jackson County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on January 17, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $34.44; sums received to date of publication of list, $103.32.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCDERMERT, JOS., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 83, resided in Blount County, June 1, 1840, with John Cook.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MCDONALD, ALEXANDER ADDISON, lawyer and legislator, was born in 1852, near Carthage, Moore County, N. C.; son of John and Nancy (St. Clair) McDonald; grandson of Peter and Margaret St. Clair, all of Moore County. He was educated in the common schools. In 1876 he came to Barbour County; studied law at Clayton; was admitted to the practice in 1884; and for many years has been engaged at Louisville. He was a member of the legislature from Barbour County, 1892-93, and again in 1903. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: February 5, 1888, at Louisville, to Mamie B., daughter of S. J. and Mary P. Cumming of that place. Residence: Louisville.

MCDONALD, H. C., educator, principal of the Macon County high school. Residence: Notasulga.

MCDONALD, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, resided in Jefferson County, June 1, 1840, with Launcelot Armstrong.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MCDONALD, STEPHEN EMERY, mechanic and legislator, was born December 27, 1862, at Green Hill, Lauderdale County; son of Joseph Emery and Genie (English) McDonald, the former a native of Wartrace, Bedford County, Tenn., moving in 1834 to Green Hill, where he was a teacher and Baptist; grandson of John and Margaret (Emery) McDonald. He was educated in the public and high schools of Green Hill; is a general mechanic and primitive Baptist minister, being ordained in 1890. He was one of the representatives in the legislature of 1919, from Lauderdale County. He is a Democrat; and Knight of Honor. Married: December 17, 1905, at Florence, to Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas and Bettie (Brent) Hall, of that place. Children: several, all deceased. Residence: Florence.

MCDONALD, THOMAS CARSON, business man, was born November 2, 1854, at Greensboro; son of William Jackson and Cynthia Ann (Madison) McDonald, the former who served in the C. S. Army, first at Fort Morgan, and later in the army of northern Virginia, who lived at Greensboro until 1871, when he moved to Birmingham; grandson of William Jackson and Betsy (Perkins) McDonald, of Greensboro, the former who was brought when a child by his parents from Edinburgh, Scotland, to Virginia, and moved to St. Stephens in 1812, and of Peyton and Hannah (Webster) Madison, of Greensboro, the former who came from England to Nova Scotia, thence to Virginia, where he was married, and after the close of the Creek War in 1813, moved to Alabama, settling in Greene County. Mr. McDonald attended the common schools of Greensboro; went with his parents to Birmingham in 1871; moved to Tuscaloosa in 1878; and in 1885 returned to Birmingham, where he made investments in real estate. He served for sixteen years on the Birmingham police force, during the latter eight years of that time as chief; and was a member of the house of representatives from Jefferson County in 1911. He is proprietor of the White Swan Laundry of Birmingham; is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Red Man; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: January 20, 1881, in Sumter County, to Annie Brackett Isbell, daughter of James B. and Elizabeth Ann (Branch) Isbell, of Sumter County. Children: 1. T. C., deceased; 2. Kenneth Madison; 3. Aleta Brackett. Residence: Birmingham.

MCDONELL, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148. Resided also in Pickens County.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MCDONNELL, HENRY, physician, was born May 18, 1848, near Huntsville, Madison County; son of Archibald and Mary Sophia (Jones) McDonnell, who lived at Huntsville, the former a graduate of the University of Alabama, a planter, who died October 1, 1892; grandson of Archibald and Betty (Dinsmore) McDonnell. He obtained his early schooling at Huntsville, attended medical lectures at the University of Virginia, and was graduated from the University of Louisiana, 1870. He formed a partnership with his uncle, Dr. A. H. Jones, in Lauderdale County, where he remained for a year; moved to Madison County in 1787; and in the fall of that year, moved to Huntsville, where he has since resided and practiced medicine. He is a member of the Madison County Medical Society, and of the State Medical Association; and is a steward in the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: in 1878, to Ada Fennell, daughter of I. Fennell of Huntsville. Children: 1. Isham Fennell, dealer in electrical supplies and fixtures in 1899 at Birmingham; 2. Beulah May; 3. Lizzie; 4. Henry. Residence: Huntsville.

MCDUGALL, ELI DANIEL, Presbyterian minister, was born September 17, 1867, at Dundee, Fond du Lac, Wis.; son of Daniel William and Ruth Priscilla (Kraggs) of Argyleshire, Scotland; grandson of Richard Kraggs, an Englishman, who emigrated to Wisconsin. Following his high school training in Sheboygan Falls, Wis., he was graduated from the Southwestern Presbyterian university, Clarksville, Tenn., with the degree of A. B. and B. D., later receiving the honorary degree of D. D. He was ordained to the ministry by presbytery of Cherokee synod, Ga., and has served pastorates at Capersville, and at Thomasville, Ga., and at Florence. He was a member of the committee on foreign missions of the Presbyterian general assembly. He was chaplain of the Third regiment, A. N. G., seven years with rank of captain, and was on the staff of Gov. Emmet O'Neal, with the rank of colonel. He was president of the Presbyterian college for men at Anniston, 1911 to 1917. Married: at Thomasville, Ga., to Anna Hall, daughter of Judge Arthur and Julia (Merritt) Patten, of Thomasville, whose ancestry on both sides came to America in Colonial days, and settled in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, but very soon thereafter removed to Carolina and to Georgia. Residence: Franklin, Tenn.

MCDOW, ALEXANDER, planter, was born April 10, 1823; and died February 5, 1891, at Victoria, Tex.; son of Captain William Loftin and Jane (Ramsay) McDow. He was educated in the common schools and spent, 1843-44, at the University of Alabama. He served as first lieutenant Co. I, 16th Texas infantry regiment, C. S. Army, 1862, and was captain from 1863-65. He was a planter and spent the latter years of his life at Victoria, Tex. Married: (1) September 8, 1845, to Adaline Fleming, of Sumter County; (2) June, 1864, to Mrs. Harriet Posey, of LaGrange, Ga. Last residence: Victoria, Tex.

MCDOW, JOHN RAMSAY, physician, was born April 15, 1829, and died in the military service of the C. S. Army at Harrisonburg, La., February 15, 1864; son of Captain William Loftin and Jane (Ramsay) McDow. He was educated in the common schools; graduated with the degree of A. B. at the University of Alabama, 1852, and M. D. at Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, Pa.; also took a course in medicine at the University of Louisiana. During the War of Secession he was a member of the Eighth Texas Cavalry, and later became assistant surgeon of the Polignac brigade, C. S. Army. Last residence: Sumterville.

MCDOW, WILLIAM LOFTEN, planter, was born October 15, 1794, in Pendleton District, S. C., and died March 30, 1870, in Sumter County; son of Arthur and Margaret (Loften) McDow, the former a soldier of the Revolution, the birth place of the former being unknown by descendants, emigrated from Pennsylvania to South Carolina, and died near Clinton, Greene County, 1839, the latter a native of Ireland; grandson of Sarah (Nell) Loftin, of Pendleton District, S. C. Mr. McDow was a planter and served Sumter County in many public capacities, among them as member of the board of education, county commissioner, drill master of the home guards, and road master. At the age of fourteen he served in the Creek Indian Wars under Gen. Andrew Jackson. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: July 29, 1819, in Pendleton District, S. C., to Jane, daughter of Alexander and Mary (Egger) Ramsay, who emigrated early in the century from South Carolina to Tuscaloosa, riding horseback to their new wilderness cabin, the former was a soldier of the Revolution, a native of South Carolina. His mother Jane Hervey, was a native of Ireland. Mary Eggers mother's maiden name was Elizabeth Orr, and she too was born in Ireland. Children: 1. Mary, m. Andrew Lindsey Neville; 2. Alexander, captain Co. I, 16th Texas infantry, C. S. Army, student at the University of Alabama, m. Mary Adeline Fleming; 3. Jane Ramsay, m. (1) Robert Fleming, (2) William F. Fulton; 4. Arthur, m. Sarah Edwards; 5. John Ramsay, alumnus of University of Alabama, graduated in medicine in Philadelphia, surgeon in the General Polignac command, C. S. Army, died of pneumonia, February 15, 1864, at Harrisonburg, La., and there buried; 6. William Loftin, m. Martha C. Moore. Last residence: Sumter County.

MCDOWELL, CHARLES SAMUEL, jr., lawyer, was born October 17, 1871, at Eufaula; son of Charles Samuel and Margaret (McKay) McDowell, the former lived in Greenville, Tenn., until after the War of Secession, when he removed to Eufaula; enlisting at the age of sixteen in Lynch's Battery, with which he served until the end of the war; and is now postmaster at Eufaula; grandson of James Patton and Elizabeth (Burkhardt) McDowell and of Archibald and Catherine McKay, all of Eufaula. Mr. McDowell was educated in the private schools of Eufaula taught by Professors J. D. S. Bell, W. H. Patterson and T. A. Craven; later attended the University of Alabama, 1888-89. While probate clerk of Barbour County, 1895-97, he read law, and was admitted to the bar, May 12, 1896; practiced alone until March, 1912, when he formed a partnership with Judge Perry Thomas of Eufaula. From 1897-1906, he was superintendent of education of Barbour County; 1908-12, mayor of Eufaula; member of the board of trustees of the Alabama normal schools, 1911-17, and is now a member of the board of trustees Alabama polytechnic institute; was captain of Company G, "Eufaula Rifles," Second infantry, A. N. G., 1899; and lieutenant colonel on the staff of Governors Samford and Jelks. He was chairman of Democratic executive committee, Barbour County, 1898; member State executive committee, 1898-1900; delegate from the 3rd Alabama district to the Democratic national convention at Baltimore, 1912; president of the Alabama bar association 1915-16; and State senator, 1919-20. He is a Presbyterian; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; Red Man; Woodman of the World; and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: October 15, 1902, at Eufaula, to Caroline, youngest daughter of Captain Stanley Hubert, sr. and Anna Beall (Young) Dent (q. v.). Children: 1. Annie Dent, deceased; 2. Caroline Joy. Residence: Eufaula.

MCDOWELL, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Morgan County; private Maryland Continental Line; enrolled on April 18, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $36.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $73.32.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCDOWELL, WILLIAM ANGUS, farmer and legislator, was born July 8, 1883, at Camden, Wilcox County; son of Samuel William and Julia (Tait) McDowell; grandson of John Robert and Harriet (Sellers) McDowell, and of Maj. Felix Tait (q. v.). He was educated in the common and high schools of Camden. He is a farmer, and was sheriff of Wilcox County. He represented Wilcox County in the State legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: May 14, 1913, at Pine Apple, to Madeline, daughter of William J. and Prudie Stanford of that place. Children: 1. Madeline Stanford. Residence: Camden.

MCDUFF, DANIEL, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Madison County; and captain S. C. Line; enrolled on June 1, 1830, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1836; annual allowance, $480; sums received to date of publication of list, $2,432; W. F. McDuff, administrator; admitted under act of April 2, 1830. Died March 26, 1831.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCDUFFIE, JOHN, lawyer, representative in congress, was born September 25, 1883, at River Ridge, Monroe County; son of John and Virginia Marion (Lette) McDuffie, the former a native of Clarke County, who lived near River Ridge, and was a planter; grandson of Archibald and Nancy M. (Johnson) McDuffie, of River Ridge, the former who came to Monroe County from North Carolina, and of James Edward and Elizabeth Boykin (Hunter) Lette, of Burnt Corn; great-grandson of William and Mary (Murphy) McDuffie, of Scotland, who emigrated to America in 1800, and settled in New Hanover County, N. C., of John Seawright and Mary (Leslie) Johnson, who went from Ireland to Abbeville District, S. C., and later moved to Monroe County, and of Edward Lette, a land and slave owner of Monroe County, who came to Alabama from Mecklenburg County, Va. Mr. McDuffie received his early education at home; attended Southern university for one year; and was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1904, and from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1908. Since 1908 he has practiced law at Monroeville. He was elected to the State legislature from Monroe County, 1906-1911; was elected solicitor of the first judicial circuit of Alabama, 1910-1919; served as captain and adjutant of the Second infantry, Alabama national guard, 1909-1916; and was nominated in the Democratic primary for the Sixty-sixth congress, and had no opposition at the general election. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; a Woodman of the World; and a member of the Alpha Tau Omega and Theta Nu Epsilon college fraternities. Married: October 18, 1915, to Cornelia Hixon, of Hixon. Children: 1. a girl. Residence: Monroeville.

MCDUFFIE, JOHN VAN, planter and representative in congress, was born May 16, 1841, in Addison, Steuben County, N. Y., and died at Hayneville, November 18, 1896; son of Isaac and Cynthia (Baker) McDuffie, natives respectively of New York, and of Pennsylvania; grandson of William McDuffie of New York State, and of Samuel and Easter (Fields) Baker, the former a native of Connecticut, born in 1761, Revolutionary soldier, and sergeant in the War of 1812; and great-grandson of William McDuffie, a native of Scotland, who came to the United States in 1758. Mr. McDuffie received his early education in the common schools of his native town; when a mere lad went west to Bureau County, Ill., and attended school in Illinois, and later the Lutheran college of Iowa. He joined Co. B, Second Iowa cavalry, U. S. A., at the beginning of the War of Secession; served successfully as sergeant and sergeant-major of the regiment, and was mustered out at Selma. He located in Lowndes County after the war, as a planter; studied law and was admitted to practice in the state courts; in August, 1868, he was elected by Republicans and negroes, probate judge of the county and served twelve years. He actively participated in the councils of the Republican party in Alabama, and was a delegate from his congressional district to the National republican conventions of 1872 and 1876. In 1886 he ran for congress against A. C. Davidson, and upon being defeated, unsuccessfully contested the seat; ran in 1888 against Lewis W. Turpin, and upon a contesting was seated. He ran to succeed himself but was defeated, although he once more contested the seat, the last time unsuccessfully. He was elected to the constitutional convention of 1875, but did not qualify. He was an Odd Fellow, a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and a member of the Sons of the American Revolution. Married: in 1870, to Mrs. Martha Alice (Quinn) Kelley, daughter of Christopher and Emily (Johnson) Quinn, the former a native of County Down, Ireland, the latter of Ohio, residents after their marriage of Planesville, Ohio. Mrs. Kelley was the widow of a Confederate soldier, and she had fled as a refugee to Alabama from Monticello, Mo. Children: by the last marriage, 1. Edwin; 2. Maud; 3-4. died young. Last residence: Hayneville.

MC EACHERN, JOHN ADOLPHUS, physician; graduate of the Medical college of Louisville, Ky., 1889; licensed to practice by the board of Pike County. Residence: Brundidge.

MC EACHERN, JOHN CAMERON, planter and business man, was born January 1, 1837, in Dale County, and died May 8, 1903, at Eufaula; son of Gilbert and Catherine (Cameron) McEachern, natives of near Glasgow, Scotland, who migrated to Barbour County, the former being among the founders of the old Scotch Presbyterian church, "Pea River church," and a justice of the peace. His uncle, Archibald

McEachern, was a soldier in Lord Cornwallis' army and surrendered with the British at Yorktown, Va. He was serving as a substitute for his brother who had a family and had been conscripted. Mr. McEachern received his education in the schools of Barbour County, was a lieutenant in the "Clayton Guards," First Alabama regiment, enlisting, February, 1861, and serving until the end of the war, 1865. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: June 11, 1868, at Clayton, Victoria, daughter of Judge S. and Euphemia (McNeill) Williams, of that place; granddaughter of John McNeill, the first white man buried in Barbour County. Children: 1. Judge Norman, died in infancy; 2. Maxey Cameron, died in infancy; 3. Richard Malcolm, m. Ruby Dunbar, Eufaula; 4. Victoria Williams, m. Mercer S. Davis, Dothan. Last residence: Eufaula.

MCEachin, ARCHIBALD BRUCE, lawyer, was born November 18, 1837, in Robeson County, N. C., and died December 26, 1909, at Tuscaloosa; son of Peter and Maria (McQueen) McEachin, also natives of Robeson County; grandson of John and Mary (Graham) McEachin, and of Col. James and Nancy (McRae) McQueen, natives, respectively, of the Isle of Skye and of Kentyre, Scotland, who emigrated to America in 1765, the former settling in Wilmington, N. C., the latter going to Charleston, S. C., with her parents, to later become the wife of Col. McQueen; great-grandson of Flora (McDonald) McQueen, a niece and namesake of the famous Scotch heroine, and of John and Mary McRea. Mr. McEachin was in the twenty-second generation of descent from Robert Bruce. He received his academic education at Sandy McLean's private school at Floral college, N. C.; and his professional education at Judge Pearson's law school, at Rockford, N. C., from which he graduated in 1858. He entered upon the practice at Carthage, Moore County, N. C. but in 1859 removed to Marion. After the close of the War of Secession he settled in Tuscaloosa where he held a position at the bar until the close of his life. He entered the Confederate Army as 1st lieutenant Co. D, Sixth Alabama cavalry regiment, was wounded and entered the quartermaster's department with the rank of captain, June 16, 1863, and served throughout the war. He was post quartermaster in Savannah, Ga., when that city was captured by Gen. Sherman. On locating in Tuscaloosa he formed a law partnership with Judge H. M. Somerville, a connection that continued until the latter was elevated to the supreme court. In 1886 he formed a partnership with Hon. John M. Martin, and the firm practiced in Birmingham, but Capt. McEachin retained his residence in Tuscaloosa. Upon the dissolution of the firm he returned to his office in Tuscaloosa. On January 1, 1878, he issued the first number of the Southern law journal at Tuscaloosa, and continued its publication until November, 1879, when he disposed of it to H. G. McCall by whom the name was changed to Southern law journal and reporter. He prepared many articles for its pages, and he was also a contributor to the newspaper press. During his leisure hours he collected much data on the history of Tuscaloosa which he published in the local newspapers. In 1891-92 he was president of the Alabama State bar association. He was a Presbyterian and a Democrat. Married: January, 1861, at Tuscaloosa, to Eudora, daughter of James and Helen Glassell (Wallace) Somerville, of that place and sister of Judge Henderson M. Somerville (q. v.). She was a descendant of William Wallace and of one of the Dukes of Argyle. Children: 1. James Somerville lawyer, born January 20, 1862, deputy clerk, circuit court, Tuscaloosa County 1881-82 resided in Lamar County 1889-94, solicitor 6th judicial circuit, 1891-93, moved to Texas 1894 where he was county judge of Fort Bend County, 1896-1901, served with the Alabama State troops fourteen years, and rose from lieutenant to major, was attorney for the Southern Pacific railway, m. Annie Graham McPherson of Charlottesville, Va., August 5, 1882; 2. Helen Glassell, m. Edward St. Clair Bailey, and resides in Chicago, Ill.; 3. Eudora, m. Lee M. Otts, son of Rev. Dr. J. M. Otts (q. v.); 4. Nanetta, m. Dr. Sydney Leach, of Tuscaloosa; 5. Maebelle, m. Barnard Augustus Wood, of Mobile; 6. Archibald Bruce, m. Kate Porter Melton, daughter of Rev. I. O. Melton (q. v.). Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

McELDERRY, THOMAS, merchant and farmer, was born January 18, 1790, at Leesburg, Loudoun County, Va., and died July 16, 1883, at McElderry; son of John and Ann (Sinclair) McElderry, natives respectively of Chester, Chester County, Pa., and Leesburg, Va., the former a teacher, and Revolutionary officer, first of the 11th Pennsylvania and later of the 11th Virginia line, removed to Knoxville, Tenn., in 1800; grandson of Patrick McElderry of County Antrim, Ireland. Mr. McElderry came to Alabama about the time of its admission to the Federal Union, was a merchant in Tuscaloosa, 1819-20; purchased a farm in Morgan County, where he remained until 1836; and he then located in Talladega County where he resided until his death. He was a member of the State senate from Morgan County, 1828-29; and circuit court clerk of that county in 1826. For a short period he practiced law. He was a lieutenant in Chiles regiment, Tennessee volunteers, and served two years under Gen. Andrew Jackson in the war with the Indians, 1813-14. He was a Whig, and after the death of that party, a Democrat. Married: (1) Eliza Boteler; (2) Frances Turner; and (3) Martha Dozier, daughter of Dinwoody and Mary Elizabeth (Chapman) Dozier of Monticello, Ga. Children by first wife: 1. Caroline, m. Dr. B. W. Groce; 2. Amanda, unmarried; 3. William, unmarried; by second wife: 4. Thomas Turner; 5. John Sugars, Confederate soldier, killed in battle May 9, 1864; 6. Marcus, reared on a farm, educated in Talladega and La Grange college, member of Co. A, Eighth Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, farmer, merchant, m. September, 1868, to Georgia Chilton Bowdon, and had three children, Fannie C., Elbert J., and Horace T., d. February 13, 1913; 7. Louisa A., m. Elbert Sevier Jemison, and resides in Talladega; by third wife: 8. Emma, m. L. N. Jones; 9. Achsah Elizabeth, unmarried, resides at Talladega; 10. George Thomas, m. Mary Irion, Talladega; 11. Hugh Lawson, lawyer, graduated from Emory and Henry college, Va.,

ROBERT E. COLLINS

1878, m. Ruth VanAusdal, resides Talladega. Last residence: McElderry.

McELHANNEY, F. G., dentist, planter and hotel proprietor, was born May 11, 1826, in Chester County, Pa., and died in 1904 at Auburn; son of Samuel and Mary (Cowan) McElhaney the former also a native of Pennsylvania and descended from Scotch Irish ancestry. The Cowans were of Welsh origin. He came South in 1843, an older brother having preceded him and located first in Harris County, Ga., where he entered school. In 1848 he returned North and studied dentistry at Kennett Square, Pa. Two years later he came back South and located at Columbus, Ga., where he practiced his profession. In 1853 he returned to Ellerslie where he remained until 1853 when he located in Auburn. He bought a farm of six hundred acres near Auburn and also conducted the village hotel. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and local Methodist preacher at that place. Married: (1) September 3, 1852, in Harris County, Ga., Amelia Frazer, widow of his brother Isaac McElhaney and daughter of Arthur Frazer, of Wilkes County, Ga.; (2) in December, 1886, to Mrs. Mary J. Carter, niece of his deceased wife, and daughter of John Haywood and Catherine (Glaze) Frazer, who moved in 1844 to Smith's station, Lee County. Children: by the first wife, 1. Cary; 2. Hortense; 3. Mary, deceased. Last residence: Auburn.

McEWEN, GEORGE W., planter and miller, was born October 22, 1828, in Gwinnett County, Ga.; son of Kirkham and Mary (Kanada) McEwen, of Georgia who located in Alabama, in 1836, settling on the Tallapoosa River, south of Dadeville, later going to Calhoun County, Miss., where both are buried; grandson of Robert McEwen who removed from North Carolina to Newton County, Ga., where he married and later settled in Gwinnett County where he and his wife both died. In 1860, Mr. McEwen, who was an extensive farmer located on Hatchett Creek, north of Rockford, where he built and operated a mill. He was 1st lieutenant in Co. C, 53rd regiment Alabama Cavalry, C. S. Army, and was wounded at the battle of Atlanta, losing part of one hand. He was a Democrat, a Mason, and a Methodist. Married: December 29, 1849, in Coosa County, to Mary C. Sears. Children: 1. Martha A., m. S. M. Adams; 2. J. K.; 3. W. P.; 4. George W., jr.; 5. J. T.; 6. Emma J., m. J. A. Miller; 7. Mary S., m. T. J. King of Greenhill, Ark.; 8. Arsula, m. John Dobson; 9. Archie A. Last residence: Rockford.

McFARLAND, ROBERT, lawyer, was born August 6, 1836, in County Londonderry, Ireland son of William and Jane (McCulley) McFarland. He was educated in Ireland and was prepared for the army. Falling to get into the Crimean War he left Ireland and came to America, landing in New York in May, 1854. Soon thereafter he entered Washington College, now Washington and Lee University, and was graduated third of his class, 1858. He studied law at Lexington, Va., under John W. Brockenborough, and was graduated, LL. B., 1860. He began the practice of law in Florence in 1860, in partnership with James B. Irvine, and entered the C. S. Army, April 28, 1861, as captain of the Lauderdale Volunteers, later a part of the Fourth Alabama infantry regiment. At Harper's Ferry, the command joined Stonewall Jackson's corps, and participated in the first battle of Manassas. When his first year of service had expired, Capt. McFarland was authorized to recruit a cavalry regiment, and with part of the regiment, joined Gen. John H. Morgan at Knoxville, Tenn., remaining with Morgan until after the Ohio raid. Later he was assigned to Gen. Cleburne's command, and led the charge at Dug Gap. He was wounded at Villa Rica, Ga., by having his horse killed from under him, and never fully recovered from the wound. In December, 1864, he was in command at Huntsville, and remained there until driven from the city by the enemy, in January, 1865. After the war he returned to Florence and resumed the practice of law. He was a supporter of Douglas and the Union before Alabama seceded, but went with the state at that time. He was a delegate to the Democratic convention at Baltimore, which nominated Horace Greeley for president; and is a Knight of Pythias. Married: in March, 1868, to Kate Armistead, daughter of Fontaine Armistead, then of Franklin, later of Colbert County. Six of the seven children born to him are living. Residence: Florence.

McFARLANE, DUGALD, grand high priest, grand chapter, Masons, 1823.

McFERRIN, ANDERSON PURDY, Methodist minister, was born October 14, 1851, at Nashville, Davidson County, Tenn.; son of Anderson Purdy and Minerva (Porter) McFerrin, the former a native of Murfreesboro, Rutherford County, Tenn., who lived at Courtland and at Nashville, Tenn., and was author of a book of sermons, "Heavenly Shadows," and "War of the Universe;" grandson of Rev. James M. and Jane Campbell (Berry) McFerrin, who lived at Abingdon, Va., and of Rev. Thomas Duncan and Mary (Hughitt) Porter, who lived near Nashville, Tenn.; nephew of Dr. J. B. McFerrin. He was educated in the preparatory school of Hughes and Mims, and was graduated from Emory and Henry college, at Emory, Va., with the degree of B. A. He studied for the law and was admitted to the bar, but after a very short practice in that profession, entered the ministry in 1882. He has served the leading appointments in the Tennessee conference, and since becoming a member of the Alabama conference was in charge of the First church at Opelika for four years, the St. Francis street church at Mobile, two years, the Methodist church at Troy for two years, and returned to the First church at Opelika for four years. At the present time, because of the condition of his health, he holds temporarily a supernumerary relation. He is a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 27, 1876, to Sallie J. Williams, daughter of Dr. James and Eliza A. (Hughes) Williams, who lived near Nashville, Tenn. Children: 1. Annie Porter, m. Overton Fulton, secretary and treasurer of the Alabama Fuel & Iron Company, Birmingham;

2. James Madison, auditor for the International Agricultural Association, m. Bessie Young Craige, of Columbia, Tenn., Atlanta, Ga. Residence: Birmingham.

McFERRIN, JOHN PORTER, Methodist minister, and Confederate soldier, was born February 24, 1843, in Triune, Tenn., and was educated at Bandusia seminary, near Nashville, under Nathaniel Cross. He enlisted in April 1861, in the Second Tennessee infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was with this command in its early service on the Potomac river; was transferred to the west in 1862, and fought at Shiloh, Richmond, Perryville, Murfreesboro, and Chickamauga, and in the last named battle was severely wounded in the right hip, disabling him for active service. In 1864, he was made chaplain of his regiment, and served in that capacity to the end of the war. At the conclusion of hostilities he returned to the ministry of the Methodist church, serving at Columbia, Tenn., and in 1895, was appointed to the pastorate of the Broadway Methodist church, Louisville, Ky. From there he was transferred to the North Alabama conference and given the pastorate of the First Methodist church, Birmingham. Later he was transferred to the Georgia conference. Married: in 1867, to Julia, daughter of George and Carrie Patton. Children: 1. a son, deceased in childhood; 2. a daughter.

McGAHA, ARTHUR WATKINS, Baptist minister, president of Howard college, was born September 12, 1858, in Marshall County, and died November 29, 1901, at Huntsville; son of George Washington and Jane (Stone) McGaha the former who was born near Vienna, Marshall County, and lived at what was then Vienna, near Paint Rock River, who was a farmer and merchant, and served as cavalryman in the Twentieth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of William R. and Katherine Stone, who lived at Talladega. He was graduated from Howard college, A. B., 1881, and from the Southern Baptist theological seminary. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him in 1894. His first pastorate was at Flemingsburg, Ky., but he soon left Kentucky to accept the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Huntsville. He went from that place to East Lake, and was in charge of the church at the place at the time of the resignation of Dr. Riley from the presidency of Howard college. Dr. McGaha was offered the position, and served as president of that institution until he accepted a call to Fort Worth, Tex., to become the successor of Dr. J. M. Wells. On the resignation of Dr. B. H. Carroll, pastor of the church at Waco, Tex., Dr. McGaha was invited to fill the ensuing vacancy. His further ministerial efforts were curtailed by the failure of his health, and he returned to Huntsville to live the remainder of his life. Married: to Masetta Miller, daughter of Moses Alexander and Casandra Fidella Miller, of Huntsville. She survived Dr. McGaha, and has since been married to E. M. McDuffin, of Birmingham. Children: 1. Reynolds Welch, deceased; 2. Arthur Watkins, jr.; 3. Harry Miller, Lynchburg, Va.; 4. Bonner Knight; 5. Walter Tartt; 6. Ruby Griffin; 7. Willie Harrington. Last residence: Huntsville.

McGAUGHY, JOHN H., major, lieutenant colonel, 16th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

McGAUPHY, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Lawrence County; private, captain and lieutenant N. C. Militia; enrolled on January 4, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $233.32; sums received to date of publication of list, $683.30.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840, aged 78.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

McGEHEE, ABNER, pioneer settler, was born in 1779, in Prince Edward County, Va., and died in 1856, at McGehee's Switch, Montgomery County; son of Micajah and Anne (Scott) McGehee, the former a native of Virginia, who removed to Broad River Settlement, Ga., where he became a prosperous planter; grandson of Edward Mack Gehee and wife, who was a Miss De Jarnette, the former a planter of Amelia County, Va., and of James and Frances (Collier) Scott, of Prince Edward County, Va., moved to South Carolina, 1770; the latter the great-aunt of Governor Collier (q. v.); great-grandson of Thomas and Anne (Baytop) Scott, the former emigrated from County Cumberland, England, lived in Gloucester County, and later in Caroline County, Va., of John Collier of "Porto Bello," York County, Va., and of Thomas Mack Gehee, who emigrated from Scotland and settled in St. John's Parish, King William County, Va., before 1727; great-great-grandson of Thomas Baytop of Staplehurst, County Kent, England, who emigrated to America with his parents and married a Miss Alexander; great-great-grandnephew of Col. James Baytop of Gloucester County, Va., an officer of the American Revolution; great-great-grandson of David Alexander of Gloucester County, Va., and of Thomas and Hannah Baytop, the former a merchant of Staplehurst, County Kent, England, who emigrated to America in 1679, and settled in York County, Va., where he invested in plantations and merchandise; great-great-great-grandson of Thomas Baytop and wife, a Miss Pell, of County Kent, England. The De Jarnettes were of Huguenot descent and settled in Prince Edward County, Va. The Colliers were originally from England but all of the family who settled in America were Whigs during the Revolution. The Scotts were also of English descent. Abner McGehee was a well educated man. He was a planter, tanner, and general trader of Broad River Settlement, Ga. He removed to Montgomery County and settled at McGehee's Switch, where he purchased a large plantation; was owner of the Planter's hotel in Montgomery, built in 1833; contributed largely to the building, and was one of the contractors, of the West Point railroad; and was founder of the Alabama Bible society. He was a Whig and a Methodist. Married: (1) to Charlotte Spencer, his first cousin, and sister of Octavius Spencer, who represented Jefferson County in the legislature, 1837 and 1844, (2) to Jane (Gilmer) Johnson, widow of Thomas Johnson, and daughter of John and Mildred (Meriwether) Gilmer, the former an officer under Marquis Lafayette, a native of Williamsburg, Va., who removed to Broad River Settlement, Ga.; granddaughter of Dr. George Gilmer, a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, who emigrated to America, settled in Williamsburg, Va., and married Harrison Blair, sister of Dr. Blair, the first president of William and Mary college, and of Thomas and Elizabeth (Thornton) Meriwether; great-granddaughter of David and Anne (Holmes) Meriwether; great-great-granddaughter of Nicholas and Elizabeth (Crawford) Meriwether, of Kent County, Va., and of George Holmes of King and Queen County, Va.; great-great-granddaughter of Nicholas Meriwether of Wales or England, and of David Crawford, of Assasquin, New Kent County, Va.; (3) to Mrs. Mary (Russell) Graves. Children: by the first marriage, 1. Ann Scott, m. William Taylor (q. v.); 2. Harriet, m. Thomas Key Jarrett; 3. Mildred, m. Dr. Samuel Clark Oliver (q. v.); 4. Spencer, d. young; 5. Charlotte, m. George Bibb; 6. Abner, m. Elizabeth Smith; 7. James, m. Rachael Susannah Daily, parents of Rev. Dr. Oliver C. McGehee (q. v.); by the second wife: 8. Thomas, killed by lightning; 9. Elizabeth, m. (1) Dr. Briggs, (2) Col. James Gilchrist; 10. Sarah, m. Peyton Graves; 11. daughter, m. Dr. George Tait. Last residence: McGehee's Switch.

McGEHEE, AGNES CATHERINE (VENABLE), patriotic worker, was born in November, 1817, at Longwood, near Farmville, Va.; daughter of Nathaniel E. and Mary E. Venable, of Prince Edward County, Va. Mrs. McGehee was a member of the Ladies' memorial association and an untiring worker for the proper burial of the Alabama dead of the Confederate Army. Married: Albert Gallatin McGehee (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

McGEHEE, ALBERT GALLATIN, planter, was born March 28, 1812, at Milton, Caswell County, N. C., and died January 21, 1888, at Hope Hull; son of Joseph and Martha (Ward) McGehee, of Milton, N. C. The McGehee family came to America from England. He received his education in the village schools. He removed to Alabama at an early age; assisted in laying off the town of Tuskegee, and later located in Lowndes County where he became an extensive planter and a large slave holder. He was a Whig and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in Amelia County, Va., to Anna Virginia, daughter of William and Sarah (Scott) Payne, (2) September 25, 1855, to Agnes Catherine, daughter of Nathaniel E. and Mary E. Venable, of Farmville, Va. Mrs. Agnes Catherine McGehee was a member of the Ladies memorial association of Montgomery. Children: 1. Virginia Alice, m. Clement Read Venable. Last residence: Hope Hull.

McGEHEE, EDWARD F., lieutenant colonel, 25th Mississippi infantry; lieutenant colonel, 2nd Confederate infantry, C. S. Army.

McGEHEE, OLIVER CLARK, Methodist preacher, was born January 7, 1857, at McGehees, Montgomery County; son of James and Rachel Susannah (Daily) McGehee; grandson of Abner and Charlotte (Spencer) McGehee, the former resided on his plantation between McGehees and Snowdown, was a man of business ability, energy and deep piety, was largely instrumental in building the Western railway between Montgomery and West Point, Ga., and founder of the Alabama Bible society located in Montgomery, and of Dr. Samuel and Mildred (Oliver) Daily, the former a resident of Dudleyville, Chambers County, a physician of ability, and a local Methodist preacher; great-grandson of Micajah and Anne (Scott) McGehee of Virginia, the latter a member of the Winfield Scott family, and both later residents of the Broad River settlement, Ga. Rev. Dr. McGehee was educated on his father's plantation and vicinity, his teachers being Miss Benham, Rev. James Smith, Mr. Tarver, Mr. Grimes and Mr. Maloy. He graduated at Auburn, June, 1879, with degree of B. S. The degree of A. M. being conferred by his alma mater later, and the degree of D. D. conferred in 1903 by the Southern university at Greensboro; entered the ministry in 1886 at Opelika, and has served pastorates at Montgomery, Mobile, and other leading churches, and has held appointments as presiding elder several times. He is at present presiding elder of the Prattville district. Married: January 6, 1881, at Wetumpka, to Mary Linton, daughter of G. C. and Martha (Gullatte) Henderson of Auburn, the former a native of North Carolina who moved to Georgia where he taught school and married and later located in Auburn. Children: 1. William Wallace, physician; A. M. Southern university, 1903; M. D., University of Alabama, 1907; m. Mozelle, daughter of W. A. and Alice (Downing) Hill, of Brewton; residence, Montgomery; 2. Robert Bruce, member of faculty of Gulfport military academy; m. Frances Herndon, of Tennessee, residence, Gulfport, Miss.; 3. Paul Duncan, physician; A. B., Southern university, 1905; M. D., University of Alabama, 1907; m. Mary, daughter of John McDuffie; residence, Mobile; 4. Mary Kate, m. J. I. Chilton, residence, Montgomery; 5. Marion, m. T. Bestor Ward, residence, Greensboro; 6. Oliver Clark, jr. m. Hermione, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Newton, of Evergreen; residence, Evergreen; 7. Edward Henderson, U. S. Navy, died suddenly in New York City, 1919. Residence: Montgomery.

McGEHEE, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 79, and a resident of Jackson County; private Virginia State Troops; enrolled on January 4, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30; sums received to date of publication of list, $75.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCGILLIVRAY, ALEXANDER, diplomat and merchant, was born probably at Fort Toulouse, or in the town of Taskigi, one half mile below the fort, and died February 17, 1793, at Pensacola, Fla.; son of Lachlan and Sehoi (Marchand) McGillivray, the former a native of Dunmaglass, Scotland, who, at the age of sixteen, came to the Carolinas, joined a party of Indian traders, is first known as an Indian trader on the Chattahoochee River, probably at Coweta, in 1735, who after the Revolution embarked for his native land, leaving his wife and children, his plantation and worldly possessions, in the hopes that they might be allowed to fall into their possession, but all of his property was seized and they were left in destitute circumstances, the latter a half breed Creek woman; grandson of Captain Marchand and wife, a full blood Creek woman of the Wind Tribe, the former was killed at Fort Toulouse in 1722. Alexander McGillivray was educated at Charleston, S. C. In 1784 he was known as the emperor of the Creeks and Seminoles and negotiated the treaty with Spain at Pensacola. He visited President Washington at New York in 1790 and was appointed agent of the United States, with rank of brigadier-general. Shortly afterwards the King of Spain appointed him superintendent general of the Creek Nation for Spain. At the same time he was a member of the firm of Pantons', merchants of Pensacola. His principal residence was at Little Talasi, five miles above the present site of Wetumpka on the Coosa River, on what is now known as the Rose plantation. His plantation on Little River was known as "Cowpen" and still another was at Hickory Ground, on the left bank of the Coosa two miles above Fort Toulouse, and below the present site of Wetumpka. He had three wives and left three children, Alexander, jr., and two daughters. Last residence: Little Talasi, on the Coosa River.

MCGOUGH, GEORGE LAFAYETTE, planter, was born September 8, 1861, at Columbus, Ga.; son of John and Mary Elizabeth (Dawson) McGough, the former a native of Jones County, Ga., later a resident of Alabama, who served as a captain in the home guards during the War of Secession; grandson of Robert and Sandal (Cabaniss) McGough, of Monroe County, Ga., and of Dr. Thomas Henry and Ann (Blair) Dawson, of Appling, Columbia County, Ga., the former a native of Abbeville District, S. C., who served in the War of 1812, the latter a Georgian; great-grandson of John and Elizabeth (Carson) McGough, of George and Hannah (Clay) Cabaniss, of Thomas and Susannah (Dawson) Rogers, and of Hugh and Mary (Lee) Blair, the latter a lawyer, who commanded the Second Georgia regiment during the War of 1812; great-great-grandson of George and Ruth (Skidmore) Dawson, the former a native of Lincolnshire, England, who emigrated to North Carolina in 1774, and who later settled in Georgia, and of Greenberry and Elizabeth Lee, the former a colonel in the Revolutionary War, and also of Capt. Hugh and Jemimah (McCarty) Blair; great-great-great-grandson of John Dawson. Mr. McGough received his early education in the schools of Glenville, and attended the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1878-1879. During the Spanish-American War, he served as first lieutenant in the Third Alabama regiment, and was connected with the State militia for a number of years. He is a farmer, and represented Russell County in the State legislature in 1915. He is a Democrat, a Methodist and a Mason. Residence: Pittsview.

MCGOWEN, WILLIAM EASLEY, business man and legislator, was born June 3, 1858, at Old Bennett's Station, Sumter County; son of William Rufus and Virginia Noble (Easley) McGowen, the former was born in Tipton County, Tenn., and came with his parents to Greene County, later removed to Sumter County where he enlisted in Co. A, 40th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, as a sergeant, before the cessation of hostilities however, he became first lieutenant of his company; grandson of William Robert and Edith (Watkins) McGowan, who lived in Duplin County, N. C., Tipton County, Tenn., removed to Alabama, located in Greene County, and died in Sumter County, and of Warham and Emily (Noble) Easley, who emigrated from Easley, S. C., to Alabama, dying in Sumter County. The McGowen family emigrated from Great Britain in 1753 and settled in Duplin County, N. C. The Easley family were immigrants from England to Virginia between 1700 and 1750. Both families had representatives in the American army during the Revolutionary War. Mr. McGowen was educated in the schools of York, and at Cooper's Institute, Daleville, Miss., but did not graduate. He has been a merchant in Cuba since 1885; and president of the Bank of Cuba, since its organization in 1904. He has been two terms mayor of Cuba; and twice commissioner of Sumter County. He was a delegate to the St. Louis convention that nominated Alton B. Parker, and in 1911 represented Sumter County in the legislature. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Woodman of the World; Columbian Woodman; Eastern Star and a Knight of Pythias. Married: August 10, 1881, at Cuba, to Margaret Annie, daughter of Solomon and Annie (Hall) Ward, of Gaston; granddaughter of James Wallace and Hannah Tolson (Neale) Hall, residents of Newberne, N. C.; great-granddaughter of Col. Enoch Ward, a Revolutionary soldier of Beaufort, N. C. Children: 1. Virginia Elizabeth, m. K. B. Mitchell; 2. Charles Ward; 3. Annie Neal, m. R. D. Vance; 4. Gertrude; 5. Lucile; 6. William Henry; 7. Merle; 8. Pauline. Residence: Cuba.

MGRATH, JOHN, pioneer settler, was born March 29, 1799, in County Waterford, Ireland, and died June 4, 1878, in Selma. He served for six years in the English navy and in the American navy for seven years. After receiving his honorable discharge he engaged in the American fisheries on the New Foundland coast. He located in Selma about 1835, where he followed for years the occupation of ditching and served for years as city sexton. Last residence: Selma.

MCGREGOR, ALBERT G., teacher, was born March 1, 1835, in Lawrence County; son of William and Elizabeth (Carpenter) McGregor; grandson of William Carpenter, who served in the War of 1812. The McGregors are of Scotch descent, and came from North Carolina to Alabama and became farmers in Lawrence County. Mr. McGregor obtained his early schooling in Lawrence County, and was graduated from LaGrange college in 1854. He was elected to the chair of mathematics in LaGrange the following year, and continued to teach in that school until he joined the C. S. Army in 1861. He became quartermaster in Col. Jeff Forrest's regiment, and served with Gen. P. D. Roddy and Gen. Forrest in north Alabama, north Mississippi, and west Tennessee. After the war, he raised cotton for four years, then returned to LaGrange where he taught school in a church building for about six years. He took charge of the academy at Tuscumbia for one year, then was forced to stop teaching because of ill health, and return to farming. In February, 1885, he took charge of Hartselle college, and was president of that institution for many years. He is a Methodist and a Mason. Married: December 23, 1858, to Celia King, daughter of Robert King, a planter of Lawrence County. Seven children were born to the marriage. Residence: Hartselle.

MCGUIRE, ELIJAH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; sergeant S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on December 12, 1827, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from October 12, 1827; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $56.19.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCGUIRE, JOSEPH H., lawyer, was born September 29, 1848, in Tuscaloosa County, and died May 9, 1899; son of Henry W. and Sarah (Embry) McGuire, natives of Alabama; grandson of John and Nancy (Rogers) McGuire, natives of Tennessee, who came to Alabama in 1817, and of Joseph Embry. He attended private schools and was graduated from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1878. He served as principal of the Holly Grove high school, 1876-1877; began the practice of law in Pickens County; remained there for one year, then removed to Fayette where he continued in the practice of law until his death. He held the office of register in chancery in Walker County, 1872-1876, and in Fayette County, 1880-1883. He was a Democrat and a Missionary Baptist. Married: in 1878, to Seleta J. (Anderson) Windham, a native of Alabama. Children: 1. Everett; 2. Joseph Hilliard, Jr., b. September 13, 1883, attended the University of Alabama; 3. Mary; 4. Florence, m. William B. Bankhead (q. v.). Last residence: Fayette.

MCGUIRE, MOSES, public official, was a resident of Tuscaloosa. The time and place of his birth, as well as the names of his parents are unavailable. He was elected clerk of the county court of Tuscaloosa County, 1837, and held that office by successive re-elections, until 1845, when he was elected sheriff of the county. He was a Democrat, and of such popularity, that he was elected to the State legislature in 1849, on a divided ticket, with Mr. Jamison and Mr. Perkins, both Whigs. His long experience in the details of county police regulations was a gain to the house, relative to the probate court system, then about to be established. In 1850, when the election of judge of probate was given to the people, Mr. McGuire was elected to that office, and continued in the position until after the War of Secession. He was a delegate to the State constitutional convention in 1865; and was prevented from holding further office by the reconstruction measures, after having held public office for thirty years, without ever suffering a defeat in any election before the people. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

McILKENY, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, a resident of Madison County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on May 23, 1820, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from October 8, 1818; annual allowance, $96; suspended under act of May 1, 1820.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

McINALLY, JONAH, soldier of the American Revolution, resided in Jackson County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

McINTOSH, WILLIAM, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

McINTOSH, W. H., president of the Alabama Baptist State convention, 1864. Residence: Marion.

McINTYRE, FRANK, major-general, United States Army, was born January 5, 1865, at Montgomery; son of Denis and Mary (Gaughan) McIntyre, the former of County Donegal, Ireland, the latter of County Mayo, Ireland; grandson of James and Mary (Buchanan) McIntyre, both natives of County Donegal, Ireland. General McIntyre was educated in the public and private schools of Montgomery, and spent 1880-1882, at the University of Alabama, completing the junior year. He entered the U. S. military academy at West Point, in 1882, and graduated in 1886 as a second lieutenant. He has been promoted as follows: first lieutenant, 1892; captain, 1899; major, 1908; colonel, 1910; brigadier-general, 1912; and major-general, 1917. From 1887 until 1903, General McIntyre served with the army in Texas, Kansas and Michigan. From 1890 to 1894 he was an instructor at the Military academy, West Point. He was stationed at Porto Rico, 1898-1899; Philippine Islands, from 1899 to 1902; and in California, 1902 and 1903. In the latter year he was assigned to the general staff, Washington, D. C., and from 1905 to 1918 was assistant chief of staff and chief of the Bureau of insular affairs, supervising affairs of the United States in Porto Rico and the Philippines. During the European War he was chief military censor and now he is again assistant chief of staff. On February 13, 1919, he was awarded the distinguished service medal, and was a commander of the Legion of Honor, 1919. He is a Roman Catholic. Married: July 12, 1892 at Dallas, Tex., to Marie, daughter of James Wilson and Marie (Dufilho) Dennett, of New Orleans, La. Children: 1. James D., officer in U. S. Army, m. Gena Cahoon, of Montgomery, stationed at Fort Monroe, Va.; 2. Frank, Jr., d. 1915, age nineteen; 3. Edward; 4. Marie D.; 5. Margaret D.; 6. Nora. Residence: Washington, D. C.

MCINTYRE, HAMILTON, farmer, was born in August, 1837, in LeGrand, Montgomery County; son of Peter and Ann (Sealle) McIntyre, the former a native of Richmond County, N. C., born in 1801, of Scotch parents, a school teacher in Georgia, studied medicine, who moved to Alabama in 1849, located in Montgomery where he practiced homeopathy, and died in 1856, the latter a native of Marlborough District, S. C., who was born in 1802, and died in 1889. Mr. McIntyre went to Alabama in 1849 with his father; received a fair education; attended the law school of Chancellor Wade Keys, in Montgomery, 1859-1860; was admitted to the bar in the supreme court of Alabama in 1860; and moved to Pike County where he commenced the practice of law in partnership with his brother. On the outbreak of the War of Secession, he joined the First Alabama cavalry, under Clanton, August, 1861; was promoted to lieutenant of Co. H, at Corinth; was wounded at Murfreesboro, and disabled for the remainder of the war at the battle of Lookout Mountain. After the war, he resumed the practice of law in Pike County, and moved to Montgomery in 1867, opening a law office there. In 1870, he abandoned the practice of law because of poor health, and moved to the country where he engaged in cotton raising. He later became interested in stock-raising and dairying. He was elected state solicitor for Montgomery County, 1867 and 1868, and was a representative to the State legislature from Montgomery County in 1882 and 1883, declining to serve in the next session. He was author of the McIntyre road law, by which the public roads were greatly improved. He served continuously for more than ten years as justice of the peace, road overseer, and postmaster. Married: in December, 1870, to Mattie A. Mastin, of Montgomery, daughter of Peter B. and Mary A. Mastin, natives of Tennessee and South Carolina, respectively. Children: 1. Annie L., was graduated with distinguished honor from the Normal college at Florence, taught school at Birmingham and at Montgomery; 2. Peter Mastin, B. S., 1898, teacher in the Agricultural school at Abbeville, 1900; 3. Mary P. Residence: LeGrand.

MCIVER, D. R. W., Baptist minister, was born in 1794, in Charleston, S. C., and died February 10, 1863. He was educated at the University of South Carolina and began his religious work by preaching to the slaves on his plantation. He removed to Alabama and served pastorates at Prattville and Wetumpka.

In 1856 he located in DeSoto Parish, La., where he served until 1862.

McKEE, JOHN THOMAS, teacher, was born August 7, 1879, near Brundidge, Pike County; son of Madison Jasper and Mattie Emma (Haisten) McKee, who lived near Brundidge, the former who was born near Eufaula, Barbour County; grandson of John Allen and Catherine (Kelley) McKee, who lived near Eufaula, and of Thomas Washington and Harriet Emma Haisten, who lived near Brundidge, the former a soldier in the War of Secession. He received his early education in the schools of Pike County, and in the Baptist collegiate institute, at Newton; and was graduated from Howard college, A. B., 1905. He has taken post graduate work during the summer sessions at the University of Chicago. He began to teach school in 1905, spending four years at Newton, one year as secretary of the state Baptist mission board, one year as principal of the Cullman County high school, then became president of the Second district agricultural school at Evergreen. He was elected county superintendent of education of Colbert County, 1920. He is a Baptist. Married: August 7, 1905, at Newton, to Mattie Maude Cobb, daughter of John Thomas and Mattie Elizabeth (Brown) Cobb, who lived at Cuthbert, Ga. Children: 1. John Ralph, b. May 14, 1906, at Newton; 2. Walter Tate, b. May 7, 1909, at Newton; 3. Mary Elizabeth, b. August 17, 1912, at Evergreen. Residence: Tusculumbia.

McKEE, ROBERT, editor, was born in 1830, in Fleming County, Ky. His father was a farmer and blacksmith. He received but a limited education, and worked on a farm for wages for three years. When he was eighteen years of age, he became a clerk in a country store, and four years later became a bookkeeper. He contributed articles to the Paris "Flag," in 1856, which attracted public notice, and a year later was editor and owner of the Maysville "Express," which position he held until he accepted the chief editorship of the Louisville "Courier," in 1859. Because of its course in siding with the South, that journal was suppressed in October, 1861. Mr. McKee was a delegate to the Charleston convention in 1861, and was secretary of the revolutionary convention which met at Russellville, in November, 1861, to take Kentucky out of the Union. He was chosen secretary of State of the provisional government by that convention, but the evacuation of Kentucky by the Confederates made that position a nominal one. At the battle of Shiloh he was a voluntary aid in the Kentucky brigade; was wounded and had a horse killed under him; and received special mention in Col. Trabue's report. Ill health kept him from a participation in any other important engagement of the war. At its close the rewards for his arrest had not been withdrawn, and he remained in the hills of Jefferson County until October, 1865, when he located in Dallas County. He engaged in editorial work and other writing which gave him a reputation second to none in Alabama. Last residence: Dallas County.

JOHN P. HUBBARD

McKEITHEN, ARCHIBALD, planter, was born in 1772 in Bladen County, N. C., and died in 1847 at his home "Thornfield" near Robinson Springs; son of Archibald and Katherine (Baleer) McKeithen, who emigrated from Glasgow, Scotland, to Bladen County, N. C. He was educated in North Carolina and 1818 came to Alabama, locating at Robinson Springs, Autauga, now Elmore County, the first of the McKeithens to settle in this State. His pioneer home, still owned and occupied by descendants was called "Thornfield." He owned many slaves and conducted large planting interests. He was a Whig and a Presbyterian. Married: in North Carolina, before his removal to this State, to Mary, daughter of Daniel and Marian (Taylor) Robertson, of that state. She was a kinswoman of the Scotch historian Robertson. Children: 1. Duncan, d. unm.; 2. Daniel, d. unm.; 3. Alexander, deceased, m. Elizabeth Smith Forman, daughter of Thomas Smith, of Prattville; 4. Archibald, d. unm.; 5. Katherine, deceased, m. John Cotton; 6. Isabel, d. unm.; 7. Sarah Marian, deceased, m. Buckner Harris (q. v.). Last residence: Robinson Springs.

McKENZIE, BETHUNE BEATON, civil engineer, soldier, and member constitutional convention, was born October 11, 1837, near Louisville, Barbour County; son of Daniel and Amanda (Burch) McKenzie, the former born near Rockingham, Richmond County, N. C., and lived near Louisville; grandson of Kenneth and Anne (Herrington) McKenzie, who lived near Rockingham, N. C., the former born on the Isle of Skye, and of Rev. Jesse and Susie (Dean) Burch, who lived near Shreveport, La.; great-grandson of Murdo McKenzie, who with his son Kenneth, came, just after the American Revolution, to the United States, and of William and Hattie (Blackwell) Burch, the latter of Georgetown, S. C., the former a member of General Sumter's command in the Revolutionary Army, married soon after the Revolution, and of William Dean; great-great-grandson of Seaborn Dean, major in the Revolutionary Army. These ancestors were all farmers. He received his early education at Louisville academy and at Helicon academy in Crenshaw County, under a very early and especially capable teacher, Prof. Angus R. McDonald. His collegiate education was obtained at Howard college, from which he graduated June 24, 1858, with the degree of A. B., making the highest scholastic record in his classes. Consideration of health induced him to adopt the profession of civil engineering. Soon after the close of the War of Secession, he had charge of the building of the railroad from Eufaula to Clayton, and later was chief engineer for the Central of Georgia railroad, rearranging yards and extending wharf in Savannah, and building the first compress on the wharf. In 1880-2 he was with the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, managing the track department from Decatur to Mobile, and a branch to Selma and Pine Apple. Before reaching the age of twenty-one years he was elected county surveyor which position he held until the beginning of the War of Secession. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1865, probably the youngest member, being less than twenty-eight years of age. He was in 1861, sergeant in Co. E, Seventh Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and in 1862, was 1st lieutenant of Co. C, 39th Alabama infantry regiment; captain of Co. B, Fourth Alabama battalion cavalry, 1864; captain Co. I, Jefferson Davis legion, Army of Northern Virginia. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Baptist. Married: October 14, 1858, in Eufaula, to Caroline Elizabeth, daughter of Gen. Thomas and Caroline Elizabeth (Rogers) Flourney, who lived at Eufaula, the latter family having migrated from Dinwiddie County, Va.; granddaughter of Col. Josiah and Martha (Manley) Flourney, the former of Edenton, Ga.; great-granddaughter of John Manley, an officer in the Revolutionary Army, and a cousin of Gen. Winfield Scott. Children: 1. Edgar Flourney, Georgiana; 2. Mrs. U. C. Vinson, deceased; 3. Mannie, m. Dr. W. W. Mangum; 4. Anne Josephine, m. S. T. Suratt; 5. Daniel Burch, Eufaula; 6. Fannie Flourney, m. E. M. Lovelace, Brewton; 7. Mary Lou, m. J. E. Methvin, Eufaula; 8. Susie Dean, m. J. A. Copeland, Atlanta, Ga. Residence: Eufaula.

McKENZIE, PETER BEAUREGARD, lawyer, mayor and cyclopedia writer, was born March 2, 1862, at Franklin, Macon County; son of Peter Robeson and Elizabeth Caroline (Robeson) McKenzie, the former born at Chesterfield Court House, S. C., and lived at Tallassee; grandson of John and Elizabeth Ann (Robeson) McKenzie, who lived near Tallassee, Tallapoosa County, and of William Lord and Margaret Jane (Sweeney) Robeson, who lived at Chesterfield Court House, S. C.; great-grandson of James McKenzie, a native of Scotland, who near the beginning of the American Revolution, came from London to Camden, S. C.; great-great-grandson of Calvin Spencer, one of the very early ancestors who settled in or near Chesterfield and Cheraw, S. C., near the line of North Carolina, came from Connecticut, lieutenant in the Revolutionary Army, delegate to convention, 1788, which ratified the Federal constitution, delegate to constitutional convention of 1790, judge of county court, representative in the legislature, colonel of militia, 1800, and of Dr. James P. Wilson, born in Pennsylvania before the Revolutionary War, moved to Long Bluff, S. C., was justice of county court, surgeon in General Marion's brigade, and lost heavily by British destruction of property. Mr. McKenzie received his early education at Tuskegee, and his professional education at the University of Alabama, from which he was graduated June, 1883, with the degree of B. L. He is a lawyer by profession, beginning practice, January 1, 1884, in Eufaula, and afterwards practicing in Birmingham. He was register in chancery for Barbour County, March, 1885-April, 1889, and mayor of Eufaula, June, 1894-October, 1899. During several years before 1896 he was a member of the Democratic executive committee of Barbour County. He is a Methodist; an Odd Fellow, and a Knight of Pythias. Author: articles in the Cyclopedia of Law. Married: November 23, 1887, at Perry, Houston County, Ga., to Claudia Emily, daughter of Isaac T. and Eugenia (Morris) Hill, who lived at Georgetown, Ga. Children: 1. Claudia Hill, m. William Brasher Clayton, grandson of Judge Henry D. Clayton, of Clayton, and resides in Dallas, Texas; 2. Donald Spencer. Residence: Talladega.

McKINIRY, DAVID, Catholic priest, was born near Linsmore, Ireland, February 5, 1830 and died at Mobile, December 18, 1896. Father McKiniry, while very young, was a student at St. John's diocesan college, Waterford; later transferred to Maynooth college; joined the Society of Jesus, December 8, 1854, while a student at Maynooth, and was professor at Clonglowes Wood college, the principal college of the Jesuits in Ireland. He was sent to America in 1856; was professor of rhetoric at St. Charles college, Grand Coteau, La., and later at Spring Hill college. Soon after he was sent to Ireland and Australia and passed some time at the University of Louvain. He returned to America and spent one year at the Jesuit college, St. Louis; was stationed at the Jesuit college, New Orleans, 1873-74; spent the years 1872-1884 as lecturer at St. Joseph's university, Beirut, Syria. He again returned to America in 1884 and was president of Spring Hill college from that date until 1888, when he became president of the Jesuit college, New Orleans. His health began to fail so he was again, 1895, sent to Mobile as spiritual father and chaplain to the Visitation convent. He remained at this station until his death. Last residence: Mobile.

McKINLEY, JOHN, lawyer, U. S. senator, associate justice U. S. supreme court, was born in May, 1780, in Culpeper County, Va., and died July 19, 1852, in Louisville, Ky. He spent the early years of his life in Franklin County, Ky., where he was for some time a mechanic. He read law and practiced for some years at Frankfort and Louisville, Ky., and moved to Alabama in 1819. He opened a law office in Huntsville, and in 1820, was elected to the State legislature from Madison County. Two years later he was a candidate for a vacant seat in the U. S. senate and was defeated by a majority of one by William Kelley of Madison. He was elected to the Federal senate in 1826 over C. C. Clay, to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Gov. Israel Pickens, and during that term, became a resident of Florence, Lauderdale County. On the expiration of his term in the senate in 1831, he was elected a representative from Lauderdale County in the State legislature and in 1833 was elected to represent the district in congress, defeating Gen. James Davis of Franklin. In 1836, he again served Lauderdale County in the State legislature, and during the session, was elected to the U. S. senate to succeed Gov. Gabriel Moore. Before taking his seat he was appointed an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States by President Van Buren, 1837, and held the position until his death in 1852, residing much of that time in Washington, D. C., and Louisville, Ky. He was a Jackson Democrat. Married. His daughter, Mrs. Donald Campbell, was a resident of Louisville, Ky., and his son, Andrew, held an important office in that state. Last residence: Louisville, Ky.

McKINLEY, JOHN, lawyer, was born December 12, 1871, at Demopolis, Marengo County; son of John Henry and Martha Ann (Stanton) McKinley, who lived at Demopolis, the former a native of Kennebunk Port, Me., who came south when about eighteen years of age, served in the Forty-third Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, and was transferred to the engineers corps, serving first with the western army, and being transferred after the battle of Missionary Ridge to the Virginia army; grandson of Thomas and Mary (Owen) Stanton, who lived near Alston, S. C. He was educated in the public schools at Demopolis, and on his father's death in 1887, went to work to aid in the support of the family. While working at the bench as a mechanic, he devoted his nights to the study of law, and was admitted to the bar, September 21, 1896, before the circuit court of Marengo County. He opened his practice in Demopolis, moved to Eutaw in 1897, and has since conducted his profession at that place. He was for two years associated with Edward deGraffenried, later of the supreme court bench; then formed a partnership with Bernard Harwood, which lasted until Mr. Harwood became judge of the sixth judicial circuit. At that time, Mr. McKinley became senior member of the firm of McKinley, McQueen, Hawkins & Snow, with offices at Eutaw and Tuscaloosa. He is a Democrat, a deacon in the Baptist church, has been past master of his lodge of Masons, past noble grand of Odd Fellows, and past chancellor of the Knights of Pythias. Married: April 27, 1898, in Eutaw, to Margaret Augusta Braune, daughter of Gustave and Nora Braune, of Eutaw. Children: 1. John McKinley, jr., b. December 9, 1899, at Eutaw. Residence: Eutaw.

McKINLEY, VERGIL PARKS, teacher, was born October 2, 1875, at Oakmulgee, Perry County; son of Richard and Fannie Barton (Crowe) McKinley, the former a native of Mecklenburg County, N. C., who lived at Zebulon, Ga., until the close of the War of Secession, served in the C. S. Army, lived in Bethlehem, 1879-1892, and was postmaster, justice of the peace, and township superintendent of schools at that place; grandson of Leroy and Mary Louisa McKinley, of Zebulon, Ga., and of Elijah Palmer and Fannie (Olderm) Crowe, who lived at Centerville. The McKinleys are of Scotch-Irish descent, and were introduced into America by Mr. McKinley's great-grandfather, who landed somewhere in New England and later moved to North Carolina. On the Crowe side, his ancestry was of English descent, his great-grandfather Crowe being the first pastor of Salome Baptist church, at Marion. He attended the rural schools of Perry County and Prof. J. D. Cooper's high school at Centerville; was graduated from the State normal college, Troy, with the degree of bachelor of pedagogy, 1903, and from Teachers' college, Columbia university, New York City, B. S., and with a bachelor's diploma in manual training, 1908. He began teaching in 1896 at Oakmulgee, and taught in the rural schools of Alabama until 1903 when he was elected to the principalship of the high school in connection with the Troy normal college. In 1908, he was elected to the principalship of the department of arts in the Troy normal college, and held that position until he moved to the University of Alabama to take charge of the department of vocational education. He is a Democrat, a deacon in the Baptist church and president of the Pike County Sunday School Association, and a past chancellor in the Knights of Pythias. Married: July 6, 1911, at Knoxville, Tenn., to Mary Emma Key, daughter of John G. and Sarah E. (Carroll) Key, who lived at Troy, the former treasurer of Pike County for twelve years, the latter a sister of J. S. Carroll of Troy. Residence: University.

MCKINNEY, CHARLES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant Virginia Militia; enrolled on June 14, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $27.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $68.32.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MCKINNEY, JAMES, member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Dale County.

MCKINNEY, JAMES ISAAC, railroad superintendent, was born November 22, 1852, at Stanford, Lincoln County, Ky.; son of George Houston and Hannah McKinley (Paxton) McKinney, the former a native of Stanford, Ky., who lived at that place, was circuit clerk of Linden County, and was quartermaster of the Nineteenth Kentucky regiment, U. S. Army, War of Secession; grandson of George and Panthea (Houston) McKinney, who lived at McKinney's Station, Lincoln County, Ky., and of Joseph and Elizabeth Paxton, who lived at Lexington, Rockbridge County, Va., and moved to Stanford, Lincoln County, Ky., in 1814; great-grandson of John Paxton, of the South River Paxtons of Rockbridge County, Va., a captain in the Revolutionary Army who was killed in the battle of Guilford Court House, N. C., 1781. The Paxtons were of English and Irish descent, and supported Cromwell in the overthrow of Charles I. On the restoration of Charles II they fled from Ireland to America about 1650. They were of royal blood, and owned lands in Scotland and Ireland which were confiscated. Mr. McKinney was educated in Stanford, Ky., under Charles Barnes. He began working for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company in January, 1873, was advanced through various departments, and on December 1, 1889, was made superintendent of the road at Montgomery, in which position he has continued. He is a Republican, a Presbyterian, and an Odd Fellow. Married: May 7, 1898, at Richmond, Ky., to Kate Slaughter (q. v.). Residence: Montgomery.

MCKINNEY, KATE SLAUGHTER, author, was born February 6, 1859, at London, Laurel County, Ky., daughter of James Love and Lucinda Jane (Price) Slaughter, the former a native of Boonville, Ky., who later lived at London, and Richmond, in that State; granddaughter of John L. and Mary (Montjoy) Slaughter of London, Ky., and of Gabriel and Eliza (Garrard) Price, of Manchester, Ky.; great-granddaughter of Gov. Gabriel Slaughter and of Gov. James Garrard of Kentucky. The Slaughters came from Wales and settled in Culpeper County, Va. Gen. Theo. Garrard of the War of Secession was a great-uncle of Mrs. McKinney. She received her education in Kirksville, Ky.; and at the Daughters' college, Harrodsburg, Ky., where she graduated in 1876 with first honors. She is a member of the Christian church. Under the nom-de-plume, "Katydid," she contributed to the current press numerous poems and short stories. Author "Katydid's Poems," 1887; "The Silent witness," 1906; "A weed by the wall," 1911. She has also written the verses for a number of published songs, among which is "The green Kentucky pastures," sung at the opening of the Kentucky building at the St. Louis world's fair. Married: May 7, 1878, at Richmond, Ky., to James I. McKinney (q. v.). Residence: Montgomery.

MCKINNON, JOHN A., grand master, grand council, Masons, 1894; grand commander, grand commandery, 1891-95; grand high priest, grand chapter, 1892-93.

MCKINNON, JOHN ALEXANDER, physician, was born July 12, 1842, in Pike County. He was educated in the common schools, and began reading medicine at Macon, Ga., when he was nineteen year of age. The year before, he had entered the C. S. Army, from Lowndes County, as a private in the Third Alabama infantry regiment. After the battle of Malvern Hill, he was commissioned a lieutenant and was placed in charge of the medical laboratory at Macon, Ga. He went to Selma in February, 1866; was graduated from the University of Louisiana, M. D., 1867, and from the Bellevue Hospital medical college, New York, 1874 and 1875. He began to practice medicine with Dr. Fahs at Selma, 1867, and continued in that partnership for eighteen months. He makes a specialty of surgery, and was surgeon of the railroads running into Selma for many years. He is a member of the Medical Association of Alabama, of the Selma Medical Society, of the city board of health, and was a delegate to the International Medical Congress at Philadelphia, 1876. He is a Knight Templar, and has been eminent commander of the order; is a member of the Knights of Honor; the National Union; and the Ancient Order of United Workmen. He is also connected with the Railroad Conductors' Insurance Association and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, as medical examiner. Residence: Selma.

MCKINSTRY, ALEXANDER, colonel 32nd infantry regiment, C. S. Army, lieutenant governor of Alabama, member Alabama legislature, lawyer and jurist, was born March 7, 1822, in

Augusta, Ga., and died October 9, 1879, at Mobile; son of Alexander and Elizabeth (Thompson) McKinstry, the former of New England stock; grandson of Jesse and Nancy (Clarke) Thompson of Augusta, Ga., and of Ezekiel and Rosina (Chapman) McKinstry of Ellington, Conn.; great-grandson of Gen. Elijah and Hannah (Arrington) Clarke of Georgia, and of Alexander and Sarah (Lee) McKinstry of Litchfield, Conn.; great-great-grandson of John and Elizabeth (Fairfield) McKinstry, the former a native of Brode Parish, Antrim County Ireland, although of Scotch descent, who emigrated to America in 1718 and married at Winham, Mass.; great-great-great-grandson of Roger and Mary (Wilson) McKinstry, of Edinburgh, Scotland. Orphaned at an early age, Colonel McKinstry, made his way to Mobile where he had relatives, and found employment, at fourteen, in a drug store where for several years he remained. He later read law in the office of Hon. John A. Campbell who subsequently became a U. S. supreme court judge, and at once showed a marked aptitude for the legal profession. He was admitted to the bar in 1845 and the following year formed a partnership with William G. Jones. During these first years of his public career he filled the offices of alderman of Mobile, notary public, commissioner of revenue of Mobile County, of which board he was president, and commissioner of roads of the county. He was elected colonel of the 48th Alabama infantry regiment, 9th brigade, 4th division State militia, in 1847, but resigned this office in 1850. During that year he was elected judge of the city of Mobile, re-elected in 1856, and resigned in 1860 to resume his practice in partnership with Daniel Chandler. Although strongly opposed to the Secession movement he surrendered his judgment to the will of the people and on April 29, 1862, was commissioned colonel 32nd Alabama infantry regiment under special order; September 21, 1862, he was assigned to the command of the post of Chattanooga and the troops between Hiawassa and Bridgeport. On April 6, 1864, he was commissioned colonel of cavalry, attached to Maj.-Gen. N. B. Forrest, and was later assigned to the duty of provost marshal general of the Army of Tennessee, the State of Alabama and North Georgia under Gen. Braxton Bragg. He was president of the military court attached to Gen. N. B. Forrest's command from the spring of 1864 until the close of the war. He returned to Mobile and resumed the practice of the law, in the State, U. S. courts and before the U. S. supreme court. In the fall of 1865 he was elected to the Alabama legislature from Mobile County and was made chairman of the judiciary committee, and a member on the committee on the revision of the code which was adopted in 1867. In 1869 he was again elected to the legislature and in 1872 was elected lieutenant governor of the state. He was an Episcopalian. Married: March 20, 1845, to Virginia Thompson, daughter of Robert Richards and Mary (Thompson) Dade, of Mobile, the former a native of King George Court House, Va.; granddaughter of Robert Townsend and Elizabeth (Parker) Dade, also of King George County, his wife being a native of Cartaret County, N. C. Children: 1. Alexander, m. Annie Foss, Eureka, Calif.; 2. William Dade, m. Eva Sheldon, Mobile; 3. Louise Dade, m. Keith Moffat, Mobile; 4. Virginia Dade, Mobile; 5. Mary Ingersoll, m. Marion Chalkley, Richmond, Va. Six other children born to them died in infancy. Last residence: Mobile.

McKINSTRY, O. L., public official, was born March 19, 1842, in Pickens County; son of Thomas W. and Perilla A. (Mobley) McKinstry, natives, respectively, of South Carolina and of Troup County, Ga., the former a farmer, who emigrated from South Carolina to Alabama in 1836 and lived there until his death in 1869. The father of Thomas W. McKinstry was a native of Ireland, who emigrated to South Carolina and became a farmer in that state, married a Miss Allston, a close relative of Gov. Allston of South Carolina, and a native of Scotland. Judge McKinstry enlisted in the C. S. Army in 1861, joining Co. D, Second Alabama infantry regiment, and served with that command one year, then joined the Forty-second Alabama infantry. He participated in the battles of Corinth, siege of Vicksburg, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, Resaca, Kennesaw Mountain, New Hope Church, Peach Tree Creek, and Bentonville, at which last place he was taken prisoner. After the war he returned to his home and engaged in farming, and in 1876-1877 represented Pickens County in the State legislature. He was appointed probate judge of Pickens County in 1890, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Judge T. G. Williams, and was elected to that office in 1892. Married: in 1868, to Hester Mayhew, daughter of Joseph H. and Susanna (Collier) Mayhew, both natives of South Carolina, who emigrated to Alabama in the early days of the state. Children: 1. Thomas H., b. October, 1869, physician; 2. O. L., jr., b. April, 1874; 3. Hester, b. November, 1880. Residence: Carrollton.

McKISSICK, ANTHONY FOSTER, professor of electrical engineering, Alabama polytechnical institute, Auburn, 1891-99. He held the A. M. and M. M. E. degrees. Residence: Anderson, S. C.

McKLERoy, JOHN MARTIN, lawyer, superintendent of education, was born May 13, 1843, at Eufaula; son of William H. and Martha Gill (Shorter) McKleroy. He was graduated from Howard college, 1860, and the following year went to Texas. After a few months' service with a Texas frontier company in the Indian territory, he enlisted, May, 1861, as a private in the Third Texas cavalry, and with that command, served one year in the west. He was appointed adjutant of Hilliard's legion with the rank of first lieutenant, 1862, and with that command, saw service in Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia and the Carolinas. At the formation of the Tenth Confederate cavalry, of which Hilliard's command formed a part, he was elected third lieutenant of Co. A, and later was made captain of the company, and for a time commanded the regiment. He was wounded near Fayetteville, N. C., March 10, 1865, and returned to Eufaula soon after the final surrender. He began to study law, was admitted to the bar in November, 1865, and entered at once upon the practice of law in Eufaula. He was elected State superintendent of public instruction in 1874, held the office one term, and declined re-election. He was a representative in the State legislature in 1876, declined re-election, and in 1882 and 1886, was an unsuccessful candidate for governor. He was chairman of the State Democratic executive committee in 1866. In January, 1887, he was made president of the Anniston City Land Company, and attorney and general agent for the Alabama Mineral Land Company. Soon after that time, he located in Anniston, and retired from the practice of law, except in the interest of the companies he represented. Married: February 28, 1867, to Martha I. Woods, daughter of Clayton R. Woods of Eufaula. Children: 1. William H.; 2. Hat-tie H. Residence: Anniston.

McKLERoy, WILLIAM HENRY, mayor, banker, and colonel State militia, was born October 26, 1868, at Eufaula, and died July 8, 1919, at Anniston; son of John Martin and Martha Isabell (Wood) McKleroy (q. v.); grandson of William Henry and Sophie (Shorter) McKleroy, and of Clayton R. and Harriette Wood, all of Eufaula. He received his early education in the schools of Eufaula and attended, 1884-87, Howard college, from which he graduated with first honors and the degree of A. B. He entered Columbia university, New York City, in 1887, and graduated with the degree of M. E., in 1890. From that date to 1895 he was cashier of the Anniston national bank and from the latter date to 1911, was president of that institution. He then became vice-president of the Anniston city national bank, and president of the Oxford national bank. In 1909 he became vice-president of the bank at Heflin; member, 1896-08, of the city council of Anniston; for eight years mayor, pro tem, of Anniston. He was captain of Co. E, 2nd Alabama National Guard, 1891-94, and colonel of the 3rd regiment, Alabama National Guard, 1905-12. He was a Democrat; Mason; and a Baptist. Married: August 18, 1907, in Chattanooga, Tenn., to Susan (Neal) Musgrove, widow of Judge Coleman Musgrove of Birmingham; daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Neal, who lived at Georgetown, Ky. Children: 1. William Henry, jr. Last residence: Anniston.

McLAIN, DAVID HUBBARD, physician, was born April 23, 1861, in Winston County, and died May 31, 1897; son of Allen Boston and Mary (Hewlett) McLain, the former a North Carolinian, of Scotch-Irish descent, who came to Alabama with his parents when a child, and located on a farm in Walker County; grandson of William Hewlett, of Virginia. His ancestors, the McLains, Hewletts and Hubbards of North Carolina and Virginia achieved distinction in the War of 1812, and were prominent in the politics of the country and the cause of the Confederacy. He received his schooling at Mount Hope, and in Spring Hill academy, Tennessee, under the direction of Col. John Peebles. He worked on his father's farm until 1872, when he began the study of medicine under Dr. J. M. Clark, at Mt. Hope, and graduated from the medical college of Alabama, M. D., 1875. After practicing for one year in Allen's Factory, Marion County, he moved to Maysville, Madison County, and from there to Gurley, 1879, where he soon established himself in a practice extending over the eastern part of Madison County. He was a member of the Madison County medical society and of the State medical association, and for two terms was a member of the board of censors of the former; was a Democrat; a steward in the Methodist Episcopal church; and a Knight of Honor. Married: June 10, 1880, to Ella McBroom, a graduate of Huntsville female college, daughter of C. C. McBroom, of Gurley. Children: 1. Deceased; 2. Allen. Last residence: Gurley.

McLAUGHLIN, JAMES MADISON, physician, was born March 22, 1838, at Leeds, Jefferson County; son of John and Margaret (Brinker) McLaughlin, the former a native of Tennessee, and a resident of that state until he moved to Alabama, the latter a Tennessean of German descent; grandson of Alexander Andrew McLaughlin, who emigrated from Scotland to Tennessee and was one of the first settlers of that state. He was educated in the public schools, read medicine with Dr. Robertson and Dr. Freeman at Springville, 1859-1860; and attended the Atlanta medical college two years; enlisted in Co. C, Eighteenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; was soon made captain of the company; and in 1864 was made lieutenant colonel, occupying that position until the end of the war. He had been appointed assistant surgeon of the regiment but declined to serve. After the war, he engaged in the general practice of medicine, and conducted a drug store. He has served as examiner for the New York life insurance company, for the Penn mutual life insurance company, and for the Equitable life insurance company of New York; as a member of the board of pension examiners; as county health officer; was mayor of Springville three times; a member and one of the organizers of the St. Clair medical society; and a counselor of the State medical association. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: in 1877, to Isidora, daughter of James and Parthenia (Dean) Forman, of Springville. Children: 1. Katharine Burt, m. Jacob Forney (q. v.), professor in the University of Alabama until his death in 1902, children, Caroline and John McLaughlin Forney. Residence: Springville.

McLAUGHLIN, JOHN FELIX, teacher, farmer and tax assessor, was born September 16, 1842, at Jonesboro, Jefferson County; son of Duncan Stuart and Elvira Caroline (Addington) McLaughlin, natives of the same county; grandson of Andrew and Nancy (Carmichael) McLaughlin of that place, the latter born about 1778 in the Isle of Mull, Scotland, served as a sailor for nearly twenty years and located in Marlborough District, S. C., about 1808, where he married and moved to Tennessee, thence to Jefferson County, where he remained until his death in 1858, and of Jason and Elvira (Sandefur) Addington of Jefferson and Pickens Counties. Mr. McLaughlin received his early education in the schools of Jefferson and Tuscaloosa Counties, and has followed teaching and farming; was elected tax assessor of Jefferson County in 1896 and re-elected in 1900, serving, in all, nine years; entered Confederate Army in Co. B, 10th Alabama infantry regiment, June 16th, 1861, and was in the Army of Northern Virginia until the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. He is a Democrat. Married: July 20, 1871, to Sarah Ella, daughter of Jasper Newton and Jerusha (Carroll) Meredith, who lived near Montevallo, a descendant of Colonel Edward Lacy of Revolutionary fame, and related to Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the signer of the Declaration of Independence. Children: 1. Maud, m. B. P. Mims of Birmingham; 2. Anna Stuart, m. James A. Dupuy of Fairview; 3. Willie Cyrene; 4. Jason Meredith. Residence: Birmingham.

MCLEAN, CHARLES E., mayor of Mobile, March 1903 to July 1904.

MCLEAN, JAMES MCGREADY, Presbyterian minister, was born February 13, 1821, near Carthage, Greene, now Hale County, and died April 7, 1890, at Oxford; son of James and Mary (Sloss) McLean, the former a native of North Carolina. His great-great-grandfather McLean came to America from Scotland and settled in North Carolina. He was graduated from the College of Mississippi, 1845, and after some attendance at Lane theological seminary, was graduated at Union theological seminary, New York, 1848. He was licensed to preach about 1844, and was ordained by the Newton Presbytery in 1848. He preached first at Marion, Miss., then at Colla Springs and Lexington, Miss. He was pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church at Mobile, 1854-1863; took charge of Fayetteville, Hatchet Creek, Unity and Scott's Grove churches, having organized the last named, 1864; took charge of the churches at Oxford, Jacksonville and Marble Springs, 1869; and sometimes combined with those churches at New Lebanon, Harpersville and Columblana. His labors extended throughout the counties of Talladega, Clay, Shelby and Calhoun. He was a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: June 21, 1848, at Marion, Miss.: to Julia, daughter of John Fox and Harriet (Wood) Chester, who lived at Sumterville, S. C. Children: 1. Chester Cummings, d. September 9, 1860; 2. Ida, d. October 19, 1905, at Marshall, Tex.; 3. Charles Wood, d. July 27, 1873, at Oxford; 4. James Dunning, minister, president of the South-Western Presbyterian home and school for orphans, Itasca, Tex.; 5. Harry Herndon, minister, d. in April, 1884, in Goochland County, Va.; 6. Carrie Hoadley, m. Julius P. Word, Lubbock, Tex.; 7. Mary Elizabeth, m. David P. Rogers, d. January 15, 1907, at Princeton, W. Va.; 8. John Ephraim, minister, Forth Worth, Tex.; 9. Joseph George, d. August

3, 1868, at Fayetteville. Last residence: Oxford.

MCLEMORE, CHARLES, merchant, was born in Jasper County, Ga., and died in 1858, near Memphis, Tenn. He was educated as a physician, came to Alabama in 1833, and settled on the river in Tallapoosa County. Soon after he came to Lafayette, where he established himself as a merchant. He was elected to the State legislature from Chambers County in 1836, and between that time and 1844, was re-elected five times to that body. He was sent to the State senate in the latter year, and served two years. He was again elected to the senate in 1849, was unanimously elected president of that body in 1851, and served in the upper house until 1855, when he was defeated by Dr. H. W. Bacon. He died while on a visit to Arkansas, to look after lands in which he was interested. He was a Whig. Mr. McLemore was married three times, the last time to a Miss McCoy, daughter of Neal McCoy of Chambers County. One of his sons, Col. J. J. McLemore, an officer in the militia, who was debarred from active service in the War of Secession because of physical disabilities, drilled many soldiers for the C. S. Army, and conducted a flour mill, which was thrown open to the families of soldiers during the war; he served in the State legislature and offered a series of joint resolutions for the state to care for the soldiers' families, which later became a law. His youngest son was Col. Owen Kenan McLemore (q. v.). Last residence: Chambers County.

MCLEMORE, MOSES, farmer, was born in 1857, in Montgomery County; son of Andrew J. and Sarah C. (Smith) McLemore, the former a native of Jones County, Ga., who came to Alabama with his parents about 1820, and was first married to Margaret Caffey, by whom he had three daughters, was married again in 1854, and spent the remainder of his life on a plantation in Montgomery County, and died in 1870, the latter a native of Orangeburgh District, S. C., who came to Alabama with her uncle, Daniel Rast, who settled in Lowndes County; grandson of Rev. James McLemore, a Virginian and a Missionary Baptist minister, who came to Alabama in 1820, and is said to have built the first church in Montgomery County, and of Jacob and Mary Smith, natives of South Carolina, who lived in that state all their lives. He was educated in the country schools and in Montgomery, and at the age of seventeen, began farming in Montgomery County. He has followed that occupation all his life, and for some years he was also engaged in merchandising and in conducting a cotton gin. Married: in 1890, to Annie Benom Tanner, who was born in Tuskegee, daughter of L. H. and Ophelia Tanner, who came to Alabama from Georgia, the former of whom died at Union Springs. Residence: Montgomery County.

MCLEMORE, OWEN KENAN, Confederate soldier, was born October 21, 1838, in Lafayette, and died September 30, 1862, at Winchester,

BETHUNE B. McKENZIE

Ga.; son of Charles McLemore (q. v.). When he was sixteen years of age, he was appointed to a cadetship at West Point, from the seventh congressional district of Alabama. He was graduated with honor from the military academy, July 1, 1856; was stationed in Kentucky as second lieutenant in the Eighth infantry regiment, U. S. Army, for a short time, then was transferred to the Sixth infantry; was with the latter command in San Francisco when Alabama seceded; resigned from the U. S. Army and returned to Alabama to join the C. S. Army; was first employed in recruiting soldiers for the Fourteenth Alabama infantry regiment; was assigned to duty as first lieutenant of artillery, and ordered to report to Gen. Beauregard, at Manassas Junction, June, 1861; participated in the first battle of Manassas; was appointed major of the Fourteenth Alabama regiment; commanded the regiment at Williamsburg, at which time his horse was shot from under him; was elected lieutenant colonel of the Fourth Alabama regiment, May 21, 1862, and after falling back from Richmond to Yorktown, was promoted to colonel; commanded the Fourth Alabama in the battle of Seven Pines, and when the regiment followed Stonewall Jackson from the valley of Virginia; after forced marches formed a juncture with Gen. Lee's forces in time to assist in the defeat of Gen. McClellan and to save Richmond in the seven days' battle, at which time Col. McLemore received a severe flesh wound; fought at second Manassas and in all the ensuing engagements until he was fatally wounded while commanding his regiment, at the battle of Sharpsburg, September 17, 1862; died at the home of Mrs. Carson, in Winchester, September 30, 1862, and was buried in N. May Cemetery, Winchester, with military honors, the regiment and division band marching several miles to perform the last rites. Last residence: Lafayette.

McLENDON, GEORGE GRANDBERRY, Baptist minister, was born December 14, 1807, in Morgan County, Ga.; son of Josiah McLendon, a native of North Carolina, who married a daughter of Elder George Grandberry of North Carolina, one of the first Baptist preachers. He moved with his father to Alabama in 1818, and settled near Burnt Corn, Conecuh County. After residing there for six years, he moved with the family to Pike County, 1824, near what is now Brundidge. He farmed for a few years, and in 1832 united with the Salem Baptist church. Up until that time, he had little opportunity to gain even the rudiments of an education, but after he decided to enter the ministry, he devoted himself closely to reading and study and became a profound Biblical scholar. He was ordained to the ministry, July 27, 1840, and was assigned to his first charge at Aberfoil, in what is now Bullock County. He was a member and one of the organizers of the Selma Baptist association, and was sent as a missionary of the association into Florida and southern Alabama in 1844, and served there for three years. He served for a number of years as moderator of the Selma association, and was in active church work for more than fifty years. He was a Royal Arch

Mason. Married: January 15, 1828, in Pike County, to Martha, daughter of John Martin, a native of Maryland, who moved from Georgia to Alabama, settling near Horse Shoe Bend on the Tallapoosa River, 1818, later moving to Butler County, then to Pike County, near Brundidge. Children: 1. James R. (q. v.); 2. Jonathan D., farmer and merchant, served in Co. G, Fifty-third Alabama volunteer regiment, m. 1859, Susannah Myrick, daughter of W. B. Myrick; 3. Jackson J., teacher, farmer and architect, served in the C. S. Army, for several years, township superintendent of free public schools, m. in 1854, Eleanor E. Cook, of Montgomery County; 4. Jasper G., wounded in the battle of Shiloh and never heard from since; 5. Joseph F., killed at the battle of Shiloh, April 7, 1862; 6. Judson Cary, killed July, 1891, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, m. in 1869, Josephine Burgess, daughter of William Burgess of Pike County; 7. Jane E., d. in infancy; 8. Julia, d. in infancy; 9. Julia Ann, deceased, m. George Edge, left a son, George, of River Falls; 10. Josephine, deceased, m. J. M. Talbot, left three children, James T., Mollie F., and Clarence M. Last residence: Pike County.

McLENDON, JAMES R., farmer, was born in 1828, in Pike County; son of George Grandberry and Martha (Martin) McLendon (q. v.). He was reared on a farm, received a good education, and attended the military school at Tuskegee. He taught school until in August, 1862, when he joined the Partisan Rangers, Co. H, Fifty-first Alabama mounted infantry, under Col. John T. Morgan. He fought at Murfreesboro, and participated in the Georgia campaign, from Dalton to Atlanta, losing his left hand, July 28, 1864. After some time in a hospital, he was furloughed home for sixty days, then was made superintendent of the hospital garden at Meridian, Miss., where he remained until the close of the war. For a short time after the war, he resided and taught school in Butler County, but in 1865, moved to Montgomery County, where he conducted a farm. He contributed to various periodicals, and is author of an article, "Music on the Farm." He served in the State legislature in 1888 and 1889, and was a member of the committee on education and temperance. He was a Missionary Baptist. Married: in November, 1856, to Mary Jane, daughter of Dr. J. C. and Caroline Courtney, natives of South Carolina and Montgomery County, the former a physician, farmer and nurseryman, who died in 1889, in Chilton County. Thirteen children were born to the marriage. Last residence: Montgomery County.

McLENDON, LOUIS MARSHALL, physician and legislator, was born January 10, 1848, at Wadesboro, Anson County, N. C.; son of Louis May and Mary Ann (Waddell) McLendon, who resided in Wadesboro until 1855, when he moved to DeKalb, Kemper County, Miss., a member of the board of supervisors for five terms in North Carolina, and sheriff of Anson County, that state, for one term; grandson of Joel and Susan (May) McLendon of Anson County, N. C., and of Edward Waddell and wife of Cheraw, S.

C. The family was of Scotch-Irish descent. Dr. McLendon had a common school education in Kemper County, Miss., and graduated with the M. D. degree from the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1874. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Oak Grove, Miss., and later practiced at Georgiana, at Muscogee, Fla., and at Brewton, where he has resided for the past twenty-five years. He was coroner of Escambia County for two terms and Confederate pension examiner for two terms. He entered the Confederate Army in 1867, at fifteen years of age, from the State of Mississippi, and was a corporal. He represented Escambia County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Methodist; Democrat; Mason, a Knight of Honor; and a member of the Fraternal Union. Married: November 23, 1866, at Oak Grove Miss., to Mary Ann, daughter of Peter P. and Elizabeth Cullom, the family being of French origin. Children: 1. Mary Elizabeth, m. M. C. Smith, Oak Grove, Miss.; 2. Alyce, m. J. R. Bradley, Century, Fla.; 3. Wilma. Residence: Brewton.

McLENNAN, JOHN D., lieutenant colonel, 59th Alabama infantry; major, 4th battalion Alabama artillery, Hilliard's Alabama Legion, C. S. Army.

McLEOD, ARCHIBALD LONZO, lawyer, was born December 27, 1859, in Jackson, Clarke County; son of John and Christian (Calhoun) McLeod, the former a native of Clarke County, who served in the C. S. Army, in Co. C, Thirty-second Alabama infantry regiment, and was killed at the battle of Franklin; grandson of Duncan Calhoun, who came to Alabama from North Carolina. He was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1885, A. M., 1888; taught in the public schools of Selma, 1885-1887; organized a newspaper, "The South Alabamian," at Jackson, and began the practice of law in that city; served in the legislature from Clarke County, 1888 and 1889; moved to Selma, 1890, where he continued his law practice; was elected mayor of Selma, 1899-1901, and re-elected without opposition, 1901-1903. He is a Methodist; a Democrat; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and an Elk. Married: (1) in Selma, to Augusta Jordan, who died November 1, 1891; (2) February 6, 1901, at Montgomery, to Elizabeth Dawson, daughter of George W. Hails (q. v.), who was at one time tax collector of Montgomery County. Children, by second marriage: 1. Elizabeth Furniss. Residence: Selma.

McLEOD, J. F., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Montgomery.

McLEOD, JOHN CALVIN, physician, was born July 1, 1880, at Goodwater, Coosa County; son of Angus Kelley and Laura (Jones) McLeod, the former a native of Goodwater, who lived there, and at Wetumpka and Sylacauga, Talladega County, who was U. S. deputy collector of internal revenue under Cleveland's second administration; grandson of William W. and Margaret McLeod, of Goodwater, and of John Calvin and Angeline (Love) Jones, who lived at Bradford, Coosa County. He attended the common schools of Coosa County, the high school at Auburn, and took one year's course at the Alabama polytechnic institute. He was graduated from the Birmingham medical college, April, 1900; began to practice medicine at Bay Minette in 1900, and has been engaged in the general practice since that time. He was a member of the common council of Bay Minette, 1908-1912; was chairman of the Baldwin County Democratic executive committee, 1913; ruling elder of the Burgett Memorial Presbyterian church; past master of his lodge of Masons; and past chancellor of the Knights of Pythias. Married: November 15, 1904, at Jemison, to Virginia, daughter of L. J. and Susan Hand, who lived at Jemison, Chilton County. Children: 1. Pauline Glover. Residence: Bay Minette.

McLEOD, JOHN COLEMAN, physician, was born April 2, 1878, at Clayton, Barbour County; son of John C. and Alice (Baker) McLeod, of White Oak Springs and Eufaula; grandson of Daniel and P. R. McLeod, and of James and Nancy Baker, all of Barbour County. Dr. McLeod was educated in the common schools of Barbour and Henry Counties; the Southeast Alabama agricultural school, Abbeville, and the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, from which he graduated, 1904, with the degree of M. D. He began the practice of his profession in May, 1904, at Bakerhill, where he remained for one year; lived at Elba, Coffee County, two years; and at Opp, where he has practiced for the last ten years. He was a member of the city council at Opp for six years; and was elected to the legislature from Covington County, 1918. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; a Shriner; a Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: February 22, 1906, at Elba, to Myrtle L., daughter of William J. and Rebecca Hutchison. Residence: Opp.

McLEOD, JOHN WILLIAM, teacher and lawyer, was born October 22, 1887, at King Institute, Clarke County; son of William Allen and Mary Zeola (Vaughn) McLeod; grandson of John and Christian (Calhoun) McLeod, the former a Confederate soldier who lived in Clarke County, and was killed at the battle of Franklin, Tenn., and of William and Mary Vaughn of Wilcox County. He received his early education in the public schools of Demopolis, and graduated A. B., from the University of Alabama, 1906, and LL. B., 1912. He taught in the Mobile military institute, 1906-09; principal Grove Hill academy, 1901-11; principal Clarke County high school, 1912-13; after which latter date he entered upon the practice of law. Author: "A history of Clarke County." He is a Democrat, Methodist and Mason. Unmarried. Residence: Mobile.

McLEOD, NORMAN BURNS, Methodist minister, was born November 11, 1885, at Saltpa, Clarke County; son of Lionel Erastus and Mary Elizabeth (Waite) McLeod; grandson of Henry Waters and Matilda (Chapman) Waite of Neal-ton, and of John and Christian (Calhoun) McLeod of Jackson; great-grandson of Neal and Nancy (Calhoun) McLeod of Richmond or Cumberland County, N. C., but who removed to Clarke County prior to 1822. The McLeods immigrated to America in 1792, from the Isle of Skye. Many Methodist and Baptist ministers in Alabama have sprung from the original immigrant pair. Rev. Mr. McLeod was educated in the public schools and the Agricultural school at Jackson; graduated at Auburn with the degree of B. S., 1907, winner of society declamation medal, sophomore and junior medals, class orator, editor-in-chief of "Orange and Blue," 1st corporal, sergeant, major and adjutant; graduated at Vanderbilt university, June, 1913, with degree of Bachelor of Divinity; entered ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, 1908, and has served as pastor and supply minister of Greene Circuit, Selma, Montgomery, Hattiesburg, Miss., and Phoenix City. He held the chair of history in Seventh district agricultural school, Albertville. He is a Mason and a member of Tau Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Unmarried. Residence: Nashville, Tenn.

MCLESTER, JOSEPH, banker, merchant, was born July 27, 1848, at North Port, Tuscaloosa County, and died April 25, 1895, at Birmingham; son of James Augusta and Jane (Simonton) McLester, who lived at North Port, the former a native of North Carolina, who came to Alabama early in the history of the state, and became a merchant at North Port for many years; grandson of James and Nancy (Tompkins) McLester, who lived in Lauderdale County, the former a captain in the Tenth North Carolina regiment, Revolutionary Army; great-grandson of Joseph McLester, born in Scotland in 1730, who came to America as a child with his father Joseph McLester. The family name was originally McAlester, formerly of the Scotch clan, Alester or MacAlester. Mr. McLester attended the North Port academy, and a school in Tuscaloosa, until he entered the University of Alabama. He was a member of the cadet corps at the university which opposed Croxton's raiders in 1865, and after the war was over, completed his college course at Washington and Lee university, under the administration of Gen. Robert E. Lee, graduating in 1869. On returning from college, he became cashier of the First national bank of Tuscaloosa, and treasurer of the Alabama insane hospital, for eight years. In 1881, he moved to Birmingham, and became a member of the wholesale grocery firm of McLester and Van Hoose, in which business he continued until his death. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: November 10, 1875, in Carrollton, Miss., to Nannie, daughter of James and Martha (Hudson) Somerville, who lived at Memphis, Tenn., and Carrollton, Miss.; granddaughter of Dr. James Somerville, who came to Tuscaloosa from Virginia. The first James Somerville of Virginia emigrated from Scotland to this country, and was a descendant of Lord Somerville, who in turn was descended from Baron Somerville, who accompanied William the Conqueror to England, and fought at the conquest. Children: 1. James Somerville, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., and from the University of Virginia, M. D., 1899, was resident physician at the Philadelphia polyclinic hospital, now a physician in Birmingham, m. Ada Bowron; 2. Janie, m. R. E. Meade, Birmingham; 3. Dora, m. Paul E. Chalfaux, Birmingham; 4. Susie, m. R. E. Hawkins, Birmingham. Last residence: Birmingham.

McLURE, JOHN R., educator, superintendent of city schools of Troy.

McMATH, WILLIAM MALCHIHAH, lawyer, was born February 17, 1848, in Jefferson County, and died November 5, 1878, in Columbiana; son of John Duncan and Martha Ann (Thomas) McMath, who lived in Shelby County, near Montevallo, the former a native of Tuscaloosa County, who served in the C. S. Army; grandson of William Malchijah and Sarah (Davidson) McMath, who lived near Green Pond, Tuscaloosa County, and of William and Melinda (Moore) Thomas, of Jefferson County; great-grandson of William Malchijah McMath who moved from Georgia to Alabama and settled near Green Pond, and of George and Elizabeth (Cothier) Thomas, who lived in Tuscaloosa County. The McMATHs came from Ayrshire, Scotland, about 1700, and settled in South Carolina, later moving to Georgia. Mr. McMath received his early schooling at Montevallo, and attended the University of Alabama, 1863-1865. An honorary diploma was granted him by the university, May 13, 1914. He studied law and was admitted to the bar, January 16, 1873, and practiced in Columbiana and the courts of Alabama. He was a member of the State legislature, 1876-1877. He was a private in Co. C, Alabama corps of cadets, C. S. Army, 1863-1865, in the battalion commanded by Col. James T. Murfee. He was a Democrat, and a member of the State executive committee; was a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: December 20, 1870, near Montevallo, to Drusilla, daughter of Philip Denton and Martha Jane (Richardson) Meroney, of Shelby County; granddaughter of Lloyd and Alice (Edwards) Meroney, and of Charles and Mary Ann Richardson, who came to Alabama when the Indians occupied the state; great-granddaughter of Philip De Loucy and Martha (Semmes) O'Meroney, the former who came from Dublin, Ireland, to Maryland before the Revolution, who organized and equipped his own regiment, the First Maryland battalion of the flying corps, at the beginning of the War for Independence, and as captain of that command served throughout the war, following Gen. Greene in his campaign through the Carolinas, and who settled in South Carolina after the Revolution. Children: 1. Emmet Meroney, b. 1871, d. 1892; 2. William Burwell, b. 1874, d. 1906, m. Daisy Canterberry, deceased; 3. Anna Ethel, b. 1877, m. 1907, Robert Benjamin Dawson, Patton. Last residence: Columbiana.

McMILLAN, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, merchant, was born March 21, 1841, at Monroe ville; son of Murdoc and Celia Ann (Salter) McMillan, the former a North Carolinian, who moved to Monroeville, and in 1842, to Stockton, Baldwin County, and was a member of the home guard in the War of Secession; grandson of Malcolm and Margaret (Smith) McMillan, of North Carolina, and of John and Catherine (McMillan) Salter, who lived at Monroeville and Stockton, and at Pensacola, Fla.; great-grandson of Archibald McMillan, and his wife, formerly a Miss Murphy, who about 1760, emigrated from the highlands of Scotland, and settled in Richmond County, N. C. Mr. McMillan was educated in the common schools, and has lived the greater part of his life in Stockton. He served as first corporal in Co. G, Wirt Adams' cavalry, C. S. Army, throughout the War of Secession; engaged in merchandising in 1867; and in 1872 added the sawmill business. In 1901, he was representative from Baldwin County in the constitutional convention of Alabama. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: June 11, 1872, in Mobile, to Annie Darrington, daughter of Duncan Witten and Sarah Darrington (Carter) Murphy, of Mobile, the former who went in 1849 to California and prospered, was elected speaker of the house of representatives in 1852 of California, and on his return to California from a visit to Alabama, died of yellow fever; granddaughter of Gov. John Murphy (q. v.). Children: 1. Sue Danner, m. Orrie W. Byrne; 2. Murdoc Murphy, m. Lillie Crosby; 3. Benjamin Franklin, m. Ella Pickens; 4. Anne Darrington, m. Dr. J. Hamilton Hastie; 5. John, m. Annie May Hastie; 6. Duncan William, deceased; 7. Darrington, deceased. Residence: Stockton.

McMILLAN, LEE, business man, legislator and member constitutional convention 1901, was born January 12, 1865, at Gee's Bend, Wilcox County; son of James A. and Emma Jane (Heath) McMillan, the former of Dinwiddie County, Va., who came to Gee's Bend in early life; grandson of James and Mary (Haley) McMillan, of Prince George County, Va., and of Albert and Elizabeth (Cooper) Heath, of Georgia. He was educated in the schools of Rehoboth, Wilcox County; has been successfully a farmer, merchant, and banker; from 1890 to 1892 was editor of the "Wilcox Program," at Camden; represented Wilcox County in the general assembly of 1901; member of the constitutional convention of 1901; mayor of Gastonburg, 1901-1905; member of the county board of education for many years; and was re-elected to the legislature of 1907; for fifteen or twenty years served as member of his county executive committee; also has been a delegate to several state conventions. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and a Mason. Married: October 18, 1886, at Rehoboth, to Pearl Omega, daughter of John H. and Fannie (Moss) Malone. Children: 1. Emmet Erle; 2. Edwin Lee; 3. Cecil Malone. Residence: Gastonburg.

McMILLAN, THOMAS M., 33rd degree Honorary Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

McMILLION, LEMUEL G., teacher, public official, was born in 1794, in Pendleton District,

S. C., and died August 29, 1865, in Jefferson County. He came from South Carolina to Jonesboro, in 1819, and was a school teacher at the latter place for more than twenty years, during which time he compiled a spelling book of a superior kind. He was for ten years a member of the State legislature from Jefferson County, and was a strict Democrat, always voting the party ticket. He was major of Col. Frazier's regiment, which marched into the Creek country in 1836. He had been out of public life many years before his death. Married: Miss Freeland. One of his daughters married Dr. Gilbert T. Deason, of Jefferson County, who represented Jefferson and Shelby Counties in the State senate, 1865-1867. Last residence: Jefferson County.

McMORRIS, BOLING KAVANAUGH, lawyer, circuit judge, and soldier, was born March 12, 1872, at Wetumpka, Elmore County; son of Charles Kincaid and Mary Elizabeth (Kavanaugh) McMorris (q. v.). He was educated in the public and private schools of his native town and graduated from the U. S. naval academy, 1894, member of the engineering division, standing second in the division of thirteen members. Upon receiving his commission as assistant engineer in the U. S. navy he was sent with Assistant Engineer J. M. Hudgins, U. S. Navy, to take a special course in mechanical and electrical engineering, at the Central technical college of the city and guilds of London institute, London, England, and remained there from 1896 to the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, 1898. He was an officer, in the line division, U. S. Navy, from that time to early in 1901 when he resigned. He was one of three officers to receive the cruiser "Amazonas" from Brazil, from which country that vessel was purchased by the United States, at Gravesend, England, in the spring of 1898, and served on that vessel which was renamed the "New Orleans" during the Spanish-American War. He was a naval cadet, U. S. Navy, 1890-96; assistant engineer, U. S. Navy, 1896-99; lieutenant, junior grade, U. S. Navy, 1899-1901; served on the U. S. ships, Columbia, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Helena, U. S. fish commission steamer, Albatross; cruised off the coasts and in the waters of the United States, England, Germany, Gulf of Mexico, Caribbean Sea, Sandwich Islands, South Sea Islands of Pacific, Japan, China and the Philippine Islands. He was captain, Co. I, Alabama National Guard in 1904. He read law privately and was admitted to the bar in 1905. Upon resigning from the navy he returned to Wetumpka, but in 1913 located in Birmingham. May, 1916, he was elected grand keeper of the record and seals of the grand lodge of Alabama, Knights of Pythias, but in September when the disorders along our Mexican border broke out he joined the First Alabama cavalry regiment, in which he was commissioned major. He served with that regiment stationed at San Antonio, Texas, December 12, 1916, to March 21, 1917. Later this regiment was transformed into field artillery, October 1, 1917, and stationed at Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga. The regiment went overseas but did not see active service on account of the armistice and the end of the European War. In December, 1919, he was appointed judge of the 19th judicial circuit, and on May 11, 1920, he was nominated in the primaries as his own successor. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Red Man. Unmarried. Residence: Wetumpka.

McMORRIS, CHARLES KINCAID, county treasurer, sheriff and merchant, was born March 5, 1835, at Lafayette, Chambers County, and died December 6, 1912, at Wetumpka; son of Spencer James and Margaret (Kincaid) McMorris, the former a native of Newberry District, S. C., who located at Wetumpka where he was a Universalist preacher, and the author of treatises on that denomination; grandson of Capt. John and Nancy (Morgan) McMorries, of Fairfield District, S. C.; great-grandson of Major Spencer Morgan of Spring Hill, and Newberry, S. C., a senator from that district in the South Carolina legislature, 1808-12. The McMorries family, although coming to America from Ireland in 1768, was of Scotch origin. The founders, brothers, William and John, both fought in the American Revolution under Gen. Francis Marion. The "e" was dropped from the name by Mr. McMorris' father. He was in the mercantile business at Wetumpka, from 1870 to 1883; deputy collector of internal revenue from 1866 to 1870; sheriff of Elmore County, 1884-88; city clerk of Wetumpka, 1889-92; treasurer of Elmore County, 1892-1912, having served five full terms, and was holding the place to which he had first been re-elected at the time of his death. He entered the Confederate Army as a Private in Co. I, "Wetumpka Light Guards," Third Alabama infantry regiment and served throughout the four years of the War of Secession in that command. He was a Democrat prior to 1892, and a Populist from that date to 1896 at which time he returned to the former party. He was a Baptist and a Mason. Married: July 26, 1866, at Wetumpka, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Henry G. and Harriet S. (Young) Kavanaugh, who lived in Montgomery and Elmore counties; granddaughter of Bernard and Dorothy Young of Amelia County, Va. Children: 1. Spencer James, jr., m. Annie Robinson, daughter of Horatio H. Robinson, Confederate soldier, Wetumpka; 2. Charles Gentry, Wetumpka; 3. Nora Lee, m. Louis G. Johnson, Wetumpka; 4. Boling Kavanaugh (q. v.); 5. Margaret Kincaid, m. Frank B. McCaskey, Wetumpka. Last residence: Wetumpka.

McMURRAY, FRANCIS, major, 23rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

McNAMEE, JAMES MONROE, banker and jeweler, was born in Lee County, April 9, 1838, and died in Opelika, January 1, 1902; son of Thomas and Mary (Curran) McNamee, of Inniskillen, Fennimaugh County, Ireland, who emigrated to Quebec, 1830, removed to New York City, thence to Dahlonga, Ga., about 1833, and to Lafayette, about 1843. His education was obtained in the log-house schools of Opelika and Lafayette and his business training was acquired in commercial pursuits. He was a jeweler, until about 1870, when he was made president of the Bank of Opelika. He was a private in Co. I, 37th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. He was a Democrat; Mason; Knight of Honor; and a Methodist. Married: (1) Leah Elizabeth, daughter of William Hampton and Rosanna Jane (Machen) Anderson, the former of Columbia, the latter, from Newberry, S. C.; (2) Rowena, daughter of John Heywood and Catherine (Glaze) Frazer, of Harris County, Ga. The Anderson and Machen families are of Revolutionary ancestry, including among others the Wade Hamptons, of South Carolina. Children: by first wife: 1. Mary Ross, m. Daniel Bullard Williams, of Opelika; 2. William Thomas, m. Maude Russell, of Columbus, Ga.; 3. Anna Kathleen, m. James Wilson Roby, now a widow and cashier of the Exchange Hotel, Montgomery; by second wife: 4. James Frazer, m. (1) Nellie Bryan, one child, Agnes Rowena, (2) name unknown; no children. Last residence: Opelika.

McNEAL, D. H., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Ozark.

McNEAL, W. H., Methodist minister, member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Troy.

McNEEL, ALBERT WILLIAMS, merchant and postmaster, was born October 1, 1822, in Yorkville, York District, S. C., and died May 1, 1885, in Autaugaville; son of Tinas, jr. and Anne (Morrow) McNeel, of Yorkville, S. C.; grandson of Tinas McNeel of Scotland, who immigrated to South Carolina, 1790. He removed with his parents, in 1837, to Wetumpka, where they lived and died, and was educated in the common schools of that place. He began merchandising at an early age. Later he removed to Montevallo, going to Vernon Landing, Autauga County, on the Alabama River. Here he carried on an extensive trade with the great plantations of that region, by means of freight facilities of the great steamboats that plied between Mobile and Wetumpka. Later the Autauga cotton factory formed the nucleus for Autaugaville. The citizens of Vernon removed in a body to that place and he became postmaster, which position he held until his death. He was a Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Good Templar; and Ku-Klux; and a Methodist. Married: (1) Miss Stoudenmire; (2) to Ann Louisa Houser, widow of William Whetstone. Children: by the first wife: 1. Tynus, m. Alice Godbold; by the second wife: 2. Andrew H., m. Minnie Allen; 3. Frank J., m. Mattie Wilkinson; 4. John, m. Ida Shackleford; 5. Bessie M., m. William Howard; 6. Jessie G., m. Joseph Atkins; 7. Fannie H., m. W. H. Hart, of Camden. Last residence: Autaugaville.

McNEEL, ANDREW HALL, business man, was born February 14, 1855, in Autaugaville; son of Albert W. and Ann L. McNeel, of Autauga County, the former a merchant; grandson of Tinas and Anne (Morrow)

McNeel, of Scotch-Irish descent, who settled in Yorkville, S. C., in 1780, moved to Alabama in 1837, settling near Wetumpka, and later moving to Autauga County, and of Louis and Sophie (Stoudenmire) Houser, who came from Holland to Orangeburg, S. C., in 1780, who moved to Wetumpka in 1837, and afterwards moved to Autauga County where they formed the Dutch Bend colony, and became successful planters. Mr. McNeel was reared and educated in Autauga County, and went to Montgomery in 1872, entering the office of Whetstone, Sistrunk and company. After that firm went out of business, he became connected with Allen, Bethune and company, as junior partner in the cotton business. The firm is now known as the Mutual warehouse company, and Mr. McNeel is its secretary and treasurer. He is ruling elder in the First Presbyterian church, Montgomery. Married: January 21, 1879, in Columbus, Ga., to Minnie E., daughter of Augustus Massillon and Sallie (Bellinger) Allen. Children: 1. Millie Louise, d. in infancy; 2. Allen Massillon, b. March 4, 1882, in Montgomery, was graduated with honors from the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1902, is assistant to the general manager of the Teague hardware company, Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

McNEEL, JOHN D., lawyer, was born October 13, 1871, at Bullock's Creek, York County, S. C.; son of G. L. and Mary Ellen (Davidson) McNeel, the former a native of Fishing Creek, Chester County, S. C., who lived at Yorkville, S. C., saw hospital service in the War of Secession, and was a member of the South Carolina legislature; grandson of Samuel and Elizabeth (Rainey) McNeel, of Fishing Creek, S. C., the former who came from Scotland to Pennsylvania, and later moved to South Carolina, and of John Gillis and Jane (Hamilton) Davidson, of Bullock's Creek, S. C., the former a Confederate soldier; great-great-grandson of David Hamilton, who came from Scotland before the Revolution, lived at Little York, Pa., between 1760 and 1765, then moved to York District, east of Broad River, S. C., and of William Kennedy of Union County, S. C., a soldier in the Revolution. Mr. McNeel attended Davidson college, North Carolina, 1888-1889; South Carolina university at Columbia, 1889-1891, graduating in the latter years with the degree of A. B.; Johns Hopkins university, Maryland, 1891-1894; and was graduated from the University of Virginia, B. L., 1895. He is an attorney; was clerk of the court of Talladega County, 1906-1909; served as private secretary to Gov. Comer, 1911, and filled that position for a few months with Gov. O'Neal, 1913; and in 1914 was appointed U. S. collector of internal revenue tax for the district of Alabama and Mississippi by President Wilson, 1914. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and an Elk. Married: October 27, 1897, at Robinson Springs, to Adele, daughter of Albert Taylor and Priscilla Cooper (Tyler) Goodwyn (q. v.) of Robinson Springs; granddaughter of Albert Gallatin and Harriet (Bibb) Goodwyn, the former a descendant of Capt. James Taylor of the Revolutionary Army, the latter the niece of Alabama's first two governors, and of Robert and Priscilla (Cooper) Tyler (q. v.). Children: 1. Letitia Tyler; 2. Hulda. Residence: Birmingham.

McNEELY, DAVID, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Madison County; private Virginia Continental Line and Militia; enrolled on June 13, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.77; sums received to date of publication of list, $92.31.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

McNEILL, DANIEL ARCHIBALD, teacher, was born March 9, 1877, near Sylacauga, Talladega County; son of Jasper Newton and Susan Daniel (Keahey) McNeill, the former a native of Talladega, now Clay County; grandson of Archie and Effie (McFatter) McNeill, who moved from North Carolina to Alabama, and of Daniel and Elizabeth (Brown) Keahey, who also came from North Carolina to Alabama. He was educated in the common schools of Clay and Talladega Counties, and was graduated from Lineville college, A. B., 1899. He taught school for two years before his graduation; was elected secretary of Lineville college, two years; served as principal of a public school at Fitzpatrick, five years; as president of Lineville college, one year; resigned that position to accept the superintendency of the city schools of Talladega in 1906; and held the last mentioned office until he became county superintendent of education of Talladega County. He is a Democrat; chairman of the board of deacons in the Presbyterian church; and past consul commander of the Woodmen of the World. Married: February 10, 1901, in Lineville, to Hirsch Lucile, daughter of Christopher B. and Matilda (Gaston) Nichols, of that place. Children: 1. Helen Gray, b. September 25, 1906. Residence: Talladega.

McNEILL, HAMILCAR HANNIBAL, Methodist minister, was born September 4, 1852, near Pine Level, Montgomery County; son of Hannibal and Susan (Eubank) McNeill, the former a native of near Pine Level, where his parents settled in 1815; grandson of James and Jane Raford (Smille) McNeill, who came to Alabama from North Carolina, settling first on Line Creek, near Montgomery, 1813, and of John and Susan (Moore) Eubank, who came from Milledgeville, Ga., to Pine Level, the latter a half-sister of David Dixon, the Georgia cotton-planter; great-grandson of Gen. Malcolm McNeill, an officer in the Revolution, whose father came to America from Scotland and settled in Edgecombe County, N. C.; great-great-grandson of Robert Raford who married Miss Pickett. The Picketts and Rafords were from England. Mr. McNeill was educated in private schools, and in the high school at Pine Level. He became a minister in the Alabama conference, Methodist Episcopal church, South; was ordained an elder in 1874; joined the conference in December, 1888, at Mobile; has served as pastor in churches at Clayton, one year;

ALBERT P. BUSH

Pensacola, Fla., three years; Dothan, three years; Prattville, four years; Mobile, four years; Opelika; and is now pastor of the church at Marianna, Fla. He instituted a reform movement in Pensacola, Fla., 1897, and organized and led the fight for prohibition and law enforcement in Mobile, 1907-1909. He has written tracts and newspaper articles on the liquor traffic, law-enforcement, and good government. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: November 10, 1875, in Montgomery County, to Missouri, daughter of James Anderson and Harriet (Trotter) Sellers, who lived at Union Academy, Montgomery County. Children: 1. Lillie, m. Henry Edward Gipson, lawyer, Prattville; 2. Guillo Grove, timber merchant, Slidell, La.; 3. Stanton Sellers, department store, LaGrange, Ga.; 4. Laura Eubank, m. William Leslie Denham, architect, Mobile; 5. Hamlicar Hannibal, lawyer. Residence: Marianna, Fla.

McNUTT, HUGH M., business man and accountant. Residence: Birmingham.

McPHERSON, JOHN, farmer, member secession convention, 1861, was born March 6, 1796, at Fayetteville, N. C., and died and was buried at Sandy Ridge church, near Ft. Deposit; son of William and Christian (McDonald) McPherson, a native of Scotland, who came to America and located in North Carolina. He received a common school education in the country schools; became a farmer, and served as county commissioner. He was a member of the constitutional convention held in Montgomery in 1861, was a Democrat, and strong advocate of secession. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church. Married: in 1825, in Marion District, S. C., to Mary Bethune. He had no children. Last residence: Greenville.

McQUEEN, JOHN, lawyer, circuit solicitor, and legislator, was born February 9, 1863, in Darlington, S. C.; son of John and Sarah E. (Pickens) McQueen, the former a native of Robeson County, N. C., who emigrated to Bennettsville, Marlboro District, S. C., where he read law and practiced that profession, conducting planting interests, was a member of the U. S. congress for fourteen years, and for four years a member of the congress of the Confederate States of America; grandson of James McQueen and wife, a Miss McRae, the former a native of Scotland, who early in life emigrated to America, settling in Robeson County, N. C., where he became an extensive planter; and of Col. Joseph Pickens, and wife, a Miss Calhoun, of Eutaw; great-great nephew of Flora McDonald, who saved the life of Charles the Pretender, and a lineal descendant of Robert Bruce; great-great-grandson of Gen. Andrew Pickens of South Carolina, a Revolutionary officer of great distinction. Mr. McQueen received his preparatory education in the common schools of Eutaw, and attended the law department of the University of Alabama, 1882-83, graduating with honors. He located in Jasper and was elected solicitor of Walker County, holding that office for a year and a half. Later he practiced in partnership with Col. G. W. Hewitt, at Jasper, but in 1890 removed to Birmingham and formed a partnership with Col. J. J. Altman; was elected to represent Jefferson County in the legislature, 1892, and was re-elected 1894-95, and 1897-98; made assistant prosecuting attorney for Jefferson County, 1898, filling that place for three years, resigning to resume the practice; and was elected solicitor of the tenth judicial circuit, 1904. He is a Mason. Married: in Montgomery, to Caroline Beale. Children: 1. Jesse Beale. Residence: Birmingham.

McQUEEN, JOSEPH P., lawyer, planter, was born June 22, 1854, in Greene County, and died January 20, 1904; son of John and Sarah E. (Pickens) McQueen, and brother of John McQueen (q. v.). He received his early education in the common schools of North and South Carolina and after the death of his father removed, with his mother, to Eutaw, where he read law under Chancellor James B. Clark. He was admitted to the bar in 1875 and began practice in Eutaw. He was elected to the legislature of Alabama, for the sessions of 1884-1885; was for six years chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Greene County, and for some years a member of the State executive committee of his party. Married: December, 1875, to Roberta, daughter of Robert and Anna (Parker) Kirksey of Marengo County. Children: 1. Anna; 2. John; 3. Joseph P., Jr.; 4. Robert. Residence: Eutaw.

McQUEEN, PETER, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

McQUEEN, STEWART, Episcopal clergyman, was born October 15, 1857, at "Scotch Glen," Suwanee County, Fla.; son of James Archibald and Virginia (Douglass) McQueen; grandson of Archibald and Eliza Frances (Moore) Douglass, of Lowndesboro. This branch of the McQueen family came to America from Scotland in 1740 and settled in Robeson County, N. C. Rev. Mr. McQueen attended the community school of Lowndesboro, and graduated from the academic department of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., in 1878, and from the theological department in 1881. He was made deacon that year and priest the year following, and was rector of the Episcopal church at Decatur, 1881-83; Marion, 1883-87; Georgetown, S. C., 1887-92; Durham, N. C., 1892-94; Goldsboro, N. C., 1894-97; Church of the Holy Comforter, Montgomery, since 1897. He was president of the standing committee of the diocese of Alabama, 1903-1916; deputy to four general conventions; manager and editor of "The Church Record," the official organ of the diocese. He is a Mason; Knight Templar; and a member of the Thirteen club. Married: November 1, 1883, at "The Forrest," near Natchez, Miss., to Virginia, daughter of Richard Field and Mary (Williams) Dunbar, of that place. Children: 1. Douglass, Birmingham; 2. Mary. Residence: Montgomery.

McRAE, COLIN JOHN, Confederate financial agent, was born October 22, 1812, at Sneedboro, N. C., and died February, 1877, in Belize, British Honduras; son of John and Elizabeth Mary McRae, natives respectively, of Sneedboro and Anson County, N. C., and residents later of Winchester and Pascagoula, Miss., and of Mobile. He received a careful preparatory education at the hands of tutors and later attended the Catholic college, Biloxi, Miss. He was a cotton commission merchant at Mobile; general of militia and member Mississippi legislature in 1838; elected delegate to the provisional congress of the Southern States and upon the termination of this service was commissioned financial agent of the Confederate government and sent to Europe by President Davis in the performance of his difficult duties. After the close of the War of Secession he emigrated to Spanish Honduras, where, in partnership with the brother of Hon. J. P. Benjamin, he entered the mercantile business. He was a Democrat, and a Presbyterian. Last residence: Belize, British Honduras.

MCREE, HUGH CLARK, physician, was born November 2, 1875, at Soddy, Hamilton County, Tenn.; son of Robert Clark and Mary Ann (Anderson) McRee, the former a native of Soddy, who lived at that place sixty-five years, was a captain in the C. S. Army, studied law after the war, practiced law in Chattanooga, Tenn., was elected probate judge of Hamilton County, 1880-1888, was appointed member of the staff of Gov. Buchanan in 1890, resided in New Mexico for eight years, and returned to Soddy, Tenn.; grandson of Robert Clark and Jane (Brooks) McRee, of Soddy, Tenn., and of Josiah McEntyre and Nancy (Lamb) Anderson, who lived at Delphi, Sequachie County, Tenn.; great-grandson of William and Jane (Craighead) McRee, who came to America, the former from north Scotland and the latter from north Ireland, and settled in Mecklenburg County, N. C. He attended the public schools at Soddy, Tenn., and was graduated from the University of Nashville, M. D., 1898. He began the practice of medicine at Whitwell, Marion County, Tenn., and remained at that place four years, then moved to Hartselle, where he continued his profession. He is now located at Decatur. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: January 31, 1899, at Whitwell, Tenn., to May Amanda, daughter of Samuel La Fayette and Margaret Lucy (Williamson) Pryor, of that place; granddaughter of William and Amanda (Prigmore) Pryor, the former a captain in the U. S. Army, and of R. Miziel and Eliza (Talliaferro) Williamson, who lived at Turmell Hill, Ga. Children: 1. Hugh Clark, jr., d. in infancy at Whitwell, Tenn.; 2. Gladys, d. in infancy, at Whitwell, Tenn.; 3. William Milton, b. September 14, 1903; 4. Robert Pryor, b. June 17, 1905. Residence: Decatur.

MCSPADDEN, SAMUEL KING, lawyer, chancellor, was born November 12, 1823, in Warren County, Tenn., and died May 3, 1896, at Center; son of Rev. Samuel and Rebecca (Donaldson) McSpadden, natives, respectively, of Virginia and North Carolina, the former one of the founders and early ministers in the Cumberland Presbyterian church. His educational advantages were limited, and when he was sixteen years old he was apprenticed to a saddler. He worked at that business until in January, 1842, when he came to Alabama. He worked in Lebanon, Portersville, Mackey's tan-yard, and in Talladega, 1842-1850, and in the meantime, having read law under Hon. Samuel F. Rice, was admitted to the bar, 1848. He began the practice of law in Center, in partnership with George S. Walden, 1850; was elected a brigadier general of militia, in 1856; was elected to the State senate, defeating Col. Clifton, 1857; and was re-elected in 1860, over A. L. Woodlief. While he was a member of the senate, he enlisted in the C. S. Army as a private, and was appointed major of the Nineteenth Alabama regiment at its organization. In 1862, on the return of the army from Kentucky, he was promoted to lieutenant colonel, and at Tullahoma, was promoted to colonel. He commanded the Nineteenth at Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Dalton, and Resaca, and in the latter battle was captured, May, 1864, and taken to Johnson's Island, where he was detained until March, 1865. In 1865, he was elected chancellor of the northern division, and held that office until displaced by congress under the reconstruction measures. He retired to his law practice in Center, until again made chancellor in 1885. He was elected to the State senate in 1882, and resigned from that body in order to accept the chancellorship. In November, 1886, when the term which he had been appointed to fill had expired, he was regularly elected chancellor for the ensuing term of six years. He was a Presbyterian and a Mason. Married: June 14, 1854, at Center, to Charlotte Ann, daughter of Gen. John H. Garrett. Children: 1. Lulu, m. H. W. Cardon of Center. Last residence: Center.

MCWEAN, COLIN, major, 39th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

MCTYER, JOHN FULMORE, farmer and legislator, was born February 5, 1849, in Marlboro County, S. C.; son of Robert Adair and Caroline H. (Fulmore) McTyer, the former a native of South Carolina who removed to Eufaula; grandson of Andrew and Agnes Fulmore, of Robeson County, N. C. He was educated in the common schools of Eufaula and at the Bingham school in North Carolina, but was not graduated. In 1864 he enlisted in Kolb's battery, C. S. Army, and served a few months before the close of the war. Since 1873 he has been a farmer in Barbour County. In 1902 he was elected to the legislature from Barbour County. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in 1876, to Eva, daughter of Judge B. B. Fields; (2) November 19, 1890, to Lizzie Clyde, daughter of Amos and Caroline Thompson, of Columbia, Henry County. Children: by first wife, 1. Carrie; 2. Fields; 3. Fulmore; by second wife, 4. Stella. Residence: Eufaula.

MCTYERIE, HOLLAND NIMMONS, Methodist bishop, was born July 28, 1824, in Barnwell District, S. C., and died at Nashville, Tenn., February 15, 1887; son of John and Elizabeth Amanda (Nimmons) McTyerie, the former of Scotch descent, the latter of Irish, residents of Edgefield County and Barnwell District, S. C., respectively, who removed from the latter place to Alabama in 1838; grandson of Andrew and Jemima (Montgomery) Nimmons, the former a native of Ireland who emigrated to America and settled in Barnwell District, S. C., where he married about 1800. Bishop McTyerie received his early education at Cokesbury and Collinswood schools; graduated from Randolph-Macon college, Va., 1844; and received the honorary degree of D. D. from Emory college, Ga., 1858; joined the Virginia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, 1845; appointed to serve at Williamsburg, and the next year, 1846, he was transferred to Alabama; pastor St. Francis Street church, Mobile, 1846; Demopolis, 1847; Columbus, Miss., 1848; New Orleans, La., 1848-58; editor of the New Orleans "Christian Advocate," 1858. In 1861, at the beginning of the War of Secession, he was returned to the Montgomery conference and served as pastor of the Court Street Methodist church, until 1866, when he was elected a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. By the terms of the first gift of endowment of Cornelius Vanderbilt, he was made first president of Vanderbilt university. Author: "The duties of Christian masters," 1851; "A catechism on church government," 1869; "A catechism on Bible history," 1869; "A manual of discipline," 1870; and a "History of Methodism," 1887. Married: November 8, 1847, in Mobile, to Amelia Townsend. Children: 1. Mary Gayle, m. Joseph D. Hamilton, Nashville, Tenn.; 2. John Townsend, died 1901, unmarried, Nashville; 3. Walter Montgomery, died 1911, unmarried, Nashville; 4. Amelia, m. Rev. John J. Tigert, who was later a Methodist bishop; 5. Holland Nimmons, m. Mrs. Kate M. Brown; 6. Emma Jane, m. Professor William M. Baskerville, teacher and author, Vanderbilt university. Last residence: Nashville, Tenn.

McVAY, HUGH, planter, governor of Alabama, was born in 1788, in South Carolina, and died in 1851, in Lauderdale County. His father was a soldier in the Revolutionary Army, and a farmer. Mr. McVay was a brother of Hon. Zadoc McVay, of Lawrence County. He received a limited education, and in 1807 came to Alabama and first settled as a planter in Madison County. He represented Madison County in the territorial legislature of Mississippi, 1811-1818, and on the formation of Alabama territory, moved to Lauderdale County, 1818, representing that county in the convention at Huntsville, which framed the State constitution, 1819. He was elected to the lower house of the State legislature, serving from 1820 to 1825; and was elected to the State senate in 1825, and served by successive elections until 1844. He was elected president of the senate in 1836, defeating Samuel B. Moore, by one vote, and in June, 1837, when Gov. Clay resigned to become a U. S. senator, discharged the duties of executive, by virtue of his office as president of the senate, until relieved of its duties by the inauguration of Gov. Bagby, in December. He was a Democrat; an extensive planter; and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Married: Miss Hawks, of South Carolina. One of his sons lived near Florence. Last residence: Lauderdale County.

McVOY, EDGAR CORNELIUS, Methodist minister, was born September 10, 1872, at Summerfield, Dallas County; son of Alexander Diego and Anna Cannon (DuBose) McVoy, the former a native of New Jersey, who lived at Auburn, Talladega, Mobile and Selma, was president of the Centenary female college, Summerfield, 1872-1880, of the Aberdeen female college, Aberdeen, Miss., 1880-1883, of the East Mississippi female college, Meridian, Miss., 1883-1888, of the Mansfield female college, Mansfield, La., 1888-1890, taught in the Synodical institute, Talladega, 1869, in Peabody institute, Auburn, 1870-1872, was chaplain of Fortieth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, during entire war, and died April 11, 1903, at San Antonio, Tex.; grandson of Diego and Hannah (Nicoll) McVoy, the former a practicing physician of Mobile, and of Samuel L. and Mary Ann (Cannon) DuBose, who lived at Darlington, S. C. On the DuBose side, he was descended from Huguenots, and some of his ancestors came over on the Mayflower. His great-grandfather McVoy helped lay out the city of Mobile. He attended schools taught by his father at Summerdale, Meridian, Miss., and Aberdeen, Miss., and was graduated from Southern university, A. B., 1891. He received the degree of D. D. from that university in June, 1908. Rev. McVoy was licensed to preach at Greensboro, November, 1889; was admitted on trial at the north Texas conference, Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Terrell, Tex., November, 1890; preached first at Oak Lawn, near Dallas, Tex., 1890-1892; pastor, St. Jo. Tex., 1893-1894; at Alvord, Tex., 1894-1895; Jonesboro, Tenn., 1896; Denver, Colo., 1896; Albany, Mo., 1896-1899; Chillicothe, Mo., 1899-1903; Hannibal, Mo., 1903-1904; Troost Avenue church, Kansas City, Mo., 1904-1908; Scruggs Memorial church, St. Louis, Mo., 1908-1909; Cabanne church, St. Louis, Mo., 1909-1910; Oklahoma City, Okla., 1910-1911; Highlands church, Birmingham, 1911. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: December 2, 1908, at Neosho, Mo., to Ruth, daughter of Cassius McLain and Sarah Frances (Kinnear) Shartel, who lived at Sedan, Kas. Children: 1. Cassius, b. September 2, 1909, at Neosho, Mo.; 2. Arthur DuBose, b. June 14, 1911, at Oklahoma City, Okla. Residence: Birmingham.

McWHORTER, ELIPHALET A., major, 6th Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

McWHORTER, GEORGE TILGHMAN, physician, was born April 11, 1849, at Riverton, Colbert County; son of George Washington and Elvira Caroline (Tucker) McWhorter, the former a native of Huntsville, a merchant and bookkeeper, who lived at Tuscumbia, at Eastport, Miss., and at Riverton, served as first lieutenant in the Tuscumbia Rifles, under Capt. Thomas Cook, in the Seminole War, 1836; grandson of Hansell McWhorter, one of the early emigrants of Madison County, who later moved to Lawrence County, and of John and Eve Tucker, of Bexar; great-grandson of John McWhorter, who served in the Revolutionary War as a member of Capt. Henderson's company, North Carolina riflemen, and was wounded at Guilford Court House in 1783, whose father came to America from Scotland. The Tucker ancestors came from York County, England, and settled in Virginia, and descendants of that family moved to North Carolina and later to Alabama. He was educated in the common schools and in Caledonia high school, Mississippi; attended Louisville medical college, 1872 and 1873; began to practice medicine in Colbert County, 1873; served as a representative from Colbert County in the State legislature, 1884-1886; and as State senator from the thirty-first senatorial district, 1906-1910; was twice president of the Colbert County medical society; counsellor of the Medical association of Alabama; president of the Medical association of Alabama, 1906-1907; member of the American medical association; temporary superintendent of the Alabama sanatorium for tuberculosis and consumption; headed the Alabama delegation to the international congress on tuberculosis, Washington, D. C., September-October, 1908; president of the Colbert County branch of the Southern cotton association. Dr. McWhorter has published many monographs on different diseases. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: April 2, 1882, to Mary Susan, daughter of Kibble and Mary Anne (Marchbanks) Terry, of Riverton, the former a sergeant in the Florida Seminole War, 1836; granddaughter of Elijah and Adaline (Bankhead) Marchbanks, the former who was sheriff of Fayette County at one time, and a State senator. Children: 1. Mary E., m. John W. Newbern; 2. Roger Barton; 3. George Tilghman, jr.; 4. Zella Abagail; 5. Susan Duke. Residence: Riverton.

MCWHORTER, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Lawrence County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on December 20, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MABERRY, GEORGE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, resided in Bibb County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MABRY, ALBERT GALLATIN, physician, was born September 7, 1810, near Jerusalem, now Courtland, Southampton County, Va., and died February 23, 1874, in Selma; son of Richard and Polly Braxton (Mabry) Mabry, distant relatives, the former a farmer in Southampton County, who died when his son was a child; grandson of Nathaniel Mabry, who died in Greensville County, Va., and left a will which is on record in that county providing that as each of his slaves attained the age of twenty-five years, they were to be free and at their liberty, and setting aside tracts of lands for homes for some of them; uncle of Robert Mabry, first lieutenant in Capt. James Massie's company of the Fifteenth Virginia regiment, which marched to Dumfries, Va., 1777, then to Philadelphia, and on to New Jersey where it joined Gen. Washington's Army, who was commissioned captain lieutenant in 1779, served as sheriff of Southampton County, Va., in 1799, and was one of the gentleman justices of the county, 1802-1806. His ancestors were of English origin, and were among the early settlers of Surry, Brunswick, Greensville and Southampton Counties, Va., and were slave owners and land owners. Dr. Mabry left the home farm when he was sixteen years old, and went to Jerusalem to engage in business. He studied medicine under Dr. William Sharp, and in March, 1837, was graduated at the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, M.D. He practiced medicine for a year or two at Jerusalem, then moved to Whitesville, Harris County, Ga., where his half sister, Mrs. James Lundy, and his brother, Robert B. Mabry, lived. He practiced there for several years, and early in the year 1843, moved to Selma, where he entered a partnership with Dr. Drewry Fair, which lasted for many years, until Dr. Fair left Selma. He became associated with Dr. James Kent in 1855, and because of his failing health, gradually turned his practice over to Dr. Kent, until in 1857, he retired from the active practice of his profession. After the surrender of the C. S. Army, Dr. Mabry resumed the practice of medicine and was so engaged at the time of his death. He was a member of the State legislature from Dallas County, 1857-1858, 1859-1860, 1861, 1862, and 1866-1867.

Soon after he came to the state, Dr. Mabry interested himself in the establishment of the Alabama insane asylum, and because of his marked interest in the subject, was instructed by the Selma medical association in 1847, to make the proper investigation respecting the fitness of the old state house at Tuscaloosa, for a lunatic asylum, and the probable amount it would cost to fit it up for that purpose. That was the beginning of the movement which resulted in the establishment of the Alabama insane hospital, and after the completion, Dr. Mabry was among the first seven trustees appointed by the governor, and, excepting for a brief intermission, held that office until the day of his death. He was one of the prime movers in the organization of the Alabama State medical association, in 1847, served as vice-president that year, presided at the Wetumpka session of 1849, and at the Selma session of 1852; was active in the reorganization of the association after the war, and was president at the sessions of 1868 and 1869. He also held offices in the Selma medical society. He is author of "Report on the diseases of Selma and vicinity," 1852; "The Medical Profession," 1859; "Miasmatic fever," 1869; "Observations on the medical properties of the sulphate of quinine," 1870; "A case of hemorrhagic malarial fever," 1872; all of which were contributed to the proceedings of the State medical association. At one time he was vice-president of the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad, and was a director in the Salem and Meridian railroad. He was a Democrat, and an Episcopalian. Married: July 2, 1845, to Mrs. Martha (Riggs) Tartt, widow of Thomas E. Tartt, of the firm of Tartt, Stewart and company of Mobile, and sister of Daniel M. Riggs and Joel Riggs. Mrs. Mabry was born in Surry County, N. C., and died August 25, 1898, in Selma. By her marriage with Mr. Tartt, she had one child, Gertrude T., who married Catesby ap Roger Jones (q. v.). Children: 1. Albert Gallatin, lawyer, d. in December, 1873, Selma; 2. Daniel Riggs, d. in infancy; 3. William Spark, civil engineer, Selma; 4. John Winston (q. v.). 5. Virginia, Selma; 6. Richard Henry, president of the Mabry securities company, Selma. Last residence: Selma.

MABRY, JOHN WINSTON, lawyer, judge of Selma city court, was born in Selma, Dallas County; son of Albert Gallatin and Martha (Riggs) Mabry (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of the state and at the Virginia military institute. He studied law, was admitted to the bar, and was elected judge of the city court of Selma. He is a Democrat, and Episcopalian. Married: December 19, 1895, to Eunice L. White, of Selma. Children: 1. John Winston, jr. Residence: Selma.

MABRY, MILTON HARVEY, judge, a native of Alabama, was born June 17, 1851, in Pickens County; son of Jesse Hughes and Sarah Caroline (Prude) Mabry, the former of Alabama and Mississippi, the latter of Alabama. He received his early education in the public schools of Verona, Miss.; attended the University of Mississippi, and received the degree of LL. B. from the law school at Lebanon, Tenn., 1872. He began the practice of his profession at Tupelo, Miss., the year of his graduation. In 1879, on account of ill health, he removed to Leesburg, Fla., where he continued to practice law; was a member of the Florida house of representatives, 1883-84; lieutenant governor, 1884-88; justice of the supreme court of Florida, 1891-1903, and is now clerk of the supreme court. Married: (1) in December, 1876, to Ella D., daughter of John W. Bramlett, an extensive farmer near Verona, Miss., who d. Jan., 1903; and, (2) November 15, 1906, to Irene Washburn, of Louisville, Ky. Residence: Tallahassee, Fla.

MACDONALD, ANGUS R., deceased teacher in Montgomery.

MACDONALD, ROWALEYN GORDON CUMMING, lawyer and member constitutional convention, was born October 16, 1853, at Mt. Meigs, Montgomery County, and died there in 1906; son of Dr. Alfred and Olivia (Cooper) MacDonald, natives of South Carolina and Pennsylvania, respectively, the former of whom was educated in Philadelphia, Pa., located in Alabama in 1840, and in 1855 was killed by one of his slaves, who in turn was burned at the stake by the infuriated neighbors; grandson of Thomas and Mary (Fairley) Cooper, the former a native of near Liverpool, England, who came to America in 1802, settled in New York City and married a daughter of Major James Fairley and wife, a Miss Van Ness, the former of whom was on the staff of Baron Steuben during the Revolutionary War, the latter a daughter of Judge William W. Van Ness, of the supreme court of New York, in early days, and his wife, who was a Miss Yeates, daughter of Hon. Joseph Yeates, also supreme justice of New York. The great-grandfather, Alfred MacDonald, was one of the few survivors of the celebrated massacre at Glencoe and came to the United States about 1745. Gordon MacDonald received his early education at home under the instruction of private teachers. He began the study of law at the age of eighteen in the office of Fitzpatrick, Williamson and Goldthwaite, in Montgomery, and was admitted to the bar April, 1874. For three years he practiced in the capital city, but in 1887 removed to Anniston where he formed a partnership with Howard Williams. Later he returned to Montgomery and was county delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901. He was an Episcopalian and a Democrat. Married: April 27, 1882, at Richmond, Va., to Isabel Gordon, daughter of Capt. G. A. Cary. Children: 1. Olivia. Last residence: Montgomery.

MACFARLAND, ROBERT, president of the board of directors of the State normal college, Florence; major, Lauderdal volunteers, C. S. Army. Deceased. Residence: Florence.

MACINTYRE, ARCHIBALD CROSSLAND, called "Charles," artist, was born August 31, 1832, in Wayne County, Ga., and died November, 1890, in Selma; son of Dr. Peter and Ann (Seale) MacIntyre (q. v.). He was entirely educated by his father. Upon his graduation he chose photographic chemistry as his pursuit, removed to Montgomery, where he opened a "Daguerrean Gallery" for making pictures. He later developed the art of making photographs upon large canvases and then painting the same, producing an oil portrait. When the Confederate government was established he photographed the inauguration of President Jefferson Davis, the first out-door photography ever attempted in the South. This picture is the one so widely used. He acquired an immense fortune, which he gave over to the use of the Confederate cause. He discovered and developed the artistic genius of E. C. Billing, "the foremost portrait painter of America," who died in Boston, about 1900. He was a Democrat, Secessionist; and a Methodist. Married: October, 1864, in Grenada, Miss., to Mattie Goode, widow of James Montgomery, and daughter of Judge Goode and wife, who, was a Miss Douglass, of Montgomery. No children. Last residence: Selma.

MACINTYRE, EDWARD LEGARE, lawyer and State senator, was born September, 1829, in Bennettsville, S. C., and died December 31, 1869, near Troy; son of Dr. Peter and Ann (Seale) MacIntyre (q. v.). He was educated by his father, a noted teacher of South Carolina and Georgia; studied law and graduated from the law school of Augusta, Ga. In 1847 he removed to Cross Keys to teach school in order to acquire means for taking his law course. He located in Troy and was associated at that bar with such men as Gen. Henry Clayton, Senator Pugh, Morgan Seale, Benjamin Gardner, Elmore Fitzpatrick, Bird Fitzpatrick and William E. Parks. He represented Pike County in the legislature as senator in the sixties. In 1862 he raised a company in Pike County and joined Hilliard's Legion, C. S. Army, was made judge-advocate of the Legion and served with Gen. Kirby-Smith in the Kentucky campaign. In 1864 he was recalled to his legislative duties for the State. At the close of the war he resumed the practice of law. He was a Whig and a Union man, but went with Alabama in 1861 and fought for her defense. Unmarried. Last residence: Troy.

MACINTYRE, PETER II, teacher and physician, was born May 7, 1801, in Laurinburg, N. C., and died February, 1854, in Montgomery; son of Peter I. and Margaret (MacIntyre) MacIntyre, the former died about 1777, and both of Laurinburg; grandson of John MacIntyre and wife who was a Miss McLaren, the former a Revolutionary soldier, on whose farm "The battle of MacIntyre Farm," near Charlotte, N. C., was fought by the North Carolina farmers and Cornwallis's foragers. Dr. MacIntyre was educated in the schools of his day, fitted for college, and graduated with high honors in Latin and Greek. At the age of twenty-two he engaged in teaching at Bennettsville, S. C., and later was the instructor who fitted the noted Dr. Thornwell for college. About 1830 he removed to Georgia, teaching in Wayne County, Fort Valley, and finally accepting the deanship of the Southern botanical college, Macon, Ga., where he served until 1849, when he removed to Montgomery. Having prepared himself to practice medicine, according to the homeopathic school, he associated himself with Dr. Ames and practiced until his sudden death in 1854. One of his medical students was the late Dr. John Hazard Henry. He was a Whig; a Royal Arch Mason; reared a Presbyterian, but joined the Methodists. He is buried on "The Masonic Square" in Old Oakwood, Montgomery. Married: about 1823, in Bennettsville, S. C., to Ann, daughter of Rev. William and Temperance (Crossland) Seale; granddaughter of Edward Stuart Crossland, Revolutionary soldier and founder of Bennettsville, S. C. Children: 1. Edward Legare (q. v.); 2. Archibald Crossland (q. v.) ("Charles"), m. Mattie Goode, Montgomery; 3. Hannah Page, m. Wiley P. M. Cozart, of Atlanta, Ga.; 4. James Hamilton, m. Mattie Mastin, children: 1. Annie Lou, m. Dana Taylor I (q. v.); 2. Peter M., m. (1) Jan Na Brown of Georgia, (2) Kitty Brown; 5. Annie Catherine, m. Francis M. Pennington of Troy. Last residence: Montgomery.

MACKENZIE, STUART, lawyer. Residence: Montgomery.

MACKINTOSH, ROGER SHERMAN, horticulturist, was born February 18, 1872, at Lincoln, Middlesex County, Mass.; son of William and Elizabeth Jane (Tuttle) Mackintosh, the former a native of Ponkapog, Mass., who lived at Lincoln, Mass., and at Cottage Grove, Minn.; grandson of Gideon and Nancy (Sherman)

Mackintosh, of Massachusetts, and of David and Patty (Smith) Tuttle, of Lexington, Mass.; great-grandson of John Sherman, and of Gideon Mackintosh; great-great-grandson of Roger Sherman, of Connecticut, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and of Col. William Mackintosh, of the Revolutionary War. He received his early schooling in Lincoln, Mass., and Langdon, Minn.; was graduated from the Minnesota school of agriculture, St. Anthony Park, Minn., in 1900; from the college of agriculture, University of Minnesota, B. Agr., 1902; and attended sessions of the graduate school of agriculture at the University of Illinois in 1906, and at Cornell university in 1908. He served as assistant in horticulture, at the experiment station, University of Minnesota, 1897-1903; and has been professor of horticulture, at the Alabama polytechnic institute, and State horticulturist, since 1903. He is a Republican; a Unitarian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. He has been secretary of the Alabama State horticultural society since its organization in 1903. Married: September 18, 1901, at Cottage Grove, Minn., to Laura Belle, daughter of Edward Wright, of Denmark, Minn. Children: 1. Orlesta May. Residence: Auburn.

MADISON, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Greene County; corporal 39th Regular U. S. Infantry; enrolled on September 16, 1816; payment to date from July 9, 1814; annual allowance, $96; sums received, $927.16; transferred from Lincoln County, Tennessee, from March 4, 1825; under act of March 3, 1819, to date from March 4, 1824, rate reduced to annual allowance of $64, under which the sum of $640 received to date of publication of list.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MADISON, PEYTON, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, a resident of Greene County; private 39th Regular U. S. Infantry; enrolled on September 16, 1816; payment to date from July 9, 1814; annual allowance, $48; sums received, $1,023.15; transferred from Bedford County, Tenn., from March 4, 1825; under act of March 3, 1819, to date from March 4, 1825, rate reduced to annual allowance of $24, under which the sum of $34.60 received, and April 12, 1826, old rate of $48 annual allowance restored, under which the sum of $363.18 received to date of publication of list.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MAFFITT, JOHN NEWLAND, Methodist minister, was born December 28, 1794, in Dublin, Ireland, and died May 28, 1850, near Mobile. His father died in 1806, and the son was educated in an academy in Dublin, and afterward settled in business there as a merchant tailor. He joined the Methodist church in 1813, in spite of the opposition of his mother and wife, and began praying and exhorting in public, soon showing power as an evangelist. He finally gave himself over wholly to the work of the church, and came to New York in 1819. He became an itinerant preacher in the New England conference, 1822, and was sent as a missionary to Boston, Mass. He was stationed successively at Fairhaven, New Bedford, and Barnstable, Mass., 1823-1824; Dover and Somersworth, N. H., 1828-1829; and Boston, Mass., 1830; became a local preacher in New York City, 1832; was associated with the Rev. Lewis Garrett in publishing the "Western Methodist," later known as the "Christian Advocate," at Nashville, Tenn., 1835; and continued his preaching in the south and southwest. He was agent for the LaGrange college, 1836-1837, and later served as professor of elocution and belles lettres; was chaplain to the U. S. house of representatives, 1841-1843; travelled in the Atlantic states preaching, 1843-1845; edited the "Cavalry Token," Auburn, N. Y., 1845-1856; went to Kansas and joined the Methodist Episcopal church, South, receiving a second license to preach. He is author of "Tears of Contrition," 1821; "Pulpit Sketches," 1828; "Poems," 1839; an "Oratorical Dictionary"; and an "Autobiography." Married: (1) in Ireland, name unknown; (2) in 1847, to Frances Smith, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Among his children was John Newland Maffitt, naval officer, b. February 22, 1819, at sea, d. May 15, 1886, at Wilmington, Del., joined the U. S. Navy in 1832, was made a lieutenant in 1848, retired in 1855, became a commodore in the C. S. Navy in 1861, was sent with a cargo to England and brought back the Oreto, afterward called the Florida, as commander of that vessel captured about fifty-five prizes and seriously damaged the commerce of the United States, resigned before the close of the war as a result of injury to his health from yellow fever, and spent the remainder of his life in retirement. Last residence: near Mobile.

JOHN B. GASTON

MAGBY, VARDRY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 102, resided in Walker County, June 1, 1840, with Robert Mabgly (sic).—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 150.

MAGOFFIN, JAMES, pioneer settler and legislator, was educated in Philadelphia and removed to St. Stephens in 1809. He represented Washington County in the Mississippi Territory legislature, and established a store near Grove Hill about 1815, remaining there until 1830, or later, when he removed to St. Stephens. He represented Clarke County in the constitutional convention of 1819, and in the legislature of 1821. After his return to St. Stephens he was appointed register of the United States land office and held that position for over thirty years. He also was interested in the nursery business in Clarke County and St. Stephens. He was unmarried. Last residence: St. Stephens.

MAHAN, JESSE, member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the twenty-sixth election district, 1867, Bibb County.

MAHARG, ARCHIBALD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of St. Clair County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on July 24, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $35; sums received to date of publication of list, $105.—

Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MAHORNER, MATTHIAS, lawyer, was born September 13, 1874, near Macon, Miss.; son of Matthias and Mary (Teague) Mahorner, the former a native of Baltimore, Md., who was brought to Macon, Miss., by his parents when less than two years old, and lived there for fifteen years, enlisted in the C. S. Army, joining the Gulf City guards, Third Alabama regiment, served until the close of the war, and became a planter in Mississippi; grandson of Matthias and Sarah Ann (Davis) Mahorner who lived at Macon, Miss., and gave five sons to the Confederate cause, three of whom died from wounds while in prison, the former a native of King George County, Va., who began a seafaring life when fourteen years of age, and lived at Macon, Miss., 1839-1868, and of Addison M. and Amanda F. Teague, of Edgefield, S. C.; great-grandson of William Davis, of Baltimore, a soldier in the War of 1812, who took part in the battle of North Point. Mr. Mahorner was reared on the Mahorner plantation, near Macon, Miss., attended the private seminary of Prof. Jesse Buck, and was graduated with first honors from Spring Hill college, B. A., 1894, and from the law department of Harvard university, LL. B., 1897. He was admitted to the bar at Mobile, December, 1897; became senior member of the law firm of Mahorner & Glennon, 1898, and junior member of the firm of Gaillard & Mahorner, June, 1902. He is a Democrat, a Catholic, and has served as chancellor of the Knights of Columbus. Married: June 1, 1898, to Katherine V. Glennon, daughter of James K. and Florence (Barlow) Glennon, of Mobile. Children: 1. Matthias Glennon, b. August 24, 1899, d. June 6, 1903; 2. Matthias Mahorner, IV, b. June 5, 1901; 3. Howard Raymond, b. February 11, 1903. Residence: Mobile.

MAINYARD, COLEY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Limestone County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on January 26, 1830, under the act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from January 2, 1830; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $352.51.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MAJORS, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Dallas County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on August 28, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MALATCHIE, MALACHEE or MALACHI, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

MALLERY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant Virginia State Troops; enrolled on February 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MALLET, JOHN WILLIAM, chemist, was born October 10, 1832, in Dublin, Ireland, and died November 6, 1912; son of Robert and Cordelia (Watson) Mallet, the former a civil engineer and a fellow of the Royal Society of London. He was graduated at Trinity college, Dublin, A. B., 1853; and from the University of Gottingen, Ph. D., 1852; came to the United States in 1853; served as assistant professor of analytical chemistry, Amherst college, Mass., 1854; chemist to the geological survey of Alabama, 1855-1856; professor of chemistry at the University of Alabama, 1855-1860; officer on the staff of Gen. R. E. Rhodes, C. S. Army, 1861; transferred to the artillery in 1862, and placed in general charge of ordnance laboratories of C. S. A.; paroled as lieutenant colonel of artillery, 1865; professor of chemistry in the medical department of the University of Louisiana, 1865-1868; professor of analytical, agricultural, and industrial chemistry, University of Virginia, 1868-1872, and of general and industrial chemistry there, 1872-1883, and 1885-1908; emeritus professor of chemistry, University of Virginia, 1908; lecturer, Johns Hopkins university, 1877-1878; professor of chemistry and physics, and chairman of the faculty, University of Texas, 1883-1884; professor of chemistry, Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, 1884-1885; investigated the chemical methods used for determining organic matters in potable waters and made a study of the water supply of various cities in the United States, comparing both the methods and the waters, for the national board of health, 1880-1882; was a member of the assay commission of the United States three times; was a fellow of the Royal Society of London; president of the American Chemical Society, 1882; vice president of the Chemical Society of London, 1888-1890; fellow of the London Chemical Society; member of the Chemical Society of Paris and of the German Chemical Society; associate fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Boston; corresponding member of the New York Academy of Sciences; member of the American Philosophical Society, and fellow of the College of Physicians, Philadelphia; honorary member of the Medical and Chirurgical faculty of Maryland; member of the Washington Academy of Sciences; fellow of the Medical Society of Virginia; and member of scientific societies in Brazil and New Mexico; was author of various papers in scientific transactions and journals; received the honorary degree of M. D. from the University of Virginia, 1868; and the degree of LL. D. from William and Mary college, 1872; from University of Mississippi, 1872; from Princeton, 1890; from Johns Hopkins, 1902; and from the University of Pennsylvania, 1906. Married: (1) in 1857, to Mary E. Ormond, daughter of Judge John J. Ormond, of Tuscaloosa; (2) in 1888, to Mrs. Josephine Burthe, of New Orleans, La., daughter of Joseph Pages, of Toulouse, France. Last residence: University, Va.

MALLORY, HUGH SHEPPERD DARBY, lawyer, was born February 6, 1848, at "Selwood," his father's plantation in Talladega County, and died in Selma, March 10, 1920; son of James and Ann Maria (Darby) Mallory, the former a native of Madison County, Va., a farmer, who removed to Talladega County, in 1832, near the present town of Alpine; grandson of Uriel and Melinda (Welch) Mallory of Orange County, Va., also a farmer, and of Adam and Catherine (Shepperd) Darby of Rapid Ann, Va., the former a native of Scotland; great-grandson of Nathaniel and Betsy (Terrell) Welch, the former a soldier in the French and Indian Wars, and an officer in a Virginia regiment during the Revolution, great-great-grandson of John Terrell, whose son, Col. Edmund Terrell, fought with distinction in the Revolutionary War. The latter subsequently moved to Kentucky and fought in the Indian Wars. The Mallory family came from England to America in the colonial period; the Welch family from Wales; the Darby and the Shepperd families from Scotland. Mr. Mallory received his preparatory education in the Male high school at Talladega, and entered the University of Alabama, where he was a student in 1865 when the institution was burned by Federal troops. He received the degree of A. B., and in 1866 entered the law department of the University of Virginia, from which he graduated, LL. B., 1868. He entered upon the practice in July, 1869, at Selma, where he has continuously resided. He was mayor of Selma, 1885-87; member of the Selma city board of education; president board of trustees of the Dallas male and female academy; member of the board of trustees Alabama girls technical institute; member board of trustees State normal school for colored students at Montgomery; president Selma bar association; president Alabama Baptist State convention; president Alabama State Sunday school association; trustee Southern Baptist theological seminary; president Alabama State bar association. He was an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1910 against Gov. Emmet O'Neal. In 1911 Howard college conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D. He was a Democrat; a Mason; a Knight of Honor; and Odd Fellow. Married: October 15, 1872, at Summerfield, to Jacqueline Louisa, daughter of Dr. Clement Billingslea and Jacqueline Louisa (King) Moore, of that place, the former a native of Greene County, Ga., whose mother was a Billingslea, the latter descended from the Byrds of North Carolina and Virginia. Children: 1. Hugh, cadet, U. S. naval academy, 1891-92, graduated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1895, and Cumberland university, LL. B., 1897, m. Claude Melvin, resides at Selma in the practice of law with his father; 2. Louise, m. James C. Privett, Selma; 3. Kathleen M. (q. v.); 4. Elizabeth F., m. T. W. Dansby, Vicksburg, Miss.; 5. Irma B., m. Edgar A. Stewart, Selma; 6. James V.; 7. Clement B., d. in infancy. Last residence: Selma.

MALLORY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, resided in Benton County, June 1, 1840, with Henry H. Mallory.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MALLORY, KATHLEEN MOORE, teacher and Baptist missionary secretary, was born Jan. 24, 1879, at Summerfield, Dallas County; daughter of Hugh Shepperd Darby and Jacqueline Louise (Moore) Mallory (q. v.). She was educated in the public schools of Selma and at the Dallas academy, of which Professor Richard Hardaway was principal. She graduated from Goucher college, Baltimore, Md., in 1902, with the degree of A. B.; taught school in the public schools of Demopolis, 1902-03; secretary Alabama Baptist woman's union, 1901-12; corresponding secretary of the Woman's missionary union of the Southern Baptist convention, 1912-20. Author: "Manual of woman's missionary union methods," 1917; and is one of the editors of "Royal service," the monthly magazine of the Woman's missionary union. Unmarried. Residence: Baltimore.

MALONE, CORNELIUS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Morgan County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $63.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $189.99.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Morgan County, June 1, 1840, aged 81.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MALONE, G. W., member of the legislature from DeKalb County; a prominent Republican and Union man. Deceased. Last residence: Fort Payne.

MALONE, GEORGE HOLCOMBE, banker, member constitutional convention, 1901, was born May 19, 1863, near Brundidge, Pike County; son of George Yewell and Tabitha Eleanor (Wallace) Malone (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools at Brundidge; engaged in merchandising September 1, 1888, and in banking, January 1, 1900. He resided first at Geneva; moved to Dothan in 1891; was a member of the city council of Dothan, 1894, and again in 1896; was president of the board of trustees of the Dothan City schools, 1897, 1898, 1900, and 1901; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901; is a Democrat, having been a delegate to the Kansas City convention, 1900; and is a Missionary Baptist. Married: June 10, 1891, at Columbia, to Florence Roberta Davis. Residence: Dothan.

MALONE, GEORGE YEWELL, merchant and banker, was born July 12, 1830, at LaGrange, Ga., and died April 6, 1906, at Dothan; son of William Pinckney and Kesiah (MacMurphy) Malone, the former a native of South Carolina, born near Spartanburg, who was a merchant at Columbus, Ga., for many years; grandson of Robert and Mary (Davenport) Malone, who lived in South Carolina and moved to Hamilton, Ga., and of John and K. P. (Martyn) MacMurphy, who lived at Sunnyside, S. C., near Augusta, Ga.; great-grandson of Robert Malone, who came from Ireland with two brothers, David and Henry Holcomb Malone, and settled in Virginia. Mr. Malone was half-brother of Henry H. Malone (q. v.). He attended the Wynnton school, Columbus, Ga., and was graduated from Emory college, Oxford, Ga., in 1848 or 1849. Shortly afterwards he went to California through Central America, and remained there four years, living part of that time in the Sandwich Islands. He established himself in business near Brundidge in 1856, and conducted a mercantile house at that place and at Troy for many years; moved to Geneva in 1880, and later to Dothan; at the time of his death was president of the First National Bank at Dothan. He served throughout the War of Secession as captain of Co. F, Fifteenth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, and was twice wounded in the seven days battle around Richmond. He was a Democrat; a Methodist, serving as superintendent of the Sunday school for forty years; and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: in 1856, in Pike County, to Tabitha Eleanor Wallace, daughter of Allen and Eleanor Johnson (Huey) Wallace, the former a school teacher and a native of Scotland, the latter a South Carolinian, from Lancaster District. Children: 1. George H., (q. v.); 2. Willie, m. John J. Morris, Samson; 3. Edgar R., m. (1) Laura Ellsberry, Montgomery, (2) Monte Sebastian of Tennessee, Dothan; 4. Arthur Y., m. Mary L. Leslie, Dothan; 5. May, m. William W. Barnett, Dothan; 6. John W., m. Nettie Mosely, Dothan; 7. Sue, Dothan; 8. Charles G., Cottonwood; 9. Frank H., Dothan. Last residence: Dothan.

MALONE, HENRY H., physician, was born March 29, 1837, in Columbus, Ga.; son of William P. and Rebecca P. (Griggs) Malone, the former who was born in South Carolina, in 1800, moved to Columbus, Ga., in early life, and conducted a mercantile business, and fought in the Creek War; grandson of Robert Malone, a native of South Carolina, of English-Scotch descent, who was descended maternally from one of the old Virginia families which settled in Dinwiddie County, Va., before the Revolution, and of William and Charlotte (Penn) Griggs, natives of Virginia, who were married and lived in Hancock County, Ga., the latter a second cousin of William Penn, founder of Philadelphia; great-grandson of Jesse Griggs, a Virginian of Welsh-Irish descent. Mr. Malone is a half brother of George Yewell Malone, son of William P. Malone by his first wife. He studied medicine and was graduated from the medical department of the University of New York, M. D., 1860; began to practice his profession in Brewton and has spent his life in that place. In 1861, he raised a company for the First Florida infantry, served as captain in the C. S. Army for a year, and resigned at the end of that time because of illness contracted in the service. Upon recovering, he resumed his practice with great success. "During the yellow fever epidemic which raged throughout the southern states in 1883, and which visited Brewton with especial virulence, more than 50 per cent of the cases in the town proving fatal, Dr. Malone did not desert his patients, but labored assiduously, night and day in behalf of the sufferers for a period of six weeks, during which time the plague reached its most violent stage." He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: in July, 1865, Mary A. Snowden, daughter of James and Elizabeth Snowden. Children: 1. Rebecca P.; 2. Eugene; 3. Walter J.; 4. Ella Penn; 5. Jessie; 6. Maud; 7. Ruby. Residence: Brewton.

MALONE, JOHN N., lawyer, was born in 1814, in Sussex County, Va., and died October 3, 1888; son of George and Sallie (Moyler) Malone, natives of Virginia, and of Irish descent, came to Limestone County in 1823, and spent the remainder of their lives there. He was graduated from LaGrange college, A. B., 1839, and A. M., some years later. He studied law with J. W. McClung at Huntsville; was admitted to the bar, 1841; practiced law until 1851, then devoted his attention to planting until 1861. He was elected to the State senate in 1851 from Limestone and Morgan Counties, and served six consecutive years in that body; was a delegate to the National convention at Baltimore in 1852, and supported Pierce and King; supported Douglas for the presidency in 1860 in opposition to secession, but after Alabama seceded, upheld the state. After the war, he resumed the practice of law and planting, and in 1881 was appointed probate judge to fill an unexpired term of five years. He was one of the trustees of the University of Alabama from 1851, until the beginning of the War of Secession and was one of the trustees of the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn at its organization, in 1874. He was a Democrat, a Methodist Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1844, in Lauderdale County, to Mary Lucy Kernachan, who died in 1848; (2) in 1854, in Lauderdale County, to Rebecca Simmons. Children, by first marriage: 1. Robert, planter, Limestone County; by second marriage: 2. Linda M., m. R. S. Chew, Van Buren, Ark.; 3. George, clerk of the circuit court of Limestone County; 4. Anna M., m. Fay Chew, Little Rock, Ark.; 5. Sallie; 6. Henry M., b. September 4, 1868, at Athens, became express agent at Athens, 1888, and has engaged in the coal business since 1893, was elected mayor of Athens, 1893, 1895, and 1902, m. Nannie Kelly, daughter of Joshua O. and Sallie B. (Strong) Kelly, of Madison County, children, Sallie B. and Rebecca Boothe. Last residence: Athens.

MALONE, JULIUS WILLIAM, Baptist minister, was born March 18, 1832, at Penfield, Greene County, Ga.; son of Young Gressom and Mary (Price) Malone, who lived in Greene, Butts and Randolph Counties, Ga., and in Alabama in Henry County; grandson of Ephraim Price, of Greene County, Ga. He was educated in the country schools of Greene, Butts and Randolph Counties, Ga.; served three years in Co. C, Fifty-first Georgia infantry regiment, C. S. Army; entered the Missionary Baptist ministry in 1874; and served a number of churches in southeast Alabama and southwest Georgia. He has also engaged in farming; served as a school trustee of Henry County for ten years; and represented Henry County in the State legislature in 1907. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1857, near Abbeville, to Nancy Ann, daughter of Peter M. and Martha Ann (Sparks) Thomas, of Henry County; (2) to Nancy, daughter of James Richards of Barbour County; (3) to Attie, daughter of William Doswell, of Henry County. Children: 1. Thomas, m. Carrie Barrow; 2. Minnie, m. Marion Craddock; 3. Annie Virginia, m. (1) D. F. Rich, (2) T. J. Howerton; 4. Martha; 5. Cal D., m. Arra Barker; 6. Mary L., m. John W. Helton; 7. Joseph W., m. Veola Hollis; 8. Maggie N., m. James C. Howerton; 9. Ella E., m. John W. Howerton; 10. Alex. Residence: Abbeville.

MALONE, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant S. C. Militia; enrolled on August 12, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $90; sums received to date of publication of list, $225.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Limestone County, June 1, 1840, aged 85.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MANASCO, JOHN, farmer, member constitutional convention 1875, was born March 28, 1800, at Nickajack Cave, Franklin County, Ga., and died November 23, 1895, at Townley; son of John and Vicy (Odum) Manasco, who lived in northwest Georgia, then moved to Duck River Valley, Tenn., where they lived until 1816, moved to Alabama and lived first in Madison County and later in Morgan County, the former a native of Virginia, who served throughout the War of 1812 as one of Jackson's Tennessee riflemen, and took part in the battle of New Orleans, January 8, 1815, the latter of Scotch-Irish descent; grandson of Jeremiah Manasco, a native of Wales, who came to Virginia during colonial times, was a captain in the revolution, and subsequently lived in North and South Carolina and in Alabama, and of Abraham Odum of South Carolina. Gen. Manasco never attended school. His first instructions came from his employer while he was working as a farm hand in Madison County. He became a farmer and in 1836 moved to Walker County. He was elected to the State legislature for the first time in 1845, and for the last time in 1876, serving in all through fourteen sessions of the legislature. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875, and was a close personal friend of Leroy P. Walker. He served for some time as brigadier general of the Alabama state militia; was an ardent states-rights Democrat, yet opposed secession until Alabama left the union, when he supported the state; was a layman in the Primitive Baptist church, and a Master Mason. Married: February 4, 1829, in Limestone County, to Lucinda Lester, whose parents were from Kentucky. Children: 1. Carlton W., married, Smartsville, Calif.; 2. Dr. Jeremiah, killed in battle of Shiloh, unmarried; 3. Rev. David, deceased, married; 4. Sarah, deceased, m. Rev. J. E. Cox, Littleton; 5. James K. Polk, married, Townley; 6. Dr. John, married, Townley. Last residence: Townley.

MANASCO, ORIZABA, physician, was born January 28, 1882, at Townley, and died in 1919, in Townley; son of John and Sarah J. (Grace)

Monasco, the former a native and resident of Townley, who was a practicing physician; grandson of Gen. John and Lucinda Manasco, the former, who represented Walker County in the legislature thirteen times, was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875, and a political leader of northwest Alabama for over twenty-five years and was a close friend of John T. Morgan and George S. Houston, and of John and Hannah Grace of Pickens County; great-great-grandson of Jere Monasco, a native of Wales, and a Revolutionary soldier, whose son was one of Gen. Andrew Jackson's Tennessee riflemen who won the battle of New Orleans. Dr. Monasco was educated in the public schools of Walker County; Howard College and Birmingham Medical College, graduating in 1905 with an M. D. degree. He began the practice of medicine in Townley in 1905; was alderman of Townley, 1913-1918; was elected to legislature from Walker County in 1918. He was a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; a Mason, Scottish Rite, Knight Templar and Shriner. Married: April 30, 1906, at Townley, to Hodie, daughter of W. R. and Martha Bashell, of Townley, and granddaughter of William R. King. Children: 1. Fred S.; 2. Charles Mayo; 3. Gilmore Kerley; 4. John, Jr.; 5. Sarah. Last residence: Townley.

MANER, OLIN CONNOR, lawyer, was born October 23, 1873, at Allendale, Barnwell County, S. C.; son of Samuel and Emma Jane (Connor) Maner, the former a native of Robertsville who later settled at Allendale; grandson of Maj. John Scott and Catherine (Morgandollar) Maner, the former for thirty years a member of the South Carolina legislature, and an officer of the War of 1812, and of David L. Connor, and wife, who was a Miss Selgler, who lived at Connors, Orangeburg County; great-grandson of William and Jessie (May) Maner, the former a Revolutionary soldier, serving as adjutant of Col. Hardin's Upper Granville County regiment. Mr. Maner was educated in the common schools of his native county and at Wofford college, Spartanburg, S. C., but did not graduate. He was admitted to the bar at Montgomery, June, 1897, by the supreme court, and practiced his profession there. In November, 1902, he was chosen to the legislature and re-elected in 1906. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: December 5, 1900, at Montgomery, to Sallie Nicholson, daughter of A. P. and Ellen (Arrington) Tyson. Children: 1. Pitt Tyson. Residence: Montgomery.

MANGUM, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Pickens County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on March 15, 1833, under act of Congress of June 1, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $60; sums received to date of publication of list, $180.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MANGUM, ROBERT HENRY, lawyer, was born April 21, 1875, at Tuskegee; son of Theophilus Fields and Julia Frances (Perkins)

Mangum (q. v.). He received his preparatory education in the Selma high school, in a private school in Opelika, and the preparatory department of the Southern university at Greensboro; graduated from the Southern university, 1895. He read law in McKinney, Tex., and Montgomery, admitted to the bar in Collier County, Tex., 1896, where he practiced three years; and practiced in Montgomery, 1899 to 1903, when he located in Selma. He was assistant attorney of Collier County, Tex., 1897-98; and deputy solicitor, Dallas County, 1907-1913. He was 2nd sergeant, troop C., Alabama national guard, 1905-08. He edited the "Selma Journal" for six years, and has written and spoken in the interest of educational, industrial and social matters in many sections of the State. During the European War, Mr. Mangum was one of the associates in the office of Richard M. Hobbie, Federal food administrator for Alabama. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; and Elk. Married: June 5, 1919, in Montgomery, to Mrs. Elizabeth Dawson (Halls) McLeod, widow of A. L. McLeod, and daughter of George W. and Susan T. (Nesbit) Halls (q. v.). Residence: Montgomery.

MANGUM, THEOPHILUS FIELDS, Methodist minister, was born February 11, 1834, in Granville County, N. C., and died March 30, 1904, at Eufaula; son of Josiah Thomas Mangum, a native of Orange or Granville County, N. C., who later lived in Talladega, Lowndesboro, Wetumpka, Marion, Uniontown, Tuskegee, Greenville, Selma, Auburn, Troy, Greensboro, Opelika, and Eufaula, serving in these several charges and districts as a Methodist minister; grandson of Josiah T. Mangum and wife, a Miss Kirkland, natives of North Carolina who removed to Alabama and located at Selma, left an orphan, he went at fourteen years of age to Dale County where he lived in the home of Rev. J. W. Solomon's father, working on the farm and at the wagon and carriage making trade, read law, and studied for the ministry. Rev. Theophilus Fields Mangum was self educated except for two terms at the Summerfield institute, 1859-60; entered the Alabama conference Methodist Episcopal church, South, in 1866, and remained an itinerant preacher in that denomination until his death. He served as chaplain at different points in Alabama, 1861-65. He was a Democrat; trustee Southern university; member publishing committee "Alabama Christian Advocate;" chairman of the committee on itinerancy at two sessions of the general conference; member of numerous church and correctional boards and committees; an Odd Fellow; and Knight of Pythias. Married: at Uniontown, to Julia Frances, daughter of Judge William Columbus and Maria (Thomas) Perkins, of Cuthbert, Ga., the former a descendant of colonial settlers in Georgia, a native of LaGrange, Ga., served one term in congress, was for many years circuit judge, the latter the daughter of Gen. Whitfield Thomas of Cuthbert, Ga., whose ancestors were connected with the early history of that state. Children: 1. Bake, m. Bessie Lamm; 2. Theophilus Fields, jr. (q. v.); 3. William Wightman, m. (1) Mamie McKenzie, (2) Nan (Dent) Long; 4. John Bradfield; 5. Robert Henry (q. v.), m. Bessie (Hails) McLeod, Montgomery; 6. Josiah Thomas, m. Edith Hooper, Charlotte, N. C.; 7. Helen Ira, m. G. E. Laughlin. Last residence: Eufaula.

MANGUM, THEOPHILUS FIELDS, jr., lawyer, was born Oct. 21, 1863, at Stewart plantation, Dallas County; son of Theophilus Fields and Ellen Keren (Stewart) Mangum (q. v.), brother of Robert H. Mangum (q. v.). He received his preparatory education under Judge Pitts of Selma, James Parks of Tuskegee and Rev. Urquhart of Greenville, and graduated with the degree of A. B. and captain of Co. B, at the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1883. In 1885 he was admitted to the bar in Alabama, and entered upon the practice in McKinney, Collier County, Tex., where he was city-attorney; chairman of Collier County Democratic executive committee; presidential elector from the 15th congressional district, adjutant 4th Texas volunteer regiment, Capt. Collier guards; foreman McKinney hook and ladder company, volunteer fireman; delegate several times to the Texas State democratic convention; one of four who responded to address of welcome by Gov. O'Neal of Alabama at home coming of Auburn students, June, 1913; was presented a sword by Gov. E. A. O'Neal, sr., as captain of the best drilled company of cadets, A. P. I., 1883. He is a Presbyterian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 11, 1891, to Alice, daughter of Col. Robert and Kate Fitzhugh, of Fitzhugh Mill, Collier County, Texas, members of the distinguished Fitzhugh family of Virginia. Children: 1. Robert Mase, San Antonio, Texas; 2. Alice. Residence: San Antonio, Texas.

MANLY, A. H., Presbyterian minister, living in 1913. Residence: New Decatur.

MANLY, BASIL, educator, second president University of Alabama, was born January 29, 1798, near Pittsborough, Chatham County, N. C., and died December 21, 1868, in Greenville, S. C.; son of Basil and Elizabeth (Maultsby) Manly, who lived in Chatham County, N. C., near Pittsborough; grandson of Thomas and Mary (Ford) Manly, the former whose father emigrated from Ireland early in the eighteenth century, and settled in Maryland, near Leonardstown. His Maultsby ancestors were of Welsh and English extraction. He was licensed to preach in 1818, when he was twenty years old, and very soon afterward went to South Carolina, entering the South Carolina college in December, 1819, and graduating with first honors, B. A., 1821. He was ordained to the ministry in 1822, and labored in and about Edgefield Court House until March, 1826, when he became pastor of the Baptist church at Charleston, S. C. During his ministry in South Carolina, he was largely influential in securing the establishment of an institution of learning under the patronage of the Baptist State convention, for the special training of young men for the gospel ministry. That institution, after several changes of name and location, became Furman university, now in successful operation in Greenville, S. C. Early in 1837, the degree of doctor of divinity was conferred on Dr. Manly by the University of North Carolina, and in August of that year, he was unanimously elected president of the University of Alabama. With the co-operation of a strong faculty, Dr. Manly served the University for eighteen years, with such results that at the end of that time, the university occupied a position of highest honor among the colleges of the country. He resigned the presidency in 1855, and returned to Charleston, S. C., to resume his work as a Christian pastor, and was influential in the establishment of the Southern Baptist theological seminary, first located, in 1859, at Greenville, S. C., but since 1877 at Louisville, Ky. Coming again to Alabama in 1859, he spent nearly two years in general evangelistic work, preaching throughout the state, and taking an active interest in the establishment of the hospital for the insane at Tuscaloosa. The outbreak of the War of Secession put an end to his work as an evangelist, and he became pastor of the First Baptist church in Montgomery, then the capital of the Confederate States of America. He moved to Tuscaloosa in December, 1862, and became connected with the management of the Alabama central female college. He was prostrated by a stroke of paralysis, November 22, 1864, from which he never fully recovered, and while on a visit to his son, Dr. Basil Manly, jr., in Greenville, S. C., he died. He was organizer of the Southern Baptist convention of 1845; was the founder of the Alabama historical society; published several sermons; and with his son, Basil, prepared "The Baptist Psalmody," 1850.

Married: December 23, 1824, to Sarah Murray, daughter of Zebulon and Abigail (Murray) Rudolph, who lived at Camden and Columbia, S. C., and in Lowndes County, where they died, the former a native of Maryland, followed the flouring business at Elkton, Md., where he owned a mill and store, moved to Camden, S. C., 1798, and engaged in milling and merchandising there until 1811, when he moved to Columbia, S. C., to accept a position as steward of South Carolina college, resigned his position in 1815, and located on a plantation near Columbia, moved to Edgefield District, S. C., in 1821, and conducted a mill and plantation there, moved to Lowndes County in November, 1829, and died March 4, 1855, the latter a native of Philadelphia, Pa., whose ancestors came from Scotland to Elkton, Md.; granddaughter of Jacob and Frances (Jacob) Rudolph, the former a native of Elkton, Md., born September 8, 1726, and died July 18, 1800, at Camden Mills, S. C., whose son by a former marriage, Michael Rudolph, was a captain in Lee's legion, during the Revolutionary War, the latter who was the widow of Robert Broom, was of Welsh extraction, and died at Camden, S. C., in 1874; great-granddaughter of Michael Johannes and Anna Rudolph, the former who was born on the Prussian Rhine, who served seven years in the army of Frederick the Great of Prussia, and emigrated to Maryland. Children: 1. Basil (q. v.); 2. Charles (q. v.); 3. Capt. R. T., an officer in the Fifty-ninth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, during the War of Secession, Mobile. Last residence: Greenville, S. C.

LEROY BREWER

MANLY, BASIL, JR., Baptist minister, was born December 19, 1825, in Edgefield District, S. C., and died January 31, 1892, in Louisville, Ky.; son of Basil and Sarah Murray (Rudolph) Manly (q. v.). He was prepared for college in Charleston, S. C.; was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1843, and A. M., 1846; attended the Newton theological institute, Newton, Mass., 1844-1845, and the Princeton theological seminary, 1845-1847. He was licensed to preach in 1844, and was ordained a minister in the Baptist church at Tuscaloosa, January 30, 1848. He was pastor of the church at Providence, 1848-1849; of the First Baptist church at Richmond, Va., 1850-1854; founded the Richmond female institute, and was its president, 1854-1859; was one of the four founders and one of the first professors of the Southern Baptist theological seminary at Greenville, S. C.; occupied the chair of Biblical instruction and Old Testament interpretation, 1859-1871, and during the War of Secession while the seminary was suspended preached to several churches in the neighborhood; served as president of Georgetown college, Ky., 1871-1879; returned to his former position at the Southern Baptist theological seminary which had been moved in 1877 from Greenville, S. C., to Louisville, Ky., 1879-1892. The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon him by the University of Alabama, 1859, and by Wake Forest college, 1859, and the degree of LL. D. by the Agricultural and mechanical college, 1874. During the War of Secession he was president of the Sunday school board of the Southern Baptist convention at Greenville, S. C., which issued catechisms, tracts and periodicals, of which he was largely either editor or author; was co-author with his father of "The Baptist Psahnody," 1858; author of "A Call to the Ministry," 1867; "The Choice;" "The Bible Doctrine of Inspiration," 1888; and several hymn and music books. He was a Democrat.

Married: (1) April 28, 1852, at Marion, to Charlotte Ann Elisabeth, daughter of George William and Katharine (Hart) Whitfield, who lived at Sumterville; (2) June 10, 1869, at Newberry, S. C., to Harriet Summers, daughter of Maj. Peter and Rosa Caroline (Summers) Hair, and a descendant of Col. Philemon Waters, of the Revolutionary War. Children, by first marriage: 1. Kate, d. in infancy; 2. Basil Rudolph, d. in 1879, unmarried; 3. Lizzie Pratt, m. Lyman Lewis Parks, d. in 1910, living at Anderson, S. C., with her four children; 4. Louise Frances; 5. George Whitfield, Ph. D., professor of Latin in Denison university, Ohio, and in Wake Forest college, North Carolina; 6. Murray Boyce, unmarried, Kentucky; 7. Sarah Rudolph, d. in 1912, m. Evan Clement Stevenson, of Rockwell City, Ia., left seven children; 8. William Gwathmey, professor of Greek in the University of Missouri; 9. Mary Lane, d. in Greenville, S. C.; 10. Alice, d. in infancy; 11. Archibald Thomas, d. in infancy; by second marriage; 12. Clarence Julius, unmarried, surgeon in U. S. Army, major, stationed at El Paso, Tex., in February, 1914; 13. and 14. John Broadus and Carrie Summers, twins, d. in infancy; 15. Hattie, d. in infancy; 16. Rosa, d. in infancy; 17. Charlotte Broadus, m. Thomas Toliver Goldsmith, Greenville, S. C.; 18. Charles James Fuller, unmarried, Greenville, S. C. Last residence: Louisville, Ky.

MANLY, CHARLES, educator, was born May 28, 1837, at Charleston, S. C.; son of Basil and Sarah Murray (Rudolph) Manly (q. v.). He was prepared for college by Richard Furman in Tuscaloosa; was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1856, and A. M., 1859; and from Princeton theological seminary, in May, 1859. He was licensed to preach by the Tuscaloosa Baptist church in 1855; was ordained to the ministry in 1859; and has served as pastor of churches at Tuscaloosa 1859-1871; at Murfreesboro, Tenn., 1871-1873; at Staunton, Va., 1873-1880; at Greenville, S. C., 1880-1881; at Belton, S. C., 1882-1898; at Brushy Creek, S. C., 1882-1886; at Rocky Creek, S. C., 1882-1886; at Seneca, S. C., 1886-1898; at Lexington, Mo., 1898-1903; and at Lexington, Va., 1903-1914. He was president of the Alabama Central female college at Tuscaloosa, 1862-1864, and 1869-1871; was president of Union university, Murfreesboro, Tenn., 1871-1873; president of Furman university, Greenville, S. C., 1881-1897; teacher in the Patrick military institute, Anderson, S. C., 1897-1898; and in Lexington, Mo., 1898-1903. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by William Jewell college, Missouri, 1872. He prepared Sunday school notes for the American Baptist publication society for several years, and has contributed to magazines. Married: November 16, 1864, in Sumter County, to Mary, daughter of John and Kesiah (Hellen) Matthews, of Sumter County. Children: 1. John Matthews (q. v.), b. September 2, 1865, in Sumter County was graduated from Furman university, A. M., 1883, from Harvard university, A. M., 1889, and Ph. D., 1890, received LL. D. from Furman university, 1912, and Litt. D. from Brown university, 1914, taught at Greer's high school, South Carolina, 1884, at William Jewell college, Liberty, Mo., 1885-1888, at Radcliffe college, 1890-1891, at Brown university, 1891-1898, professor and head of department of English at University of Chicago since 1898, Chicago exchange professor at University of Gottingen, 1909, granted leave of absence for duration of the war, enlisted in the U. S. Army for five years, commissioned captain, October 27, 1917, assigned to military intelligence section, war college division, general staff, author of "The Language of Chaucer's Legend of Goode Women," 1893, of "Shakespeare's Macbeth," 1896, of "Specimens of the Pre-Shakesperean Drama," 1902, of "English Poetry, 1170-1892," 1907, "English Prose, 1137-1890," 1909, "The Bailey-Manly Spelling Book," and "Lessons in English" with E. R. Bailey, 1912, and "English Prose and Poetry," 1916, managing-editor of "Modern Philology," since 1908, and contributed to Cambridge History of English Literature, Encyclopedia Britannica, eleventh edition, the "Shakespeare Memorial Volume," 1916, and to various periodicals, address, Army War College, Washington, D. C.; 2. Hellen, m. R. G. Patrick, D. D., Chicago, Ill.; 3. Mary, d. March 29, 1910; 4. Sarah, m. Rev. J. I. Kendrick, Hubbard, Tex.; 5. Annie, Chicago, Ill.; 6. Belle, m. Edward Watson, Gaffney, S. C.; 7. Charles Matthews, m. Grace Wishart, Whitehall Building, New York, N. Y.; 8. Linda Peyton, m. C. G. Dold, M. D., Lexington, Va.; 9. Basil Maxwell, m. Marie Bradley, Washington, D. C. Residence: Chicago, Ill.

MANLY, JOHN MATTHEWS, educator, was born September 2, 1865, in Sumter County; son of Rev. Charles and Mary Esther Hellen (Matthews) Manly (q. v.). Dr. Manly received the A. M. degree from Furman university, S. C., 1883; A. M., 1889, Ph. D., 1890, Harvard university; LL. D., Furman university, 1912; and Litt. D., Brown university, 1914. He was associate professor and professor of English, Brown university, Providence, R. I., 1891-98; has been professor and head of the department of English, University of Chicago, since 1898; and was Chicago exchange professor at the University of Gottingen, 1909. He was granted leave of absence during the European War; enlisted in U. S. Army for five years; commissioned captain, October 27, 1917; assigned to military intelligence section, War college division, General staff; chief, section eight, War college division, August, 1918-May, 1919; discharged and commissioned major, Officers reserve corp, July, 1919. He is a member of the American philosophical society; American philological association; Modern language association of America; American dialect society; Deutsche Shakespeare Gesellschaft; Malone society; English Shakespeare society; and the Bibliographical society of America. Contributor: "Cambridge history of English literature"; "Encyclopedia Britannica," eleventh edition; "Shakespeare memorial volume"; and to various periodicals. Editor: "Macbeth," 1896; "Specimens of Pre-Shakespearean drama," 1897; "English poetry," 1907; "English prose," 1909. Author: "Lessons in English," 1912, with E. R. Bailey; "A Manual for writers," 1914, with J. A. Powell; "English prose and poetry," 1916; "The Writing of English," 1919, with E. Rickert. He is the general editor of "Modern Philology." Unmarried. Residence: University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.

MANLY, R. F., clerk of the Alabama Baptist State convention, 1868-71. Residence: Birmingham.

MANNING, AMOS REEDER, lawyer, was born in 1810, in New Jersey. In early youth he came with an uncle, James Manning, of Madison, to Alabama, and was educated in Greene academy, where he was a schoolmate of L. P. and Percy Walker, J. D. Phelan, and Gen. J. M. Withers. After graduating from the University of Tennessee, he read law with Hon. A. F. Hopkins at Huntsville. He was admitted to the bar, and opened a law office in Linden in 1836, later moving to Demopolis. At the latter place, he was, at different times, the partner of John Rains, F. S. Lyon, D. C. Anderson, and William E. Clarke. In 1845, he was elected to the legislature from Marengo County, and two years later, was elected to the State senate from Wilcox and Marengo Counties. He served in that body until 1851, and a year later moved to Mobile, where he continued the practice of law. In 1856, he received a complimentary vote in the legislature for justice of the supreme court, and some time afterwards, formed a partnership with Hon. Percy Walker. He was a Whig. Married: to Miss Lewis, a sister of Hon. David W. Lewis of Georgia, and a cousin of Hon. D. H. Lewis of Lowndes County. Grace Manning of Perth Amboy, N. J., is a daughter. Last residence: Mobile.

MANNING, ROBERT WILLIAM, business man, was born January 17, 1864, at Lineville, Clay County; son of Henry Allen and Marthy (Burrough) Manning, of Ashland, the former a native of Marietta County, Ga.; grandson of John Burrough, of Abner, Clay County. He received his education in the public schools of Ashland; entered upon the mercantile business at Ashland in 1885, continuing until 1903, when he established a life and fire insurance agency at Lineville, which he conducted until 1907. He served as postmaster of Lineville, 1885-1889, and 1894-1897; was appointed State land agent, succeeding John R. McCain, 1907; and since 1911, has filled the position of land clerk in the State auditor's office. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: to Eldorado, daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Amelia Holdridge, of Ashland. He has one adopted daughter, Lucile. Residence: Montgomery.

MANNING-BREWER, ESTELLE HEMPSTEAD, author of several novels. Married: Horace Augustus Thompson (q. v.). Residence: Lowndes County.

MANUCY, DOMINIC, third Roman Catholic bishop of Mobile, was born December 20, 1823, at St. Augustine, Fla., and died December 4, 1885, in Mobile. He was a cousin of Bishop Pellicier, first bishop of San Antonio, Tex., and a descendant of Francis Pellicier, who led the Minocans from the colony and control of Dr. Turnbull, to St. Augustine, Fla., in 1777. He was educated at Spring Hill college, Mobile, and in New Orleans, La.; and was ordained priest by Bishop Portier, August 15, 1850, at Mobile. He was stationed at the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, 1850-1864, and was pastor of St. Peter's, Montgomery, 1864-1874. He was made titular bishop of Dulma, and appointed the first vicar apostolic of Brownsville, Tex., by Pope Pius IX, and was consecrated bishop at the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception at Mobile, December 8, 1874, by Archbishop Perche, assisted by Bishop Elder, of Natches, Miss., and Bishop Dubuis of Galveston, Tex. He immediately took possession of his see, which at that time was inhabited chiefly by roving Mexicans. He established nine churches and secured the services of the Oblate Brothers, the Ursuline Sisters, and the Sisters of the Incarnate Word. Under his guidance schools were formed in Texas, at Laredo, Brownsville, and Corpus Christi; academies at San Patricio and Refugio; St. Joseph's college in charge of the Oblate Brothers at Brownsville; a high school at Laredo; and several free parochial schools. He was transferred bishop of Mobile and administrator of Brownsville, in March, 1884, as successor to the Rt. Rev. John Quinlan, deceased. Because of feeble health, he resigned both posts a few months later, and was reappointed vicar-apostolic of Brownsville with the titular see of "Maronea," but died before he could return to that place. Last residence: Mobile.

MAPLES, WILLIAM C., soldier of the American Revolution. "DIED—At the residence of his sons, in Madison County, Ala., on the 26th ult., WILLIAM C. MAPLES, in the 81st year of his age. He was a native of Virginia and was one of the Guard, at the age of fifteen years, on Dan River, when the battle was fought at Guilford Court House. He emigrated to East Tennessee in the year 1796, and served as a volunteer in the war of 1812; and emigrated to Alabama in the year 1833. He had been a member of the Baptist church for the rise of fifty years; he was a faithful and useful member of that society, and filled the office of a Deacon and Clerk for the church for a number of years; he was esteemed as a father in the Gospel; a tender husband and an affectionate father to his children; an agreeable and obliging neighbor. He departed this life in the triumph of a living faith—"In the hope of that eternal life which God, that cannot lie, promised before the world began." He has left a numerous train of connections, scattered almost from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. The Athens, Tenn., and Lynchburg, Va., papers are requested to copy."—The Democrat, Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 17, 1847.

MAPLES, WILLIAM CASWELL, physician, was born August 31, 1859, at Poplar Ridge, Madison County; son of John M. and Martha Frances (Ledbetter) Maples, the former a native of Poplar Ridge, a farmer who lived at that place until 1896 when he moved to Johnson County, Tex., and in 1902 moved to Jefferson County, Okla.; grandson of Peter and Mary Maples, who lived at Poplar Ridge, having come from Sevier County, Tenn., to Alabama in 1827, and who were of Holland descent, and of Daniel R. and Mariah Ledbetter, who came from Virginia and settled in New Hope, Madison County. He was educated in the common schools in the neighborhood of Poplar Ridge, and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Tennessee, M. D., 1881. Since that time he has taken several post graduate courses. He began the practice of medicine in Poplar Ridge in 1881; practiced for eight years at Bellefonte; and for more than twenty-five years at Scottsboro. He served as alderman of Scottsboro; was a member of the town council for five years; and county health officer for two terms. In 1890 he was elected a counsellor in the Alabama State medical association. He is a Democrat. Married: February 27, 1889, to Sophronia, daughter of Gideon and Almarinda Starkey, who lived at Bellefonte, Jackson County, the former a captain in the C. S. Army, the latter whose people came to Jackson County from South Carolina. Children: 1. Willie; 2. Annie, m. Charles Heath, Stevenson; 3. Robert Caswell; 4. Houston Ledbetter; 5. John Wade; 6. Emmett Starkey; 7. James C. Residence: Scottsboro.

MARBURY, JOSIAH H., business man, was born in 1841, in Shelbyville, Tenn., son of L. W. and Mary (Kidd) Marbury, natives of Tennessee, who spent their entire lives in that state, the former a Primitive Baptist minister, a merchant, a soldier in the Mexican War, and a member of the Tennessee legislature, whose father was a North Carolinian, and moved from that state to Tennessee. He was reared principally at Tullahoma, and received a limited education. In July, 1861, he joined the First Tennessee artillery, C. S. Army, and served with that command until October, 1864, when he was captured, and held prisoner at Camp Douglas, Chicago, Ill., and at Point Lookout, Maryland, until the close of hostilities. While he was in the army, his father died, and for several years, he was left with the care of his mother and two sisters. He went to work as a carpenter and cabinet maker, at Blue Springs, Tenn., and in 1872, started in a co-partnership with Mr. Taft, in a sawmill at Jamison. They conducted their mill there until 1876, when they moved to Bozeman, and were joined by a Mr. Smith. The firm was operated under the name of Smith, Taft and Marbury until December 1, 1887; Marbury and Jones, until January 1, 1892; and then became the Marbury lumber company, with Mr. Marbury at its head. He is a Mason and a Missionary Baptist. Married: (1) March 1, 1865, in Tennessee, to Mary Allen, a native of Louisiana; (2) to Mrs. Nancy E. Taft, the widow of his former partner, and a native of Pennsylvania, daughter of William Robinson and his wife, who were born in England. Children, by first marriage: 1. Lizzie, m. C. W. Wilkinson, Birmingham; 2. David H., in the lumber business with his father; 3. Mary A.; 4. Neva W.; 5. Nellie T.; 6. Earnest L.; 7. Clara V.; 8. Josiah H., jr. Residence: Bozeman.

MARCHMAN, ROBERT LEE, teacher, was born March 21, 1870, near Daleville, Dale County; son of William Henry and Nancy (Davis) Marchman, the former a native of Twiggs County, Ga., who lived at Daleville, and was elected to several county offices by the people of Dale County, who served four years in the C. S. Army, and lost his left arm in the battle of Atlanta, July 28, 1864; grandson of William Stephen Marchman, who lived near Macon, Ga. The family is of German descent, and his great-grandfather Marchman came from Maryland, to Georgia. He received his early education from the country schools at Daleville and Ozark; was graduated from the Troy normal school in 1896; and attended the University of Virginia, one year, and Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., one year. He began teaching in the country schools; later held the principalship of the high schools at Enterprise, Sheffield and Andalusia; was elected county superintendent of education of Dale County, October 1, 1913; and continues to hold that position. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: June 27, 1905, in Atlanta, Ga., to Eleanor Rowena, daughter of John Henry and Mary Jane Paris, who lived in Kentucky. Children: 1. Robert Lee, Jr., b. May 5, 1906; 2. Frances Muriel, b. August 12, 1907; 3. Frederick, b. January 28, 1912. Residence: Daleville.

MARDIS, NAPOLEON BONEPARTE, lawyer, was born in Shelby County, and died October 13, 1892, at Columbiana; son of Reuben and Margaret Mardis, the former a native of Tennessee, who lived in Shelby County and was a Methodist minister. He received his education in the common schools of Shelby County, studied law, was admitted to the bar, and practiced in Columbiana. He was elected county treasurer of Shelby County in 1846 and continued in that office until 1857; represented Shelby County in the State legislature in 1857; was again elected county treasurer and held the office until he joined the C. S. Army in 1861. While he was serving in the army, he was elected judge of probate of Shelby County, 1862, and held that position until 1869. He was appointed and served as postmaster of Columbiana for a number of years before his death in 1892. He was a Republican and a Methodist. Married: to Adelaide Curtis, who survived him only a few years. He had no children of his own, but adopted two orphan children who lived with him a few years, one of whom was Mrs. John Cromwell of Columbiana. Last residence: Columbiana.

MARDIS, SAMUEL W., lawyer, representative in congress, was born June 12, 1800, in Tennessee, and died November 14, 1836, at Mardisville; son of Reuben Mardis, a farmer. He received an academic education, studied law, was admitted to the bar, and went with his father to Shelby County. He began to practice law in Montevallo; was elected to the State legislature from Shelby County in 1823, and represented the county for several successive terms; was elected to congress over Gen. Garth of Morgan County and Col. Baylor of Tuscaloosa, 1831; was re-elected to congress, defeating Hon. Elisha Young, of Greene County. At the expiration of his second term, he moved to Mardisville, Talladega County, and continued to practice law until his death. He was a Democrat. Married: to Miss Taylor, daughter of Robert Taylor, of Shelby County. His half-brother, Judge N. B. Mardis, was a citizen of Shelby County. Last residence: Mardisville.

MARECHAL, EDWIN LESLEY, physician, was born June 27, 1850, at Chambersburg, Franklin County, Pa., and died August 19, 1909, at Mobile; son of Charles Francois and Mary Selina (Blackburn) Maréchal, the former a native of Verdun, Alsace-Lorraine, France, born February 1, 1806, the latter a South Carolinian, born in Lancaster, whose surname originally was Mazée, until she took the name of her step-father, Mr. Blackburn; grandson of Elise (Dernier) Maréchal, of Verdun, France. His maternal ancestors were French Huguenots, who came to South Carolina in colonial times, and participated in the Revolutionary War, his great-grandfather having been injured at the battle of Cowpens. Dr. Maréchal's father served seven years as an officer in the French Army in Algiers; came to New Orleans, La., in 1840; lived at Donaldsonville, La., for one year, then went to Camden, S. C., where he was married; conducted a mercantile business at Wilmington, N. C., until 1846; was professor of modern languages, of which he knew seven, in Dickinson college, Chambersburg, Pa., 1846-1851, and in the Maplewood female seminary, Pittsfield, Mass., 1851-1854; returned south and had charge of the modern language department of the public schools of Mobile, 1854-1862; enlisted in the French guards of Mobile, 1862, and was elected captain, doing principally provost duty; and taught school after the War of Secession, until his death in 1877. Dr. Maréchal attended the public schools of Mobile, and spent three years at Mobile college, now defunct. He was graduated from the medical college of the University of Alabama, M. D., 1870; attended lectures at Tulane university, New Orleans, in 1871; began to practice medicine at Daphne, Baldwin County in 1871, and continued there for three years when his health failed; withdrew from his practice temporarily, and was connected with the press in Meridian, Miss., 1873-1874; returned to his medical practice in Daphne, 1877-1880; practiced at Stockton until 1889; then located at Mobile, where he practiced until his death. While in Baldwin County, he organized the Baldwin County medical association; was county health officer for a number of years; and was president of the board of health of that county; was at one time health officer of Mobile County; served as lecturer on hygiene and medical jurisprudence, Medical college of Alabama, and was the first president of the alumni association of that institution; was at one time president of the Alabama medical association; was a member of the school board of Mobile County for eighteen years, and for some time was president of that body. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; and a Red Man. He was author of a number of published papers on medical subjects, and was founder and editor of the "Mobile Medical and Surgical Journal." Married: in 1874, at Meridian, Miss., to Julia Eliza, daughter of Isaac Saddler Orlando Grandison and Martha Ann (McInnis) Greer, of Jones Bluff, Sumter County, the former an early settler in Meridian, Miss., and head of the firm of Greer, Bogle and company, cotton factors. Her ancestors on both sides were early settlers of Alabama, having gone there from south Carolina. Many of her relatives were participants in the Revolutionary War, and in the War of Secession. Children: 1. Marie Augusta, m. Samuel Silenus Murphy (q. v.); 2. Grandison Greer, d. in infancy; 3. Julia Greer, m. H. J. Woods, of Meridian, Miss.; 4. Edwin Leslie, Jr., m. Leila Alice Harris, Mobile; 5. Edith Whitfield, m. Samuel Silenus Murphy (q. v.); 6. Greer McInnis, Washington, D. C.; 7.

Claudia Silver, Mobile. Last residence: Mobile.

MARKELL, CHARLES FREDERICK, author and lawyer, was born October 16, 1855, at Frederick, Md.; son of Frederick and Catherine Sue (Thomas) Markell, the former a native of Frederick; grandson of Jacob and Rebecca (Miller) Markell, of Winchester, Va., the former a captain of the Maryland line in the War of 1812, and of George Thomas and wife, a Miss Rogan, of Kingsport, Tenn.; great-grandson of Conrad Markell, an officer in the German army who came to America from Alsace, 1747, landing at Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Markell was educated at the Frederick academy, the male high school at Columbus, Miss., the St. John's military academy, at Alexandria, Va., St. John's college, Frederick, Md., and was graduated from the Columbian, now George Washington university, LL. B., 1876. He was admitted to the bar and practiced in the District of Columbia and in Maryland; was a member of the Maryland house of delegates, 1884-85, 1896-97; U. S. secretary of legation to Brazil, 1892, and charge d' affairs 1893; and induced the Brazilian government to remove expedite tax on wheat flour from U. S. He located in Alabama in 1908. He is a Republican; and an Episcopalian. Author: "Chamodine and other poems;" "The Chaskell papers;" "Ypiranga—A love tale of the Brazils." Married: January 28, 1902, in New York City, his cousin Sue Markell, daughter of LaFayette and Ella Jane Rogan of Birmingham, a family of Irish origin. Residence: Birmingham.

MARKHAM, LEWIS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, resided in Lauderdale County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MARKS, GEORGE MATHEWS, lawyer, was born in Montgomery County, June 28, 1853; son of Samuel Blackburn and Mary L. (Crain) Marks, the former a native of Georgia, who removed to Montgomery County, and was colonel on Gen. J. M. Wither's staff during the War of Secession, and cousin of Samuel Blackburn Marks (q. v.) and Spencer Crain Marks (q. v.) George M. Marks was educated under Dr. Henry Tutwiler, at Green Springs; at Bellevue high school, Bedford County, Va., the University of the South, Seawane, Tenn., graduated from the Virginia military institute, 1874; and received the LL.B. degree from the University of Virginia, 1876. He began the practice of law in Atlanta, Ga., remaining here only a year, removed to Montgomery and formed a partnership with Benjamin Fitzpatrick. Upon the removal of Mr. Fitzpatrick to Elmore County, he formed a partnership with Lester C. Smith and Gordon McDonald; in 1886 formed a partnership with P. C. Massie and at the present time is a member of the firm of Sayre and Marks. Married: in 1878, to Hettie, daughter, of Napoleon and Mary Clay (Lockett) Lockett, of Perry County. Children: 1. George Mathews, jr.; 2. Mary Louise, m. Prof. Augustus Keaton McKemie, of Harrodsburg, Ky.; 3. Fannie Lockett, m. Robert Emmett Seibels, of Montgomery; 4. Hettie, m. William Bauer, of New London, Conn.; 5. Agnes Carey, m. Charles Allen Hopkins, of Mobile. Residence: Montgomery.

MARKS, SAMUEL BLACKBURN, planter and capitalist, was born in Montgomery County, April 7, 1844; son of William Mathews and Catherine Ann (Crain) Marks, and brother of Spencer Crain Marks (q. v.). Mr. Marks received his early education in the public schools of Montgomery and was a student at the University of Alabama at the outbreak of the War of Secession. He left the University in 1863 and enlisted in Co. A., Seventh Alabama cavalry and served throughout the war as a private. He was wounded at Lowndesboro, during the Federal raid under Gen. James H. Wilson. After the war he became a planter of Montgomery County and is now a stockholder in the First national bank, the Jasper coal and coke company and numerous other business interests of the State. Married: (1) in 1868, to Martha, daughter of Robert Means, of Pointe Coupee Parish, La.; (2) in 1879, to Laura Lewis, daughter of Lorenzo James (q. v.). Children: by first wife: 1. Hugh Means, planter of Montgomery County; by second wife: 2. Ellen, m. (1) Dr. Moharren Bey, of Munich and (2) L. Stafford Betty, of Montgomery; 3. Charles, planter, physician; M. D. University of Virginia; m. Priscilla, daughter of John B. and Priscilla (Tyler) Scott, of Montgomery; 4. Churchill, planter, student at Alabama polytechnic institute for two years; m. Sallie Watkins, daughter of Dr. M. L. Wood (q. v.). Residence: Montgomery.

MARKS, SPENCER CRAIN, banker, was born at Pike Road, Montgomery County, March 7, 1840, and died in Montgomery, January 12, 1904; son of William Mathews and Catherine Ann (Crain) Marks, the former a native of Oglethorpe County, Ga., who removed to Alabama in 1820 with his parents, located in Montgomery County, and became one of the wealthiest planters of the State and brother of Samuel Marks (q. v.); grandson of Nicholas Meriwether and Ann Paul (Mathews) Marks, the former a native of Fredericksville Parish, Albemarle County, Va., who removed to Broad River settlement, Ga., and shortly after his marriage to Montgomery County, where he acquired extensive and valuable property, the latter the granddaughter of Gov. Mathews, of Georgia, and of Spencer and Mary (Tomkins) Crain, of Montevallo, Jasper County, Ga.; great-grandson of James and Elizabeth (Harris) Marks, the former a native of Albemarle County, Va., and magistrate of this county in 1873, who removed to Wilkes County, Ga., where he became a well known member of the Broad River settlement; great-nephew of John Marks, a captain in the Revolutionary Army, who married Lucy Meriwether Lewis, the widow of William Lewis and mother of Meriwether Lewis, the explorer, of Peter and Joanna (Lydwor) Marks, the former escheator of Albemarle County, Va., and of Hastings and Ann Scott (Jefferson) Marks, of the tide water-district of Virginia and the latter the sister of President Thomas Jefferson; great-great-grandson of John and Lady Elizabeth (Hastings) Marks, the former a native of Suffolk, England, who emigrated to America and settled in Albemarle County, Va., and of John and Martha (Gaines) Marks, the former a native of Gargunnoch, Shropshire, Scotland, who emigrated to America and located at Aberfogle, Albemarle County, Va., lived for a while in Richmond County, Va. and was King's attorney of Amherst County, Va., from 1761-68. Spencer C. Marks was educated in the public schools of Montgomery, attended Dr. Henry Tutwiler's school at Green Springs for three years, and was a student at the University of Virginia, graduating in 1860. He left on the breaking out of the War of Secession, returned to Montgomery and joined the First Alabama cavalry, under Gen. James H. Clanton. After the war he engaged in the cotton business as a member of the well known firm of Marks and Gayle. He was the first democratic treasurer of Montgomery County after reconstruction days; was a director in the Merchants and planters, Farley national and the Fourth national banks, and for many years served as junior warden of St. John's Episcopal church. Married: October 1, 1862, at Montgomery, to Laura Hall, daughter of John Atkinson and Amanda (Hall) Snodgrass, of that place. Children: 1. William Mathews, m. at Raleigh, N. C., to Jane Hawkins, daughter of Col. A. B. and Julia M. (Johnston) Andrews, the former 1st vice-president of the Southern railway at the time of his death, and granddaughter of Col. William and Ann Eliza (Graham) Johnston, of Charlotte, N. C.; 2. Spencer Crain, d. young; 3. Ethel, m. Guy R. Brightwell, of Maxeys, Ga. Last residence: Montgomery.

MARSHALL, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Methodist minister, was born near Carrollton, Carroll County, Miss.; son of James Alfred and Mary Elizabeth (Farish) Marshall, the former who was born near Livingston, Sumter County, and emigrated to Carroll County, Miss., in 1842, enlisted in Co. A, Forty-second Mississippi regiment, May, 1862, and was discharged because of a crippled hand, later enlisted in the First Mississippi battalion, and was paroled April, 1865, at Greensboro, N. C.; grandson of Benjamin Thomas and Carolin (Swann) Marshall, who lived in Madison, Marengo and Sumter Counties, and in Carroll County, Miss., the former a native of Madison County, who served several times in the legislature, and of Robert Stephens and Nancy (Ware) Farish, who lived at Tuscaloosa, and at Black Hawk, Miss.; great-grandson of Thomas Marshall and a Miss Malone, who emigrated to Madison County in 1811, the latter a daughter of a Revolutionary soldier, who came to Alabama and settled in the Tennessee Valley; great-great-grandson of James Marshall, who lived in Kershaw District, S. C., near Camden, and was a colonel in the Revolutionary Army. He received his early education at Greenwood, Miss., under A. F. Gardner, and at Carrollton, Miss., from J. C. Hardy, later the president of the Agricultural and mechanical college at Starkville, Miss. He was graduated from Southern university at Greensboro, A. B., 1895, and became a minister in the Methodist church, in December of that year. He has served as pastor of churches at Butler, Faunsdale, Eutaw, Montgomery, Abbeville, Gastonburg, Dothan, and Opp, in Alabama, and is now in charge of the Methodist church at De Funiak Springs, Fla. He is a Democrat; a Royal Arch Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 18, 1895, at Demopolis, to Panthea Mary, daughter of Thomas Henry and Lucie (Baltzell) DeLoach, who lived at Demopolis; granddaughter of Panthea Mary Bullock, of Greene County, sister of Hon. James Bullock, a member of the Alabama senate. The Bullock family is connected with the mother of President Roosevelt. Children: 1. Nell. Residence: De Funiak Springs, Fla.

MARSHALL, JAMES WILLIAMS, Presbyterian minister, a native of the State and whose early life was spent here, was born January 20, 1882, at Perdue Hill, Monroe County; son of John Lee and Janie Edwards (Foster) Marshall, the former 1st lieutenant Co. G, 36th Alabama infantry regiment, for a number of years tax collector of Monroe County, a descendant of Needham Bryan who settled in Bertie County, N. C., 1722. Rev. Mr. Marshall attended the public schools of Perdue Hill, and received the degrees of A. M., 1905, and B. D., 1907, from Southwestern Presbyterian university, Clarksville, Tenn.; was ordained October 23, 1907, at Tuskegee, by the East Alabama presbytery, and served churches at Tuskegee, Downs, Calebee and Montgomery, before removing to Arkansas. He is a Democrat; Mason; a Red Man; and a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Unmarried. Residence: Junction City, Ark.

MARSHALL, JOSEPH WALDEN, Sr., business man, was born August 16, 1881, at Center, Cherokee County; son of John Lawrence and Martha Elizabeth (Shackleford) Marshall, of Cherokee County; grandson of Samuel P. L. and Margaret (Lawrence) Marshall, of Eddyville, Lyon County, Ky., the former, a descendant of John Marshall, chief justice of the U. S., was a judge in Kentucky during the early settlement of that state, and owned one of the first furnaces ever established in Alabama, at Round Mountain, Cherokee County, and produced great quantities of iron for the Confederacy, and of William Clark and Elizabeth (Hale) Shackleford, of Center. Mr. Marshall was educated in the public schools at Center and Girard. He was for a number of years in the hotel business in Alabama and Georgia; in 1911, was appointed assistant postmaster of the Girard post-office, and in 1917 the postmaster; was local secretary of the U. S. civil service commission, Russell County, 1914-1917; and represented that county in the state legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat. Married: December 25, 1907, at Hillsboro, Washington County, Ore., to Anna Marie, daughter of Collin C. and Matilda (Williams) Frazier, of La Grande, Union County, Ore., the former who came to the United States from Scotland when a boy of sixteen; great-granddaughter of Rev. Jolly, who preached the first sermon in the First Presbyterian Church of Portland, Ore. Children: 1. Joseph Walden, jr.; 2. Lawrence Collin. Residence: Gadsden.

GREGORY L. SMITH

MARTIN, ABRAHAM, lawyer, was born in 1798, in Edgefield District, S. C.; brother of Hon. William D. Martin, of South Carolina, and of John Martin (q. v.). The family of Martins in Edgefield District, S. C., were conspicuous during the Revolutionary War for their united efforts in the cause of independence. There were seven brothers, William, Bartly, James, John, Edmund, Marshall and Mathew Martin, all of whom took an active part in the war. Several were wounded, but all survived the war except William Martin, who fell at the siege of Augusta, and at the time of his death was one of the oldest captains in the service. Mathew Martin was alive in 1846, residing in Tennessee, but died at the close of that year. Mr. Martin moved from South Carolina to Tennessee with an uncle, and was graduated at Greenville college. He was admitted to the bar in 1821, and served as district solicitor in Tennessee for several years. He moved to Montgomery County in 1832, and conducted his law practice there until 1837, when, on the death of Judge William R. Pickett, he was elected judge of the circuit court, defeating E. S. Dargan and J. P. Booth of Barbour. He served in that position for six years, then resumed the practice of his profession, part of the time in association with M. A. Baldwin and P. Tucker Sayre. During the War of Secession, he was collector of the government revenue in the state. Last residence: Montgomery.

MARTIN, ALBURTO, lawyer, was born July 9, 1830, in Jefferson County, and died in November, 1880, in Birmingham; son of Col. John and Sarah (Kilpatrick) Martin who were among the first settlers of Jefferson County. He was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1850, and A. M., 1857. He began to practice law in Elyton, 1856, and three years later was elected to the State legislature from Jefferson County. He was re-elected in 1861, and served until 1863. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he raised a company, which later became a part of the Tenth Alabama infantry, and was made captain, 1861. He served with his command at Drainsville, Yorktown, Williamsburg, Seven Pines, Gaines' Mill, Frazier's Farm, and at Second Manassas, and at the last named place was dangerously wounded by a shell, and crippled for life. He was elected solicitor of the judicial circuit of Jefferson County in 1863, was displaced by Gov. Parsons, and was re-elected by the general assembly of 1865, serving until disqualified by congress in 1868. From that time until his death in 1879, he practiced his profession in and around Birmingham. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875. Married: at Elyton to Harriet Louisa, daughter of Judge William S. Mudd (q. v.). One of his sons is William Mudd Martin, lawyer at Birmingham, who was born December 15, 1868, and served in the Spanish-American War, 1898, as first lieutenant of Co. A, First Alabama volunteer infantry, U. S. Army. Last residence: Birmingham.

MARTIN, ANDREW, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 86, and a resident of Madison County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on September 26, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $36.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $91.65.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840, aged 105.—Census of Pensioners 1841, p. 148.

MARTIN, A. L., pioneer Missionary Baptist preacher; deceased; father of Harry Martin, of Ozark.

MARTIN, CHARLES DOTHARD, business man, was born March 26, 1854, at Jacksonville, Calhoun County; son of James B. and Mary E. (Nisbit) Martin, the former a native of Habersham County, Ga., who moved to Alabama and lived in Jacksonville, Talladega and Cahaba, was a lawyer, a circuit judge, and entered the C. S. Army as lieutenant colonel of the Tenth Alabama regiment, and was killed at the battle of Drainsville, Va., December 20, 1861; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Sisson) Martin, who lived in Habersham County, Ga., and at Athens, Ga., and of John and Nancy (Baldwin) Nisbit, of Athens, Ga., and Jacksonville; and a descendant of John Nisbit, a member of the provisional congress of 1775, who served as a private soldier in the Revolutionary Army, and was the first senator from Iredell County, N. C. Mr. Martin's great-great-grandfather Martin was a continental soldier, enlisting from North Carolina. The Nisbit family came to Pennsylvania from Scotland in 1704, and moved to North Carolina in 1742. Mr. Martin obtained his education in private schools. He is a farmer, a railroad builder and a lumberman. He has served the city of Jacksonville as treasurer, member of the council and as mayor, and for four years was county commissioner. He represented Calhoun County in the State legislature, 1911; is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; Woodman of the World; Knight of Honor; and Columbian Woodman. Married: in April, 1899, to Georgia, daughter of Dr. George and Martha Minge (Douglass) Hoke, of Jacksonville, the former who moved to Alabama from North Carolina in 1832 or 1833, the latter a native of Danville, Va. Residence: Jacksonville.

MARTIN, CHARLES PATRICK, physician, was born November 21, 1877, at Coaling, Tuscaloosa County; son of William Bruce and Wilmouth Catherine (Crunk) Martin, the former a native of Springfield, Robinson County, Tenn., who lived at Woodstock; grandson of Patrick

Patterson and Martha (Farmer) Martin, of Springfield, Tenn., and Walton and Nancy (Benton) Crunk, of Springfield, Tenn. He received his early education at Coaling, at Woodstock academy, and at University high school at Tuscaloosa. He was graduated from Southern university at Greensboro, B. S., 1895, and from Vanderbilt university, M. D., 1900. He began the practice of medicine at Russellville, June 1, 1900; moved to Blocton in January, 1903, and practiced there for three years; located at Woodstock in 1907; and after several years at that place, moved to Texas, where he continued the practice of medicine. He served as vice-president of the Bibb County medical society; as vice-president of the Association of surgeons of the Southern railway; was a member of the State medical association of Alabama; of the Southern medical association; is a Democrat; a Methodist; a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason; a Knight Templar, and was elected grand commander of the Knight Templars of Alabama, May 14, 1913, at Dothan. Married: December 12, 1900, at Russellville, to Willie Virginia, daughter of William T. and Carolina Virginia Reid, who lived at West Union, S. C. Children: 1. William Reid; 2. Charles Patrick, jr. Residence: Texas.

MARTIN, EDMUND W., lawyer and legislator, was born December 15, 1821, near the city of Montgomery, and died October 22, 1878, at Evergreen. He was educated at West Point military academy. After returning home he was admitted to the practice of law at Hayneville, about the year 1843. During the conflict with Mexico he raised a company known as the "Lowndes County Volunteers," was made captain and went immediately to Mobile where they were mustered into the government's service, but did not arrive at the scene of action as transportation facilities prevented their being transferred. He removed to Sparta in 1849, where he resumed the practice of law. During the War of Secession he raised a company of volunteers; was made captain and subsequently major, 38th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. He was wounded at the battle of Dalton, Ga. Major Martin was elected to the State senate in 1872, but was not seated because of the dominancy of the Republican party. In 1874 he was re-seated, however, as the Democrats had gained the ascendancy. He was the candidate for lieutenant-governor in the convention of 1874 but was defeated and was, in 1878, defeated as a candidate for congress. Last residence: Evergreen.

MARTIN, HARRY, lawyer. Residence: Ozark.

MARTIN, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Greene County, private S. C. Militia; enrolled on September 17, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40; sums received to date of publication of list, $120.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MARTIN, JAMES BENSON, lawyer, was born September 17, 1825, in Habersham County, Ga., and was killed in battle, December 20, 1861, at Drainsville, Va.; son of John and Elizabeth Martin, who lived in Georgia until the death of the former, after which time Mrs. Martin resided in Jacksonville. He was deprived of educational advantages by the death of his father, and when he was nineteen years old, went to Calhoun County, where he read law under Hon. A. J. Walker. He was admitted to the bar in 1845, and began to practice his profession in Jacksonville, first associated with J. L. Lewis, and later with A. J. Walker. In 1852, he was elected general of Alabama militia, and the following year, went to Talladega, where at different times he was associated with John T. Morgan and A. W. Bowle. He was elected to the State legislature from Talladega County in 1857; opened a law office in Cahaba in 1858; remained there for some months, then returned to Talladega. He was elected judge of the tenth judicial circuit in 1860, and returned to Jacksonville shortly before the beginning of the War of Secession. He was commissioned captain of the Pope Walker guards, by Gov. Moore, May 27, 1861, and appointed by President Davis, lieutenant colonel of the Tenth Alabama infantry regiment on its formation. The regiment was sent to Virginia, and in one of the first battles, the battle of Drainsville, Col. Martin was shot and instantly killed. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: to Mary Elizabeth Nisbet, daughter of John and Nancy (Baldwin) Nisbet, of Jacksonville. Among his children were John Thomas Martin (q. v.), and James Benson Martin (q. v.). Last residence: Jacksonville.

MARTIN, JAMES BENSON, lawyer, was born March 16, 1856, at Talladega; son of James Benson and Mary Elizabeth (Nisbet) Martin (q. v.). He attended the common schools of Jacksonville, and was graduated from the law school of the University of Alabama, LL. B., in July, 1876. He was admitted to the bar in October of that year, and has practiced in Gadsden since that time. He is a Democrat, and a deacon in the Southern Presbyterian church. Married: December 12, 1882, at Gadsden, to Charlie Ward, daughter of Q. W. and Sarah A. Ward, of Gadsden. Children: 1. Mary, m. William Earl Lay, of Gadsden. Residence: Gadsden.

MARTIN, JOHN, banker, was born about 1800, in South Carolina, and died in 1844, in Montgomery; brother of Abraham Martin (q. v.). His family was connected with the Elmore and Fitzpatricks, and he was a relative of Senator Dixon H. Lewis. He came to Montgomery at an early period in the history of the city, and filled many positions of public trust. He was elected president of the Branch Bank of Montgomery in 1837, and was continued in that position by successive elections until his death. He was a Democrat. Married: to a daughter of Cyrus Phillips, a merchant of Montgomery. Among his sons was Gen. Edmund W. Martin, lawyer, who was born December 15, 1821, near Montgomery and died October 22, 1878, at Evergreen; was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point; took a course in law; was admitted to the bar; and began to practice law in Hayneville, 1843; raised a company upon the beginning of war with Mexico in 1846, and was elected its captain; in 1849 practiced law in Sparta; raised a company of volunteers during the War of Secession; was made its captain, and subsequently major of the regiment to which his company was attached; was wounded at the battle of Dalton, Ga., February, 1864; was elected to the State senate from Butler and Conecuh Counties, 1872; was an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in 1874, and for congress in 1878. Last residence: Montgomery.

MARTIN, JOHN JACOB, lawyer, was born September 12, 1826, in Abbeville District, S. C.; son of Jacob Moon Martin, a native of Albemarle County, Va., who moved to Edgefield District, S. C., with his parents in early childhood; grandson of Charles and Nancy (Moore) Martin, of Abbeville District, S. C., the former of whom served as high sheriff of Albemarle and Bedford Counties in the colonial history of Virginia, and of William Modre who married a Miss Nichols and lived in Edgefield District, and in Cambridge, S. C. He received his education in South Carolina high school and Erskine college, and studied law with the firm of Martin & Marshall, of Abbeville, S. C. He was admitted to the bar and began practicing law in 1849, in Abbeville, becoming a partner in the firm of Martin & Parker. He volunteered as a private for the Mexican War in 1846, and was assigned to the Palmetto regiment of South Carolina volunteers U. S. Army. He was appointed first lieutenant of the Twelfth regiment, U. S. Infantry by President Polk, after the siege of Vera Cruz, and later was made captain of Co. A, Twelfth regiment. He was a Democrat until 1861, but was opposed to secession, and since 1865 has been a Republican. He is a member of the Aztec Club of 1847 in the Mexican War. Married: in 1853, in Savannah, Ga., to Mary E. Walker, daughter of Benjamin and Caroline (Edwards) Walker, who lived in Richmond County, Ga. Children: 1. Carrie E., m. E. J. Allen, East Point, Ga.; 2. B. W. d. at College Park; 3. Annita, m. H. K. Sturdevant, Greenville, S. C.; 4. John J., jr., Atlanta, Ga.; 5. Summerstill, Atlanta, Ga. Residence: East Point, Ga.

MARTIN, JOHN MASON, lawyer, representative in congress, was born January 20, 1838, in Athens, Limestone County, and died June 16, 1898 in Bowling Green, Ky.; son of Joshua Lanier and Sara (Mason) Martin (q. v.). He received his early schooling at Greene Springs, from Dr. Henry Tutwiler; attended the University of Alabama for two years; and was graduated from Centre College, Danville, Ky., A. B., 1856. He studied law under E. W. Peck, later chief justice of the state; was admitted to the bar at Montgomery, August, 1858; and began the practice of law at Tuscaloosa. He continued in his profession until in April, 1861, he enlisted in the C. S. Army, joining the first company organized at Tuscaloosa. His company was assigned to the fifth Alabama infantry, and he remained with that command for a year, when on account of physical disability he was discharged. He again entered the service, accepting an appointment as captain and assistant quartermaster of the Forty-first Alabama infantry, and twenty months later was transferred to Montgomery and made post quartermaster. After the war, he resumed his law practice, and in August, 1871, was elected to the State senate to fill a vacancy. He was re-elected in 1872 for a full term, and during the five years of his service was for three years president pro tem of that body. He was prominent in the calling of the constitutional convention in 1875, was a member of the joint committee on the State bonded indebtedness, was chairman of the joint committee on penitentiary affairs, and served on the committees on judiciary, finance, taxation and education, and was chairman of the local legislative committee. He was elected professor of equity jurisprudence at the University of Alabama in 1875, and at the same time, the board of trustees, at the request of the faculty, graduated him with the degree of A. M., and directed that his name should be enrolled with the original class. He occupied the professorship until 1886; was elected a representative in the Forty-ninth congress from the sixth district of Alabama, 1885-1887, serving in the first session as a member of the committees of elections and patents, and was one of the six Democrats who voted against the Morrison tariff bill. That act gave offense to the agricultural portion of his district and he was defeated for renomination. In 1891, he was elected chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Jefferson County. He formed a law partnership with Capt. A. B. McEachin of Tuscaloosa, in September, 1886, and in the next month the firm moved to Birmingham and continued its practice. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon Prof. Martin by Centre college, 1886; by Central university, 1878; and by Georgetown university. He was a Mason, a Knight of Pythias, a Knight of Honor, and a Knight Templar. Married: November 24, 1857, to Lucy E. Peck, daughter of E. W. Peck, of Tuscaloosa. Of his nine children, four died in infancy, and one son, Lanier, at the age of fourteen. The others are: 1. Wolsey Randall, was graduated A. B., LL. B., 1884, and A. M., 1889, from the University of Alabama, lawyer at Fort Smith, Ark., m. Sue Dedie Bozeman; 2. Lucy Grace Archer, b. November 3, 1873, m. William Nessler McKelvy, captain in the U. S. Navy; 3. Sara; 4. Lydia Peck, b. September 1, 1879, m. William Marshall, Ann Arbor, Mich. Last residence: Bowling Green, Ky.

MARTIN, JOHN THOMAS, lawyer, was born February 13, 1850, at Jacksonville, Calhoun County, and died January 27, 1911, at Jacksonville; son of James Benson and Mary Elizabeth (Nisbet) Martin (q. v.). He obtained his schooling in Montgomery and Jacksonville, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1870 or 1871. He practiced his profession in Jacksonville and Anniston; was elected solicitor of the seventh judicial circuit of Alabama in 1880; was re-elected in 1886, and served in the office for twelve years. He was a member of the State constitutional convention of 1901, representing Calhoun County; was a Democrat, and a Presbyterian. Married: February 5, 1873, at Jacksonville, to Sue H. Francis, daughter of Dr. James C. and Amy (Ingram) Francis, of Jacksonville; granddaughter of Miller and Hannah (Henry) Francis, of Tennessee, the former of whom was treasurer of that state for a number of years. Mrs. Martin had six brothers in the War of Secession: Dr. Miller W. Francis, surgeon; Maj. Thomas W. Francis; Capt. James C. Francis, jr., who was wounded in the first battle of Manassas; Hopkins T. Francis; Col. John C. Francis, killed in the battle near Dalton, Ga., and buried at Jacksonville; and Joseph H. Francis. Children: 1. Woodson James, m. Jimmie Earl Jackson, Gadsden; 2. Frank, d. 1904 at Jacksonville; 3. Joseph Francis, d. 1904, in New York, N. Y.; 4. Amie, m. Robert Wilson Morris, Birmingham; 5. John Thomas, jr., Jacksonville. Last residence: Jacksonville.

MARTIN, JOSHUA LANIER, lawyer, representative in congress, twelfth governor of Alabama, was born December 5, 1799, in Blount County, Tenn., and died November 2, 1856, in Tuscaloosa; son of Warner and Martha (Bailey) Martin, the former a farmer, the latter a sister of Hon. Henry Bailey, attorney general of South Carolina in 1836-1845; a descendant of Louis Montaigne, who fled from France in 1824 and settled in South Carolina, changing his name to Martin. He was of French Huguenot, Scotch and German ancestry and was a brother of Hon. William B. Martin of Lauderdale County, and of Peter Martin (q. v.). He studied under the Rev. Isaac Anderson of Maryville, Tenn., and the Rev. Gideon Blackburn, and moved to Alabama in 1819. After completing the study of law with his brother in Russellville, he was admitted to the bar, and entered upon the practice of law at Athens, Limestone County. He was elected to the State Legislature from Limestone County in 1822, and served continuously, with the exception of one year, until 1828; was elected solicitor of the fourth judicial circuit in 1829, and held the position until 1834, when he resigned in order to accept a seat on the bench of the circuit court; was elected over Gen. James Davis and Ralph Thatch to represent his district in the U. S. congress, 1835; was re-elected in 1837 over Hon. David G. Ligon of Lawrence County, and served until 1839; was elected chancellor of the middle chancery division of the state, defeating Hon. E. W. Peck, 1841. In 1845, he opposed the regular Democratic nominee for governor, assailing the convention as a "rump convention," which did not represent the Democracy of the state, but was held and manipulated in the interest of the debtors of the state bank and its branches. He announced himself as candidate and took the stump to wage one of the most brilliant campaigns in the political history of the state. He was elected governor with a plurality of six thousand votes. Soon after his inauguration, a commission was created into whose charge the whole matter of the state banks was given. During his administration, war was declared with Mexico and the capital of the state was removed from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery. At the expiration of his term, Gov. Martin resumed his law practice. His last public service was to represent his county in the State legislature in 1853. He served in public life for more than a quarter of a century and was never defeated for any position which he sought. Married: (1) to Mary Gillam Mason, (2) to Sarah Ann Mason, natives of Virginia, sisters of Hon. William Mason, of Limestone County; cousins of Hon. John Y. Mason, who descended from Col. John Mason, an Englishman and a soldier in the army of Charles I, who fled to America on the execution of that monarch, and became the progenitor of the Mason family of Virginia. Mrs. Sarah Ann Martin survived her husband many years, and died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Kinnaird, in Kentucky, March 9, 1886. Children: five sons and two daughters, among whom are: 1. John Mason (q. v.); 2. Peter, b. July 4, 1839, d. December 18, 1883, was a planter at Orlando, Fla.; 3. Charles James, b. May 16, 1845, served as a private in the C. S. Army, justice of the peace, m. in Jones' Valley, December, 1867, to Nannie Smith, Birmingham; 4. Mrs. Kinnaird, Kentucky. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MARTIN, LUCIEN VAN BUREN, judge and planter, was born March 31, 1829, in Belleview, Franklin County, and died in Tuscaloosa, March 22, 1873; son of Judge Peter Martin (q. v.). He received his early education in the schools of Tuscaloosa, where his parents had removed; received the degrees of A. B., 1849, and A. M. 1852, from the University of Alabama; read law in the office of his father and was admitted to the bar, 1852. He was elected solicitor of the third judicial district, 1856, by the legislature and held this office until the commencement of the War of Secession. President Johnson appointed him district attorney for the southern district of Alabama, but he was unable to display his talent in this office as the presiding judge, Richard Busteed, threw every obstacle in his way because of his opposition to the appointment of Col. Martin. The conduct of Judge Busteed became so overbearing that Col. Martin attacked and shot him down on the streets of Mobile. The case was tried by the civil tribunal and only a small fine was imposed upon him. He was editorial manager of "The Tuscaloosa Observer," a Democratic political paper, at the same time practicing law and supervising the management of his large cotton plantation. Married: October 16, 1850, to Susan Virginia, daughter of James Harris, sr., and Rebecca Emily (Faulcon) Fitts (q. v.). Children: 1. Emily Lee, m. George Woolsey Van Hoose; 2. Harriet, d. young; 3. Sallie Bell, m. Gideon Frederick Martin; 4. Susan Fitts, d. in infancy; 5. Lucia, m. James William Erwin; 6. Harry Pegues, d. in infancy. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MARTIN, LYMAN WADDELL, lawyer, was born May 21, 1834, at Monterey, Abbeville District, S. C.; son of Charles Washington and Susan Caroline (Giles) Martin, the former a native of Abbeville District, S. C., who lived at Monterey, then called Church Hill, was a Presbyterian minister and died when he was twenty-nine years old; grandson of Jacob Moon and Nancy (Moore) Martin, of Monterey, S. C., and of Andrew and Sara Caroline (Patterson) Giles, of Monterey, S. C.; great-grandson of Charles and Patsy (Moon) Martin, of Albemarle County, Va., and of Thomas Giles of Virginia, who emigrated to Elbert County, Ga., about 1780, and was killed by Indians, on Broad River, Elbert County, 1796, and of Josiah and Abigail (Blair) Patterson, who lived in Abbeville District, S. C., the former whose father was a soldier in the Revolutionary Army; great-great-grandson of Capt. Thomas Martin of the provincial service of Virginia, a native of Albemarle County, Va., born in 1714, and of Jacob Moon, of Virginia; great-great-great-grandson of John Martin, who was born in 1685 in Albemarle County, Va.; great-great-great-grandson of Abram Martin, born in Ireland, of Welsh parents, who came to America in 1680, and married a Virginian. Mr. Martin attended an old field school taught by Peter Gilbert, and beyond the instruction he gained there, was self-educated. He read law in the office of his uncle, Benjamin Y. Martin, at Columbus, Ga., in 1854, and later in the office of Allen Elland, at Crawford. He was admitted to the bar in July, 1855, by the supreme court at Montgomery; practiced law in Russell County for fifty-four years, and then retired. He was appointed superintendent of education for Russell County in 1857; was elected to the office in 1858, 1860, 1862, and 1864, and served in 1865 until Gov. Parsons became the executive. He was offered the office by Gov. Parsons, but declined. He was elected to the State legislature, and served in the session of 1878-1879. During the first year of the War of Secession, he served as high private, and was made colonel of militia of Russell County in 1863. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Married: November 11, 1859, at Crawford, Russell County, to Anna Lewis Calhoun, daughter of John Lewis and Hannah Louisa (Morgan) Calhoun, of Russell County, the former a native of Abbeville District, S. C.; granddaughter of Stokeley and Mary (Evans) Morgan, the former a native of North Carolina; great-granddaughter of Jesse Evans, who emigrated from Georgia to Mount Meigs, in the early settlement of that place. Children: 1. Caroline Louisa, m. Benjamin Rhodes, Barnesville, Ga.; 2. Lucia Mallette, m. William Gardy Killian, Barnesville, Ga.; 3. Lewis Calhoun, deceased; 4. Selma Roberts, Seale; 5. Mary Grace, m. Wesley Solomon McLeod, Opelika; 6. Ruth Ella, m. Henry Jebb Martin, Seale; 7. Lyman Waddell, jr., m. Miriam Roberts Swift, El Centro, Calif.; 8. Anna Calhoun, Seale, m. Jarvis Gipson Boykin, deceased; 9. Augusta Benning, Montgomery. Last residence: Seale.

MARTIN, PETER, lawyer, was born February 27, 1797, in Blount County, Tenn., and died November 10, 1862, at Tuscaloosa; son of Warner and Martha (Bailey) Martin, the former a farmer in Marysville, Tenn., the latter a sister of Hon. Henry Bailey, attorney-general of South Carolina, 1836-1847; grandson of John William and Martha (Metcalf) Martin; and a descendant of Louis Montaigne, who fled from France in 1724, and settled in South Carolina, changing his name to Martin. He was of Huguenot, Scotch and German ancestry, and was a brother of Gov. Joshua Lanier Martin (q. v.). He obtained his schooling from Rev. Isaac Anderson, of Marysville, Tenn., and studied law under Judge Campbell and Judge Hugh L. White in Knoxville, Tenn. He was admitted to the bar at Knoxville, and moved to Alabama in 1818, beginning the practice of law at Russellville, Franklin County. In 1819, when the first elections of Alabama as a state were held, Mr. Martin was made solicitor of the circuit. He was elected to the legislature from Franklin County, in 1825; was elected attorney general of the state in 1832 and served four years, moving to Tuscaloosa during that time; was appointed judge of the circuit court in 1836, and twice elected to that office, holding it until he resigned in 1843; was elected to the legislature in 1844 on a divided ticket, and served as chairman of the committee on the state bank and branches. His service in the legislature at that time was the last public office he held, and on the expiration of his term, he resumed the practice of law in Tuscaloosa. In addition to his profession, Mr. Martin was a successful planter, and was owner of "Glendower," a plantation in Greene County. Prior to 1825, he built a large brick residence at Russellville, said to have been the first brick house built in the Tennessee Valley. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian.

Married: (1) to Sarah Bell Burnley, (2) to Mary Burnley, daughters of Reuben and Harriett (Triplett) Burnley; granddaughters of Daniel and Elizabeth (Richards) Triplett, who were married at Falmouth, Stafford County, Va., the former the owner of the Haphazard Mills and Mines in Madison County, Va.; great-granddaughters of Simon Triplett, and of John Richards; great-great-granddaughters of Hedgeman Triplett, one of three brothers who came from Wales during the reign of George I, and settled in Westmoreland County, Va., and of William Bird Richards; great-great-great-granddaughters of Dr. Thomas Triplett, sub-dean of Westminster, who is buried in the Abbey. The Burnleys came from England to Virginia, and were connected by marriage with Joseph Hume, of the English parliament. Children, by first marriage: 1. Harriett Triplett, d. a few months after graduating from the Stafford School; 2. William Henry, attorney general of Alabama in 1847, d. in Memphis, and is buried in Tuscaloosa, m. Artemissa Jones of Tuskegee; 3. Leonidas, attorney general of California, was appointed consul to Mazatlan, d. before taking the office, while on a visit to his father in Tuscaloosa, 1857; 4. Lucien Van Buren, lawyer, editor of the "Tuscaloosa Observer," solicitor of Tuscaloosa circuit, 1856-1860, appointed attorney for the southern district of Alabama by President Johnson, 1867, d. March 22, 1873, in Tuscaloosa, m. Susan Virginia Fitts; by second marriage; 5. Albert Burnley, private in the C. S. Army, was blown up on a steamboat on his way home from the army, 1865; 6. Joshua Lanier, planter, private in C. S. Army, d. in Emory, Tex., m. Emma Blocker, of Tuscaloosa County; 7. Horace Walpole, served in Fowler's battery, C. S. Army, until close of war, was wounded at the battle of Shiloh, mayor of Emory, Tex., and city attorney of Quanah, Tex.; m. Mintre Cook, of Texas, Quanah, Tex.; 8. Landora Louisa, d. December 25, 1912, at Quanah, Tex., m. Reuben Robinson Brown. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MARTIN, THOMAS WESLEY, lawyer, was born August 13, 1881, at Scottsboro, Jackson County; son of William Logan and Maggie (Ledbetter) Martin (q. v.). He was educated in the Scottsboro College and Normal School, the public schools of Montgomery; and at Starke's University School, which he attended, 1893-1898. He attended the academic department of the University of Alabama for some time, and later the law department, from which he was graduated, LL. B., 1900. He began the practice of law at Montgomery, in December, 1901, in partnership with his father, continuing that association until the death of the latter in 1907. He served as assistant in the office of the attorney general, 1903-1907; and in 1907 was appointed by Alexander M. Garber, attorney-general, to the newly created position of assistant attorney-general. Since 1911, he has been associated with the Alabama Power Company, and is now vice president and general counsel. He is a Democrat, a Presbyterian, a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: to Evelyn, daughter of John C. and Evelyn Tyson, of Montgomery. Residence: Birmingham.

MARTIN, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Montgomery County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on August 21, 1834, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MARTIN, WILLIAM, major and later lieutenant colonel, 56th Alabama Partisan Rangers, C. S. Army.

MARTIN, WILLIAM BUCKINGHAM, lawyer, was born in 1807, in Blount County, Tenn.; nephew of Gov. Joshua Lanier Martin (q. v.) and of Judge Peter Martin (q. v.). He had a good common school education, studied law, and was admitted to the bar. After practicing for a short time in Tennessee, he came to Alabama and opened a law office in Jacksonville, 1834. Three years later he was elected to the State legislature from Calhoun County; was elected solicitor and held the office for about two years; was again sent to the legislature in 1842 and 1843; was a presidential elector for Polk and Dallas, 1844; was elected to the State senate in 1847 and 1849, and again in 1853, at which time he was made president of the body; was the unsuccessful candidate for congress in opposition to Sampson W. Harris, 1855; was again elected to the lower house of the legislature, 1861, and served two years. After the War of Secession had begun, he enlisted in the C. S. Army as a private, but his age and infirmities compelled him to return home. In 1866, he moved to Etowah County, and continued his law practice in Gadsden. Married: a Miss Montgomery of Tennessee. Capt. James B. Martin, formerly of Talladega, who died in 1870 in Texas, was his son. Last residence: Gadsden.

MARTIN, WILLIAM ELIJAH, college president, was born in Tuscaloosa County, February 21, 1874; son of William Thomas and Mary Lou (Martin) Martin; grandson of William Seaborn and Susanna (Huchison) Martin, and of Elijius Telfair and Alice (Rosser) Martin, of Hale and Tuscaloosa Counties. He received his early education in the graded schools of Havana, Hale County; graduated from Southern university, Greensboro, A. M., 1896, and from Johns Hopkins university, Ph. D., 1901. He was principal of Lower Peach Tree academy, 1897-98; professor of history and political economy, Emory and Henry college, Va., 1901-04; vice-president and president of Sullins college, Va., 1904-10; president of Woman's college of Alabama, Montgomery, 1910-15; president Ward-Belmont, Nashville, Tenn., 1915; and again president Sullins college since 1916. Author: "Internal improvements in the State of Alabama," 1901. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a member of the Phi Beta Kappa (honorary), and of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. Married: September 19, 1908, to Aurelia McTyler, daughter of Dr. William Malone and Janie (McTyler) Baskerville, of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Baskerville was for many years professor of English at Vanderbilt university, the author of several English text books and the well known series "Southern writers;" and wife was the daughter of Holland N. McTyler, the late senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Children: 1. Janie Baskerville; 2. William Thomas, jr. Residence: Bristol, Va.

MARTIN, WILLIAM JOSEPH, lawyer, was born July 1, 1869, near Shelby Springs, Shelby County; son of William Hampton and Susan Elizabeth (Cobb) Martin, the former a native of South Carolina, who moved to Shelby County early in life, and was a farmer; grandson of Robert and Elizabeth (Crim) Martin, of Shelby County, and of Elijah and Elizabeth (Davis) Cobb, who lived near Chehaw, or Tuskegee, Macon County, the former who was a soldier in the Creek and Mexican Wars. He obtained his early education from his mother, and later attended Pratt's academy, at Six Mile, Bibb County. He taught school for a number of years, and during that time studied law. He was admitted to the bar in September, 1895; began to practice at Clanton, Chilton County; moved to Ensley in 1899; served as city attorney for Ensley, Jefferson County, 1902-1904; moved to Stevenson, Jackson County, in 1906; represented Jackson County in the State legislature of 1911, and after the adjournment of that session, was appointed State land agent, serving until 1915. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; an Odd Fellow; a member of the Junior Order

SAMUEL P. GAILLARD

United American Mechanics; and of the Red Men. Married: November 17, 1896, to Sudie Fancher, daughter of Thomas M. and Miriam (McGuire) Fancher, who lived at Six Mile, Bibb County, the former who served in Co. D, Sixth Alabama infantry regiment, Clanton's brigade, and after the war was tax assessor of Bibb County. Children: 1. Margaret. Residence: Stevenson.

MARTIN, WILLIAM LOGAN, lawyer, was born November 3, 1850, at Union Chapel, Madison County, and died May 7, 1907; son of Thomas Wesley and Elizabeth Jane (Horton) Martin, the former a native of Madison County, who was a farmer, school teacher and a merchant; grandson of Jesse Martin, a soldier in the War of 1812, and of John B. Horton, both of Madison County; great-grandson of Frank Martin, a Revolutionary soldier, who moved from Virginia to Madison County in 1808. The Martins and Hortons are both of English descent, the ancestors of the former settling in Virginia, and of the latter in South Carolina. Mr. Martin was educated in the common schools of Madison County; was graduated from the law school of the Cumberland university, Tennessee, in 1873; began the practice of law in Scottsboro in 1873, practicing alone until 1889, then forming a partnership with Virgil Bouldin, with whom he practiced until 1902, under the firm name of Martin and Bouldin. He was register in chancery for Jackson County, 1878-1885; attorney general of Alabama, 1889-1894; and code commissioner, 1896. He represented Montgomery County in the State legislature, in 1897, and was elected speaker of that body, serving as such until his death, shortly before the close of the session. He was a Democrat, a Knight of Honor, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: to Margaret, daughter of Joel P. and Jane C. Ledbetter, of Jackson County. Children: 1. Fannilee, m. Harry C. Abell; 2. Thomas Wesley (q. v.); 3. William L., jr; 4. Kathleen; 5. Susie; 6. Helen. Last residence: Montgomery.

MARX, JULIUS LEE, banker, was born February 6, 1865, at Mobile; son of Isaac and Amelia (Weidenreich) Marx, the former a native of Geklingin-Rhine Pfalz, Germany, who came to Alabama in the early forties, located in Demopolis in 1844, and resided there until the beginning of the War of Secession, when he joined the C. S. Army and served in the quartermaster department, the latter who lived at Frankenthal Rhine Pfalz, Germany, and was educated in Berlin, who came to Demopolis in 1853. He attended the private and public schools of Demopolis, and was graduated from Spring Hill college, near Mobile, A. B., 1886. The degree of A. M. was later conferred upon him by the same college. He became a banker, and is now president of the Marx Banking Company, Demopolis. He is president of the congregation of B'nai Jerushun, Demopolis, and superintendent of the Sunday school; is past chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, an Elk, and a member of B'nai B'rith. Married: March 1, 1898, at Chattanooga, Tenn., to Hattie Simpson, daughter of Aaron and Fannie Simpson, of Chattanooga, Tenn. Children: 1. Amelia Simpson, b. March 6, 1906, at Demopolis; 2. Julius Simpson, b. October 1, 1910, at Demopolis. Residence: Demopolis.

MASON, CASSITY E., teacher, was born at Florence; daughter of Dr. Joseph Daniel and Eliza Maria (Bigelow) Mason, of Jackson, Tenn., granddaughter of Daniel and Dorothy (Smith) Mason, of Northampton Court House, N. C., and Paris, Tenn., and of Elijah and Maria (Oliver) Bigelow, the former an early editor, and the latter an educator, of Jackson, Tenn. She received her education at the Memphis conference female collegiate institute, Jackson, Tenn., graduating, 1881, and received the honorary degree of LL. M., 1895; did special work at New York university, Columbia, and the University of Chicago; also studied abroad at Paris and Geneva. She was principal of St. James hall, Bolivar, Tenn., 1891; Brooke hall seminary, Media, Pa., 1892-95; founded in 1895, and since that date the principal of The Castle, Tarrytown-on-Hudson, N. Y. She took the law course at New York university; has served as president of the international council for patriotic service; chairman, educational committee of the Sorosis club; is independent in politics; and is a member of the Episcopal church. Address: Tarrytown-on-Hudson, N. Y.

MASON, ENOCH MARVIN, physician, graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute with the degree of B. S., 1900; M. S. 1901; and of Johns Hopkins university, with the M. D. degree, 1906. He was licensed to practice by the State board in 1907. Residence: Birmingham.

MASON, J. M., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference; deceased; father of Dr. E. M. Mason of Birmingham.

MASON, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, resided in Mobile County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MASON, WILLIAM I., grand master of the grand lodge, 1831.

MASON, WYLIE W., lawyer, chancellor, was born in Georgia, and died in 1870, at Tuskegee. He was educated at the University of Georgia, and came to Alabama about 1838. He began the practice of law at Wetumpka, in partnership with Hon. Armistead B. Dawson; was elected chancellor, defeating Hon. J. B. Clarke of Greene County and others, in 1845, and filled the office for six years; moved to Macon County in 1852, and resided in Auburn and Tuskegee; was elected to the State legislature from Macon County in 1861. Married: to Matilda Warren Catchings. He left a number of descendants in Macon County, and one of his sons, William R. Mason, was register in chancery of the county for many years. Another son, Wylie Alfred, served in the C. S. Army as sergeant of Co. B, Sixty-first Alabama infantry regiment, 1863, and as lieutenant, 1865; became a minister in the Baptist church, and was pastor of churches at Glenville, 1869; at Okolona, 1870; at Grenada, 1873; at Canton, 1875; at Chrystal Springs, Miss., 1886; at Monroe, La., 1878; at Bowling Green, Ky., 1891; at Deadwood, S. D., 1895; at Amarillo, Tex., 1897; was employed as lecturer in Chicago, Wisconsin and Iowa; is author of "Lessons of the Ages for this Age," "Ephesiam Truth," "The Satan of the Scriptures versus the Devil of Christendom;" received the degree of D. D. from the University of Alabama, 1892; m. (1) Mary Hill Stackhouse, (2) Pearle Martha Bailey. Last residence: Tuskegee.

MASSEY, JOHN, educator, was born December 16, 1834, in Choctaw County; son of Drury and Vashli (Graham) Massey, the former a native of Spartanburg, S. C., who lived in that place until the beginning of the nineteenth century, when he moved to Tennessee, served in the War of 1812 under Gen. Jackson, moved to Alabama in 1817, and followed farming in Choctaw County until his death in 1849, his wife surviving him until 1857; grandson of Christopher and Ann (Vaughn) Graham, of Washington County. He passed his boyhood on the farm in Choctaw County, and was taught to read at home. When he was thirteen years old, he was for a short time a pupil of John James, an Irishman, whose large library was open to the boy for several years. Later he was for six years, a student in the school of Prof. George F. and Dr. S. S. Mellen, and for two years was Dr. Mellen's assistant teacher. He entered the University of Alabama in 1859, and was graduated with honor, A. B., 1862, and A. M., 1875. The degree of Doctor of laws was conferred by his alma mater in 1879. During the last half of his senior year at the university, he served as lieutenant in command of one of the companies of the cadet corps, by appointment of the governor of Alabama. At his graduation, he was solicited by Dr. L. C. Garland, president of the University, to remain with the institution as assistant professor and instructor in military tactics. He declined the position in order to enter the C. S. Army; enlisted in Hilliard's legion, and was appointed adjutant of the First battalion. In the first large battle of that command, at Chickamauga, he was distinguished for gallantry, and won a place on the roll of honor. He was twice wounded in that battle, while leading his battalion in the last charge up the heights of Snodgrass Hill, September 20, 1863. Early in 1864, at the request of the president, and trustees of the University of Alabama, and of the governor of the state, he was permitted to resign from the army and accept the position of instructor in tactics and assistant professor in the university, which was at that time considered the West Point of the C. S. A. He held that position until the university was destroyed by the enemy April 3, 1865, just before the close of the war.

After the war, Dr. Massey taught a high school at Mt. Sterling, in Choctaw County for a year; was principal of the male school at Summerfield, 1866-1874; taught in a high school in Mobile, 1874-1876; was elected to the presidency of the Alabama conference female college, at Tuskegee, in 1876, and held the position until 1909. Among his former students are found such men as John R. Tyson, former chief justice, J. R. Dowdell, former chief justice, Judge J. C. Richardson, Judge Miller, F. M. Jackson, of Birmingham, and U. C. Gaines and Dr. V. C. Gaines, of Mobile. During his thirty-three years at the head of the Alabama conference female college, Dr. Massey was offered the presidency of the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, the presidency of the Southern university at Greensboro, and the presidency of the Girls' industrial school at Montevallo, all of which he declined. He was a Democrat; a steward in the Methodist Episcopal church; a member of the board of education of the church; a member of the board of education of the Alabama Conference; a member of the National Educational Association; of the Southern Educational Association; and of the Alabama Educational Association, of which he was president, 1894-1895. Married: (1) September 22, 1866, in Jackson, to Fredonia Alethia Taylor, who died November 21, 1871, daughter of Walter and Amanda C. Taylor, of that place; (2) July 9, 1873, in Summerfield, Dallas County to Elnora Frances Dallas, who died October 21, 1912, daughter of Alexander Dallas, who was born in Scotland, and emigrated to America, becoming an early settler and planter of Greene County. Children, by first wife: 1. Louis Vaughn, b. September 29, 1869, m. Annie Castleman of Greensboro, Chicago, Ill.; 2. Fredonia Eva, b. October 14, 1871, teacher in Ward seminary, Nashville, Tenn.; by second marriage: 3. Mabelle, b. March 19, 1879, m. December 14, 1911, to Benagee B. Cobb, Tuskegee. Last residence: Tuskegee.

MASTERSON, BENJAMIN O., member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from Lawrence County, part of the fifty-first election district; father of Dr. John S. Masterson, of Moulton.

MASTIN, CLAUDIUS HENRY, physician, was born June 4, 1826, in Huntsville; son of Capt. Francis Turner and Ann Elizabeth Caroline (Lavert) Mastin, natives respectively, of Maryland and King William County, Va., the former a planter who came to Alabama as a volunteer aid to Gen. Jackson soon after the war of 1812, and located in Huntsville, where he spent the remainder of his life; grandson of Francis T. Mastin, of Wales, who came to America with Lord Fairfax and settled in Maryland, and of Claudius and Ann Lee (Metcalfe) Lavert, the former a native of Lyons, France, and a physician, who was chief surgeon of the fleet commanded by Count Rochambeau, who came to America during the Revolutionary war to assist the colonies, the latter a great-niece of Admiral Edward Vernon of the British Navy, after whom Mount Vernon, the home of Washington, was named. Dr. Mastin was a half-brother of James Hervy Mastin, formerly a banker at Huntsville, who was president of the Madison Turn Pike Company, and of the First National Bank, who married Mary Jane Erskine, and died April 13, 1895, and of Gustavus Lyle Mastin, who was a planter before 1860, then became a merchant at Huntsville, was married to Elenor Fearn, and died August 11, 1880. Dr. Mastin was graduated from the University of Virginia; studied medicine at Huntsville, and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, M. D., 1849. The next year he attended lectures in the University of France, the Royal college of surgeons, England, and the University of Edinburgh. On his return to the United States, he located at Mobile in the practice of medicine. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he entered the C. S. Army as a volunteer surgeon on the staff of Gen. Bragg, was immediately commissioned surgeon, and ordered to Manassas Junction, Va., as surgeon of that post. He was transferred to the staff of Gen. Polk as medical director of the first grand division of the western department in 1862; remained with Gen. Polk as his corps surgeon until after the battle of Shiloh; and was then transferred to the staff of Gen. Beauregard as medical director of the army of the Mississippi in which position he served until the end of the war. After the war he returned to the practice of his profession in Mobile. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him in 1875, by the University of Pennsylvania. He was a member of the Boston Gynecological society, of the American Association of Andrology and Syphilology, and of the Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association. He was founder of the Congress of American physicians and surgeons; was one of the organizers of the American Surgical Association in 1880, and served as second vice president, 1883-1884, as first vice president, 1889-1890, as president, 1890-1891, and as council member, 1891-1892; was one of the trustees of the Pan-American Medical Congress of 1876; was a member of the central council of the University of Pennsylvania; and was medical examiner of the University of Pennsylvania for the states of Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Married: in 1848, to Mary Eliza McDowell of Huntsville. He had four children, two sons and two daughters. Of the two sons, both physicians, William McDowell studied medicine under his father, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, M. D., 1874, and received the honorary degree of LL. D. from St. Joseph's college, Mobile, 1905, was interne at the hospital of the University of Pennsylvania two years, and at the Wills eye hospital, Philadelphia, one term, has practiced at Mobile since 1877, has been surgeon of the Mobile City hospital and Providence infirmary since 1895, was for several years one of the associate editors of "Annals of Surgery," and is a frequent contributor to medical and surgical literature, m. in 1882, to Margaret L. Crawford, of Mobile, children, one son and two daughters. Last residence: Mobile.

MASTIN, PETER BLACKWELL, sr., planter, was born in 1811, in Robinson County, Tenn., and died March, 1865, at "Fairview" his plantation home near Montgomery; son of Gabriel Mastin, who commanded a company in the War of 1812, under Gen. Andrew Jackson. The Mastin family is of English stock, settling first in Virginia. He came to Montgomery County in 1851 and settled near Le Grand and engaged in digging canals to drain the wet prairie lands of the wealthy planters of that community, thus introducing the canal system which spread to all the black prairie counties of the State. He built a saw mill near Le Grand, acquired both land and negro slaves and added extensive planting to his other activities, enjoying an income of $25,000 a year. He built a large residence on the plantation just south of Montgomery to which he removed his family. At one time he served as U. S. Marshal and was appointed sheriff of Montgomery County. He served in the Creek Indian War with rank as captain. He was a Democrat; and Secessionist. Married: in 1836, at Le Grand, to Mary Amelia, daughter of Richard and Mildred (Mims) Myrick, of Edgefield District, S. C., who removed to Alabama in 1819, locating near Ramer, entering lands between Le Grand and Ramer. Children: 1. Thomas, m. (1) Sara Isabelle Graham, one child, Thomas B., jr., (2) Lily C. Taylor; 2. Peter Blackwell, jr., (q. v.); 3. Martha Ann, m. Hamilton MacIntyre; 4. Mildred Rebecca, m. William A. Graham, of Prattville, six children, (1) Mary Foster; (2) William; (3) Mastin; (4) Peter; (5) Malcolm; (6) Mildred; 5. Mary Amelia, m. George Clinton Clisby; two children: (1) Mary Mastin, (2) Emily Hughes; 6. Sarah Louise, m. Samuel Thomas Westcott, one child, Thomas. Last residence: "Fairview," near Montgomery.

MASTIN, PETER BLACKWELL, jr., planter, representative Alabama legislature 1907-11, was born September 29, 1842, near Le Grand, and died October 16, 1918, at his ancestral home "Fairview" Montgomery; son of Peter Blackwell and Mary (Myrick) Mastin (q. v.). His early education was received in public and private schools of his native county, with two years attendance in Irving college, Warren County, Tenn.; while a student at the University of Alabama, 1861, the War of Secession began and in August he enlisted in Co. F, 17th Alabama infantry regiment, being made 3rd lieutenant. He was at the bombardment of Pensacola and Warrenton navy yard, Fla., assisted in the capture of Prentiss' division at Shiloh, April 6, 1862; fought at Farmington; promoted to 1st lieutenant, and commanded Co. I, same regiment; captain Co. G, 53rd Alabama cavalry, taking part in the fight at Cherokee station; in command of a company of scouts under Gen. Kelly; captured three Union soldiers, single handed while they were engaged in destroying a railroad bridge in Sherman's rear; accompanied Wheeler's raid into Tennessee to destroy Sherman's communications; was in the battle of New Hope church and of Atlanta, July 22, 1864, and on duty in Columbia, S. C., at the end of hostilities. He was a master of the county grange, a notary public, deputy tax collector, 1892-93; chairman Montgomery County Democratic executive committee and State board Confederate pension examiners.

On May 7, 1907, he was elected, without opposition to succeed the late William L. Martin as a representative from Montgomery County, and was again elected to that body 1911. Capt. Mastin was chosen by the committee of the Alabama Division, U. D. C., having in charge the monument to Alabama troops at Shiloh, to assist in the selection of a proper site and was present and participated in the unveiling exercises in May, 1907. Married: October 10, 1864, at Columbus, to Miss Mary Eliza, daughter of James Warren and Sarah Jane (Reid) Harris, her parents being natives of North Carolina. Her maternal grandmother was an Oliver. In 1914 Capt. and Mrs. Mastin celebrated their golden wedding at their home "Fairview." Children: 1. Walter; d.; 2. Mattie Alston, m. Robert Austin Jones of Texas, several children; 3. Thomas B., d.; 4. Peter B., Jr., m. Mabel Ward, two children. Last residence: Montgomery.

MASTIN, WILLIAM McDOWELL, surgeon, was born July 3, 1853, in Mobile; son of Dr. Claudius Henry and Mary E. (McDowell) Mastin (q. v.). He received the degree of M. D., from the University of Pennsylvania in 1874, and LL. D., from St. Joseph's college, Mobile, 1905. He has practiced at Mobile since 1877, and has been surgeon of Mobile city hospital and Providence infirmary since 1882. He is a fellow American surgical association; American college of surgeons; Southern surgical and gynecological association; and a member of the American genito-urinary association. Contributor: American practice of surgery; reference handbook of the medical sciences, etc. Author: numerous articles for medical and surgical journals. Married: in November, 1882, to Margaret L. Crawford, of Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

MATHEWS, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Jackson County; private Virginia Continental Line and Militia; enrolled on January 2, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $46.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $139.98.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Jackson County, June 1, 1840, aged 78.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MATHEWS, DAVID CHAPMAN, teacher and farmer, was born June 10, 1886, near Jackson, Clarke County; son of James Waldrum and Francis Isabella (McLeod) Mathews (q. v.); grandson of David and Rebecca (Waldrum) Mathews, the former who served in the C. S. Army, Thirty-second Alabama infantry regiment, and was captured at Lookout Mountain, and of John and Christine (Calhoun) McLeod, who lived near Jackson, the former a Confederate soldier, killed in the battle of Franklin, Tenn.; great-grandson of Louis Martin, who belonged to Sumter's command. The Mathews family came to Alabama from Edgefield District, S. C. Mr. Mathews received his education in the schools of Clarke County and at the First District Agricultural school at Jackson. He is a teacher; a farmer; has taught for twelve years in the counties of Clarke and Washington; and represented Clarke County in the State legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: April 24, 1910, at Jackson, to Emma Lee, daughter of R. S. and Mima Bumpers, of Allen. Children: 1. Forrest Lee; 2. Louis Waldrum; 3. Frances Louise. Residence: Allen.

MATHEWS, JAMES WALDRUM, farmer and legislator, was born September 9, 1852, near Grove Hill; son of David and Rebecca (Waldrum) Mathews, the former of Edgefield District, S. C., and a member of the 32d Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was captured and spent fourteen months in Rock Island, Ill., prison, the latter of Clarke County; grandson of Josiah and Lucy (Martin) Mathews, of South Carolina, and of James and Polly (Walker) Waldrum, of Clarke County, the former a veteran of the Creek Indian War; great-grandson of Louis Martin, who was in General Sumter's command during the War of the Revolution. He was educated at Highland academy, near Grove Hill. He is a farmer; justice of the peace; and was a member of the board of education of Clarke County, which he represented in the legislatures of 1898-9; 1911 and 1915. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: (1) November 10, 1870, near Grove Hill, to Frances Isabella McLeod, who died September 22, 1895; (2) October 11, 1896, to Christian, daughter of Daniel and Matilda McLeod, of Grove Hill, and cousin of first wife. Children: by first wife, 1. Forrest Lee; 2. Wynona, m. J. A. Bolen; 3. W. E.; 4. Charisea A., m. E. H. Walker; 5. Albert Sydney, m. Juddie Williams; 6. Mary A. m. Arvin Payne; 7. David C., m. Emma Bumpers; 8. Mittie; 9. Mitford McLeod; 10. Fanny. Residence: Jackson.

MATHEWS, JOEL EARLY, planter, was born October 21, 1809, at Goose Pond, Oglethorpe County, Ga., and died May 11, 1874, at Selma; son of Col. Charles Lewis and Lucy (Early) Mathews, of Georgia, the latter a sister of Gov. Peter Early of Georgia; grandson of George and Anne (Pond) Mathews, who lived at Staunton, Va., the former an officer in the French and Indian Wars, colonel of the Ninth Virginia regiment in the Revolutionary War, who moved to Georgia after the Revolution, was elected governor of that state in 1786 and again in 1793, and was one of the first three members of congress from Georgia; great-grandson of John Mathews who married a Miss Archer, and emigrated from Ireland to America, settling near Staunton, Va., and of John Paul, the son of Hugh Paul, bishop of Nottingham, England. Mr. Mathews was educated at the University of Georgia and the University of Virginia, and was graduated in both law and medicine at the latter institution. He never engaged in the practice of either profession, and in 1831, soon after his graduation, moved to Alabama and settled on a plantation on the Alabama River, near Cahaba, in Dallas County. He spent forty years of his life in the management of his large estate at that place. Because of his age, he took no active course during the War of Secession, but contributed largely to the Confederate government. Soon after Alabama seceded, he sent his check for fifteen thousand dollars in gold to Gov. Moore, to be used at his discretion for the defense of the state. He equipped several military companies at his own expense, supplied the needs of the army liberally from his plantation all through the war, and cared for the families of a number of men at the front. He was a Jeffersonian Democrat, of the order of John C. Calhoun, but never held any public office. He was a pioneer in the manufacturing life of the state, building one of the first, if not the first, cotton mill in Alabama, at Cahaba, before the war. After that mill was burned, he built again in Selma, where his last years were spent.

Married: October 5, 1830, to Elizabeth Woods Poague, of Albemarle County, Va., who died November 5, 1869, daughter of Maj. William Poague, and his wife, before her marriage, a Miss Warwick, who lived in Bath County, Va. The Poague family was prominent in Augusta, Rockbridge and Botetourt Counties, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Mathews survived all their children but one, Joel Early, Jr., who died a few years after their death without children. Two daughters, Anne Eliza and Lucy Early, married respectively, Col. N. H. R. Dawson, of Dallas, and Col. Daniel S. Troy, of Montgomery. Both died young, the latter childless, and the former leaving an only daughter, who later married Dr. John P. Furniss, of Selma. Last residence: Selma.

MATHIS, IDA ELIZABETH (BRANDON), farmer and promoter of diversified farming, was born September 16, 1856, at Florence, Lauderdale County; daughter of Washington McClure and Mary Baldwin (Munn) Brandon, the former was born in Franklin County, lived in early life in Tuscumbia, and later locating in Florence, where he died; granddaughter of Jared and Jennie (Smith) Brandon, natives of South Carolina who later removed to Alabama, and of Matthias and Roxanna (Finney) Munn, the former of South Carolina, a student for several years at the University of Pennsylvania, moved to Alabama in 1820 and settled first in Huntsville, the latter was born in Huntsville in 1822, and removed to Tuscumbia in 1843; great-granddaughter of Mathew Smith, a second lieutenant under Capt. Goodrich Crump of the 1st Virginia regiment in the Revolutionary War; great-great-granddaughter of Sallie Wallace, daughter of John Wallace, Presbyterian minister, of Londonderry, Ireland, and a lineal descendant of Sir William Wallace, of Scotland. The paternal ancestors were of English and Scotch descent, the Smiths were also Scotch, settling in Virginia in the early history of the country, later going to South Carolina, where they met the Brandons. The Munns were English, and located first in New Jersey, and the Finneys were Irish. Mrs. Mathis was educated in Florence, and graduated from the Synodical college there, June 1874, with honors, and the M. A. degree. For several years following, she was a member of the Oxford, Ala., college faculty, teaching natural science and expression. Later in life she managed her own plantation and gained a practical experience that has inspired and instructed other farmers to a marked degree. During the period of the European War, 1916-17, at which time the ravages of the boll weevil and the closed European markets caused a grave economic depression in the cotton states, Mrs. Mathis was invited to appear upon the platform or serve as a member of committees composed of the wisest leaders of the section, to aid in formulating a program of agricultural revolution and to raise the spirits of the masses. Her work locally brought her national reputation, and she was frequently called to Washington to consult with government officials, and to New York, to advise with Wall Street financiers regarding the situation. In addition to her platform and conference work, she contributed liberally to the press on agricultural and economic subjects and her opinions were sought by agricultural and finance magazines. Married: November 8, 1882, near Florence, to Giles Huffman Mathis, a merchant and cotton buyer. The Mathis family lived near Spartanburg, S. C., and moved to Calhoun County in 1855, locating near Alexandria, being substantial citizens and farmers. Children: 1. Rosa, m. C. G. Kershaw, New York; 2. Emma Munn, teacher; 3. Allen Washington, graduate of University of Alabama, 1913, in law; 1st lieutenant, 26th Division, 103rd Infantry, U. S. Army, in European War; wounded July 18, 1918, at Chateau Thierry, m. Ola Davis, of Tuscaloosa, and lives in Gadsden. Residence: Gadsden.

MATLOCK, JOSEPH D., grand master, grand council, Mason, 1912; 33rd degree Honorary Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

MATTHEWS, BARNETT HOUSER, merchant, was born October 20, 1874, at Autauga-ville, Autauga County; son of Britton Dixon and Rachael Louisa (Houser) Matthews, of Autauga County; and grandson of John Smith and ——— (Harris) Matthews, of Oak Bowery, Chambers County, and of Reddick Pierce and Mary (Whetstone) Houser, of Autauga-ville, Autauga County. His maternal grandparents emigrated from Orangeburg, S. C., to Autauga County. They were of Scotch and Dutch descent. His paternal grandparents removed from La Grange, Ga., and located in Chambers County. Mr. Matthews received his education in the public school at Autauga-ville. He was engaged in the insurance business, 1891-1895; was shipping clerk for Teague & Sons, 1895-1897; traveling salesman, 1897-1907; and has been in the mercantile business since 1907. He was councilman and mayor of Camden, 1909-1917; was a member of the city board of education, 1908-1916; and represented Wilcox County in the State legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 22, 1896, at Montgomery, to Claudia A., daughter of William Henry and Nellie Eaton (Nall) Miller, of Benton, Lowndes County. Children: 1. Nellie Nall; 2. Callie Louise; 3. Bessie Barnett. Residence: Camden.

MATTHEWS, EMMET ABRAM, physician, was born September 4, 1859, at Marion Junction, Perry County, deceased; son of Samuel Jasper and Mary Elizabeth (Mathews) Matthews, the former a native of Mecklenburg County, Va., who lived near Marion, served four years in the War of Secession, was with Gen. Lee at Gettysburg, and was wounded in the battles of the Wilderness and Cold Harbor; grandson of Greene and Mary Matthews, of Mecklenburg County, Va., and of Abram and Harriet Mathews, of Perry County. He received his early schooling in Hamburg from Moody H. May; attended Howard college at Marion; studied medicine and attended the University of the City of New York. He passed the state board of examiners of Alabama, 1886, and was graduated at the Medical college of Alabama at Mobile, M. D., 1887. He began the practice of medicine at Clanton, and has continued his profession at that place. He was elected mayor of Clanton in March, 1907, and served in that position through 1913. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: February, 28, 1888, at Selma, to Belle, daughter of Samuel S. and Mattie S. Johnston, who lived at Burnsville, the former a major in the C S. Army. Children: 1. Marion, m. Dr. G. B. Wimberley of Reform, who served one term as State senator from Pickens County; 2. Samuel Curry, first honor graduate from Marion institute; 3. Emmet, was graduated from Judson college A. B. Residence: Clanton.

MATTHEWS, HENRY H., clerk of Montgomery city court, was born October 23, 1854, at the Arsenal academy, Columbia, S. C., and died June 6, 1906; son of Capt. Joseph and Margaret Jane (Campbell) Matthews, the former a native of Liverpool, England, at one time a private in the U. S. Army, later superintendent, with the rank of captain, of the Arsenal academy, Columbia, S. C., the latter a native of Ireland. He was educated in the schools of his native city. He removed to Alabama in 1870, locating in Montgomery, and was appointed clerk of the city court of Montgomery which position he held until his death. He was a Mason and an Episcopalian. Married: in February, 1878, to Mary Charles Ray, of Mount Meigs. There were six children born of this union. Last residence: Montgomery.

MATTHEWS, JAMES CALVIN, merchant and farmer, was born in Dale County, and died May 23, 1894, at Crittenden's Mill; son of Moses and Mary (Truit) Matthews, the former a native of South Carolina, born March 12, 1778, who came to Alabama about 1815, and lived at Ozark; grandson of Kirt Truit. He was educated in Dale County, and engaged in merchandising and farming during the greater part of his life. He laid out the city of Ozark; represented Dale County in the State legislature, 1865 and 1866; served as commissioner of Dale County for two terms; as justice of the peace for several years; and as notary public. He was a captain in the home guard for some time; was a Union man; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: about 1843, at Newton, to Unity Tonson, daughter of Kineth Yelverton, of Newton. Children: 1. Rev. C. L.; 2. Chris Livingston, m. Zada Martin, daughter of Benjamin Martin; 3. Calidemia, m. Billie Mobley Clinton; 4. Calhoun, m. Linie Creach; 5. Bamina, m. Amie Edwards; 6. Oliver Lamar, m. Sallie Martin; 7. Mattie, m. Dr. Sid Jeff. Last residence: Crittenden's Mill.

MATTHEWS, JAMES FOUCHÉ, lawyer, was born July 26, 1879, at Center, Cherokee County; son of Thomas Van Rennselaer and Susan Elizabeth (Fouché) Matthews, the former a native of Cherokee County, who lived at Center and practiced law in Cherokee County until 1889, when he removed to Anniston, and practiced law there until his death on January 2, 1912; grandson of James Abercrombie and Eurydice (Croft) Matthews, of Cherokee County, and of George Washington and Louisa (Drake) Fouché, of Barnesville, Ga. He received his early education at the Noble institute for boys, Anniston; was graduated from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., with first honors, A. B., 1898, and A. M., 1900, and from the department of law, University of Pennsylvania, LL. B., 1904. He was admitted to the bar at Anniston, in October, 1904, and has been engaged in the active practice of law at that place since that time. He was elected deputy county solicitor of Calhoun County, February, 1912. Residence: Anniston.

MATTHEWS, JOHN, Methodist minister, pastor of the Court Street church, Montgomery, 1867-70.

MATTHEWS, JOHN, farmer, was born March 18, 1792, in Georgia, and died June 9, 1870, at Tuscaloosa; son of William and Dorcas (Wright) Matthews, who lived in Georgia, not far from Milledgeville, the former an Englishman, who came to America with two brothers, one of whom settled in Virginia, the other in a northern state, while he located in Georgia, and became a soldier in the Revolutionary army, where he was wounded. Though himself imperfectly educated, he gave liberally to the endowment of Howard college in Alabama, and for a number of years maintained at his own home a school for the education of girls. He was a farmer, and in addition to his plantation in Sumter County, where he made his home for many years, owned a large plantation in Newton County, Miss., which was desolated by Sherman's army. From his home in Sumter County, he fed large bodies of Confederate troops, retreating before Sherman. After the war, he moved to Tuscaloosa, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: in October, 1844, in Sumter County, to Keziah (Hellen) Wideman, who died April 9, 1881, in Greenville, S. C., widow of Henry Wideman, and daughter of William and Rachel (Newbold) Hellen, who lived in Onslow County, N. C. Children: 1. Mary, m. November 16, 1864, to Charles Manly, Lexington, Va.; 2. John, d. in infancy. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MATTHEWS, KEENER NORWOOD, Methodist minister, was born August 17, 1876, at Hanover, Coosa County; son of Dr. John

JOHN B. KNOX

Thomas and Sarah Frances Ann (Norwood) Matthews, who lived at Greenville, Ga., the former a native of Campbell County, born near Fairburn, Ga., who was a graduate of medical colleges in Atlanta, Ga., and Mobile, and who practiced medicine for more than fifty years. He attended the public schools of Coosa County, the high school at Hackneyville, Tallapoosa County, and was graduated from Southern University at Greensboro, A. B., 1899. He became a minister in the North Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; was admitted on trial at Decatur, December, 1900; served the Weogufka circuit two years; the Daviston circuit three years; the Holmes Street church, Huntsville, two years; the Wesley Chapel, Birmingham, one year; Eleventh Avenue church, Birmingham, four years; First church, Decatur; and is at present pastor of the First Methodist church at Anniston. He is a Democrat; a member of the board of missions and of the examining committee of the north Alabama conference; and a Mason. Married: (1) July 12, 1900, at Hanover, to Mamie Ware, who died June 10, 1903, at Daviston, daughter of Elisha and Ella Ware, of Goodwater; (2) December 21, 1905, at Wedowee, to Eunice Prescott, daughter of Monroe and Nannie Prescott of Wedowee. Child: Mabel. Residence: Anniston.

MATTISON, GEORGE W., major, 31st, Huddy's, Alabama infantry, C. S. Army.

MATTOCKS, THOMAS H., jeweler, was born May 9, 1852, in Coventry, Warwickshire, England. He emigrated to America in 1878, locating in Elgin, Ill. In 1888 he removed to Albany where he has since been in the jewelry business. He is a Mason. Married: in 1876, to Emma Carvell. Residence: Albany.

MAULDIN, TYRIE HARRIS, lieutenant colonel, 3rd Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

MAUMENEE, ALFRED EDWARD, physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, 1905; licensed to practice by the county board of Wilcox, 1905. Residence: Mobile.

MAUPIN, ROBERT LEMON, business man, was born December 29, 1836, in Boone County, Mo.; son of William and Isabella (Lemon) Maupin, natives of Kentucky, who went to Missouri in 1816, before the state was admitted into the union, and when it was inhabited by Indians, the former of whom was one of the second train of traders that went to Mexico in 1820; grandson of Robert Lemon, a Kentuckian, and a soldier in the Revolutionary War, who went to Missouri during the twenties and died in that state. Judge Maupin was reared in Boone County, Mo.; attended the University of Missouri four years; then entered William Jewell college, where he was graduated in 1858. He worked on his father's farm for the year following his graduation, then went to Glasgow, Ky., and read law with his brother-in-law, Presley H. Leslie, who was afterward governor of Kentucky and territorial governor of Montana. Judge Maupin was graduated from law school at Lebanon, Tenn., in December, 1860; practiced at Columbia, Mo., for a short time; then went to Texas on a prospecting tour. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he returned to his old home in Missouri, and raised a company for Gen. Price's command in the campaign of west Missouri. He joined the army at Corinth after the battle of Shiloh; twice wounded, and was captured at Vicksburg, and paroled; was exchanged and rejoined his command; was severely wounded at Kennesaw Mountain, but recovered after almost a year in hospitals, and joined his command at Baldwin, Miss.; and was captured with his command at Mobile, April, 1865. In February, 1863, while on a mission in Missouri, where he had been sent by the war department of the Confederate States of America, Judge Maupin was captured in Boone County, and taken to St. Louis, where he was tried as a spy. On the afternoon the trial was ended, he made his escape from prison by impersonating the surgeon of the prison. After the war, he became associated with A. C. Danner in cutting and supplying wood to the Meridian and Selma railroad, now the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad; and later he engaged in cotton planting in Marengo County. He was appointed probate judge of Marengo County in 1871 and served for three years; moved to Mobile in 1877, and became manager of the wood and coal yard of A. C. Danner and company; organized the Mobile stock yards company in 1878, and continued in that business. He is a Baptist. Married: in November, 1864, to Annie O. Tayloe, of Macon. Four of the five children born to that marriage survive. Last residence: Mobile.

MAURY, HARRY, lawyer, colonel C. S. Army, was born about 1827 in Virginia, and died in February, 1869, in Mobile. He was a member of the family of Commodore M. F. and Gen. Dabney H. Maury. After leading a roving life for several years, he settled in Mobile in 1848, and went into the coasting trade in command of a schooner. He was admitted to the bar in 1852, and practiced several years; became an active politician in 1855; and was elected marshal of the city of Mobile. In 1858, he fought and wounded Capt. De Riviere, later Baron De Riviere, a French citizen of Mobile, in a duel; and the next year commanded an armed vessel in Walker's last attempt on Nicaragua. At the organization of the Second regiment of Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, early in 1861, he was elected colonel and commanded the regiment at Fort Morgan until it was disbanded a year later. The Thirty-second Alabama regiment was then formed and he was made lieutenant colonel. He commanded a brigade at Stevenson and Lavergne, in 1862, and commanded the regiment at Murfreesboro, where he was wounded in the side while leading his men. In the summer of 1863, he took part in Johnston's Mississippi campaign and was again wounded at Jackson. On the organization of the Fifteenth Confederate cavalry, he became its colonel, and commanded it on the coast until disabled by another wound near the close of hostilities. After peace was established he engaged in the mercantile business in Mobile until his death. Last residence: Mobile.

MAXON, G. W., professor of English, at the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1878-85.

MAXWELL, EVELYN CROOM, lawyer and judge, was born July 27, 1863, in Alabama; son of Augustus Emmet and Julia Hawks (Anderson) Maxwell. He graduated from the normal department, University of Nashville, 1882. He was admitted to the bar December 17, 1885; judge of the criminal court of Escambia County, 1892-96; judge, first judicial circuit court of Florida, 1896-1901; supreme court commissioner, September, 1901; justice supreme court of Florida, 1902-04; resigned and is now practicing law. Married: February 1, 1894, to Wilhelmina Thornton, of Pensacola, Fla. Residence: Pensacola, Fla.

MAXWELL, GEORGE WASHINGTON, farmer and legislator, was born January 25, 1843, in Union Township, Hunderton County, N. J.; son of Henry and Christeann (Manning) Maxwell, of that place; and great-grandson of William Maxwell, a Revolutionary soldier. He is of Scotch Irish descent; was educated in the common schools of his native state, and came to Alabama in 1869, where he has since resided, and farmed. He represented Marion County in the legislature of 1900-01. He is a Democrat; and while not a church member, holds to Presbyterian belief. Married: November, 1867, in Tennessee, to Mary Catherine Inman. Residence: Hamilton.

MAXWELL, JACOB CARREKER, farmer, merchant, was born June 10, 1850, near Alexander City, Tallapoosa County; son of Allen Thornton and Cynthia Susan (Carreker) Maxwell, who lived in Alexander City, the former a native of Elbert County, Ga., who was a member of the Alabama legislature from Coosa County, 1860-1861, served in the state guards for a short time in 1864, and was retired to make supplies for the army on his plantation; grandson of Reuben and Elizabeth (Thornton) Maxwell, who lived near Alexander City and of Jacob and Nancy Hays (Thomas) Carreker, of Talbot County, Ga.; great-grandson of John Maxwell, of Elbert County, Ga.; great-great-grandson of Thomas Maxwell, a Baptist preacher of distinction, and a native of Orange County, Va.; great-great-great-grandson of Joel Maxwell, of Orange County, Va., who was of Scotch-Irish descent. He attended Jackson academy, Coosa County, 1867, and was graduated from Bowdon college, Georgia, A. B., 1870. He farmed in Coosa County, 1871-1883; conducted a mercantile business in Alexander City, 1883-1891; and became cashier of the Alexander City Bank in 1892, which position he continues to hold. He served as justice of the peace of Coosa County for a number of years; was councilman and treasurer of Alexander City for a number of terms; represented the senatorial district of Coosa and Tallapoosa Counties in the constitutional convention of 1901; promoted and helped organize the Alexander City cotton mill, and was local treasurer and agent for nine years. He is a Democrat; a deacon in the First Baptist church, moderator of the Central Baptist Association, was formerly president of the Tallapoosa County Sunday School Convention; is a Knight of Pythias and a Knight of Honor. Married: September 7, 1871, near Equality, Coosa County, to Temple Josephine Austin, who died September 23, 1910, at Alexander City, daughter of Col. Tolver Louis and Elizabeth (Lazal) Austin, who lived near Equality, natives of Newton County, Ga., who came to Alabama in the forties, and settled in Tallapoosa, later moving to Coosa County. Children: 1. Susan Elizabeth, b. February 3, 1874, d. January 3, 1890, at Judson college; 2. Willie Virginia, b. April 26, 1887, m. James Henry Henderson, banker, Alexander City, children, Virginia Austin, Jake Maxwell, and Ruth. Residence: Alexander City.

MAY, JOSEPH J., major and later lieutenant colonel, 16th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

MAYBERRY, GEORGE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Perry County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on December 18, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $32; sums received to date of publication of list, $96.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MAYFIELD, JAMES JEFFERSON, lawyer, legislator, teacher, associate judge Alabama State supreme court, and code commissioner, was born March 22, 1861, at Moore's Bridge; son of James Jefferson and Amanda C. (South) Mayfield, the latter a native of Tuscaloosa County, was a teacher the greater part of his life, captain of the "Tuscaloosa plough boys," Co. G, 38th Tennessee infantry regiment, C. S. Army, 1861-65, was twice wounded in the battle of Shiloh; grandson of Obediah and Harriet Mayfield who lived at Hughes' Mill, Tuscaloosa County, and of Ransom and Elizabeth South, of Davis Creek, Fayette County. Judge Mayfield received his early education in the rural schools of his native county. He attended the preparatory school of Prof. W. D. Fonville in 1881-83; entered the University of Alabama the latter year and graduated with honors, June, 1885. He accepted a position as tutor of physics and astronomy at the latter institution, and at the same time took the law course, graduating in that profession in 1888. An opportunity was at once opened to him and he began the practice in the law office of Gen. S. A. M. Wood, in Tuscaloosa. He was elected to the Alabama legislature, 1894-95; was elected judge of the law and equity court of Tuscaloosa in 1896, and occupied that position until October 1, 1903, when he resigned to accept the office of code commissioner, to which he had been elected by the legislature. On November 3, 1908, he was elected associate justice of the Alabama supreme court for a term of six years, was reelected November 3, 1914, for a like term, but resigned in 1919 to again take the office of code commissioner. Author: "Digest of Alabama Reports," seven volumes; "Constitutions of Alabama," paralleled, annotated and indexed; "Annotations of the decisions of the Supreme court of Alabama." He assisted Hon. W. L. Martin in the preparation of the code of 1896, and himself prepared the codes of 1907, and is now preparing the code authorized by the legislature of 1919. He is a Democrat. Married: June 30, 1897, at Little Rock, Ark., to Susie Fitts, daughter of Gideon Fred and Sallie (Martin) Martin of that state. Children: 1. Sarah; 2. James. Residence: Montgomery.

MAYFIELD, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on April 18, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $26.66.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MAYFIELD, SURRY FOSTER, druggist, was born November 9, 1867, at Moore's Bridge, Tuscaloosa County; son of James Jefferson and Amanda C. (South) Mayfield, the former who was born at Bethany, Tuscaloosa County, was a farmer, and during the War of Secession was captain of the Plow Boys, a company from Tuscaloosa County, which served in the Thirty-eighth Tennessee infantry regiment, grandson of Obadiah and Harriett Mayfield, of Humphrey, and of Ransom and Elizabeth South, of Davis Creek, Fayette County. Dr. Mayfield was educated in the common schools of Tuscaloosa County; and graduated from the University of Alabama with the A. B. degree, 1888, and received an honorary degree of A. M. from that university, 1893. From 1891 to 1894, he was druggist at Northport. In 1896 he took his degree of M. D. from the medical department of Tulane university; practiced medicine at Northport until 1902, since which date he has resided in Tuscaloosa where he has continued the practice of medicine. In 1909 he was chosen as a Democrat to succeed J. Manly Foster, who had removed to Montgomery, in the State legislature. He is a member of the Missionary Baptist church. Married: April 6, 1898, to Susie, daughter of E. I. and Josephine Hager, of Tyner. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

MAYRANT, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, and lieutenant in the navy, particular service not disclosed; annual allowance, $360; to be paid from September, 1835; transferred from South Carolina.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MAYS, THOMAS SUMTER, lawyer, planter, state senator and probate judge, was born in 1806, upon the family plantation in Edgefield, S. C., and died February, 1853, in Montgomery; son of Samuel and Sarah (Grigsby) Mays of South Carolina, the former a soldier of the Revolutionary War, having entered at the age of sixteen. Other ancestral representatives served their country in military and political positions, both prior to and during the Revolution. He received his elementary education in private schools, graduated in 1827 at the South Carolina college, Columbia, having been chosen valedictorian by the Clarsophic society. Later he studied law in South Carolina, and entered upon the practice in that state, before locating in Montgomery where he continued successfully the practice of his profession. He was deeply interested in agriculture, and lived part of each year on his plantation near Montgomery. He was elected from that county to the Alabama State senate, and was later elected probate judge; a presidential elector; clerk or reporter of the supreme court of Alabama. He was a Democrat, and a Methodist. Married: December 31, 1845, at Montgomery, to Eliza Ann, daughter of Gen. Jack (John) and Elizabeth (Simkins) Glascock of Edgefield, S. C.; granddaughter of General Thomas Glascock of Georgia, who distinguished himself during the Revolutionary War. She was also a descendant of the Bacon and Simkins families who were prominently connected with the colonial history of the country. Children: 1. Thomas Sumter, C. S. Army, killed in the Seven Days' Fight before Richmond, Va.; 2. Sarah, m. Judge McLaughlin of Lexington, Va.; 3. Hattie Glascock, m. Maj. George C. Ball (q. v.); 4. John Glascock; 5. Pierce Butler; 6. Samuel Warren; 7. Annie, m. R. T. Dow, Atlanta, Ga. Last residence: Montgomery.

MEAD, LEMUEL G., lawyer and major C. S. Army, was born February 7, 1827, and died at Paint Rock, January 14, 1879; son of Samuel and Frances (Hanes) Mead, the former a native of Virginia who emigrated to Alabama and located at Paint Rock. He practiced law at Huntsville; entered the C. S. Army and rose to the rank of major; served one term as sheriff of Jackson County. He was a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: (1) Susan Daniel, of Malsville; (2) at Pulaski, Tenn., to Mary Francis, daughter of John C. and Rodie Dorothy (Tomlin) Kimbrough, of that place. The parents of Mrs. Kimbrough were from North Carolina and Limestone County respectively. Children: 1. Mary F., m. Morris Gardiner, of Tuscaloosa; 2. Lemuel G., unmarried. Last residence: Paint Rock.

MEAD, SAMUEL, member of the constitutional convention, of 1819, from Madison County.

MEADOR, DANIEL JOHN, planter, was born March 22, 1859, at Feasterville, Fairfield County, S. C.; son of Daniel R. and Emily R. (Estes) Meador, of that place; grandson of Job Meador, who served under Gen. Marion during the Revolutionary War. He was educated at Feasterville academy; at Col. Patrick's high school for boys at Feasterville; and at Furman university, Greenville, S. C. After he left school he engaged in planting at Myrtlewood, Marengo County; represented that county in the State legislature, 1888-1889, 1890-1891, 1892-1893, 1894-1895, and 1896-1897; and was a State senator, 1898-1899, and 1900-1901.

During his service in the lower house of the legislature, he was chairman of the committee on reappointment in 1890; chairman of the committee on appropriations, 1892-1893; and chairman of the ways and means committee, 1894-1895, and 1896-1897. In the senate, he was chairman of the finance committee, 1898-1899, and 1900-1901. He was president pro tem of the senate while William D. Jelks was acting governor. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: November 22, 1882, in Blairs, S. C., to Liddie A., daughter of Edward Poellnitz, of Marengo County. Residence: Myrtlewood.

MEADORS, JOHN CALHOUN, lawyer, member constitutional convention 1867, was born April 1, 1838, at Cusseta, Chambers County, and died January 8, 1896, at Opelika; son of Warner Williams and Nancy (Ferguson) Meadors, natives of Laurens District, S. C., who came to Alabama and lived in Chambers County, the former a captain of a company of volunteers, who entered the C. S. Army from West Point, Ga., early in the war, and was killed at the battle of Corinth, October, 1862. He received his early education in a country school in Chambers County, and in a military school at Tuskegee, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1859. He entered the C. S. Army with the Zouaves from Tuskegee, in 1861, but soon after joined his father's company in the Thirty-seventh Alabama regiment, later becoming a member of Col. Dowdell's staff with the rank of captain, and adjutant of the regiment. He served until the close of the war. He studied law with Hon. W. H. Barnes in Lafayette, and was admitted to the bar in 1865; practiced law with Mr. Barnes in Opelika until the death of the latter; formed a partnership with Gov. Samford and Judge J. M. Chilton of Montgomery in the firm of Samford, Chilton and Meadors, and continued the association until failing health caused him to retire from active practice and devote himself to office work. He was elected a trustee of the University of Alabama, 1865-1868; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1867; was elected to the State legislature in 1865 and again in 1872; served as judge of the city court of Opelika until 1873; was county superintendent of education and justice of the peace from 1892, until his death in 1896. He was a Democrat; a trustee and steward in the Methodist church; and a Master Mason. Married: November 15, 1865, in Chambers County, to Rebecca Cora, daughter of Zadock and Mary Ann (Johnston) Jackson, of Leesburg, Lee County, Ga.; granddaughter of Jack and Polly (Davenport) Johnston; great-granddaughter of John and Lucy (Barksdale) Davenport, the former of whom was killed in 1781, at the battle of Guilford Court House, N. C., during the Revolutionary War; great-great-granddaughter of Collier Barksdale; great-great-great-granddaughter of William and Sallie (Collier) Barksdale; great-great-great-granddaughter of Capt. John Collier of King and Queen County, Va., who came from England about 1700. Children: 1. Walter Nesbitt, d. in infancy; 2. John Calhoun, jr., d. in infancy; 3. Cora, d. in infancy; 4. Alexander Barnette, d. in infancy; 5. Margaret Frances, m. November 16, 1898, to Dr. August Burghard, dentist, Macon, Ga., children, Martin Calhoun, August, jr., Margaret Meadors, Frances Marion, and Cora Jackson; 6. Willie Gatra, d. in childhood; 7. Thomas Otis, d. in infancy; 8. Raleigh Williams, d. in infancy; 9. Irby Meadors, Opelika; 10. Rutledge Meadors, m. July 23, 1907, in Albany, Ga., to Maggie Inman, Albany, Ga. Last residence: Opelika.

MEADOW, ALBERT E., physician, was born November 22, 1860, in Humphreys County, Tenn.; son of Jacob E. and Susan (Crockett) Meadow, the former a planter, Mason, Presbyterian; grandson of William D. and Sarah (Harris) Meadow, natives of Tennessee, the former of whom was an overseer on Gen. Harding's plantation before the war, later moving to Houston County, Tenn. Through his mother he is a lineal descendent of David Crockett. He was reared on his father's farm and received his early education in the county schools. In 1879 he began the study of medicine and in the fall of 1881 he entered the Homeopathic medical college of Missouri, at St. Louis; during 1882-83 he attended the Pulte medical college at Cincinnati. He entered upon the practice of his profession in Birmingham, with Dr. A. L. Monroe, remaining there until 1885, when he removed to Blocton, where he has since resided. In 1892 he formed a partnership with his brother, J. M. Meadow, with whom he now practices. He is a Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a Methodist. Married: September 24, 1885, to Emmie, daughter of Dr. David Andrews of Oxford, Miss. Children: 1. Anson. Residence: Blocton.

MEADOWS, JAMES DANIEL, colonel C. S. Army, member constitutional convention 1875, was born January 9, 1827, at Thomaston, Upson County, Ga., and died January 14, 1900, in Dadeville; son of Miles Robley and Susan Martha (Parker) Meadows, the former a native of Putnam County, Ga., who lived at Thomaston, Ga., and represented Upson County in the Georgia legislature; grandson of James and Rutha Meadows, of Putnam County, Ga., and of Daniel and Lucy Parker, of Jones County, Ga. He received his early schooling in Thomaston, Ga., and attended Emory college. He enlisted in the C. S. Army and became captain of Co. A, First regiment of Alabama volunteers, and was promoted to the rank of colonel during the latter part of the war. He was active in local politics, and was elected a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1875. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: September 3, 1846, at Eufaula, to Mary Jane Johnston, a native of Harris County, Ga., who died April 12, 1884, daughter of John and Marthy Ann Johnston, of Whiteville, Harris County, Ga. Children: 1. John Miles, b. May 17, 1849, d. September 27, 1864; 2. William Franklin, b. April 28, 1851, d. October 2, 1864; 3. Josephine, b. March 12, 1853, d. August, 1855; 4. Martha Anne, b. February 5, 1855, d. October 29, 1868; 5. James D., jr., b. October 28, 1865, d. February 17, 1866; 6. Leola Jane, b. January 23, 1867, m. November 5, 1889, to James Colbert Spratlin, Tallapoosa County; 7. Georgia Anne, b. May 2, 1871, d. September 15, 1871. Last residence: Dadeville.

MEANS, GEORGE H., Methodist minister, member of the North Alabama conference; living in 1913. Residence: Birmingham.

MEANS, THOMAS ALEXANDER, physician, was born October 11, 1831, at Oxford, Covington County, Ga.; son of Alexander and Sarah Ann Eliza (Winston) Means, the former a native of Statesville, N. C., a physician, Methodist minister and educator, who was licensed to preach in 1828, was principal of the Georgia conference manual labor school at Covington, Ga., 1834-1838, attended Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, 1838-1839, was professor of physics in Emory college, Oxford, Ga., 1838-1855, and 1865-1883, was professor of pharmacy and chemistry in Georgia medical college, Augusta, 1840-1859, president of the Masonic female college, Covington, Ga., 1853-1854, and of Emory college, 1854-1855, professor of chemistry in Atlanta medical college, 1855-1867, was a member of the Georgia secession convention, was agricultural chemist for Georgia with headquarters at Savannah, 1868-1877, received honorary degree of M. D. from Augusta medical college, 1841, of D. D. from Emory college, 1854, and of LL. D. from Emory college, 1858, author of the "Centennial of Chemistry," and of "A Cluster of Poems for the Heart and Home," died June 5, 1883, at Oxford, Ga.; grandson of Alexander and Sarah (McClellan) Means, who lived in North Carolina, the former a native of County Tyrone, Ireland, the latter a native of Scotland, and of Thomas and Ann Austin (Tinsley) Winston, of Virginia; great-grandson of John Winston, of Virginia, captain of a Virginia regiment in the Revolutionary War; great-great-grandson of Maj. Tinsley, for whom Tinsleyville, Va., was named; great-great-great-grandson of Capt. Johnston, aide-de-camp to Gen. Washington.

Dr. Means obtained his early schooling in Oxford, Ga., and was graduated from Emory college at that place, in 1851. He read medicine for four years under his father; attended his first course of lectures at the Medical college of Georgia, 1855; attended the Atlanta medical college, 1856; and spent the succeeding four years in Europe, studying medicine in London, Paris, Dublin and Edinburgh. He returned to the United States, and began the practice of medicine in Memphis, Tenn., 1859. He was commissioned surgeon of the Tenth regiment of Georgia volunteers, in 1861, and participated at the first battle of Manassas. He continued in the army of northern Virginia until the battle of Gettysburg, when, after the retreat of Lee's army, he was, by order of Gen. Longstreet, left in charge of the wounded of his corps, and the divisions of Hood and Pickett. He remained in the field for one month, and was then transferred, with the wounded under his charge, to Camp Letterman, near Gettysburg, and placed on duty as surgeon of the Confederate officers, prisoners of war. He remained there until the hospital was broken up three months later, and after being held at Fortress Monroe as a prisoner of war for a short time, was exchanged and ordered to hospital duty further south. He was stationed at Columbus, Ga., in charge of the Marshall hospital, and remained at that place until the close of hostilities. In 1867, he located at Montgomery in the practice of medicine, and conducted his profession at that place throughout his active life. He was secretary of the Medical association of the State of Alabama for about twenty years; president of the board of education for more than twenty years; secretary of the board of health of Montgomery; city physician and register of vital statistics of Montgomery; secretary of the Medical and surgical society, and later president; surgeon in charge of the city school hospital; one of the consulting physicians of the Montgomery city infirmary; and president of the Young Men's Christian association of Montgomery. He is author of many papers and lectures on professional subjects, and was a frequent contributor to medical journals. He was a Methodist. Married: in 1863, in Montgomery, to Annie, daughter of William R. and Frances S. Powell, of Montgomery. Children: 1. Annie Jette, m. Louis Bulow Farley, son of James A. Farley (q. v.), Montgomery; 2. Aileen M., m. (1) Daniel Hillman, deceased, (2) Gen. R. F. Ligon (q. v.), Montgomery; 3. Thomas Alexander, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

MEDLEY, EDWARD N., pioneer settler, was born June 10, 1821, in Lawrence District, S. C. His education was limited as he was left an orphan at an early age. He removed to Alabama and located in Russell County, where he resided until about 1841, when he removed to Greene County, becoming a planter. He removed to Selma in 1865 and invested his savings in real estate. Last residence: Selma.

MEEK, ALEXANDER BEAUFORT, author and lawyer, was born July 17, 1814, in Columbia, S. C., and died November 30, 1865, in Columbus, Miss.; son of Rev. Samuel M. and Anne (McDowell) Meek, both natives of South Carolina, who came to Tuscaloosa from South Carolina, the former of whom was a Methodist minister, a physician and a druggist; grandson of John and Elenor (Mills) Meek; brother of Benjamin Franklin Meek (q. v.). His ancestors on both sides were of Irish descent, and those on his father's side came from County Antrim. He graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1833, and A. M., 1836, and received the honorary degree of A. M. from the University of Georgia, 1844. He was admitted to the bar in 1835, and practiced law in Tuscaloosa. When the troubles with the Creek Indians occurred in 1836, he volunteered as ensign in the U. S. Army. During that same year, he was appointed attorney general of the State by Gov. Clay to fill a vacancy, and held that position until the following winter. He was editor of the "Flag of the Union," at Tuscaloosa, 1835-1839, and of the "Southron," a literary magazine, 1839-1842. In 1842, Gov. Fitzpatrick appointed him judge of the probate court at Tuscaloosa, and he held that position until 1845. During the latter year he was appointed assistant secretary of the U. S. treasury by President Polk, and became legal adviser of that department. After holding the office about two years, he retired with the commission of federal attorney for the southern district of the State, and was retained in that position until the close of Mr. Polk's term. He was associate editor of the Mobile "Daily Register," 1851-1858; represented Mobile in the Alabama house of representatives, 1853-1855, and as chairman of the committee on education, secured the establishment of a system of free public schools in the State. In 1854, he was appointed judge of the probate court of Mobile by Gov. Winston, and held the office until May, 1855; was elector on the Buchanan ticket, 1856; and a representative in the State legislature and speaker in the house, 1859-1861. He was a trustee of the University of Alabama, 1862-1864. He was author of "The Red Eagle," 1855; "Songs and Poetry of the South," 1856; "Romantic Passages in Southwestern History," 1857; and an unfinished "History of Alabama"; and prepared a supplement to Aiken's "Digest of Alabama," in 1842. Married: (1) in 1856, to Mrs. Emma Donaldson Slatter, of Mobile, the widow of Hope Hull Slatter; (2) in 1864, to Mrs. Eliza Jane Cannon, of Columbus, Miss., the widow of William R. Cannon, who was for a long time president of the Mississippi senate. He had no children. Last residence: Columbus, Miss.

MEEK, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, educator, was born September 20, 1836, at Tuscaloosa, and died June 16, 1899, at Tuscaloosa; brother of Alexander B. Meek (q. v.). He was graduated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1854; A. M., 1858; and received the honorary degree of LL. D., from the University of Mississippi, 1879. He was assistant professor of ancient languages at the University of Alabama, 1863-1865; and professor of ancient languages at Florence Wesleyan university, 1869-1871. From 1871 until his death, he filled the chair of English at the University of Alabama, where he became widely known as a forceful and elegant writer, an erudite critic and a great teacher. He was an authority on all matters connected with that department. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; served the church as Sunday school superintendent for over a quarter of a century; and was the lay delegate from the North Alabama conference to the Methodist ecumenical conference, held in London. He was a member of the Odd Fellows. Married: in September, 1839, at San Antonio, Tex., to Nettie, daughter of F. F. Hemphill, of Tuscaloosa. He leaves no descendants. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MEEKS, WILLIAM MARION, publisher and editor, was born February 16, 1845, in Floyd County, Ga. His parents moved to Alabama when he was four years of age and settled at Cherokee. When he was twelve years old, he entered the office of the "Coosa River Argus," published at Center, by L. M. Stiff, and remained in that employ for three years; in 1860, went into the office of the "National Democrat," a campaign paper which was suspended on the election of Abraham Lincoln; returned to Georgia and early in the spring of 1861 entered the office of the "True Flag," published in Rome, Ga.; continued as foreman of that paper until its suspension in the fall of that year; served with the Rome "Courier" until the early part of 1862; entered the C. S. Army with a volunteer company from Cherokee County, and continued in the service until the close of the war; became connected with the "Advertiser," at Center, 1866; returned to Atlanta, Ga., 1866, and worked as a journeyman printer until 1869; returned to Center and took charge of the "Advertiser;" purchased the Gadsden "Times," July 1, 1871, and continued its editor and proprietor for many years, until that paper was consolidated with the "News," becoming the "Times and News," with Mr. Meeks and Mr. Johnson as proprietors. Mr. Meeks is a member of the Alabama press association and for some years served as its president. Married: November 16, 1866, to Mary J. Cothran, of Center. Residence: Gadsden.

MEGGINSON, GEORGE D., hotel proprietor, was born January 24, 1800, in Montgomery County, N. C., and died May 26, 1853, at Grove Hill; son of Thomas and Elizabeth Megginson, who moved from North Carolina to Tennessee. He came to Clarke County in 1812, and became a member of Pigeon Creek Baptist church in October, 1830. He settled in Grove Hill about 1834, and conducted a hotel there for many years. Under the old military regulations of the state, he was appointed a colonel of militia. He was a deacon in the Baptist church; was a Mason; and a member of the Sons of Temperance. Married: to Sarah N. Hill, who died in 1856, sister of Elder William Hill, and of Travis Hill, who married Rev. John Talbert. Children: 1. Caroline, grew to womanhood, d. of consumption; 2. Washington, d. at twenty-eight years, unmarried; 3. William T., d. in 1857, m. a Miss Tucker; 4. Alfred, d. about twenty-eight years of age, unmarried; 5. John L., d. December 25, 1858, in his twenty-ninth year, unmarried; 6. A. Jackson, d. in 1863, m. Martha Pugh; 7. David A., m. Pamela Danzey, resides near Choctaw Corners, has five sons and five daughters; 8. Edwin T., b. 1839, served in the C. S. Army and was killed at the battle of Shiloh, 1863; 9. Josephine, d. in 1869, m. Rev. J. C. Foster. Last residence: Grove Hill.

MELAM, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, and a resident of Madison County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on December 31, 1832, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MELL, PATRICK HUES, college president, inventor and scientist, was born May 24, 1850, at Penfield, Greene County, Ga., and died October 12, 1918, in Fredericksburg, Va.; son of Rev. Patrick Hues and Lurene Howard (Cooper) Mell, the former born July 19, 1814, at Walthonville, Ga., was left an orphan at an early age, attended Amherst college from 1833 to 1835, but left before graduating, taught in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Georgia and later was professor of ancient languages in Mercer university, 1842-55, and at the University of Georgia, 1855-56, professor of metaphysics and ethics, 1860, until his death and chancellor of that institution, 1878, ordained Baptist minister, 1842, and was for many years president of the Georgia and Southern Baptist conventions, author: "Baptism," 1852; "Corrective church discipline," 1860; "Slavery," "Predestination," "The philosophy of prayer," 1868; "Parliamentary practice," 1868, and "Church polity," 1878, was colonel of the Ninth Georgia infantry regiment, 1863, died in Athens, Ga., January 26, 1888; grandson of Major Benjamin and Cynthia (Sumner) Mell of Liberty County, Ga., and of George and Nancy (Conner) Cooper, of Montgomery County, Ga.; great-grandson of Thomas Sumner of Liberty County, Ga., a Revolutionary soldier, and of William Conner of Montgomery County, Ga., who commanded a company of mounted riflemen in the War of 1812-15; great-great-grandson of William Mell of Beach Hill, and of Patrick Hues, of Berkeley County, S. C., both Revolutionary soldiers; great-great-great-grandson of Thomas Mell and wife, a Miss Canty; great-great-great-great-grandson of George Canty who came from Barbadoes in 1670 and settled in Berkeley County, S. C., and of John Mell, of English stock, who settled in Charleston, S. C., in 1677. Dr. Mell received his early education at home under the direction of his father and graduated from the University of Georgia with the degree of A. B., 1871, C. E., 1872, M. E. 1873; the honorary degree of Ph. D. was conferred upon him some years later. He served as state chemist of Georgia, 1874-77. In 1905, he received the honorary degree of LL. D. from the University of South Carolina; was teacher of geology and botany, Alabama polytechnic institute; president Clemson agricultural college, S. C., 1902-10; inventor of the system of weather signals now in use by the United States weather service; director Alabama weather service, 1884-93; director Alabama agricultural experiment station, 1898-1902. He was first commander Alabama division, Sons of Confederate veterans, 1898; fellow, Geological society of America; fellow, American association for the advancement of science; member, Southern, Alabama, and the South Carolina historical societies; member, National geological society; member, Sons of the Revolution; recipient of a medal from the Paris exposition, 1900, given in recognition of his efforts in London, England, collecting cotton for the exhibit of the South at the Paris exposition; invited to join the "Authors Club," London, England. He was a Baptist; member home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, and first president of the Baptist young peoples union of Alabama; member Kappa Alpha and Phi Beta Kappa college fraternities. Author: "Southern soapstones and fireclays," 1882; "Hybrids from American and foreign cotton," 1897; "Life of Patrick Hues Mell," 1895; "Grasses and their cultivation," 1889; "Botanical laboratory guides," 1895; "Biological laboratory methods, 1892; "Revision of White's Gardening for the South," 1901; "Wild grasses of Alabama," 1886; "Microscopic study of cotton plant," 1890; "Climatology of cotton plant," 1893; "Climatology of Alabama," 1890; "Industrial education and its value to the South," "Contributions of the South in building of the Nation," "Administrative methods in American colleges;" besides numerous articles on scientific literary and historical subjects, that have appeared in leading journals; also a MS. history of Georgia. Married: June 15, 1875, at Athens, Ga., to Annie Rebecca, daughter of William Nathaniel and Rebecca (Benedict) White who lived at that place, the former a native of Walton, N. Y., who came South in 1847, settling in Athens, Ga., soon became prominent as a writer on agricultural and historical subjects, author of a work "Gardening for the South," that has gone through several editions and is still an authority, editor of the "Southern cultivator," which is the oldest agricultural paper in the South, and the only one that had a continuous issue throughout the War of Secession. Mrs. Mell is descended from the old New England families, White, Benedict, Fitch, Carter, St. John, North and others, and through them is a member of the Colonial Dames and Daughters of the American Revolution. Through her father, who was a member of the Ninth Georgia "Light Guards" regiment, she is a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. She has been State historian of the Alabama D. A. R.'s and for two years edited that society's department in the "Montgomery Advertiser." She was State treasurer, U. D. C., of Alabama for two years; vice-president Alabama Federation Women's Clubs, and an official in the Colonial Dames. Author: "Revolutionary soldiers buried in Alabama;" "Genealogy of the Mell family;" also a number of articles for the papers and for women's clubs on historical and biographical subjects. Last residence: Atlanta, Ga.

SPENCER C. MARKS

ton," 1897; "Life of Patrick Hues Mell," 1895; "Grasses and their cultivation," 1889; "Botanical laboratory guides," 1895; "Biological laboratory methods, 1892; "Revision of White's Gardening for the South," 1901; "Wild grasses of Alabama," 1886; "Microscopic study of cotton plant," 1890; "Climatology of cotton plant," 1893; "Climatology of Alabama," 1890; "Industrial education and its value to the South," "Contributions of the South in building of the Nation," "Administrative methods in American colleges;" besides numerous articles on scientific literary and historical subjects, that have appeared in leading journals; also a MS. history of Georgia. Married: June 15, 1875, at Athens, Ga., to Annie Rebecca, daughter of William Nathaniel and Rebecca (Benedict) White who lived at that place, the former a native of Walton, N. Y., who came South in 1847, settling in Athens, Ga., soon became prominent as a writer on agricultural and historical subjects, author of a work "Gardening for the South," that has gone through several editions and is still an authority, editor of the "Southern cultivator," which is the oldest agricultural paper in the South, and the only one that had a continuous issue throughout the War of Secession. Mrs. Mell is descended from the old New England families, White, Benedict, Fitch, Carter, St. John, North and others, and through them is a member of the Colonial Dames and Daughters of the American Revolution. Through her father, who was a member of the Ninth Georgia "Light Guards" regiment, she is a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. She has been State historian of the Alabama D. A. R.'s and for two years edited that society's department in the "Montgomery Advertiser." She was State treasurer, U. D. C., of Alabama for two years; vice-president Alabama Federation Women's Clubs, and an official in the Colonial Dames. Author: "Revolutionary soldiers buried in Alabama;" "Genealogy of the Mell family;" also a number of articles for the papers and for women's clubs on historical and biographical subjects. Last residence: Atlanta, Ga.

MELLEN, GEORGE FREDERICK, educator, was born June 27, 1859, at Pierce's Springs, Clarke County, Miss.; son of Seth Smith and Susan Huntington (Bush) Mellen (q. v.). He received his early education at Goodman institute and Mt. Sterling high school, and was prepared for college by his father and George Washington Taylor. In 1877 he entered the University of Alabama as a senior in Latin, Greek and mathematics, and was graduated with the degree of M. A., in 1879, receiving at commencement the first prize offered by the Early English text society of Great Britain, for the best examination in Anglo-Saxon, and the first prize by the New Shakespeare society of Great Britain, for the best examination in Shakespeare. He took graduate work in the University of Leipzig, Germany, from which he received the Ph. D. degree, October 30, 1890, having for thesis "Monograph on some popular errors in education in the United States and their remedy." He entered upon the profession of teaching in Gainesville, 1879, and re-maintained at that place until 1882; Livingston, 1882-85; Demopolis, 1887-91; professor of Greek and French, University of Tennessee, 1891-98, and of Greek and history, 1898-1900. He was elected to the legislature of Tennessee, 1905-07. He is a Democrat, and a Methodist. Author: collaborated with William Rule in a "History of Knoxville," 1900; collaborated with Henry N. Ingersoll, "Memorial volume," containing sketch and choicest writings of Joshua W. Caldwell; prepared three chapters for Vol. VIII in the "South in the building of the nation"; contributor "Southern humorists"; "Southern editors"; sketch of Joseph Clover Baldwin, in "Southern literature"; special contributor and editorial writer "Knoxville Sentinel" for thirteen years, and regular contributor to the "Chattanooga News"; author numerous articles in "New England magazine," "Methodist Review," Nashville, Tenn., "Sewanee Review," "Methodist Review," New York; contributor to various daily and weekly newspapers. Married: July 7, 1885, at Mont Eagle, Tenn., to Mary Briscoe, daughter of Cyrus Briscoe and Eliza J. (Van de Graff) Baldwin, of Houston, Miss., the former a native Virginian, the latter a Kentuckian. Children: 1. Seth Baldwin; 2. Helen Van de Graff; 3. George Frederick, jr.; 4. Cornelia Daniel. Residence: Knoxville, Tenn.

MELLEN, SETH SMITH, educator, was born February 7, 1821, at Pelham, Hampshire County, Mass., and died May 30, 1893, at Livingston; son of Jeremiah and Mary (Hastings) Mellen; grandson of William and Hannah (Smith) Mellen. He received his early education at Wilbraham academy, where he was prepared for Williams college, which he attended 1839-43, graduating during the latter year with the degree of B. A., third man in his class, and the philosophical orator. He taught at Longstreet academy, Twiggs County, Ga., 1843-55; at Goodman institute, Clarke County, Miss., 1855-69; Mt. Sterling high school, Choctaw County, 1869-80; superintendent of education, Choctaw County, 1872-80; co-president, Tuscaloosa female college, 1880-83; co-principal, boys academy, Livingston, 1883-88; superintendent Sumter County, 1885-92. After forty-five years service in the field of education he retired with a competency. In 1883 he received the honorary degree of LL. D. from the University of Alabama. In politics he was originally a Whig, but upon that party's dissolution he became a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: August 24, 1848, at Westfield, Mass., to Susan Huntington, daughter of Levi and Anna (Ayers) Bush, who resided at Whately and later at Westfield, Mass., representatives of old New England families. Children: 1. George Frederick (q. v.); 2. Charles Howard, teacher, A. B., A. M., who died, aged twenty-one, at the University of Alabama, December 27, 1882; 3. William Bush, d. young; 4. Henry Levi, m. Annie Grace Tartt, Livingston; 5. Sarah Hastings, d. in infancy. Last residence: Livingston.

MELTON, WIGHTMAN FLETCHER, teacher and author, was born September 26, 1867, at Ripley, Lauderdale County, Tenn.; son of Rev.

Isaac Quimby and Fannie Louise (Ellis) Melton, the former a native of Ashville, St. Clair County, a fifer in the 25th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and later a Methodist minister who served a number of charges in the north Alabama conference; grandson of John and Mary (Sowell) Melton of Ashville, and of Rev. Enoch and Statia (Atkins) Ellis who lived near Attalla. The name Melton, was originally Middletown, then Middleton. In England there are still Middletons, Miltons, and Meltons, of which the latter name is the Irish pronunciation for Milton. The first Melton to settle in America was an Irishman, Jimmie Melton who located near Halifax, Va. The great-grandfather of the subject of this sketch came from Spartanburg, S. C., to Ashville. Mr. Melton received his preparatory education in the common schools of Alabama and attended the Southern university at Greensboro, throughout the sophomore class, 1886. In the fall of the latter year he entered Peabody college for teachers, Nashville, Tenn., and in 1889 was graduated with the degree of licentiate of instruction. He graduated from Blount college, Blountsville, in 1890 with the degree of A. B.; studied at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., 1903-06, and graduated with the degree of Ph. D. the latter year. He taught in the public schools of Blountsville and Chepultepec, and Hawthorn, Fla.; was president of the Florida conference college, 1892-95; vice-president, Nashville college for young ladies, Nashville, Tenn., 1895-96; president, Tuscaloosa female college, 1897-1903; head of the department of English, Baltimore city college, 1906-08; professor of English at Emory college, Oxford, Ga., from 1908 to date. He established the first class in journalism in the South, and inaugurated a movement looking to the establishment in Johns Hopkins university of a Sidney Lanier lectureship in American literature, a wish still unfulfilled. He was regarded by the late Prof. Charles Elliot Norton of Harvard university as authority, both in England and America, on the poetical works of John Donne. He is a Democrat; and member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Author: "The Preacher's son," 1894; "The Rhetoric of John Donne's verse," 1906; editor, Ruskin "Crown of Wild Olives; Queen of the Air," 1908; sketch of Edward Coote Pinkey, in Library of Southern literature, 1908. Married: September 19, 1889, at Lake Providence, La., to Oliver, daughter of Oliver Hazzard Perry and Emily (Bass) Keller, who lived at that place. The Kellers were of Swiss origin, the first to emigrate to America being Caspar Keller who settled on Lengonoir Creek, in western Maryland. The paternal grandfather, Jacob S. Keller, fought in the battle of New Orleans, and the father, O. H. P. Keller was for four years a Confederate soldier, and died a few years after the war from wounds received in battle, having been mentioned for conspicuous bravery by his commanding officers. Children: 1. Oliver Quimby, B. S. degree from Emory college, 1912, teacher in Allen academy, Bryan, Texas; 2. Emily Louise, A. B. degree, Wesleyan college, 1913; 3. Keller Fletcher. Residence: Oxford, Ga.

MENAWA, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

MENGES, BENEDICT, Roman Catholic abbot, was born July 31, 1840, at Obermohr, Palatinate, Rhenish Bavaria. He received his early education in the schools of his native province, specializing in the classics in view of his determination to become a priest. He arrived in America during his young manhood and entered St. Vincent's abbey in Westmoreland County, Pa. On Oct. 15, 1872, he was admitted to the priesthood and ordained, December 21st, of that year. His first charge was as assistant priest at St. Joseph's church, Chicago, Ill., which city was still suffering from the effects of the fire that had practically destroyed it. His second charge was at Alleghany, Pa., where he remained four years before being ordered by his superior to take charge of the struggling missions in north Alabama, Birmingham was then an interior hamlet, and here he labored for a while. Huntsville, Tusculumbia, Florence and St. Florian, were the scenes of nineteen years of his missionary service. In 1879 when yellow fever scourged that section he stayed at his post, living at the time in Huntsville, where he nursed the sick and dying. He was made superior of the Benedictine houses in Carrollton, Pa., and Covington, Ky., but his heart was set upon culmination of his hopes to establish the Benedictine order in Alabama, and to build an abbey in that section. With the aid of several other priests the order was organized, September 29, 1891, and confirmed by Pope Leo XIII, December 15, of that year. The fact that funds to build the abbey must be raised did not daunt him. Remembering the warm friends he had made during his years of labor in Alabama, through seasons of sunshine and of stress, he applied to them for assistance and by donations and loans, St. Benedict was established. Cullman County was chosen for the location of the monastery and college, the site being a commanding height near the town of Cullman. The Alabama legislature chartered the institution, the purpose of which was to educate young men in moral and intellectual training. St. Bernard was the name bestowed upon the institution. Residence: Cullman.

MEREDITH, JESSE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 79, and a resident of Dallas County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on November 10, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from September 27, 1819; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,008. Suspended under act May 1, 1820. Continued from March 4, 1823, and transferred from Smith County, Tenn.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MERIWETHER, GEORGE MATHEWS, physician, was born in Oglethorpe County, Ga., June 15, 1814, and died at Mathews station, October 12, 1873; son of Dr. Nicholas Lewis and Mary (De Yampert) Meriwether (q. v.). Dr. Meriwether was educated in the common schools of Montgomery, now Bullock County; graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1835; and received the degree of M. D. from Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia. He practiced medicine in Macon and Montgomery Counties for about thirty years, and was at the same time a prosperous planter. Married: (1) in 1838 to Sarah Ann, daughter of Bird and Dorothy (Graves) Fitzpatrick, of near Union Springs, and niece of Gov. Benjamin Fitzpatrick (q. v.); (2) in 1858, to Josephine Hortense Landrum; (3) in 1871, to Susan Knox, daughter of Frank Meriwether and Sarah (Borden) Barnett of Pike Road. Children: by first wife: 1. Mary, m. Phillip Fitzpatrick, son of Columbus and Elmira (Fitzpatrick) Mitchell, who resided at Fitzpatrick station; descendants; 2. Thomas Nicholas, d. unmarried as a member of the Metropolitan guards, Third Alabama infantry regiment, in Virginia; 3. Bird Fitzpatrick, m. Julia Fitzpatrick, daughter of Columbus and Elmira (Fitzpatrick) Mitchell, and resides at Montgomery; descendants; 4. Martha Phillip, m. William E. Hooper, nephew of Dr. B. R. Jones (q. v.), descendants; 5. Francis Valentine, d. young unmarried; by second wife: 6. Rebecca, m. H. C. Lamar, of Snowden, descendants; 7. Sarah Ann, m. Henry Calloway of Snowden, no children; 8. Joseph, unmarried bridge builder on the Atlantic Coast line; by third wife: 9. child died in infancy. Last residence: Mathews station.

MERIWETHER, NICHOLAS LEWIS, physician, was born January 17, 1782, in Virginia, and died near Mathews station, September 27, 1863; son of Dr. Frank and Martha (Jamison) Meriwether, the former a native of Virginia, who removed to Georgia in 1784-5, where he practiced medicine and was at the same time a prosperous planter, the latter a sister of Col. Jamison of Virginia Continental line; grandson of Thomas and Elizabeth (Thornton) Meriwether, of "Clover Fields," Albemarle County, Va.; great-grandson of David and Anne (Holmes) Meriwether, the former of near Charlottesville, Va.; great-great-grandson of Nicholas and Elizabeth (Crawford) Meriwether, the former a man of great wealth in Virginia, and of George Holmes, of King and Queen County, Va. Dr. Meriwether's early education was limited. He spent most of his time attending the sick of the Broad River settlement, Ga. His friends prevailed upon him to take a course in medicine and by study, practice and experience, he soon became a successful physician. He removed to Montgomery County in 1816 where he practiced for a number of years. Married: March 14, 1805, to Mary de Yampert, a full sister of Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus de Yampert and a half sister of Thomas Jefferson de Yampert, of Montgomery and later of Dallas, or Marengo County, and all of them children of a French physician who served in the Revolutionary War. Children: 1. James Bradley, a planter, who lived and died near Pike Road, and had a large family, m. Lucy Sophia Talliaferro; descendants; 2. Francis David; 3. Nicholas, d. young; 4. Thomas, m. Elizabeth Matilda, daughter Benjamin and Nancy (Fitzpatrick) Baldwin, near Mathews station, Thomas Meriwether, a son and a planter, resides at Pike Road; 5. George Mathews, (q. v.) m. Sarah Ann Fitzpatrick; 6. Charles Lewis, planter, m. Fannie Baldwin, sister of Matilda Baldwin, lived and died near Mathews station, descendants; 7. Nicholas, m. Mrs. Susan Hazzard, resided near Mathews station, no children; 8. William Lucius, m. to (1) Tabitha Fitzpatrick Baldwin, sister of Matilda Baldwin above, (2) his first cousin, Mary Barbara, daughter of Charles Bontwell and Mildred (Meriwether) Taliaferro, five children by first wife, including Thomas George who married Edna Turner, daughter of Thomas Gilliam and Martha C. (Tomlinson) Pierce, and had three children, by first and nine children by second wife. Last residence: Pike Road.

MERRICK, JOHN, sen., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, resided in Dale County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MERRILL, ALLEN HUNTER, lawyer, banker, member legislature, was born November 29, 1845, at Eufaula, Barbour County; son of Allen Kent and Elizabeth Aiken (Hunter) Merrill, the former a native of Middlebury, Addison County, Vt., who removed to Eufaula where he practiced law, being still a young man at the time of his death; grandson of Thomas Abbott and Eliza (Allen) Merrill of Andover, Mass., afterwards of Middleburg, Vt., and of John Lingard and Sarah (Bohler) Hunter of Eufaula. He was educated in the common schools of Eufaula and instead of entering college for which he had been prepared he enlisted in the Confederate Army. At the close of hostilities he read law in the office of U. S. Senator James L. Pugh and was admitted to the bar, January, 1869, upon examination before the city court of Eufaula, and at once entered upon the practice. He has been president of the East Alabama national bank of Eufaula since its establishment. In 1896 he was elected to the legislature and in 1901 was a member of the constitutional convention. His military record is highly creditable, being a member of the Eufaula light artillery, which brilliantly distinguished itself during the War of Secession. He enlisted in the early fall of 1863 and served throughout the remaining years of the struggle, participating in all the campaigns from Dalton to Atlanta. He was also in all the battles of Gen. Hood's Tennessee campaign. He is a Democrat, and was chairman of the Executive committee of that party in Barbour County for a number of years, and also member of the Democratic State executive committee for five years; delegate from the 3rd Congressional District to the national democratic convention which met in Chicago and nominated President Cleveland for the second time; delegate from the state-at-large to the Democratic National Convention which met at Kansas City and nominated William J. Bryan for the second time as standard bearer of the party for the office of president of the U. S. He is an Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: September 12, 1876, at Eufaula, to Tade Sims, daughter of William Hoadley and Mary (Bullock) Bray of that place. Children: 1. Elizabeth Aiken, m. John C. McRea; 2. Mary Bray, m. A. M. Brown; 3. Tade, m. R. Buford Harrison; 4. Allen Kent; 5. William Hoadley; 6. Eliza Starr; 7. Theresa Hunter, all resided in Eufaula. Residence: Eufaula.

MERRILL, ALLEN KENT, lawyer, was born March 26, 1885, at Eufaula, Barbour County; son of Allen Hunter and Tade Sims (Bray) Merrill (q. v.), of Eufaula, the former a lawyer and a banker; grandson of Allen Kent and Elizabeth (Hunter) Merrill, and of William Hoadley and Mary (Sims) Bray, all of Eufaula; great-grandson of Gen. John L. Hunter, of Barbour County. He attended the public schools of Eufaula, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1905, and LL. B., 1907. He was admitted to the bar at Eufaula, 1907; and represented Barbour County in the State legislature, 1911. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; and an Elk. Residence: Eufaula.

MERRILL, HUGH DAVIS, lawyer, was born December 20, 1877, at Franklin, Heard County, Ga.; brother of Walter Benjamin Merrill (q. v.). He received his education in the public schools of Franklin, Ga., and of Edwardsville, and at Oxford college, graduating from there, A. B., 1896. He was graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1897, and soon afterward began the practice of law with his father at Edwardsville. In 1902, he moved to Anniston, and became a member of the firm of Knox, Acker & Blackmon; moved to Heflin in 1908 and became a partner with his brother, W. B. Merrill. He was a member of the State legislature of 1900-1901; was city attorney of Anniston, 1906-1908; was appointed judge of the seventh judicial circuit to succeed Judge John Pelham, March 11, 1911; was nominated to succeed himself, and was elected without opposition in the general election of November, 1912. After his re-election, he moved to Anniston. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Shriner; an Elk; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 27, 1906, at DeArmanville, to Martha Chitwood, daughter of J. W. and Georgia Chitwood, of that place. Children: 1. Ralph. Residence: Anniston.

MERRILL, J. B., lawyer, was born November 12, 1843, in Carroll County, Ga.; son of Joseph B. and Susan (Lamberth) Merrill, natives of Georgia; grandson of Joseph and Maria (Bell) Merrill, natives of South Carolina, the former one of the pioneer settlers of Forsyth County, Ga., and of John and Permelia (Garrison) Lamberth, pioneer settlers of Tallapoosa County, the former of whom served as tax collector of that county for many years. Mr. Merrill was reared on the farm and attended the common schools of the county, entering Irwin college, Tennessee, in 1860. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he, with about sixty other students, left the college, and entered Co. A, Capt. John B. Wilcoxon's battalion, Phillips' legion, May, 1861. He served as a private until 1862, was then elected second lieutenant, a year later first lieutenant, and eight months later was promoted to captain. He was with the legion in its first campaigning in West Virginia, and subsequently on the Georgia coast while Gen. Lee was in command of that department. Returning to Virginia when Gen. Lee did, he was immediately transferred to the cavalry under Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, and after participating in the battles of the Wilderness, Jack's Shop, Yellow Tavern and Gettysburg, the seven days' fight before Richmond, and other engagements in Virginia, he went with Wade Hampton to the Carolinas and took part in the last campaign against Sherman, including the battle of Bentonville, N. C. He was paroled at Lexington, N. C., in the spring of 1865. Returning to Georgia, he farmed for some years, reading law in the meantime. He was admitted to the bar in 1872 and began to practice law in Carroll County, Ga. In 1886, he moved to Edwardsville to look after his large interests in mineral lands in Alabama, and continued the practice of his profession in that place. He was elected mayor of Edwardsville four times. He is a Mason. Married: in 1867, to Mary E. Faver, a Georgian, daughter of Sanders and Caroline (Davis) Faver, both of French descent. Children: 1. Walter B. (q. v.); 2. Rose, m. John W. Abercrombie (q. v.); 3. Hugh (q. v.); 4. Myrtle; 5. Clyde. Residence: Edwardsville.

MERRILL, WALTER BENJAMIN, lawyer, was born April 5, 1873, at Franklin, Ga.; son of James Benjamin and Mary Elizabeth (Faver) Merrill (q. v.), the former a native of Carroll County, Ga., who lived at Franklin, Ga., and moved from that place to Edwardsville, was a captain of John B. Wilcoxon's battalion, Phillips legion, C. S. Army, served as mayor of Edwardsville for four years, and practiced law from 1872-1904; grandson of Joseph B. and Susan (Lamberth) Merrill, and of Sanders Walker and Caroline (Davis) Faver, all of Georgia. Mr. Merrill is a brother of Hugh Davis Merrill (q. v.). He received his early schooling at Franklin, Ga., and at Edwardsville; and attended Oxford college, from which institution he was graduated, A. B., 1891. He was admitted to the bar in November, 1892, and immediately became a member of the firm of Merrill & Bridges, in which association he continued until 1894 when he was appointed solicitor of the county court of Cleburne County by Gov. Johnston. He was mayor of Edwardsville, one year; solicitor of the county court, ten years; a member of the school board of Heflin, four years; and a State senator from the thirty-fourth senatorial district in 1911. He is a Democrat, serving since 1898 as chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Cleburne County, and as alternate delegate to the National Democratic convention in 1894; is a Baptist; a Royal Arch Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) December 23, 1894, at Edwardsville, to Viola Abercrombie, deceased, daughter of Henry M. and Sarah A. Abercrombie; (2) February 17, 1904, to Lilla Jones, daughter of James W. and Mary F. Jones, of Jones' Mill, Monroe County, a representative from Monroe County in the State legislature, 1911. Children, by first marriage: 1. John Dodsden; 2.

Gladys; 3. Pearl; by second marriage: 4. Cecil, deceased; 5. Evelyn; 6. Pelham Jones; 7. Clyde Louise. Residence: Heflin.

MERRITT, FISHER HARRISON, cotton merchant, was born in 1840, in Todd County, Ky.; son of Daniel R. and Penelope (Hannum) Merritt, the former a native of Tennessee, of English ancestry, who moved to Kentucky when a young man, and farmed there until his death in 1887, the latter a native of Kentucky, of Scotch-Irish descent, who died in 1889. He obtained his early education from a school in Allensville, Ky., and was a student at Cumberland college, Lebanon, Tenn., when the War of Secession began. Leaving college in the spring of 1861, he returned to Kentucky, and entered the service of the state, enlisting in an independent company of infantry commanded by Capt. James Childress, which was organized in Todd County, Ky., in order to protect the state from invasion by either the Confederate or Union troops. Soon after, he and his two brothers went to Lynchburg, Va., and enlisted in the C. S. Army. They served with Co. K, First Kentucky regiment for twelve months, then joined a cavalry company, commanded by Capt. Dorch, of which Mr. Merritt became Lieutenant. He was wounded at Buffington's Island, while trying to recross the Ohio River, was captured and taken to Johnson's Island, where he was held prisoner until the end of the war. After his release, he returned to Todd County, Ky., and farmed for two years. He came to Alabama in 1867, located in Lowndes County, and engaged in planting there and in Montgomery County until 1882. At that time, he went to Montgomery and entered the cotton business, in which he is engaged at this time. He is a Methodist and a Knight of Honor. Married: (1) in 1867, to Lucy Grattan, who died in 1876, daughter of Dr. John Grattan, of Columbus, Miss.; (2) in 1878, to Fannie Grattan, deceased, sister of his first wife. Residence: Montgomery.

MERRITT, HENRY PAUL, lawyer, planter, legislator and jurist, was born June 7, 1873, near Old Spring Hill, Barbour County; son of Mickleberry Clinch and Margaret Elizabeth (Owens) Merritt, the former a native of Henry County, Ga., but removed later to Barbour County, soldier of the Confederate Army, serving for two years; grandson of Henry Clinton and Jackie (Green) Merritt, who lived in Greene County, Ga., and of William Howard and Margaret Elizabeth (Owens) Owens of Palmyra, Ga., who afterwards removed to Texas. Judge Merritt was educated in the common schools of Barbour and Bullock Counties, and at the Southern university, Greensboro, attending the latter institution, 1890-91. He studied law at the University of Virginia and was admitted to the bar, November 30, 1893, but did not actively enter the practice until 1896, when he located at Tuskegee, where he has since resided. He served in the Alabama State senate from the twenty-sixth district, 1907; in the house of representatives, 1911, 1915, and 1919, and was speaker of that body during the latter year. He was a member of the joint committee on the Code of Alabama, 1907; appointed judge of the court of appeals, November, 1919, by Gov. Thomas E. Kilby, and elected to succeed himself in that position, 1920. He has been a trustee of the Alabama schools for the deaf and blind. While speaker of the house of representatives, 1919, he introduced and passed an act creating the Alabama memorial commission, to erect a memorial to Alabama and Alabamians in the European War. He registered for military duty during the European War but his class had not been called when the war ended. Married: November 14, 1894, in Marion, to Annie Seay, daughter of William H. and Martha (Toland) King, who lived at that place. Children: 1. William King, captain Co. K, 328th infantry, American Expeditionary Forces, wounded three times in the Argonne; 2. Marvin, in Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., and ready for overseas service when the armistice was declared; 3. Paul, in Camp Greenleaf, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., also ready for overseas duty when the war ended; 4 and 5. Evelyn and Elizabeth, twin daughters. Residence: Tuskegee.

MESSENGER, ASA, editor, was born in Connecticut, removed to Delaware, Ohio; and from thence to Tuscumbia, where among other enterprises he founded and edited "The North Alabamian." He was opposed to secession and advocated through his paper the cause of the union until compelled by public pressure to suspend publication during the years of the war. Although in faith strongly union he was loyal to his adopted State. The slaves that he owned remained with him until freed by emancipation. He had accumulated a comfortable property in land and real estate in Tuscumbia and Franklin County and his mountain home reflected in the orchards, vineyards and fields surrounding it, the intelligent and progressive agriculturist. Married: (1) Ann Allen, (2) Miss Lighfoot. Children: by first wife, 1. North Allen (q. v.), m. Lillian Rozell (q. v.); by second wife, 2. Asa, who died after the War of Secession from the effect of wounds received in Confederate service, m. Emma _____ of Denison, Texas. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

MESSENGER, LILLIAN ROZELL, author, was born in 1844, near Milburn, Ballard County, Ky.; daughter of Dr. Francis Overton and Caroline (Cole) Rozell, natives of Virginia, the former a descendant of John Laurence Rozell, a gifted physician. The paternal grandfather came to America from Nice, France, during the Napoleonic war, and settled in Virginia. The Cole family was of English ancestry. Her childhood was passed amidst pastoral scenes, an advantage that has continued to reflect itself in her literary work. Careful preparatory training fitted her at an early age for college and before she was sixteen she had almost completed her academic work at Forest Hill institute, near Memphis, Tenn. She there acquired a technical knowledge of music and art, and later developed unusual powers as a dramatic reader. Called home from college by her father's death she removed to Arkansas and soon thereafter became the girl-bride of the young husband whose death four years later left her a widow before she had reached her twenty-first birthday. For four years she resided at Tuscumbia, devoting her life to rearing the child of this union and to an active literary career. After her husband's death she removed to Arkansas, 1868, and was the first woman elected to membership in the State press association. Later she removed to Washington, D. C., where for more than thirty years she has been engaged in general literary work. She was one of the charter members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and belongs to other patriotic and literary organizations. Author: while still a school girl she began her literary career, being encouraged and introduced by such eminent men as M. C. Galloway, Solon Borland, and Geo. D. Prentice. She first wrote under the pen name of "Zena Clifton," but gaining confidence by general approval she began writing under her own signature. Among her first acknowledged poems were those later brought out in a volume entitled, "Threads of fate," 1872. Other volumes are "Fragments from an old inn," 1885; "The Vision of gold," 1886; "The Southern cross," 1891; "Columbus," read by Governor Hoyt of Wyoming at the patriotic celebration in the woman's building at the Chicago world's fair, 1893. "In the heart of America," was read at the Atlanta exposition. Married: in 1861, in Pine Bluff, Ark., to North Allen Messenger (q. v.). Children: 1. North Overton, journalist, Washington, D. C. Residence: Washington, D. C.

MESSENGER, NORTH ALLEN, editor, was born March 22, 1839, in Tuscumbia, and died in 1866 at that place; son of Asa and Ann (Allen) Messenger (q. v.). He received a good education in his native town and at the age of twenty-one assumed the editorship of the "North Alabamian" founded and edited by his father prior to that time. Married: in 1861, in Pine Bluff, Ark., to Lillian Rozell (q. v.). Children: 1. North Overton, journalist, Washington, D. C. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

MESSICK, JOHN FREDERICK, professor of mathematics at the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1910-1913. He held A. A. and Ph. D. degrees.

MESSING, A. J., Jewish rabbi, a native of Bloomington, Ill., for several years a resident of Montgomery, rabbi, Temple Beth Or.

METCALF, HAMILTON BONNER, druggist, was born December 24, 1836, in Greensboro, Ga.; son of Eliphelet H. and Mary Jones (Bonner) Metcalf, the former a native of Northumberland, N. Y., born in 1809 and settled in Montgomery in 1852, a mail contractor, carrying the mails over the red stage-coach lines throughout the south; grandson of William Metcalf who was born in Connecticut in 1776, and of Hamilton Bonner of Hancock County, Ga.; great-grandson of Eliphelet Metcalf, who was born in Connecticut, 1748, and died in 1834. The emigrant ancestor was Michael Metcalf, a native of Tatterford, Norfolk County, England, born 1536, and settled first in Dedham, Mass., where he was among those who built the first church at that place. Mr. Metcalf was educated at the Troy conference academy, West Poughkeepsie, Va., and at Nourse's high school, Washington, D. C. He entered the drug business in Washington, after leaving school, and in 1857 removed to Montgomery where he became a drug clerk. In 1862 he formed a partnership with Dr. George Pollard and ten years later purchased the interest of his associate after which he conducted a drug store in his own name for more than a quarter of a century. He served two years as alderman of Montgomery. Married: in 1867, at Cross Keys, to Anna P., daughter of Maj. W. J. Howard. Children: 1. Mary Louise; 2. Howard; 3. Claudia; 4. Anna; 5. Eugenia Woodruff. Residence: Montgomery.

JOHN P. TILLMAN

METCALF, JOHN MILTON PUTNAM, Congregational minister, teacher, was born October 28, 1864, at Elyria, O.; son of Isaac Stevens and Antoinette Brigham (Putnam) Metcalf, the former a native of Royalston, Franklin County, Mass., who was graduated from Bowdoin college. 1847, became a civil engineer and as such built the second division of the Illinois Central Railway, was colonel of the local volunteer militia during the War of Secession, served as justice of the peace of Elyria, and as a member of the board of education; grandson of Isaac and Anna Mayo Stevens (Rich) Metcalf, who lived at Royalston, Mass., the former a native of that place, and a teacher in the public schools, the latter a native of Warwick, Mass., and of Rev. John Milton and Arethusa (Brigham) Putnam, who lived at Dunbarton, N. H.; great-grandson of Peletiah and Lydia (Estey) Metcalf, the former born June 24, 1744, at Wrentham, Mass., the latter of Thompson, Conn.; great-great-grandson of Peletiah and Hepzibah (Mann) Metcalf, of Wrentham, Mass.; great-great-great-grandson of Michael and Abigail (Colburn) Metcalf, of Wrentham, Mass.; great-great-great-great-grandson of Eleazar and Meletia (Fisher) Metcalf, of Wrentham, Mass.; great-great-great-great-great-grandson of Michael and Mary (Fairbanks) Metcalf, the former born August 29, 1620, at St. Benedicts, England, who settled in Dedham, Mass., May 13, 1642; great-great-great-great-great-great-grandson of Michael and Sarah (Elwyn) Metcalf, who were married October 13, 1616, at Hingham, England, and came to America, April 15, 1637, settling in Dedham, Mass., the former who became a selectman of Dedham, Mass., a native of Patterford, England, born June 15, 1587, son of Rev. Leonard Metcalf of that place.

Mr. Metcalf attended high school at Elyria, O., and was graduated from Oberlin college, A. B., 1885, and A. M., 1890. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Oberlin college in 1910. He spent two years in Oberlin theological seminary, and one year in Union theological seminary, graduating from the latter institution in 1888. He was a student at the University of Berlin, Germany, 1893-1896. Dr. Metcalf was ordained to the Congregational ministry at St. Louis, Mo., in September, 1888, and served as pastor of the Peoples tabernacle congregational church, at St. Louis, 1888-1890. He was head of the English course and professor of the English Bible, at Oberlin theological seminary, 1890-1893; and became affiliated with Talladega college (Negro), in 1896, serving as professor of theology, 1896-1904, as dean, 1904-1907, acting president, 1907-1909, and has held the presidency since 1909. He is translator of Hugo Winckler's "Tel-El-Amarna Tablets," from the German, 1896; is independent in politics; and is a member of the examining board of the First Congregational church, at Talladega. Married: September 12, 1888, in Bellville, O., to Caroline Phebe Post, daughter of Franklin and Elizabeth (Olin) Post, who lived at Wallingford, Vt.; granddaughter of Gaylord Post, who married a Miss Meacham. Children: 1. Franklin Post, b. June 10, 1892, at Oberlin, O.; 2. Robert Wilder, b. June 22, 1899, at Talladega. Residence: Talladega.

METCALF, WILLIAM, member of the constitutional convention of 1819, from Franklin County.

METCALFE, LEE S., farmer, was born November 9, 1862, in Lamar County; son of Wiley S. and Virginia E. (Bradley) Metcalfe, of Alabama and Virginia; grandson of James and Elizabeth (Bankhead) Metcalfe, natives respectively of North Carolina and Tennessee, and of William R. and Ellen S. (Covington) Bradley, of Virginia. He was educated in Lamar County and began farming at an early age, a calling he still follows and was sheriff of Lamar County, 1888-1892. He is a Methodist. Married: in 1889, Jola Guin, daughter of Jason Guin. Children: 1. Wiley L.; 2. Jason S. Residence: Sulligent.

MEYER, EMIL JOSEPH, general agent, Massachusetts mutual life insurance company, was born December 21, 1857, at Charleston, Charleston County, S. C.; son of Emil Joseph and Emily Fredericka (Oppenheim) Meyer, also of Charleston; grandson of Joseph and Julia Meyer, of Belefelt, Prussia, and of Hertz W. and Catherine Oppenheim, the former a native of Hanover, Germany, and connected with the banking house of Oppenheim in which Meyer Anselm Rothschild, founder of the house of Rothschild, was at one time a clerk. Heinrich Heine, the great German author, was related to the Oppenheim house. Leopold Zunz, professor of Hebrew literature at the University of Cologne was a great uncle of the subject of this sketch, being brother to his paternal grandmother. Hertz Wolf Oppenheim had six sons, five of whom served in the Confederate Army. Mr. Meyer was educated in the private school of Dr. Henry S. Chapin of New York and attended the University of New York City through the junior course. He has been the general agent for the Massachusetts mutual life insurance company in Alabama since October 1, 1904; was elected alderman of Montgomery, 1895-99; member of the board of education of that city since 1899 and is now filling his fourth term of five years each; chairman board of equalization of Montgomery County, 1916. He is a Democrat, Mason, Knight of Pythias, Shriner, and a Jew. Married: May 3, 1883, at Atlanta, Ga., to Eda, daughter of Isaac and Emma (Steinback) Hirschfeld, of Memphis, Tenn. Children: 1. Tilla, m. Ben Friedman, Eufaula; 2. Emily; 3. Emil Joseph Jr., m. Miriam Blumenseld; 4. Edith Lucile. Residence: Montgomery.

MICHAEL, JACOB G., physician, was born February 21, 1840, near Spring Hill, Mobile County; son of George and Mary Catherine (Breitling) Michael, who lived near Spring Hill, 1833-1840, then moved to Demopolis; grandson of George and Eva (Mather) Michael, who owned extensive vineyards at Wineberg, near Strasburg, Germany, on the River Rhine, and, objecting to compulsory military duty for their sons, sold their possessions and came to America about 1833, and lived near Spring Hill and at Demopolis, and of Jacob and Catherine Breitling, the former a land-owner near Stuttgart, kingdom of Wurtemberg, Germany, who was induced to come to America by his brother, Gottlieb Breitling, of Demopolis, and settled on a farm about four miles south of Demopolis. He was educated in private schools at Demopolis; at Green Springs, under Prof. Henry Tutwiler, 1853-1854; and attended the Georgia military institute at Marietta, Ga., 1857-1858. He read medicine with Dr. Ashe and Dr. Ruffin in Demopolis, 1858; attended the medical department of the University of Louisiana, at New Orleans, 1858-1859; a summer course in Philadelphia, 1859; was a student at the Jefferson medical college at the time of the John Brown raid, and, with about six hundred southern medical students, left the school in January, 1860, and finished his course at the Medical college of Virginia, at Richmond, from which he was graduated, M. D., 1860. From the time of his graduation until January, 1861, he was engaged as surgeon's aid in the marine hospital at Mobile, and as a member of the Mobile rifles, took part in the capture of the Mount Vernon arsenal. Under the Confederate government, he was appointed post surgeon at the arsenal, in which capacity he was employed until the fall of 1864. Subsequently he did special service at Mobile and at Spanish Fort and Blakely until the evacuation of the city, after which he was surrendered and paroled at Meridian, Miss., under the capitulation of Gen. Richard Taylor. He practiced medicine at Mount Vernon for a year following the war, and in 1866, moved to Belmont, Sumter County, where he continued his practice. In February, 1877, he went to Citronelle and established the Hygeia hotel and sanatorium, which he conducted in connection with his profession, until he retired from the practice in 1890. He served as mayor of Citronelle for two years after its incorporation, and after the expiration of his term as mayor, was a member of the town council for several terms. Because of his part in establishing the school system of the city, he was made an honorary member for life of the board of trustees. He is a Democrat, a Protestant Episcopalian, and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: April 29, 1862, to Margaret Ann Simison, daughter of Maj.

Boyd Denny and Martha Taylor (Barnett) Simison, of Mount Vernon, the former a native of Carlisle, Pa., who contracted for most of the building material used in the construction of the Mount Vernon arsenal, the latter a member of an old Georgia family. Children: 1. George Boyd, a graduate of the University of Alabama, B. E., and C. E., 1890, land agent for the M. & O. Railroad, m. May 31, 1893, at Belleville, Ill., to Elsie Scheel, Meridian, Miss.; 2. Minnie Josephine, Mobile; 3. John Raft, deceased, mayor of Citronelle, 1895-1896, secretary of Hygeia Hotel & Improvement Company, book-keeper of "Pride of the West Mine," Washington, Ariz.; 4. Murray Simison, Beaumont, Tex.; 5. Ida Bolivia, m. C. W. Hempstead, Mobile; 6. Marie Catherine, Mobile, m. F. C. Marsh of Franklin, La., deceased; 7. Ruffin Bailey, Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

MICHEL, RICHARD FRASER, physician, was born February 15, 1827, at Charleston, S. C., and died April 4, 1907, at Montgomery; son of William Daniel and Eugenia Ash (Fraser) Michel, of Charleston, S. C., the former a native of that place, a physician, editor of the "Carolina Journal of Medicine, Science and Agriculture," who was given a medal by the decree of Napoleon Bonaparte, having served in his army; grandson of Richard and Rebecca Ann Eugenia (Ash) Fraser, of Charleston, S. C. He received his early schooling in the academy of Alexander Springs, Charleston, S. C., from which he was graduated in 1844; studied medicine in Philadelphia, Pa., 1845-1846; and was graduated from the medical college at Charleston, S. C., 1847. He began the practice of medicine at that place immediately after graduation, and was elected professor of materia medica, Charleston medical institute, 1848, holding that position until 1860. In December of the latter year, he entered the C. S. Army, in Fort Moultrie, Charleston Harbor, as a surgeon with Gen. Evans' brigade, and remained in the service until the surrender of Lee, 1865. After the war, he located at Montgomery, and practiced medicine in that city until his death. He was appointed surgeon general of the State of Alabama on Gov. O'Neal's staff, 1863, and held the position for fifteen years. He became a member of the board of health of Montgomery in 1869, and for some time was president of that body; was elected president of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama, 1869, and of the Medical and Surgical Society of Montgomery, 1869; was elected vice president of the American Medical Association, 1872-1873; and was orator of the state medical association in 1876, and later was grand senior counselor of the association. During his residence in South Carolina, he served as counselor of the Medical Association of the State of South Carolina, 1859-1860. He was a Democrat; a vestryman of St. John's church, at Montgomery, for thirty years, and senior warden for eleven years; was a Mason, a Knight of Pythias, an Elk, and a member of the American Legion of Honor. He was author of a "Monograph on Hemorrhagic Malarial Fever," New Orleans Journal of Medicine, October, 1869; "Pathology of Yellow Fever," 1874; "Break Bone Fever," Southern Journal of Medical Sciences, February, 1867; "Puerperaemia," Transactions of the Medical Association of Alabama; "Anatomical and Physiological Reflections on Some Parts of the Eye," Richmond and Louisville Medical Journal, September, 1871; and other papers. Married: February 15, 1854, at Charleston, S. C., to Annie Rivers, daughter of William and Susan Rivers, of that place. Children: 1. Eugenia Fraser, d. in Charleston, S. C.; 2. Sue Fraser, m. Fred Gordan Hammond, Montgomery; 3. William Middleton, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

MICKLE, JOHN JOSEPH, planter, was born November 3, 1796, in South Carolina, and died in Lowndes County; son of John and Elizabeth (Starke) Mickle of South Carolina; grandson of Joseph and Martha (Belton) Mickle, the former of Scotch-Irish descent, having come to America from the old country, and settled in Charleston, South Carolina. Later he removed to Fairfield District; great-grandson of John and Mary (English) Belton, the latter being of Quaker Stock. John Joseph Mickle was at one time adjutant general of Alabama and was also a gallant soldier in the Mexican War. Married: about 1825, at Camden, S. C., to Rebecca Ballard Martin, of that place. Children: 1. Elizabeth Starke, m. Nathan Cook (q. v.); 2. Cornelia, m. Walter Cook; 3. Rebecca, m. John Rice; 4. Annie, m. William Bettis; 5. Belton, m. Lucy Minor; 6. John J., m. Martha Stone. Last residence: Lowndes County.

MICKLE, WILLIAM ENGLISH, adjutant general United Confederate Veterans, was born October 31, 1846, at Columbia, Richland County, S. C., and died February 18, 1920, at Mobile; son of Joseph Thomas and Nancy C. (Gandy) Mickle, the former who was born near Camden, Kershaw County, S. C., and lived at that place until he was eighteen years old, moved to Columbia, S. C., where he was married and lived twenty years as a commission merchant and owner of a line of boats between Charleston and Columbia, was director of the Bank of South Carolina, moved to Alabama in 1852 and established himself in Mobile as a commission merchant, organized the "Merchants' Guard," during the War of Secession, was made captain and served for a year in the trenches around Mobile and in guarding prisoners, resigned and returned to Camden, S. C., in 1864, served as judge of Kershaw County, S. C., for several years, and died in 1898; grandson of Maj. Joseph and Martha (Belton) Mickle, of Kershaw County, S. C.; grandson of Joseph Mickle, who settled on the Wateree River in 1753, and bought a plantation about fifteen miles from Camden, which is still in the hands of descendants, owned and operated a ferry over the Wateree River. He was educated at the Summerville institute, Noxubee County, Miss., and went from there to the front in 1864, joining the Mobile Cadets, Co. A, Third Alabama infantry, of Battle's brigade, near Winchester, Va. He was severely wounded twice at the battle of Cedar Creek, October 19, 1864; was furloughed home for three months, and rejoined his company on crutches, February, 1865; was examined before the medical board of Rodes Division, and retired from the army for a period of nine months, during which time the war was ended. After the war he was employed in the public schools of Mobile County, and was principal of the Boys' Senior Grammar School for several years. He gave up that position to enter the book trade, and became a dealer in second-hand and out of print books in the state of Alabama, at New Orleans, La., and at Mobile. For nearly a quarter of a century, he was connected with all the prominent agricultural fairs held in the state, as secretary or as assistant secretary. He was one of the charter members of Raphael Semmes camp, United Confederate Veterans; served almost continuously as adjutant of the camp from its formation until his death; was appointed adjutant general and chief of staff of the United Confederate Veterans, with the rank of major general, by Gen. J. B. Gordon, commander-in-chief, January 19, 1903. He served as pension examiner of Alabama for several years; was an unsuccessful candidate to the State legislature at one time; compiled "Confederate Veterans, and their War Records," a book giving the records of about three thousand Confederate soldiers, with their residences; was a Democrat; and a deacon in the Presbyterian church. Married: October 8, 1867, at Mobile, to Ellie Squire Woodhull, daughter of John Foster and Sarah (Squire) Woodhull, of Mobile. Children: 1. Ellie Woodhull, deceased; 2. William English, m. Mary Holmes, three children, Mobile; 3. Louie Gorham, m. Thomas B. Crossland, Mobile; 4. May Cornelia, m. Daniel Wheeler, jr., one child, Mobile; 5. Caro, Mobile; 6. Josephine Belton, Chicago, Ill. Last residence: Mobile.

MICOU, WILLIAM HENRY, farmer and sergeant, C. S. Army, was born September 25, 1838, in Montgomery. He was reared upon the farm, and entered the Confederate Army in the Spring of 1862, as a private in Co. A, of the 1st battalion, Hilliard's legion, and subsequently was promoted to ordnance sergeant. His first service with the legion was in east Tennessee and his first great battle was Chickamauga, September 19-20, 1863, fighting with Gracie's brigade in Gen. William Preston's division. In November the legion left Missionary Ridge to accompany General Longstreet into east Tennessee, where they participated in the siege of Knoxville, and the battle of Bean's Station. The legion was then reorganized as the 59th and 60th Alabama infantry regiment. In 1863, before the regiment went into Virginia, he was transferred as a private to Co. G, 1st Alabama cavalry, then on duty in east Tennessee. With this cavalry he served under Generals Martin, Allen, and Joseph Wheeler throughout the Atlanta campaign, the raid through Tennessee, the fighting with Sherman from Atlanta to Savannah, and the final campaign in the Carolinas. Soon after the close of the war he became associated with the Tallassee manufacturing company, and later was its assistant treasurer. Married: in 1870, to Mary Phinizy, of Augusta, Ga. Children: 1. Augusta Louise. Last residence: Tallassee.

MIDDLETON, JOHN OSMOND, lawyer and legislator, was born September 25, 1882, in Montgomery County; son of William Armstrong and Catherine Hunter (Calvin) Middleton, the former a captain in the 23rd Alabama battalion, Gracie's brigade, C. S. Army; grandson of Augustus Washington and Eliza (Gause) Middleton, the former a soldier in the War of 1812, and of Col. Robert and Catherine (Hurst) Calvin. He was educated in the schools of Clanton; graduated LL. B., 1903, at University of Alabama, entered on the practice 1903, at Clanton; mayor of that place 1904; elected solicitor of Chilton County, 1905; represented Chilton County in the house of representatives of 1907. He is a Republican; a Methodist; and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. He is unmarried. Residence: Clanton.

MILBURN, WILLIAM H., Methodist minister; pastor of the Court St. church, Montgomery, 1848-49.

MILES, GEORGE GRANBERRY, grand keeper, records and seal, Knights of Pythias, was born June 13, 1853, near Columbus, Ga., and died April 25, 1912, at Montgomery; brother of John Embry Miles (q. v.). During the War of Secession, while his father and four brothers were serving in the C. S. Army, he became the main support of the family, and could spend only his spare time in school. In the fall of 1878, he left his farm, and entered the lumber business in Montgomery. A few years later, he moved to Birmingham and conducted a mercantile business there until 1886, when he entered the real estate business. In 1891, he went to Columbus, Ga., as manager of a life insurance company, and five years later sold his business and returned to Montgomery, becoming state manager of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn. He held that position until 1910, then entered farm real estate business with his son George. He was a Democrat; a Baptist, was deacon and treasurer of the church, moderator of the Montgomery Baptist Association for thirteen years, president of the Baptist state board of missions for ten years, and president and chairman of the executive committee of the Alabama Sunday School Association for many years; and was grand keeper of the records and seals of the Knights of Pythias, appointed in 1903, and re-elected until he resigned. Married: February 20, 1884, in Athens to Mattie Lucy Hine, daughter of James and Elizabeth (Reedus) Hine, of that place. She was a descendant of Thomas Hine or Hinde, who was located in Milford, Conn., as early as 1638 or 1639. His sixth son, Stephen Hine was the father of Ambrose Hine. Ambrose Hine and his son Silas were both captains in the Revolutionary War, and are the ancestors of Mrs. Miles. Children: 1 and 2, boys, d. at birth; 3, Eleanor, d. at age of three weeks; 4, George Granberry, jr., b. 1888, in Decatur, resides in Toledo, O.; 5, Bessie Embry, b. 1890, m. Arthur M. Mead, Montgomery; 6, Thomas Jasper, b. 1891, Montgomery; 7, Margaret Lucile, b. 1893, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

MILES, JOHN EMBRY, lawyer, was born September 12, 1839, at Hamilton, Harris County, Ga., and died February 28, 1918, at Columbiana; son of Thomas Jasper and Elinor Minerva (Embry) Miles, who lived at Columbus, Ga., where Mrs. Miles died in 1855, the former a native of that place, who entered the ministry of the Baptist church at the age of eighteen years, and preached for more than forty years, who came to Alabama and settled at Pine Level in 1859, conducted a farm and a mercantile store in addition to his ministry, and served as a chaplain in the C. S. Army, during the War of Secession; grandson of Reuben Embry, who lived near Columbus, Ga. The American ancestor of the Miles family was one of three brothers who came over from Wales. Mr. Miles was a brother of George Granberry Miles (q. v.). He was educated in the country schools and in Cusseta, Ga. He located at Montgomery in 1858, and in May, 1861, entered the C. S. Army, as a member of the First Alabama cavalry, Clanton's brigade. He served in the army for three years, and was severely wounded and disabled for further service at the battle of Shiloh. He farmed for two years after leaving the army; entered the mercantile business at Pine Grove in 1867, and from there moved to Montgomery; gave up the mercantile business in May, 1872, and moved to Texas; studied law in Texas and was admitted to the bar in 1885; went to Birmingham in 1887, and practiced law for ten years at that place; and traveled for thirteen years in the interest of the Law Book Publishers, the Lawyers Company, the Operative Publishing Company, and the Edward Thompson Law Book Company. He was a Baptist and a Mason. Married: April 6, 1865, at China Grove, to Josephine Emma Youngblood, daughter of Dr. Oliver and Tinsy Terrell (Townsend) Youngblood, of that place; granddaughter of Col. Eli Townsend, a planter and slave-owner at China Grove. The Townsend ancestor was Lieut. John Townsend, who came to America with Lord Baltimore, and was a lieutenant in the Revolutionary Army. His home was in Townshend, England, named for his family. Children: 1, Lillian, m. Richard Francis Johnston (q. v.); 2, Oliver, m. Myra Hamner, Columbiana; 3, Fay, m. Samuel Benton, Columbiana and Birmingham, children, Samuel, jr., John Miles, Charles Henry and Fay Miles; 4, Myrtle Youngblood, "Cincinnati Times-Star," Cincinnati, O. Last residence: Columbiana.

MILFORD, WALKER WALTON, farmer, was born April 11, 1878, at Westminster, Oconee County, S. C.; son of Samuel Marshall and Mariah (Palmer) Milford of Westminster, S. C., grandson of Charles Starke and Miriam Milford, and of Thomas B. and Amanda (Palmer) Milford, all of Anderson, S. C. The Milfords are of Irish descent, coming from the north of Ireland and settling in S. C. Both grandfathers of Mr. Milford served in the C. S. Army. Mr. Milford received his education in the common schools of Anderson County, S. C., and Kansas City, Mo. He also attended Clemson college, South Carolina, and the Alabama polytechnic institute for short periods, but did not graduate from either college. He has spent most of his life farming, coming to Walker County, from Anderson County, S. C., in December, 1902. He was elected to the legislature, from Walker County, in 1918. He is a Democrat, and a Methodist. Married: December 27, 1899, at Townville, S. C., to Ella, daughter of Peter Marshall and Sarah Whitfield, of that place. Children: 1. Roy Leslie; 2. Clara Etta; 3. Floyd S.; 4. Josephine Alberta; 5. Ella Alrena; 6. Edna; 7. Alma. Residence: Jasper.

MILFORT, LECLERC, French adventurer and author, was born about 1750, in Tiriles-Moutiers, near Mezieres, France, and died in 1817, in Mezieres. He fled from his native land after having killed a servant of the king's household in a duel. In May, 1776, he reached Coweta, on the Chattahooche River, in the midst of the Creek nation. He became acquainted with Colonel McGillivray, the great chief of the nation, accompanied him to the Hickory Ground, upon the banks of the Coosa, and thereafter made his home at McGillivray's house, at Little Talase, above Wetumpka. He was created Tustenuggee, or grand chief of war, and led Indian expeditions against the Whigs during the American Revolution. After twenty years among the Creek nation he returned to France and was made a general of brigade by Bonaparte. Author: "Memoire ou coup d'oeil rapide sur mes differens voyages et mon sejour dans la nation Creek," 1802. Married: sister of Col. Alexander McGillivray. Last residence: Mezieres, France.

MILHOUS, PHILIP, grand commander, grand commandery, Masons, 1898.

MILLARD, NATHANIEL, soldier of the American Revolution, age not disclosed; and a resident of Dallas County; private Tennessee Militia; enrolled on January 15, 1823; payment to date from Sept. 1, 1822; annual allowance, $48; sums received to date of publication of list, $430.31; Acts military Establishment.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MILLER, BENJAMIN MEEK, lawyer and judge, was born March 13, 1864, at Oak Hill, Wilcox County; son of Rev. Dr. John and Sarah (Pressly) Miller (q. v.). Judge Miller was educated at Oak Hill and Camden, and was graduated from Erskine college, S. C., with the A. B. degree and class honors in 1884; graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama in 1888; and was admitted to the practice the same year. In 1904 he was elected circuit judge of the 4th judicial circuit and re-elected in 1910; member of the legislature from Wilcox County 1888-89; lieutenant in the Wilcox mounted rifles, 1887-89. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; Knight of Pythias and a member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: September 21, 1892, at Birmingham, to Margaret Otis, daughter of Thomas and Nancy (Staton) Duggan of Mobile; granddaughter of John and Eliza (Dever) Staton, the former of Virginia, and of Thomas and Mary (Vernon) Duggan, natives respectively of Dublin, Ireland, and of Charleston, S. C. Children: 1. Benjamin Meek, jr.; 2. Margaret Otis. Residence: Camden.

MILLER, CHARLES HOUSTON, business man and State senator, was born February 22, 1857, at Allenton, Wilcox County; son of George Oliver and Susan (Trussell) Miller, the former a native of North Carolina, located as a teacher in Greenville, in the forties, removed to Allenton, Wilcox County, where he became a merchant, served in Co. I, later Co. B, 1st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and after the cessation of hostilities removed to Marengo County, where he died; grandson of James and Mary (Thornton) Miller, and of Mathews Trussell, the former were residents of North Carolina, the latter of near Gallion, Hale County. The Millers are of German origin, the Trussells are Scotch-Irish. He was educated in the common schools of Wilcox and Marengo Counties, and is a merchant, farmer, stock raiser, and president of the First national bank of Linden. He was a member of the board of revenue of Marengo County, 1892-1904; member of the constitutional convention of 1901 from the twentieth senatorial district, and a member of the State senate of 1911. He is a Democrat; and a Missionary Baptist. Married: (1) February 2, 1886, to Maggie Elan, daughter of Benjamin F. and Mary (Owens) Watts; (2) December 3, 1895, at Atlanta, Ga., to Mary Caroline, daughter of George W. and Peter Placida (Wright) Thomas, who lived at Stanton, Chilton County, the former served in the 4th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, the latter resides at Miller. Children: by second wife: 1. Charles Augustus; 2. Nina Placida; 3. Mary Margaratte; 4. George Washington; 5. Willie Minerva. Residence: Miller.

MILLER, EDWARD ANDREW, teacher, was born February 2, 1878, at Albertville, Marshall County; son of Thomas Jefferson and Alpha Balma (Ray) Miller, the former a farmer and business man, native of Henry County, Ga., who removed with his parents to Albertville, and in 1897 to Hungerford, Tex.; grandson of James Cicero and Martha Ann (Albert) Miller, of Albertville, the former a Confederate soldier, killed in the seven days fight around Richmond, 1862, and of Asa and Emily Jane (Richards) Ray, who lived at Geneva, Thadeus and Albertville, the former a Confederate soldier who rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel; great-grandson of Thomas Albert and of Ralph and Margaret (Gray) Ray, Scotch covenanters who settled in the northern part of South Carolina, and of Henry and Marjorie (Webster) Richards, both of English extraction and direct descendants of New England settlers. Mr. Miller received his early education at Albertville in the Seventh district agricultural school and graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1900, with the B. S. degree; graduate and assistant in department of bacteriology, 1901; received M. S. degree, 1903; began teaching in the public schools, July, 1898, as vacation work; taught in the agricultural school, Albertville, five years; president Multi district agricultural school, Blountsville, three years and later president of the Seventh district agricultural school, Albertville. He is a Democrat; Methodist, Odd Fellow, and Knight of Pythias. Married: August 27, 1905, at Albertville, to Jessie Belle, daughter of Wiley Cunningham and Mattie Victoria (Irwin) Sims who lived successively at Dadeville, Alexander City and Albertville; granddaughter of Carroll Sims, a Confederate soldier, and of William Franklin Irwin; great-granddaughter of John Irwin. Children: 1. Grace Marjorie. Residence: Blountsville.

MILLER, EMERSON R., professor pharmaceutical chemistry, was born June 2, 1862, at Bascom, Seneca County, O.; son of George and Charity (Hook) Miller, the former born at Bascom; grandson of John and Eliza (Andres) Miller, who lived at Bascom. Prof. Miller received his early education in the public schools of Ohio, and his collegiate course in the Normal school at Lebanon, Ohio, Wittenberg college, Springfield, Ohio, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and University of Marburg, in Hesse, Germany, and his professional education in the University of Michigan, receiving therefrom the degrees of pharmaceutical chemist, 1892, master of pharmacy, 1893, B. S., chemistry, 1894, and M. S., 1895. He was assistant in chemistry at the University of Michigan, 1894-5; professor of pharmacy, Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1895-1905; head of department of chemistry, Cuban experiment station, Santiago de Las Vegas, Cuba, 1905-6; and from this period to the present has been professor of pharmaceutical chemistry, Alabama polytechnic institute. Married: June 22, 1892, at Union City, Mich., to Mary Ada, daughter of Dana Paul and Elizabeth Tracy (Gleason) White, who lived at Keokuk, Iowa. Residence: Auburn.

MILLER, GEORGE KNOX, lawyer, judge Talladega city court, was born December 30, 1836, at Talladega, deceased; son of George and Cynthia Tennent (Hamilton) Miller, the former a native of Charleston, S. C., who lived at Pendleton, S. C., from infancy until 1833, when he with his family moved to Talladega, moved to Memphis, Tenn., in 1844, to El Dorado, Ark., in 1849, to Pendleton, S. C., in 1851, and returned to Talladega in 1855, dying there in 1873, who served with the South Carolina militia in 1832 as a nullifier, and with the Alabama militia in 1836 in removing the Creek Indians; grandson of John and Jane (Grey) Miller, who lived at Charleston and Pendleton, S. C., and of Thomas and Ann (Kennedy) Hamilton, who lived at Bullock's Creek, York County, and near Pendleton, S. C., the former a soldier under Gen. Marion in the Revolution, who fought at the battle of Cowpens and in other engagements; great-grandson of John Miller, born about 1730, in London, England, a printer, reporter and editor, who was closely associated as partner with Henry Sampson Woodfall in the publication of the "London Evening Post," an adjunct of Woodfall's "London Daily Advertiser," in which papers the celebrated "letters of Junius" were first printed, who persisted in publishing the debates, after he had been proceeded against by the court of the king's bench in 1771, and was compelled to leave England, who came to America with his family in 1782, settled in Charleston, S. C., where he published a paper, and founded the Pendleton Messenger, which was continued for many years after his death in 1809 by his son John, great-grandson of David Hamilton, a native of County Renfrew, Scotland, of the clan Hamilton, an adherent of the Stuarts, who sought safety in the colony of Pennsylvania after the battle of Culloden Moor, settling with his family between 1745 and 1755, at what was then called Little York, who left Pennsylvania after Braddock's defeat in 1755, and settled on Blood River, S. C., and of William and Mary Ann (Brandon) Kennedy, the latter a sister of Gen. Thomas Brandon of Revolutionary fame.

Capt. Miller was educated in schools at Talladega; Memphis, Tenn.; El Dorado, Ark.; at the Baptist male college in Talladega; was graduated from the classical course of the University of Virginia; and was attending the law course at that institution at the outbreak of the War of Secession. He left school and joined the C. S. Army, April, 1861, enlisting in Capt. A. W. Bowlin's company of cavalry, Alabama national guard. He was mustered into the C. S. Army in August, 1861, and assigned to Co. A, Brewer's cavalry battalion, under Gen. Polk. He received successive promotions, until he became captain of the company, August 13, 1862, and served in that capacity throughout the war. He spent the first year following the war on a farm in South Carolina, and in the summer of 1866, began to practice law in Talladega County, having been admitted to the bar in that county in May, 1861. He was appointed register in chancery for the district composed of Talladega and Clay Counties, 1868; resigned the chancellorship in 1884, to accept the appointment as judge of probate for Talladega County; held the latter position until 1898, when he became judge of the city court of Talladega. He served as mayor of Talladega from 1874 to 1884, with the exception of one two-year term, and was editor of the "Mountain Home," 1881-1884. He was a Democrat, a Presbyterian, a Mason and a Knight of Honor. Married: December 31, 1863, at Atlanta, Ga., to Celestine McConn, daughter of Thomas Hampton and Narcissa (Walker) McConn, of Equality, Anderson County, S. C., the former a native of that place; granddaughter of Robert and Jane (Hamilton) McConn, the former a native of County Cork, Ireland, the latter a sister of Thomas Hamilton, Mr. Miller's grandfather, and of William and Jane (Leman) Walker. Children: 1. Rosa, b. August 2, 1866, m. Judge Samuel Earle Greene (q. v.); 2. Jessie, b. February 11, 1869, m. Thomas L. Welch, of Talladega County; 3. Hampton Knox, b. July 30, 1871, B. S., 1893, M. S., 1894, Alabama polytechnic institute, assistant in chemistry at that institution, 1893-1894, at the Agriculture and mechanical college, of Florida, at Lake City, 1894-1896, assistant chemist, North Carolina experiment station, 1896-1899, chemist, University of Florida and experiment station, Lake City, 1898-1904, since 1904 with Summit nurseries, Monticello, Fla., m. Margaret Burt of Talladega County; 4. Celeste, b. July 21, 1876, m. William C. McMillan of Talladega County;

WILLIAM P. LAY

5. Zemulah Walker, b. October 23, 1879, m. James C. Burt of Talladega. Last residence: Talladega.

MILLER, JAMES MATTHEW, lawyer, was born at Allenton, Wilcox County, son of G. O. and Susan C. (Trussel) Miller, who lived at that place. He received his early education in the old field schools and was graduated from Southern university. He studied law and was admitted to the bar September 25, 1889. He practiced law at Linden, and before the supreme court of Alabama, and edited the Marengo "Democrat," 1892-1896. He was elected to the State legislature, 1898-1899; and was elected solicitor of Marengo County, November 3, 1898. He was a Populist until 1896, and since that time has been a Democrat; and is a Baptist. Married: November 9, 1898, at Jefferson, to Jennie Compton Allen. Residence: Linden.

MILLER, JOHN, Presbyterian minister and college president, was born June 24, 1825, in York District, S. C., and died June 3, 1878, at Oak Hill, Wilcox County; son of Joseph and Nancy Barnette (Neely) Miller, grandson of Samuel and Elizabeth (Neely) Miller of Scotch stock who emigrated from North Ireland to South Carolina near the beginning of the American Revolution and settled in the vicinity of the historic town of Yorkville. He was a graduate of Erskine college, Due West, S. C., and in 1857 was elected president of that institution, an honor which he declined, however not to his prejudice, for later his alma mater conferred upon him the honorary degree of D. D. He removed to Alabama in 1846 to assume the pastorate of the Reformed Presbyterian church at Oak Hill, a position which he held for thirty-one years; president Wilcox female college, 1867-72; chaplain Wilcox True Blues, during the War of Secession. Married: Sarah, daughter of Dr. Samuel and Elizabeth (Hearst) Pressly, who, prior to 1836, resided at Cedar Springs, Abbeville County, S. C., whence they removed to Wilcox County; granddaughter of David and Jane (Patterson) Pressly, and of Joseph and Jane Hearst of Abbeville. The Presslys are of English origin. Children: 1. Joseph Neely; 2. Mrs. Barnette Payne, Gadsden; 3. 4. (twins) John Hearst and Sallie, married ——— Brice, Chester, S. C.; 5. Janie Dale; 6. James Pressly, merchant, Camden; 7. Benjamin Meek (q. v.); 8. Davis Pressly, merchant, Camden. Last residence: Oak Hill, Wilcox County.

MILLER, JOHN, lawyer, was born October 1, 1882, at Camden, Wilcox County; son of Joseph Neely and Minnie Frances (Bonner) Miller, both of Oak Hill in the same county, the former who was U. S. district attorney from 1893-97, and was a member of the constitutional convention in 1901; grandson of Rev. John and Sarah (Pressly) Miller and of Dr. Joseph Hearst Bonner, all of Oak Hill. His grandparents were from South Carolina originally, being Scotch-Irish Presbyterians. Mr. Miller received his early education at Camden; was graduated at Erskine college, South Carolina, A. B., 1903, and studied law at the University of Alabama, 1909-10. He passed the State bar examination in March, 1911; became county solicitor of Wilcox County, January, 1917; and was elected to the State senate from the twenty-second district in 1919. He is a Democrat, a Presbyterian, a Mason, a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 28, 1911, at Furman, to Clyde Purifoy, daughter of W. Scott and Mary (Loeb) Purifoy, of that place. Children: 1. Minnie Loeb. Residence: Camden.

MILLER, JOHN HEARST, lawyer and judge, was born August 1, 1858, at Oak Hill, Wilcox County, and died January 2, 1919, in Birmingham; son of Rev. Dr. John and Sarah (Pressly) Miller (q. v.). Judge Miller was educated in the public schools of his native county and at Erskine college, S. C., where he graduated in 1880, second in his class, being awarded medals for debating, essay writing and proficiency in mathematics, serving as teacher of the latter subject at that college, 1882-88, and in 1895 receiving from it the honorary degree of A. M. He studied law at the University of Virginia and later took a special course at Johns Hopkins university. He returned to Alabama in 1888, and located in Birmingham where he entered upon the practice of the law. He served as city recorder, 1891-92; special judge circuit court of Jefferson County under gubernatorial appointment, 1907; elected November, 1912, judge of the city court of Birmingham for a term of six years, an office abolished by the legislature of 1915; elected one of the judges of the 10th judicial circuit. He was a director in the Traders national bank; member board of directors Homestead trust company and the Southern indemnity company. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: June 10, 1896, in Birmingham, Eugenia, daughter of C. W. and Margaret A. Alexander of that city. Mrs. Miller died in March, 1899. Children: 1. Pressly Alexander, died young. Last residence: Birmingham.

MILLER, JOSEPH NEELY, lawyer, member Alabama constitutional convention of 1901, was born July 14, 1849, at Oak Hill, Wilcox County, and died in 1910; son of Rev. Dr. John and Sarah (Pressly) Miller (q. v.). He was educated in his home community and prepared for college, entering the University of Alabama in 1864. Later he attended Erskine college, Due West, S. C., from which he graduated with the degree of A. B., 1869, and was invited by his alma mater to be anniversary orator in 1881 and again in 1892 when he delivered the address at the semi-centennial of the Philomathean literary society; received the honorary degree of M. A., and was a trustee Erskine college. He read law under Gen. El. W. Pettus of Selma and Judge S. C. Cochran of Camden, and was admitted to the bar in 1873, beginning the practice in Camden. He was U. S. district attorney for the southern district with headquarters in Mobile, 1893-97. He was a Democrat; and a member of the Alabama constitutional convention 1901. He was a Knight of Pythias and for many years an elder in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church at Camden and in 1913 was a delegate to the Centennial Synod of the church at Winnsboro, S. C.; delegate to the Pan Presbyterian council held in Liverpool, England, June, 1904. Married: (1) September 6, 1877, to Minnie Lee, daughter of Dr. Joseph H. and Sarah (Young) Bonner, of Wilcox County; (2) July 28, 1898, to Lena, daughter of Dr. Joseph and Elizabeth (Acre) Tucker of Mobile; (3) November 6, 1901, to Nellie Tucker, sister of his second wife. Children, by first wife: 1. Joseph B., lawyer, deceased; 2. twin of Joseph B., d. in infancy; 3. Sarah P., m. John M. Bonner, Camden; 4. John, m. Clyde Purifoy, Camden; 5. Minnie M., m. Dr. J. Heustis Jones, Camden; 6. Annie B.; 7. Joseph N., d. young; 8. Elizabeth H., d. young; by third wife: 9. Lina T.; 10. Elizabeth H.; 11. James Pressaly. Last residence: Camden.

MILLER, LAWRENCE DEAN, teacher, author, was born February 3, 1850, at Pine Grove, Spartanburg County, S. C.; son of Gen. Joel W. and Elvira (Orr) Miller, the former who was born on Tiger River, Spartanburg County, S. C., served as brigadier general in the South Carolina state cavalry, 1845-1850, as a member of the house of representatives, 1854-1860, and of the State senate at the close of the War of Secession, the latter a sister of Gov. James L. Orr of South Carolina, who was speaker of the lower house in congress, 1856-1858, and of Judge J. A. Orr of Columbus, Miss., a member of the Confederate congress, and of Dr. H. C. Orr, of Mississippi, a surgeon in the C. S. Army; grandson of Samuel and Cassandra (Dean) Miller, the former a sheriff of Spartanburg District, S. C., who fought in the Revolutionary Army, and of Christopher and Martha (McCann) Orr, formerly of Anderson, S. C., who moved to Pontotoc County, Miss., in 1844; great-grandson of Col. Orr and Capt. McCann, members of a Pennsylvania regiment of cavalry in the Revolutionary Army, who moved south before the end of the eighteenth century, of Mr. Dean who served in the Revolution, and of Mr. Miller, also a soldier in the Revolutionary Army, who was killed by Indians and Tories in 1785. Mr. Miller was prepared for college in the Reidville male high school, South Carolina, and attended Wofford college for a year. He was elected assistant principal of the Reidville male high school, and while holding that position, completed his college course. He taught for three years in South Carolina, moved to Alabama in 1872, and spent five years as principal of the Alexandria high school. He has conducted a large farm in Calhoun County, since his removal to Alabama; has served as superintendent of education of Calhoun County for six years; has been president of two county fairs, master of the county grange, and president of the county alliance; is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. He is author of "Miller's History of Alabama," written in 1899-1900, which has been largely adopted as a text-book in the state. Married: (1) October 22, 1871, to Mattie Crook, a graduate of Judson Institute, who died January 3, 1884, daughter of Col. John M. and Margaret (Miller) Crook, who lived at Alexandria; (2) to Lizzie Vernon, who died September 11, 1908, daughter of Maj. Frank and Letitia Vernon, of Spartanburg, S. C. Children, by first marriage: 1. Martin Crook, b. September 10, 1872, d. 1873; by second marriage: 2. Frank Vernon, d. young; 3. Lettie, d. young. Residence: Jacksonville.

MILLER, LEONARD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, and a resident of Jefferson County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on September 26, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $50.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MILLER, NATHAN LEE, lawyer and lieutenant-governor, was born March 6, 1866, at Danville, Morgan County; son of Nathan and Elizabeth (Torrence) Miller, the former was born near Madison Station, Limestone County, where he grew to manhood, graduated in medicine in Nashville, Tenn., and practiced his profession in Danville until 1883, when he removed to Birmingham; grandson of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Hobbs) Miller, of Lawrence County, and of Adam Torrence and wife, a Miss Matthews, all of Oakville. He received his education in public schools, at the State normal college, Florence, and Bellevue academy, Birmingham. He studied law in connection with duties as clerk and register of the city court of Birmingham; was admitted to the bar, December, 1897, and entered upon the practice in that city, November, 1898. He practiced alone until December, 1904, after which he formed a partnership with Judge H. A. Sharpe, he being a junior member. He was clerk and register of the city courts of Birmingham from January, 1888, to September, 1898. On November 6, 1906, he was elected State senator from the thirteenth senatorial district, served 1907-11, and was elected lieutenant-governor of Alabama on the ticket with Thomas E. Kilby, as governor, November, 1918, and assumed the office, January, 1919. He held the office of lieutenant in Co. K, Birmingham Rifles, Alabama State Troop, 1889-91. He is a Democrat, and was secretary of the Jefferson County democratic executive committee, 1894 to 1898, and of the State campaign committee those four years. He is a Methodist; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: February 8, 1899, in Birmingham, to Sarah, daughter of LaFayette and Ellen J. (Hunt) Rogan (q. v.). Children: 1. died in infancy. Residence: Birmingham.

MILLER, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, age not disclosed; and a resident of Franklin County; private 39th Regular U. S. Infantry; enrolled on March 10, 1818; payment to date from July 9, 1814; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,887.09; April 24, 1816, transferred from West Tennessee, from September 4, 1819.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MILLER, WILLIAM, lawyer, born March 27, 1815, at Londonderry, Ireland, and died September 9, 1891, at Tuscaloosa; son of Samuel and Jane (Brown) Miller, natives of Londonderry and Belfast, Ireland, the former of whom came to America in 1817, and settled in Baltimore, Md., as a consulting engineer. He attended high school in Baltimore; learned the carpenters' trade and worked at his trade until he was of age; moved to Alabama in 1840 and settled at Tuscaloosa as the junior partner in the wholesale house of Miller and Hogan. After leaving that firm, he established himself as a builder and contractor, and among others, built the main building of the Insane hospital at Tuscaloosa. He studied law, was admitted to the bar, and began the practice of law at Tuscaloosa in 1867. He was elected judge of probate in 1868 and served a term of six years; was appointed postmaster in 1876, and served until 1887. It was through the influence of Mr. Miller that the first appropriation was secured for the opening of the Warrior River. He was a Republican; a Presbyterian; and an Odd Fellow. Married: June 23, 1846, in Tuscaloosa, to Ann Olivia, daughter of Daniel Haven and Ann Maria (Bacon) Bingham, of Tuscaloosa, a direct descendant of Deacon Thomas Bingham, the first American ancestor, who was born in 1642 in Sheffield, England, and settled in Norwich, Conn., in 1660. Children: 1. Florence Maria; 2. Col. William Haven (q. v.); 3. Kate Stuart, m. Joseph Fletcher Roper; 4. Helen Parkhurst, m. Frank Hull; 5. Olivia Jane; 6. Abbie Searcy, m. Charles McLeod Peterson; 7. Margaret, Tuscaloosa; 8. Thomas Hugh, postmaster of Tuscaloosa, 1892, bookkeeper at Birmingham, m. Mrs. Mattie Thompson Royster; 9. Harlan Bingham, lawyer, LL. B., Vanderbilt university, 1887, m. Margaret Adams Smiser, Prattville. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MILLER, WILLIAM HAVEN, quartermaster general, U. S. Army, was born January 31, 1849, at Tuscaloosa, and died April 11, 1911, at Seattle, Wash.; son of William and Ann Olivia (Bingham) Miller (q. v.), the former a native of Londonderry, Ireland, probate judge of Tuscaloosa County and postmaster at the town; grandson of Samuel and Jane Miller of Baltimore, Md., and of Daniel H., and Ann Maria (Bacon) Bingham of Tuscaloosa. He received his early education in the public schools of his native town and attended the University of Alabama; entered the U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., and graduated captain of the cadet corps, 1872. He was appointed second lieutenant in 1st U. S. cavalry and was promoted to a first lieutenancy, 1879; served with that regiment in campaigns and in garrison in the northwest, northern California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Montana, until September 4, 1890, when he was appointed captain and assistant quartermaster, U. S. Army; quartermaster U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., 1890-94; quartermaster, Fort Riley, Kan., 1894-96; constructing quartermaster at Spokane, Wash., building the military post of Fort Wright, Wash., 1896-98; appointed major and chief quartermaster U. S. volunteers, August 15, 1898; division chief quartermaster at Southern Camp, Anniston, 1898-99; chief quartermaster, department of Santa Clara and Matanzas, at Cienfuegos and Matanzas, Cuba, 1899-1900; depot quartermaster, Boston, Mass., 1900-01; depot and chief quartermaster, department of the Lakes, Chicago, 1901-05; in charge of the general depot, quartermasters department, New York City, 1905 to death, promoted by seniority to major and quartermaster, U. S. Army, 1900, to lieutenant-colonel and deputy quartermaster general, U. S. Army, 1903, to death. He participated in the Modoc Indian War, 1872-73, including the battles of January 18, and of April 15, 16, and 17, 1873, and brevetted first lieutenant, 1890, for "gallant services in action against Indians at the Lava Beds, Calif., April 17, 1873, and gallant and meritorious conduct during the Modoc War." He also served in the Nez Perce War, June to October, 1877, taking part in the battle of the Forks of the Clearwater River, Idaho, July 11-12, 1877, and in the Bannock campaign, Idaho and Nevada; served as quartermaster in the field and in garrison from May, 1877, to March, 1887, and was, during that time, regimental quartermaster, 1st cavalry, August 15, 1878, to March 31, 1887. He was a Republican and a Presbyterian. Married: November 20, 1889, to Anna, daughter of John and Susan Abbott, who lived at Walla Walla, Wash. Children: 1. Harlan A.; 2. Margaret. Last residence: Seattle, Wash.

MILLIGAN, MARTIN GATEWOOD, Cumberland Presbyterian minister, was born December 16, 1827, near Oakville, Lawrence County; son of Johnston and Jane Holmes (Kyle) Milligan, the former of Scotch-Irish ancestry, who came to Alabama from Tennessee, and was a mechanic, the latter a daughter of James Kyle of near Moulton. He went to school near Starkville, Miss., and to Oak Grove academy; became a minister of the gospel in the Cumberland Presbyterian church, in 1847; and served the church for sixty years. Most of that time was spent in Alabama, although he preached in several states. He was a Democrat, opposed to secession, but supported the state when it withdrew from the union; and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: (1) to Elizabeth Starkey, daughter of Nancy Starkey of Bellefonte; (2) Hypatica Ann Pickens. Children: 1. James Calvin, d. at the age of twenty-three years; 2. Samuel Newton, m. Amy Frances Scarborough, Jacksonville; 3. Elizabeth Jane, d. in infancy; by second marriage: 4. Emma Jane, d. in infancy; 5. Willie Gatewood, m. Lulu Pinson, Jacksonville. Last residence: Jacksonville.

MILLS, MORGAN, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, a resident of Dallas County; private 2nd Regulars New Jersey Line; enrolled on December 18, 1828, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1826; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $680.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Dallas County, June 1, 1840, aged 78.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

MILLS, R. J., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Marion.

MILLS, WILLIAM JEFFERSON, farmer and legislator, was born November 3, 1839, near Lumpkin, Stewart County, Ga.; son of Richard and Eveline M. (Gilstrap) Mills, the former a native of South Carolina; grandson of W. I. and Nancy (McCormick) Gilstrap, of Hawkinsville, Ga. He was educated in the country schools; was a private in Co. K, 25th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, from January, 1862 to November, 1864, when he lost his right arm at the battle of Franklin; tax collector, Geneva County, 1871-74; member house of representatives from that county, 1892-93, 1894-95, and re-elected in November, 1902. He is a farmer. He is a member of the Peoples Party. Married: November 12, 1872, at Geneva, to Elizabeth J., daughter of William and Mary (Kennedy) Coleman. Residence: Costilla.

MILNER, HENRY KEY, business man, was born September 25, 1866, at Greenville, Butler County; son of Major Willis Julian and Gustine Caroline (Key) Milner (q. v.), the former who was a distinguished Confederate soldier, was wounded three times and cited four times for "gallantry in action" or conspicuous bravery under fire, was the most notable of all pioneers of Birmingham in the extent and variety of the great accomplishments which today make Birmingham a great city, having planned and built the water works, the Birmingham belt railroad, the Highland avenue car line, planned the entire South Highlands development, and was a contributor to the fund to demonstrate the possibility of making pig iron from coke made of Alabama coal. Henry Key Milner grew up in Birmingham, attending the public schools and after a four years course received the degree of Mining Engineer from the University of Georgia in 1887. Later he took a post-graduate course in the School of Mines of Columbia College at New York. During summer vacations while attending the university he was assistant engineer of the Birmingham water works company; was later employed in the construction of the aqueduct bringing water from Five Mile Creek to the pumping station at North Birmingham; was also identified with the construction of the Birmingham belt railroad. In 1887 as engineer of the Fort Payne land company Mr. Milner designed and laid out the town of Fort Payne; the following year he located the present Cahaba River pumping station, the Shades Mountain reservoir, and connecting lines to Birmingham for the Water works company; in 1888 he became the junior member of the firm Milner and Kettig, jobbers in mill, mine and furnace supplies, which firm later became incorporated as the Milner and Kettig company; was secretary and treasurer of the corporation until it was finally sold to the Crane company in 1905; in 1912 upon the organization of the Milner land company he was made president which office he now holds. Under his direction property that had laid dormant and practically in a state of nature has been reclaimed and improved and is now among the most desirable section of Birmingham and known as Milner Heights. He was for years an important factor in the good roads movement; served as vice president and member of the executive committee of the Alabama good roads association; was one of the organizers and secretary and director of the Warrant warehouse company; is now a director of the American trust and savings bank of Birmingham; and a director of the Magnolia compress and warehouse company of Mobile. He has taken an active part in the Warrior River movement, and was chairman of the terminals and transportation committee, contributing greatly to its development and use for barge transportation. He was appointed by Gov. Thomas E. Kilby, chairman of the State harbor commission of Alabama in March, 1921, for a term of five years. During the World War he was chief of the American protective league. He is a Democrat; also a member of the Chamber of commerce of Birmingham; was one of the organizers and for its first two years president of the country club of Birmingham; he is also a member of the Roebuck, Rotary and Motor clubs, the Birmingham athletic club; has been president of the Associated charities of Birmingham, and is a member of the Church of the Advent, Episcopal, which he has served as vestryman. Married: (1) February 14, 1889, to Helen Bishop of Athens, Ga., whose death occurred in 1910; (2) June 2, 1915, to Susie Gabard, daughter of the late William L. Martin (q. v.), of Montgomery who served as attorney-general of Alabama and speaker of the house of representatives. Children, by first marriage: 1. Martha, m. Dr. Samuel Ravand Benedict, son of Samuel C. and Anna Bloomfield Benedict; 2. Justine Key, m. Robert V. Mabry, son of Thomas Elliott and Julia Gwyn Mabry. Residence: Birmingham.

MILNER, JOHN COOPER, lawyer, was born May 28, 1868, at Georgiana, Butler County; son of John Ashley and Sallie (Cooper) Milner, the former a native of Barnesville, Ga., who moved to Alabama and lived at Georgiana, Calera, Pine Apple, Monroeville, Leeds and Birmingham, and during the War of Secession was employed by the Confederate government in making iron; grandson of Pitt Sanders and Pamela N. (Parker) Milner, who came to Georgiana from Barnesville, Ga., and of Peter and Symantha (Moncrief) Cooper, who lived at Cooper's Station. The Milner family originally came from England. One of that family, Capt. John Milner, served in the Carolinas in the War of the Revolution. Mr. Milner attended public schools in various parts of Alabama; Moore's business university in Atlanta, Ga.; and was graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama, June, 1889. He began the practice of law in Birmingham in 1889; was county solicitor of Lamar County, 1891-1892; mayor of Vernon, 1895-1896; served as a private in Co. M, Alabama State troops, 1892-1894; represented Lamar County in the State legislature, 1911; and was a State senator from the twelfth district, 1915. He is a Democrat; has served as chairman of the campaign committee of Lamar County; as beat commissioner, 1896-1898; has been a delegate to many State conventions; a member of the State executive committee, 1908-1910; and a member of the congressional executive committee, 1906-1910. He is a Methodist; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and a member of the Alpha Tau Omega college fraternity. Married: June 29, 1892, in Vernon, to Adine Pearl, daughter of Roland Wallace and Laura Chappel (Price) Cobb, of that place; granddaughter of Alexander Cobb (q. v.), who was a member of the Alabama legislature from Fayette County, 1861-1865, and probate judge of Lamar County from 1874 to the time of his death in December, 1887. Children: 1. Adine Ashley, m. Elonzo R. Harris; 2. Laura May, deceased; 3. Sallie Cobb; 4. Annie Mildred. Residence: Vernon.

MILNER, JOHN TURNER, civil engineer, was born September 29, 1826, in Pike County, Ga.; son of Willis Jay and Mary Ann (Turner) Milner; brother of Willis Julian Milner (q. v.). His early education was limited as he went to school and worked alternately. At the age of ten he learned his first lessons in mining at his father's mines in Lumpkin County, Ga. From his twelfth to his fifteenth year he was engaged in railroad construction under the direction of his father who at that time was a railroad contractor, and at the age of seventeen he entered the gold mines near Dahlonega, Ga. He next entered the University of Georgia but was forced to leave at the end of his third year on account of failing health. Returning to his home he became interested in civil engineering, working under George H. Hazelhurst, the distinguished civil engineer, who at that time was engaged on the Macon and Western railroad. In less than two years Mr. Milner was principal assistant engineer in the construction of the Muscogee road, now a part of the Columbus and Macon railroad. In 1842 he drove an ox team across the plains to Oregon and California and in the latter state was appointed by General Riley, the then provisional governor of California, city surveyor of San Jose, the capital of the state. He returned to Georgia in 1852 and shortly afterwards removed to Alabama, where he became connected with the Montgomery and West Point railroad, at Chehaw, Macon County. Governor Moore commissioned him in 1858, under an act of the legislature, to survey and locate a railroad line connecting the navigable waters of the Alabama River with those of the Tennessee. He selected and recommended the line upon which the South and North railroad was built. On November 3, 1858, he was elected chief engineer of the South and North railroad company. He continued in this position until October 1, 1872, when the railroad was completed and placed under the control of the Louisville and Nashville system, at which time he retired from active service. He founded the sawmills at Bolling and projected the great city of Birmingham. Before Colonel Powell, Josiah Morris, or any others thought of such a place he had entered into a written agreement with R. C. McCalla, as the chief engineer and representative of the managers of the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad to buy for their respective companies the land at the crossing of the two roads, with the view of building a great industrial city. He purchased about seven thousand acres, in Village Creek valley, several miles northwest of the present site of Birmingham, and extending from a point near Pratt Mines towards the east. The unwarranted withdrawal of the managers for the Alabama and Chattanooga people from their written agreement thwarted him in his purposes. They changed the location of their line and bought the present site of the city of Birmingham, but as a matter of precaution, not knowing exactly where Mr. Milner would cross their line with the South and North, they only took sixty day options on the purchases they had made. There was no other available crossing except where Birmingham now is, after changing the line from the Village Creek valley to the Elyton valley. Throughout the sixty days he gave no intimation or sign as to where the crossing would be located but had surveys made for crossings at every available point above and below Elyton for miles. At the expiration of the three days of grace allowed in such transactions, the dropped or forfeited Stanton options, covering the site of the great city, were taken up and the money paid for them. Mr. Milner, faithful to the trust confided in him as engineer of the South and North Alabama railroad had arranged for his company to own half of the great city of the future. After the development of the Coalburg coal property, near Birmingham, he sold it in May, 1883, to the Georgia Pacific railroad company, at a profit of over two thousand dollars. He also developed the New Castle coal property, about nine miles east of Birmingham, was the owner of valuable property in the city of Birmingham, and was stockholder in the most important land companies there. Author: "Alabama as it was, as it is, and as it will be." Married: December 30, 1855, to Flora J., daughter of John C. Caldwell, of Greenville. He left descendants. Last residence: Birmingham.

MILNER, WILLIS JULIAN, civil engineer, Birmingham pioneer and major, C. S. Army, was born May 3, 1842, in Barnesville, Ga.; son of Willis Jay and Mary Ann (Turner) Milner, the former a railroad contractor and builder, who founded the town of Milner, Ga., and also engaged in mining, the latter a native of North Carolina; grandson of John Milner and wife, who was a Miss Calloway, the former a Baptist clergyman, the latter a descendant of Richard Calloway, one of the early settlers of Kentucky, and among the defenders of Fort Boone, and of John Gainer Turner, of North Carolina; great-grandson of Capt. John Milner, who served under General Pickens in the War of the Revolution; and brother of John T. Milner (q. v.). He was reared in Georgia, Alabama and Florida; and was associated with his father in business. In the spring of 1861, while a student at Mercer university, Georgia, he entered the Confederate service in Florida and assisted in raising a company of which he was appointed first lieutenant, but as there appeared no immediate prospect of duty with this company he resigned and enlisted as a private in the "Clinch Rifles," of Augusta, Ga., which had already been assigned as Co. A, to the 5th Georgia infantry regiment, then stationed at Pensacola. With this regiment he served in the Kentucky campaign under General Bragg, and at the battle of Murfreesboro, where he was wounded, fighting with Jackson's brigade of Breckinridge's division. Later he was transferred as a private to Co. D, 33rd Alabama infantry regiment, Hood's brigade, Cleburne's division, Army of Tennessee. In April, 1863, he was promoted to first lieutenant and put in command of Co. K, of his regiment, and served in the Tullahoma campaign, the retreat to Chattanooga and the Chickamauga campaign, where he was again wounded. On returning to duty he was appointed adjutant of the regiment, serving from Dalton to Atlanta. Later he was appointed to the staff of General Lowrey, with the rank of captain, serving as such during the remainder of the Atlanta campaign, receiving a slight wound at Spring Hill, and taking part in the battles of Franklin and Nashville. At the death of General Cleburne, General Lowrey took command and Captain Milner was appointed adjutant-general of Lowrey's brigade. After the battle of Bentonville the 16th, 33rd, and 45th Alabama were consolidated as the 1st Alabama, in the brigade of Gen. C. M. Shelley, and he was promoted to major of the consolidated regiment. His services ended with the surrender of the Army at Greensboro, N. C., April 26, 1865. In 1858, from the top of Red Mountain, he first viewed Jones' Valley, the present site of Birmingham. Of that first impression he later said: "It was one vast garden as far as eye could reach, northeast and southwest. I had traveled all over the United States. I had seen the great and rich valleys of the Pacific coast, but no where had I seen an agricultural people so perfectly provided for, and so completely happy." After the end of the War of Secession Major Milner located in Greenville, where he resided until 1871, when he removed to Jefferson County, and became one of the founders and pioneer builders of Birmingham. His professional services as a civil engineer were of great value in laying off the young city, and his business qualities were applied to the development of private enterprises and public utilities. He was secretary and treasurer of the Elyton land company; and later general manager; one of the incorporators of the National bank, the first bank in Birmingham, of which Charles Lynn was president; laid out South Highlands, and in 1884 graded South Highland avenue, which had been designed by John A. Milner; contracted Lakeview park; built and operated the first horse car lines, and the Highland Avenue and the belt lines, the latter having both passenger and freight departments, using steam engines, and called "dummy lines." He established the first general supply and machinery business of the Birmingham district, taking in as partner, in 1886, William H. Kettig, thus establishing the firm of Milner and Kettig, and founding a business that has continued until today. He also established the waterworks of Birmingham, and was its chief engineer for twenty-five years. Married: in 1865, to Gustrine C., daughter of Dr. James F. Key of Lowndes County, a relative of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner." Children: 1. Mary Clare, m. Alexander Sloan Tutwiler; 2. Henry Key (q. v.), m. (1) Helen Bishop; (2) Susie Martin, daughter of Hon. William L. Martin (q. v.). Residence: Birmingham and Tampa, Fla.

MILSTEAD, FRANK DAVIS, consulting engineer. Residence: Tallassee.

MILTON, JAMES, grand master, grand council, 1876-78; deputy grand high priest, grand chapter, Masons, 1875-77.

MIMS, WILLIAM J., major, 43rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

× MINGE, JOHN HENRY, business man, was born May 25, 1851, in Marengo County, and died in 1908; son of David and Elvira (Adams) Minge, the former a native of Charles City County, Va., who moved to Alabama in 1833; grandson of Dr. John and Margaret (Winston) Adams, of Richmond, Va. His grandmother Minge was a sister of President William Henry Harrison; and his mother's grandmother was a sister to Judge Cyrus Griffin, president of the first congress that met in Philadelphia. The Adams family came from Scotland, and the Minges from Wales, both settling in Virginia. Mr. Minge attended the neighborhood schools of Marengo County, the St. Wilfred school at Marion, and the Hanover academy, in Hanover County, Va. In 1875, he went to Texas to live, but returned the next year. He resided on his plantation in Hale County, 1876-1884, and later moved to Faunsdale. He was engaged in farming; in the manufacturing of cotton seed oil at Faunsdale, and of cotton yarns at Faunsdale; and in merchandising at Faunsdale. He was elected representative in the State legislature in 1886; State senator in 1890, in which body he was chairman of the committee on finance; was a delegate to the National Democratic convention of 1896; was a member of the State Democratic executive committee, 1892-1896; and was again elected to the legislature from Marengo County in 1902. He was an Episcopalian. Married: March 24, 1874, to Bessie Croom, daughter of Jackson N. and Mary (Croom) Chadwick. Children: 1. John Henry (q. v.). Last residence: Faunsdale.

✓ MINGE, JOHN HENRY, real estate and bond dealer, was born February 3, 1875, on the Norwood plantation near Faunsdale, Marengo County; son of John Henry and Bessie (Chadwick) Minge (q. v.). He was educated in the private and public schools of Faunsdale and had his college career at Marion institute, and at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. He entered the general mercantile business with his father at Faunsdale in 1899, and later they erected a cotton seed oil mill at that place. In 1905 he removed to Birmingham where he has since engaged in the real estate, mortgage loan and stock and bond business. He was first lieutenant of the "Pelham Guards" at Uniontown, 1897. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; Knight of Pythias; and Woodman of the World. Married: November 10, 1897, in Birmingham, to Rosa, daughter of Col. James Withers and Mattie (Lundie) Sloss (q. v.). Children: 1. Martha Sloss; 2. John Henry. Residence, Birmingham.

Maud McGure Kelly
Attorney at Law.

MINOR, HENRY, first Alabama supreme court reporter, lawyer, Alabama supreme court justice, was born January 4, 1783, in Dinwiddie County, Va., and died January 1, 1839, at Minorca, Greene County; son of Thomas Carr and Anne (Redd) Minor, who lived at Topping Castle, Caroline County, Va., the former a native of Spottsylvania County, an extensive planter, having landed estates in Orange and Louisa Counties in addition to the foregoing; grandson of Garret and Diana Vivian Minor, the former a justice of Middlesex County, Va., and of Samuel and Lucy (Rogers) Redd, also of Virginia. The Minor family was known in Somersetshire, England, in the reign of Edward III, and Richard II, made grants of land to his "trusty subject Richard Minors." The first of the name in America was Thomas, son of Clement Minor, who migrated to America, in 1630, landing at Salem, Mass., and finally settling in Stonington, Conn., and is believed to be the progenitor of all the Minors or Miners except those who probably descended from the brother who settled in Ireland. Thomas married Grace Palmer, in 1684, and left twelve children, among them Judah or Doodah, who located in Virginia in 1673 and married Diana Howard. The several lines represented in these intermarriages were of English and Scottish stock. Justice Minor was carefully educated, having sprung from a family of scholars. He read law under his uncle Judge Minor of Fredericksburg, Va., and located in Huntsville in 1816, a period when a large number of young men of good Virginia families migrated to that section, making in the years that followed, a liberal contribution to the honorable history of the State of their adoption. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1819, and was elected by the first legislature of the State as reporter of the supreme court, and in this relation compiled Minor's Reports. In 1823 he was elected to the supreme court bench of Alabama and served two years. Upon being defeated for re-election he was made clerk of the court whose ermine he had so recently worn. His ability as a judge was generally recognized, but being of a retiring nature he was not suited for a pioneer campaign and therefore lost the judgeship to his opponent. He settled down to his new duties, the fees supporting the office being more than a judge's salary, and retained the position until his death. He removed from Huntsville, Madison County, to Greene County, in 1826, in order that he might be nearer the capitol at Tuscaloosa. He was an Episcopalian. Married: September 14, 1809, at Petersburg, Va. to Frances Throckmorton, daughter of Mordecai and Elizabeth (Strode) Barbour, who lived at Fleetwood, Culpepper County, Va. Mordecai Barbour was a Revolutionary officer and drew a pension for military service. John Strode, the maternal grandfather, owned a gun factory near Palmouth, and supplied arms to the Virginia troops during the Revolutionary War.

Children: 1. Henry, studied at the University of Alabama, 1831, graduated at the U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., and died at sea, November 25, 1839; 2. Mordecai; 3. Ann Virginia, m. John Gillian Friend, Mobile; 4. Elizabeth Barbour; 5. Frances Cosby; 6. Maria Barbour, m. Dr. E. F. Bouchelle; 7. Louisa; 8. Lafayette Mordecai, graduated, A. B., University of Alabama, 1841, died as a Confederate soldier in the Federal prison, Elmira, N. Y., February 14, 1865, m. Hattie Fleming; 9. John Launcelot, student University of Alabama, 1842, physician, Mobile; 10. Philip Pendleton Barbour, student University of Alabama, 1846, physician, graduate Medical college, Philadelphia, Pa., surgeon C. S. Army, m. Eliza Williams Perry; 11. Lucy Landon Barbour, m. Dr. Joseph C. Hamilton. Last residence: Minorca.

MINOR, JOHN W., president of the Bessemer fire brick company; president of the Bank of Alabama. Residence: Birmingham.

MINTER, WILLIAM TOWNSEND, planter, was born in 1805, in Jones County, Ga., and died April 2, 1865, near Selma, Dallas County; son of Morgan and Johannah (Rutherford) Minter; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Morgan) Minter of Powhatan County, Va., and of Col. Robert and Dorothy (Brooks) Rutherford of Amherst County, Va., later of North Carolina, finally of Newberry District, S. C. Both John and Morgan Minter served in the Revolutionary War from North Carolina. The family is of Scotch and Welsh extraction, coming to America early in the 17th century and settling in James City County, going from there to Powhatan County, thence to Bedford County in 1770. They located on the Otter River, near the Peaks of Otter, and moved to Chatham County, N. C., in 1776 and from thence to Washington County, Ga., finally settling in Dallas County, in 1830. William T. Minter was well educated, and owned and operated a large landed estate. He was sheriff of Dallas County, commanded a company in the Seminole War; commanded a company of Confederate soldiers at the battle of Selma where he was killed, and was buried at Pleasant Hill. He was president of the Selma and Pensacola railroad, driving over the route and securing the right of way. This road is now known as the Pensacola division of the Louisville and Nashville railroad. He was a Presbyterian and a Mason. Married: in Cahaba, to Susan, daughter of Col. Hill of that place. Children: 1. Clara J.; 2. Lucia M., m. William Minter Weaver, Selma; 3. Isolene, m. Capt. Fred Wilberly, Twiggs County, Ga. Last residence: Dallas County.

MITCHAM, GEORGE NATHAN, civil and mining engineer, was born July 5, 1878, at West Point, Ga.; son of George Thomas and America Washington (Atkinson) Mitcham, of Birmingham, the former a merchant, who left LaGrange military college during the War of Secession, enlisted in the C. S. Army and was first assigned to duty as drill master of the raw recruits at Savannah, Ga., joined Co. I, Eighth cavalry, February 8, 1862, at Cusseta, had four horses killed under him and was once wounded during the war, and was paroled at Hillsboro, N. C., May 3, 1865, as second lieutenant; grandson of George Washington and Henrietta Mitcham, who moved from Meriwether County, Ga., to Chambers County, and of Nathan Lane and Frances B. Atkinson, natives of Greene County, Ga., who lived near West Point, Troup County, Ga. Mr. Mitcham was educated in the public schools of West Point, Ga., in the north Georgia agricultural college at Dahlonega, and was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1897, C. E., 1898, and M. E., 1899. He served as assistant at the institute, 1897-1899; as assistant engineer and engineer of the Blue Creek division, and resident engineer on construction of the steel plant at Ensley, Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company, June, 1899-1901; draftsman and later assistant to the general superintendent of the shops, Wisconsin bridge and iron company, Milwaukee, Wis., 1901-1902; assistant engineer of the Pratt mines division, and later division engineer of the Pratt mines, Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company; was appointed to the chair of mining engineering, Alabama polytechnic institute, 1903-1907; and was transferred to the department of civil engineering in 1907. He spends the summer months in the practice of his profession, and in 1911, on the creation of the State highway commission by the legislature, became an ex-officio member of the commission. He is a member of the Alabama good roads association, of the Alabama association of highway engineers, the Engineering association of the South, the American association for the promotion of engineering education, and the American society of civil engineers. Residence: Auburn.

MITCHELL, ARCHELAUS, Methodist minister; pastor of the Court Street church, Montgomery, 1858-59.

MITCHELL, CHARLES ERASTUS, lawyer and legislator, was born September 2, 1868, at Thornhill, on the headwaters of Buttahatchee River, in Marion County; son of Andrew D. and Lourida E. (Cagle) Mitchell; grandson of Lloyd Cagle of Winston County. He was educated at Thornhill, and graduated in June, 1890, from the Florence normal college; received in June, 1893, the LL. B. from the University of Alabama; since that year he has practiced in Hamilton; was a member board of aldermen of that town, 1896-1900; superintendent of education of Marion County, 1896-98, and 1900 to 1904; was nominee of the Democratic party to the proposed constitutional convention of 1899; was chairman from 1904-06, of the Democratic executive committee; and represented Marion County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; Mason; and Woodman of the World. Married: November 25, 1896, at Hamilton, to Leota, daughter of Jason Parks and Adaline (Weatherford) Ford, all of Marion County. Children: 1. Ralph; 2. Ruth; 3. Leslie; 4. William Charles; 5. Loyce. Residence: Hamilton.

MITCHELL, FLUD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant N. C. Militia; enrolled on February 21, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MITCHELL, J. E., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Mobile.

MITCHELL, JACOB, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Montgomery County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on November 21, 1829, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from September 4, 1835; annual allowance, $96.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MITCHELL, JAMES A., lawyer, living in 1913. Residence: Livingston.

MITCHELL, JESSE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Lime-stone County; private and sergeant; enrolled on February 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Lime-stone County, June 1, 1840, aged 75.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MITCHELL, JOHN JACKSON, lawyer, was born September 15, 1854, at Florence, Lauderdale County; son of William Henry and Martha (Jackson) Mitchell (q. v.), the former was a native of Monaghan, Monaghan County, Ireland, was pastor of the Presbyterian church at Wetumpka, 1843-1850, at Florence, 1850-1871, and president of the Florence synodical college, 1848 to his death, served in the C. S. Army and was imprisoned by the Federal soldiers; grandson of James and Mary (Nelson) Mitchell of Monaghan County, Ireland, the former who was sheriff of his county, and of James and Sarah (Moore) Jackson of Florence, the former who was a native of county Monaghan, Ireland, immigrated to America and settled in Nashville, Tenn., in 1818 removed to Florence, was several times a member of the senate of Alabama, and was a planter, and importer and breeder of race horses. John J. Mitchell was educated in the private schools of Florence, the Florence Wesleyan university, and the University of Mississippi, and was graduated LL. B. from the law department of the Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., in 1874. For about ten years he was a journalist, owning and editing the following papers: "Chilton County Courier", 1875-76; "Florence Gazette", 1876-1882; and the Florence "North Star", 1884-85. He was elected probate judge of Lauderdale County, November, 1886; served until 1892; and again served from January 26, 1900, to November, 1904; was a member of the house of representatives, 1896-97, which session passed the tax commission law of which he was the author; was again in the house, 1898-99, serving as chairman of the committee on ways and means; from 1907 to 1911 served as chairman of the state tax commission. He is a Democrat, has served as chairman of the Lauderdale County Democratic executive committee in 1884, and was a member of the state Democratic executive committee, 1906; is a deacon and elder in the Presbyterian church; and an Elk. Married: June 25, 1879, at Prattville, to Etoile, daughter of Joseph and Mary (Abbott) Hurd, natives of New Jersey but residents of Prattville, the former who served throughout the War of Secession in the U. S. Army, and later engaged in the drug business. Children: 1. William Henry (q. v.); 2. Joseph Hurd. Residence: Florence.

MITCHELL, JOHN WALTER, farmer and merchant, was born February 18, 1874, at Sand Rock, Cherokee County; son of William and Millie Jane (Clifton) Mitchell, the former who was born in North Carolina, moving to Sand Rock in 1839, served in the U. S. Army from Alabama the whole duration of the war; grandson of Joseph Mitchell, of Portersville, and of Hiram and Elizabeth Clifton, of Cedar Bluffs. Mr. Mitchell received his education in the public schools at Sand Rock, Round Mountain, Cedar Bluff, and upon going to Texas in 1892, attended school at Merit, Tex., 1893-4. He attended Emerson college, at Campbell, Hunt County, Tex., 1902-4; returned to Alabama in 1909 and the following year engaged in the farming and mercantile business. He represented Cherokee County in the legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; is an Odd Fellow; and a Woodman of the World. Married: January 3, 1897, at Floyd, Hunt County, Tex., to Maudie M., daughter of Andrew F. and Julia (Woody) Jones, of that place. Children: 1. Melissa May, m. Martin H. Copeland; 2. James Monroe; 3. John Andrew. Residence: Round Mountain.

MITCHELL, T. J., president of the State normal college, Florence, 1886-88. He held the Ph. D. degree.

MITCHELL, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Morgan County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on July 28, 1824, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from April 26, 1824; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $802.39.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840, with A. Mitchell, aged 86.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MITCHELL, WILLIAM HENRY, Presbyterian minister and college president, was born September 20, 1812, in Monaghan, Ireland, and died October 3, 1872, in Florence; son of James and Mary (Nelson) Mitchell, of Monaghan, Ireland, the former high sheriff of that county. He was fitted for college by Professor Bleakley, and entered Belfast college where he studied law and later theology. He came to America between 1840 and 1843, in the latter year being installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church at Wetumpka. In 1850 he removed to Florence, where he was pastor until 1871. In 1858, he was made president of the Florence synodical female college, and continued at its head until his death. In 1862, while Florence was in possession of Federal forces, under Col. Harlan, afterward Justice Harlan, of the U. S. supreme court, Dr. Mitchell was arrested, by Harlan himself, for praying in the Presbyterian pulpit for the success of the Confederacy. He was sent to the military prison at Alton, Ill., and held for six months being paroled September, 1865. He was a Democrat and an ardent Secessionist; a Mason. Married: (1) in Ireland, to Annie Jane Byrne, daughter of John, of Dundork; (2) to Martha, daughter of James and Sarah (Moore) Jackson, of "The Forks," near Florence, the former born in Monaghan, Ireland, and a pioneer settler of Lauderdale County, the latter a descendant of the Moore family of North Carolina. Children: 1. David, deceased; 2. Anne, m. Samuel Adams of Wetumpka; 3. Mary Nelson, m. Robert Martin of Florence; 4. William Henry, jr., deceased; 5. John Jackson (q. v.), m. Etoile Hurd, of Prattville. Last residence: Florence.

MITCHELL, WILLIAM HENRY III, lawyer, was born April 8, 1882, at Florence; son of John Jackson and Etoile (Hurd) Mitchell (q. v.), of Florence; grandson of Rev. William Henry and Martha (Jackson) Mitchell (q. v.); great-grandson of James Jackson, of Lauderdale County, and of Joseph and Mary (Abbott) Hurd, of Prattville. He was educated at the Florence normal school, receiving his diploma in 1900; entered the University of Alabama, 1902, and graduated A. B. and LL. B. in 1904. He began the practice of law, 1904. He was a member of the city school board from 1909 to date; chairman Lauderdale County Democratic executive committee, 1906-10; a Knight of Pythias; an Elk; member Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity; and a Presbyterian. Married: May 18, 1910, in Florence, to Ann Celestine, daughter of David Larkin and Ellen (Gilchrist) Martin, of Courtland, the latter the daughter of Philip and Alice (Garth) Gilchrist of Virginia. Children: 1. Ellen Gilchrist; 2. Celestine Martin. Residence: Florence.

MOBLEY, THOMAS BARNETTE, soldier, was born in 1835 at Lower Peachtree, Wilcox County, and died in battle in Tennessee, 1863; son of Col. Barnette and Rebecca (Campbell) Mobley, the former a native of South Carolina, who removed to Alabama, fought in the Indian massacre at Montgomery Hill, July 12, 1712, and was a colonel in the Revolutionary War. Thomas B. Mobley attended school at Greensboro. He served during the War of Secession as captain until his death. Married: January 12, 1859, to Maria, daughter of William and Jane Peebles, of Lower Peachtree. Children: 1. John Barnette. Last residence: Lower Peachtree.

MODAWELL, WILLIAM B., lawyer, was born in 1819 in Madison County. His early educational advantages were limited on account of the death of his father. From his twelfth to his twentieth year he was employed as a clerk and spent his spare time in study. He removed to Marengo County in 1839; was a teacher for five years and later deputy sheriff. He then began the practice of law. He represented Marengo County in the legislature of 1863. In 1867 he removed to Perry County and was an unsuccessful candidate for the State senate in 1871.

MOFFAT, JOHN, hotel manager, was born December 21, 1859, at Annan, Dumfriesshire, Scotland; son of William and Elizabeth (Graham) Moffat, the former who was of lowland Scotch ancestry, came to Canada in 1872, and located in Teeswater, Ontario, where he engaged in farming; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Armstrong) Graham of Longtown, Cumberland, England. Mr. Moffat was educated in the public schools of Annan, Scotland, and Teeswater, Ontario. He engaged in clerical work for a number of years; came to Alabama in 1889; entered the hotel business in Montgomery, 1901; was appointed recording secretary to the governor by the Hon. Emmet O'Neal, May 2, 1913; was reappointed on February 15, 1915, by Gov. Charles Henderson; and has been engaged in the hotel business as manager of the New Exchange, in Montgomery. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Knight of Pythias; and a member of the Knights of Maccabees. Married: (1) June 14, 1886, at Chicago, to Margaret, daughter of John and Euphemia (Balgaria) Carnduff of that place but originally of Scotland; (2) January 7, 1903, at Montgomery, to Edna, daughter of Herman and Eugenia (Hrabowski) Kenneworth. Children, by first marriage: 1. Effie, m. A. J. Rappole, New York City; 2. Margaret; 3. William; by second marriage: 4. John. Residence: Montgomery.

MOHR, CHARLES THEODOR, botanist, was born December 28, 1824, in Esslingen, Wurtemberg, Germany, and died at Asheville, N. C., July 17, 1901; son of Louis M. Mohr. Reared in his native country, he was educated at the Polytechnic school at Stuttgart, in the natural sciences, particularly in botany and chemistry, in the latter subject having as his instructor the renowned Fehling. He spent most of the year, 1846, in Dutch Guiana collecting natural history specimens; worked from May 1847, to August 1848, as a chemist in a manufacturing establishment in Brunn, Austria, and embarked for America on leaving this work. His first employment in America was with a German chemical manufacturer in Cincinnati. He left there in March 1849, in company with fifty young men to seek his fortune in the gold fields of California, which place he reached, after many hardships and disappointments, on the 10th of August. Leaving there in September 1850, he reached Cincinnati about the close of the year, after a trip via Panama and New Orleans. His intentions were to settle on a farm in Clark County, Indiana, but the hardships which he had endured in South America and the west of the United States had left him in such physical condition, never having been very strong, that he was forced to give up this work, and after a much needed rest, he embarked in the drug business in Louisville, Ky., in 1852. Here he remained until about the end of the year 1856, when he was advised by his physicians to go south. Going first to Louisiana, thence to Vera Cruz from which place he was forced to leave on account of a political revolution, he landed in Mobile in the autumn of 1857, where he established himself in the drug business, in which profession he continued until March, 1900. He was employed by the Confederate government during the War of Secession to manufacture drugs from native resources. His first comprehensive work on Alabama material was his "Study of the mosses of Alabama" and the "Ferns of south Alabama," both begun in 1860, the results of the former being contributed to "Mosses of North America," 1884, and those of the latter to Prof. Eaton for his "Ferns of North America." He began an examination of the gold resources of the metamorphic region in 1876, and during the journeys made for this purpose, had an opportunity to study the flora of the State. The results of these observations were published in Berney's "Handbook of Alabama," 1878. The collection of minerals of economic importance brought together on these excursions was the basis of a report on the "Economic geology of Alabama," 1887. The collection finally went to the department of agriculture in Washington. A treatise on the "Grasses and forage plants of Alabama," was prepared for the department of agriculture in 1878-1879. In 1880, in connection with the State geological survey, he began the arrangement of an herbarium of Alabama plants, from the collections made by Dr. Eugene A. Smith, and himself. "Preliminary list of the plants growing without culture in Alabama," was prepared by him and published by the Survey in 1880. The natural sequel to this work was his great volume, "Plant life of Alabama," which occupied most of his time till his death, and which was published less than two weeks thereafter. He did much work for the U. S. department of agriculture in the installation and arrangement of agricultural, geological and forestry collections at the several expositions held in the Southern States between 1875 and 1900. He had charge of the State of Alabama's exhibit at the New Orleans exposition in 1884, and later carried it to Louisville, Ky. The catalogue, published under the title, "Natural resources of Alabama," was said by Prof. Lamson-Scribner to be "one of the few papers of its kind which possesses real scientific merit." He did much work for the Louisville and Nashville railroad in making collections of agricultural, forestry and mineral resources and of soils, climate and such of the territory traversed by this system. Much time after 1892, when he relinquished the active management of his drug business to his son, was spent in arranging the herbarium of Alabama plants at the University. In recognition of this, the collection is known as the Mohr Herbarium. His work on the pines, the cypress, the juniper and the red cedar was done during these last years. He explored the forests of the Gulf States, for the report of the 10th census, 1880, on forests of North America. In March, 1900, he removed to Asheville, N. C., and spent the active time of the last two years of his life in the Biltmore Herbarium, his last illness coming on suddenly after a day spent at work here. He received the honorary degree of Ph. D. from the University of Alabama in 1890. He was chosen botanist of the Alabama geological survey in 1884; agent of the forestry division of the U. S. department of agriculture, 1889. He was a corresponding member of the Philadelphia academy of sciences; the Torrey botanical club of New York; the Massachusetts horticultural society; the Philadelphia college of pharmacy; the Alabama pharmaceutical association; the American pharmaceutical association; honorary member of pharmaceutical associations of Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Missouri and Ohio; a member of the committee on revision of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia of 1890; a fellow of the American association for the advancement of sciences, and a non-resident member of the Washington academy of sciences and the Society of American foresters. Married: March, 1852, at Louisville, Ky., to Sophia Roemer. Last residence: Asheville, N. C.

MOHR, DR. H. B., former chief clerk, State health department.

MOLTON, THOMAS HUNTER, business man, was born November 15, 1853, in Montgomery County; son of Charles Hooks and Julia (Hunter) Molton, both natives of Duplin County, N. C., the former who was a member of the legislature of 1857; grandson of Thomas and Catherine (Hooks) Molton, and of John and Elizabeth (Whitfield) Hunter, both families owners of plantations near Kenansville, Duplin County, N. C., until their removal to Alabama, the first about 1826, coming to what was afterwards Montgomery County, the latter about 1825 to Greene County; great-grandson of Maj. Abraham Molton, of Duplin County, N. C., who represented his county in the house of commons for many years during Colonial times, and served as a major in the Revolutionary Army, and of Charles Hooks, who was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, was a member of congress from Duplin County district and a brother of Mary Slocumb, one of the famous women of the Revolution, and of John and Jemima (Haywood) Whitfield, the latter who was a sister of John Haywood, who held the office of state treasurer of North Carolina for about forty years. The early ancestors of Mr. Molton came from England during the seventeenth century, settling in North Carolina and Virginia. Thomas H. Molton received his primary education in the city schools of Montgomery and later studied under Dr. Henry Tutwiler of Green Springs. He engaged in farming for a number of years; in 1886 located in Birmingham; engaged in the real estate and insurance business; was at one time a member of the Jefferson County sanitary commission; and in the session of 1911 was one of the representatives from Jefferson County. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Knight of Pythias; and a Knight of Honor. Married: November 6, 1888, in Birmingham, to Lizzie, daughter of Charles and Eliza (Summerlin) Linn, the former who was a native of Abo, Finland, arrived in the United States June 16, 1833, settled in Montgomery in 1838, and removed to Birmingham in 1872; and granddaughter of Thomas Summerlin of Montgomery, who later removed to Louisiana. Children: 1. Ellen Linn; 2. Gertrude; 3. Thomas Hunter, jr. Residence: Birmingham.

MOND, DUNCAN, soldier of the American Revolution, private, particular service not disclosed; annual allowance, $48; records do not show any payments made.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MONIAC, DAVID, cotton planter, major, U. S. Army, was born in 1802, in Alabama, and was killed at Wahoo Swamp, November 21, 1836; son of Sam and Elizabeth (Weatherford) Moniac, the former who was the Red Eagle of the Creek Indians, the latter the sister of William Weatherford, the warrior, and half sister of David Tate; grandson of William and Polly (Colbert) Moniac, the former a native of Holland, the latter a Tuskegee woman, and of Charles and Sehoy (McGillivray) Weatherford, the latter a sister of Alexander McGillivray. He was appointed to West Point from Alabama, and was educated and prepared for the academy by John McLeod, an Irish scholar who had a military school in Washington, D. C. He was a cadet at West Point from September 18, 1817, to July 1, 1822, when he was graduated and promoted to brevet second lieutenant, Sixth infantry, U. S. Army. He resigned from the army December 31, 1822, and engaged as a cotton planter in Baldwin County, 1822-1836. He was appointed captain of Creek mounted volunteers, August 17, 1836, for service in the Florida War, and was promoted to major, November 15, 1836. He was engaged against the Seminole Indians in the battle of Wahoo Swamp, November 31, 1836, and while crossing a difficult morass in face of the fire of the enemy posted on the opposite bank, he was killed. Married: to Mary Powell, a cousin of Ocoola, whose real name was Powell. Children: 1. David A., who served two terms as sheriff of Baldwin County; 2. a daughter. Last residence: Baldwin County.

MONK, WILLIAM FRANCIS, teacher, was born November 21, 1869, in Dale County; son of Marion and Martha Emma (Stuckey) Monk, the former a native of Henry County, who lived on a farm near Skipperville, and served in Co. A, Thirty-seventh Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Allen and Evelin Monk, who lived near Skipperville, after coming from South Carolina to Alabama, and of Enos and Elizabeth Stuckey, who lived near Clopton. His paternal ancestors were descendants of Gen. Monk, who came to America with Oglethorpe when he settled near Savannah, Ga. He received his early education in the country schools, in Ozark and in Abbeville; was graduated from the Normal college at Troy, B. S., 1894; and M. S., 1898; and attended the summer school at the University of Chicago, 1904. He began teaching in the country schools when he was twenty-one years old, and taught in country and village schools until 1901. He served as superintendent of Phoenix City schools, 1901-1902; as superintendent of schools at Girard, 1902-1904; at Richland, Ga., 1904-1905; at Marshallville, Ga., 1905-1906; and in 1906 became president of the First District agricultural school at Jackson. In 1900, he was enumerator of census in Beat six, Dale County. He is a Democrat; is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and has served the church as chairman of the board of stewards and as delegate to district conferences; is a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and a Woodman of the World. Married: June 30, 1895, near Clopton, to Minnie Eliza, daughter of Harmon and Phoebe Jane Strickland, who lived at that place, after coming to Alabama from Cumberland County, N. C. Children: 1. Minnie Eunice. Residence: Jackson.

MONROE, WILLIAM O., publisher and editor, was born in 1835 at Athens, Georgia; son of John and Emily (Paschal) Monroe, the former a South Carolinian and the latter a daughter of John Paschal of Georgia. In 1843 he moved to Alabama with his parents, who settled at Hinton's Grove, Greene County. In all he spent five years in school. In 1846 he entered the office of "The Eutaw Whig" as an apprentice, and remained there for five years. In 1859, when twenty-four years of age, he purchased a half interest in "The Whig" and in 1861, purchased "The Observer," consolidating them during the same year, under the name of the "Eutaw Whig and Observer." He served in the War of Secession a short time as lieutenant of cavalry in Clanton's brigade, but owing to ill health was forced to resign his command. He continued in copartnership with Anderson in publishing "The Whig and Observer" during the war, after which he became sole proprietor, a position which he has since maintained. He is a church member and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: in 1866, to Jane, daughter of Rev. John Du Bois of Greensboro, who was for fifty years a minister of the gospel, and inventor of the Du Bois cotton-gin. Children: 1. Jane; 2. Louise. Residence: Hinton's Grove.

MONTAGUE, ANDREW PHILIP, educator, was born September 27, 1854, at Fountain Run, Essex County, Va.; son of Howard Williams and Mildred Columbia (Broaddus) Montague, the former a native of Middlesex County, Va., and a Baptist minister for over forty years, the latter a Georgian, granddaughter of Dr. E. B. Teague for many years a distinguished Baptist minister of Alabama; grandson of Philip and Elizabeth Montague, residents of Essex County, Va., and of Rev. Andrew Broaddus and a Miss Honeyman, residents of Caroline County, Va. His early education was received in the public schools of Essex County and in Aberdeen academy, Va. In 1875 he was a partial graduate of University of Virginia, and was graduated from Columbian university, now George Washington university, Washington, D. C., receiving the degree of A. M., in 1879 and Ph. D., in 1888; in 1896, he received the degree of LL. D. from Richmond college, Richmond, Va. He taught at Columbian university, Washington, D. C.; was professor of Latin there from 1882-97; principal of the academy, 1884-93; dean, 1895-97. From 1897-1902, he was president of the Furman university at South Carolina; from 1902-12 was president of Howard college at Birmingham, and was president of Columbia college, Fla., for several years. For nine and one-half years Mr. Montague has travelled, making public addresses in the interest of education and religion. He is a Democrat; a deacon in the Baptist church and a licensed minister. He is a Master Mason. Mr. Montague edited the "Selected Letters of Cicero" in 1890, and the "Selected Letters of Pliny" in 1893. Married: (1) November 3, 1881, to May, daughter of Judge Joseph and Augusta (Healy) Christian of Richmond, Va.; (2) May 8, 1907, to Florence, daughter of H. F. and Blanche (Teague) Wood of Birmingham. Children, by first marriage: 1. Maude Augusta; 2. Howard Christian. Residence: Lake City, Fla.

MONTGOMERY, HUBERT HAYNES, State superintendent of banks, was born September 11, 1884, at Jacksonville, Calhoun County; son of Henry F. and Mary E. (Linder) Montgomery, the former a native of Fulton County, Ga., who removed early to Jacksonville, and later to Anniston, for one term tax collector of Calhoun County, and United States commissioner, served in C. S. Army during the last year of the War of Secession; grandson of James Floyd and Elizabeth A. (Young) Montgomery, of Fulton County, Ga., the former a captain in the Indian War of 1836, and of Dr. P. P. and Willie (Draper) Linder, of Calhoun County; great-great-grandson of James Montgomery, who came, in 1740, from northern Ireland to Waxflow, S. C. Mr. Montgomery was educated in the schools of his native county, and at the State normal school, Jacksonville. Since 1901 he has been engaged in the banking business, first with the Tredegar national bank, afterwards with the First national bank, of Jacksonville. While cashier of the Traders national bank, of Birmingham, he was appointed State superintendent of banks. During 1917-18 he was mayor of Jacksonville. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: December 18, 1907, at Anniston, to Bunnie, daughter of William A. and Edna (Evans) Darden, of that place. Children: 1. Mary Edna; 2. Emily Darden. Residence: Montgomery.

MONTGOMERY, MRS. JAMES, patriotic worker, was born at Oakley, a suburb of Montgomery; daughter of Samuel Watkins Goode and wife, Miss Douglass, the former a native of Washington County, Ga., and who removed to Oakley in 1830, the latter a native of Middlebury, Vt. She was one of the most prominent early workers of the Ladies' Confederate Memorial association. Last residence: Montgomery.

MOODY, ANDERSON EDWARD, was born March 30, 1827, in Chesterfield County, Va., and died December 11, 1874, at Linden; son of Carter and Sarah (Pankey) Moody, natives respectively of Essex and Chesterfield Counties, Va.; grandson of Lewis Moody and wife, a Miss

JAMES H. BALLENTINE

Gatewood, and of Stephen Pankey, all of Chesterfield County. The Moody family is of English origin. The Pankeys are of French ancestry, Col. David, father of Stephen Pankey, being a soldier of the American Revolution, his services of such merit that the government granted him several thousand acres of land in Chesterfield County. He received his preparatory education in his native county, his college education in Richmond, and his legal training in Philadelphia. He entered upon the practice of his profession at the age of twenty-four and located in Marengo County. He was a magistrate of that county for several years. Owing to his frail health, he could not take the field during the War of Secession, but in the fall of 1862 was commissioned by Gov. Moore, colonel of the home guards of Marengo County. Later in life, he removed to Mobile and engaged in merchandising, and also the cotton brokerage business, the firm being Smith and Moody. He was a Democrat; Methodist; and Mason. Married: May 16, 1853, in Essex County, Va., to Willie Ann, daughter of James and Mary (Allen) Owen of that place, the former a planter and slave owner. The grandfather Allen was an English peer and married Mlle. Latane, a French Huguenot. The paternal grandmother was a Miss Montague, near relative of Gov. Montague of Virginia. Children: 1. Willie Owen, m. James W. Stubbs, Norfolk, Va. Last residence: Linden.

MOODY, FRANK SIMS, lawyer, banker and State senator, was born on October 29, 1849, at Tuscaloosa, and died there February 21, 1920; the only son of Washington and Jane Hamilton (Sims) Moody (q. v.). Senator Moody attended the private schools of Tuscaloosa. During the latter part of the war the University of Alabama was both a literary and military institution, and while he was enrolled as a cadet by special permission he attended lectures at the University without being a matriculate, and he was thus engaged when the buildings of that institution were destroyed by Federal troops, in 1865. In 1867 he entered Washington college, which later became Washington and Lee university, where he graduated A. B., 1870, and was the recipient, at the commencement of that year, of one of the Robinson prize medals at the hands of Gen. Lee. In 1871 he became the cashier of the First national bank of Tuscaloosa, the bank having been founded during that year; in 1874 took the degree of B. L. in the first class to graduate from the law department of the University of Alabama; began the practice of law in 1875; served as solicitor of Tuscaloosa County and on the death of his father, in 1879, was made president of the First national bank of Tuscaloosa, a position he continued to hold until his death. For twenty-five years he was engaged in farming. To fill a vacancy he was elected to the State senate in 1894 and was elected to the same position in 1896, in 1906 and 1910. He was a Democrat and was chairman of the Democratic executive committee of the sixth congressional district from 1892 until 1910. He consistently advocated primary elections for the nomination of all State, congressional and county officers.

Senator Moody after 1881 was an ardent advocate of temperance reform, and from that time he consistently did all in his power to further the cause of temperance by advocating the prohibition of the liquor traffic or its regulation and control by dispensaries. A large part of his life was given to temperance work. He opposed the prohibition amendment to the constitution submitted in 1909 on the ground that it was an extreme and intemperate measure, and he was elected the permanent president of the conference or convention that met in Montgomery on the 15th day of September to oppose the movement. He was a Baptist, and for twenty years he had been the teacher of the University class in the Sunday school. Married: January 5, 1876, at Tuscaloosa, to Mary Farley, daughter of Thomas H. and Susan (Farley) Maxwell, the former having come from the northern part of England in 1839, and the latter having come from Ipswich, Mass. Children: 1. Frank Maxwell, m. Beverly Hill; 2. Mary Washington; 3. James, d. in infancy; 4. Anna Jane; 5. Washington, m. Ira Bradfield of Birmingham; 6. Maxwell, m. Jean Lahey of Montgomery; 7. Farley, lieutenant, killed in European War. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MOODY, HENRY ALTAMONT, physician and author, was born April 4, 1842, at Billerica, Mass.; son of Henry Cliff and Julia (Russell) Moody, the former a native of England, a builder of textile factories, employed after arrival in America to engage in his profession in Massachusetts, later in New Hampshire, finally in the Southern States, locating near Florence, and near which place he was horse-whipped and tortured by Tories in a vain endeavor to make him reveal the hiding place of a large sum of money committed to his keeping, and where he was accidentally killed in the sixty-fifth year of age; grandson of Abner Russell of Groton, Mass., a descendant of Gov. Haywood of Massachusetts. Dr. Moody received his early education in public and private schools in Massachusetts, was instructed in medicine by Dr. J. B. Harlowe, a regent of Harvard; entered the Confederate service in 1862 and served throughout the war as physician and surgeon; completed his medical training at the University medical school of Louisville, Ky., 1866, and entered on the practice at Bailey Springs, later removing to Panola County, Miss., where he practiced eight years, at the end of which time he returned to Alabama; occupied the chair of materia medica and therapeutics in the School of medicine, University of Alabama, from 1896 to present, having held the position without interruption eighteen years. During his residence in Mississippi, he was secretary of the Panola County Democratic committee and member of the Mississippi legislature two terms; Presbyterian, Mason; Knight of Honor. Author: "In spite of fate," a novel published serially by the Louisville "Courier-Journal," 1882-83; "The City Without a Name," a romance, published in 1898, running through two editions; a number of professional articles; and was managing editor and writer for the Southern medical journal. Married: (1) December 24, 1866, to Virginia, daughter of Maj. A. G. and Mary L. Ellis of Lauderdale County, descended from the well known Ellis family of Virginia and the Hulett family of Tennessee; (2) in 1831, to Mattie C., daughter of Dr. Andrew and Margaret Robb (Grant) Kaeiser of Raleigh, N. C. Children: by first marriage, 1. Cornelia, m. Hon. R. T. Simpson of Florence; 2. Virginia E. Residence: Mobile.

MOODY, MILO, lawyer, was born May 22, 1861, at Atlanta, Ga.; son of O. A. and Mildred Virginia Moody, the former who lived at Atlanta but removed to Jackson County, 1867. Mr. Moody received his education in the common schools and attended the University of Alabama, 1887-88. He studied law and was admitted to the bar at Scottsboro, in 1889. He served as constable, 1896-97; was county tax commissioner, 1897; was representative in the general assembly during the session of 1898-99; and was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901 from Jackson County. He is a Democrat. Married: July 27, 1891, at Scottsboro, to Mrs. Fannie Aldrich Snodgrass. Residence: Scottsboro.

MOODY, R. A., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Dothan.

MOODY, WASHINGTON, banker and lawyer, was born on March 16, 1806, in Mecklenburg County, Va., and died in Tuscaloosa, March 31, 1879; son of Francis and Anna (Hester) Moody, who moved from Mecklenburg County, Va., to Columbia, Tenn., and later to Tuscaloosa. The Moody family is of English stock and were early settlers in the vicinity of Richmond. Washington Moody removed to Alabama, at the age of thirteen, with his parents. He was left an orphan and therefore received a limited education. He was a clerk in the post office at the same time doing writing for Judges Minor and Crabb, while his nights were spent in study. He assisted Judge Minor in the preparation of his volume of reports and progressed in the study of law until he was one of the ablest counselors of the Tuscaloosa bar. He was one of the founders, in 1871, of the First National bank of Tuscaloosa, and served as its president from the date of its organization until the time of his death. He was also judge of the orphan's court of Tuscaloosa. Married: to Jane Hamilton, daughter of Edward and Sarah (Banks) Sims. (q. v.). Children: 1. Frank Moody (q. v.); 2. Sallie A., m. Rev. David Ingram Purser (q. v.). Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MOODY, YOUNG MARSHALL, business man and brigadier general, C. S. Army, was born June 23, 1822, in Chesterfield County, Va., and died September 18, 1866, in New Orleans, La.; son of Carter and Sarah (Pankey) Moody, natives of Chesterfield County, Va.; grandson of Lewis and Catherine (Gatewood) Moody, of Essex County, Va., and of Stephen Pankey, who was a colonel in the Revolutionary War. The Moody family is of English descent, the earliest ancestors settling in Richmond County upon their arrival in America. The Pankeys are of French ancestry, and had land grants in Chesterfield County when arriving in this country, which are on file in the Confederate Museum in Richmond, Va. General Moody was educated in the schools of Richmond, Va., and when nineteen years of age entered the tobacco business with the firm of Pankey and Branch. In 1842 he came to Alabama and settled in Marengo County, where he taught school and merchandized. In 1856, he was appointed circuit clerk, and in 1858, he entered the service of the Confederate States, as a captain in the 11th Alabama infantry regiment. After seeing service in Virginia for a year he returned to this State and assisted in organizing the 43rd Alabama infantry regiment of which he became lieutenant colonel. The regiment was ordered to Chattanooga and placed under General Leadbetter, and later served under Gen. Kirby Smith in his Kentucky campaign, in which, however, it was not actively engaged. The organization of General Smith's forces about October 31, 1862, shows Colonel Moody as commanding the 43rd Alabama. At the battle of Chickamauga, Colonel Moody led his regiment so well that General Gracie said of him: "Col. Y. M. Moody of the Forty-third Alabama regiment, always at the head of his regiment on the march, maintained the same position on the field, rallying and encouraging his men." Colonel Moody commanded his regiment in General Longstreet's campaign in East Tennessee and saw active service at the siege of Knoxville and Bean's Station. In 1864, Gracie's brigade was sent to reinforce Beauregard at Petersburg. At the battle of Drewry's Bluff, May 16, 1864, Colonel Moody was wounded in the ankle, being rendered unable for duty for some months. Upon the death of General Gracie, on December 2, 1864, Colonel Moody assumed command of the brigade which was composed of the 23rd Alabama battalion of sharpshooters, and the 41st, 43rd, 59th, and 60th Alabama regiments. He was in command of the brigade around Petersburg during the winter of 1864-65, and was commissioned a brigadier-general, March 4, 1865. On the day before General Lee's surrender at Appomattox he was captured while sick and with the wagon train. Upon the cessation of hostilities he returned to Mobile, where he engaged in banking and conducted a commission merchant's business. In September, 1866, while in New Orleans relative to establishing a branch of his business in that city, he was stricken with yellow fever and died in that city. He was a Methodist and a Mason. Married: in Petersburg, Va., to Frances Annette, daughter of Colonel Floyd of that place. Children: 1. Carter L., m. a Miss Culver of Mobile, resides in Texas. Their children are Carriola, Bessie Elizabeth, Carter L. jr., and Frances Annette. Last residence: Mobile.

MOON, ALLEN JEFFERSON, teacher and dean of Howard college, was born August 25, 1873, at Lineville, Clay County; son of Jacob Washington and Mary Jane (Strickland) Moon, of that place; grandson of Young Allen and Sarah Amanda (Staples) Moon, the former a native of Georgia, his ancestors having come to America from England, and of Thomas Jefferson and Mary Ann Strickland, of Lineville and Ashland, respectively, the former was reared in Macon, his ancestors having migrated to new Amsterdam from Holland, and many of his relatives still live in New York and Pennsylvania. Mr. Moon received his secondary education at the Lineville college, and graduated from Howard college, Birmingham, 1897, with the A. B. degree and in 1902, with the A. M. degree. In 1911, the honorary degree of L. H. D., was conferred upon him by that institution. During 1899-1901, he studied Latin and Greek at the University of Virginia, and during 1904-10-11, at the University of Chicago. He has been professor of Latin and Greek at Howard college since 1901, and dean of that institution since 1914. He is state vice-president of the Classical association of the middle west and south, which position he has held for three years. He held the chair of ancient languages at the University of Alabama during the summer school for teachers in 1908. He is a Baptist; and Knight of Pythias. Unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

MOON, HARTLEY ALLEN, mechanical engineer, adjutant general, was born February 5, 1877, near Alexander City, Tallapoosa County; son of Dr. William Henry and Frances Onalda (Bell) Moon (q. v.); grandson of William Pitt and Sue Bell, of Oglethorpe County, Ga.; great-grandson of Sylvanus and Frances (Lumpkin) Bell. Col. Moon received his education in the schools of Goodwater and at the Alabama polytechnic institute, from which he was graduated B. S. and M. E., in 1899. He was with the Southern bell telephone and telegraph company in Birmingham for more than two years; with the Continental gin company of Birmingham from 1902 to 1916; and in the U. S. Army from 1916 until he was mustered out in 1919; was appointed adjutant general shortly after the beginning of Governor Kilby's administration, and served as acting adjutant general until he was mustered out of the army on December 18, 1919. He was a first lieutenant of infantry in the Alabama National Guard from 1909 to 1912; served as captain of infantry volunteer reserve in 1908; was captain of field artillery, Alabama National Guard, 1912; and major in the Fourth Alabama infantry, later the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh U. S. infantry, 1916-1919. He has held the rank of colonel in adjutant general's department in the Alabama National Guard as adjutant general of the state. He was severely wounded in the Baccarat defensive sector, in Alsace, France, June 9, 1918. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a member of the America society of mechanical engineers; member Alabama Polytechnic society; member of Montgomery Rotary club; member of the American legion, and Rainbow Veterans' associations. Married: (1) September, 1901, to Leo Trelle Henderson of Barnesville, Ga.; (2) February 4, 1910, at Cusseta, to May, daughter of Thomas James and Amanda (Wiley) Middleton, of Pleasant Hill, and a descendant of Capt. James Middleton, Col. John Hinton and Lieut. Thomas James, on her father's side, and from Gen. Evan Shelby, Col. Adam Alexander, Gen. Miles Brewton, and Peter Newport Bragg, on her mother's side, all of whom saw service in the American Revolution. Children: 1. Sarah Trelle; 2. Amanda Middleton; 3. Richard Hartley. Residence: Montgomery.

MOON, WILLIAM HENRY, physician, was born September 23, 1844, in Chambers County; son of Young Allen and Sarah Amanda (Staples) Moon, the former who was born in Madison County, Ga., and removed to Alabama 1842, resided in several different points, died 1888. Dr. Moon was educated in his native county, and in 1862 enlisted in Co. I, 13th Alabama infantry, seeing service with the Army of Northern Virginia; participated in battles at Fredricksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, and Hatcher's Run; was made prisoner at Gettysburg and confined to Ft. Delaware fifteen months, after which he escaped; was assigned to a battalion of sharpshooters, and again captured before Lee's surrender. Returning home he attended school at Oxford, 1868; taught school three years; in 1871 took first medical lectures, and practiced at Alexander City until 1878, when he returned to Mobile and graduated in 1879. After practicing another year at Alexander City, he removed to Goodwater where he has since resided. He became a member of the Coosa County medical association in 1883; and was one of the senior councillors of the State medical association; health officer, Coosa County; and city health officer of Goodwater. He is a Democrat; Mason; Knight of Honor; and a Baptist. Married: November 13, 1872, at Lineville, to Frances Onalda, daughter of William Pitt and Susan (Bell) Bell, natives of Georgia. Children: 1. Lula Bell, unmarried, Goodwater; 2. Frances Onalda, trained nurse; 3. Hartley Allen (q. v.); 4. Susan, graduate of Florence normal school, m. Bruno Max Ohme, dentist, Montgomery; 5. William Pitman, graduate of Auburn, m. Grace Gordon Watts, civil engineer, Goodwater; 6. Mary Zephyr, graduate of Montevallo, m. Fulton Pace, Talladega; 7. Allene Rees, graduate of Florence, m. Frank McKelvy, Columbus, Ga.; 8. Nellie Lee, graduate of Florence, m. Herbert Neighbors, reside at Clanton; 9. Charles Davis, a graduate of Auburn, unmarried, served as 2nd lieutenant, 60th U. S. infantry, A. E. F., now resides at Ensley; 10. John Halan, graduate of Auburn, unmarried, resides in Texas; 11. Jacob, graduate Alabama polytechnic institute. Residence: Goodwater.

MOORE, ALFRED, bank teller and Confederate soldier, was born December 23, 1848, in Huntsville; son of Dr. Alfred and Jane (Watson) Moore, the former a surgeon of the War of 1812, the latter a native of Richmond, Va.; brother of John Edmund Moore (q. v.) and of Sydenham Moore (q. v.); brother-in-law to Gov. Edward A. O'Neal (q. v.). In 1864, although but sixteen years of age, he enlisted in the Confederate Army, was wounded at the battle of Indian Creek, captured in the following December, and imprisoned at Camp Chase, Ohio, until the close of the war. He became a citizen of Huntsville and for fourteen years was book-keeper and teller of the First national bank, a position he resigned at his election in April, 1899, as mayor of the city. Residence: Huntsville.

MOORE, ANDREW BARRY, lawyer and sixteenth governor of Alabama, was born March 7, 1807, in Spartanburg District, S. C., and died April 5, 1873, in Marion; son of Capt. Charles and Jane (Barry) Moore, the former a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and in the War of 1812, when he was raised to the rank of captain, who came to Alabama in about 1823 or 1824, settling in Perry County, where he became a planter and lived until his death, the latter a native of Spartanburg, S. C., and a cousin of Postmaster-General Barry of Kentucky; grandson of Robert Moore, a Scotch-Irishman, born in Ireland, who on coming to America, settled in Chester County, Penn., and in 1769 emigrated to the Carolinas, finally settling in Spartanburg District, S. C.; nephew of Gen. Thomas Moore, who served in the Revolutionary War, and in the War of 1812, where he received the rank of general, and was a member of congress from South Carolina from 1810-12, and was again elected in 1816. Gov. Moore was an uncle of James A. Moore (q. v.). Andrew B. Moore was well educated and in 1826, came to Perry County on business, and being induced to take a school there, taught for two years. He read law in the office of Elisha Young and Sidney M. Goode, was admitted to the bar, 1833, and for eight years, was a justice of the peace. In 1839, he entered the legislature; was re-elected in 1842, and served four consecutive terms. In 1843 he was elected speaker over Mr. Jemison of Tuscaloosa, was elected the following year over Judge Peter Martin of Tuscaloosa, and in 1845, was again chosen to that place. In 1848 he was an elector for Cass and Butler on the Whig ticket; in 1851 was appointed by Judge Collier to fill a vacancy on the circuit bench; was subsequently elected to the circuit bench, 1852; and held that position until 1857, when he resigned to accept the nomination of his party for governor, to which position he was chosen without opposition. He was re-elected in 1859 over William F. Samford of Macon. During his second term, joint resolutions were adopted by the legislature authorizing the governor to call a convention of the people of the state, in the event, that in 1860, an abolition candidate was elected president of the United States. Mr. Lincoln having been elected, Gov. Moore promptly issued his proclamation ordering an election of delegates from the several counties, to meet, January, 1861, in convention at Montgomery, for the purpose of taking such steps as might be necessary to withdraw the state from the Union, as directed by the legislature. On January 11, the ordinance of secession was passed. Gov. Moore, had in the meantime sent a military command to take possession of the forts at Pensacola, Fla., had authorized the seizing of the forts and arsenals situated in Alabama, and gave great assistance to the Confederate government by collecting munitions, supplies, and organizing troops. The only question raised against his public policy was the premature seizing of the United States forts, which was condemned by many, even in his own state, but he was an ardent and sincere advocate of states-rights, and felt that the interests of his state and section justified this act. At the close of his term, he was appointed special aid-de-camp, to Gov. Shorter, his successor, and discharged certain duties in the northern counties. In 1865, he was seized and incarcerated in Ft. Pulaski, Savannah, with Hons. R. M. T. Hunter, and J. A. Seddon of Virginia, Gov. McGrath, and Hon. G. A. Trenholm of South Carolina, Gov. Allison, and Hon. D. L. Yulee of Florida, Gen. Mercer of Georgia, Gov. Clarke of Mississippi, and Hon. John A. Campbell of Mobile. In August of that year he was released because of falling health. After his release he practiced law in Marion until his death. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. Married: near Marion, in 1837, to Mary, daughter of James Gorree, of Perry County. Three children, two daughters and a son, were born to this union. Last residence: Marion.

MOORE, DAVID, physician, was born in 1789, in Brunswick County, Va., and died in 1845, at Huntsville; son of John and Rebecca (Fletcher) Moore, the former a native of the Cape Fear region of Carolina and the latter a native of Virginia. Mr. Moore was an uncle of Sydenham Moore (q. v.). He received his education in Virginia and was graduated in medicine from the University of Pennsylvania. He moved to Nashville, Tenn., and started practicing there. In 1809, Dr. Moore purchased considerable land at the first sale of lands in Madison County, Mississippi Territory. He was selected one of three trustees to whom Le Roy Pope deeded one half of his purchase covering the site of Huntsville, having the authority to lay off, sell lots, and use the proceeds for the improvement of the projected town. Dr. Moore had been the family physician and friend of Gen. Andrew Jackson, at Nashville, and in 1813-14, during the war with the Creek Indians in South Alabama, he served as surgeon on the general's staff. After the last battle, the battle of Tohopeka, on his return home, he was appointed one of the "justices of the quorum," of Madison County, and served until the admission of Alabama as a state into the Union. He was one of nine citizens authorized under an act passed December 11, 1816, by the Territorial legislature, to open books of subscription for "The Planters' and Merchants' bank" at Huntsville, the first bank established in the Mississippi Territory. In 1820, after Alabama was admitted as a state, Dr. Moore was elected to the legislature, and was returned thirteen times, five times at the head of the chosen ticket; from 1822-25 he was in the State senate, but he preferred the lower house, and was, in 1841, unanimously elected speaker. Among the important measures which he inaugurated and carried through, was "the woman's law," a law which creates a statutory settlement for the protection of married women from the possible vices or business misfortunes of their husbands. Beside being interested in politics and his profession, Dr. Moore was a cotton planter of some renown, shipping his cotton to Liverpool and thereby furnishing an exchange for the people in Tennessee Valley. At one time he was the owner of nine plantations and a number of negroes. In January, 1833, under the auspices of Dr. Moore and six other citizens, the Madison Turnpike company was chartered, and that company macadamized the roads ten miles south to the Tennessee River, and west in the direction of Athens, Limestone County. Dr. Moore was defeated in the election of November 24, 1841, by Arthur P. Bagby, for United States senator to fill the vacancy made by the retirement of Gov. C. C. Clay. He was presidential elector once or twice, and was again elected to the legislature, his death occurring soon after. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Married, (1) to Harriet, daughter of Judge Haywood, a well known man of Tennessee, and sister of Hon. John Haywood of Tennessee; (2) in 1834 to Martha L., daughter of Benjamin Harrison of Brunswick County, Va., who afterwards moved to Madison County, and who was a cousin of President Harrison. After the death of her husband Mrs. Moore married Dr. Charles A. Patton. Among the children by the first marriage are: 1. David, deceased; 2. Harriet, m. (1) Dr. John D. Barnard of Savannah, Ga.; (2) Col. R. B. Rhett, jr., of Charleston, S. C. (q. v.), children by the first marriage. Mattie and Kate, deceased; 3. Samuel B., adjutant Twenty-sixth Alabama Infantry regiment, C. S. Army (deceased); 4. Kate, m. John Grimbell, of South Carolina, formerly lawyer in New York, deceased; 5. son; 6. daughter. Last residence: Huntsville.

MOORE, EDWARD CLIFTON, Methodist minister, was born November 5, 1873, at Mansfield, La., during the temporary residence of his parents; son of William Henry and Penelope (Reeves) Moore, of Letohatchee, originally from North Carolina, 1st lieutenant of C. S. Army; grandson of Alfred Moore, and of Prior and Amelia Reeves of Sandy Ridge, Lowndes County, the former a Christian preacher; great-grandson of James King (q. v.), a pioneer Methodist preacher who delivered the first Methodist sermon in Montgomery. Dr. Moore received his early education in the public schools of Lowndes County, taught by his mother; graduated from the Pensacola district high school, at the time conducted under the patronage of the Methodist church; received the degree of D. D. from Southern university, Greensboro, 1912. He joined the Alabama conference, December 1900, and has filled a number of important charges, among them being presiding elder, Montgomery district, and pastor Court Street Methodist church. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: October 10, 1900, in Butler, Choctaw County, to Pearl, daughter of John Henry and Ladoisha Annie (Weir) Chapman of that place. Children: 1. Frank D.; 2. Edgar Frazer; 3. Tom Weir. Residence: Mobile.

MOORE, ELIZA INGLIS (CLITHERALL) patriotic worker, was born June 2, 1803, in Charleston, S. C., and died July 9, 1886; daughter of Dr. George Campbell and Caroline Elizabeth (Burgwyn) Clitherall; sister of Judge A. B. Clitherall (q. v.). She was president of one of the most prominent ladies' aid societies during the War of Secession. Married: May 22, 1820, at Smithville, N. C., to Junius Alexander Moore, a lawyer of near Wilmington, N. C., who removed to Alabama about 1837, where he continued his practice and died at Tuscaloosa, June 2, 1844. Children: 1. Georgena Rebecca, m. Joel Riggs (q. v.); 2. Caroline Sophia, m. Dr. Marshall Henry Bird, grandparents of Walter B. Jones (q. v.); 3. Emily Geraldine, d. young. Last residence: Montgomery.

MOORE, ELIZABETH MAUD (HALEY), teacher, was born at Cedarland, near Morristown, Granger County, Tenn.; daughter of James Franklin and Priscilla Joanna (Shields) Haley, the former a native of Madison County, Ga., who lived in Cherokee County, Ga., in Marietta, Ga., moved to Jasper in 1883, and served as postmaster there during Cleveland's administration, served in the Ninth Georgia battalion and later in the Thirty-third Georgia regiment, C. S. Army, was captured at Missionary Ridge just before the battle of Chickamauga, and was held a prisoner on Johnson's Island for eighteen months; granddaughter of Joel and Frances (Jones) Haley who lived in Madison and Cherokee Counties, Ga., and of Milton and Priscilla (Brabson) Shields, of Grainger County, Tenn.; great-granddaughter of James and Jane (Gilliland) Shields, the former a native of Frederick County, Md., was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and died in Greene County, Tenn., the latter a native of Chester County, Pa., and of John and Elizabeth (Davis) Brabson, who lived at Brabson's Ferry, Sevier County, Tenn.; great-great-granddaughter of William and Jane (Bentley) Shields, the former a native of the County of Armagh, Ireland, born in 1728, who came to America in 1737, and lived in Newcastle, Cecil and Frederick Counties, Md., the latter a native of Lancaster County, Pa., of John and Mary (Reese) Brabson, who came from Wales, and settled near Martinsburg, Va. of Ben and Priscilla (Jones) Davis, who settled on Nolachuckey River, Greene County, Tenn., the former who was a cousin of Jefferson Davis and the originator of the Ben Davis apple, the latter who was a daughter of Repe Jones of Virginia, and of John and Hester (Romah) Gilliland, who lived in Chester County, Pa., the former a native of County of Antrim, Ireland, and the latter of Holland; great-great-great-granddaughter of Ben and Elizabeth Davis, who lived at Camden, S. C.

Mrs. Moore received her early education in private schools at Marietta, Ga., and from the girls' high school at Morristown, Tenn.; was graduated from George Peabody college for teachers, Nashville, Tenn.; received a certificate from the Summer school of the South, Knoxville, Tenn., 1902; was graduated from Teachers' college, Columbia university, B. S. 1904; and has taken summer courses in the Universities of Tennessee, Nashville, and Alabama, and Columbia university. She began teaching at the age of fourteen; has served as assistant in Mrs. Ford's school, Marietta, Ga.; was principal of Elizabeth seminary, Jasper, 1889-1894; instructor at the State normal school at Jacksonville, 1896-1902 and 1904-1908; professor of psychology and education at Alabama girls' technical institute, Montevallo, 1904, 1905; instructor of education and English, University of Alabama, 1906; instructor of education, University of Nashville; teacher of French in Oklahoma institute and college for girls, 1911-1912; institute instructor in summer, 1913. She was director of the elementary department, secretary of the normal department, third, second and first vice presidents, Alabama educational association; vice-president of the normal department and secretary, child study department, Southern education association; secretary, Peabody alumni chapter of Southern educational association; charter member and member of the executive committee of the Southern association of college alumnae; president of the school improvement associations in Montevallo and Jasper; president and director, Montevallo Studios; member of executive committee, Chickasha Sorosis, Oklahoma; president, Woman's missionary society, Chickasha, Okla.; president Woman's culture club and Thursday study club, Jasper; official reporter first and second Alabama chautauqua assemblies; director, C. L. S. C. round table, Alabama Chautauqua; president Woman's department, Walker County Fair; active member, Alabama, Oklahoma, Southern and National education associations. She was assistant editor and business manager, Alaqua, 1894-1895; editor of a department in "Educational Exchange," 1894-1896; contributor to "Southwestern Journal of Education," "Educational Exchange," "Southern Educational Review," "Y. W. C. A. Gleanings"; and correspondent to several newspapers. She is a Methodist. Married: August 4, 1908, at Jasper, to James Alexander Moore (q. v.). Residence: Jasper.

MOORE, GABRIEL, lawyer, representative in congress, governor of Alabama, and U. S. senator, was born in Stokes County, N. C., about 1785, and died June 9, 1845, at Caddo, Tex. The names of his parents are not available. He received an academic education, studied law, was admitted to the bar, and commenced the practice of law at Huntsville, in 1810. He was representative in the legislature of the Mississippi territory for several years, and in 1817 was elected speaker of the first Alabama territorial legislature. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1819; presided over the State senate in 1820; was elected to congress in 1822, over Col. Silas Dinsmore, of Washington, to fill the unexpired term of William Kelley, his district comprising the whole state; and was re-elected in 1823, 1825, 1827, defeating Judge Clement Comer Clay the last time, and serving until 1829. He was then elected governor without opposition, and under his administration two important state works were commenced; the construction of the Muscle shoals canal and the railroad from Tusculumbia to Decatur, both projects having for their object the utilization of the Tennessee River, which traverses the northern portion of the state. During his administration, there was also brought about the conclusion on September 27, 1830, of the Treaty of Dancing Rabbit Creek, whereby the Choctaws ceded their lands in Alabama and Mississippi to the federal government for a like area in the west. This treaty was signed by Gen. Eaton, secretary of war, and Gen. Coffee, of Tennessee, representing the United States, and by one hundred and seventy members of the tribe on the part of the Indians. On March 3, 1831, Gov. Moore resigned to take his seat in the U. S. Senate to which he had been elected over John McKinley, of Lauderdale. He was succeeded in the governorship by Hon. Samuel B. Moore, who was then president of the State senate. As a member of the U. S. senate he opposed the appointment of Mr. Van Buren as minister to Great Britain, thereby creating bitter antagonism toward himself among Gen. Jackson's adherents. The legislature of Alabama requested him to resign, but he remained in the senate until the expiration of his term. In 1837 he was defeated by Hon. Reuben Chapman for congress. He moved to Texas in 1843, and died in that state two years later. Married: to a Miss Callier of Washington County. Gov. Moore was an uncle of Hon. S. D. J. Moore of Tuscaloosa, and Judge W. H. Moore at one time a member of the Huntsville city court. Last residence: Caddo, Tex.

MOORE, GEORGE FLEMING, lawyer, grand commander of the supreme council of the thirty-third degree Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry for the southern jurisdiction of the United States, was born at Talladega; son of Dr. William Harvie and Elizabeth Ann (Dixon) Moore, the latter a native of Winchester, Tenn.; grandson of Major William and Mary Garland (Marks) Moore, the former one of the wealthiest men of the state in his day, who removed from Georgia to Alabama, and in 1827 represented Madison County in the State legislature, and who was a cousin of Senator Gabriel Moore (q. v.), the latter a native of Albemarle County, Va., and of Dr. Matthew Lyle and Elizabeth (Henderson) Dixon, the former who was a soldier and surgeon serving under Gen. Jackson, and who practiced medicine in Talladega; great-grandson of John and Margaret (Harvie) Moore, the former a native of Louisa or Albemarle County, Va., who removed to Georgia and in 1784 settled in Oglethorpe County, and of Captain John Lucy Marks, the former a Revolutionary soldier under Baron Steuben, the latter a descendant of the Meriwether family, who married first, Captain William Lewis by whom she had one son, Meriwether Lewis, who with his cousin William Clark was appointed to make the expedition to the west, known as the Lewis and Clark Expedition, and who was also first governor of Missouri, and of Sanky Dixon, a soldier in the Revolutionary War, who was wounded at the Battle of Brandywine, promoted to the rank of lieutenant, and after the war removed to Tennessee, dying near Knoxville, and of Samuel and Elizabeth (Callaway) Henderson, the former a member of the first legislative body held in the west, and a brother of Col. Richard Henderson, who bought the country which now forms the state of Kentucky, the latter who with her sister and Jemima Boone were captured from Ft. Boonesboro, Ky.,

DR. EDGAR P. HOGAN

by the Indians, later being rescued by the men from the fort under the command of Daniel Boone and Col. Callaway, and who was married soon after to Samuel Henderson, by Squire Boone, brother of Daniel Boone; great-great-grandson of John Moore, a civil engineer by profession, who emigrated from Ireland settling in Goochland County, Va., and in that part of it which afterwards became Albemarle, and whose will is on file in the records of Louisa County, being a very interesting document for several reasons, one of which is the fact that he manumitted his slaves for their long and faithful service, and who at one time owned the land where the Court House and Charlottesville now stands, and of John Harvie, who came to Virginia from Gargannock, Scotland, about 1740, who was a lawyer in Albemarle County, a friend of Peter Jefferson, and for a long time the guardian of Thomas Jefferson who later became president of the United States, and whose son John Harvie, was a member of the continental congress, the first secretary of state of Virginia, and is said to have helped the government of the United States by lending it money during its early struggles, and of John Dixon, who emigrated from the north of Ireland to Pennsylvania about 1730, and of Col. Callaway, who left Virginia to join Daniel Boone at Ft. Boonesboro, Ky., and for whom Callaway County, Ky., is named. The father of George F. Moore, Dr. William Harvie Moore, was born in Athens, Ga., received his early education there, and later graduated in medicine from the University of Pennsylvania. When a boy he went with his father to Madison County where he first commenced practicing medicine with his brother-in-law, Dr. Fleming Jordan. He then went to Talladega where he practiced for many years. Among his patients and friends were such men as Hon. John T. Morgan, United States senator from Alabama, and Louis E. Parsons, governor of the state. When his health began to fail, he went into the cotton manufacturing business with his brother-in-law, W. K. Simpson.

George F. Moore received his education at what was then called the Baptist college at Talladega, at the Central institute in Coosa County, and at the University of Virginia, where he studied law. He was admitted to practice before the courts and in the court of chancery at Talladega, where he commenced his practice, later moving to Montgomery where he was associated with Col. Daniel S. Troy and his nephew Hon. Alex. Troy. For many years he was the attorney for the board of roads and revenues in Montgomery County, was special reporter for the supreme court, and was one of the judges appointed by Gov. Rufus Cobb and the attorney for Treasurer Bingham in the cases against the latter when he retired from the office of State treasurer. He was appointed by Mr. Cleveland as assistant district attorney, during his first administration and served through the entire term of President Harrison. Trouble arose during his service in this office and a convention of Republicans in the northern part of the state demanded of Attorney General Miller his removal, because he was a Democrat. The attorney general refused to remove him and upon his retirement wrote a letter to President Cleveland recommending the appointment of Mr. Moore as district attorney. He served as assistant attorney and U. S. attorney throughout the second term of President Cleveland and for some months during the term of President McKinley. In 1901 he went to New York for the purpose of engaging in the practice of corporation law, and in 1903 took up the work of editor of the "New Age Magazine." Mr. Moore was requested by Judge Thomas G. Jones to accept the position of U. S. attorney in the middle district of Alabama, during the administration of President Roosevelt, but this he declined because of his previous engagements with the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in conducting the "New Age Magazine." He also declined to apply for the position as U. S. judge in the Canal Zone, because of his work on the magazine. He is a thirty-third degree Mason, has held office in the grand lodge of Alabama in the grand council in the Grand commandery, has held various places on the supreme council, and is at present grand commander of the supreme council of the Thirty-third degree Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry for the southern jurisdiction of the United States. He is an honorary member of the Supreme Council of the Republic of France, and honorary lieutenant grand commander for life of the Supreme Council of Italy. Residence: New York.

MOORE, HENRY DANNELLY, Methodist minister, was born October 13, 1838, at Abbeville, Abbeville County, S. C., and died February 20, 1902 at Opelika; son of Rev. James and Ann (Fisher) Moore, the latter a native of Liverpool, England, who came to the United States with her parents, who first settled in Norfolk, Va., but later removed to Charleston, S. C.; grandson of John and Mary (Armstrong) Moore, both natives of Ireland who came to America from County Antrim in 1790, settling in Charleston, where the former became a merchant and a large landholder in the northern part of the state. Rev. James Moore, father of Henry D. Moore, grew to manhood in Charleston and was educated there, later moving to Abbeville, S. C. He was ordained a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church in 1830, and in 1844, when that church divided, adhered to that part of it now known as the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and may be said to have been the founder of the Methodist church in Abbeville. Dr. Henry D. Moore attended the private schools, in and near Abbeville, S. C., until 1853, when he attended the Arsenal academy at Columbia which was the first of a four years course in state military academies. In 1854 he was transferred to Charleston military academy, graduating from there in 1857 and in December of the same year was admitted to membership in the South Carolina annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. His chosen profession was civil engineering but he refused a position in Oregon to enter the ministry. He was ordained in Charleston, in 1857, was first assigned to the Union circuit, and in 1861 was at the town of Manning, S. C., where he helped in the drilling of soldiers for the C. S. Army. In July, 1863, he entered the army as chaplain of the Twelfth Alabama infantry, in which position he served until the end of the war. He was present at the battles of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, and Mechanicsville, during the campaign from Rapidan to James Rivers, and with Gen. Early's army in the Shenandoah valley in the battles of Winchester, Bunker Hill and Cedar Creek, and the raid through Maryland to Washington, D. C. He was transferred from the South Carolina to the Florida conference in 1865, and while a member of this conference served as preacher at the Albany station, Ga., until 1869. He became a member of the south Georgia conference while at Albany. In 1869, he was elected president of the Lavert female college at Talbotton, Ga., where he remained until July, 1872, when he was elected president of the Alabama conference female college at Tuskegee. His membership was transferred to the Alabama conference in which he was presiding elder in 1876, 1877 and 1878; from 1879 to 1882, he had charge of the First Methodist Episcopal church, South, of Mobile, and while there the degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by the state university at Tuscaloosa; from 1883-87, he was in charge of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Prattville; and from January, 1887, to January, 1890, was in charge of the First Methodist Episcopal church, of Montgomery, the only Methodist church in that city. In January, 1891, he took charge of the Selma Methodist Episcopal church, south. He was a delegate from the Alabama conference to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, 1878. He had charge of the Epworth League department and the "Alabama Christian Advocate," and was presiding elder. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) September 27, 1859, to Caroline B. Thomason, of Orangeburg District, S. C., and daughter of Rev. Bartlett and Elizabeth (Rumph) Thomason, the former an itinerant minister and a member of the South Carolina conference; (2) on July 14, 1874, to Caroline Tait of Wilcox County, and daughter of Hon. Felix and Narcissa (Gorree) Tait (q. v.). Children by first marriage: 1. Joseph Frederick, m. Margie McPherson, 1884; 2. Carrie Belle, m. Amos L. Smith, 1887; 3. Marie Moreman; 4. Henry D., m. Vesta Anderson, 1903; by second marriage: 4. Narcissa, m. James G. Comfort, 1900; 5. Victor Ivan, m. Lucile P. Taylor, 1905; 6. Ruth, m. Edgar S. Lotspeich, 1908; 8. Alberta, m. F. Renfro, 1910. Last residence: Opelika.

MOORE, HUGH McVAY, planter, was born May 15, 1835, in Lauderdale County; son of Lewis C. and Attie P. (McVay) Moore; grandson of Hon. Hugh McVay (q. v.); brother of John M., a soldier in the C. S. Army who was killed near Pulaski, Tenn., of Samuel H., who was killed at second Manassas, of J. Polk, a soldier in the C. S. Army, who died January 10, 1887, and of Lewis C., the only surviving brother, who was a member of the Fourth Alabama Cavalry. Mr. Moore was educated in the schools in Florence, and engaged in farming until the outbreak of the War of Secession. On April 28, 1861, he enlisted as private in Co. H, Fourth Alabama Infantry, and served under Gen. Lee in the Virginia army until the close of the war. He participated in all of the battles of that army, and was also with Gen. Longstreet in Tennessee. He was wounded at Gaines' Farm, Chickamauga, Gettysburg, and Cold Harbor, being so severely wounded at the latter place that he never fully recovered. At the close of the war he returned to his old home and engaged in farming, ginning, and milling. In July, 1887, Mr. Moore was appointed to fill the vacancy left by the death of J. W. White, as sheriff of Lauderdale County. Married: four and a half miles north of Florence, April 4, 1866, to Fannie E. Rice. Residence: Florence.

MOORE, J. BURNS, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Franklin County.

MOORE, JAMES A., banker, was born December 10, 1839, near West Point, Clay County, Miss.; son of Thomas W. B. and Elizabeth (Burton) Moore, the latter a native of Spartanburg, S. C.; nephew of Andrew Barr Moore (q. v.). His father, Thomas W. B. Moore was born in Spartanburg District, S. C., in 1805, and was the first of the family to come to Alabama. He settled in Perry County, later going to Mississippi, where he married. He then settled in Clay County, Mississippi, where he lived for several years before moving to Palo Alto, Chickasaw County, Miss., where he died in 1855. He was an extensive planter, and going into Mississippi at an early date, 1828, became a pioneer of that state. After the death of his father and mother Mr. Moore, then fourteen years of age, made his home with his uncle, Dr. Robert Foster of Perry County. He received an academic education and was then sent to New Orleans, where in 1861, he completed a commercial course. A few weeks later he returned to his home in Perry County and became a private in the Marion light infantry, later known as Co. G, Fourth Alabama regiment, commanded by Capt. Porter King. He participated in the battles of second Manassas, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Chickamauga, siege of Knoxville, battles around Richmond, and at Petersburg, and when surrender came, was at Appomattox Court House. After the war, Mr. Moore returned to Perry County and accepted a position as clerk with Evins and Barry, general merchants, and six or eight months later, accepted the offer to take an interest in the business under the name of J. A. Moore and co., becoming manager, and remaining as such for two years. He then became sole proprietor. Two and one-half years later Messrs. Wyatt and Fitzgerald became associated with him under the firm name of Moore, Wyatt and Fitzgerald. Mr. Wyatt withdrew in sixteen months and the business continued until 1883 under the name of Moore and Fitzgerald, when the firm suspended the mercantile business. The firm now has large real estate possessions in Birmingham, the firm members are large stockholders in the Marion central bank, formerly the Marion savings bank, Mr. Moore being president and Mr. Fitzgerald, cashier, offices they have held since 1884. He was mayor of Marion for five terms of one year each, during which time several important changes were made. For over twenty years he was a member of the board of trustees for the Marion female seminary, and was president of the board for ten years or more. He is a member of the Presbyterian church, of which he has been an elder for over eleven years, and for eight years was superintendent of the Sunday school. Married: in 1872, to Sarah F. Robinson, a native of Marengo County, and daughter of James B. Robinson, who was a prominent citizen of Madison County, and a member of a prominent family of that county, who came from Russell County, Va., and who held colonial deeds to their early possessions in that county. Residence: Marion.

MOORE, JAMES ALEXANDER, teacher, was born March 27, 1870, near Montevallo, Chilton County; son of John Bennington and Nancy Caroline (Garner) Moore, the former a native of old Jonesboro, Jefferson County, who lived near Montevallo, served in Co. G, Eighteenth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, was wounded at Chickamauga, captured and held prisoner for eighteen months, was a farmer, justice of the peace and county commissioner, receiving every vote at the election to the latter office; grandson of James and Cynthia (Taylor) Moore, who lived at McCalla, the former a native of Georgia, and of William and Elvira (Mahon) Garner, who lived in Chilton County, near Montevallo, having come to Alabama from South Carolina. He obtained his early education in the common schools of Chilton County and at the Pleasant Hill academy, under Prof. I. W. McAdory; was graduated from Southern university at Greensboro, B. Ph., 1894, and from the Eastman business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was offered a chair at the latter institution, while a student there. He held the principalship of a private high school at Montevallo, 1894-1898; served as professor in the Alabama girl's industrial school, 1900-1906, as acting president of that institution, 1906-1907, and as chairman of the faculty, 1907-1909; was president of the Oklahoma woman's college, 1910-1912; and became principal of the Walker County high school in 1913. He is an active member of the Alabama, Oklahoma, Southern and National educational associations; of the National council of superintendents; of the Society for the promotion of industrial education; and of the American association for the advancement of science. He is a Democrat and has served as a member of the county executive committee; is a Methodist, holding the presidency of the board of stewards and the board of trustees, and for several years was delegate to district and annual conferences; is a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason; and a member of Alpha Tau Omega college fraternity. Married: August 4, 1908, at Jasper, to Elizabeth Maud Haley (q. v.). Residence: Jasper.

MOORE, JAMES DOLPHIN, hardware merchant, was born January 18, 1849, near Whitesburg, Carroll County, Ga.; son of James Dolphin Moore and a Miss Disnueker, the former a farmer who was born at Chatham, Chatham County, N. C., and who when left an orphan at the age of twenty years, before there were any railroads, rode horse back from North Carolina to western Georgia, about 1834; grandson of Abram Moore, of near Raleigh, N. C., and of Maj. George Disnueker, an officer in the Revolutionary War. He received his early schooling in a country school in Coweta County, Ga., and later attended Bowdon College, Carrollton County, Ga., from where he graduated in 1870 with the degree of A. B. He began teaching mathematics and French the same year at Bowdon. After that he taught in Oxford College, Oxford County, and Roanoke high school, Roanoke, Randolph County. He entered the general store as equal partner with Hon. William A. Handley, and continued in that business from 1876 to 1882 in Roanoke; in the latter year moved to Birmingham and went into the hardware and machinery business; and in the next year entered the jobbing and wholesale business with B. F. Moore and W. A. Handley. In 1909 the firm incorporated as the Moore-Handley Hardware co., with James D. Moore as president. Mr. Moore was elected in 1916, a member of the Jefferson County board of education, for a term of six years. He is a member of the Methodist church, South,—has been a trustee, a steward, and taught a class of young men for twenty years. He has also been treasurer of the superannuate homes for fifteen years and the chairman of the board of stewards for four years. He is a Democrat. Married: July 7, 1885, at Mobile, to Annie Elizabeth, daughter of William Jones and Mary (Jones) Provost of Florence. Children: 1. Edna, m. John Pope Jones, jr.; 2. J. D. Moore, jr., m. Orlene Barnett, and they reside in Birmingham where he is with the Moore-Handley hardware co., as head of the automobile accessories department; 3. William Provost, a graduate of the University of Alabama in 1919, now connected with the Moore-Handley hardware co. Residence: Birmingham.

MOORE, JAMES MONROE, farmer, was born January 6, 1886, near Belk post office, Fayette County; son of James David and Frances (Estes) Moore, the former who was a native of Fayette County, was a merchant and served as justice of the peace during Thomas J. Jones' administration; grandson of David and Mary (Brown) Moore, the former who was a soldier in the C. S. Army, and of Cooper Bennett and Elizabeth Burton (Ayers) Estes, the former who was a native of South Carolina. Mr. Moore received his early education in the common schools of his county; later attended the sixth district agricultural school at Hamilton; graduated B. S. from the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1912; and graduated M. S. from the Agricultural and mechanical college of Texas, 1913. He taught in the public and normal schools of music; organized a literary school in Fayette County in 1908; in 1914 organized the Fayette truck growers' association; was most influential in having the government take a survey of the overflowed swamp lands of the Luxapilla and Sipsey Rivers in Fayette County; and January 1, 1916, he became pure food and drug clerk in the department of agriculture and industries. Residence: Fayette.

MOORE, JOHN, lawyer and circuit judge, was born March 13, 1829, in Wake County, N. C., and died in 1904; son of Wooten and Elizabeth (Tooley) Moore, the former a cotton planter, who was a native of Chatham County, N. C., came to Alabama in 1833, and settled in 1834, in Perry County, nine miles west of Marion. The early ancestry of the Moore family begins with Maurice Moore, esq., an officer in the British Army, who was stationed at the Barbadoes under Sir John Yeamans, one time governor of the Barbadoes, in the eighteenth century. Maurice Moore later came to, South Carolina, as also did Sir John Yeamans, being transferred to South Carolina as colonial governor. A son of Maurice Moore, James Moore, married a daughter of Sir John Yeaman's, and James later became the first governor of South Carolina to be elected by popular vote. Among the children born to this union, was another James Moore, who distinguished himself as a general in the Revolutionary War, and who resided in North Carolina. Two uncles of Gen. Moore's, Maurice and Rodger Moore, resided in North Carolina on the Cape Fear River. Maurice Moore was a judge of one of the superior court districts in North Carolina, and his son, Alfred, was a judge of the U. S. Supreme court. Rodger Moore, known by the title of "King" Rodger, was a planter, his plantation being located about eight miles from the mouth of the Cape Fear River. The land was very fertile and rice and indigo were raised. The settlement of this part of the country up to about fifty or sixty years ago, was to a great extent, controlled by the descendants of the original old families, namely the Moore, Swann, Waddell, Ashe, Mabson, Nash, Sampson, Owen, Quince, Joslyn, and a few other families. These families intermarried for the most part, Gen. Francis Nash, brother of Abner Nash, who was governor during the Revolutionary War, married a daughter of Gen. James Moore; Gov. Ashe married a sister of Gen. James Moore; Gen. Hugh Waddell, a soldier of the Revolution, married a sister of Gen. James Moore; Maj. John Swann married a daughter of Gen. Moore; one of the descendants of Col. Joslyn married into the branch of "King" Rodgers' family; and members of the Mabson family, intermarried with members of the Moore family. John Moore, received his early education at Howard college, and later graduated from the University of Alabama with the degrees of A. B., and A. M. In 1850 he began reading law at Marion in the office of I. W. Garrott, later Gen. Garrott, and in 1851 was admitted to the bar. He associated with his preceptor and at once began the practice of law, but soon afterward entered the army. Early in 1861, he raised a short-term company at Marion, known as the Fourth Alabama State Troops, and went out as its captain. Mr. Moore entered the regular service, after the expiration of the time for which his company was enlisted, and was made a lieutenant in the Fortieth Alabama infantry. June 15, 1864, he was captured at Noon Day Creek, Ga., was taken to Johnson's Island and detained until the following winter, when he was exchanged. He returned to his command, but illness, contracted while at Johnson's Island, disqualified him from further service, and he soon returned to Marion. In 1865-66, he represented Perry County in the legislature, and in May, 1866, was elected judge of what was then the first judicial circuit, composed of Autauga, Bibb, Perry, and Dallas Counties, being elected over Hon. B. F. Saffold, of Dallas, Tex. In 1868 he was removed by the reconstructionists, and from that time until 1880, practiced law. In 1880 he was elected judge of the fourth circuit, and was re-elected in 1886. Judge Moore was at one time connected with what is now the Selma, Marion and Memphis railroad. For many years he was a member of the board of trustees of Howard college, and was president of the board of trustees of Judson female institute, in 1888. He was a member of the Baptist church. Married: February 18, 1851, to Emily Adelia, daughter of Dr. C. C. Billingslea (q. v.), who represented Montgomery County in the legislature. A daughter and two sons were born to this union; one of the latter is a resident of Tennessee, and the other is John Trotwood Moore (q. v.). Last residence: Marion.

MOORE, JOHN EDMUND, lawyer and circuit judge, was born in 1815, in Rutherford County, Tenn., and died in 1865, at Greensboro; son of Dr. Alfred and Eliza (Jones) Moore; and brother of Col. Sydenham Moore (q. v.). He received a good education, graduating from the University of Alabama with the degree of A. B., and read law at Huntsville, where he was licensed and practiced a year or two, then went to Florence. In 1847, he represented the county in the general assembly, and was defeated for judge of the fifth circuit by Judge S. C. Posey. He was elected to the bench of the circuit court in 1851, which position he held for twelve years. He was an aspirant for the nomination of governor, but the choice of the Democratic convention fell on Gov. A. B. Moore. He was tendered the appointment of territorial judge of Kansas, by President Pierce, which he declined. He was appointed judge advocate general on Gen. Hardee's staff, C. S. Army, during the War of Secession, and died while holding that position. Married: in 1844, to Letitia Watson, of Richmond, Va. Last residence: Florence.

MOORE, JOHN G., member of constitutional convention of 1865, from Coffee County.

MOORE, JOHN MARVIN, banker, was born July 24, 1877, at Marion, Perry County; son of John Calhoun and Castero Jane (Harris) Moore, the former who was born at Marion, served in the War of Secession, 1861-65, rose from the rank of private to captain, and after the war engaged in business; grandson of William and Susan (Tubbs) Moore, natives of South Carolina, who removed to Marion, and of David and Mary Ann (Miller) Harris, who lived near Greensboro, Hale County. J. Marvin Moore was educated in the country schools near Marion, and was graduated B. S., 1897, from the Marion military institute. He engaged in banking; entered the Peoples bank at Marion as runner September 8, 1902; on June 1, 1911, was elected president of the same institution; and was senator from the eighteenth district in the legislature of 1919. He is a Democrat; a Baptist, which church he has served as Sunday school superintendent and deacon; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Residence: Marion.

MOORE, JOHN TROTWOOD, author, was born August 26, 1858, at Marion; son of Judge John Moore (q. v.), and Emily (Billingslea) Moore. He received a good education, and graduated from Howard college, in 1878, with the degree of A. B. After his graduation he edited, "The Marion Commonwealth," for a year; taught school the following six years in Butler and Wilcox Counties, and established Moore academy at Pineapple. While he was engaged in teaching, he was also studying law, but declined to accept a license as he did not wish to practice. Impelled by his love of nature and literary work, he returned to the country, moving to Maury County, Tenn., near Columbia, in 1885, where he purchased a stock farm. He was a great lover of horses and soon began to contribute to "The Horse Review," of Chicago, the best known turf journal in America, writing under the nom de plume of "Trotwood." During the succeeding years, Mr. Moore edited a department in "The Horse Review," and in 1897, published a volume of poems and short stories, entitled, "Songs and Stories from Tennessee," his story, "Ole Mistis," making him known to the literary world. He also wrote, "A Summer Hymnal," a Tennessee romance, which was published in 1901; "The Bishop of Coitontown," in 1906; "The Gift of the Grass," "Uncle Wash—His Stories," in 1910; "The Old Cotton Gin," in 1910; "John Ballington, Forester," in 1911; three poems, "To a Sweet Pea," "The Recompense," and "A Ballad of Emma Sansom;" and a drama, "The Ghost Flower." In 1905-06 he was editor of "Trotwood's Monthly," and has been editor of "The Taylor-Trotwood Magazine," published at Nashville, Tenn., since 1906. He is a member of the University Press. Married: (1) to Florence W. Allen, who died in 1896; (2) in 1900, to Mary Brown Daniel. Residence: Nashville, Tenn.

MOORE, JOHN WASHINGTON, business man and legislator, was born May 12, 1857, near Lawrenceville, Gwinnett County, Ga.; son of David Benjamin and Mary Caroline (Inzer) Moore; grandson of Elijah Moore, and of Henry White and Phoebe Jane (Reid) Inzer. He was educated in the schools of St. Clair County; entered mercantile business in 1875; was coal operator from 1887-98; has been mayor, councilman, secretary and treasurer of Coal City; represented St. Clair County in the general assembly, 1907; has been a member of the County Democratic executive committee; and a member of the county board of education. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: Fannie Elizabeth, daughter of George W. and Julia F. (Daughtrille) Daughtrille, of Mobile. Children: 1. Earle. Residence: Coal City.

MOORE, JOHN WHEELER, physician, for thirty years a resident of Alabama, was born in Camden County, S. C., 1793, and died in Calhoun County, Ark., 1868; son of John Moore, a soldier in the Revolutionary war from South Carolina, and his wife, a Miss Wheeler, from Virginia to South Carolina. Dr. Moore was educated at Charleston, S. C., and at the Philadelphia medical college. He was a lieutenant-colonel, War of 1812; an officer in the Indian war of 1834; and a surgeon in the Mexican war. In the early thirties he located in Mobile and practiced medicine there until his removal to Camden, Ark., 1859. Married: Laura Rebecca, daughter of William and Rebecca (Harris) Moore, of Sumter, S. C. Children: 1. Martha Jane, m. Frank Alexander; 2. Charlotte Barbara; 3. Edwin Woodfin; 4. Dr. Thomas Polk, m. Augusta Ellis of Charleston, S. C., the parents of Lollie Belle Wylie, poet, who resides in Atlanta, Ga.; 5. Emma and Enna, twins, dec.; 6. William Woodfin; 7. William Henry; 8. John Wheeler; 9. James; and others who died in infancy. Last residence: Calhoun County, Ark.

MOORE, JONES GUERRY, business man, was born August 16, 1857, near Tuskegee, Macon County; son of Abraham F. and Margaret (Wright) Moore. He received his education in the common schools, and spent most of his early life on the farm; from 1879 to 1880 he ran a grist mill in Tuskegee; then accepted a position with the Newcastle coal and iron company at Newcastle; then worked for the same company at Coalburg, continuing with them until May, 1883. The Coalburg coal and coke company then bought the property at Coalburg, and he stayed with the new corporation until November, 1884, working alternately with both companies at Newcastle and Coalburg. In June, 1885, he accepted a position with the Pratt coal and iron company at Pratt Mines, and continued in the coal mining business until July 1, 1899, after which time he entered into railroading. He was representative from the eighteenth district in the State senate in 1901. He is a Democrat, and a member of the Methodist church. Married: at Birmingham, to Lula Howard Townsend. Residence: Blocton.

MOORE, JOSEPH THOITS, portrait painter, was born March 8, 1796, at North Yarmouth, Me., and died October 17, 1854, at Montgomery; son of Tobias and Dorcas (Thoits) Moore, both natives of Maine, the former who was a district schoolmaster; grandson of Samuel and Dorcas (Thoits) Moore, who lived at Freeport, Me., and of Jeremiah and Joanna Thoits, who, lived at North Yarmouth, Me. The American ancestor of the Moore family was Capt. Samuel Moore, who with three of his brothers, came from England about 1690, settling in Kittery, Me., and who in 1774, was lost at sea. Capt. Moore married a Miss Seabury, and the names of both the Moore and Seabury families appear quite common in the old records of the towns and villages of Maine and New Hampshire. In 1816, Joseph T. Moore, moved from Maine to Chillicothe, O., where he engaged in the furniture manufacturing business with his brother Samuel. He developed an inherent artistic talent, and going to Montgomery in 1830, he opened a studio where he painted portraits, and gave instruction in drawing and oil painting. He painted over twenty-two portraits, among them being the portrait of Gen. Carroll which hangs over the mantle piece of the Montgomery field artillery armory. He also painted a picture of the burning of the old capitol building. He was a member of the Universalist church, and a Master Mason. Married: (1) April 8, 1819, in Chillicothe, O., to Eleanor Blackstone, who died August 6, 1838, at Montgomery, daughter of Samuel and Hannah (Pittingill) Blackstone, the former said to be a descendant of William Blackstone who settled on the site of the Boston Common and had been there for years before the Massachusetts colony came to America; (2) in March, 1847, to Mrs. Harriett McGuire, who died May 7, 1865, at Montgomery, a widow with two children, John and Frances. Children, by first marriage: 1. Harriett Newell, b. February 29, 1820, d. June 14, 1875, m. Robert Hosia of Cincinnati, O.; 2. Eliza, b. 1821, d. 1826; 3. Joseph, b. 1823, d. 1825; 4. Joseph, b. 1826, d. 1856; 5. Raphael, b. 1829, d. 1854; 6. Charles L., b. 1832, d. 1877; 7. Benjamin F., b. 1834, d. 1854; 8. William H., b. 1837, d. 1906; by second marriage: 9. Robert Hosia, b. March 30, 1848, m. Mary Lou, daughter of George R. Boyd of Perry County, reside at Chicago; 10. Eliza Eleanor, b. April 6, 1850, m. A. C. Scott of Milwaukee, Wis. Last residence: Montgomery.

MOORE, JOSHUA BURNS, lawyer and State senator, was born in 1833 in Franklin County, deceased; son of William Moore, a soldier in the War of 1812; grandson of Moses Moore, and William Burgess, South Carolinians, who emigrated to Alabama, locating in Franklin County, in the early history of the state. His father being a poor man, Joshua B. Moore received only such education as the old-field schools afforded, which he attended in the interim of working in the fields during the crop season, until he was fourteen years old. He then quit school and undertook a course of study without a teacher, and a year afterwards, at the age of fifteen, borrowed a copy of Blackstone's Commentaries, commenced the study of law, and was admitted to the bar at the age of seventeen. He took no active part in the War of Secession, because of ill health, but contributed in every other way to the success of the southern cause. In September, 1865, he was a delegate to the constitutional convention that met in Montgomery to revise the constitution of the state of Alabama. During the crisis of 1874, when an effort was being made to rescue the government of the state and place it in competent and experienced hands, he abandoned his profession, took the stump, and bent all his energies toward electing Gov. George S. Houston and the Democratic majority of each branch of the legislature. He served as a senator in the legislature of Alabama during the sessions of 1874-75 and 1875-76. He was a Democrat. Married: in 1858, to Thomas Ella, daughter of Edward and Parthenia Pearsall. There were four children born to this union, and in 1874, while Mr. Moore was attending the session of legislature at Montgomery, his wife and the two youngest daughters were killed in a tornado that swept over Tuscumbia. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

MOORE, MARTIN VANBUREN, author, was born April 12, 1837, at Shown's Cross Roads, Johnson County, Tenn., and died at Auburn, September 1, 1900; son of Greene and Sarah (Shown) Moore, the former who was a successful merchant and farmer, and the latter a daughter of one of the German pioneers in the mountain valleys of Tennessee, originally from Pennsylvania. He received a good primary education, and was trained for mercantile pursuits. He taught for two years, and pursued a course of legal instruction for some time, abandoning it before he attained his majority. In 1861, at the outbreak of the War of Secession he was a traveling salesman for Kent, Paine and company, a manufacturing establishment of Richmond, Va., and in January, 1861, he engaged in the mercantile business on his own account in Watauga County, N. C. After the fall of Ft. Sumter, he assisted in raising a command, later known as Co. E, Thirty-seventh North Carolina infantry, which was not immediately received into service, so he enlisted in August, 1861, in Co. D, First North Carolina cavalry, then in a camp of instruction near Raleigh. After a year's service he was promoted captain and assistant quartermaster, and was assigned to duty with the Seventh North Carolina cavalry battalion in command of Lieut. Col. G. N. Folk, which later became the Sixth North Carolina regiment of cavalry, and with which he served until the end of the war. In September, 1865, he went to Lenoir, N. C., where he engaged in the mercantile business; was appointed post office inspector in 1885, and assigned to duty on the Pacific coast, with headquarters at San Francisco; in September, 1889, he left the service due to a change of administration; and spent his later years at Auburn. Besides his interest in the mercantile business, he was at various times interested in agricultural pursuits, and in cotton mill industries, taking a great interest in scientific agriculture, receiving premiums for his exhibits at the World's Fair in Vienna, 1876, several state fairs of North Carolina, and the exposition at Atlanta in 1895. He was also a writer, and contributor to a number of magazines and periodicals. In 1897 he had published "The Rhyme of the Southern Rivers," and left a number of unpublished works. He joined the Alabama historical society, October 26, 1898. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: (1) August 10, 1864, at Camden, S. C., to Sallie Elizabeth Lenoir, by whom he had several children; (2) March 15, 1892, at Talladega, to Mrs. Idora (McClellan) Plowman, who has achieved a national reputation under the pen name of "Betsy Hamilton," and who was the daughter of Gen. William McClelland and a widow of Albert W. Plowman. Last residence: Auburn.

MORRIS ADLER

MOORE, OBADIAH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, and a resident of Autauga County, private N. C. Militia; enrolled on January 4, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $60.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MOORE, PEYTON H., commandant at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1899-1900. He held the B. S. and LL. B. degrees.

MOORE, RITTENHOUSE, business man, was born June 27, 1844, at Greensboro, Greene County, now Hale County; son of Sydenham and Amanda Melvina (Hobson) Moore (q. v.). He attended school at Greensboro, and Southern university for two years. He entered the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, withdrawing in two months to enter the C. S. Army, in October, 1862. He served with the Fifth Alabama regiment, until transferred to the staff of Gen. O'Neal, in command of Rhodes' Brigade, Jackson's Corps, Army of Northern Virginia. He was in the battle of Chancellorsville, was recommended for gallantry and appointed, by President Davis, as cadet in the regular army, Confederate States of America. He was then ordered to the Selma arsenal as ordnance officer, and after remaining there for a while applied for field service and was ordered to the Northern Army of Virginia as ordnance officer of Jeb Stuart's cavalry. Lieut. Gen. Dick Taylor had this order revoked, however, assigning him to his department as assistant chief of ordnance, where he served until the end of the war, surrendering in 1865 at Meridian, Miss., Gen. E. R. S. Cantz commanding the U. S. forces. A petition signed by every member of the legislature of Alabama, the governor and all the state officers, was sent to the president, requesting that he be promoted to captain, although under age. It was forwarded to Richmond in the fall of 1864, but never reached its destination, Sherman having destroyed the mail routes. After the war the trustees of the University conferred the degree of A. M. on all students who left the university to enter the C. S. Army, and Mr. Moore's name was on the list. At one time he held the office of excise commissioner of Mobile, his duty being to regulate the whiskey traffic, but resigned after assisting in establishing the basis of the reform. He was offered and refused the position as major general of the Alabama state guard, also the office of sheriff of the county. He is a Democrat, and a member of the Episcopal church, and has served as vestryman of Trinity church at Mobile. He is an honorary member of the "Infant Mystics" of Mobile, and at one time was a member of "The Strikers," a social society of Mobile. Married: August 9, 1866, at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Greensboro, to Hattie Beverly, daughter of Robert Carter and Ann (Beverly) Randolph of Greensboro; granddaughter of Brett and Lucy (Beverly) Randolph of Caroline County, Va.; great-granddaughter of Richard Randolph of Curles Neck, Va., and a Miss Mead, the former being a vestryman of St. Mark's church, one of the oldest parishes in Culpeper County, Va., and whose name appears in the parish book of 1785, and of Robert and Jane (Taylor) Beverly, the latter who lived at Mt. Airy, on the Rappahannock River, Richmond County, Va.; great-great-granddaughter of William Randolph, an Englishman who held a large land grant on Turkey Island, and of Maria Carter of Shirley, daughter of King Carter, who owned a large tract of land in Virginia, known in those days, as the Northern Neck. Children: 1. Helen Beverly, m. (1) Judge William Bailey Thomas of Georgia, who died, (2) Mark L. Bristol of the U. S. Navy; 2. Amanda Hobson, m. October 22, 1910, to Henry Goldthwaite; 3. Rittenhouse Randolph, m. on October 28, 1911, to Mrs. S. W. Frame. Residence: Mobile.

MOORE, SAMUEL B., sixth governor of Alabama, was born in Franklin County, Tenn., in 1789, and died November 7, 1846, in Carrollton. He received a limited education and came to Alabama at an early day settling in Jackson County. He represented that county in the legislature as far back as 1823, and after serving several terms in the lower house, was elected to the State senate, in 1828, being president of that body in 1831. When Gov. Gabriel Moore resigned to take his place in the U. S. senate, Mr. Moore succeeded him in the executive office, and administered until December of the same year. At the close of his term he returned to Pickens County, which he represented in the State senate from 1834-1838, serving as president of it in 1835. He was judge of the county court of Pickens from 1835-1841. He was never married. Last residence: Carrollton.

MOORE, SAMUEL D. J., lawyer, was a nephew of Gov. Gabriel Moore (q. v.). He was a graduate of West Point military academy. He first located in the Cherokee region of Alabama and then removed to Tuscaloosa County, where he resumed his practice. He represented Cherokee County in the State legislature, 1839, and was judge of the County court until 1847, when he resigned to compete, unsuccessfully, with Dennis Dent, of Tuscaloosa, for the senate. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

MOORE, SYDENHAM, lawyer, representative in congress, colonel in C. S. Army, was born May 25, 1817, in Rutherford County, Tenn., and died August 20, 1862; son of Alfred and Eliza (Jones) Moore, the former a brother of Dr. David Moore (q. v.), and the latter a native of Jackson, Tenn., and a sister of Hon. John Edmund Jones who represented Sumter in the senate and was at one time judge of the city court of Mobile; grandson of Rev. John and Rebecca (Fletcher) Moore, the former a Methodist minister, South, who was born January 1, 1757, in Northampton County, and died April 28, 1852, was licensed by John Pope in 1784, ordained by Bishop Asbury, and in 1807, removed to Davidson County, Tenn., and in 1818, to Limestone County, and of Rev. Edmund Jones of Tennessee; great-grandson of Mark and Sarah (Mason) Moore of Northampton County, N. C. Sydenham Moore received a good education, and was a graduate of the University of Alabama. He read law at Huntsville, was admitted to the bar, practiced in Greensboro, and was judge of the probate court of Greene County for six years. In 1838 during the Cherokee Indian War, he volunteered as private and served in Capt. Otey's company. He was elected by the general assembly in 1840, as judge of the county court, over S. T. Hale and W. F. Pierce, which position he held, 1840-1846, and 1848-1850. In 1846, during the Mexican War, he was a captain of mounted volunteers to reinforce Gen. Taylor on the Rio Grande, and subsequently served in Scott's forces at Vera Cruz, Alvarado, Tampico, and Jalapa. On his return in 1847, he was elected brigadier-general of militia. In 1850 he was defeated for county court judge, his party being in the minority, and he resumed the practice of law. He was the nominee of the party for congress in 1853, and again in 1855, but was defeated. In 1857 he was appointed judge of the circuit court, and a few months later was elected as a Democrat to the Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth congresses, serving from March 4, 1857, to January 21, 1861, when he retired and left Washington with his colleagues, on the secession of the State of Alabama. While in congress he pursued a rather conservative course, and was a "working member" of the committee on the library. He entered the C. S. Army and served with the rank of colonel in the Eleventh Alabama regiment, and at the battle of the Seven Pines, was struck in the knee by a minie ball, another shattering his watch, and still another grazing his spine. His death occurred soon after as a result of his injuries. He was a member of the Episcopal church. Married: December 8, 1841, by Rev. Thomas Witherspoon, to Amanda Melvina, daughter of Matthew and Elizabeth Mary Ann (Munger) Hobson, who lived at Greensboro, the former who was a direct descendant of Baron De Grafenreid who came from Switzerland, holding a land grant in the Carolinas and who founded Newberne, N. C., naming it after Berne, Switzerland; great-granddaughter of Gen. Elijah Clarke, who came to Georgia from North Carolina in 1774, and served as captain, colonel and general in the Revolutionary War, and was in command at the siege of Savannah and Augusta, and for whom Clarke County is named; and sister of Col. Hobson of the Fifth Alabama Volunteers. Children: 1. Alfred, b. November 21, 1842, Lieutenant in C. S. Army, killed at the battle of Chickamauga, September 19, 1863; 2. Rittenhouse (q. v.); 3. Mary Quitman, m. Harris Waller, Greensboro; 4. Sydenham, m. Elizabeth Hutton, Birmingham; 5. Ann Eliza, deceased; 6. Alice Albina, m. Robert H. Smith, Birmingham; 7. Gertrude Creswell, m. Gregory L. Smith, Mobile; 8. William Webb, deceased; 9. Amanda Hobson, m. H. Minor Friend, Mobile. Last residence: Eutaw.

MOORE, TALIAFERRO CLARENCE, teacher, was born April 29, 1876, at Clarence, Blount County; son of David Sanders and Susan (Nunnally) Moore, the former a physician, a native of Walton County, Ga., who lived at the place until 1861 when the family moved to Alabama, and began farming on Sand Mountain, Blount County, and who is a relative of Tom Watson of Georgia; grandson of Robert and Nancy (Watson) Moore, of Clarence, Blount County, and of Jackson and Nancy (Bonds) Nunnally, of New Hope, Gwinnett County, Ga. His mother's family was directly connected with Charley Smith and the Van Bibbers who were the founders of Baltimore. He attended schools at Clarence, 1882-1890; entered Blount college, Blountsville, where he was graduated A. B., and M. Acct.; and was graduated from the University of Alabama in 1903, receiving the degrees of B. S. and M. S. in the same year. He began teaching school when he was thirteen years of age with a first grade teacher's certificate, and since that time has taught school continuously. In addition to teaching in the country schools in Blount County, he has served as professor of English in the Ninth district agricultural school, four years; as principal of the city high school in Talladega, two years; as president of the Fourth district agricultural school three years; and as principal of the Blount County high school for a number of years. He is a Democrat; a Methodist, serving the church as a delegate to the general conference, as steward, and as president of the county Sunday school convention; is a Mason; and a member of the Kappa Sigma college fraternity. Married: July 12, 1899, to Clinton, daughter of Clinton and Eliza (Barchiff) Montgomery, who lived at Blountsville; a cousin of Bishop J. H. McCoy of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; and a sister of the wife of Judge J. E. Blackwood (q. v.). Residence: Oneonta.

MOORE, TREDWELL W., commandant at the University of Alabama, 1891-93, with the rank of 1st Lieutenant, 22nd infantry, U. S. Army.

MOORELAND, TURNER, planter, was born November 24, 1784, in Dinwiddie County, Va., and died at his home on Old Federal Road, in Russell County, on October 29, 1857. He came to Hancock County, Ga., in the fourteenth year of his age and resided there until the late '20s, when he removed to Russell County. He was an extensive planter, a man of considerable means, financially, and a large holder of slaves. He was a Whig in late life, though formerly of the Jeffersonian Democratic faith; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married, October 16, 1806, in Dinwiddie County, Va., to Rebecca W., daughter of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Chappell) Sledge, jr.; granddaughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Scott) Chappell. Children: 1. Elizabeth, m. Hartwell Bass, six children; 2. Jefferson; 3. Turner, three children; 4. Joseph, three children; 5. Augustine; 6. Asbury Fletcher, three children. Last residence: Russell County.

MOORER, RICHARD RANDOLPH, farmer, was born September 30, 1879, at Braggs, Lowndes County; son of John Randolph and Margaret (Davidson) Moorer, of Lowndes County, the former who volunteered in the Hayneville Guards as private, this company being a part of John B. Gordon's Sixth Alabama regiment, saw active service in Virginia for the first year and, at the reorganization of the C. S. Army, re-enlisted in Capt. Mack Bowie's company of General Wirt Adams' cavalry, was elected first lieutenant, participated in the battles of Corinth, Shiloh, Iuka, Natchez, and Vicksburg, and later in the Tennessee campaigns, and after the war took an active interest in reconstruction and served as Chief Cyclops of the Lowndes County Ku Klux Klan; grandson of Lewis and Martha (Gambling) Moorer, of Braggs, and of William P. and Isabella Davidson, of the same place; and his maternal great-grandfather was a colonel in the Revolutionary War. The Moorers are of Swiss, the Gamblings of English, and the Davidsons of Scotch-Irish ancestry. Mr. Moorer was educated in the public schools of Lowndes County; attended the University of Alabama for one year, 1898-1899; and graduated from the Southern dental college, Atlanta, Ga., in 1904. He practiced dentistry for ten years and then retired to take up farming. In 1919 he was a representative in the legislature from Lowndes County. He is a Methodist and a Mason. Married: September 14, 1904, at Mount Willing, to Hulda Hill, daughter of Capt. J. L. and Martha (Daniel) Hinson, of that place, the former who saw active service in Virginia during the War of Secession, having lost a leg at Winchester. Children: 1. Alice Margaret; 2. Thomas H. Residence: Mt. Willing.

MOORING, JOHN SCOTT, banker, iron manufacturer, public accountant, and chairman state tax commission, was born January 29, 1864, at Gainesville, Sumter County; son of James Ashley and Martha Ann (Scott) Mooring, the former a native of near Tarboro, Edgecombe County, N. C., from whence he removed to Warsaw, Sumter County, 1841, going a few years later to Gainesville, where he married, and became the owner of a steamboat, and a steamboat captain, running from Mobile to upper points on the Tombigbee River, later giving up this career to become a planter, his home being near Gainesville, whence he removed to Mobile to engage in the cotton business; grandson of John Bankhead Mooring and wife, who lived at Tarboro, N. C., and of John Baytop and Patsy (Thompson) Scott, the latter a Revolutionary soldier, who ran away from Hampden Sydney college, Prince Edward County, Va., to join "Light Horse Harry" Lee's legion, attained the rank of first lieutenant, during the War of 1812 and was captain of a company made up entirely of Revolutionary soldiers, later brigadier-general, Louisiana troops, was provisional governor of Louisiana under appointment from President Jefferson, who was his intimate friend, a member of the Society of the Cincinnati, and served a term in congress. The Mooring family was prominent in the early history of North Carolina. The Scotts came from England, settling first in Gloucester County, Va. Mr. Mooring received his early education in private schools in Mobile, and in Towles school. He graduated at Emory-Henry college, Va., medalist in mathematics and first honor man through his college years, and third in rank one year. He graduated in the schools of Latin and Greek, at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville; read law privately, and was admitted to the bar, but never practiced. He engaged in the manufacture of iron from 1886 to 1890; president of the Anniston national bank, 1890-96; the following year he re-engaged in the manufacture of iron; was tax commissioner of Calhoun County, 1897-1903; public accountant, 1903-07; again county tax commissioner for Calhoun County, 1907-11; accountant, 1911-13; chairman, State tax commission, 1913-15; public accountant and tax expert, 1915-17; internal revenue agent for the government income tax, 1917-19; chairman, State tax commission, 1919 to date. He is a Democrat; Elk; and an Eagle. Married: in 1884, at Marion, Perry County, to Margaret Janet, daughter of Lorenzo and Sarah (Gray) Love. She is a descendant on three lines from Revolutionary soldiers, and is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Children: 1. Ashley, enlisted as a private and rose to a lieutenantcy in the American Expeditionary Forces, fought in the Argonne and other battles of the World War, now assistant to chairman of the State tax commission, m. Mrs. Sarah Ann Long; 2. Alan Gray, m. Thomas Clift Campbell, Tullahoma, Tenn. Residence: Montgomery.

MORAGNE, ISAAC P., farmer, was born December 22, 1817, in Abbeville County, S. C., and died October 16, 1887, at Gadsden; son of John and Catharine R. (Williams) Moragne, the former a native of South Carolina; grandson of Pierre and Cecille (Boyle) Moragne, Jr., and of Roger Williams; great-grandson of Pierre and Marie (Paris) Moragne, French Huguenots, who emigrated to America on July 30, 1763, landing at Charleston, April 14, 1764, and of Jean and Marie (Seyval) Boyle. Mr. Moragne was a captain in the C. S. Army. He represented Etowah County in the house of representatives, 1880-81. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: to Louisa, daughter of Abram and Liddia (Bridges) Whorton. Children: 1. Kate, m. John Kyle, of Columbus, Ga.; 2. Gus; 3. Dick; 4. Isaac, m. Susan Roebuck of Birmingham; 5. Ben; 6. John, m. Fannie Smith, of Gadsden; 7. Abraham, m. Betsy Davis, of Gadsden; 8. Robert; 9. Mary Louise, m. Clarence Wood, of Gadsden; 10. Eliza Jane, m. James Laffer Green, of Hanceville; 11. America Virginia, m. Mike McCartney, of Gadsden; 12. Annie, m. Matherson Phifer, of Alexandria; 13. John, resides in Purvis, Miss. Last residence: Gadsden.

MORAGNE, JAMES M., lawyer, farmer, and probate judge, was born October 18, 1843, in Gadsden; son of John S. and Mary E. (Whorton) Moragne. He served four years as a private in the Confederate Army, Co. G, 10th Alabama infantry regiment, Army of Northern Virginia; was severely wounded in the first fight at Dranesville; fought through the war and returned home at close of hostilities; studied law, was admitted to the bar and practiced one year, and, at the age of twenty-five, was appointed probate judge of the county by Gov. William Smith; served six years, and was elected some years later as an independent. He engaged in farming and in real estate business. Married: in 1870, at Gadsden, to Mary E. Hughes. Children: 1. Joseph S.; 2. Fannie S.; 3. Mary E.; 4. Jennie; 5. Nena; 6. James F., deceased; 7. Kate, deceased. Residence: Gadsden.

MORELAND, J. S., major of Moreland's battalion, Alabama sharpshooters, C. S. Army.

MORELAND, WILLIAM S., major of fire battalion, exempts, during the War of Secession.

MOREN, EDWARD HAWTHORNE, physician and lieutenant governor of Alabama, was born December 25, 1825, in Dinwiddie County, Va., and died March 19, 1886, at Centerville; son of Daniel and Mary (Crawford) Moren, the former who was a merchant and farmer and who was, for several terms, a member of the senate of Virginia, the latter a native of South Carolina. He received a common school education and graduated from a medical college in New York; soon after entered the U. S. Army as assistant surgeon and served in that capacity during the Mexican War, resigning in 1848. He settled in Bibb County in 1851, and devoted himself to his profession for ten years. In 1861 he was chosen to represent Perry and Bibb Counties in the upper house of the general assembly, and in 1865 was re-elected, both times without opposition. He was a member of the committee of finance and taxation, and afforded valuable aid when he devised a system of revenue to aid the treasury of Alabama at a time when it was almost exhausted and public credit was in imminent peril. He was also chairman of the joint committee on retrenchment. In 1861 he entered the C. S. Army as surgeon with the Twenty-ninth Alabama, and was subsequently put in charge of a hospital at Greenville. During the election of 1870, when an injunction had been issued, intending to defeat the popular will as expressed by the ballot-box, and to retain the executive and the treasury in the hands of a party which had been condemned by the people, Dr. Moren was elected lieutenant-governor. He was a member of the board of regents of the University of Alabama; was an old line Whig; and a Mason. Married: July 5, 1860, at Centerville to Mary Frances, a native of Alabama, daughter of Samuel Wilson and Frances (Stringfellow) Davidson, the former who came to Alabama in 1819, from Mecklenburg, N. C., and represented Bibb County in the legislature in 1840, and was an elder of the Presbyterian church, which through his efforts and the efforts of a few others was founded in Centerville, and built in 1859, who died March 4, 1863, the latter who was a South Carolinian, and died October 30, 1848. Last residence: Centerville.

MORENO, STEPHEN A., major, 17th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

MORGAN, ALBION LABAT, farmer and member of constitutional convention, 1867, was born March 21, 1834, at Carroll, Chautauqua County, N. Y.; son of Benjamin Townsend and Abigail Pease (Hall) Morgan, the former a native of Ohio, who moved to Chautauqua County, N. Y., when he was twenty-three years old, and lived there until his death; grandson of Thomas and Esther (Townsend) Morgan, who lived in Ohio, and of James and Polly (Cheney) Hall, of Chautauqua County, N. Y.; great-grandson of Thomas and Elizabeth (Morgan) Morgan, the former who came to America from Gloucester County, England, and who was a direct descendant of Sir John Morgan, esquire of the body of Henry VII, who was living in 1538. The Hall family is descended from Elisha Hall, who came to Hopkinton, Mass., about 1740, and whose son, William Hall served throughout the Revolutionary War on the side of the colonists. The ancestor of the Cheney family, William Cheney, came from England in 1635 and settled in Roxbury, Mass. Ebenezer Cheney, fifth in descent from William, served as a sergeant in the French and Indian War, was at Ticonderoga, and fought in the Revolutionary Army. Mr. Morgan was educated in the public schools and spent two years in college at Richmond, O. He went to Alabama in 1866; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1867; was appointed clerk of the county court of Wilcox County in 1867, was re-elected to the office and held it for twelve years; at the end of that time, was appointed U. S. revenue collector of the Mobile District, by President Garfield, and held that position for three years. After that time he was occupied as a merchant and planter. He is a Republican. Married March 6, 1861, in Chautauqua County, to Lydia Elizabeth, daughter of Austin and Rosa B. (Stewart) Jones, of that place; a direct descendant of John Jones, who emigrated to America from Wales about 1690, and settled in Nantucket, Mass., and of John Stewart, who emigrated with his wife from Scotland to the north of Ireland in 1729, from the town of Kilmarnock, and settled in County Antrim, whose grandson, James Stewart, emigrated to America with his wife, Catharine Hood, in 1795, and landed in New-castle County, Del., and later moved to Pennsylvania. Children: 1. Minna Augusta, b. June 23, 1864, in Jamestown, N. Y., m. Charles C. Washburn, Nashville, Tenn.; 2. Edith, b. July 28, 1875, in Camden, Wilcox County. Residence: Camden, Wilcox County.

MORGAN, ASA, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Limestone County; sergeant and private Georgia Militia; enrolled on August 12, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $83.91; sums received to date of publication of list, $209.77.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in

vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MORGAN, DANIEL, soldier of the American Revolution, and private and sergeant, particular service not shown; annual allowance, $100; records show that he was paid up to March 4, 1834.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MORGAN, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Perry County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on September 17, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30; sums received to date of publication of list, $75.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MORGAN, JAMES AUGUSTUS, teacher, was born July 28, 1886, at Heflin, Cleburne County; son of John Francis and Louisa Elizabeth (Perryman) Morgan, the former a native of Gainesville, Hall County, Ga., who lived near Wedowee for a number of years, moved to Heflin, Cleburne County in 1884 and served as mayor of the town for three terms; grandson of David Madison and Esther Montgomery (Bell) Morgan, who lived near Gainesville, Ga. the former who served through the Florida Indian War of 1836, and with the Forty-seventh Alabama regiment, War of Secession, and died of pneumonia when he had served but a few months in the C. S. Army, and of David Augustus and Elizabeth (Kitchens) Perryman, who lived near Wedowee; and a descendant of John and Peggy (McDonald) Powell, natives of Virginia and Ireland, the former a farmer and cousin of George Washington. The Morgan family traces its ancestry back to David Morgan, of Scotch-Irish origin, who came with his brother Jacob in 1703 from Wales, and settled in Pennsylvania, later moving to the south. The Perrymans were introduced into America by three brothers, John, William and David, who came from England. William and David Perryman married into Virginia families, and John married a Creek Indian princess, and went west, where today are to be found the tribe of Perryman Indians. The DeJarnettes and Lovells of Virginia were closely connected to the Perrymans. Gen. William Lovell of Revolutionary fame was an uncle of Robert Perryman, who with his eight brothers joined the American forces and fought through the Revolution. Mr. Morgan obtained his early schooling in Heflin, at a public school known as Ross college. He was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1908. He began teaching in the rural schools of Cleburne County in 1903. After leaving college, he taught in a high school at Roanoke, 1908-1909; was principal of Cleburne County high school, 1909-1910; principal of the Moore school, Birmingham system, 1910-1912; and became principal of the Talladega County high school, in 1912. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; and a member of the Farmers educational and cooperative union. Residence: Lincoln.

Vol. IV—16

MORGAN, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Fayette County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on January 31, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $60; sums received to date of publication of list, $180.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MORGAN, JOHN TYLER, lawyer, U. S. senator and brigadier-general, Confederate States Army, was born June 20, 1824, in Athens, Tenn., died June 11, 1907, in Washington, D. C., and is buried in Selma; son of George and Frances (Irby) Morgan, the former a native of Saratoga, N. Y., born the night George Washington was visiting the family, and named in his honor, removed to Tennessee and later to Alabama, a merchant, and planter, and lived to be ninety-four years of age; the latter a native of Virginia, daughter of an Episcopal clergyman and a woman of rare mental attainments; grandson of Gideon and Patience (Cogswell) Morgan, of Connecticut, the former a merchant and Revolutionary soldier, who died a monogamian, as did his father. During the latter part of the seventeenth century three brothers of the Clan Morgan sailed from Wales for America, one, from whom Senator Morgan is descended, settling in Connecticut, one in New York and the third in New Jersey. Senator Morgan entered the pioneer school of Charles P. Samuel, Kentuckian, located two miles from the Morgan home, when six years of age, and received the foundation of a classical education, grounded in Latin. In speaking of that period of his life, Senator Morgan stated years afterwards: "When I left school, at nine years of age, I knew more Latin than anything else. I had read Historiae Sacrae, the first six books of Caesar, the Georgics and Bucolics, and the Aeneid of Virgil; I had dipped into Sallust, and I was pretty well acquainted with Horace. In my other studies I had mastered all there was in our little geography, for I was always fond of geography, and I had gone as far as vulgar fractions in arithmetic. These three years, from six to nine, comprised my entire academic education." At this time his parents removed to Calhoun County, then a wilderness, still occupied by Indians, and "squatted" on unsurveyed government lands on Terrapin Creek, the young son assisting him in making the first crop, and enjoying the free life of the woodsman. In the absence of schools he prosecuted his studies under his mother's guidance, and to his knowledge of Latin books was added a deep study of the Bible and the English classics. He memorized such works as Young's "Night Thoughts," Pollock's "Course of Time," Thompson's "Seasons," Pope's "Essay on Man," and John Wesley's sermons. Some of these books were stored in the mother's memory, and in the absence of the printed page passages were transmitted orally by the mother to the brilliant son's mind. In this way young Morgan developed a memory that proved the astonishment of his associates in after life. While in Paris, serving on the Bering Sea commission, Senator Morgan was asked by Lord Han-men of England what university he had attended, and replied: "I never stepped foot upon a college campus in my life until one day during the War of Secession I had occasion to take my regiment behind the brick walls of the campus of William and Mary college, on the Virginia peninsula, to find protection from the minie balls and rifle bullets that were flying in our direction." The English lord thought it remarkable that one could rise to distinction without having a collegiate education. Senator Morgan replied that he felt great pride in stating that in America it was frequently the selftaught man who achieved success. Senator Morgan studied law in the office of William P. Chilton, of Tuskegee, was admitted to the bar in 1845 and practiced there until his removal to Dallas County, 1855, locating first in Selma, afterwards in Cahaba, finally returning to Selma, where he retained his residence until his death. He was presidential elector on the Breckenridge ticket in 1860, and delegate from Dallas County to the state convention which passed the ordinance of secession, 1861, voting for the ordinance, and ranking second only to William Yancey in influence and powers of debate. In "The South in the Building of the Nation," Vol. 12, pp. 210-213, it is said: "His (Morgan's) speeches, reported in 'Smith's Debates,' discussed Alabama's pledge to resist attempted coercion of any seceding State; resolution that no member of the convention or the legislature be eligible to the Confederate congress; proposed the withdrawal of the Alabama troops from Pensacola; proposed the substitution of 600 for 900 square miles as a minimum of county area, which he advocated, (incidentally emphasizing the omnipotence of a convention over legislature and constitution); power of legislature to fix tax for building railroads (which he denied); proposed to submit permanent constitution to popular ratification (which he boldly combated). He opposed the African slave trade, while contending that reopening was a question for each state, but the convention demanded that the trade be kept closed by the Confederate States constitution."

former

On the adjournment of the constitutional convention which adopted the ordinance of secession he served on the staff of Major-General Clemens, commanding State troops at Fort Morgan. When that fort was transferred to the Confederate government he enlisted, April, 1861, as a private in the "Cahaba Rifles," which became Co. G, 5th Alabama infantry, and on the organization of that regiment, May 1, 1861, he was elected major, with Allen C. Jones as lieutenant-colonel, and Robert E. Rodes as colonel. Upon the reorganization of the regiment, May, 1862, following its service in Virginia, Major Morgan became lieutenant-colonel of the regiment. He soon afterwards resigned his office, in order to return to Alabama and recruit a mounted regiment, which he did successfully, assisting also in equipping the troops with very little aid from the government, the new regiment, 1,300 strong, being known as the 51st Alabama cavalry. The regiment was mustered into service at Oxford, August 11, 1862. Morgan was made colonel, James D.

Webb, lieutenant-colonel, and H. D. Thompson, major. After doing duty in North Alabama, protecting the railroads and the people, the regiment was ordered to Middle Tennessee to report to General Forrest, and was with that great cavalry commander in successful action, November 5, 1862, with the enemy near Nashville. Colonel Morgan's regiment later joined Wheeler's command and participated in the Murfreesboro campaign. Lieutenant-Colonel James D. Webb, being wounded in the fight near Overall's Creek, December 31, 1862. Realizing his military qualities, General Robert E. Lee personally notified Colonel Morgan of his appointment as brigadier-general, with assignment to the command of what had been Rodes' brigade. Colonel Morgan repaired to the Confederate capital at Richmond, but while on his way to his new command heard of the death of Colonel Webb, who had been promoted to the command of the 51st cavalry regiment, and killed in battle on Elk River. He resigned his new office and returned to the command of his old regiment. In the organization of the army, August 10, and September 19-20, 1863, Colonel Morgan commanded a brigade, composed of the 1st, 3rd, 51st Alabama, and 8th Confederate cavalry regiments. The organization of the army, October 31, November 20 and 30, 1863, and all subsequent organizations, shows that Colonel Morgan's brigade was composed of the 1st, 3rd, 4th, later known as the 7th, and 51st regiments. This brigade, commanded by Colonel Morgan, participated in the battle of Chickamauga. General Wheeler in his official report of this battle said: "To Generals Wharton, and Martin, commanding divisions, and Colonels Wheeler, Morgan, Crews and Harrison, commanding brigades, I tender my thanks for their zeal, energy and gallantry during the engagement." Colonel Morgan was promoted brigadier-general November 16, 1863, at which time he was commanding a division composed of his old brigade and Crews' brigade, under General Wheeler in the Knoxville campaign. A notable achievement of General Morgan's brigade occurred at Maryville, Tenn., November 13, when in conjunction with an Arkansas and two Texas regiments he charged Colonel Frank Wolfords' noted cavalry brigade, and drove it in wildest confusion across Little River, a victory esteemed by military opinion as especially noteworthy on account of the brilliant record of the enemy leader, who was called the "Forrest of the Federal Army." General Morgan's division was active in all the cavalry operations of the Knoxville campaign, and the historian laments that his official report has been irretrievably lost. At that time a large proportion of the men, and many officers, were ragged and barefooted, without blankets or overcoats. In February, General Morgan was ordered to report with his division to General Joseph E. Johnston at Dalton, and by the organization of April 30, 1864, he resumed command of his old brigade, which with Iversen's brigade, formed Major-General Martin's division, which participated in the Atlanta campaign. General Morgan's command was left south of Atlanta to watch and harass General Sherman. He was later detached from his command and authorized to raise regiments for the Confederate Army, which was so sadly depleted, and was in Mississippi on this service when General Lee surrendered at Appomattox.

HENRY M. HOBBIE

During the reconstruction period General Morgan was a vigorous champion of white supremacy and all the principles of local self-government for which he had fought. He resumed the practice of law in Selma, where he was soon a leader at the bar. In 1876 he was a Democratic elector-at-large on the Tilden and Hendricks ticket, and that year was elected to the United States senate, to succeed George Goldthwaite, by the legislature of Alabama, defeating George S. Houston, and was retained in that high office by successive re-elections until his death, in 1907, a period of thirty years. For his fifth term he was nominated on the ticket of his own party as well as that of the Republicans and Populists, an unprecedented tribute to his statesmanship. In the State Democratic primary, August 27, 1906, Senator Morgan was nominated as his own successor without opposition, receiving 81,795 votes. On January 23, 1907, he was unanimously re-elected by the legislature for the term ending March 7, 1913.

General Morgan reflected credit and distinction upon the State of Alabama from the day of his entrance into the senate to the close of his career, thirty years later. By his courage, legal knowledge, ability in debate and splendid frankness and honesty, he commanded the respect and confidence of his own and the opposing party. Early in his service in Washington he began his campaign for an isthmian canal that would connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and never abated his interest or efforts in this direction until Congress authorized the completion by the United States of the Panama Canal. He favored the superior advantages of the canal route through the splendid valley of the San Juan River and across Lake Nicaragua, through a healthful climate and a beautiful country, and it was a bitter disappointment to him that Panama was selected for the site of the canal. He had been chairman of the interoceanic committee during President Cleveland's last administration, and in this position was enabled to greatly advance his advocacy of an isthmian canal. Although disappointed, he was not embittered by the loss of his contention, and lent all his influence to the success of the undertaking in its early and most difficult stages. It was a sorrow to his friends that he died before the project was completed and an unsuccessful effort was made to have one of the forts defending the canal named in his honor. Because of his leadership through more than a quarter century of discouraging obstacles for an isthmian canal, Senator Morgan was recognized by his colleagues and contemporaries as the "father of the isthmian canal idea." Senator Morgan was appointed on a select committee of the senate to draw up rules for counting the electoral vote for president and vice-president of the United States, 1880, a delicate duty, diplomatically performed, in the face of the negro suffrage question, so eternally a source of friction between southern states wishing to preserve their civilization and control their local electorate, and northern states which found the enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments a source of political advantage for the Republican party. In the year 1900, Senator Morgan drew to himself the hearts of all the southern people by his herculean efforts and ultimate defeat of the iniquitous "force bill," which had been introduced in the senate by Mr. Pritchard, a Republican member from North Carolina, inspired by suffrage clauses in the new constitutions of the southern states, known as the "grandfather clause." Senator Pritchard's resolution read: "Resolved, That an enactment, by constitution or otherwise, by any State which confers the right to vote upon any of its citizens because of their descent from certain persons or classes of persons, and excludes other citizens because they are not descended from such persons or classes of persons having all other qualifications prescribed by law, in the opinion of the Senate is in violation of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution of the United States and of a fundamental principle of our republican form of government." It was meant by the leaders of the movement to follow the adoption of this resolution by measures to enforce the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments by acts of congress. In his debate against the resolution Senator Morgan declared that "such a measure would abolish the State as to its rightful sovereign powers, and would remand it to the condition of our organized Territories, all of whose laws may be repealed by Congress and all of whose officials may be placed under the power of appointment and removed by the president." By his logical and patriotic arguments he secured the support of enough northern senators to defeat the measure, and no one of his great public services won for him greater gratitude from his people than his defeat of a movement which would have, if made effective by law, brought back to the southern states all of the disorders and horrors of the reconstruction period, and perhaps another civil war.

By appointment of President Harrison, 1892, Senator Morgan was made a member of the Bering Sea fisheries commission, the duty of which was to arbitrate differences that had arisen between Great Britain and the United States regarding the seal fisheries rights in dispute between the two governments. It was provided in the treaty submitting to arbitration the jurisdictional rights of the United States in the waters of Bering Sea, that the arbitrators should be "jurists of distinguished reputation in their respective countries," and Senator Morgan's selection to serve jointly with Mr. Justice Harlan, of the U. S. supreme court, was a distinct compliment to Alabama's able senator. Senator Morgan for many years served on the committee on foreign affairs and was part of the time chairman. He was appointed to draft the code of laws for the Hawaiian Islands after that country became territory of the United States. During 1906, when he was standing for re-election, Senator Morgan, against the advice of his supporters and in defiance of public sentiment in Alabama, opposed with his accustomed vigor a bill pending in the senate looking to the regulation of railroad rates, which regulation, if public feeling prevailed, would jeopardize the stability of the railroad business, amounting to practical confiscation. The issue was the foremost one at the time in Alabama. In the past Senator Morgan had acted upon his own judgment in defiance of the views of his constituents, and now his conscience and judgment were his master. His hold upon his constituency was so strong, the love and reverence of the whole people for him so profound, that his position was condoned and his re-election to the senate unanimous. Senator Morgan's death followed a gradual physical decline, at the age of eighty-three, but his great mind was brilliant and incisive to the end. A contemporary critic of national reputation, writing of the personnel of the U. S. senate, said: "No matter what the subject under consideration in the senate, the building of a navy, the construction of ordinance, the tariff, finances, public lands, isthmian canals, or relations with foreign powers, Indian affairs, constitutional or municipal law, the Senator, (Morgan) is always able to enlighten his colleagues and the world. Senator Davis, of Minnesota, himself a profound scholar and a man of very great ability, in the debate which recently occurred on the Chinese exclusion bill, referred to Mr. Morgan as the Senator from Alabama who is so universally informed upon everything known. It is no exaggeration to say of Senator Morgan that he touches no subject which he does not adorn and on which he does not shed some new light. If there be what some regard as diffuseness in his style, it is unavoidable, for a mind so stored with knowledge is like a great river, swollen by a thousand streams, which cannot be confined within narrow limits and must sometimes overflow its banks. He is the master of the art of speech. He uses it as the painter does his brush or the sculptor his chisel." The same author said: "The whole aspect of Senator Morgan when thoroughly warmed on a congenial subject is a study. His form is stately, his gestures graceful and appropriate, his face is suffused with smiles, and his eyes beam as with the light of inspiration. He is enraptured with his theme; he fondles and caresses it; he clothes it with a dress of beauty, and sends it forth, 'a joy forever.'" The correspondent of the Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal, in writing his paper on the passing of the venerable statesman, said: "John T. Morgan was born a senator. Had destiny decreed that he be born in Rome in the days of the consuls he would have fought with Caesar in Gaul or would have been a member of that memorable coalition, the 'first triumvirate.' The 'Roman senator' he has been aptly styled, for in his character and bearing, his education and ideals, his triumphs in war and peace, there was much to suggest the noble dignity of countenance and the manly aspects of Antony; the virtues, philosophy and courage of Brutus." Hon. John H. Bankhead, who had been chosen by the people in a primary election to the senatorial succession, in his "in memoriam" remarks in the house of representatives, which he was leaving to assume his new duties, said of him: "Senator Morgan was a man of wonderful perspective, and his mental horizon was not limited by local conditions or partisan convictions. His statesmanship was of that quality that 'he could see the near side of far things, and the far side of near things.' The universe was his forum and humanity his field of endeavors. Senator Morgan's life was gentle. In social intercourse he was always affable, considerate, and just. His affectionate solicitude for the happiness of his household was beautiful in its tenderness. He was scrupulously honest and fair in his dealings with men. 'He locked his lips too close to speak a lie. He washed his hands too white to touch a bribe.'"

After thirty years of public service, during a period of great political corruption, Senator Morgan died a poor man, having no private means but his salary. The capitol at Montgomery was draped in mourning and the State flag was placed at half mast until after interment. His remains were brought from Washington by a congressional committee and his funeral at Selma was attended by vast throngs of devoted admirers and friends, including the governor of the State, the supreme court, the legislature, and state officials. He was a devout Methodist, and throughout his long life expressed his faith in revealed religion and the truth of the Bible. Married: in Talladega County, to Cornelia Willis. Children: 1. John, deceased; 2. Mary; 3. Cornelia I.; 4. George. Last residence: Selma.

MORGAN, L. B., Cumberland Presbyterian minister; living in 1913. Residence: Gurley.

MORGAN, SAMUEL J., business man. Residence: Blocton.

MORRIS, BENJAMIN, major, 4th battalion, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; major and later lieutenant colonel, 29th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

MORRIS, GEORGE LAFAYETTE, business man, was born August 7, 1849, at Spring Place, Murray County, Ga., and died March 29, 1897, at Birmingham; son of Judge Franklin Ballinger and Elizabeth Clarissa (Buchanan) Morris, the former who engaged in the mercantile business at Dalton, Ga., was mayor for a number of terms, and judge of the county court, and the latter who was a daughter of James and Esther (Sharp) Buchanan, who lived near Dandridge, Tenn. When five years of age, George L. Morris moved with his father to Dalton, Ga. There he attended the public schools, and later took a course at Bryant and Stratton's business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. In 1870 he came to Alabama, where he assisted in the construction of the North and South railroad, now the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and afterwards was one of the builders of the Birmingham mineral railroad, and of the line from Woodstock to Blocton. He entered into the service of the Red Mountain iron and coal company, and then engaged in the lumber business. In 1882 he moved to Birmingham.

ham. He organized the Morris mining company, of which he was president since 1884, and opened up extensive ore mines at Redding. He was one of the receivers of the Lady Ensley coal, iron and railway company, when it was in the hands of the court; was at one time joint owner in the Blount Springs property; was interested in the furnace at Gadsden; owned a half interest in the Read House at Chattanooga; was vice president of the Empire mining company, and the Birmingham gas company. At the time of his death Mr. Morris was a director in the First National bank, also an extensive stockholder; president of the Morris real estate company; director of the Standard coal company, the East Lake company, the Birmingham railway and electric company, and the Avondale land company. He was a Democrat; a member of the Methodist church and served as steward. Married: July 15, 1885, at Dalton, Ga., to Elizabeth, daughter of Col. Leander Newton and Zenobia J. (Barclay) Trammell, who lived at Dalton, Ga., the former who was prominent in the political life of Georgia where he held various offices from member of the legislature to president of the senate, was offered and declined the nomination for governor, and served for twenty consecutive years on the Georgia Railroad commission of which he was president for many years prior to, and at the time of his death in June, 1900; great-granddaughter on the paternal side of a soldier of the Revolution, who participated in the siege at Savannah, the battle of King's Mountain, where he lost an arm, and the battle of Cowpens, and of Ebenezer Fain, a soldier in the Revolutionary War, serving in the campaigns in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. Children: 1. Helen Zenobia, d. in 1904; 2. Mary Elizabeth, m. Jekks H. Cabaniss, Birmingham; 3. George LaFayette. Last residence: Birmingham.

MORRIS, ISAAC, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Perry County; sergeant Virginia Militia; enrolled on October 3, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40; sums received to date of publication of list, $120.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MORRIS, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Jackson County; private S. C. State Troops; enrolled on August 12, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $60.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Jackson County, June 1, 1840, aged 76.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MORRIS, JOSEPH TERRY, Methodist minister, was born October 22, 1844, near Greensboro, Hale County; son of William Green and Sarah (Evans) Morris, the former who lived near Greensboro, later moving to McCalla, Jefferson County, where he died; grandson of Thomas Morris, who lived near Marion, Perry County, and of Joseph Evans, who lived near Marion, Perry County. He received his education in the country schools and at the Miles Yerby school near Greensboro. He studied for the ministry at his home under many difficulties. On August 8, 1874, Dr. Morris was licensed for the ministry; was ordained deacon by Bishop J. C. Keener, November 11, 1877; and November 30, 1879, he was ordained elder by Bishop Robert Paine. He was pastor of churches at Anniston, Woodlawn, Athens, Sylacauga, Pratt City, Tuscumbia, and Jasper, and presiding elder of Talladega District for seven years, Jasper District for four years, and Guntersville District for four years. In 1862 he entered the C. S. Army, enlisting in the Greensboro Guards, Co. C, Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment of infantry, and served in the Tennessee Army under Gen. Bragg, Gen. Johnston, Gen. Hood, and was stationed at Atlanta, Ga., when Lee surrendered. He was presiding elder of the North Alabama annual conference for fourteen years, was delegate to the general conference of north Alabama in 1902, and in the same year received the degree of D. D., which was conferred on him by the faculty of Owen-ton college. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: near Greensboro, December 12, 1866, to Martha Angeline, daughter of James Madison and Martha Ann (Bird) Williams who lived near Greensboro. Children: 1. James LaFayette, merchant, m. Lucy Worthington, reside at Jasper; 2. William Edward (q. v.); 3. Joseph Evans, minister at Birmingham, m. Rozelle Bowman; 4. Thomas Milton, deceased; 5. Robert Gurley, m. Frances Irvine, reside at Ensley; 6. George Pierce, m. Lola Nations, reside Ensley; 7. Harry Rembert, M. D., resides at Siluria; 8. Annie Lillian, m. Alfred Allego Herndon, planter, reside at Montevallo; 9. Mattie Aurora, m. Herbert Ross Sims, reside at Birmingham; 10. Frances Mil-dred, Jasper. Residence: Jasper.

MORRIS, LEWIS COLEMAN, physician, was born January 23, 1872, at Clazemont, Hanover County, Va.; son of Edward Watts and Matilda Elizabeth (Coleman) Morris, the former who was a native of Taylor's Creek, Hanover County, Va., and who resided there all his life, being a prominent lawyer of his state and a member of the constitutional convention of Virginia, 1850-51; grandson of Robert Burbage Coleman of Caroline County, Va., and of Richard and Mary (Watts) Morris. His early education was received at McGuire's school, Richmond, Va. He later attended Randolph college in 1887, 1888, 1889, and the University of Virginia during 1891 and 1892, graduating with the degree of M. D. In 1892 he commenced the practice of his profession at Salisbury, N. C.; was assistant professor in the University of Virginia in 1892, and in 1893 removed to Birmingham. Dr. Morris is secretary of the State medical association, and a member of the Jefferson County board of health. From May 1, to October 1, 1898, he was surgeon of the First Alabama regiment, and has been surgeon of the Alabama National Guard, since 1894. He was also at one time professor of gynecology and abdominal surgery in the Birmingham medical college. He is a Democrat; a member of the Episcopal church of Birmingham; and is an Elk. Married: in 1899 to Susie Josephine Martin, who died 1899, a daughter of Col. Alburto Martin (q. v.), of Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

MORRIS, THOMAS ALEXANDER, Episcopal clergyman, was born April 10, 1821, in Springfield, Clark County, O., and died May 21, 1909, at Skyland, N. C.; son of Benjamin and Margaret (Wilhollin) Morris, the former who was a resident of Springfield, O.; grandson of Benjamin and Margaret Morris. His early education was obtained at schools in Springfield and Granville, O., studying for the ministry. May 20, 1849, he was made deacon by the Rt. Rev. Nicholas H. Cobbs, D. D. Before the War of Secession, he was general missionary in the diocese of Alabama, 1849-1859. November 24, 1852, he was ordained priest by Rev. Cobbs. He was rector of the Trinity church at Winchester, Tenn., and active in the organization of the University of the South, of which he was the first treasurer. During the war, he was forced to take his family to a northern state when the Federal army advanced into Tennessee, but when the war closed he returned to his former home, to aid in the reorganization of the educational work there. His health failed him and he went to the mountains of North Carolina, where he served as rector of the Calvary church, at Fletcher, 1870-1872. He was a Mason. Married: January 31, 1858, to Emma, daughter of Jack and Sarah Forney, who lived at Jacksonville. Children: 1. Sally, d. May 23, 1894; 2. Ida Bernice, m. Francis J. Jewey; 3. Thomas Avery Benjamin; 4. Annie Amelia, m. Charles C. Pinckney; 5. Emma Forney; 6. Francis Blake, d. October 28, 1876. Last residence: Skyland, N. C.

MORRIS, WILLIAM EDWARD, Methodist minister, was born at Greensboro, Hale County; son of Joseph Terry and Martha Angeline (Williams) Morris (q. v.). He received a good early education, attended Oxford college, at Oxford, and Southern university at Greensboro, where he was graduated with a B. S. degree in June, 1893. In 1893-1894, he was a student at a medical college in Mobile, and in 1894-1895, attended the Birmingham medical college. He became minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; was licensed to preach by Birmingham district conference, May 10, 1895; in November, 1895, was admitted on trial to the North Alabama conference at Gadsden; was ordained deacon by Bishop C. B. Galloway at Florence, December 5, 1897; and was ordained elder by Bishop W. A. Candler, November 26, 1899 at Birmingham. He was assistant secretary of the North Alabama conference, from 1895-1908, and is now secretary of the conference. From 1904-1908 he was a member of the conference board of missions, and was presiding elder of Huntersville District from 1908-1912, inclusive. He is a Mason. Married: May 18, 1898, at Greensboro, to Fannie Irene, daughter of Christopher Clay and Harriett Hutchinson (Camak) Sheldon who resided at Havana, the former who was a member of the Greensboro Guards, enlisting in April, 1861, under Capt. Allen C. Jones, was wounded May 31, 1862 at the Battle of Seven Pines, and was then transferred to the Jeff Davis legion of cavalry, where he served until the end of the war. Residence: Decatur.

MORRIS, WILLIAM ELI, physician, was born December 10, 1868, at Burnt Corn, Monroe County; son of William and Clara Ophelia (Witherington) Morris, the former a native of Burnt Corn, who lived there until he entered the C. S. Army in 1862; grandson of Enoch Lake and Elizabeth Morris, of Burnt Corn, the former a native of Georgia, and of Daniel and Melissa Witherington, who lived at Evergreen, Conecuh County, the former a native of South Carolina, who served in the War of 1812 under Gen. Jackson and participated in the battle of New Orleans. He received his early schooling under the instruction of Col. H. M. King, at Evergreen; was graduated from the Marion military institute, 1892; and from the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, M. D., 1897. He began the practice of medicine July, 1897, at Georgiana, and has continued his practice at that place. He is a steward in the Methodist Episcopal church, South; is a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: April 14, 1904, at Georgiana, to Lula Lee, daughter of John A. and Elizabeth Jane Bryan, who lived at that place, the former a native of Raleigh, N. C., the latter of Alabama. Children: 1. Willie Brown; 2. Mary Elizabeth. Residence: Georgiana.

MORRIS, WILLIAM WARREN, planter, was born December 3, 1851, in Stewart County, Ga.; son of John A. and Georgia P. (Hudspeth) Morris, the former who was a native of South Carolina, and later removed to Georgia, was a farmer and a merchant, and served in the C. S. Army; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Bulger) Morris, the former who lived and died in Barbour County. The Hudspeth family came from Georgia and settled in Hale and Dale Counties. Mr. Morris received his education in the schools of Clopton, Dale County; was a farmer and a merchant; was a notary public and ex-officio justice of peace in Barbour County, 1872-74; probate judge of Dale County, 1892-98; and was a representative in the legislature during the session of 1915 from Dale County. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; and a Woodman of the World. Married: February 9, 1872, in Henry County to Nettie, daughter of John and Mary (Reynolds) Hogan. Children: 1. DeVotie; 2. Gordon; 3. Webb, m. a Miss Price; 4. Mittie, m. Charles S. Daniels; 5. Wirt, m. a Miss Ryals; 6. Holt, m. Exie Walden; 7. George, m. a Miss Terry; 8. Henry; 9. Pitt Calloway; 10. Marryn; 11. Noble, deceased. Residence: Dadeville.

MORRISETT, EDMUND PENDLETON, lawyer, was born January 31, 1837, near Bell's landing, Monroe County; son of John and Frances (Gaines) Morrisett (q. v.). He received his education in the country schools in the neighborhood, until he was fourteen years old, when he entered the Union academy, Wilcox County, where he remained until 1853. In October, 1853, he entered the University of Alabama, was graduated A. B. in 1856, at the age of nineteen, and in 1881 received the degree of A. M. He studied law in Chancellor Wade Keyes' law school at Montgomery in 1859, and in the same year was admitted to practice by the supreme court. In 1862, he joined the C. S. Army as private in the cavalry company commanded by Capt. Robert W. Smith of Mobile, and which was afterward united with the Third Alabama Cavalry regiment. He surrendered with Col. Joseph E. Johnston, at Greensboro, N. C., and returned to his old home in Monroe County, soon after removing to Montgomery, where he engaged in the practice of law, April, 1866. The following year he became a member of the law firm of Elmore and Keyes, afterwards of the firm of Morrisett and Steedman, and later of Arrington and Morrisett. He devoted himself almost entirely to his profession and farming interests, taking but little part in politics, except in 1874, when he entered actively into the canvass that resulted in the election of Gov. Houston, the restoration of the Democratic party to power, and the final overthrow of the carpet-bag rule in the state. In 1884, he was candidate for the office of attorney general of the state, but was defeated by Hon. Thomas N. McClellan. He was a member of the board of visitors of the U. S. Naval academy, June, 1895. He is a Democrat; a member of the First Presbyterian church of Montgomery, and has served as ruling elder since June, 1873. Married: March 26, 1872, at Montgomery, to Katie Dean Hutcheson, who died July 6, 1905, daughter of John Dean and Sallie (Bibb) Hutcheson, the former who was a merchant at Montgomery, and a native of South Carolina, the latter who was the daughter of Benajah Smith and Sophie (Gilmer) Bibb (q. v.), who resided at Montgomery; great-granddaughter of the husband of Sarah Wyatt, a descendant of Sir Thomas Wyatt, of English fame and of Sir Francis Wyatt, a colonial governor of Virginia; and a descendant of William Bibb of Prince Edward County, Va., who was a member of the house of burgesses in 1774 and 1775, a member of the Virginia convention of December, 1775, a member of the convention of 1776, a member of the committee of safety in 1776, captain of cavalry in the Revolutionary War, and a member of the house of delegates, and whose ancestors were of French Huguenot descent who emigrated to Wales in consequence of the political and religious persecutions which preceded the revocation of the edict of Nantes, and removed to America about 1685, locating in Hanover County, Va. Children: 1. Sallie Bibb, m. Crossland C. Hare in 1898, Lower Peach Tree; 2. Frances Gaines, m. James A. McKannon, in 1911, Juneau, Alaska; 3. Edmund Pendleton, Jr., m. Josephine Keith, in 1913, Dallas, Tex. Residence: Lower Peach Tree.

MORRISSETT, JOHN, planter, was born October 16, 1793, at Rodgersville, Hawkins County, Tenn., and died May 6, 1851, near Houston, Tex.; son of Enoch Morrisett, a Virginian of French Huguenot extraction, who settled in east Tennessee and whose father's farm, near Williamsburg, Va., was ravaged by Tarleton in the Revolutionary War. He received only a limited education, and enlisted in the War of 1812, serving throughout. Soon after its close, removed to St. Stephens, then the seat of the territorial government of Alabama, and engaged in the merchandising business with James Lyons as partner. He then moved to Monroe County, where he became a planter, studied law, and in 1828, was admitted to the bar. He was elected to the legislature in 1829, and was five times re-elected, serving in the legislature over twenty years with occasional intervals of retirement. In 1844, he introduced a bill to regulate the sampling of cotton in Mobile, which was afterwards adopted, and has long been on the statute books of Alabama. In 1845, he was elected to the senate, and was re-elected in 1847 and 1849. He is author of "Letter of John Morrisett to A. P. Bagby, Esq.," dated October 8, 1836, one of the principal objects of this letter being to show the versatility of Gov. Bagby in politics. Mr. Morrisett was a Whig. Married: in 1822, to Frances Gaines, a Virginian, who died in Monroe County in 1860, daughter of James S. and Judith (Early) Gaines, who resided at Culpeper Court House, Va.; granddaughter of James and Elizabeth (Strother) Gaines; great-granddaughter of Henry and Isabelle (Pendleton) Gaines; and a relative of Gen. E. P. Gaines. Children: 1. John, planter, d. 1870; 2. James D., d. at the close of the War of Secession; 3. Edmund P. (q. v.); 4. George Gaines, d. in early manhood, m. Cornelia Robison; 5. Francis Strother, planter, b. September 28, 1841, was graduated A. B., from the College of South Carolina, in 1859, m. (1) December 29, 1862, in Monroe County, to Annie King who died in 1880, (2) in November, 1881, to Vista Welch of Talladega, seven children, three by first marriage, and three daughters living, one dying in infancy, by second. Last residence: Monroe County.

MORRISON, ROBERT, planter, was born in "Rocky River Congregation," Cabarrus County, N. C., and died between 1850 and 1860, at Toccopola, Lafayette County, Miss.; son of James and Mary Morrison, the former born, in 1726, on the Island of Lewis, one of the Hebrides, which he, in company with his brothers, John and Robert, left about four years after the battle of Culloden, April 16, 1746. The brothers spent a brief while in Pennsylvania, then, with others of Scotch-Irish lineage, migrated southward, and settled in the region since well known as "Rocky River Congregation." James died in North Carolina in 1804, aged seventy-eight years. Mr. Morrison attended Davidson college, N. C. His occupation was that of planter. In 1816, he moved to Alabama. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: Mary Wiley. Children: 1. James; 2. John; 3. Harvey; 4. William; 5. Wiley; 6. Cynthia; 7. Mary; 8. Elizabeth. Last residence: Toccopola, Miss.

MORRISSETTE, EDWARD ROBISON, farmer, was born July 8, 1859, near Bells Landing, Monroe County; son of George Gaines and Cornelia (Robison) Morrisette, who lived near Bells Landing; grandson of John Morrisett (q. v.). He attended the common schools of Monroe County, the high school at Lower Peach Tree, Wilcox County, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1877, and A. M., 1878. He began farming in 1879 in Wilcox County, and moved, in 1887, to Monroe County, where he continued farming. He represented Wilcox County in the State legislature, 1880, 1882; served as captain of the Monroe County corps, Alabama national guard, 1891-1892; was appointed U. S. marshal by President Cleveland, serving from July 1, 1893, until October 1, 1897; and was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901, from the first congressional district. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: June 19, 1883, at Perdue Hill, Monroe County, to Ida Marshall. Residence: Monroeville.

MORROW, DAVID, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Lawrence County; private of cavalry S. C. Militia; enrolled on December 18, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $85; sums received to date of publication of list, $215.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MORROW, GEORGE M., sr., physician; grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1890-91. Residence: Birmingham.

MORROW, HARVEY MORGAN, teacher, was born October 29, 1881, at Mt. Pleasant neighborhood, Dallas County; son of Ed and Mary Caroline (Taggart) Morrow, the former a native of Mt. Pleasant neighborhood, who lived at that place, and served as captain of Co. A, Twentieth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Joseph and Sarah Morrow, of Mt. Pleasant neighborhood, and of John and Nancy Taggart, who lived at Valley Creek neighborhood, Dallas County. His father's grandparents all came from Ireland and settled first in North Carolina, later moving to Alabama, and took an active part in the partisan warfare in North Carolina. His mother's paternal grandparents were from Ireland, and her maternal grandparents from Scotland, and all of them came to Alabama about 1819 from North Carolina. He attended the rural schools of Dallas County; the State normal school at Troy, 1900-1904, receiving a diploma; the Teachers college, Columbia university, summer sessions of 1905 and 1906, and the regular session, 1909-1910. He taught at Letohatchee, 1904-1905; at the State normal school at Troy, 1905-1906; served as principal at Banks, 1906-1909; and became superintendent of the public schools of Thomasville, in 1912. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: September 4, 1907, at Marion Junction, to Ada Pauline Chisolm, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Chisolm, of Marion Junction; granddaughter of Patrick and Katie (Craig) Chisolm, of Irish descent, and of William and Chloe (McCraw) McCullough, of Scotch Irish descent, the former from South Carolina. Children: 1. Mary Eugenia. Residence: Thomasville.

MORROW, HUGH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Jefferson County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on March 15, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from September 4, 1833; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $60.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile; Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MORROW, HUGH, lawyer, was born May 19, 1873, at Birmingham; son of Judge John Calhoun and Mary Antoinette (Walker) Morrow, both deceased, the former who was a captain in the C. S. Army, member of the general assembly of Alabama, probate judge of Jefferson County for three terms, and died September 4, 1887; grandson of Hugh and Margaret (Holmes) Morrow, of Trussville, Jefferson County, and of William A. and Corilla (Porter) Walker, sr., of Elyton. The Morrows, from South Carolina, and the Walkers, from North Carolina, were among the earliest settlers in Jefferson County. Mr. Morrow was educated in the public schools of Birmingham, and at the University of Alabama, where he was graduated, A. B., in 1893, LL. B., in 1894, and in 1895 received the honorary degree of A. M. In 1893-94 he was assistant instructor of English; in 1894 entered upon the practice of law at Birmingham; from 1896 to 1898 was assistant solicitor of Jefferson County; from 1900 to 1904 and again from 1911-1915, was a member of the State senate from the thirteenth senatorial district, which embraces Jefferson County; and he later became a member of the firm of Tillman, Bradley and Morrow. He is a Democrat, in 1899 was nominated by his party as a delegate to the proposed constitutional convention of that year; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; a Knight Templar; a Mason; and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: June 9, 1897, to Margaret Julia, daughter of Joseph Riley and Kate Julia (Molton) Smith, jr., of Birmingham, the Smiths being early settlers of Jefferson County, while the Moltons were from Montgomery. Children: 1. Katherine Molton; 2. Mamie Corilla; 3. Margaret Harvie; 4. Annie Louise; 5. Hugh, jr.; 6. Libbie Elizabeth. Residence: Birmingham.

MORROW, R. B., Presbyterian minister, member of the East Alabama Presbytery. Residence: West Point, Ga.

MORROW, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 88, and a resident of Fayette County; private S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on November 5, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $45.77; sums received to date of publication of list, $137.31.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GEORGE H. PARKER

MORROW, THOMAS, Presbyterian minister, was born in July, 1805, at Greenville, S. C., of Scotch-Irish parents, and died March 12, 1885, at Hartselle. When Dr. Morrow was twelve years of age he moved, with his parents, to Alabama, first to Madison and then to Morgan County. In 1823 he united with the Presbyterian church at Somerville, and in 1828 became a candidate for the ministry under the care of the Presbytery of North Alabama. He graduated with an A. B. degree from Centre college, Danville, Ky., in 1828, and studied theology at Princeton and Union seminaries of Virginia. He then taught for two years, followed the trade of printer, and was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of West Hanover in 1833. He was sent as a missionary to the Creek Indians in north Alabama, in whose bounds he organized several churches. On April 2, 1837, he was ordained as an evangelist by the Presbytery of Tombeckbee, and then became, by a change of boundary lines, a member of the Presbytery of Tuscaloosa, serving in the churches of Pickensville, and Oak Grove, and devoting part of his time to teaching. He then moved to Mississippi where he became a member of the Presbytery of Newton; became connected with the Presbytery of North Alabama; and by another change of boundary line, a member of the Alabama synod. Rev. Morrow was superintendent of public schools in Morgan County for some time, and aided largely in the establishment of a collegiate institute at Hartselle. He was author of a "Blow at the Root of Scientific Infidelity." Last residence: Hartselle.

MORROW, WILLIAM C., Baptist minister, was born June 6, 1815, in Pulaski County, Tenn., and died October 16, 1879, in Evergreen. He removed to Alabama at an early age, and when quite young was received into the Presbyterian church and fitted for the ministry under its auspices. About 1841, he severed his connection with this church, joined the Baptist, and began his services as minister in this denomination at Turnbull, Monroe County. For the last ten years of his life, on account of ill health, he was unable to hold a charge. Author: of various sermons. Last residence: Evergreen.

MORSE, JOSHUA, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Choctaw County; attorney general of Alabama, 1868. Deceased.

MORTON, HATTIE, educator, was born May 22, 1867, at Marion, Perry County; daughter of Tignel Jones and Harriet (Jones) Morton, the former who was a native of Mecklenburg County, Va., lived at Petersburg, Va., was a student at the Virginia military institute when the War of Secession broke out, and left school as lieutenant with his commandant "Stonewall" Jackson, to join the C. S. Army, later becoming lieutenant colonel; granddaughter of Thomas Anderson and Harriet (Jones) Morton, who lived near Boydton, Mecklenburg County, Va., and of Tignel and Martha (Dunn) Jones of Farmville, Va.; and a descendant of English ancestors that came to Virginia in the colonial days, one branch of which is descended from the Huguenots, Micheaux and Rochette, among them John Dabney Davis, of Henrico County, Va., a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and soldiers in the War of 1812. Her education was received at the Marion female institute graduating from there with the degree of A. M. She specialized in piano, music and harmony at the Cincinnati conservatory of music, at the Virgil piano school in New York, and with William Sherwood of Chicago. From 1887-1895, she taught school in Waco, Tex., and later at Ward's seminary, Nashville, Tenn. In September, 1897, in partnership with Miss Loulie Compton, she founded the Birmingham seminary, becoming associate principal and director of the music department. After the death of Miss Compton she became sole principal and has changed the name to the Loulie Compton seminary. She is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Residence: Birmingham.

MORTON, J. F., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Marion County.

MOSELEY, ELLA (LOWERY), author, was born May 26, 1866, near Montevallo, Shelby County; daughter of Colvin Alexander and Eliza Miriam (Hudson) Lowery, the former who was a native of South Carolina, lived near Montevallo, afterwards at West Point, Ga., and later in Montgomery where he died; granddaughter of John and Mary (Cameron) Lowery, who lived in South Carolina and afterwards near Montevallo, and of Thomas and Sophia (Terry) Hudson, who lived near Tuskegee. The Hudsons and Terrys are of English ancestry, and the Lowerys and Camerons are also English, but of Scotch origin. Her early education was received at a private school and later at the public school of West Point, Ga. She also attended the Montgomery public school for one year. In 1883, she graduated from the Florence State normal college, receiving a teacher's certificate, and taught at the Sayre street school in Montgomery from 1883-1892. She wrote and had published many poems, among them "The Goldenrod," which was published in "The New York Home Journal," a literary weekly, others appeared in the "New Orleans Times-Democrat." From 1895-1899, she was editor of the woman's department of "The Birmingham Times," a paper established by her husband, Dr. Moseley. While editor of this department she attended a meeting of the press association that met at Tuscaloosa, was elected association poet, and at a reception given by Prof. J. K. Powers, president of the University of Alabama was given an ovation. Her newspaper work ended with the appointment of her husband as consul-general to Singapore, where his death occurred, and she returned to this country. She began her literary activities again in 1907, and her first story, "The Amok of Wangsa," appeared in "Short Stories." She attended the Harvard summer school in 1908, receiving instruction from Henry Milner Rideout, author of "The Siamese Cat," and "Dragon's Blood." She then went to Cambridge, where her book, "The Wonder Lady," was finished, and was published in 1911. She is now writing another book. Besides her literary interests she studied voice under Madame Emily Navarra, a pupil of Marchise, who lived for several years in Birmingham, under Prof. Otto T. Simon of Washington, and under William A. Sargent, of the Boston conservatory. She was elected to represent the woman's club at the State convention at one time, but resigned to continue her writing. She is a Baptist. Married: March 2, 1892, to Dr. Robert A. Moseley, jr. (q. v.). Residence: Cambridge, Mass.

MOSELEY, LOUIS MARION, lawyer, was born June 3, 1875, at Union Springs; son of Francis Marion and Nellie (Pledger) Moseley. He was educated in the schools of Union Springs and received the A. B., 1896, and LL.B., 1897, degrees, from the University of Alabama. Since that time he has been engaged in the practice of law. He is a Mason. Married: June 25, 1902, to Rochelle Ramsey, of Union Springs. There were a son and a daughter born of this union. Residence: Union Springs.

MOSELEY, ROBERT ALEXANDER, jr., physician and editor, was born July 13, 1841, at Montevallo, in Shelby County, and died November 14, 1900, at Yohama, Japan; son of Robert Alexander and Mariah B. (Stevens) Moseley, the former of English, Scotch and Irish ancestry, the family coming from England to Virginia, and thence to Alabama, who was a physician practicing in Columbia and Talladega, and whose birth occurred in a house which occupied the very site where the State capitol now stands; grandson of Robert Alexander Moseley, one of Montgomery's first settlers, and of Judge Henry W. Stevens, who lived at Old Kingston, but was formerly from New England. His primary education was received in his native county and by reading medicine with his father. He then attended Howard college, the Mobile medical college and the Jefferson medical college, where he graduated with the degree of M. D. In June, 1861, he joined the C. S. Army, first with Curry's rifles, and afterwards with Blythe's battalion, being only twenty years of age. After the battle of Belmont he returned home, and with his brother raised Company E, Forty-first Alabama regiment. He was first surgeon of this company, later resigning this position to take the commission of lieutenant. He was with his command at the battle of Murfreesboro, where he received a serious head wound which ended his service in the war. He returned home and entered the drug business, which he followed until 1868, when he was elected mayor of Talladega. In the same year he also established "Our Mountain Home," a weekly newspaper, which in company with his brother he published for ten successive years. The paper is still published at Talladega. In 1872, he established "The Rising Star," at Oxford, and about the same time, the Rome, Ga., "Daily." Some-time later he established "The Birmingham Times," and started the "National Weekly" and the "Tri-Weekly Republican," at Selma. He was appointed postmaster, in 1873, and held that office until August, 1875. He had always been a member of the Democratic party until 1872, when he became a supporter of Grant; he was a delegate to the National Republican conventions of 1876, 1880, and 1884; and was the Washington correspondent of the Chattanooga "Commercial," in 1886-1887. He then engaged in the real estate and insurance business. In 1889, he was collector of internal revenue for Alabama; in 1893, was U. S. commissioner; and in 1899 was sent as consul-general to Singapore, where his health failed and his death occurred at Yohama, Japan, where he went seeking recovery. For eight years before his appointment to Singapore, he was chairman of the executive committee of the Republican party, 1888-1896. Dr. Moseley was greatly interested in prohibition, and was a personal friend of Frances E. Willard. He brought about prohibition in Talladega County, many years before the late prohibition movement in Alabama. He used his influence with Thomas B. Reed, who at the time was speaker of the house, to secure appropriations of public lands for the Girl's industrial school at Montevallo, for the University of Alabama, and for the negro institute at Tuskegee. He was a Mason; Knight of Pythias; and Past Grand Master of Odd Fellows. Married: (1) in 1862, at Columbiana, to Josie Ware, daughter of Horace Ware and a Miss Leeper; (2) in 1892, at Montgomery, to Ella Lowery, (q. v.). He had only one child, a girl, by his first marriage, who died in her childhood. Last residence: Yokohama, Japan.

MOSELY, A. G., Missionary Baptist minister; living in 1913. Residence: Wetumpka.

MOSELY, W. R. S., Methodist minister; pastor of Court Street church, Montgomery, 1838.

MOSES, ADOLPH, Jewish rabbi, was born May 3, 1840, at Kletchevo, Posen, Russia, and died January 7, 1902, in Louisville, Ky.; son of Israel and Eru (Graditz) Moses, the former who was a rabbi in several Jewish congregations in German Poland, and who was descended from a long line of rabbis and Jewish scholars in Poland. He received his education at the University of Breslau, Germany, where he graduated, M. A., and at the Jewish seminary of Breslau, where he graduated as rabbi. In 1859, he served under Garibaldi, as one of the famous "One Thousand" who freed Genoa and in 1869, served in the last Polish Revolution. He came to America, and in 1892, received the degree of M. D. at the University school of medicine, Louisville, Ky. He served as rabbi at Kahl Temple, Montgomery, from 1871-1873; at Sharral Shonayim Temple, Mobile, 1875-1883; and at Addath Israel Temple, Louisville, Ky., from 1883-1902. He was the author of "Luser the Watchmaker, a Story of the Polish Revolution," and "The Religion of Moses." Married: to Emma Isaacs. Children: 1. Dr. Alfred G. (q. v.); 2. J. Garfield, one of the honor men of Columbia University and a lawyer in New York City; 3. Elsie, assistant professor in the Louisville girl's high school; 4. Beatrice, member of the staff of the "Courier Journal" of Louisville, Ky.; 5. Mrs. L. Neumeyer of Mt. Sterling, Ky.; 6. Fred B. of Louisville, Ky.; 7. Octavia of Louisville Ky. Last residence: Louisville, Ky.

MOSES, ALFRED GEIGER, Jewish rabbi, was born September 23, 1878, at Livingston, Sumter County; son of Adolph and Emma (Isaacs) Moses (q. v.). His early education was received in the public schools of Louisville, Ky., where he attended high school and a preparatory school. He attended the University of Cincinnati from 1896 to 1900, and was graduated with the degree of B. A. In 1901 he graduated with the degree of Rabbi in Israel, from the Hebrew union college at Cincinnati. He then came to Mobile where he took charge of the congregation of Sharral Shonayim Temple, July 1, 1901. He was one of the originators of the Boys club of Mobile, and of the juvenile court system. He was active secretary of the Iberville historical society; a participant in the bi-centenary exercises of Mobile in 1911; acted as chaplain of the Sons of Veterans, Alabama Division and Army of Tennessee Division; received the degree of LL. D., June, 1912, from the University of Alabama; was connected with the Smithsonian institution, and the Carnegie institute of research; a member of the American pathological society; honorary member of the National prison association; member of the National civic federation, Society for international peace and arbitration, of the National education association, and Association of department of superintendents of education of the United States. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa; Mobile Yacht Club; Elks; Knights of Pythias; and Odd Fellows. He is also a lecturer of some note. Author: "History of the Jews of Mobile," "History of the Jews of Montgomery," and "Miscellaneous Addresses." He is not married. Residence: Mobile.

MOSES, MORDECAI LYON, dealer in real estate and insurance, agent of the Confederate States of America, was born August 30, 1842, at Charleston, S. C., son of Levy I. and Adeline L. (Moses) Moses, the former a native of Columbia, S. C., who lived at Charleston; grandson of Isaiah and Rebecca (Phillips) Moses, of Charleston, S. C., the latter who was born in Newport, R. I., where her English parents located on their arrival in the United States, and of Joseph and Rachel (Lyon) Moses, of Charleston, who came from Germany with Isaiah Moses in the eighteenth century. Mr. Moses was graduated from high school in Charleston, S. C., in 1859, and read law in the office of his brother, Joseph Winthrop Moses, in Charleston. In May, 1861, he moved to Montgomery and clerked in the hardware store of Wyman, Moses and company until the organization of the Forty-sixth Alabama regiment, which he entered as a private in Capt. James W. Powell's company. Later, he was commissioned by the Confederate government for special work in Canada and the West Indies, and was so engaged in Canada at the close of the war. He returned to Montgomery in 1865, and entered the real estate and insurance business as a member of the firm of Roberts, Moses and company. On the retirement of Mr. Roberts, the firm name was changed to Moses Brothers, and later the firm engaged in the banking business. He was for several years president of the Montgomery gas and electric light company; president of the State fair association with which he was officially connected for fifteen years; president of the North Alabama land and immigration company; president of the Walker county coal and mineral land company; served as president and director of several large land and development companies and of railroad and furnace companies. His firm built several additions to Montgomery, and with E. S. and W. S. Gordon purchased the land and organized the Sheffield land company laying off the city of Sheffield. In 1892, he moved to St. Louis, Mo., where he engaged in the real estate and insurance business. From 1871-1875, he served as alderman of the city of Montgomery; was elected to the office of mayor of Montgomery, being the first Democrat so elected after the beginning of the Reconstruction period. At the time of his election, the finances of the city were very disordered and depressed, taxation high, indebtedness large, securities low, but the close of Mayor Moses' third administration and of the terms of the aldermen who aided him, found all that remedied, and the treasury with funds for current needs. He is a Democrat and served several years as a member of the Montgomery County executive committee; is of the Jewish faith, and ex-president and a member of the Emanuel Lodge, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, Montgomery. He has never married. Residence: St. Louis, Mo.

MOSES, SIDNEY A., major, 8th, Livingston's, Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

MOSLEY, JAMES HENRY FRANKLIN, editor and published, was born September 15, 1857, near Trough Shoals, Spartanburg County, S. C.; son of William Baxter and Nancy (Newberry) Mosley, the former, born at Grinnel Shoals, Union County, S. C., was a member of the South Carolina volunteers, C. S. Army, and was killed in the battle of Gettysburg, July, 1863; grandson of James and Lidia (Crocker) Mosley, of Union County, S. C., the former who emigrated to the northern part of South Carolina just before the Revolutionary War, and who fought at the battle of Cowpens, S. C., on the side of the colonists, and of Henry H. and Malinda (Harris) Newberry, the former who fought in the Mexican War; great-grandson of Vines Harris, a soldier of the Revolution, who participated in the battle of King's Mountain and other engagements. The Mosley family was first introduced into the United States by three brothers of that name who emigrated from England in 1637 and settled near Jamestown, Va. Mr. Mosley was educated in the country schools of Union County, S. C., and became a printer, commencing on the "Union Times," January, 1874. He went to Alabama and became editor and publisher of the "Oxana Tribune," 1884; of the "Alabama Sentinel," 1888-1889; and became editor of the "Labor Advocate," in February, 1895. He was a delegate to the national convention of the Peoples' Party, 1896; to the constitutional convention of 1901; helped organize the Birmingham trades council in 1888, and served as its president, 1899; helped organize the State federation of labor, 1900; and was a delegate to the national convention of the American federation of labor, at Scranton, 1901. He is a Methodist; a Master Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; a Red Man; a Woodman of the World; and a member of the Typographical Union. Married: (1) April 22, 1884, at Atlanta, Ga., to Jane T., daughter of Thomas Fell of Greenwood, S. C.; (2) February 18, 1903, to Theresa Canton, daughter of Winsel Prosch, of North Birmingham. Children, by first marriage: 1. Mary Masada; 2. Annie Lillian; 3. Franklin T.; 4. Janie Fell; 5. Willie Mae; 6. Ella Inez; by second marriage: 7. Eugene Debbs, b. August, 1904. Residence: Birmingham.

MOSS, E., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, resided in Cherokee County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

MOSS, PHILIP BALL, physician, state bacteriologist, was born September 27, 1883, at Ft. Smith, Sebastian County, Ark.; son of George West and Annie Latimer (Ball) Moss, the former who was born at Fairfax Court House, Fairfax County, Va., living in Virginia until about 1872, when he moved to Washington, D. C., and in 1882, came to Ft. Smith, Ark.; grandson of Alfred and Martha Ann Moss, of Fairfax Court House, Va., and of Philip A. and Emily (Latimer) Ball of Baltimore, Md.; great-great-grandson of John and Ann (Minor) Moss, the earliest known members of the Moss family in America; great-great-great-grandson of William and Martha (Bromfield) Ball, the first of the Ball family in America. His education was received in the public schools of Ft. Smith, Ark., and in 1902, he graduated from the high school, then entered Centre college of Centre university, Danville, Ky., and was graduated in 1905 with the degree of B. S., cum laude. In 1909, he received the degree of M. D. at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., and became interne at the Union protestant infirmary, at Baltimore from 1909-10. He was assistant state bacteriologist and pathologist from June 15, 1910, to December 1, 1910; was acting state bacteriologist and pathologist, from December 1, 1910, to July 1, 1911; and was state bacteriologist and pathologist from July 1, 1911, to June 15, 1916. He is a Democrat and a member of the Baptist church. Married: November 24, 1909, at Bancroft, Va., to Margaret Purnell, daughter of Maj. Fred R. A. G. and Lelia (Cowherd) Handy who lived at Washington, D. C. Among her ancestors are: Peter Montague, the emigrant, a direct descendant of William, the first Earl of Salisbury, who came from England in 1634, accompanied by his brother Richard, and settled at Hadley, Mass., then removed to Nansmond County, Va., and later to Lancaster County, Va., when it contained Richmond, Middlesex, and Essex Counties, and who was a member of the house of burgesses in 1651 to 1659; William Twyman, sergeant, who enlisted August, 1777, in the Revolutionary Army, and was a participant in the siege and surrender of Yorktown; Ambrose Powell Hill, who married Frances Garnett Twyman, the former who was captain and later colonel under Light Horse Harry Lee, and served to the close of the Revolution, and whose great grandfather, Thomas Hill, was captain of county militia, Middlesex County, Va., in 1687; Ambrose Powell Hill, born March 3, 1785, and died February 26, 1858, who was captain of the Culpeper minute men during the War of 1812, and a member of the state legislature and senate for twenty-two years; Francis Kirtley, who was commissioned captain in 1755; Burr Harrison, who was born December 18, 1637, in England, was a son of Cuthbert Harrison of the City of York, England, and came to Virginia about 1660, settling in Westmoreland County, and in 1690, was appointed by the house of burgesses, as ambassador to the Piscataway Indians, and also held other responsible offices; Thomas Harrison, born March 3, 1723, and died in 1774, who married Ann Weye Peyton, daughter of John Peyton of Stafford County, Va., was a member of the house of burgesses from Prince William County, Va., from 1748 to 1756, and from Fauquier County, Va., from 1759 to 1769, and was colonel at the time of his death; Cuthbert Harrison, a member of the committee of safety in 1774 and 1776, lieutenant of Virginia Dragoons, 1776, was chosen captain of the Prince William County minute men, May 2, 1776, was captain of cavalry in First regiment light dragoons, served under Gen. Washington until July, 1776, when his company was ordered to North Carolina, and served to the close of the war, was a son of Thomas Harrison; Christopher Holmes Freeman of Gloucester County, Va., who served in the Revolutionary War; and Capt. George Handy of Somerset County, Md., who was born October, 1727, died April 6, 1782, at "Handy Hall," Md., who married Nelly Gilliss of Maryland, was a lieutenant of Lee's Light Dragoons, Pulaski Legion, July 1, 1779, was promoted to captain in 1781 and served until the close of the Revolution, who loaned eight thousand dollars to the continental congress, and owned and loaned the government a number of vessels, four of which were seized by the British, and one, the "Leah Ann," was burned by them. Children: 1. Marjorie Purnell; 2. George West. Residence: Montgomery.

MOTLEY, CHARLES MOTLEY, Methodist minister, was born November 21, 1871, at Greenville, Butler County; son of William and Mary Emeline (Threadgill) Motley (q. v.), the former a native of Autauga County, who was a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, South; grandson of Benjamin and Elizabeth Motley, of Autauga County, and of William and Emeline (Aiston) Threadgill, who lived at Chunnuggee Ridge. He received his early schooling at Greenville and Evergreen, and was graduated from Southern university at Greensboro, M. A., 1893. He became a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. He is a Democrat; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Married: August 8, 1900, at Brewton, to Maggie Ruth, daughter of Philip Henry and Julia Eveline (Castleberry) Tippins, lived at that place. Children: 1. Mary Elizabeth; 2. Minnie Tippins. Residence: Atmore.

MOTLEY, WILLIAM M., Methodist minister, was born October 31, 1831, in Autauga County, and died March 28, 1896, in Montgomery. He attended the schools near Tuskegee until the age of fifteen when he entered the old Centenary institute at Summerfield, and graduated from Emory college, Ga., with first honors in 1852. He was licensed to preach by the quarterly conference of Tuskegee circuit, in March, 1854, and began his work as assistant preacher in the Tuskegee colored mission. He was admitted on trial in December, 1854, into the traveling connection of the Alabama Methodist conference at Talladega. He served Wesley Chapel, Mobile, Camden, Newberne, Oak Grove, Enterprise, Eufaula, Union Springs, Opelika, Troy, Selma, and Greensboro. Married: (1) Sarah Hall; (2) Caroline Hearne; (3) Mary Threadgill. Children: Among these, Charles M. (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

MOTON, ROBERT RUSSA, college president, was born August 26, 1867, in Amelia County, Va.; son of Booker and Emily (Brown) Moton, both of Charlotte, Amelia County, Va. Dr. Moton is a direct descendant of a West African prince who, while selling captives, was himself carried away and sold. He graduated from Hampton institute, Virginia, and received the honorary degree of LL.D., from Oberlin college, 1916, Virginia union university, 1916, Williams college, 1920, and the degree of Lit. D. from Lincoln university, Pennsylvania, 1920. From 1890-1915 he served as an officer at Hampton institute. On December 25, 1915, he was elected as president of Tuskegee institute to succeed Booker T. Washington. During the World War he negotiated a loan of five million dollars from the United States government for use in Liberia, went to France at the special request of President Wilson and Secretary Baker, to do morale work among the colored soldiers, and was also active in speaking in the interest of war savings stamps, liberty loan drives, and the conservation of food. He has been secretary of the Rural school fund board since 1908; organizer and first president, Negro organization of Virginia, since 1912; trustee of People's village school, Mt. Meigs, Industrial home school for colored girls, Peake, Va., and Negro reform school for boys, Hanover, Va.; vice-chairman, National league on urban conditions among negroes; chairman, executive committee, Anna T. Jeanes, foundation; president, National negro business league; member, International committee, Y. M. C. A.; negro representative, Permanent Roosevelt memorial national committee. He is a Baptist and an Independent Republican. Author: "Finding a way." Married: (1)

June 7, 1905, to Elizabeth Hunt Harris, of Williamsburg, Va.; (2) July 1, 1908 to Jennie Dee Booth, of Gloucester County, Va. Children: 1. Catherine; 2. Charlotte; 3. Robert; 4. Allen; 5. Jennie Dee. Residence: Tuskegee.

MOULDER, J. L., educator; principal of the Lowndes County high school. Residence: Ft. Deposit.

MOULTHROP, ROBERT, business man, was born April 29, 1865, in Quitman County, Ga.; son of Robert Bassett and Sarah Adeline (Daniel) Moulthrop, the former who was a native of North Haven, Conn., sailed as cabin boy around the Horn, came south in 1862 under the contract to manufacture brick with which to construct the bridge of the Central railroad of Georgia over the Chattahoochee River at Eufaula, was a cripple and therefore exempt from service in the army; grandson of Merritt and Mary Bassett Moulthrop, and of Chesley C. and Ann (Simmons) Daniel, the latter from Statesboro, Ga., and the former from North Haven, Conn. Mr. Moulthrop was educated in the common school at Eufaula and at Pio Nono college, Macon, Ga., 1878-1880; was a brick manufacturer from 1880-1902; served as alderman of Eufaula, July 1, 1894, to 1896, and July, 1898, to July, 1900; has been a member of the city board of education for many years; served as senator from the twenty-fourth district in the legislature of 1911; and for some months after this engaged in the insurance business in Birmingham. He is a Democrat; a member of the city executive committee of Eufaula; a member of the Protestant Episcopal church; a Mason; and a Knight Templar. Married: September 12, 1883, at Macon, Ga., to Rachel Catherine, daughter of Matthew and Martha E. (Steadham) Moss, of Edgefield, S. C., the former who was killed in Virginia while serving as private in the C. S. Army. Children: 1. Charles Wales; 2. William Hunter; 3. Matthew Moss. Residence: Eufaula.

MOULTON, C. F., mayor of Mobile, 1873-74.

MOUNIER, HENRY AUGUSTUS, chief of police, was born October 3, 1841, at Orbe, Switzerland; son of Paul and Jane Julia (Briton) Mounier, the former born at Orbe, Canton Vaud, Switzerland, in 1819, immigrated to America and from that time until his death about 1848, remaining in Demopolis, except on the occasion of going with his wife for visits in their native land; grandson of James and Susanne Mounier, who lived at Orbe until they immigrated, in 1843, to America, and of Louis and Marie (Reignier) Breton, who lived at Orbe. Mr. Mounier received his early training in the Demopolis schools until 1856, when he entered Spring Hill college, near Mobile, remaining there one year. In 1861 he enlisted in Co. A, 43rd Alabama infantry regiment, Gen. Archibald Gracie's brigade, serving as a private until the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, April 9, 1865, at Appomattox. From 1865 to date he has been chief of police of Demopolis. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of World, and was a member of the Ku Klux Klan. Married: October 25, 1877, at Demopolis, to Laura Irene, daughter of John and Ameline (Kohler) McClelland, who lived at Demopolis, the former being a native of Dublin, Ireland, and the latter of Mobile. Children: 1. John Edward, m. Emma George; 2. Clara Amelia, m. Thomas Simon; 3. Maude Omaha, m. Rouilhac Guin; 4. Annie Laurie, deceased; 5. Henry Augustus, jr., m. Donnie Ben Gilder; 6. Marlaud Juliette; 7. James Samuel Taylor; 8. Ruth Marguerite, all residing in Demopolis. Residence: Demopolis.

MOXLEY, WILLIAM M., major, 18th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

MUDD, WILLIAM SWEARINGEN, lawyer, legislator and circuit judge, was born December 2, 1816, near Louisville, Jefferson County, Ky., died September 2, 1884, in Birmingham, and is buried in the Elyton cemetery; son of James and Sarah (Swearingen) Mudd, of Kentucky; grandson of Abijah and Susan Swearingen, both of Kentucky. The founder of the Mudd family in America came from England with Lord Baltimore, three brothers coming over as colonists, one going later to Kentucky, one to Missouri, while the third remained in Maryland. Judge Mudd received a sound preparatory education in the schools of his native state, and later entered St. Joseph's college, Bardstown, Ky., a famous institution of the period conducted by Roman Catholics. He removed to Madison County with his parents, in 1817, and later to Lawrence County. In 1831 he located in Jefferson County, making his home at Elyton, where he read law under Walker K. Baylor. Being admitted to the bar in 1839, he practiced his profession in Jefferson and surrounding counties. He was elected to the Alabama legislature for the sessions of 1843 and 1848, inclusive. He was elected solicitor of the judicial circuit embracing his county with others and in 1856 was elected judge of the circuit, which office he held consecutively until 1883, when forced to retire because of failing health. Judge Mudd was a successful business man, being one of that sturdy group of pioneers who founded and developed the foundations of Birmingham. He operated the Oxmoor furnace in the early '70s and his success in that undertaking gave renewed confidence to the coal and iron interests which at that time were at low ebb. He was a charter member and director of the Elyton land company until his death. In association with Josiah Morris, the Montgomery banker, and T. L. Hudgins, of Birmingham, he founded the Citizens' bank, which afterwards consolidated with the First national bank. He built the first hotel in Birmingham, which was later replaced on the same site by the Florence hotel, which in turn gave place to a modern mercantile establishment. Prior to the War of Secession, Judge Mudd was a Whig, but afterwards became a Democrat. He opposed secession and was a union man until hostilities began, after which he devoted his influence and means to the Southern cause. His ancestry was Roman Catholic in faith, but a short time before his death he united with the Episcopal church. He was a Mason. Married: December 22, 1841, in Elyton, to Florence Jane, daughter of Dr. Samuel Sidney and Harriet Hampton (Wright) Earle of that place, natives of Pendleton District, S. C., who removed to Alabama in 1820, the former being a noted physician of the period and a descendant of John Earle, a Revolutionary soldier and progenitor of all the Earles in Alabama. The family was of English origin, migrating to Virginia in 1652, three brothers, Baylis, John and Elias, going later from Virginia to South Carolina, and their descendants settling in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. Children: 1. Harriet Louisa, m. Alberto Martin, Elyton; 2. Sarah Ellen, "Lalla," m. Dr. Harden P. Cochrane, Birmingham; 3. Florence Earle, m. Dr. Mortimer Harvie Jordan, Birmingham; 4. Virginia Taylor, m. William A. Walker, jr.; 5. William Lowndes, d. unmarried; 6. James Thomas, d. unmarried; 7. Mary Eva, deceased; 8. Samuel Earle, d. in infancy; 9. Joseph Paul, m. Eula Anglin, both deceased, Birmingham; 10. Susie Emmett, m. (1) Pette Basil Clarke, (2) John Rivers Clarke, Birmingham. The only survivors of this large family, 1920, are Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Carter. Last residence: Birmingham.

MULKEY, WILLIAM OSCAR, lawyer and congressman, was born July 27, 1871, at Brundidge, Pike County; son of William Greene and Elvira Tisdah (Shanks) Mulkey, the former of Macon, Ga., the latter of Clanton; grandson of Felix and Hettie Mulkey, formerly of Macon, Ga., later of Troy, and of William T. and Mary Shanks, of Clayton, Barbour County, the former a Baptist minister, member of the legislature before the War of Secession, and the son of a revolutionary soldier. Mr. Mulkey was educated in the common schools of Pike County; graduated A. B., 1892, from the State normal college, Troy. He is a lawyer. He was a member of the Constitutional convention of 1901, and represented Geneva County in the house, 1911. On June 29, 1914, he was elected to congress from the 3rd district, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hon. H. D. Clayton. He was formerly a Republican, and an elector on the McKinley ticket in 1896, but has been a Democrat many years; Methodist; Mason; and Knight of Pythias. Married: November 7, 1896, at Geneva, to Anna Roberta, daughter of Martin and Rachael Burgherd, of Quincy, Fla., the former, a mechanic, came to America from Germany before the War of Secession, serving in that capacity during the War. Children: 1. William Oscar, jr.; 2. James Asbury. Residence: Geneva.

MULLEN, H. F., physician, was born in 1838, in Tuscaloosa. He received a good classical education; in 1862 he began reading medicine; and graduated from the medical department of the University of Alabama, in March, 1868. He began the practice of his profession in Tuscaloosa, but soon removed to Selma. He was the first city physician of Selma, serving until 1862, when he was assigned as surgeon of the 20th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

BARRIE L. HOLT

In 1865 he was again elected city physician but resigned and retired in 1866. Residence: Selma.

MULLINS, STEPHEN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Blount County; dragoon Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on April 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $100; sums received to date of publication of list, $250.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23d Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

MUNGER, ROBERT SYLVESTER, manufacturer and capitalist, was born July 24, 1854, in Tutorsville, Fayette County, Tex.; son of H. M. and Jane C. (McNutt) Munger, of Mexia, Tex. His business life is identified with his two cotton machine manufacturing companies, the Munger Improved Cotton Machine Manufacturing Company, of Dallas, Tex., which was organized in 1887, and the Northington-Munger-Pratt Company of Birmingham, which was organized in 1892. Mr. Munger holds the position as vice-president and director of both of these companies. The "Munger System" was the first in the field, and won numerous prizes at expositions, taking the ten gold medals, for which it competed, at the World's Columbian Exposition in 1893. He is the pioneer inventor of most of the improved gin machinery used throughout the south, and has also shipped abroad the output of his factories. He was a very active leader when the movement was inaugurated to find a suitable lot and building for the Y. M. C. A. He is a member of the Methodist church. Married: to Mary Collett, daughter of Capt. J. H. Collett, of Austin, Tex. To this union eight children were born. Residence: Birmingham.

MURFEE, HOPSON OWEN, educator, was born December 11, 1874, at Marion; son of James Thomas and Laura (Owen) Murfee (q. v.). He received the degree of B. S., from Marion institute, 1892; B. A. and M. A., University of Virginia, 1897, also fellow in astronomy; LL. D., University of Alabama, 1913. He was instructor of mathematics, University of Virginia, 1896-97; fellow in physics, University of Chicago, and research assistant to Prof. A. A. Michelson, 1899-1900; professor, physics, 1900-06, and president since the latter date of Marion institute. He is a member of the board of visitors, U. S. naval academy. He is a Baptist. Married: June 26, 1901, to Mary McQueen, daughter of McQueen Smith (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary Owen; 2. Lila; 3. Julia Lovett; 4. Asenath Pratt; 5 and 6, twins, Hopson Owen and McQueen Smith; 7. Howard; 8. Dorothy. Residence: Marion.

MURFEE, JAMES THOMAS, educator, was born September 13, 1833, at Murfee's Depot, Southampton County, Va., and died at Miami, Fla.; son of James Wilson and Ann (Parker) Murfee, the former being a native of Virginia, who was born near the present town of Franklin and who was a farmer at Norfolk for some time; grandson of Simon Murfee, jr., who was an ordained minister of the South Quay Baptist church, the second oldest Baptist church in Virginia; great-grandson of Simon Murfee, sr., whose father came from Scotland, first settled near Williamsburg, Va., and then moved to Southampton, Va., and who had a land grant of one hundred and forty acres from George III, around Murfee's Depot, Va. He attended the Virginia military institute, from which he was graduated in 1853, with the degree of civil engineer. He then accepted the professorship of natural science at Madison college, Uniontown, Pa., where he remained until 1854. He accepted the same chair in Lynchburg college, Lynchburg, Va., remaining there from 1856-1858, where in 1857, he united with the Baptist church. He was professor of mathematics at the University of Alabama from 1860 to 1862; and from 1862 to 1865, he was commandant of the cadets of the university, with the rank of colonel of the Alabama troops. He entered the active service in 1863, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel of the Forty-first Alabama regiment in the C. S. Army, and participated in the engagement which took place at Tuscaloosa, April 3, 1865, as commander of the state cadets. He was architect and re-builder of the University of Alabama, from 1867-1869, and in 1871, became president of Howard college, which position he held for sixteen years. He founded the Marion military institute in 1887, and was principal there until his retirement in September, 1906, upon receiving the reward of an annuity from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, because of his services to the cause of education in Alabama. He served from 1893 to 1896, as a member of the board of visitors of the U. S. military academy at West Point, being appointed for the service by President Harrison. Married: July, 1861, at Tuscaloosa, to Laura Owen, daughter of Hopson and Agnes Payne (Williams) Owen, who lived at Tuscaloosa, the former who was a lawyer and was licensed to practice, July 8, 1819, by Gov. William W. Bibb; granddaughter of Richard and Sarah (Duty) Owen, and of Marmaduke and Agnes Payne (Harris) Williams (q. v.). Children: 1. Thomas Eugene, died in infancy; 2. Julia Bryce, m. William Houston Lovelace, Marion; 3. Howard Guild, died when eight years old; 4. Laura Owen, died when four years old; 5. Mary Agnes, m. Edwin Buist Anderson, Marion; 6. Hopson Owen (q. v.), B. S. degree from Marion military institute, 1892, student at University of Virginia from 1892-1897; president Young Men's Christian Association, from 1895-1896, president of the Tennis Association, Tennis Championship, 1895-1896 and 1896-1897, president of the academic class, 1895-1896, degree of B. A. from University of Virginia in 1897, degree of M. A. from University of Virginia, 1897, instructor in mathematics at the University of Virginia in 1896, Fellow in Astronomy at the University of Virginia, 1897, Fellow in Physics at the University of Chicago from 1899-1900, lecture assistant to Prof. S. W. Stratton, and research assistant to Prof. A. A. Michelson of the University of Chicago, member of the board of visitors to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, appointed by President Roosevelt in 1906, and LL. D. degree from the University of Alabama in 1913, m. Mary McQueen Smith, Marion; 7. James Thomas, died in infancy; 8. Walter Lee, m. Mary Turner Graves, Marion. Last residence: Miami, Fla.

MURFEE, JOHN H., instructor in tactics, University of Alabama, 1863-65.

MURFREE, WALTER L. See Addenda.

MURPHEY, D. R., educator, superintendent of the Anniston city schools, in 1913.

MURPHREE, JAMES STROTHER, merchant and pioneer settler, was born August 1, 1796, at Louisburg, Franklin County, N. C., and died July 20, 1866 in Troy; son of James and Sarah (Strother) Murphree of North Carolina, the former a Revolutionary soldier. In 1817, he removed to Smith County, Tenn., where he engaged in merchandising. In 1844, he located in Troy, where he acquired large holdings of land; continued his mercantile business, and became one of the builders of that place. He was a Whig; a Mason; and a Baptist. Married: December 20, 1820, at Carthage, Tenn., to Matilda S., daughter of Joel and Mary (Burford) Dyer, of Tennessee. Children: 1. Mary B., m. Dr. J. B. Fannin; 2. Sarah, m. William M. Love; 3. William M. (q. v.) m. Susan Henderson; 4. Joel Dyer (q. v.) m. Ursula A. Mullins; 5. James K., m. Adelaide Henderson; 6. Elizabeth, m. Judge Urban Lewis Jones; 7. Daniel B., m. Mary Henderson; 8. Benjamin F., m. Rebecca Hill; 9. Dr. Edwin D.; 10. Thomas M., m. Lizzie Howell. All of James Strother Murphree's sons and sons-in-law served in the Confederate Army. Last residence: Troy.

MURPHREE, JOEL DYER, merchant, member Alabama legislature and the constitutional conventions, was born November 5, 1827, in Smith County, Tenn., and died in 1906 in Troy; son of James Strother and Martha Strother (Dyer) Murphree (q. v.); grandson of James Murphree of Ireland, who came to America in 1854; great-nephew of Maj. David Burford of Smith County, Tenn., who served with Gen. Andrew Jackson at the battle of New Orleans, 1815, commanding a battalion of Tennessee troops. His education, in the schools of Carthage and Rome, Tenn., closed at the age of eleven, as his father needed his services in his store. In 1844, he removed with his father and family to Troy, where they acquired large holdings of land in the town and surrounding territory. In 1848, he established, with his brother-in-law, the mercantile firm of Murphree and Jones, which continued until 1866. He was in 1863-65 quartermaster sergeant of the 57th Alabama infantry regiment, Scott's brigade, Loring's division, C. S. Army. He was a member of the legislature from Pike County, 1857-8, and 1872-3; member of the constitutional conventions of 1875 and 1901. He was a director of the Mobile and Girard R. R., now a part of the Central of Georgia R. R. He contributed largely to local papers on political questions.

He was a Democrat, and in 1884 was a delegate to the national convention of that party; a Mason; Knight Templar; and a Baptist, and was a leader in the prohibition movement in his county. He was distinguished for benevolence. Married: January 18, 1855, near Troy, to Ursula Antoinette, daughter of Thomas Kinion and Amelia Antoinette (Brockman) Mullins, pioneer settlers of Pike County, natives of Georgia. The maternal grandmother was before her marriage to Mr. Brockman, Elizabeth Landrum, whose parents removed from Virginia to Georgia in pioneer days. Children: 1. Josephine Amelia, m. Charles B. Goldthwaite; 2. Thomas Eugene, m. (1) Augusta Johnson, (2) Willie Purcell; 3. Allie, m. J. Sam Carroll, banker, Troy; 4. Joel Dyer, jr., m. (1) Lucas Brooks, (2) Mary E. Barrow; 5. Antoinette, m. John H. Wilkerson, lawyer, and mayor of Elba. Last residence: Troy.

MURPHREE, WALTER THEODORE, lawyer, was born September 5, 1862, in Blount County; son of Jesse E. and Mary H. (Cornelius) Blount, both of Walnut Grove, Etowah County, the former who entered the C. S. Army as a private, was promoted to captain, and was wounded in the battle of Shiloh; grandson of Ellis and Jennie (Algood) Murphree, of Chepultepec, Blount County, the former who came from South Carolina many years before the War of Secession, and settled in what is now known as Murphree's Valley, Blount County, and of Harvey and Elizabeth Cornelius, of Walnut Grove, Etowah County. The family is of Irish descent. Three Murphy brothers fled from Ireland because of some political offense, they settled in South Carolina in pre-Revolutionary days, and to better conceal their identity changed the spelling of their names, one of whom adopted the spelling Murphree from which Mr. Murphree descended. Mr. Murphree was educated in the public schools of Blount and Etowah Counties; attended Peabody Normal college, Nashville, Tenn.; and later took the law course at the University of Alabama. He began the practice of law at Gadsden in 1893; for fifteen years has been a member of the city board of education; served for one term as mayor of Gadsden; has served as chairman of the Etowah County Democratic executive committee; and was a representative in the legislative session of 1919 from Etowah County. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 11, 1899, at Brentwood, Tenn., to Nettie Brandon. Residence: Gadsden.

MURPHREE, WILLIAM MILLS, planter, county clerk and register in chancery, was born December 28, 1825, in Smith County, Tenn., and died May 30, 1879 in Troy and is buried in the Murphree grave yard in the heart of the town; son of James Strother and Matilda (Dyer) Murphree (q. v.). In 1844, he accompanied his father and family to Troy, where he engaged with the former in business. He acquired an extensive holding of land in the northeast section of the town and later, donated a lot on which the citizens erected "The academy," in which the first public city schools were later organized. The Troy normal school is built on the site of his home. He was clerk for Pike County, 1848-50; register in chancery, 1858-62. He carried on his planting operations until his death. He was a Baptist. Married: March 1, 1849, in Troy, to Susan, daughter of Eli and Mary (Darby) Henderson, of Edgefield, S. C., who removed to Clarke County in 1821. Children: 1. William Hilliard, m. Kannie Key; 2. Lizzie; 3. Mollie, m. Pete Yarborough; 4. Emma, m. Charles Gholson; 5. Martha; 6. Laura, m. Willis Nall; 7. Burford; 8. Ida; 9. James; 10. Missie. Last residence: Troy.

MURPHY, EDGAR GARDNER, Episcopal clergyman and author, was born August 31, 1869, near Ft. Smith, Sebastian County, Ark., and died June 23, 1913, son of Samuel W. and Janie (Gardner) Murphy, the latter a daughter of John and Eliza (Palmer) Gardner, who lived at Van Buren, Ark.; granddaughter of William B. and Philomela Gardner, and a descendant of Scotch ancestors who after coming to America, lived in Vermont, at Montpelier and Thetford, and at LaFayette, Ind., and in 1842, settled in Arkansas. His early education was received in San Antonio, Tex., at a German-English school, at which place his aunt, Lelia Gardner was a teacher, and at the city high school. In August, 1885, he entered the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn.; was a special student at the General theological seminary and Columbia university at New York, from 1889-1890; received the honorary degree of M. A. from Yale university in 1904; and in 1911, D. C. L. from the University of the South. On August 31, 1890, he was ordained to the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal church at San Antonio, Tex., by the Rt. Rev. J. S. Johnson, D. D.; was put in charge of St. Paul's church, San Antonio and made assistant at St. Mark's from 1890-1892; was rector at Christ's church, Laredo, Tex., from 1892-1893, of St. Paul's church, Chillicothe, O., 1894-1897, of St. John's church, Kingston, N. Y., 1897-1898, and of St. John's church, Montgomery, 1898-1902. He was the organizer and executive secretary of the Southern society, which was organized for the consideration of the race problems and conditions of the South, which in May, 1900, held a national conference at Montgomery. He was the first chairman of the Alabama Child Labor committee, and later, was the first secretary of the National Child Labor Committee and was the originator of the proposals for the establishment of that organization. He withdrew from the committee, however, when the committee endorsed the "Beveridge Bill," for the federal regulation of the labor of children, because he believed such a policy directly injurious to the protection of the child workers. In November, 1901, he was connected with the Southern Education Board, as "the executive secretary associated with the president," the president being Robert C. Ogden of New York. In 1902, he became a member of the board and its secretary, and in the same year retired from the ministry, in order that he might enter into the struggle for specific legislation with better results. He suffered from ill health during the years of 1902-1904, and while still a member of the Southern Education Board, resigned. In 1908, he was given a retiring allowance for life by the Carnegie Foundation. He was editor of the official reports of the conference on race problems of the south, and the sixth, seventh, and eighth sessions of the conference for education in the south. Author: Mr. Murphy was author of "The Words for the Church," 1896; and in the same year "The Larger Life;" "The Christian's Life" in 1899; in 1904, "The Present South, a discussion of certain industrial, educational, and political issues in the Southern states;" "The Basis of Ascendancy, a discussion of certain principles of public policy involved in the development of the Southern states," in June, 1909, and a volume entitled, "Issues, Southern and National." In September, 1907, being requested by a member from the House of Bishop, he wrote a letter on "The Church and the Negro Episcopate," which was later printed in pamphlet form. He was also a frequent contributor to various periodicals, and in the "North American Review," for January, 1905, appears his paper against the enforcement of the Fourteenth amendment. Among the occasional contributions to brochures, appears, "An Open Letter to the Constitutional Convention of Alabama," which was a discussion on suffrage, and his argument against the Beveridge-Parsons bill in "The Federal Regulation of Child Labor." His last printed work was in the interest of the social-religious building of the Peabody college for Teachers, at Nashville. He was a Democrat. Married: August 31, 1891, in Concord, Mass., to Maude King, daughter of George Augustus and Martha Ann (Brigham) King, who lived at Concord, Mass., and a descendant of Elder Thomas King, who came from England in 1635, and of Elder William Brewster, who came in 1620. Children: 1. DuBose, attended Yale university; 2. Gardner, attended Yale university. Last residence: New York.

MURPHY, JAMES LEONIDAS, lawyer; graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree in 1904, and the M. S. degree in 1905. Residence: Andalusia.

MURPHY, JERE, mayor of Huntsville, was born January 18, 1834, at Huntsville; son of Jeremiah and Nancy (Hanks) Murphy, the former who was born in County Cork, Ireland; brother of Robert E. Murphy, who was born in Huntsville, July 2, 1839, was clerk in a wholesale grocery, entered the office of county clerk in 1860, in 1863 went to Nashville, Tenn., where he engaged for six years in the auction and commission business, being for some time government auctioneer, continued the same business for one year at Memphis, and then returned to Huntsville, was elected sheriff of Madison on the republican ticket, in 1874, which position he held for three years, was an alderman under Mayor Irvine, re-elected under Mayor Thomas White, and in 1888 was re-elected sheriff. Jere Murphy received his education in the Huntsville schools. When seventeen years old he left school and started to work as printer on the "Democrat," and later worked as foreman on that paper. He was then appointed to a mail agency on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, which position he held until the War of Secession. In 1862, he entered the army as a third lieutenant in Col. Russell's command, and participated in the battle of Chickamauga, and a number of severe skirmishes. At the close of the war he returned to Huntsville where he opened a blacksmith and wood-working shop, which business he carried on for about two years. In 1874, he was elected mayor of Huntsville, was re-elected in 1875, 1876, 1877, serving four successive terms. He was elected again in 1889, the term of office having been extended to two years, and 1891 was re-elected. Under his administration many improvements were made, notably, the system of water-works, stand-pipe system, extensive sewerage. He is an Odd Fellow. Married: February 28, 1867, to Mary Beeman, daughter of Conrad Beeman of Huntsville. Children: 1. Jere; 2. Mary Belle; 3. Ella Lee; 4. Corinne Katherine; 5. Stephen H.; 6. Robert E. Residence: Huntsville.

MURPHY, JOHN, lawyer, planter, fourth governor of Alabama representative in congress, was born about 1785, in Robeson County, N. C., and died September 21, 1841, at his plantation in Clarke County; son of Neil Murphy, who came with his father Murdock Murphy from Scotland. His mother was a Miss Downing, and he was a brother of Rev. Murdock Murphy, the first pastor of the Government Street Presbyterian church at Mobile. The family moved to South Carolina when Gov. Murphy was a child, and he acquired his education there. By teaching school, he gained the means to attend college, and entered South Carolina college in the class with John Gayle, later governor of Alabama, and James Dellet, who carried off the first honor in scholarship over Gov. Murphy, and who, years later, defeated him as a candidate for congress. He was graduated in 1808, and while studying law that same year, was elected clerk of the South Carolina senate. He held that position for ten years, and during that time was also a trustee of the University of South Carolina, 1809-1818. He moved to Alabama in 1818, located in Monroe County and was admitted to the bar there. He never practiced law, resigned from the bar soon after, and gave his whole attention to planting. He represented Monroe County in the convention which framed the State constitution in 1819; was elected to the State legislature in 1820; and to the State senate in 1822. He was elected governor of Alabama in 1825 with a plurality of twelve thousand five hundred votes, and was re-elected in 1827 without opposition. During his administration the State capital was moved from Cahaba to Tuscaloosa. After the expiration of his term, Gov. Murphy retired to his plantation for a short time, but in 1828 returned to public life, and became a Union candidate for congress. He was defeated for the Twenty-first and Twenty-second congresses by Dixon H. Lewis, and was elected to the Twenty-third congress in 1833, defeating Judge James Dellet of Claiborne. In 1839, he was again a candidate, but was defeated that time by Judge Dellet. That was his last appearance in public life. He retired to his plantation in Clarke County, and lived there for the rest of his life. Married: (1) to Sarah Halls, of South Carolina, daughter of Robert Halls of that state; (2) to Mrs. Carter, a sister of Col. John Darrington, of Clarke County. John Murphy, jr., a son by his first wife, was a lawyer who died at Gosport about 1840. He was married and his daughter, Mary Sue, married Orlando A. Richardson, son of Francis Epps and Anna Maria (Robinson) Richardson, of Jackson, and had several children, among them Walter S. Richardson of Montgomery, and Orlando A. Richardson, jr., of Jackson. Another of Gov. Murphy's sons, Duncan Murphy, was a member of the legislature of California, where he died in 1853. Mrs. Annie D. McMillan of Stockton is a granddaughter. Last residence: Clarke County.

MURPHY, ROBERT, several times member of the Alabama legislature from DeKalb County. He later removed to Arkansas, and died from the effects of cruel treatment received while imprisoned by the Federal military powers, during the War of Secession. He was the father of Robert G. Murphy of Meltons-ville.

MURPHY, SAMUEL DAVIDSON, lawyer, was born April 21, 1870, at Bethany, Pickens County; son of Dr. Adolphus Sadler and Virginia Caroline (Davidson) Murphy, the former who served as a surgeon of the Twentieth Alabama regiment during the War of Secession. Judge Murphy received his early education in his native county and afterwards attended the University of Alabama, where he studied law. He was appointed judge of the juvenile court of Jefferson County upon its creation in 1911, and since that time has been reappointed by three succeeding governors. He was author of the child welfare laws of the state and was largely responsible for progress made in working out a program for such work. He is a Democrat; an elder in the Presbyterian church; and a Mason. Married: November 27, 1895, at Indianapolis, Ind., to Elizabeth Todd, daughter of Dr. L. L. Todd of that city. Children: 1. Luther Todd; 2. Samuel Davidson, jr. Residence: Birmingham.

MURPHY, SAMUEL JENNINGS, cotton commission merchant, was born in Greene County, and died January 30, 1893, in New York City; son of William and Mary (Inge) Murphy, the former a cotton planter, who was born in Warren County, N. C., lived there for some time, and then in 1819 moved to Alabama, where he owned a large plantation, the latter who was a daughter of Richard and Sarah (Johnson) Inge who lived at Mecklenburg County, Va.; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Epps) Murphy, who lived in North Carolina; and a descendant of ancestors on the Murphy side, who came from the north of Ireland to America in the eighteenth century and settled in North Carolina, and on the Inge side of English ancestors who also settled in this country in the eighteenth century. He received his early education in Alabama, and at the age of sixteen years was sent to school in New Haven, Conn. He engaged in the cotton commission business, starting as clerk for the firm of Allen & Hayden of Mobile, in 1849, and in 1853, became a partner. He later organized the firm of Ware, Murphy & Company, and in 1878 retired from active business. He served in the War of Secession, organizing a company in April, 1861, and serving until the end of the war, first as captain of cavalry, later colonel of the Third Alabama cavalry. He was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church, and a Mason. Married: in Mobile, May 25, 1854, to Serena Deas, daughter of James Sutherland and Margaret (Chestnut) Deas, who lived at Camden, S. C.; and a descendant of Scotch ancestors who settled in South Carolina in the eighteenth century. Children: 1. William Allen, d. July 26, 1901; m. to Golda Green, December 20, 1890; 2. Mary, d. May 25, 1858; 3. Deas, m. Mary Remsen Belknap, January 15, 1902, reside at New York City; 4. Helen, resides at Asheville, N. C.; 5. Jennings Nott, d. December 9, 1881; 6. Inge, m., (1) Linda Cook of Austin, Tex., who died December 1898, (2) to Irene Gillespie; 7. Lee Anderson, Asheville, N. C. Last residence, New York City.

MURPHY, SAMUEL SILENUS, physician, was born November 14, 1825, in Greene County; son of James and Angelina (Saddler) Murphy, natives of South Carolina, the former who came to Alabama in 1818, and settled in Greene County, near Eutaw, who was a machinist and manufactured cotton gins, the latter who was the daughter of Isaac and Elizabeth Saddler, natives of South Carolina; grandson of Robert and Rachael (Rainey) Murphy, natives of South Carolina; great-grandson of a native of Ireland, who came to this country prior to the Revolutionary War, settled in South Carolina and served in the war. He received his early education in the schools of Eutaw, and in 1842, entered the University of Alabama, and after attending four sessions, graduated A. B. and A. M. He attended a session at the Medical college of Louisiana, at New Orleans in 1850, and was afterward engaged as partner with his brother, Dr. A. S. Murphy of Eutaw, in the drug business. He then sold his interest in the drug business and established himself in the mercantile business at Pleasant Ridge. He resumed his medical studies in 1870, entering the Medical college at Mobile, from which he was graduated the same year. For several years he practiced medicine with Dr. C. P. Sanders, a physician of Pleasant Ridge, and then opened an office individually. He was a member of the Pleasant Ridge Presbyterian church. Married: in 1856, to Elizabeth Steel, a native of Greene County. Children: 1. Thomas Elmore, b. July 28, 1865, M. D., 1892, Mobile, physician of Bethany, Pickens County; 2. Samuel Silenus, jr. (q. v.); 3. Charles Martin, b. January 12, 1874, A. B., University of Alabama, M. D., 1898, Birmingham medical college; 4. William M., killed by accidental discharge of gun in his own hands, while attending Poughkeepsie college, N. Y.; 5. Mary E., deceased, m. James H. Archibald; and three other children who died in infancy. Residence: Pleasant Ridge.

MURPHY, SAMUEL SILENUS, jr., teacher, was born October 8, 1867, at Pleasant Ridge, Greene County; son of Dr. Samuel Silenus and Elizabeth Mary Murphy (q. v.). He received his early education at the Archibald institute, at Pleasant Ridge, and at the Verner military institute at Tuscaloosa. In the fall of 1887, he entered the sophomore class of the University of Alabama, and was graduated B. A., in June, 1890. He was first lieutenant in the corps of cadets during his senior year. After leaving college, Mr. Murphy, went to Mobile, where he taught in Barton academy, teaching the primary, grammar, and high school grades, until September, 1900, when he was elected superintendent of education of Mobile County, which position he filled for several years. He was a member of the Alabama State Text-Book commission, and of the National Educational Association. He is a Democrat, a member of the Presbyterian church, and of Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: December 22, 1899, to Marie Maréchal, daughter of Dr. Edwin Lesley and Julia (Greer) Maréchal, of Mobile; granddaughter of I. S. Greer, who was engaged in the cotton business at one time in Mobile, and who later moved to Meridian, Miss.; and a descendant of Scotch-Irish and French ancestors. Children: 1. Marie, b. June 27, 1902. Residence: Mobile.

MURPHY, WILLIAM MITCHELL, lawyer, was born in Granville County, N. C., in 1806, and died at Selma about 1855; son of Judge Murphy and a Miss Inge, the former who resided in Erie, and the latter who was a sister of Hon. William M. Inge of Sumter. In 1821 he moved with his parents to Alabama and was educated in the Tuscaloosa schools and at the University of Virginia. Having read law under Hon. Seth Barton of Tuscaloosa, he opened an office in Erie, about 1828. He was partner of William G. Vandegraff, and later of William G. Jones; was elected to the legislature in 1840; was candidate of the Democratic party for congress in 1847, but was defeated by Hon. S. W. Inge of Sumter; and in 1849-51, he served the county in the State senate. In 1852, he went to Austin, Tex., but soon returned to Alabama, settling at Selma, where he died in 1855. Married: to a Miss Hobson, daughter of Baker Hobson of Greene County. Last residence: Selma.

MURRAY, DANIEL, Roman Catholic priest, was born in 1867 in Middleton, County Cork, Ireland, and died in Mobile, in 1897. He was educated at the Jesuit college, Limerick, and finished in theology in the American college at Rome, in which city he was ordained to the priesthood, in 1893. He arrived in Mobile in September of that year, was sent to Birmingham and Bessemer, and in January, 1897, was transferred to Montgomery. In September of that year he volunteered to fill a vacancy in Mobile, and soon after arriving was stricken with yellow fever, from which he never recovered. Last residence: Mobile.

MURRAY, DAVID, soldier of the American Revolution, was born in 1760, and is buried in Talladega County. The tomb bears the following inscription:

To the memory of
DAVID MURRAY, A Revolutionary soldier, who departed this life 8th day November, 1840, in the 80th year of his age.

He came from Prince Edward County, Va., just after the war and settled in Wilkes County, Ga. He left several children, among others Hon. Thomas W. Murray, the oldest son, who was born in Lincoln County, Ga., in 1790, and became a man of distinction, being a candidate for Congress when he died. Murray County, Ga., is named in honor of him.—White's Statistics of Georgia.

"It is shown by the records in Washington City, that one David Murray served as a private in Captain Satterlee's company, Colonel Moses Hazen's regiment, Continental troops, Revolutionary War. He enlisted December 30, 1776; was taken prisoner August 27, —, and returned to his company August 4, 1779. His name last appears as that of a private on a roll, not dated, 'of Persons in the Congress' Own Regt. commanded by Col. Moses Hazen, Brig. Genl. by Brevet in the service of the U. S., 1783,' with remarks: 'When commissioned or enlisted, 30 Dec., 1776; How Long to Serve, War, 1 year; Discharged by Commander-in-Chief at close of war, 17 June, 1783.'"—Mrs. P. H. Mell, in Alabama Historical Society, Transactions, vol. iv, pp. 556-557.

MURRAY, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Perry County, and later of Pickens; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on March 6, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from September 4, 1833; annual allowance, $80.66.—Pekston Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

MURRAY, JOHN GARDNER, Protestant Episcopal bishop, was born August 31, 1857, at Lonaconing, Allegany County, Md.; son of James and Ann (Kirkwood) Murray; grandson of James and Elizabeth (Kirkwood) Murray, and of Archibald and Ann Kirkwood, all of Glasgow, Scotland. He received his education in the public schools of Maryland and Wyoming seminary, Kingston, Pa., and his professional training at Drew theological seminary, Madison, N. J. He was ordained deacon in St. Paul's church, Selma, 1892, and priest in 1893; and was elected bishop of Maryland in 1909. His published writings consist of addresses and pastorals. He is a Democrat. Married: in Osage City, Kan., to Clara, daughter of Isaac and Barbara Hunsicker of that place. Children: 1. John Gardner; 2. Clara H.; 3. Ann K.; 4. Ruth; 5. Esther. Residence: Baltimore, Md.

MURRAY, MICHAEL WILLIAM, physician; a graduate of the medical department of McGill university, Canada, 1890, and licensed to practice by the county board of Morgan. Residence: New Decatur.

MURRAY, W. M., Missionary Baptist minister; living in 1913. Residence: Brewton.

MUSGROVE, FRANCES ASBURY, delegate secession convention, merchant and business man, was born August 22, 1827, at Jasper, Walker County, and died July 22, 1865, at Jasper; son of Dr. Edward Gordon and Rachel (Hycklyn) Musgrove, of Saluda, S. C., who removed in 1822, to Blount County, and then to Walker County, where they located permanently; grandson of John William and Nancy (Tate) Musgrove of South Carolina. He was educated by his father and fitted for college, but pressure of business interests prevented his remaining to obtain a degree. He engaged in the mercantile business; was delegate from Walker County to the secession convention of Alabama, 1861, and opposed secession. When war was declared, he enlisted in the 28th Alabama infantry regiment, Manigault's brigade, Withers' division, Army of the Tennessee. In 1863 he raised a battalion in Walker County, joined Gen. N. B. Forrest's command, and served to the close of the war. He served his county in civil offices, both before the war and after, until his death at an early age. He was a Mason; an Odd Fellow, organizing that body in Walker County; and a Methodist. Married: January 6, 1853, at Liberty Hill, Walker County, to Elizabeth, daughter of James Oscar and Elizabeth (Cauley) Cain. Children: 1. Missouri Katherine, m. John Benjamin Long; 2. Lycurgus Breckenridge; 3. Judge Coleman, m. Susan Findley Neal; 4. Calpernia Rachel. Last residence: Jasper.

MUSGROVE, LYCURGUS BRECKENRIDGE, banker, coal operator and business man, was born December 13, 1859, at Jasper; son of Frances Asbury and Elizabeth (Cain) Musgrove (q. v.). The family is of English origin and migrated to South Carolina prior to the Revolutionary War, taking part in that struggle. The paternal grandfather, Edward Gordon Musgrove, was the first probate judge of Walker County, and owned the land upon which Jasper is located, having donated sites for public buildings. Mr. Musgrove received his education in the common schools of his native town, but was not privileged to have a university course on account of the conditions of the times. He has, however, always shown a deep interest in education and has been chairman of the Walker County board of education, and is a member of the State board of education and a trustee of the University of Alabama. He is a leading man of business affairs in his section and his political activities have been state-wide. The Corona coal mines were developed under his ownership, and later sold to an English syndicate. He holds other mining interests and is president of the Jasper bank, besides carrying on an extensive farming interest and real estate business. Mr. Musgrove is a Democrat, and although never an office holder has frequently managed political campaigns for his friends During the heated contest, 1920, for the U. S. senatorship for the place held by Senator O. W. Underwood, he was an unsuccessful candidate, although receiving a large and flattering vote. He is a Methodist; Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Unmarried. Residence: Jasper.

JOSEPH W. DIMMICK

MUSGROVE, PHILIP M., physician, lawyer and Baptist preacher, was born March 12, 1817, in Edgefield District, S. C., and died in Cullman County, son of John Tate Musgrove; cousin of Francis Asbury Musgrove (q. v.); grandson of John William and Nancy (Tate) Musgrove of South Carolina; the former a colonial settler and Revolutionary soldier. His education, in schools, was limited by the pioneer conditions of Blount County, to which place his parents removed in 1822. He continued his studies until he was admitted to practice medicine, in 1853, and law in 1857. In 1841-42, he taught a country school; in 1842, he commenced to preach, and was a missionary of the Muscle Shoals association and of the board of the Southern Baptist convention, 1846-52. He began the practice of medicine in 1853, and was licensed to practice law in 1857. In 1862, he joined Wheeler's cavalry, First Alabama regiment, and with three sons gave service to the Confederacy. In 1871, with his son, Edward G., he published at Bangor, a newspaper "The Broad-axe." In 1887, he removed to Cullman and published "The Trumpet." From 1884-86, he was probate judge of Cullman County. He was a Democrat; and a Mason. Author: "The Baptist Code." Married: December 8, 1836, to Louisa White, of Tennessee. Children: 1. John W., killed in the Confederate Army; 2. William H., Jr.; 3. Edward G.; 4. Joseph. Last residence: Cullman.

MUSGROVE, WILLIAM HENRY, teacher and Baptist minister, was born January 15, 1796, in Georgia, and died at Pensacola, Fla., March 6, 1862, and is buried at Mt. Tabor church, Blount County; son of John William and Nancy (Tate) Musgrove, who removed to South Carolina, 1797, and to Cocke County, Tenn., 1807. He came to Alabama in 1818 and taught school at Elyton for several years; in 1828, elected to represent Blount County in the legislature, was reelected five times; he also served three years in the senate. He led a company in the Creek War, 1836, and retired with the title of colonel of militia. In 1856, he was ordained a minister, at the Baptist Mt. Tabor church. In 1861, he served as captain of a company of Confederates, sent to Pensacola for military duty; where he died. He was a Democrat. Married: to Miss Fowler, daughter of Rev. John Fowler. Last residence: Blountsville.

MYATT, MARK, president of the Fowlkes and Myatt coal company. Residence: Birmingham.

MYERS, T. J., lieutenant colonel, 15th Confederate cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

N

NABERS, FRANCIS D., lawyer and business man, was born May 14, 1854, in Carrollton,

Pickens County; son of Judge Zacharias Lee and Sara Rebecca (Nabers) Nabers of Laurens, S. C., and brother of Zach Lee Nabers (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Carrollton and Mobile; graduated from the Mobile military institute, in 1872. In 1883, he removed to Birmingham and engaged in the accountant business; in 1886-87, was clerk in war department, under President Cleveland; 1889-90, a law student, at the University of Virginia; has practiced law in Birmingham since that date. He is a Democrat. Residence: Birmingham.

NABERS, FRANCIS DRAYTON, physician and business man, was born July 3, 1845, in Jefferson County, and died in Birmingham; son of Francis Drayton and Matilda (Mullens) Nabers; grandson of Isaac and Nancy (Boyd) Nabers, of Laurens, S. C., who came at an early date to Alabama. He was educated at the University of Alabama, leaving college in 1862, to enlist in the Confederate Army, as a member of the cadet troop of cavalry. Later he was captain of Co. F, Seventh Alabama cavalry regiment, and was in the battles of Nashville and Franklin, being severely wounded. After the close of the war he studied medicine at Tulane university, graduating in 1867. He located at Cotton Gin Port, Miss.; four years later, returning to Jefferson County and establishing the drug firm of Nabers and Morrow. He served as alderman of Birmingham; president of the Birmingham building and loan association, and the East Lake land company; was director of the First national bank. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Presbyterian. Married: January 23, 1866, to Mattie, daughter of Samuel Faust, of Pulaski, Tenn. Children: 1. Frank; 2. Samuel. Last residence: Birmingham.

NABERS, JAMES M., planter and legislator, was born March 20, 1826, and died January 31, 1857; son of Francis Drayton and Matilda (Mullens) Nabers, and brother of William Franklin Nabers (q. v.). He was educated in the country schools of his community; engaged in planting in Shelby and Bibb Counties and represented those counties in the State legislature for many years. He placed in nomination the name of Dixon H. Lewis, for the U. S. Senate. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Last residence: Shelby or Bibb County.

NABERS, WILLIAM FRANKLIN, planter and business man, was born August 6, 1830, in Jefferson County, and died about 1915 in Birmingham; son of Francis Drayton and Matilda (Mullens) Nabers, pioneer settlers of Jefferson County, in whose cotton farm was laid out the first survey of the town of Birmingham; grandson of Isaac and Nancy (Boyd) Nabers. The Nabers family is of French origin, being descended from two brothers, Abram and Isaac, who came to America in Colonial days. During the Revolutionary period, three brothers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, descendants of the original immigrants, living near Laurens Courthouse, Laurens District, S. C., were ardent Whigs. Zachariah Nabers of Pickens County was descended from Jacob. Abraham and Isaac married sisters, Ellen or Eleanor and Nancy Boyd, descendants of Irish nobility who lived in an aristocratic style until their property was destroyed by the Tories. Isaac Nabers was killed in the summer of 1780 by a band of Tories under William Cunningham, and his negro slaves taken to Jamaica where they were sold. John, a boy of fourteen, son of Abraham Nabers, was tortured by the Tories in order to force him to reveal the hiding place of the family stores, but he was resolute in his American and family loyalty. William Franklin Nabers was fitted for college in the county schools of Jefferson, and graduated from the University of Tennessee. He engaged in extensive farming, until the early '70's, when he joined Col. James R. Powell, John T. Milner, Major Thomas Peters and others in the plan to establish Birmingham. His house was the only residence near the site of that city and it was here all the surveys and plans were discussed. He was a Democrat, a Mason; and a Presbyterian. Married: February 5, 1867, to Virginia Elizabeth, daughter of B. P. Worthington. Children: 1. Fannie, m. J. H. McCary; 2. Carrie, m. Charles H. Abbott; 3. Bessie; 4. Emma; 5. William Franklin, jr. Last residence: Birmingham.

NABERS, ZACH LEE, jr., banker, was born May 6, 1858, at Carrollton, Pickens County; son of Judge Zacharias Lee and Sara Rebecca (Nabers) Nabers, of Laurens, S. C., who removed to Athens, Ga., and later to Carrollton; grandson of Jacob and Elizabeth (Powers) Nabers, and of Francis Drayton and Matilda (Mullens) Nabers, all of Laurens, S. C., who removed to Alabama later; great-grandson of Isaac Nabers, who was killed by Tories during the Revolutionary War. He was educated in the schools of Carrollton and Mobile; after a business course in Mobile he became an accountant, doing expert work in St. Louis, Mo., Dallas and Texarkana, Texas, and Little Rock, Ark., where he was made teller of the First national bank. His business called him to Connecticut, New York City and Chicago; in 1884, he located in Birmingham, where he is connected with the First national bank. He is a Democrat. Married: April 28, 1885, in Birmingham, to Alice Pickney, daughter of Benjamin Pickney and Caroline (Mitchell) Worthington, the latter a daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Mitchell, native Alabamians. Children: 1. Nellie Lee, m. William S. Mudd, of Birmingham; 2. Margarite. Residence: Birmingham.

NAIL, MATTHEW, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Madison County; private Georgia Militia; enrolled on November 4, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

NALL, ROBERT, Presbyterian minister, was born October 17, 1805, at Jackson, Tenn., and died December 29, 1885, at Henderson, Montgomery county, N. C.; son of James and Ann Caroline (Wyatt) Nall, the former, of English, Welsh, and Scotch-Irish ancestry, was born in North Carolina and lived at Henderson, Montgomery County, N. C., the latter was a descendant of ex-Governor Wyatt of Virginia, one of the colonial governors of that state, who after the death of her husband removed to Alabama with her children in 1822, and became one of the first settlers of the town of Marion, Perry County. Rev. Nall received his early education in a log school house in North Carolina and in such private and common school instruction as was to be had after his removal to Alabama. He learned the printer's trade and earned the money necessary for his preparatory and collegiate course, entering Centre college, Danville, Ky., and later Miami university, Ohio, where he was graduated in 1831, receiving an A. B. degree. He studied for the ministry, was licensed in 1833, and ordained the next year by the Presbytery of South Alabama, and at once became pastor of the Marion church, of which he was one of the charter members, also one of its first ruling elders. After ministering to this church for some ten years, he became the first pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Mobile, where he remained until 1858, when he was called by the synod to be its evangelist. The remainder of his ministry was spent in evangelistic and home mission work. He was a Presbyterian minister for more than fifty years, and was stated clerk of the Synod of Alabama for fifty years. Several of his sermons were published in pamphlet form: "The Dead of the Synod of Alabama," and "A Voice From Twenty Graves." He was a Democrat. Married: December 6, 1832, at Columbus, Ohio, to Elizabeth Woods Hoge, daughter of Rev. James and Jane (Woods) Hoge of that place, the former a brother of Rev. Moses D. Hoge of Richmond, Va. Children: 1. Jane, m. Almon Spencer, both deceased; 2. Ann Caroline, d. of yellow fever in 1853; 3. James, m. Annie McMahon, resides at Lookout Mountain, Tenn.; 4. Elizabeth Witherspoon, d. 1876; 5. Robert Holman, b. January 19, 1842, at Marion, Perry County, attended Oglethorpe university, Ga., was pastor of churches at Tuskegee, Greenville, Fort Worth, Tex., and Greenwood, S. C., was evangelist and superintendent of the home mission at Dallas Presbytery, and had charge of mission work in New Orleans, m. Helen Otts and d. in 1910; 6. John Willis, d. 1868; 7. Mary Eliza, m. A. S. Paxton of Statesville, N. C., d. 1886; 8. Susannah Kaple, m. A. V. Boatrite, of Columbus, Ga., resides at Danville, Ga.; 9. Martha Watson, m. J. MacSmith, reside at Danville, Va.; 10. Chalmers, d. 1853; 11. Samuel Davies, d. 1853. Last residence: Jackson, Tenn.

NANCE, JONAS ALLEN, farmer, was born September 6, 1860, at Cartersville, Cass, now Bartow County, Ga.; son of Thomas Jefferson and Nancy Ann (Holliis) Nance, the former who lived in South Carolina until 1859; removed to Georgia, was a Confederate soldier, volunteering at the outbreak of war and remaining in service until he received injuries that caused his discharge, and in 1878 removed to Cherokee County; grandson of Thomas and Theresa (Beatenboy) Nance and of James Willis and Eliza (Harris) Hollis. The Nance family are of French descent and came to America during the Revolution, settling in Union County, S. C., their name being originally Nantz. The Hollis family are of English origin, came to America during the Revolutionary War and settled in Spartanburg County, S. C., the great-grandfather having served in the Revolutionary War under Washington. Senator Nance received his education in the common schools and at Andrews Institute, in DeKalb County. He was for a time a teacher in public schools; later became a farmer; was county registrar under Governors Jelks and Comer; member of the Democratic executive committee for ten years; was State senator from the twenty-ninth district in 1911; was re-elected in 1913; and was elected to legislature, 1918. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; an Odd Fellow; and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1886, to Almeida, daughter of W. M. and Eva (Maessey) McClendon, of Coxville, Etowah County, and (2) in 1915, to Nettie, daughter of Andrew J. and Malisa (Culpeper) Bankson, of Congo. Children: 1. Charley; 2. Homer; 3. Bernie, m. N. P. Higginbotham; 4. Bula; 5. Bevis; 6. Floyd; 7. Arva. Residence: Collinsville.

NAPIER, EDWARD, planter, was born in Macon, Ga., May 16, 1842; son of Leroy and Matilda Louise (Moultrie) Napier, the former a native of Virginia, and one of the wealthiest men in Georgia at the beginning of the War; the latter a Georgian and a cousin of Gen. Wm. Moultrie of Revolutionary fame; grandson of Thomas and Chloe Napier, who came from Virginia to Elbert County, Ga., in 1801, and of Briggs and Frances Marie Moultrie; great-grandson of Reni Napier, a major in the continental army, Revolutionary War; great-great-grandson of Patrick Napier, sent to America by the British government to survey a line between Maryland and Virginia prior to the Revolution. He was educated in private schools in Macon; at Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., graduating in 1856; later was two years a student at Mercer university; was traveling in Europe in 1861, but immediately returned to Georgia; became 2nd lieutenant of a company mustered into service in May, 1861, which became part of the Eighth Georgia regiment; saw service at Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Cedar Run, Charlottesville, N. C., and several other engagements; and twice severely wounded. Since the close of hostilities he has been a planter in Montgomery and Bullock Counties. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: Emma Wimbish. Children: 1. Leroy; 2. Stanley Wimbish; 3. Briggs Hopson. Residence: Union Springs.

NAPIER, LEROY, major, 2nd Alabama cavalry, a temporary command, C. S. Army.

NASH, J. G., president of Judson college, Marion, 1864-65.

NASH, JESSE G., major, 41st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

NASH, JOSEPH T., physician, was born in Livingston, March 24, 1858; son of Judge Preston Garland and Lam (Whitfield) Nash (q. v.); reared and educated at Livingston; attended medical college of Alabama, Mobile, 1876-77; spent 1877-1879 in travel; graduated from Louisville medical college, 1880; and since 1880 has practiced at Livingston. Married: in 1891 to Lizzie, daughter of John and Lou McGowan. Residence: Livingston.

NASH, PRESTON GARLAND, lawyer and judge, was born in Virginia, in 1829, and died in Livingston in 1883; son of Daniel Nash, who early came from Virginia to Alabama, and after a short stay in Sumter County, removed to Arkansas, but later returned to Virginia, where he died. Mr. Nash was a lawyer; probate judge of Sumter County; Confederate district attorney for Southern district of Alabama, 1861-1865. Married: Lam Whitfield, whose father was an early settler in Alabama from Virginia. Children: 1. Rev. Preston, graduate of Emory and Henry college, rector of an Episcopal church in Richmond, Va., soldier in C. S. Army; 2. Eva, m. A. W. Cockrell, and resides at Jacksonville, Fla.; 3. Dr. Joseph T.; 4. Augustus C., chief clerk of the International railway co., Monterey, Mex.; 5. Dr. Daniel, dentist, of Jackson, Miss.; 6. Price Williams; 7. Nata, m. John King Edmondson, of Meridian, Miss. Last residence: Livingston.

NEAL, WILLIAM B., Methodist minister, pastor of the Court Street church, 1843.

NEAL, WILLIAM SHAEFFER, teacher and soldier, C. S. Army, was born March 31, 1843, in Carrollton, Pickens County; brother of Theodore F., member of an Alabama cavalry regiment, wounded at Holly Springs, Miss., and died soon afterwards, of George W., private in Co. A, 19th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, killed at Shiloh, of Francis Marion, private in Co. A, 19th Alabama infantry regiment, died a prisoner of war at Camp Douglas, Chicago, and of David Wesley, a sergeant in Co. G, 44th Alabama infantry regiment, killed at Gettysburg. He was a student at the Centenary college, Summerfield, which he left in the spring of 1862, to enlist in the Confederate service; assigned to Co. G, 44th Alabama infantry regiment, which later formed a part of Law's brigade, Army of Northern Virginia. He fought in the battles of Sharpsburg and Fredericksburg, and as a reward for his distinguished service in the former battle was detached and assigned to the signal service of Hood's division, Longstreet's corps. In this capacity he participated in the Suffolk and Pennsylvania campaigns, the battles of Gettysburg, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, Knoxville, Bean's Station, Bull's Gap and Sweetwater, the sieges of Richmond and Petersburg, finally surrendering with Gen. R. E. Lee's army at Appomattox Court House. At the close of war he returned home and taught school, later he became teacher and student at the noted Stonewall institute, near Selma, founded by the Rev. D. C. B. Connerly; returned to Monroe County, teaching three years; and spent two years at Barton academy, Mobile, as a teacher.

In 1873, he returned to Monroe County and engaged in farming and teaching, moving to Brewton in 1881. In 1898, he drafted a special school bill and secured its passage by the legislature for Escambia County. Married: (1) in 1870, to Julia Morton, of Monroe County, (2) in 1880, to Sallie Slaughter, of Perdue Hill. Children: by first wife, 1. William Thomas; 2. Eugene Morton; by second wife, 3. John Slaughter; 4. Maude; 5. Sadie. Residence: Brewton.

NEELY, EDWIN ORION, editor and publisher, was born June 25, 1859, near Columbia, Tenn., and died in 1902, at Guntersville; son of John Newell and Sallie E. (Thevenat) Neely, the former a native of Franklin, Tenn., first a carriage maker, and later the owner of a flour mill; grandson of Jean Baptist and Parthenia (Brown) Thevenat, of Mt. Pleasant, Tenn., the former a native of France, a physician and surgeon, and the latter of English parentage. The Neely family came to America from Wales and settled first in North Carolina. Mr. Neely received a common school education in Maury County, Tenn.; later took a course at Goodman's business college at Knoxville; was first employed in his father's flour mill; subsequently managed a branch plant at Athens, Tenn.; he was for four years connected with a contracting and building firm of Nashville, and traveled in the interest of the business. In 1887 he leased the "Guntersville Democrat," and on January 1, 1888, bought the paper, with all of its equipment from Solomon Palmer, the then State superintendent of education. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Author: Besides his editorial work he issued the souvenir edition Guntersville Democrat. Married: October 8, 1884, at Madisonville, Tenn., to Lois, daughter of Joseph A. and Minerva (Tolbert) Peck of that place. Children: 1. Ethel, m. Jo L. Henry, Guntersville; 2. Carl; 3. Albert T., m. Sadye Rayburn. Last residence: Guntersville.

NEELY, FRANK THOMAS, legislator, was born September 5, 1858, near Booneville, Tishomingo, now Prentiss County, Miss.; son of Robert Alexander and Elizabeth (Spencer) Neely, the former who served in the C. S. Army, was captured at the fall of Petersburg, April, 1865, held the office of first lieutenant, and was imprisoned on Johnson's Island; grandson of Thomas and Polly (Lusk) Neely, who lived near Booneville, and of Frank and Lizzie (McClanahan) Spencer, residents of Hampshire, Maury County, Tenn. Mr. Neely was educated in the public schools of his county; at the Male academy of Rienzi, Miss.; and attended part of a session of the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn. He served Lawrence County as tax assessor, 1901-06; as tax commissioner, 1912-15; was nominated for the State legislature in 1884; was defeated; and was elected to the legislature, 1915, from Lawrence County. He is a Democrat, has served on the county executive committee; a Methodist; and a Woodman of the World. Married: December 1, 1886, at Buford, Tenn., to Kate Abernathy, of Scotch ancestry, daughter of Burwell and Mary (Malone) Abernathy of that place. Children: 1. Ida Corine; 2. Winnie Davis; 3. Frank T., jr.; 4. Christine. Residence: Hillsboro.

NEELY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Shelby County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on April 2, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Penston Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

NEELY, PHILIP PHILIPS, Methodist minister, was born September 9, 1819, in Murfreesboro, Tenn., and died November 9, 1868, in Mobile; son of Major Neely, who fought under Gen. Andrew Jackson. His mother was a Miss Phillips. He entered the Methodist ministry in 1837, and during his first year's gospel service eight hundred souls were converted. He served circuits and pastorates or was presiding elder at Jackson, Tenn., Huntsville, Tuscaloosa, Marion and Mobile and at Columbus, Miss. He was president of the Columbia, Tenn., female college 1844-48, and at the latter date was transferred to the Alabama conference. Author: "First series of discourses." Married: (1) Miss Parks, of Columbia, Tenn.; (2) Miss Jessie Alice Fowler, of Franklin, Tenn. Children: 1. daughter; 2. Julia, m. ——— Finch. Last residence: Mobile.

NEHEMATHLA MICCO, or NEAMATHLA MICCO, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

NEIL, ROBERT, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, a resident of Greene County; corporal in Mencon's Regiment; enrolled on June 10, 1817, payment to date from March 5, 1814; annual allowance, $60; sums received, $128.30; on April 24, 1816, rate increased to annual allowance of $96, under which the sum of $850.89 received; under act of March 3, 1819, to date from March 4, 1825, rate reduced to annual allowance of $64, under which $576 received to date of publication of list.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

NEIL, ROBERT E. LEE, newspaper man and past sachem, Improved Order of Red Men, was born at Selma, September 12, 1870; son of Andrew J. and Elizabeth (Peake) Neil, the former a member of the Fourth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. He received his education at the Dallas academy of Selma; entered the newspaper work as a correspondent for various papers in 1888; purchased the "Selma Times" in 1907, in partnership with G. O. Eastman, later becoming sole owner and editor; was assistant librarian of the U. S. house of representatives at Washington, 53rd congress. He is a Democrat and secretary of the State conventions of 1900, 1904 and 1908; a Presbyterian; a Knight of Pythias; an Elk; Eagle; Beaver; and a Red Man. In 1917 he was appointed a paymaster in the U. S. navy, a position he still holds. Married: June 6, 1904, at Rome, Ga., to Lilly Cade, daughter of Thomas and Fannie (Shropshire) Sparks, of that place.

Children: 1. Robert E. L., jr., died in infancy, 2. Frances Shropshire, died in infancy, 3. Andrew Jackson, jr., died in infancy, 4. daughter, died in infancy. Residence: Key West, Fla.

NEILSON, ROBERT, physician, practiced his profession in Tuscaloosa for fifty years; father of Rev. W. P. Neilson (q. v.).

NEILSON, WILLIAM PARKER, Presbyterian minister; was born April 4, 1879, at Tuscaloosa; son of Dr. Robert and Amy (Parker) Neilson, the former a native of Augusta, Ga., later a resident of Tuscaloosa, a practicing physician for nearly fifty years in the town and county of his adopted residence; grandson of Capt. John and Maria (Dent) Neilson of Augusta and Tuscaloosa, and of George Alfred and Marion (Conrow) Parker, of Tuscaloosa and Philadelphia, Pa.; great-grandson of George Dent, jr., of Maryland who was president of the senate of that State, and also for several terms speaker pro tem of the U. S. house of representatives. Two sons of this statesman also attained distinction in public service, James Turner Dent, who served in the Seminole War as a member of the U. S. Army, and his brother, Col. Dennis Dent (q. v.). Rev. Mr. Neilson received his preparatory training from Prof. William H. Verner in Tuscaloosa; graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1901; received degree of B. D. from the Presbyterian theological seminary at Louisville, in 1905; took post-graduate work in the theological seminary at Princeton, 1909; entered the ministry, 1904, and has served churches at Paris, Tex., Oklahoma City, Okla., Montgomery, and is at present serving in Kansas City, Mo. Married: December 18, 1907, at Paris, Tex., to Estelle, daughter of John Littleton and Maria (Maness) Fowler, of that place, the former a lawyer of Paducah, Ky., and the latter a native of Mississippi. Children: William Parker, jr. Residence: Kansas City, Mo.

NELSON, ANDREW, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Morgan County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $35.44; sums received to date of publication of list, $106.32.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Walker County, June 1, 1840, with Robert Howard, aged 76.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 150.

NELSON, JOSEPH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Madison County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on January 22, 1843, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30; sums received to date of publication of list, $90.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Morgan county, June 1, 1840, aged 87.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

Vol. IV—18

NELSON, OWEN O., manufacturer, was born November 24, 1823, in Limestone County, and died in Montgomery; son of Frederick B. and Winnie (Owens) Nelson, of North Carolina, who removed to Alabama in 1817, and where the former served as judge of the court of common pleas, Limestone County. Owen O. Nelson was educated in the common schools of his county. At the beginning of the War of Secession he was representative in the Alabama legislature. Governor Shorter induced him to resign and undertake a contract for the State of manufacturing arms for the Confederate service. The first works were erected in Blount County; were removed to Rome, Ga., when northern and middle Alabama were threatened by Federal invasion, later removed to Dawson, Ga., and still later, consolidated with the Selma works. After the war he operated and managed numerous oil mills for the Southern cotton oil trust, with headquarters in Montgomery. He was one of the promoters of Sheffield. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: in December, 1847, at Athens, to Margaret, daughter of Dr. David Hobbs, of Limestone County. Last residence: Montgomery.

NELSON, RICHARD MARSHALL, banker, was born in 1843 in Wayne County, N. C.; son of Rev. Charles J. Nelson, minister of the Baptist church of Goldsboro, a native of North Carolina, and of North Ireland ancestry, whose father was high sheriff of Craven County, N. C., in 1800. He received an appointment to West Point, but resigned his cadetship to take up arms in behalf of the Confederacy; studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1866; settled in Selma and became a partner in the law firm, Johnson & Nelson; president of the Selma Savings Bank, now the Commercial Bank of Selma; president of the Loan Company of Alabama at Selma; appointed by President Grant as one of the commissioners for the state of Alabama to the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia and was elected a member of the finance committee; deputy from the diocese of Alabama to the several general conventions of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States, and was one of the deputation to the synod of the church in Canada in 1886; at one time was president of the American Bankers' Association; in 1890 was given rank of brigadier-general in command of the fourth congressional district of the state militia. Married: (1) in 1868 to Ella Hines, step-daughter of Hon. Thomas J. Portis, now of St. Louis, Mo.; (2) in December, 1873, to Mary McFaddin, daughter of the late Robert H. McFaddin of Greensboro. To this union seven children were born, among whom was William Portis, of Brazil, South America, d. 1892. Residence: Washington, D. C.

NELSON, SAMUEL M., Presbyterian minister, was born January 24, 1804, in County Downs, near Belfast, Ireland; son of Robert Nelson, an officer in the Irish Rebellion of 1798, whose importance was such that a large reward was offered for his head by the English government, and he was forced to flee the country, landing in New York in 1805, but finally locating in Lawrence County. He became a minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian church soon after the death of his parents and preached on the circuit composed of Marion and Fayette Counties, and Monroe and Lowndes Counties, Miss., for about six years where he organized some eight or ten churches; in 1834 went to Selma where he preached alternately at Selma and Cahaba for six years, and organized a church at Selma; in 1840 moved to Carlowville, Dallas County, where he preached for three years and organized several churches; moved to Cahaba in 1848 and to Coffee Springs in Marengo County; in 1858 moved to Wilcox County to a small village called Pine Hill, near Clifton; in 1878 again commenced preaching at Selma where he preached the first and second Sabbaths of every month. Married: August 13, 1839, to Martha V. Campbell. Residence, Pine Hill.

NELSON, WILLIAM RANDOLPH, lawyer, was born January 13, 1844, at Petersburg, Dinwiddie County, Va.; son of Hugh and Elizabeth Harrison (Minge) Nelson, the former a native of Hanover County, Va., who fought in the War of 1812 receiving a land bounty from the United States for his services, was member of the Petersburg city guard, captain of a company of Petersburg Dragoons, retired from active service in 1861 at the age of sixty-seven years and died in 1862 at Petersburg after holding position as treasurer of the old South-Side Railroad, now a part of the Norfolk and Western Railroad system for twenty years, the latter a niece of President Harrison; grandson of Col. William and Lucy (Chiswell) Nelson who lived in Hanover County, Va., the former a distinguished officer in the American army during the Revolutionary War, serving under Gen. Washington, and participating in the battles of Monmouth, Brandywine and all northern battles in which Washington engaged, and of John and Sarah (Harrison) Minge of Waynesboro, Va.; great-grandson of Benjamin and Ann (Carter) Harrison, the former a governor of Virginia and signer of the Declaration of Independence, of Sec. Thomas Nelson of Yorktown, York County, Va., first cousin of Gov. Thomas Nelson of Virginia, and of Col. John Chiswell; great-great-grandson of Thomas Nelson of Virginia, the progenitor of the Nelson family in America, who came from Penrith, County of Cumberland, England.

William R. Nelson received his early education in a day school in Virginia, and was a member of the freshman class of Hampden-Sydney college when the War of Secession began. Although under military age he left college at once for the army, and enlisted as high private in Company A, Twelfth Virginia infantry, serving until 1864 when he was transferred south to Selden's light artillery, where he remained until the close of the war. He participated in the battles of Seven Pines, Resaca, Peach Tree, the fights around Atlanta, at Tilton, and at Nashville. At the close of the war he went to New Orleans as a clerk in the employ of an express company. In 1886 he came to Selma, where he was engaged as clerk for Knox & Adams, cotton factors, remaining with them for a year; then accepted a position as clerk in the law office of Morgan & Lapsley, and after completing his duties for the day, continued his study of law. In 1869 he was admitted to the bar and in 1870 became a member of the firm, Morgan, Lapsley & Nelson, which existed until 1887, when Gen. Morgan was elected to the United States Senate. After that he practiced with Judge Lapsley for a time, then alone for a time, and then became the partner of Capt. Joseph F. Johnson. In 1866 he gave up general law practice to accept the management of the Loan Company of Alabama, in which position he has charge of all the abstracts of title and all law matters connected with their large business. He was a member of the Legislature of Alabama, 1880-81, was a member of the Judiciary and was chairman of the committee on corporations, a member of the board of trustees, city school board of Selma, and Dallas academy of Selma since about 1897 and president of the city school board of Selma since 1911. In December, 1896, he was appointed Judge Advocate General, rank of Colonel of Cavalry on the staff of Gov. Joseph Johnston, and served in the Alabama National Guard as such for four years. He was a member of the state executive and district congressional committees of his party for four years. He was a Democrat. Married: October 20, 1870, in Selma to Octavia Le Vert Owen, daughter of Dr. Robert and Mary (Montgomery) Owen of Mobile, and cousin of Hon. R. B. Owen, at one time mayor of Mobile. Children: 1. Jennie M., Selma; 2. Hugh, unmarried, lawyer, Montgomery; 3. Page, m. William Theodore Atkins, Selma; 4. Aimee, m. Dr. F. C. DuBose, surgeon, Selma; 5. Octavia Le Vert, m. James Carroll Long, chemist, Selma; 6. Grace Louise, m. Hayward McFaddin, Selma; 7. William R. Nelson, jr., unmarried, Selma. Residence: Selma.

NESBITT, WILLIAM DUNCAN, business man, member Alabama railroad commission, and chairman, Board of control and economy, was born March 1, 1869, in Savannah, Ga.; son of Robert Taylor and Rebecca Lanier (Saffold) Nesbitt, the former also a native of Savannah, Ga., was educated by private tutors and at Davidson college, N. C., entered the Confederate services as a private in Tom Cobb's Legion of cavalry, later serving as first lieutenant, 51st Georgia regiment, a planter in Early County, Ga., later in Henry County, Ala., finally returning to Georgia, locating in Cobb County, serving in the State senate in 1868 and 1898, elected state commissioner of agriculture, in 1890, and for four times reelected; grandson of Dr. Hugh O'Keefe and Martha Deloney (Berrien) Nesbitt, the former a native of Augusta, Ga., a graduate of Princeton university and a graduate in medicine from a Philadelphia college, also a student for two years in Paris, France, returning to his home, began the practice of his profession, but soon relinquished it in order to take up the responsibility of caring for his and his wife's vast estates and numerous slaves, and of William Oliver and Mary Louisa (Harris) Saffold; great-grandson of Hugh and Eleanor (O'Keefe) Nesbitt, the former the founder of the Nesbitt family in America, who emigrated from Ireland to this country in the latter part of the eighteenth century, settled in Augusta, Ga., where he accumulated a large fortune, the latter also an immigrant from Ireland, of Adams Goudieloch and Anne (Porter) Saffold, the former a lawyer and judge of Madison County, Ga., a soldier in the War of 1812 and also in the Indian wars, of Dr. Richard McAllister and Eliza Bolling (Deloney) Berrien, the former a distinguished physician of Savannah, Ga., who died in that city at the age of twenty-five during a yellow fever epidemic, and of Jephtha Vining and Sallie (Hunt) Harris, the former a native of Greene County, Ga.; great-great-grandson of William and Anne (Goudieloch) Saffold, the former a soldier of the Revolution from Virginia, who removed to Georgia, of Hugh Nesbitt, a native of Scotland, who removed to Ireland, settling about thirty miles from Belfast, and who adopted the Irish spelling of the name Nesbitt, in preference to the Scotch spelling, Nisbet, of Walton and Rebecca (Lanier) Harris, the former a native of Brunswick County, Ga., a soldier of the Revolution who was taken prisoner at the siege of Augusta, of Oliver and Margaret (Watson) Porter, the former a soldier of the Revolution, who was at the siege and surrender of Yorktown, removed to Greene County, Ga., married, and served several terms in the legislature, of William and Eliza (Bolling) Deloney, of Virginia who removed to Georgia in 1801, and lived on their plantation, "Bolling-broke," near the coast, and of John and Wilimina (Moore) Berrien, the former appointed brigade major by congress for distinguished service during the Revolutionary War, having first served on the staff of General Washington, later coming to Georgia with General McIntosh, the name became closely identified with that state, and who served as the first secretary of the Order of Cincinnati in Georgia, his insignia having been presented to him by Washington; great-great-great-grandson of Capt. John Nisbet, of Hardhill, Scotland, who was executed on December 4, 1685, on account of religious persecution, of Dr. James Weemys Moore, of Philadelphia, of Nathan and Catherine (Walton) Harris, of Virginia, of Sampson and Elizabeth (Chamberlain) Lanier, of Douglas and Margaret (Park) Watson, the former a native of Virginia, soldier of the Revolution, who died in Wilkes County, Ga., of Robert and Jane (Rolf) Bolling, of John and Mary (Anthony) Porter, the former an extensive planter and land holder of Cumberland County, Va., and of John and Margaret (Eaton) Berrien, the former the last lord chief justice of the province of New Jersey and at whose home Washington wrote his farewell address; great-great-great-great-grandson of Edward Harris, of Virginia, of Thomas and Elizabeth (Washington) Lanier, the former having been driven from France by religious persecution during the seventeenth century, and who settled on a grant of land ten miles square where the city of Richmond, Va., now stands, of Thomas Porter, who settled in Cumberland County, Va., in 1765, became an extensive land holder and who fought in the French and Indian Wars as sergeant, and of Thomas and Jane Poythress, of Virginia; great-great-great-great-great-grandson of John and Pocahontas Rolfe, of John Porter, a native of England, who came to America in 1635, on the ship which sailed next after the Mayflower, landing in Plymouth Bay, who settled in Weymouth, Mass., afterwards moved to Virginia, locating in Norfolk County, became a member of the house of burgesses from lower Norfolk, sixteenth in descent from William de le Grande, a Norman knight, whose son, Roger, was "Grand Porteur" to Henry I, from which the name of Porter is derived, and members of this family were high in office and frequently members of parliament, of John and Anne Washington, the former a native of England who emigrated to Virginia in 1657, settled in Westmoreland County, of Louis Lanier, of Bordeaux, France, of Cornelius Jansen Berrien, the progenitor of the Berrien family in this country, who, being a Huguenot, fled from France to avoid religious persecution, and who was influential in colonial affairs in New York as early as 1665, and of Henry Harris, who came from Glamorgan, Wales, in 1691, settling with others on a grant of land ten miles square obtained from William and Mary, king and queen of England, this grant on the south bank of the James River some miles above the great falls, now Richmond, Va. William D. Nesbitt was educated in the schools of Marietta, Ga., and prepared for college by tutors; attended the University of Georgia; and later took a business course in Atlanta. In September, 1888, he entered the service of S. N. Inman and company, remaining with them until September, 1897, when he began business on his own account as a cotton buyer and warehouseman in Birmingham. In 1907 he was appointed to a position on the Alabama railroad commission by Gov. B. B. Comer, to succeed Charles Henderson. On March 1, 1919, he was appointed by Governor Kilby, as chairman of the newly created Board of control and economy, but resigning July 1, 1920, in order to resume his private business activities. He takes great interest in amateur athletics, and municipal play grounds and parks; was chairman of the finance committee during the building of the Birmingham athletic club, 1902-03, afterwards serving both as vice-president and president of this organization; since 1904 he has been president of the Southern association of the amateur athletic union of America; was commissioner for the U. S. to the Olympic games, Athens, Greece, 1906, and commissioner from the U. S. to the games in London, England, 1908. He is actively interested in the development of inland waterway transportation, being chairman of the Warrior River development company, 1918-19, and president of the Port of Birmingham company, 1920. He is a Democrat, being chairman of the State executive committee, 1919-22; and a Presbyterian. Married: December 12, 1895, at Aniston, to Anne, daughter of Thomas Greene and Alberta (Williams) Bush (q. v.). Residence: Birmingham.

WILLIAM P. G. HARDING

NESMITH, CHRISTOPHER C., lawyer, was born October 29, 1873, near Pikeville, Marion County; son of Hon. Thomas Benton and Minnie Catherine (McLean) Nesmith, the former who was a native of Morgan County, was a lawyer, resided at Vernon after 1875, was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875, a member of the legislature of 1884-85, was solicitor of the circuit comprising Lamar, Marion, Winston, Walker, Jefferson and Tuscaloosa Counties; grandson of Thomas and Elisabeth (Roberts) Nesmith of South Carolina and Tennessee; great-grandson of Alexander and Elisabeth (Martin) Nesmith, and of Lochius Roberts of Pennsylvania; great-great-grandson of Thomas Nesmith, a veteran of the Revolutionary War, and who was one of the earliest settlers in Alabama. Mr. Nesmith received his early education at the Vernon institute, and later entered the University of Alabama, from which he was graduated A. B., 1894. He was admitted to the bar in 1894; became a partner of Walter Nesmith at Vernon, 1895; was deputy solicitor for Lamar County, 1898-1903; was register in chancery; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901; in 1903, formed a partnership with Hon. Jesse F. Stallings and Judge Zell Gaston in Birmingham; and in 1903 was elected State senator from the twelfth district. He is a Democrat, and for several years was a member and secretary of the Lamar Democratic executive committee and attended many state conventions. Married: December 14, 1899, to Helen Claudia Morton, daughter of William L. and Eudocia J. Morton, of Vernon. Children: 1. Marjorie. Residence: Birmingham.

NESMITH, THOMAS B., lawyer, was born June 13, 1832, in Morgan County; son of Thomas and Elisabeth (Roberts) Nesmith, the former a native of South Carolina, who came to Morgan County with his father in 1824, and spent the remainder of his life there, and the latter of Tennessee; grandson of Alexander and Elisabeth (Martin) Nesmith, and of Zacheus Roberts of Pennsylvania; great-grandson of Thomas Nesmith, a hero of the American Revolution and one of the earliest settlers of Alabama. He was educated in private schools, taught school two years, studied for one year at the academy at Somerville, taught school for seven years in the meanwhile studying law; began practice in 1866 at Pikeville, and in 1876 moved to Vernon; was nine years county solicitor of Marion, and during that period was county superintendent of public instruction; was delegate to the state constitutional convention; was general county administrator for several terms, and from 1876-80 was solicitor for the third judicial circuit; represented Lamar County in the State legislature in 1882-83, and 1884-85. In addition to his law practice he gives considerable attention to agriculture. He is a Democrat. Mr. Nesmith is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and is a Freemason and an Odd Fellow. Married: June 11, 1869 to Minnie C. McLain, who died June 7, 1882. She was the daughter of Allan B. McLain and a native of Alabama. Children: 1. Allan, deceased; 2. Christopher C. (q. v.); 3. Daisy; 4. Thomas B. Residence: Vernon, Lamar County.

NESMITH, S. PERRY, major, 6th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

NESMITH, WALTER, lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Vernon.

NEWFIELD, MORRIS, Jewish rabbi, was born January 31, 1869, at Homonna, Zemplen, Hungary; son of Seymon Sabbuttsi and Lena (Klein) Newfield, the former a native of Bonyhad, and later a resident of Homonna, who enlisted and fought in the war for Hungarian Independence, 1848-49, under Louis Kossuth; grandson of Adolph Newfield of Berlin, Germany, and of David Klein of Homonna. Rabbi Newfield attended the public schools of his native place and later entered the gymnasium, where he completed his preparatory studies. His father, an excellent Hebrew scholar, taught him that language. He graduated from the Royal gymnasium at Budapest in 1889; was a student in the medical department of the University of Budapest, 1889-90. He came to America in 1891, landing in New York on October 2nd; and attended the University of Cincinnati, 1892-95. He graduated at the Royal rabbinical seminary, B. D., 1885-89, and completed his rabbinical studies at the Hebrew union college, 1891-94, in which he was appointed assistant professor of Hebrew in his senior year. In 1895 he accepted the call as rabbi from Temple Emanuel at Birmingham, and has since had charge of that congregation. He has held the chair of Hebrew at Howard college, Birmingham, since 1914. He is a member of the advisory board of the juvenile court of Jefferson County; was secretary of the citizens relief committee for sufferers of the Virginia mine disaster, distributing $30,000; founder of the first free kindergarten in Birmingham, conducted under the auspices of Temple Emanuel; was one of the organizers of the Alabama State sociological congress, and its President since 1914; one of the organizers of the Birmingham social workers association, and its president 1913-15; member of the executive committee of the central conference of American rabbis; trustee of the pension fund for superannuated rabbis of the Central conference American rabbis, since 1915; member of the joint commission of rabbis and laymen for the establishment of synagogue pension fund since 1915; supervisor of synagogue in district 14, comprising the States of Alabama and West Florida. He is a Mason. Author: "The book of Ecclesiastes," a monograph, 1896. Married: January 29, 1901, in Birmingham, to Leah, daughter of Samuel and Emma (Mayer) Ullman of that city. Mr. Ullman was born in Germany, came to America in early life and lived at Port Gibson and Natchez, Miss.; served as a confederate soldier. Children: 1. Seymon Ullman; 2. Emma Ullman; 3. Mayer Ullman; 4. Lena Jacobs; 5. Lincoln; 6. John Aldrich. Residence: Birmingham.

NEWMAN, CLIFFORD LEWIS, teacher, was born at Columbus, Ga.; son of James Stanley and Elberta (Lewis) Newman (q. v.). He received his early education in Sparta, Ga., and Orange County, Va., entering the grade schools in Atlanta in 1877, and high school in 1880. He entered the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Alabama in 1883, from which he was graduated, B. S., 1886. He was assistant at the Alabama Experiment Station from 1886-87; assistant professor of agriculture at the University of Tennessee from 1887-89; principal of the Athens high school from 1889-91; assistant agriculturist, Arkansas experiment station from 1891-97; professor of agriculture, and agriculturist, Experiment station, University of Arkansas from 1897-1905; professor of agronomy at Clemson college from 1905-08. Since 1908 he has been professor of agriculture, College of agriculture and mechanic arts of N. C. He is a member of the Episcopal church and of the Farmer's Union. He has written twenty-five experiment station bulletins and is a constant contributor to agricultural papers. Married: (1) June 6, 1893, to Fannie Stanley, Camden, Ark., who died in 1898; (2) June 27, 1900, to Nell Gates, daughter of Noah Putnam and Lucy (Cash) Gates, of Kentucky. Children: 1. Stanley Lewis, Clemson college, S. C.; 2. John Franklin, deceased. Residence: West Raleigh, N. C.

NEWMAN, HORATIO HACKETT, zoologist, and a native of Alabama, was born at Vilula, Russell County, March 19, 1875; son of Albert Henry and Mary Augusta (Ware) Newman, the former a native of Greenville, S. C., a theologian and author, and professor of history at Baylor university, Waco, Tex., and a great-great-grandson of Thomas Newman, a Virginia soldier in the American Revolution. Dr. Newman received his early education in the schools and collegiate institutions of Toronto, Canada; his A. B. degree at McMasters university, Toronto, 1896; was a graduate student at the University of Toronto, 1896-97, fellow in zoology, 1898-1900, 1904-05; and Ph. D., University of Chicago, 1905; instructor of biology and Latin, Des Moines college, Ia., 1897-98; instructor of biology and chemistry, Culver military academy, Ind., 1900-04; instructor of biology, 1905-08, and assistant professor elect, University of Michigan, 1908; professor and head of the department of zoology, University of Texas, 1908-11; associate professor of embryology, 1911; and dean in the colleges of science, University of Chicago, 1915. He served as head of instruction force in physiology at the Marine biological laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., 1902-12. He is a Democrat; Baptist and a member of the Sigma Chi, Sigma Xi and Phi Chi fraternities. He is the author of various monographs and papers on zoological and physiological subjects. Married: in 1907, at Woods Hole, Mass., to Isabel Currie, daughter of James Currie and Eliza (Rattray) Marshall, of Toronto, Canada. Residence: Chicago.

NEWMAN, JAMES STANLEY, director Alabama agricultural experiment station, was born December 11, 1836, and died April 12, 1910, at Walhalla, S. C.; son of James Barbour and Mary (Scott) Newman, both natives of Orange County, Va.; grandson of Garrett Scott of Orange County, Va. He attended the University of Virginia, leaving there in his junior year to enter the C. S. army, where he enlisted as private; became color bearer of the Thirtieth Virginia infantry; received honorable discharge in 1864, because of failure of health; farmed, taught a private school, and planted until 1873, when he accepted a position as editing clerk with the department of agriculture of Georgia; remained there until 1883 when he was elected professor of agriculture and director of the Agricultural and mechanical college; and served as professor of agriculture at Clemson college, S. C., 1890-95. He was director of the Canebrake agricultural experiment station of Alabama; was original secretary of the Georgia State horticultural society; vice-president of the American pomological society; state statistical agent of the U. S. department of agriculture; and for three years president of the State agricultural society. He was author of five books on agriculture, was a member of the Democratic party, and of the Episcopal church. Married: In 1863 to Elberta Lewis, daughter of Elbert and Eliza (Carter) Lewis of Macon, Ga. Children: 1. Clifford Lewis (q. v.); 2. Wilson Hobart, U. S. army; 3. Mary Stanley, m. Ernest Walker, Fayetteville, Ark.; 4. Alba, deceased; 5. Charles Carter, m. Grace Strode, Clemson college, S. C. Last residence: Walhalla.

NEWMAN, JOHN WALKER, Methodist minister, was born October 23, 1864, in Van Buren, De Kalb County; son of Moses C. and Elizabeth (Smith) Newman, natives of South Carolina, the former a farmer and merchant, who represented De Kalb in the state legislature, one term. He received his early education in the common schools, at Union academy, and at Wills Valley institute. In 1864 he entered the army as private in the Third Confederate regiment; was in Wheeler's command, Anderson's brigade, and Allen's division, and served until the close of the war. After the war Rev. Newman resumed his studies, and after teaching school for two years, was licensed to preach, May, 1870; joined northern Alabama conference in November of that year, and in 1880 was made presiding elder, which office he held until assigned to the First Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Birmingham; in December, 1885, he was appointed to Huntsville. Since that time he has served churches at Tuscaloosa, Anniston, Talladega District, Birmingham District, Talladega, Gadsden, and Decatur. He was elected editor of the "Alabama Christian Advocate," in 1891, but declined the position; represented the Alabama conference in the general conferences of 1894-98; was a delegate to the World's missionary conference in New York, 1900, and to the World's Methodist conference in London, England, 1901; was secretary of the Alabama conference for twenty-two years; served for sixteen years on the first general Epworth League board, and for seven years as president of the Alabama State League conference. He is treasurer of the mission board of his conference; secretary and treasurer of the Mutual insurance association of the Northern Alabama conference; the degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by the Southern university, 1888; is a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: (1) October 19, 1869, to Hannah War Berry, who died November 23, 1885, daughter of one of the old and prominent families of De Kalb County; (2) October 6, 1891, to Ida S. Groce, of Talladega County. There were seven children by the first marriage, among whom were: 1. Carrie; 2. Mary S.; 3. Olin Berry; teacher, b. November 16, 1876, received A. B. degree from Southern university, 1895, teacher in Florida, 1896, Bessemer, -1897, Waverly, 1898-1900, East Lake, m. Nannie Quinn, Bessemer, June, 1879; 4. Albert H. Residence: Huntsville.

NEWMAN, MOSES CASEY, farmer, was born February 19, 1815, in South Carolina, and died January 9, 1895; son of Martin Casey and Charity (Casey) Newman, who went to Tennessee from South Carolina. With the exception of three weeks schooling, he was entirely self educated. He came to Alabama from Tennessee while the Indians occupied the state, bringing his mother with him, and built a home in the wilderness. He was a farmer in DeKalb County, and served in the State legislature for one term. He was a justice of the peace for several years, was a Democrat, and a steward in the Methodist church. Married: January 4, 1844, in Pontotoc County, Miss., to Elizabeth Smith, daughter of James and Sarah Smith, who lived in Laurens District, S. C. Children: 1. Tery Ann, d. December 1, 1844; 2. Dr. J. W., a minister of the North Alabama Conference, d. May 11, 1912; 3. James Polk, deceased; 4. Wiley Johnson, deceased; 5. Mary C., m. Mr. Dobbs, Talladega; 6. Frank Pierce, Collinsville; 7. Sallie Patterson, Dallas, Tex. 8. Fannie Charity, deceased; 9. Charlie Ellen, deceased; 10. Moses Lee, deceased. Last residence: DeKalb County.

NEWMAN, PATRICK HENRY, lawyer, was born September 20, 1846, in Elbert County, Ga.; son of James Henry and Elizabeth (Beggs) Newman, the former who was a native of Ireland, emigrated to Floyd County, Ga.; grandson of Hough and Nancy Agnes Beggs. Mr. Newman received his education in the common schools of Floyd County. He enlisted in the Nineteenth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, August 13, 1862; in 1864 was transferred to the Eighth regiment, Georgia infantry; was paroled May 12, 1865, after participating in over twenty-two battles. He returned home and worked on a railroad; settled in Winston County; taught in the public schools for several years; studied law; and was admitted to the bar in April, 1885; in 1880 and 1884 was a member of the general assembly; and in 1902, was re-elected. He is a Democrat and a Primitive Baptist. Married: March 12, 1865, in Bartow County, Ga., to Octavia T. Hadder, daughter of John and Eliza Hadder of that county. Residence: Double Springs.

NEWSOM, RANDOLPH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; musician N. C. Militia; enrolled on October 29, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $88; sums received to date of publication of list, $220.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

NEWSON, JOHN E., major, 4th, Roddy's, Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

NEWTON, CHARLES A., teacher, was born January 27, 1836, between Swanton and Highgate, Franklin County, Vt., and died March 10, 1900; son of Silas and Charlotte (Smith) Newton, natives of Vermont. He received his education in the common schools of Swanton, later attending Thetford academy and Dartmouth college. He went to Alabama in 1857 and began teaching in Monroe County, going to Montgomery County for a short time, and then returning to Monroe where he taught until the War of Secession began. In 1861, he became a merchant at Pensacola, Fla., but disposed of his business soon after and enlisted in the First Florida regiment, C. S. Army for twelve months. At the expiration of his year of service he taught school at Belleville, and in 1863, enlisted in Co. E, Fifteenth Confederate regiment of cavalry. He was taken prisoner, November 17, 1864, and kept on Ship Island until the cessation of hostilities. He taught at Pineville School, Monroe County, 1865-68, then became principal of Belleville Academy where he taught for seventeen years; engaged in mercantile business at Belleville under the name of Forbes & Newton; and in February, 1883, the firm of C. A. Newton & Son was formed. He was elected superintendent of schools in Conecuh County, 1874-1894. In addition to his mercantile interests, Prof. Newton and son dealt extensively in live stock. He was a Democrat, a member of the Presbyterian Church, and a Mason. Married: July, 1863, to Lucy Ballard of near Belleville, daughter of Theophilus Ballard. Children: 1. William M., m. Nellie Whelan, Evergreen; 2. Edward Ernest, A. B., LL. B., lawyer, b. April 3, 1869, instructor in physics and astronomy at the University of Alabama, 1891-92, clerk of circuit court, Conecuh County, 1896-98; 3. Nettie, m. W. M. Carter, Laurel, Miss.; 4. C. C. Newton, Evergreen; 5. Guy Guerdon, physician, b. September 18, 1873, M. D., Mobile, 1898, Evergreen, m. George Murphy. Last residence: Belleville.

NEWTON, E. E., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Evergreen.

NICHOLSON, EVAN, Methodist minister, was born May 29, 1832, at Tellico Plains, Tenn., and died February 15, 1897, near Elyton; son of William and Jane (Adair) Nicholson, South Carolinians, who moved from Pickens District to Tennessee in 1831, then to Georgia, and finally to DeKalb County, who were the parents of fifteen children, five of whom were itinerant Methodist preachers. In his early youth the family moved to Alabama where he was educated in the best schools and academies the state afforded. In his twenty-second year he joined the Alabama Conference, was licensed to preach May 24, 1854, and served the following churches during his thirty-two years of active work: 1856, Scottsboro Circuit; 1857, New Lexington Circuit; 1858, Jasper Circuit; 1859, New Lebanon Circuit; 1860, Warrior Mission; 1861, Talladega Circuit; 1862-63, New Lexington Circuit; 1864-65, Orville Circuit; 1866, owing to affliction, supernumerary; 1867-68, Jasper Circuit; 1869, Jonesboro Circuit; 1870-71, Northport Circuit; 1872-73, Yorkville Circuit; 1874-75, Tuscaloosa Circuit; 1876-78, Jonesboro Circuit; 1879, Leighton Circuit; 1880-81, Limestone Circuit; 1882-84, Elyton and Helena; 1885, Birmingham Circuit; 1886, Elyton and Oxmoor. From 1886 till his death he served as chaplain to state convicts. December 6, 1857, he was ordained deacon by Bishop Soule, and on December 4, 1859, was ordained elder by Bishop Kavanaugh. Married: (1) December 22, 1857 to Martha A. Winn of Tuscaloosa County, who died January 20, 1872; (2) November, 1874, to Agnes Murdoch of Tuscaloosa County. Children, by first marriage: 1. Evan O., dentist, Collinsville; 2. William J., physician, b. March 18, 1860, in Tuscaloosa County, studied medicine under Dr. T. F. Robinson of Bessemer, and graduated from the University of Vanderbilt in 1884, m. Minnie S. Cooper, a daughter of Jesse D. and Rhoda (Howard) Cooper, was mayor of Centreville during 1891, and is now practicing physician of Centreville; 3. Lula, d.; 4. Mary A., m. Marcus B. Long, civil engineer of Chattanooga, Tenn.; 5. Ella P., m. F. W. Beall, railroad superintendent residing at Birmingham. Last residence: near Elyton.

NICHOLSON, HARRISON, soldier of the American Revolution. The grave of this soldier is in the cemetery in Tuskegee, and upon the monument is the inscription:

In memory of
HARRISON NICHOLSON
 A Revolutionary Soldier, Who was born on the 12th day of March, A. D. 1760, and departed this life on the 28th day of June, 1841, Aged 81 years, 3 months, and 16 days.

He came from near Milledgeville, Ga., to Macon County, Ala. Married Lucinda Long Dec. 30, 1783; died in Macon County at home of his grandson, James Monroe Nicholson. Children: (1) Britton Nicholson lived to mature years, but never married; (2) Nathaniel Nicholson married and reared a family, residing on his plantation in the vicinity of Milledgeville; (3) James Nicholson, born March 18, 1785, married Mary M. Stone, October 7, 1813; children: 1. Mathew H. Nicholson, born Jan. 7th, 1815, married Miss H. E. Savory, December 9th, 1839, in Mexico, lived there for several years, then moved to Texas, California and to Central America, where he died; children are now living around Chapel Hill, Texas; 2. Washington B. Nicholson, born June 28, 1818, married in Macon County, to Miss Wafer, later moved to Claiborne Parish, La., and died there in 1901; family now live around Baton Rouge; the father of Col. James Nicholson, former president of the University of Louisiana; 3. Elizabeth Ann Nicholson, born October 25, 1829, married (1) B. R. Taylor, December, 1836 by whom she had one child, Mrs. E. A. Hall, of Autaugaville, and married (2) J. B. Wilkinson, January 12, 1843, and to them were born nine children; 4. Lucinda Long Nicholson, born January 23, 1823, married Leonidas Howard and lived at Mulberry, Autauga County, and had two sons and one daughter; 5. James Monroe Nicholson, born December 12, 1825, married three times; 6. Absalom H. Nicholson, born August 30, 1837, was physician, moved to Louisiana, but died unmarried in Macon County, 1855; and 7. John Wesley Nicholson, born October 2, 1829, died unmarried in 1851, near Autaugaville, having only recently graduated from Emory College, Georgia."—Mrs. P. H. Mell, in Alabama Historical Society, Transactions, vol. iv, pp. 557-558.

NICHOLSON, JAMES WILLIAM, educator, was born June 16, 1844; son of Washington Biddle and Martha William (Wafer) Nicholson. He removed to Louisiana at an early age with his parents; received the degree of A. M. from Homer college in 1870, and the honorary degree of LL. D. from the Alabama polytechnic institute in 1893, and from Tulane university, in 1904. He entered the Confederate service in his seventeenth year, as a member of the 12th Louisiana infantry regiment; served as second lieutenant for three years and twice declined a first lieutenantcy. After the war he began teaching; was professor of mathematics, Homer college, 1870-72; founded and conducted a seminary in Claiborne Parish, La., 1868-77; professor of mathematics since 1877, president, 1882-84, 1887-96, having resigned both times, of the Louisiana State university. He was twice elected state lecturer for the Patrons of Husbandry, and led in the movement which resulted in the establishment of the state bureau of agriculture and immigration, 1879. He was one of the founders, 1883, president, 1892, and for many years chairman of the executive committee, Louisiana educational association; president, Southern educational association, 1903. Author: has written many monographs on mathematical subjects and is the author of a series of arithmetics, an elementary algebra, a trigonometry, a differential and integral calculus, a geometry and higher arithmetic. Married: July 30, 1876, to Sallie D. Baker, of Louisiana. Residence: Baton Rouge, La.

NICHOLSON, JOHN C., physician and planter, was born August, 1830, in Haywood, Tenn.; son of Wright and Harriett (Cogburn) Nicholson, both natives of Edgefield District, S. C., who moved to Haywood County, Tenn., in 1829, the former a cousin of Hon. A. V. P. Nicholson of Columbia, Tenn., who was a member of the U. S. senate and of the supreme court of Tennessee, the latter a daughter of Aaron Cogburn, South Carolinian; grandson of Wright Nicholson; great grandson of one of the captains on the side of the colonies in the Revolutionary War. He was reared on a farm and after receiving a good academic education near his home, attended the Union university at Murfreesboro, Tenn., until 1852, after which he attended Jefferson medical college at Philadelphia where he graduated in 1855 with high honors. He began the practice of medicine in Tennessee, and a few months afterward came to Alabama, locating in Montgomery County. When the War of Secession began he was commissioned first lieutenant of the recruiting service by President Davis, but soon resigned and enlisted as private in Co. D., First Alabama cavalry. He was at once made assistant surgeon of his regiment and at the termination of Bragg's Kentucky campaign was commissioned surgeon. He was detailed to establish a hospital at Bull's Gap or Rogersville Junction, in which undertaking he was remarkably successful. He has served for eighteen years on the board of revenues, and was elected to the legislature in 1878. Besides being a physician, Dr. Nicholson is a planter, owning a large plantation near Mount Meigs. He is a Democrat, a member of the Missionary Baptist church, and the author of several bills. He is also a writer of miscellaneous articles for public print. Married: (1) In 1856, to Martha C. Conyers, who died in 1886, daughter of James D. Conyers, a Georgian, who settled in Montgomery County at an early date; (2) In 1888, to Adele A. Trimble, daughter of Moses and Susan Trimble, natives of Troupe County, Ga., who came to Alabama and settled in Macon County. There were nine children by the first marriage only three of whom are now living. Residence: Mount Meigs.

NICHOLSON, W. J., legislator. He succeeded Hon. J. Lee Loug as a member of the legislature from Butler County, 1911, on the appointment of the latter as chairman of the State tax commission.

NICKOL, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 69, and a resident of Lawrence County; private of dragoons N. C. Militia; enrolled on April 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $43.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $108.32. —Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, 23rd cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

NICKS, ALVIS Q., lawyer and Creek Indian adviser, was born in Lincoln County, Tenn., and died in Texas. In 1833 he came to Alabama, when a young man, and settled at Talladega where he commenced the practice of law. For some reason he attracted the notice of the Indian chiefs, became the adviser and soon attained the position of attorney for the Creek Nation. In 1834, in company with a son of Chief Opoth-le-o-ho-lo he appeared at court in Jacksonville, where he was representing the chief in some legal procedure. He was made colonel of State militia and was appointed by Gen. Jackson as one of the locating agents of Indian reservations of land, and was thus engaged for sometime. He was elected to the State legislature from Talladega County in 1851, and in the contest at the session was for the compromise measures, and a strong supporter of the Union. He was a candidate for the State executive in 1853, still revering the principles upon which he was elected to the legislature, but the issues of 1851 had passed away and he was badly beaten by Gov. Winston. Not long after that event he went to Texas where he died several years ago. Last residence: Texas.

NICOLSON, ROBERT WORMELEY, planter, was born October 12, 1812, at Rosegill, near Urbanna, Middlesex County, Va., and died November, 1895, at Montgomery; son of George Dudley and Sarah Tayloe (Wormeley) Nicolson, the former a native of Yorktown, York County, Va., who later resided at Deer Chase, Middlesex County, a physician who died in early life; grandson of Robert and Elizabeth (Digges) Nicolson, of Yorktown, and of Ralph and Eleanor (Tayloe) Wormeley who lived near Urbanna on the Rappahannock River; and the great-grandson of John Tayloe, of Mount Airy, Va., one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The Nicolson family came from Edinborough, Scotland; the Digges from Kent, England; and the Wormeleys, related to the Virginia Fairfaxes, came to the colony with land grants from the King. Mr. Nicolson was tutored at home, and completed his academic training at William and Mary college, and at Princeton university. He emigrated to Alabama about 1839 or 1840, and bought a plantation near Uniontown, upon which he resided until he removed to Montgomery in 1893. He was a justice of the peace at Uniontown during the seventies and the eighties. He entered the Confederate Army as a private in the "Canebrake rifles," Fourth Alabama infantry regiment, and served one year, during which he participated in the first battle of Manassas, although he was fifty years of age. He was a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: October 12, 1842, at Selma, to Mary, daughter of Gilbert and Martha (Cowles) Shearer; granddaughter of William Marsdon and Anna (Meriweather) Cowles of Augusta, Ga., the former a native of James City County, Va. Children: 1. Gilbert Shearer, m. Rebecca Brown, of Selma; 2. Sarah Tayloe, m. Judge Francis Corbin Randolph, Montgomery; 3. George Andrew, m. Mary Reese, of Atlanta, Ga. Last residence: Montgomery.

NISBET, FRANK, lawyer and planter, was born February 13, 1815, in Greene County, Ga., and died March 7, 1885, at Ft. Mitchell, Russell County; son of Dr. James and Penelope (Cooper) Nisbet, the former a native of Rowan County, N. C., who later located in Athens, Ga.; grandson of Capt. John and Mary (Osborne) Nisbet, an officer of the Covenanters who was executed for loyalty to his religious principles, 1668, in Edinborough, Scotland, and of Thomas and Sallie Cooper, sr., of Washington, Wilkes County, Ga. Mr. Nisbet received his preparatory education under Rev. Nathan S. S. Beman, a celebrated teacher of that period; graduated at Franklin college, now the University of Georgia at Athens; and later took a law course at the Yale law school. He entered upon the practice of his profession in Columbus, Ga., but on account of ill health retired to his plantation in Russell County, where he lived an ideal country life. He was a member of the house of representatives, 1863; and a member of the constitutional convention of 1875. He was a Democrat; an Odd Fellow; and a Methodist. Author of "The wrong phial and its consequences," "King Cotton" and "The revolt of the South." Married: December 15, 1841, at Eatonton, Ga., to Arabella Clarke, daughter of Major William and Elizabeth (Lane) Alexander, natives of Virginia who moved to Putnam County, Ga., in 1803. Children: 1. William Lane, Confederate soldier, m. Mary Bradford Whitaker; 2. Eugene Cooper, Confederate soldier, died in Atlanta, 1863; 3. James Wingfield, Confederate soldier, m. Emma Crowell Abercrombie; 4. Robert Alexander, Confederate soldier, m. (1) Florence Bloom, (2) Cora Solomon Hunter; 5. Frank LeConte, m. Elizabeth Lane Whitaker, represented Russell County two terms in the Alabama legislature, and served two years as county superintendent of education; 6. Leonora; 7. Martha Chambers; 8. Elizabeth Flewellen. Last residence: Ft. Mitchell.

WALTER K. McADORY

NIXON, HERMAN CLARENCE, author and teacher, was born December 29, 1886, at Merrellton, Calhoun County; son of William D. and Nancy J. (Green) Nixon, the former a native of Douglas County, Ga., later a merchant and planter at Merrellton, and for nine years director of the Anniston city national bank and of the Anniston yarn mills; grandson of James Hamilton and Susan Emily (Davies) Nixon of Douglas County, Ga., later of Calhoun County, and of William Butler and Lydia Ann (Prater) Green of Merrellton. The Greens were from South Carolina; and the Nixons were of North Carolina stock. Mr. Nixon was educated in the public schools of Jacksonville; in 1907, he graduated from the Jacksonville State normal school; from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1909, and M. S., 1910, with a graduate scholarship in history; later held a scholarship in history in the University of Chicago, and received from that institution the degree of Ph. B.; and took a summer course at the George Peabody college for teachers at Nashville, 1916. He taught three years at Jacksonville State normal school, 1910-13, has been associated with his father in farming and merchandising, and was elected justice of the peace, Calhoun County, 1916. He is a Democrat; Methodist; a Mason; a member of the Southern sociological congress; and of the conference for education and industry. In 1917 Mr. Nixon enlisted for service in the U. S. Army, and was in a short time sent overseas. He did a tour of three months work prior to the armistice at supply headquarters of the American expeditionary forces, Tours, France. He then took a competitive examination for library work with the American peace commission, and was sent to Paris, here he was designated as librarian to the American commission. He was discharged from the army, with the rank of battalion sergeant-major and placed on civilian status. Upon the return of the larger number of experts of the American delegation, at the breaking up of the Peace commission library, he was placed on the research of the American secretariat in which capacity he served for five months until the breaking up of the American delegation in December, 1919. While with the library, he took a short course in history at the University of Paris. Author: "Alexander Beaufort Meek," in Alabama polytechnic institute, Historical studies, 4th series, 1910. Residence: Anniston.

NOBLE, ANDREW JACKSON, farmer, money broker and merchant was born January 1, 1819, near Huntsville, and died December 12, 1895; son of Sam Noble and wife, a Miss Scott, the former a ship captain, sailing between Wilmington, N. C., and the West Indies. He entered upon farming near Montgomery and later engaged in the mercantile business in that city with his brothers, B. F. and Geo. W., afterwards members of the firm of Noble and bro's, money brokers; and was mayor of Montgomery. He was a Democrat; Methodist; and a member of the Odd Fellows. Married: October 28, 1847, at Eatonton, Ga., to Mary G., daughter of Thomas Goodwyn and Sarah (Jordan) Sanford; granddaughter of Jesse Sanford, a native of Loudon County, Va., Lieutenant Revolutionary Army, was present at the siege of Yorktown, later emigrated to Georgia and settled in Hancock County. Children: 1. Clifford, deceased; 2. Arthur Sanford, m. Kate Patterson; 3. Edgar, deceased; 4. Andrew Jackson, jr., deceased; 5. Florence, m. Wm. E. Peebles, of Montgomery; 6. Sarah, deceased. Last residence: Montgomery.

NOBLE, GEORGE WASHINGTON, planter and manager of the Alabama Bible house, was born October, 1812, in North Carolina, and died in 1888, in Montgomery; son of Samuel and Elizabeth Noble of North Carolina. He came at an early age, with his brothers, Franklin and Jackson Noble, to Montgomery, and acquired an extensive plot of land, lying between the extension of South Court and Goode streets, still known as the "Noble Tract." He was one of the first managers of the Alabama Bible house, established by Abner McGehee, a position held by him until his death. He was a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: (1) April 14, 1844, to Martha Ann Parker, of Charleston, S. C.; (2) September 20, 1845, in Montgomery, to Barbara Dickerson. Children by first wife: 1. George De Votie, m. Ida Ponder; by the second wife: 2. Kate Christian Nixon, m. Alfred Benjamin Campbell, of Bullock County, one daughter, Katie Noble Campbell, m. Owen D. Brewer, and lives in Cloverdale, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

NOBLE, ROBERT ERNEST, surgeon U. S. Army, major medical corps, was born November 5, 1870, in Rome, Floyd County, Ga.; son of George and Lucy Bomer (Wadsworth) Noble, the former a native of Reading, Pa., later a resident of Rome, Ga., and Anniston, entered the Confederate Army in the ordnance department, promoted first lieutenant and quartermaster of Warford's brigade, was general manager of the Woodstock iron company of Anniston; grandson of James and Jenifer (Ward) Noble, who lived at Cromwell, England, and emigrated to Reading, Pa., prior to locating in Rome, in 1856, and of John and Penelope (Pope) Wadsworth of Jacksonville, Ala., and Rome, Ga. The Nobles sprang from the De Grenobles of Normandy, the first of the family in England being William De Grenoble who went thither with William the Conqueror. The head of the family was knighted and given a coat-of-arms for bravery at the battle of Agincourt. On the Wadsworth line the family came from English stock that emigrated to America in 1622 in the "Good Ship Anne," whose descendants married with good New England families, among whom were Josiah Bartlett, signer of the Declaration of Independence, Joseph Spencer, of the Continental Army, and Maj. Gen. Joseph Spencer, from whom Major Noble is an hereditary member of the Society of Cincinnati in the state of Connecticut, as well as John Holmes, one of the founders of the Cincinnati. Robert Ernest Noble received his early education in private schools in Rome and Anniston, and graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1890, with the degree of M. S.; was assistant State chemist in Alabama, 1892; assistant state chemist in North Carolina, one year; assistant State chemist and instructor in chemistry, Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1893-95; entered Columbia university college of physicians and surgeons, 1895, and graduated with the degree of M. D. in 1899; was interne at Randall's Island hospital and Metropolitan hospital, for one year. He entered the U. S. Army as acting assistant surgeon, 1900, and was ordered to the Philippines with rank of first lieutenant; served at Fort Sheridan; graduated from the Army medical school, Washington, D. C., 1904, and served at the Presidio, San Francisco, Ft. Casey, the Canal Zone, in Porto Rico, with Col. W. C. Gorgas, as a member of the sanitary commission, and in Ecuador; member of commission to Rand mines, Transvaal, S. Africa, to study cause of pneumonia, 1913-14; at Vera Cruz, Mexico, May-September, 1914; on duty at War department, Washington, D. C., 1914-18; arrived in France, October 25, 1918, and returned to the United States, August 3, 1919. He was decorated with the distinguished service medal, and was made commander of the Legion of Honor by the French government, 1919. He is an Episcopalian, and member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Married: November 23, 1905, at Auburn, to Ella, daughter of Prof. Nathaniel Thomas and Ella Virginia (Allomong) Lupton (q. v.). Residence: Washington, D. C.

NOBLE, STEPHEN, pioneer farmer, was born in Virginia, removed to Tennessee, where he lived a few years, and then settled in Demopolis, in 1817. The first log cabin was built there during that year, and later four more were added. In 1818, owing to the arrival of the French families, composing the "Vine and Olive" colony, he removed to Clarke County, and with the assistance of his two sons, raised a crop in anticipation of the arrival of his wife and remaining children in the fall. The journey to Big Salitpa, through the Choctaw Indian nation consumed almost a month, but besides the members of the family in the wagons, they brought with them a drove of three hundred hogs and a flock of seventy-five sheep. The native cane pasturage had attracted other settlers, and here were great herds of cattle, as many as a thousand head belonging to one owner, besides lesser herds. Deer, bear, wolves and trees of wild honey were also plentiful in the section. Children: 1. Rial, a soldier in the Creek War, Captain B. Foster's company; 2. Daniel; 3. Joseph; 4. Robert, also in the Creek War, with Capt. B. Foster's company; 5. Samuel S. Pinckney; 6. Martha, m. Moses Peyton; 7. Emily, m. W. Easley; 8. Elizabeth, m. M. Dean; 9. Jane, m. M. Pugh. Last residence: Clarke County.

NOOE, JOHN AUGUSTINE, lawyer, was born October 21, 1812, at Richmond, Va., and died December 18, 1865, at Memphis, Tenn.; son of John Baptist and Harriette (Triplette) Nooe, the former a native of Passey, a suburb of Paris, France, and of old Huguenot stock. Upon immigrating to America, he located in Virginia, where he married Harriette Triplette, both a belle and beauty, daughter of Daniel and Eliza Triplette of Richmond, Va., and later removed to Alabama. Mr. Nooe received his early education in his native city, and was prepared for college in Danville, Ky. He has the distinction of being the first graduate of the University of Alabama, where he completed his academic studies with the A. B. degree, 1832, and A. M. (honorary) 1835. He read law under Judge Barry of Tennessee and located first at Russellville, and later at Tusculumbia. In 1835 he represented Franklin County in the legislature, and was later judge of the court of that county, and district solicitor. In 1845 he ran for congress, but was defeated by George S. Houston of Limestone County. He was a Democratic presidential elector in the campaign of 1848. In 1855 he removed to Memphis, Tenn., where he died ten years later. He was a Democrat, and an Episcopalian. Married: in 1851, at the residence of Godfrey Malborn Fogg, in Nashville, to Harriet E., daughter of John A. and Julia (Stevenson) Crowds, of Franklin, Ky.; granddaughter of Eleanor Sharp; great-granddaughter of Jeanne Maxwell, of Scotch descent, and all natives of Kentucky. Children: 1. Ellen Fogg; 2. Louise Volney Stevenson, m. Richard Gordon Walker, Memphis, Tenn.; 3. John A., jr. Last residence: Memphis.

NORMAN, FELIX GRUNDY, lawyer, was born January 4, 1808, near Smyrna, Rutherford County, Tenn., and died August 5, 1885 at Tusculumbia; son of John and Margaret (Stockard) Norman who lived at Smyrna. He was denied early educational advantages, but was taught in the rudiments by an older brother. He began life as a merchant but later taught school for several years. He studied law under William Casper, was admitted to the bar in Tusculumbia in the early thirties, and practiced at that point and in the surrounding country until his death. He was mayor of Tusculumbia for many years, and represented his county in the legislature for the sessions of 1841, 1842, 1843, 1844, 1845 and 1847-48, inclusive. Although he supported the Confederacy with his means and influence, he was debarred from active participation on account of his age. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: August 17, 1848, at Dickson, to Jane Lavinia, daughter of Henry and Jane (Shelton) Cook, of Spotsylvania County, Va., residents for some years of Huntsville, later locating in Tuscumbia where they spent the remaining years of their lives, the former for some time government agent for the disposition of Indian lands. Children: 1. John Henry; 2. Felix Grundy, m. Della Phares, Salinas, Calif.; 3. Mary Barton, m. John R. Charlton, La Verge, Tenn.; 4. Kate Cook, m. Hall S. Kirkpatrick; 5. Thomas Edgar, m. Lee Ellis, Memphis; 6. James Beverly. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

NORMAN, JAMES DAVID, business man, was born April 22, 1852, near Thomaston, Upson County, Ga.; son of Thomas J. and Amanda (Adams) Norman; grandson of William Norman, and of Benjamin F. and Vasti Adams of Upson County, Ga. The Normans are of French descent while the Adams are German. Mr. Norman had but few educational advantages; his early manhood was spent in the mercantile business in Lafayette; for ten years he engaged in the hotel, livery, and stock business in the same town; removed to New Town, now Lanett, in 1903, and engaged in the mercantile, real estate and stock business; represented Chambers County in the legislature, 1885; was mayor of Lafayette, 1887; was elected mayor for a term of two years, 1900; in 1901 was elected to the State senate from the ninth district, being chairman of the temperance committee and other important committees; in 1906 resigned his place in the senate to accept a position as assistant superintendent and campaign manager for the Anti-Saloon league; in 1907 was elected a member of the county board of education for Chambers County; and in 1910 was again elected to the State senate. He is a Democrat; a member of the Baptist church, which he has served as deacon for twenty-five years; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: February 22, 1876, at Lewisville, Ark., to Eugenia S., daughter of Cornelius and Mary (Kennon) Rea, who were of Scotch-Irish descent. Children: 1. Harry B.; 2. E. R., m. Emma R. Chambers; 3. Carrie F., m. Lee O. Calaway; 4. B. F., m. Carrie Hill; 5. Frank A.; 6. Reamen D.; 7. Mamie; 8. Sadie. Residence: Lanett.

NORMAN, JAMES DEAN, lawyer, was born July 27, 1854, at Villula, Russell County; son of James Heyman Talmage and Mary Elizabeth (Dean) Norman (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Pike and Bullock Counties; studied law in the office of Norman and Wilson, Union Springs; was admitted to the bar in 1879, and located at Union Springs in the practice, where he still resides. He was elected and served as mayor, 1887-90; 1892-94; 1896-98; 1908-11, finally resigning. He was a member of the constitutional convention, 1901. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: May 18, 1880, at Union Springs, to Willie Katherine, daughter of William Henry and Mary Ann White (Ryan) Candler, of Wrightsboro, Ga. She was descended from Col. Wm. Candler and his wife Elizabeth Anthony, the former a colonel in the Revolutionary Army; and also from Thomas White and his wife, Mary Ann Hunt, the former also a Revolutionary soldier. Children: 1. James Talmage, m. Anne Elizabeth Miller, Union Springs; 2. Willie Candler, m. Daniel Lott, Waycross, Ga.; 3. Charles Dozier, Union Springs; 4. Mary Dean, m. Jerome Crawley, Waycross. Residence: Union Springs.

NORMAN, JAMES TALMADGE, lawyer and State senator, was born January 16, 1830, at Columbus, Muscogee County, Ga., and died December 11, 1895, at Union Springs; son of James Shedrick and Leah Janet (Marks) Norman, the former a native of St. George's, London, England, who located in Georgia, removed to Russell County, in 1854, and finally settled in Union Springs, where he died in 1871; grandson of James and Ann (Salisbury) Norman of London, and of Leon Heyman and Jane (McMurray) Marks of Louisville, Ga.; great-grandson of William Salisbury of London who settled in Maryland, and of Lane Laird Marks of North Carolina, of German origin. He received a common school education; read law in Columbus, Ga.; was admitted to the bar of Georgia in 1849; and to the practice before the supreme court of Alabama in 1857. He entered the C. S. Army in 1861, as lieutenant of Co. B, 23rd Alabama infantry regiment; promoted adjutant with rank of captain; was taken prisoner, sent to Alton, Ill., and later transferred to Johnson's Island, where he remained until his parole, February, 1865. Upon returning to Union Springs he resumed the practice of law; elected to the State senate and served 1882-83, and 1884-85. He drew the original draft of the bill to create Bullock County, and was appointed on the commission to treat upon the subject of the territory for the new county, also the commission to hold an election to fill the various offices, to select the site for the court house, and to put the whole county machinery in motion. He was a Democrat, and a Presbyterian. Married: in October, 1857, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. David and Miriam (Eiland) Dean, of Georgia. Children: 1. Miriam Jacintha, m. John Alexander Reid, Union Springs; 2. James Dean (q. v.) m. Willie Katherine Candler, Union Springs; 3. Samuel Marks; 4. Ernest; 5. Frederick, m. Margaret Judson Brannon; 6. Mary, Union Springs; 7. Thomas J. Lewis, m. (1) Anna Gertrude Johnson, (2) Helen Corinne Lindsay, Baltimore, Md. Last residence: Union Springs.

NORRIS, BENJAMIN W., representative in congress, was born in 1819 at Monmouth, Kennebec County, Me., and died January 27, 1873, at Montgomery. In 1843 he graduated from Waterville college, now Colby university and engaged in mercantile pursuits. In 1848 he was a delegate to the Free Soil convention, which nominated Van Buren and Adams; held several local offices; was a delegate to the Republican national convention which nominated Lincoln and Johnson, in Baltimore, 1864. He was land agent of Maine, 1860-1863, and was subsequently commissioner for Maine of the Soldiers' national cemetery at Gettysburg; from 1864-65, served as paymaster in the U. S. army; became a planter in Alabama after the war; was elected as a Republican to the Fortieth congress, March 4, 1867-March 3, 1869; where he served as a member of the committee on reconstruction. He introduced a bill, and subsequently reported the same from the committee on reconstruction, and secured its passage, providing for the appointment of midshipmen to the Naval Academy from the southern states. He also introduced a bill making a grant of lands to the Eureka mining and transportation company of Alabama; a bill granting to the Eufaula, Opelika, Oxford and Guntersville railroad the right of way through public lands, and a subsidy to aid its construction; a bill securing certain rights to the lately reconstructed states and a resolution instructing the committee on postoffices and postroads to inquire into the expediency of further legislation to secure greater efficiency in the mail service in the states lately in rebellion. Last residence: Montgomery.

NORRIS, GEORGE D., grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1867-68; grand high priest, grand chapter, 1866; deputy grand master, grand council, 1866-67.

NORRIS, PATRICK, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Greene County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on September 28, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

NORRIS, THOMAS, sr., pioneer and physician, was born in 1755, in Maryland, and died April 23, 1818, in Morgan County, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Nathaniel N. Allen; son of English pioneer settlers. He was educated in the schools of Baltimore; and studied medicine; removed to Hanover County, Va., where he practiced his profession. He removed to Wilkes County, Ga., before the Revolutionary War, in which he served on the American side. In 1820, he removed to Alabama, locating at Cahaba. He acquired large holdings of land in what is now Dallas County and engaged in extensive planting. He was an old line Whig; and a Methodist. Married: to Sarah Ann Billingslea, of Baltimore, daughter of Lady Frances Sarah Billingslea, a widow, of London, England, who came from Wales to live in America, bringing two children, a son and a daughter. She located on an estate near Baltimore. Children: 1. William Jefferson, m. Miss Rutherford (q. v.); 2. Mary; 3. Calvin; 4. and 5. Franklin and Archibald, twins; 6. John B.; 7. Thomas B.; 8. Emily Frances, m. Dr. Nathaniel Allen; 9. Susan, m. Hudson Ware, of Uniontown. Last residence: Morgan County.

NORRIS, WILLIAM H., planter and legislator, was born about 1793, and died in Dallas County. He served his county in the legislature, 1840-43; in the senate, 1844-47. He was an extensive planter until 1867, when he joined the colony of Alabamians, who went in that year to Brazil there to make their homes. He was a Whig in politics. Last residence: Dallas County.

NORRIS, WILLIAM JEFFERSON, business man, was born July 26, 1808, in Madison, Ga., and died July 12, 1885, in Selma; son of Thomas and Sarah Ann (Billingslea) Norris, of Virginia and Georgia, and who removed to Cahaba, in 1820, the former a Revolutionary soldier. He was educated in the schools of his community, and early engaged in business pursuits. In 1826 he removed to Selma, Dallas County, and entered mercantile life as a clerk. In 1832, was a member of the firm, Douglas, Wood and Norris; later he formed a partnership with William Johnson and later still the firm was changed to W. J. and J. A. Norris. In 1856 he was elected president of the Commercial bank of Alabama, capital $500,000. During the War of Secession, this bank invested its capital in Confederate bonds and in 1865 failed, leaving organizers financially ruined. Mr. Norris built some of the handsomest homes in Selma, two of which are still landmarks, the residence of the late U. S. Senator Pettus, and that of Mrs. Pernell. He introduced the mock-orange and the white mulberry as shade trees in the section and sponsored other civic improvements. By his assistance, the brick building of the M. E. Church, South, on South street, was built. In the yellow fever epidemic of 1853, he was among the men who stayed and nursed the stricken people. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: October 26, 1837, to Rebecca L., daughter of William and Eleanor (Pinson) Rutherford, planter, of Dallas County, a member of the Rutherford family of Georgia; granddaughter of Thomas B. Rutherford, member of the State legislature from Dallas County in 1822. Children: 1. William Rutherford; 2. Thomas, Confederate soldier, killed at Chapel Hill, N. C., 1865; 3. Ada, m. J. C. Compton; 4. Franklin; 5. Leila, m. Col. D. M. Scott, of Selma; 6. Eugenia, m. B. H. Franklin of Tennessee. Last residence: Selma.

NORTHCUTT, C. W., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Opelika.

NORTHCUTT, JOHN EDWARD, Methodist minister and teacher, was born December 27, 1870, at Evergreen, Conecuh County; son of John Henry and Celia Emma (Mason) Northcutt, the former a native of Greenville, Butler County, who removed to Evergreen, a Confederate soldier, serving from November 1, 1861 to the close of the war, as a member of Co. H, 23rd Alabama infantry regiment; grandson of William Allen and Nancy (Moore) Northcutt of Burnt Corn, and of Benjamin and Margaret (Mansell) Mason of Old Sparta and Evergreen; great-grandson of John Northcutt, a native of South Carolina, and a Methodist preacher, who married Susanna Harold of that state and removed to Burnt Corn in 1809. The Northcutts are of pure English stock. Mr. Northcutt received his early education at Forest Home; graduated from the Southern university, A. B., 1896; and took a post-graduate course in the biblical department of the University of Chicago. He was principal of the Montgomery district high school, 1896-1900; principal of the Methodist school at Notasulga; professor of mathematics, Centenary college, Jackson, La., 1900-1903; and vice-president Centenary college for one year. He later joined the Alabama conference and for nine years served pastorates, and is now a presiding elder. He is a Mason. Married: August 18, 1897, at Auburn, to Mattie Lou, daughter of William Alexander and Lucinda Antoinette (Potts) Moore of Centreville, Miss., the former a Confederate soldier, Co. E, Sixth Mississippi infantry regiment. Two of her ancestors were governors respectively of North Carolina and of South Carolina. The Potts family is Scotch. Children: 1. Louis Henry. Residence: Selma.

NORTHERN, THOMAS, physician and teacher, was born February 17, 1845, near Oakbowery, Chambers County; son of William Stephen and Vicy Anne (Wilson) Northern, the former a native of Jones County, Ga., who later lived successively at Lafayette, Auburn, Cusseta, Opelika, and Rock Shoal; grandson of Ephraim and Ann (Gafford) Northern, also of Jones County, and of Thomas and Jency (Hooker) Wilson of Lafayette, and later of Opelika. The original American ancestors settled in Virginia prior to the Revolution. Dr. Northern's early educational advantages were limited. He had a few months in school during the War of Secession while at home on sick leave, and also attended school a short while after the close of hostilities. Soon thereafter he became a teacher and for ten years successfully followed that honorable calling in Tallapoosa and Chambers Counties. In 1878 he entered the Atlanta medical college, from which he graduated; entered upon the practice at Lineville, Clay County, and later removed to Ashland, where he now resides. He entered the C. S. Army in February, 1862; was corporal Co. I, 37th Alabama regiment infantry and was promoted to the color guard of his regiment before the battle of Missionary Ridge, in which he was wounded in the right hand and disabled for active service. After recovering he was detailed to the commissary department, serving until the close of the war. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; Mason; and Odd Fellow. Married: (1) December 13, 1866, at Chapel Hill, to Josie, daughter of W. L. and Sarah Ann Wilson of that place; (2) June 24, 1896, near Loachapoka, to Nettie, daughter of N. W. and Eliza Pattillo, of Lee County. Children: 1. Charles Stephen, physician, m. (1) Annie Pattillo; (2) Hallie Bartlett, Ashland; 2. Arthur Arlington, m. Sallie White, Ashland; 3. Cora, m. James R. Jarrell, Louisville; 4. Ola, m. M. H. Whatley, Birmingham; 5. Cressey, Talladega; 6. William L., dentist, m. Esther Hubbard; 7. Octavia, m. H. L. Also-brook, Ashland; 8. Thurman, physician, m. Nellar Treadwell. Residence: Ashland.

NORTON, H. B., educator, superintendent of the city schools of Roanoke in 1913.

NORTON, JOHN W., Methodist minister, member of the North Alabama conference; agent, superannuate homes. Residence: Birmingham.

NORVELL, PEYTON, lawyer and business man, was born August 7, 1861, at Waverly, Prince William County, Va.; son of Lucien Bonaparte and Clara (Hawes) Norvell, the former a native of Virginia, civil engineer and a captain in the Confederate Army; grandson of William Peyton, who ran a line of boats from Dumfries, Va., to Havana, Cuba, and of Aylette Hawes. He received his elementary education in the public schools of Lynchburg, Va., and at Tulane university, New Orleans, La.; was admitted to the bar in Alabama, 1894, and entered upon the practice at Jasper; judge of law and equity in Walker County, 1901-02; interested in the development of the coal industry and other business activities. For a few years he resided in Birmingham, but later removed to Florence, where he died. He was a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: March 4, 1886, to Mary, daughter of Elbert C. Leech of Mississippi a captain in the 26th Alabama regiment, Confederate Army. Children: 1. Mary Hawes; 2. Clara Davis; 3. Kathleen; 4. Peyton, jr.; 5. Sallie. Last residence: Florence.

NORVILLE, JOSEPH HENRY, marine pilot, was born June 23, 1862, at Navy Cove, Baldwin County; son of William Thomas and Annie (O'Connor) Norville, the former who was a native of Baltimore, was pilot in Mobile bay and bar for more than forty years, and while piloting a Confederate blockade runner to sea in January, 1864, was captured by the Federal warship Colorado and taken to Ft. Warren, Mass.; grandson of William James Rukard and Mary Anne (Seymour) Norville, of Baltimore, Md., the former who was a native of Virginia, was a navigator and sailed three times around the globe, commanded government transport vessels during the War of Secession, and of Brian and Annie (O'Neill) O'Connor, who lived at Wexford, Ireland; great-grandfather of Aquilla Norville, who was a sergeant in the Seventh and Eleventh Virginia regiments, 1776-1779. Mr. Norville was educated in a private school at Navy Cove and in Mobile; he has been a pilot in Mobile bay and bar, receiving license to pilot September 15, 1891; was elected alderman of Mobile, 1903; re-elected in 1906; was at one time captain of Battery A, First artillery, Alabama National Guard; and was a member of the house of representatives from Mobile County during the session of 1907. He is a Democrat; a member of the Protestant Episcopal church; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 25, 1891, at Mobile, to Sarah Estelle, daughter of John Alexis and Sarah B. (Broughton) Tardy. Children: 1. John Alexis; 2. Louise Zephine; 3. Sarah Estelle; 4. Joseph Henry; 5. James Aquilla. Residence: Mobile.

NORWOOD, HENRY, planter, sheriff, major general State militia and member Alabama legislature, was born in Franklin County, Tenn., and died July, 1840, at Bellefonte; son of Samuel Norwood who lived near Winchester, Tenn. The early American ancestors were of English stock and settled in Virginia and North Carolina. He was a man of good education a planter and slave owner, located in Jackson County, in 1820. He served as lieutenant in the War of 1812; was captain in the Creek and Seminole Wars in Florida, 1836-40; and at the time of his death was both sheriff and major-general of State militia. He represented his county in the legislature at the sessions of 1831, 1832, 1833 and 1835. Married: (1) to Aletha, daughter of George Caperton, who resided near Bolivar, Jackson County, originally Virginians who had removed first to Georgia and later to Alabama; (2) to Sophia Metts, daughter of James I. and Margarete (Praigmore) Green, the former a native of New Jersey and the latter of Tennessee. Children by first marriage: 1. Samuel C.; 2. Eleanor; 3. George A.; 4. John H. (q. v.); 5. Hugh J.; 6. Elizabeth; 7. Mary; by second marriage; 8. William H. Last residence: Bellefonte.

NORWOOD, JOHN HENRY, lawyer, brigadier general, C. S. Army, State senator, member constitutional convention, 1875, probate judge, was born November 23, 1828, at Bellefonte, Jackson County, and died there November, 1891; son of Henry and Aletha (Caperton) Norwood (q. v.). He was educated in the public schools of Jackson County; spent three years in Irving college, Tenn.; read law in his native village and admitted to the bar in 1852; was appointed probate judge in 1855, and was shortly thereafter elected to succeed himself, holding office until March, 1861, when he resigned for military service. He entered the Confederate Army as first lieutenant in Bradford's company, Second Alabama infantry regiment, resigned his office in a few months to return home, and raised five companies which became "Norwood's Battalion," in the 43rd Tennessee infantry regiment of which he was elected lieutenant colonel. He was captured at Ft. Donelson, imprisoned at Ft. Warren; was exchanged at Richmond; once more entered the service and was severely wounded at Peach Tree Creek. He resumed the practice of his profession after the close of hostilities, and in 1865 was elected to the State senate; was a delegate to the constitutional convention, 1875; was again elected probate judge of Jackson County in 1886 and was in this position at the time of his demise. He was an extensive planter, and at one time sheriff. He was a member of the Christian Church; a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: December 25, 1856, to Margaret, daughter of John N. and Mary Netherland of Bellefonte. Her parents were natives of Virginia and settled in Alabama in its pioneer period. Last residence: Bellefonte.

NORWOOD, JOSEPH, business man, was born December 20, 1854, at Darling, S. C., and died in 1919; son of James H. and Mary Roberts (Brooks) Norwood, the former who was a lawyer, a native of Hartsville, S. C., and was for several years a member of the South Carolina legislature; grandson of John W. and Melissa Brooks, of Greenville, S. C.; and great-grandson of Capt. John Norwood, who served in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Norwood was educated in the common schools of Lowndes County, with one term at the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn. He was a farmer and a merchant at Fort Deposit; from 1885 to 1887 was mayor; removed to Montgomery; served as vice-president of the Exchange national bank; he was a delegate from Lowndes County to the Alabama constitutional convention of 1901; and served on the committees on the executive department, and on amending the constitution and miscellaneous provisions in that body; and was State senator from the sixteenth district in 1903. He was a Democrat, and a Baptist. Married: February 5, 1880, to Virginia, daughter of John A. and Matilda Martha (Warren) Tyson of Lowndes County. Children: 1. Josie Pearl; 2. Virginia Tyson, m. Edward S. Watts; 3. Mary Matilda; 4. Florence; 5. Jamie Isabel. Last residence: Ft. Deposit.

NOTT, JOSIAH CLARKE, physician and founder of the Medical college of Alabama, was born in March, 1804, at Columbia, S. C., and died March 31, 1873, at Mobile; son of Judge Abram and Angelica (Mitchell) Nott, the former who was a native of Connecticut and was for twenty years on the supreme court bench of South Carolina; brother of Henry Junius Nott, a well-known South Carolina writer. In 1824 he graduated from South Carolina college, receiving an A. B. degree, and in 1827 from the University of Pennsylvania, with the degree of M. D. In 1827-29, he was demonstrator of anatomy at the University of Pennsylvania; practiced medicine in Columbia, S. C., 1829-34, and spent more than a year in the hospitals of Paris, studying surgery and general science. From 1836-57 he practiced in Mobile; was professor of anatomy in the University of Louisiana, 1857-58; established the medical school of the State university at Mobile, 1858, which contained the best museum in America, and developed into one of the leading medical schools of the country before the War of Secession; in 1859-61, was professor of surgery at the college. In 1861-65, he served on the medical staff of General Bragg, having been medical inspector of the Second Army corps, at Shiloh in 1862. Soon after the war, he moved to Baltimore, where he practiced for a year, and in 1867 he moved to New York, where he practiced medicine, but the winters were too severe for him and in the fall of 1872 he went to Aiken, S. C., for the benefit of his health, and later returned to Mobile. Dr. Nott originated several capital operations of surgery and made improvements in the methods of procedure in other operations.

Dr. Nott was a writer, as well as a physician. His first literary labor in his profession was the translation of Braussais on "Inflammation." He was a frequent contributor to medical journals and other periodicals, and was the first person to suggest that insects play a part as carriers of yellow fever, these views being presented in a paper, "On the Cause of Yellow Fever," which appeared in 1848 in the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal. He also wrote many articles on natural history and the related sciences, the best known of his works being: "The Connection between the Biblical and Physical History of Man," 1849; "Physical History of the Jewish Race," 1850; "Types of Mankind," 1854; "Indigenous Races of the Earth," 1857. The last two works were written in collaboration with George R. Gliddon, an Englishman by birth, who had spent the greater part of his life in Egypt, living in Alabama only a year, and then on the eastern shore of Mobile Bay, while working on, "Types of Mankind." These works acquired considerable reputation, both in this country and in Europe, for they sustained the doctrine of the diversity of the human origins against the doctrine that all of the various races had descended by modification from a common stock. However, about this time, Darwin's great works on the origin of species appeared and soon the polygenistic speculations of Dr. Nott ceased to attract attention. Married: in March, 1832, to Sarah Chestnut, daughter of Col. James Sutherland, and Margaret (Chestnut) Deas, and sister of Zachariah C. Deas (q. v.). Mrs. Nott died April 17, 1883, in New York City. There were eight children born to this union, among them: 1. Edward Fisher, b. August 17, 1834, d. in early life about 1854; 2. James Deas, b. June 10, 1836, was a lieutenant in the C. S. army, killed in battle of Chancellorsville; 3. Henry Junius, b., January 18, 1838, received an A. B. degree from the South Carolina College in 1857, private in the C. S. army, d. in 1861; 4. Josiah Clarke, jr., b. October 26, 1845, d., at San Antonio, Tex., May 12, 1890. Last residence: Mobile.

FRANK H. CROCKARD

NOWLIN, DAVID SAMUEL, teacher, farmer and member constitutional convention of 1875, was born September 28, 1821, near Lynchburg, Va., and died January 1, 1880; son of Wade and Ann Watson (Douglas) Nowlin, natives of Virginia. He was educated in common schools of that State; was a teacher and a farmer; emigrated in early manhood to Huntsville, Madison County; sheriff of that county, one term; later moved to Marshall County, whence he settled in DeKalb County, which he represented in the constitutional convention of 1875; was a member of Co. K, Third Confederate cavalry regiment, Wheeler's division, C. S. Army. He was a Democrat. Married: (1) Nancy Jane, daughter of Ephraim and Hester Ledbetter, of Madison County; (2) a daughter of William and Jane Nicholson. Children, by first wife: 1. Benjamin A.; 2. Annie B., deceased; 3. Archie Wade, deceased; by second wife: 4. Jennie, m. Dr. E. O. Nicholson; 5. Beula C., m. a Gilbert; 6. Julia Brown, deceased; 7. Eugene, of Memphis, Tenn.; 8. E. A., of Chattanooga; 9. Mattie, m. S. R. Dobbs, and resides in Tahlequah, Okla.; 10. G. G., of Cleveland, Tenn. Last residence: De Kalb County.

NUNNALLY, GUSTAVUS ALONZO, Baptist minister, teacher and author, was born March 24, 1841, near Monroe, Walton County, Ga.;

youngest son of eleven children born to William Branch and Mary Hale (Talbot) Nunnally, the former a native of Powhatan County, Va., served in the War of 1812, and located in Georgia, immediately after peace; and grandson of John and Mary (Hale) Talbot, of Virginia, the latter a niece of Gov. Matthew Talbot. Dr. Nunnally attended the common schools of his native county; at an early age was sent to boarding school in Madison, eighteen miles from his father's farm; at twelve he was studying Latin, Greek, and higher mathematics. He was prepared for college at the Monroe academy, Georgia, and entered the University of Georgia in October, 1856, at fourteen years of age, and was graduated 1859. He was soon afterwards elected professor of mathematics of the Hamilton female college, Georgia; and later an academy was built at Monroe of which he was elected principal, a position he held for twelve years. During the War of Secession he served as quartermaster of the Ninth Georgia regiment. At the close of the war he entered the Baptist ministry. He served country and village churches for ten years; from 1876-86, the First Baptist church, Rome, Ga.; he assisted in the supervision of construction of the buildings, and in the organization of Shorter college; organized the church building department of the Southern Baptist convention; was pastor of the First Baptist church at Eufaula; was called to Anniston, where he collected the fund, built and organized the Parker memorial church; from this work he went to the presidency of Mercer university; in 1892 he became pastor of the Central Baptist church, Memphis, Tenn.; in 1895 elected president of the Southern female college at La Grange, Ga., and served ten years; returned to the pastorate and for five years had charge of the First Baptist church of Newnan, Ga.; called to the presidency of Columbia college, Lake City, Fla.; but resigned owing to ill health, and located in Rome, Ga., where he has since continued to reside. He was county surveyor of Walton County, Ga., 1860-70; and county school superintendent, 1862-74. He was a Whig prior to the War, since which time he has been a Democrat. He is a Mason; Odd Fellow; and Knight of Pythias. He has been a leader in the prohibition movement. Author: "Bible studies in Bible words," a work for preachers and Bible teachers of all denominations; and he has also contributed largely to the religious and secular press on educational and moral questions. Married: November 23, 1859, at Monroe, Ga., to Mary Catherine, daughter of Ralph and Sarah (Dougherty) Briscoe, of that place. Children: 1. Alonzo Harris, m. Jessie Stafford, Atlanta, Ga.; 2. Wm. Josiah, m. (1) Estelle Eckles, (2) Clarke Lee, Rome; 3. Lucius Mell, Memphis, Tenn.; 4. Marion Ernest; 5. Omer Lafayette; 6. Sara Kate, m. Gen. George P. Harrison (q. v.). Residence: Rome, Ga.

NUNNELEE, JAMES HOWELL, journalist, was born January 26, 1858, at Entwah, Greene County; son of Stephen Franklin and Mary Amanda (Murphy) Nunnelee; and brother of Luman Handley Nunnelee (q. v.). The Nunnelee family is Welsh, locating first in Virginia and later removing to Georgia, while the Murphys are Scotch-Irish and removed from York District, S. C., to Greene County. Mr. Nunnelee received his education in the common schools of Greene County, and at the Archibald institute, Pleasant Ridge. He entered a printing office at the age of twenty years and engaged as a printer and editor until 1907; was a member of the State senate from Dallas County, 1898-1900; in 1907 was appointed recording secretary to the governor, by Gov. B. B. Comer; and on change of administration, was retained as recording secretary by Gov. Emmet O'Neal, serving until May 1, 1913. During his journalistic career he has edited and published the following papers: Tuscaloosa "Gazette," 1878-88; Anniston "Evening News," 1888-92; Selma "Morning Times," 1892-1907; Tuscaloosa "News and Times Gazette," 1915; and the "Montgomery Times." He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: to Emma Leonard, daughter of Leonard B. and Maria (Williams) Neal; and granddaughter of Judge Marmaduke and Agnes (Payne) Williams (q. v.), of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Stephen Franklin. Residence: Montgomery.

NUNNELEE, LUMAN HANDLEY, editor and publisher, was born April 20, 1869, at Pleasant Ridge, Greene County; son of Stephen F. and Mary (Murphy) Nunnelee, a printer, a native of Dallas County, who lived there until 1842, when he moved to Eutaw, who served in the Mexican War, and when the War of Secession began, raised and commanded the first company that left for the defense of the state, and in the spring of 1862, his health failing, returned home, but again answered the call and raised and commanded a small company on the coast, was wounded and captured at Shelbyville and transferred to Fort Delaware where he remained until October, when he was exchanged; grandson of Howard and Malinda (Morgan) Nunnelee of Portland, and of James and Angeline (Sadler) Murphy, of Eutaw. He is a brother of James Howell Nunnelee (q. v.). He was educated at the University high school of Tuscaloosa, and in 1897 became proprietor of "The Press" at Centreville. He was a private in the Warrior Guards for a number of years, lieutenant in the Woodstock Guards at Anniston, lieutenant in Troop C, of the Dallas Light Dragoons, of Selma, and later a non-commissioned officer in the Hardee light infantry of the same place. He has served as register in chancery for Bibb County; is a Democrat; a deacon in the Presbyterian church and senior deacon in his lodge of Masons. Married: April 6, 1898, in Selma, to Iva Bradfield, daughter of John Tyler and Fannie (Traylor) Russell, of Lowndesboro. Children: 1. Frances Sybil Nunnelee. Residence: Centreville.

NUNNELLY, ANDREW J., deputy grand high priest, grand chapter, Masons, 1894.

O

OAKLEY, ELLWOOD F., legislator, was born July 2, 1878, at Sweet Water, Marengo County; son of DeWitt P. Oakley who was also a native of Sweetwater. His paternal and maternal grandparents were from Virginia and Georgia respectively. He was educated in the common schools; was mayor of Pine Hill four years; member of the town council six years; and was one of the representatives in the legislature of 1919 from Wilcox County. He is a Democrat; Prohibitionist; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: April 24, 1910, at Pine Hill, to Della Hazel, daughter of James and Sarah E. Lewis, of Tateville, Ky. Children: 1. Ellwood F., jr.; 2. Elsie F.; 3. Gregory L. Residence: Pine Hill.

OAKLEY, JAMES GEE, farmer and president board of convict inspectors, was born August 2, 1867, at Ashby, Bibb County; son of William and Nancy Paratine (Sims) Oakley, the former of Edgefield District, S. C., the latter of Maury County, Tenn.; grandson of Armistead Oakley and wife, of Petersburg, Va., and of Littlepage and Nancy (Overton) Sims, of Maury County, Tenn. He was educated in the common schools of Bibb County; read law under B. M. Allen, during 1884 and 1885, in Birmingham but never applied for a license to practice; sheriff of Bibb County, 1906-1910; became a member of the Bibb County Democratic executive committee in 1892; was chairman 1904-1906; has been a delegate to every State convention since 1888; was delegate to the Democratic national convention at Denver from the 9th congressional district in 1907; served as president of the State board of convict inspectors, 1911-1913. He entered the service in 1916 as a captain in the 1st Alabama cavalry, under Col. R. E. Steiner, served with this unit on the Mexican border, in Alabama, and at Macon, Ga., after it had become the 117th field artillery. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: January 17, 1904, at Briarfield, Bibb County, to Myrtle Clary, daughter of Capt. Thomas Stanley and Marguerite Emma (Johnson) Alvis, of Richmond, Va. Residence: Centerville.

OAKS, ISAAC, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Perry County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on October 29, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $60; sums received to date of publication of list, $150.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Perry County, June 1, 1840, with Willis Osbourn, aged 81.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

OATES, W. S., physician, died April 11, 1913. Last residence: Headland.

OATES, WILLIAM CALVIN, statesman and lawyer, was born December 1, 1835, in Pike, now Bullock County, and died September 9, 1910, at Montgomery; son of William and Sarah (Sellers) Oates, the former being a native of South Carolina, who moved to Montgomery in 1828, and soon after to Pike County, where he became a planter and married in 1834; grandson of Stephen Oates and of Mathew Sellers, and a descendant of Irish and French ancestors on the maternal side and of Welsh ancestors on the paternal side. He received his early education in the Oldfield schools, leaving home at the age of sixteen and leading a roving life in the Southwest; from 1851-55 taught school in Henry County; attended the high school at Lawrenceville, and studied law in the office of Pugh, Bullock and Buford in Eufaula, 1858-59. In the winter of 1858-59 he was admitted to the bar, and practiced in Abbeville, 1859-61. In 1860 he was editor of a Democratic paper, and entered the C. S. Army in 1861 as captain in the Fifteenth Alabama infantry. He served in twenty-seven of the forty engagements of this regiment and was in command of his regiment from the battle of Sharpsburg until he was transferred, July 1, 1864, to the Forty-eighth Alabama infantry, having been promoted to the rank of colonel in April, 1863. He was wounded at Brown's Ferry on the Tennessee, and lost his right arm at Russell's mills, near Petersburg, August 16, 1864. In 1865 he resumed his law practice at Abbeville; was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in New York in 1868; a representative in the Alabama legislature, 1870-72, serving as chairman of the committee on ways and means, and as chairman of the judiciary committee of the state constitutional convention of 1875; was elected to congress from the Third Alabama district seven times beginning in 1880, and after serving fourteen years, resigned in November, 1894, in consequence of having been elected governor of the state, being inaugurated into that office, December 1, 1894. While a member of congress he was the advocate of good laws, regardless of their political origin. He opposed the alien ownership of land, combated unrestricted immigration into the United States, urged the amending of the national bank laws, approved the liberal coinage of silver, spoke for the incorporation of the Nicaragua canal company, but objected to the United States' endorsement of the bonds of that or any other corporation; he opposed the experiment of the interstate commerce law, worked vigorously, although unsuccessfully for the return of the $68,000,000 cotton tax to the southern people, favored liberal appropriations for the improvement of natural waterways, but opposed the appropriation for canals, was responsible for the non-enactment of the direct tax refunding bill for that session and in 1892, endorsed Mr. Cleveland's measures for congressional repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman silver law; he pressed the appointment of Hon. Hilary A. Herbert as secretary of the navy. During his term of governorship, he made marked improvements in the finances of the state, and in the convict system. He was candidate for U. S. senator in 1897, but was defeated by Gen. E. W. Pettus, of the Free Silver wing of the party; was commissioned by President McKinley, brigadier-general of the U. S. volunteers, May 28, 1898, and served in the Spanish-American war; was nominated as one of the four from the state at large and elected to the constitutional convention of 1901; was chairman of the committee on the legislative department of the new constitution, and was a member on the committee of suffrage and elections where he dissented from the majority on the qualification for suffrage, objecting in particular to the indiscriminate soldier and grandfather clauses, and urging the elevation of the franchise, making the standard of fitness alike for the whites and blacks, but the majority overrode his objections. He has written many articles for periodicals, the North American Review, the Forum and newspapers. He has published a collection of his speeches made in congress, and has written a two volume book, entitled, "The Confederate War—Lost Opportunities—The Fifteenth Alabama Regiment in Forty-seven Battles." Married: March 28, 1882, to Sallie, daughter of Col. Washington Toney of Eufaula. Children: 1. William Calvin, m. Georgia Saffold. Last residence: Montgomery.

OATES, WILLIAM HENRY, physician, was born November 28, 1871, at Mobile; son of Jethro Daniel and Mary (McCaskill) Oates, the former who was a native of Faison County, N. C., and the latter who was a native of Camden, S. C.; grandson of Claibourne Ivey and Eleanor (Blount) Oates of Faison County, N. C., and of Malcom and Catherine (Cameron) McCaskill of Camden, S. C.; great-grandson of Warren and Eleanor (Bordeaux) Blount; great-great-grandson of Daniel Bordeaux; great-great-great-grandson of Daniel and Betsy (Miller) Bordeaux; great-great-great-great-grandson of Daniel Bordeaux, who was a member of the committee of safety in North Carolina, and was taken prisoner to Florida. Mr. Oates was educated in the public and private schools of Mobile; was graduated B. S., from the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn, 1891; was graduated M. D. from the Bellevue hospital medical college, New York, 1898. He is a physician and a surgeon; served in the U. S. Army, seeing service in Cuba and the Philippines for two years as contract surgeon; was house surgeon at the Brooklyn city hospital, 1899; was major and surgeon of the Alabama National Guard for twelve years; was appointed state inspector of jails and almshouses, October 8, 1910; and served until his appointment as state prison inspector in January, 1911. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; state register of the Alabama Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. Married: March 7, 1916, at Mobile to Mrs. Belle Davis Gilbert, daughter of J. Bradford and Hattie (Thompson) Davis of that city. Residence: Mobile.

O'BANNON, major, 1st battalion, Confederate infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

O'BANNON, W. J., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Escambia County.

O'BRIEN, FRANK P., scenic and fresco painter, contractor, builder, and editor, was born February 29, 1844, in Dublin, Ireland, and died in Birmingham; son of Michael A. and Mary (Corcoran) O'Brien, natives of Counties Limerick and Mayo, respectively, the former was educated for the priesthood, taught in his native county, and was connected with the "Dublin Nation," emigrated with his family to America, locating at Honesdale, Penn., where he engaged in teaching and boating, removed to Scranton, Penn., and was appointed superintendent of the Diamond mines. Captain O'Brien attended school until fifteen years of age, when he left home and became a scenic and fresco painter. His calling carried him to Montgomery, 1859, where he assisted his teacher and employer, Peter Schmidt, a medalist for his fresco work in the capitol at Washington, who was engaged in scene painting and wall decorations in the old Montgomery theatre, on North Perry street. He entered the Confederate service in the spring of 1861, as a member of the "Independent Rifles," Second Alabama regiment, and went to Pensacola, returning in March. On April 30, 1861, he enlisted in the "Montgomery Blues," which company was assigned to the Third Alabama infantry regiment, Col. Jones M. Withers commanding, and Tennant Lomax, lieutenant colonel. He was promoted to a captaincy, and for two years commanded a company of scouts; was seriously wounded at the battle of Little Washington, and for three months in the hospital; rejoined his company, and again wounded; taken prisoner, December 12, 1864, at the second fight of Plymouth, N. C., and confined until paroled, February, 1865, and rejoining his regiment served until the close of the war. Following the return of peace, he resumed his former occupation in Montgomery. In 1871, he removed to Birmingham, and from that date, till 1883, was a contractor and builder on a large scale. He erected "Sublett Hall," on Second avenue, the first place of amusement in Birmingham. He superintended the construction of the rolling mills, built a number of coke ovens for the Pratt coal and iron company, and the Alice furnace company. He conducted a planing mill, and manufactured sash, doors, and blinds. He brought to Alabama the first steam machinery for making brick, and built the O'Brien opera house and the hotel adjoining. He had other extensive real estate interests in Birmingham. During the cholera epidemic in that city, in its early days, he remained to nurse the sick and help bury the dead, and falling victim to the disease, almost lost his life. He edited the paper that was the successor of the "Age-Herald"; was a member of the board of aldermen; a Democrat; Knight Templar. Married: October 11, 1865, in Montgomery, to Dannie, daughter of Dr. Andrew and Ann R. (Allen) McBride, of that city. Children: 1. Mary T., "Nettie," deceased, m. Thomas Smith, Birmingham; 2. Anna T., a nun; 3. Margaret E. O'Brien Davis (q. v.); 4. Bossie, m. Judge Oscar R. Hundley (q. v.); 5. Frank, died in infancy. Last residence: Birmingham.

OCKENDEN, INA MARIA (PORTER), author, was born about 1848, in Tuscaloosa, and died in December, 1917; daughter of Judge Benjamin Faneuil Porter (q. v.). She was educated in Georgia and Alabama, and graduated from the South Alabama female college, Greenville. She taught for a few years; edited the "Southern News," associate editor, "South Alabamian;" and later associate editor, "Greenville Advocate." She was the first woman editor in the Alabama press association. She received the prize offered by the Louisville exposition for the best advertising of any of the Gulf States and also a prize for the best trade issue of a newspaper at the cotton exposition in New Orleans. Author: "Roadside stories," fiction; "None but the brave deserve the fair," a drama; and published many poems and stories in magazines. Married: (1) in 1867, to George L. Henry, a captain in the C. S. Army; (2) in 1887, to Albion Ockenden. Children: by first husband, 1. son. Last residence: Greenville.

O'CONNELL, JOHN CHARLES, marine engineer and cotton merchant, was born October 12, 1837, at Mobile; son of Bernard and Catharine (Smith) O'Connell, both natives of Ireland who came to America in early life, settling in 1836 at Mobile, the former was a contractor and builder, and served in the Mexican War and as captain of Co. B, Twenty-fourth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army. He received his education at the Christian Brothers' school, and at the age of seventeen years began to learn the trade of marine engineer under Henry B. Wolley, of Louisville, Ky., and after becoming proficient in this trade was appointed assistant engineer and was subsequently promoted to chief marine engineer in 1866, with headquarters in Mobile. He followed the engineering business for some thirteen or fourteen years. In 1861 he entered the C. S. Army, as sergeant of Co. A, Twenty-fourth Alabama infantry; received the promotion of lieutenant, and was subsequently appointed engineer of the navy, which position he held until the end of the war. He was first assistant engineer on the "ram" Tennessee; was wounded in the battle of Mobile Bay; was captured and taken prisoner to New Orleans where he was imprisoned for a short time, later being taken to Ship Island, where, after being held prisoner for five months, he was exchanged. He was then appointed engineer in chief of the steamer "Huntsville," and the boat being destroyed at the evacuation of Mobile, he was ordered aboard the blockade steamer "Heroine," with which he remained until the end of the war. Mr. O'Connell engaged in the wholesale grocery and feed business with B. A. Weems, until 1871, when he withdrew from the firm and engaged in the commission business at Mobile for a short time. In the latter part of 1871 he came to Montgomery where he was engaged as engineer and shipping clerk for the J. C. Hurter and company, cotton compress company of Montgomery, and after serving one season in this capacity, bought out the interest of N. W. Perry and became an equal partner with Mr. Hurter. Mr. O'Connell was a member of the American Society of Mechanical engineers, a member of the Commemorative society of the Twenty-fourth Alabama regiment, Confederate Troops; was at one time president of the Standard building and loan association, and of the National banking and trust company. He is a member of the Catholic church. Married: in 1870 to Lucy Merritt, daughter of George W. Merritt of Mobile. Children: 1. Mary C., m. William B. Jackson; 2. Bernard M.; 3. Lucy G., m. Dr. Lewis Robinson; 4. John C., jr.; 5. George A.;

6. Alice E., married; 7. Kathleen, married. Residence: Montgomery.

ODEN, ALBERT JOSHUA, merchant and milling business, was born January 1, 1859, in Talladega County; son of John Piney and Catherine (Crumpler) Oden; grandson of Joshua and Charlotte (Funderburg) Oden, who were early settlers of Talladega County, the former a soldier in the War of 1812, and of Albert and Maria (Zeigler) Crumpler; great-grandson of Alexander Oden, who came with his brothers, Joshua and Hezekiah Oden from Scotland in company with Lord Baltimore, served in the Revolutionary War, then located in Maryland, later moving to South Carolina, where he settled in the Edgefield District, and came to Alabama in 1819, locating near Montgomery. His father was born near Maplesville, Perry County, and lived in Talladega County from the time he was nine years old. He was captain of Co. K, Tenth Alabama regiment, under the command of Col. J. D. Forney, was wounded at Antietam, and was taken a prisoner, returning to his command three months later. He was discharged from the army because of his crippled condition, returning to Alabama and acted as captain of a company of men and boys, whose duty it was to protect the surrounding country from insurrection. After the war he engaged in farming and milling, and in the mercantile business at Childersburg and Sylacauga. Albert J. Oden received his early education in the common schools of the county, later attending Oxford and Antrim colleges. He has farmed extensively and at one time owned a saw mill at Sylacauga. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: In 1893, to Ellen Lennard, daughter of Major and Eliza (Townsend) Lennard, residents of Texas, but formerly of Alabama. Children: 1. John Lennard; 2. Willie McGill; 3. Katherine; 4. Jewell Maude; 5. Sam; 6. Albert Joe. Residence: Sylacauga.

ODEN, DEMPS BUSSY, farmer, was born August 15, 1831, near Plantersville, Perry County; son of Joshua and Charlotte (Funderburg) Oden, Edgefield District, S. C., who came to Alabama in 1819, the former a carpenter and a soldier in the War of 1812; grandson of Alexander Oden and a Miss Bussy, the former a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and a native of Scotland, having come to this country with two of his brothers in company with Lord Baltimore, and of Isaac Funderburg, a native of Ireland and a soldier in the Revolutionary War with the rank of Captain. He received his education at the academy of Sylacauga, and after finishing his schooling, began in 1853, to farm on the Coosa River, Talladega County. He has become one of the large land owners of the county, and has taken an active interest in all matters pertaining to the public welfare, holding the office of county commissioner for eight years. He served in the War of Secession as Second Lieutenant of Co. K, Tenth Alabama regiment, and in 1861 was made captain; the last year of the war he was in command of a company of scouts under Gen. Forrest, Stencel's brigade. He is a member of the Democratic party, having served for a long time on the county executive committee; a deacon in the Baptist church; and a Mason. Married: (1) in March, 1853, Sarah Moore Averiette, who died November 17, 1856, daughter of Benjamin and Sarah Moore Averiette, of near Fayetteville, Talladega County; (2) Laura Amanda Kidd, daughter of Webb Barrett and Mary Ann (Nelson) Kidd, of Auburn, the former a native of Georgia, and the latter of Maryland. Children: 1. Sarah Moore, by first marriage, m. Allen Jefferson Thompson, Sylacauga; by second marriage: 2. Mary Emma Rivers, Childersburg; 3. Joshua Webb, m. Eliza Ayers Haney, Childersburg; 4. Demps Alexander, m. Carrie Bell Maxwell, Childersburg; 5. Minnie Laura, Childersburg; 6. James Alwin, Childersburg. Residence: Childersburg.

ODOM, JACOB, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Pickens County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on January 28, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $50.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

OGBURN, WILLIAM HENRY, farmer, was born September 18, 1797, in the County of Mecklenburg, Va., and died June, 1851, in Tuscaloosa; son of Mathew Henry and Sarah (Daly) Ogburn, both Virginians, who lived in Mecklenburg County, Va., later moving to Montgomery County, Tenn.; grandson of Josiah and Mary Daly of Mecklenburg, Va.; great-grandson of John and Mary Daly. The family are of Scotch origin. After completing his education, William H. Ogburn took up the profession of farming. He was a Whig, a member of the Methodist church, and a Mason. Married: In 1833, in Giles County, Tenn., to Mary Evaline Holloway, daughter of John and Margaret (Anderson) Holloway, of Edgefield District, S. C., who later moved to Giles County, Tenn., and then to Tuscaloosa County. Children: 1. Margaret Sarah, d. in 1868 at Tuscaloosa, m. William Hargrove; 2. Mary Elizabeth, d. at Aberdeen, Miss., m. a Mr. Moore; 3. James Austin, b. April 7, 1840, private, orderly, sergeant, sergeant major and lieutenant in the C. S. Army, d. May 14, 1911, at Montgomery, m. Nonie Eddins of Tuscaloosa, December 20, 1866; 4. Jane, m. Curtis Rosser, Bessemer; 5. Virginia, m. J. O. Keene, Sanford, Tex. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

OGDEN, WILLIAM W., merchant, was born June 8, 1859 at Fayette; son of Frank and Minerva Ogden. He received his education in the high school of Lamar County and soon after completing his education he engaged in the mercantile business in which business he has since continued. He is president of the Bank of Sulligent and president of the Sulligent Cotton Oil Company. He is a Democrat; Knight of Pythias; Mason and a Methodist. Married: December 20, 1888, near Sulligent to Miss Ida T. Henson, daughter of H. T. and Sarah Henson. Children: 1. Frank, m. Miriam Zellers, December 28, 1918, d. January 24, 1919; 2. H. T.; 3. W. L.; 4. F. S.; and 5. Leita. Residence: Sulligent.

O'HARA, COLUMBUS WASHINGTON, Baptist minister, was born August 19, 1845, at Wilsonville, Shelby County; son of James Cobb and Eleanor Smith (Teague) O'Hara; grandson of James A. and Cynthia O'Hara and of John W. and Mary Teague, all natives of South Carolina who early removed to Alabama. Rev. Mr. O'Hara received his early education in the old field schools of his neighborhood; entered the C. S. Army at seventeen, as a private in Co. I, 18th Alabama infantry regiment; was corporal, orderly sergeant, and color bearer; was wounded in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., necessitating the amputation of his left arm some months later; was taken prisoner December 17, 1864, and sent to Camp Chase at Columbus, O., where he was held until after the close of the war. Upon returning home he entered a poorly taught public school, was later afforded a brief term by a competent teacher, through the generosity of his former Colonel, Peter F. Hunby; for ten years taught school; and was elected collector of Shelby County, and served from 1878 to 1884. He was licensed to preach in 1868 and for forty-five years was in the active Baptist ministry, serving churches in Shelby, Jefferson, Chilton, Autauga and Talladega Counties. He was elected clerk of the Shelby County Baptist association in 1867, and served in that capacity for forty-five years in succession, and he was then made moderator of the association. In 1897 he had a stroke of paralysis which necessitated his superannuation, but even later he preached from his chair. Married: January 24, 1866, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Joel Riley and Minerva (Rainwater) Hunt, both families being natives of South Carolina, who removed to Georgia and refugee to Alabama during the War of Secession. Children: 1. James Riley, m. Maude Wallace, residence, Henderson, Tex.; 2. Joel Williams, Baptist minister, m. Annie Lou Murfree, of Birmingham; 3. Walter Teague, m. Lilly Thomas; 4. Ida Virginia; 5. Robert Henry, of Birmingham, Ala.; 6. Rufus De Shazo. Last residence: Columbiana.

O'HARA, THEODORE, Lieutenant colonel, 12th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

OLIVER, CHRISTOPHER D., Methodist minister, pastor of the Court Street church, 1852-53.

OLIVER, ERNEST McCARTY, lawyer and legislator, was born October 11, 1856, in Chambers County; son of Samuel Clarke and Mary A. E. (Wise) Oliver. He was educated in the common schools of Tallapoosa County; graduated A. B., 1876, from the Agricultural & mechanical college, Auburn; read law with Oliver and Garrett at Dadeville; admitted to the bar in 1876; practiced at Rockford 1876-77; removed to Lafayette where he has since followed his profession. He represented Chambers County in the legislatures of 1900-01 and 1907. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: January 8, 1878, at Auburn, to Nannie E., daughter of Isaac B. Williamson, of Pike County, Ga. Residence: Lafayette.

OLIVER, JAMES M., lawyer, was born May 12, 1831, in Elbert County, Ga.; son of Florence M. and Hannah K. (Banks) Oliver, the former a farmer, who was born, reared and married in Elbert County, Ga., moving to Chambers County, Ga., in 1883, and settling ten miles west of La Fayette; grandson of McCarty Oliver, and a Miss Clark; great-grandson of Ralph Banks, at whose home the first annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church met, and of a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He is brother of Junius Percival Oliver (q. v.), and a nephew of Samuel Clarke Oliver (q. v.). The Oliver family are of English origin, and came to this country settling in Virginia about 1700. Dionysius Oliver was the first representative of the Oliver family in this country. James M. Oliver received his education in the common schools of Chambers County, Ga., read law in 1855-56 under the direction of Pascal M. Allison of La Fayette; was admitted to the bar in March, 1856, by Judge John G. Shorter; practiced law at Dadeville, in January, 1857, remaining there until the war. In April, 1862, he was commissioned colonel, raised the Forty-seventh Alabama infantry, and joined Stonewall Jackson's command in Virginia; after a few months service, he resigned because of ill health, and returned to his law practice at Dadeville; in 1887 he moved from Dadeville to Lafayette. He was for many years chairman of the executive committee of Tallapoosa County, and has frequently been a delegate to the state conventions. He is a Democrat; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church; and a Mason; and a Knight of Honor. Married: (1) in 1850 to Matilda Allen, who died in 1882; (2) in February, 1884, to Catherine V. Cater, of Perry, Houston County, Ga., who, at the time of her marriage was corresponding secretary of the Woman's Board of Missions of the North Alabama Methodist conference, and later superintendent of the juvenile department of the Woman's Board of Missions. Children, by first marriage: 1. Aurelia, m. Dr. John M. Watkins, of Camp Hill, Tallapoosa County; 2. Florence, m. Col. Henry A. Garrett, lawyer of Dadeville; 3. Olivia, m. James S. Herren of Atlanta, Ga.; 4. Woodson, deceased; 5. James M. jr., merchant of Dadeville; 6. Samuel J., merchant of Dadeville. Residence: Lafayette.

OLIVER, JUNIUS PERCIVAL, teacher and farmer, was born June 15, 1842, in Chambers County; son of Florence McCarty and Sarah (Glenn) Oliver, the former a Georgian, a native of Elbert County, who later moved to Lafayette, the latter a native of Alabama; grandson of Rev. McCarty and Susanna (Clark) Oliver of La Fayette, and of Rev. Thompson and Sarah Glenn, of Eufaula; great-grandson of Dionysius Oliver, first representative of the Oliver family in this country, settling in Virginia in 1700, and soldier in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Oliver is the brother of James M. Oliver, and is a nephew of Samuel Clarke Oliver (q. v.). He received his early education in the Elbert County schools, later attending the Auburn college, from where he entered the C. S. Army in 1861 as private in the Sixth Alabama infantry. He was wounded at Sharpsburg and discharged from the service; returned home and bought an interest in the Tallapoosa "Times and Banner," continuing this publication until the end of the war, when he moved to Wetumpka and changed its name to "The Elmore Message;" sold the paper and went to the Dadeville Masonic female institute where he acted as principal; was elected member of the State board of education, and became regent of Alabama university. In 1874 he received the degree of M. A. from the agricultural and mechanical college. He was admitted to the bar in 1867, and in 1869 became a partner in the law practice with his half brother, Col. J. M. Oliver; two years later formed a partnership with Felix Smith, with whom he practiced until 1878, when he retired from the profession and became a farmer. He was a member of the Grange, the Farmers' Alliance, organizing the alliance in Chambers, Tallapoosa, Elmore, and several in Lee, Randolph and Clay Counties; was secretary of the State Alliance for three years; in 1888 was one of the electors on the Cleveland ticket; was a member of the Kolb state executive committee, in 1903 was elected superintendent of education in Tallapoosa County, and was re-elected in 1907. He is a Democrat, a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, in which he has served as steward for many years, and chairman of the board of trustees, a Mason and a Knight of Honor. Married: (1) in Dadeville, December, 1862, to Miss F. H. Hatcher, who died in 1870, daughter of Talbot and Parthenia Hatcher of Dadeville; (2) to Mrs. Helen E. Vaughan, widow of Col. John A. Vaughan, and daughter of Churchwell and Caroline (Smith) Corprew of Dadeville. Children by first marriage: 1. Wilbur H., farmer, m. Ezie Slaughter, living near Dadeville; 2. Jessie Stella, m. Judge John H. Lovejoy, Gadsden; by second marriage: 3. Clifton Eugene, m. Beulah Banks, Dadeville; 4. Alma, m. Prof. Leon M. Stevenson, Roanoke; 5. Verna, m. Harvey E. Berkstresser, Dadeville. Residence: Dadeville.

HENRY K. MILNER

OLIVER, SAMUEL CLARKE, physician, planter and legislator, was born in 1800 in Elbert County, Ga., and died about 1850; son of Rev. McCarty Oliver and a Miss Clarke, the former who was a resident of Chambers for many years; brother of Rev. Christopher Oliver of the Alabama Conference, and of Dr. John C. Oliver who died in early manhood. He received a good education, and became a physician and planter. He moved to Montgomery about the year 1827. In 1829 he was elected to the general assembly and in 1839 entered the senate, remaining in one house or the other for nineteen consecutive years, and being in the senate at the time of his death. He served Montgomery County longer in the general assembly than any other person. Dr. Oliver was a Whig, and was generally selected by party conventions, and mass meetings, to serve on committees, whose duty it was to prepare addresses to the people, through the press. He was the author of a romance of the colonial rebellion entitled, "Onslow." He was a member of the Methodist church. Married: to Mildred McGehee, daughter of Abner McGehee of Montgomery. Children: 1. Thomas Winfrey, m. Mary E. Brown, daughter of Dr. Thomas B. and Eliza D. (Hall) Brown; 2. Dr. Abner McCarty, m. Georgia Ames, daughter of Dr. Silas Ames, child, McD. Oliver of Montgomery; 3. Mary Meteora, m. Dr. McKenzie Johnston, resides at Eureka Spring, Ark.; 4. Susan J., m. (1) to James Harvey; (2) name of husband not available, six children by first marriage, resides at Seely, Tex.; 5. Dr. Samuel Clark, m. Sarah Ames, Judge S. C. Oliver of Talladega is a son, and Mrs. R. F. Nott of Marseilles, Ill., is a daughter. Last residence: Montgomery.

OLIVER, SAMUEL WHITE, lawyer, was born about 1796 in Virginia, and died January 18, 1838, at his residence on Pine Barren Creek, in Dallas County. His early life was spent in Clarke County, Ga.; he was educated at Franklin college, and read law at Litchfield, Conn. In 1819 he moved to Conecuh, locating near the new county site of Sparta, and became the law partner of Hon. John S. Hunter. In 1822 he entered the legislature, and for twelve years served Conecuh County in the popular branch of the general assembly being chosen speaker in 1834; in 1836 he entered the State senate from the district composed of Butler and Conecuh, but resigned the following year when he moved to Dallas County; was the candidate of the anti-Van Buren party for the office of governor in 1837, but was defeated by Hon. Arthur P. Bagby of Monroe. Married: to a Miss Hunter, a sister of Hon. John S. Hunter, a resident of Dallas before his death. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Oliver married a Mr. Sprague of Dallas County. Children, by first marriage: 1. Starke H., of Mobile, lieutenant colonel of the Twenty-fourth, consolidated, Alabama; and two other sons who are planters of Dallas. Last residence: Pine Barren Creek, Dallas County.

OLIVER, STARKE H., captain, 24th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. Deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

OLIVER, THOMAS WINFREY, planter, was born August 27, 1827, in Montgomery County and died February 20, 1898, at Mitylene, Montgomery County; son of Samuel C. and Mildred Spencer (McGehee) Oliver, both natives of Georgia; grandson of Rev. McCarty and Susannah Oliver, the former a Georgian, who lived in that state until 1840 when he removed to Chambers County, a farmer, and a Wesleyan Methodist minister, the latter a descendant of Gen. Roger Clarke, and of Abner McGehee, a native of Georgia; great-grandson of Dionysius and Mary Ann (Winfrey) Oliver, the former a native of Petersburg, Va., who moved during the Revolutionary War, 1778-79, to Elbert County, Ga., the latter a daughter of Valentine Winfrey. Samuel C. Oliver was born in Elbert County, Ga., in 1799, and after receiving a limited education studied medicine with Drs. Richardson and Watkins. In 1819 he entered a medical college in Philadelphia; graduated from the medical college in Baltimore, Md.; began the practice of medicine before he was twenty-one years of age in Georgia; in 1826 he came to Alabama, and settled near the present location of McGehee's Switch; he was for seventeen years a member of the State legislature, serving in both branches of that body; in 1846 he moved to Montgomery; was a member of the State senate at the time of his death in 1848; was instrumental in securing the removal of the capital of the state from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery. Thomas W. Oliver received a good common school education and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1847, and A. M., 1850. After the death of his father he was made manager of the estate. Maj. Oliver joined the First Alabama cavalry, with rank of captain and fought at Shiloh and many other places, was on scouting duty through Tennessee, Mississippi, and Alabama, and other states until the fall of 1862, when he resigned because of sickness; in 1863 he rejoined his command as major, and served until the close of the war. After the war he devoted his attention to farming at Mitylene and served for several years as tax collector of Montgomery County. Married: in December, 1854, to Mary E. Brown, who died in 1880, daughter of Dr. Thomas and Eliza (Dixon) Brown, both natives of Georgia, who became residents of Alabama early in their lives. One child, Thomas Winfrey, Jr., was born to this union. Last residence: Mitylene, Montgomery County.

OLIVER, THOMAS WINFREY, planter, was born October, 1873, at Mitylene, Montgomery County; son of Thomas Winfrey and Mary E. (Brown) Oliver (q. v.) and grandson of Dr. Thomas B. and Eliza D. (Hall) Brown. Mr. Oliver was educated in the county and city schools of Montgomery and at the Alabama polytechnic institute. He is a planter, was a member of the draft board of Montgomery County, 1917-18; and represented Montgomery County in the house of representatives during the 1919 session of the legislature. He is a Democrat, and an Episcopalian. Married: November 14, 1894 at the Ledyard home on the Mt. Meigs Road, to Fannie Falconer, daughter of William F. and Mary M. (Gilmer) Ledyard, the latter who was the daughter of Frank Gilmer, an early settler of Montgomery County, who resided near Pike Road. Children: 1. Capt. Thomas W., Jr., who was a field artillery officer, Eighty-second Division in the World war, m. Gypsie Boykin; 2. Mary Ledyard, m. Andrew Jackson McLemore; 3. Fannie Falconer, m. Dr. James Fling Pittman, who served in the medical corps of the American Expeditionary Forces; 4. Laura A.; 5. Lucy Gilmer; 6. William Ledyard. Residence: Montgomery.

OLIVER, WILLIAM BACON, lawyer. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

OLIVER, WALTER ROBERT, lawyer, was born October 16, 1854, in Macon, now Lee County; son of Rev. Christopher Oliver, D. D., and Laura A. Reid; grandson of Zachariah and Rebecca (Herndon) Reid, of Reidstown, S. C. Mr. Oliver was educated in the common schools; in the East Alabama male college at Auburn; at the Southern university; and Emory and Hale college. In 1878 began the practice of law at Huntsville; later removed to Calera; was mayor of Calera, 1891-97; in August, 1900, was elected to the state senate; and again elected in 1902. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: in March, 1884, to Salle Townsend, daughter of K. A. and Cornelia (Howard) Townsend of Elmore County. Residence: Calera.

OLIVER, WILLIAM C., probate judge, was born December 12, 1816, in Nottoway County, Va.; son of Isaac and Mary A. G. Oliver, who were both of English lineage; grandson of Col. Parks Beacon, a native of Lunenburg County, Va.; nephew of Asa Oliver who was for many years a member of the Virginia legislature, and of Charles Oliver, a resident of Botetourt County, Va. He was educated in Virginia, clerked in a retail store in Petersburg until he was twenty-one years old, and then moved to Alabama, settling at Erie, then the county seat of Greene, where he clerked and kept books. From 1840-44 he was clerk on the steamboat, "Victoria," which ran between Mobile and Tuscaloosa on the Warrior River; was tax collector and assessor for Greene County during a portion of this time; in 1844 was elected deputy sheriff; engaged in work as dry-goods salesman in Mobile for three years, and in 1850 was elected sheriff of Greene County, which office he held for three years. In 1856, he was elected probate judge, and served until 1868, when he was removed from office under the reconstruction acts. In 1880 he was again re-elected probate judge. He is a Mason. Married: (1) in 1842 to Elizabeth Phillips, who died in 1850, a daughter of W. H. Phillips of Hillsboro, N. C.; (2) in 1860 to Lizzie S. Whitehead, of Carroll County, Miss. Children, by first marriage: 1. Martha Epes, m. John P. Gilmer, and two other children who died in childhood; by second marriage: 4. Jeanette, m. W. D. Duncan, a merchant of Eutaw; 5. William B. Oliver (q. v.), a representative in congress from Alabama. Last residence: Greene County.

O'NEAL, CHARLES AUGUSTUS, merchant and legislator, was born March 5, 1863, at Longbottom, Meigs County, Ohio; son of John and Margaret (Curtis) O'Neal, the former an emigrant from Ireland, lived at Pomeroy and Longbottom, Ohio, and later in life at Pittsburg, where he died. He was educated in the schools of his native town; has been a railroad contractor; a miner; a merchant, and is now president of the Southern salvage company. He represented Jefferson County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: April 18, 1894, at Cardiff, to Mary, daughter of Thomas and Ann Roscoe, who live in Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

O'NEAL, EDWARD ASBURY, lawyer, governor of Alabama, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born September 20, 1818, in Madison County, and died November 7, 1890, at Florence, Lauderdale County; son of Edward and Rebecca (Wheat) O'Neal, the former of Irish, the latter of Huguenot extraction, and who came to this State from South Carolina, settling in Madison County. When four years of age his father's death occurred and he and his brother Basil were taught by their mother. After a thorough academic education he entered LaGrange college, from which, in 1836, he received the A. B. degree, graduating with highest honors. Deciding upon law as a profession he studied under James W. McClung, of Huntsville, and was admitted to the bar in 1840, soon afterwards locating in Florence for the practice. When George S. Houston resigned his position as solicitor of the fourth circuit in 1841 to take his seat in congress, Mr. O'Neal was elected by the legislature at a called session to fill the vacancy. This office he held four years. In 1848 he was unsuccessful in his candidacy for election to the Thirty-first congress. A strong believer in State sovereignty, he became one of the foremost leaders of the movement for secession. He left Florence on June 4, 1861, as a captain, with three companies of infantry, and proceeded to Richmond, where he became a major in the 9th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, which was being organized there. On October 21, he was promoted lieutenant-colonel, and in March, 1862, was promoted colonel and assigned to the 26th Alabama infantry regiment, which had been under instruction at Richmond. He led this regiment in the fighting which took place at Yorktown, Williamsburg, Seven Pines, being wounded in the latter battle, and in the seven days fighting around Richmond. Colonel O'Neal was placed in command of Rodes' brigade, and served in that capacity until two days before the battle of Boonesboro, when he returned to his regiment. In this battle he was severely wounded and was absent some time from his command. In the meantime Governor Moore of Alabama, in a letter to the Secretary of war of the Confederacy, had stated that the people of Alabama had been robbed and had had innumerable outrages committed against them by the public enemy, and requested a brigade of infantry to cooperate with the cavalry already in the State. He also suggested that Colonel O'Neal, be elevated to the rank of brigadier-general. The conclusion of this letter found on page 442, O. W. R., Sec. 30, says: "He (Col. O'Neal) possesses military skill and experience in an eminent degree. An early devotee of the rights of his section, he hesitated at no sacrifice in its behalf; was one of the first to relinquish a lucrative practice of his profession (of law) to engage for the war as a soldier, and bears honorable scars received upon the memorable battlefields of Richmond. I may say of him that he is popular as a statesman, an orator and a patriot." While the request of Governor Moore was not complied with, it showed the high esteem in which Colonel O'Neal was held. Upon the promotion of General Rodes to the command of a division, just before the battle of Chancellorsville, Colonel O'Neal was ordered to lead his brigade in that fight. This he did until disabled by wounds. In this battle Rodes' brigade won the honors of the day by putting to rout Howard's entire division and capturing several thousand prisoners. Colonel O'Neal was again in command of Rodes' brigade at Gettysburg and in the Mine Run campaign, November, 1863. Pursuant to a resolution passed by the Alabama legislature, January, 1864, the 26th Alabama regiment was returned to the State to recruit its ranks. On May 16, it proceeded by rail to Richmond, where it was placed in Canty's brigade. General Canty was given a division and Colonel O'Neal was placed in command of his brigade. With this organization he participated in the battles of Marietta, and Peach Tree Creek. Soon after the latter engagement General Hood took charge of the Army of the Tennessee, and Colonel O'Neal was relieved and placed on detached duty. He was later sent to Northern Alabama to round up and send to their commands all absentees from the Army of the Tennessee. It is stated in "General Officers of the Confederate Army" that Colonel O'Neal was appointed a brigadier-general June 6, 1863, but that President Davis cancelled the commission. Volume 1 of "Confederate Military History" states that he was commissioned on June 6, 1863, but that he never received it on account of the irregularity of the mails. Brewer says he was commissioned after General Hood assumed command of the Army of the Tennessee, but that it was never received on account of the irregularity of the mails. On page 303, Brewer's Alabama, Col. O'Neal is described as indulgent, impetuous and fearless, and much beloved by his troops. By his skillful command of a brigade in several great battles he proved his military ability, and the question of the issuance or receipt of a commission does not detract from his merit of the promotion in rank to a brigadier-generalship. Four years from the day he left Florence for Confederate service he returned home and resumed the practice of law. Taking a great interest in politics, he devoted all his energies, in 1874, to the fight which restored the Democratic party to ascendancy and the white race to supremacy in Alabama. In 1875 he was elected to the Constitutional convention and became one of the most prominent of its members. "Northern Alabama Illustrated," p. 293, says: "He was chairman of the Committee on Education, and as such framed and secured the adoption of Section 9, Article 13, which gives authority for the reorganization of the universities, normal schools, the Agricultural and Mechanical college, etc., and placed the educational system of Alabama to the very front and opened the doorway to the floodgates of her succeeding prosperity." During the campaign of 1880 he was an elector from the state at large, and canvassed the state for Hancock and English. In 1882 he was elected governor and took the oath of office on December 1. He was re-elected in 1884. During his administration normal schools were opened for white teachers at Jacksonville and Livingston; a state department of agriculture was created and began to function with Edward C. Betts as commissioner; the office of examiner of accounts was created; reforms to better the treatment of convicts were begun; congress granted forty-six thousand and eighty acres of land to the university; and ex-President Davis laid the cornerstone of the monument to the memory of the Confederate soldiers on the capitol grounds in Montgomery. Another memorable event was the laying of the cornerstone of the public hall of the University at Tuscaloosa, in May 1884. Laws were passed making appropriation for a geological survey of Alabama; providing for the study of physiology and hygiene in the public schools; the control of yellow fever, and the preparation of a new code. When Governor O'Neal was inaugurated the state had just begun to get on its feet again after the trying years of reconstruction. When he retired from office the "Mobile Register" said: "Governor O'Neal leaves the executive office with the proud consciousness that the people are satisfied with his rule, and can heartily say to him 'Well done, good and faithful servant.'" The "Montgomery Dispatch," in a leading editorial said: "His administration had been characterized by sincere regard for the welfare of the state in her various departments, and his policies, in the main, bear the impress of a statesmanship, wise, broad and enlightened; to it will be traceable much of the good of future administrations, and in it ended much that was bad of those that directly preceded it." He was a Democrat, Methodist and Mason. Married: April 12, 1838, at Huntsville, Madison County, to Olivia, daughter of Dr. Alfred and Eliza (Jones) Moore, and sister of Judge John Edmund Moore (q. v.) and Sydenham Moore (q. v.). Children: 1. Alfred, captain, C. S. Army, m. Annie Warren, of Tusculumbia; 2. Rebecca, m. 1866, Reuben L. Shotwell, now of St. Louis; 3. Edward A., Jr., C. S. Army, lawyer, d. young, m. Mary, daughter of Capt. Alexander Coffee, of Florence; 4. Julia, unm.; 5. Emmet (q. v.); 6. Georgia, m. Eugene Williams, of Mississippi, now of St. Louis; 7. Syddie, m. George Dudley; 8. and 9. died in infancy. Last residence: Florence.

O'NEAL, EMMET, lawyer, governor of Alabama, referee in bankruptcy, was born September 23, 1853, at Florence; son of Gov. Edward A. and Olivia (Moore) O'Neal (q. v.). He received his early education in the schools of Florence; graduated from the Florence Wesleyan university; University of Mississippi, 1870-71, and from the University of Alabama, 1873. Shortly after the latter date he entered upon the study of law in his father's office and was admitted to practice by the late Judge William B. Wood. In 1876 he formed a partnership with his father which continued until the senior O'Neal was elected governor of the State. In 1884 he was chosen presidential elector from the 8th district, and canvassed the whole state for the Democratic party, winning distinction for his brilliant oratory. Eight years later, in 1892, he was chosen a presidential elector from the state-at-large, and when Grover Cleveland entered upon the presidency he appointed him, in 1893, United States district attorney, which position he held for several years. During the agitation in 1899 and 1900 for a constitutional convention, Mr. O'Neal was one of the leaders favoring the movement; was elected a delegate to that body from the 8th Congressional district. He served as a member of the committees on rules and suffrage, and was chairman of the committee on local legislation. The student of that convention, held in 1901, will find the results of his work in the prohibition of a large class of local legislation, and in the elimination of the ignorant and illiterate voter, at the same time making it possible for him to acquire the right of suffrage by the attainment of certain educational and tax paying qualifications. Upon the nomination of William J. Bryan for the presidency by the Democrats, in 1908, he took the stump and canvassed a number of western states in behalf of the platform and candidate. He organized the fight in Alabama against the proposed constitutional amendment which provided state wide prohibition, and in 1909 he called the convention which met in Montgomery, and was largely responsible for the defeat of the amendment. Prior to his election as governor in 1910, he was president of the Alabama bar association, an office which his father had held prior to his election as chief executive. Governor O'Neal was the first of Alabama's chief executives to occupy the "governor's mansion," the State not having furnished a home for its governor until his administration. While he was governor the educational interest of the State showed a steady growth, among other beneficial features being the inauguration of a rural school library system, the creation of a board of trustees to unify and direct the several normal schools, and to provide courses of study for the rural and normal schools and colleges, and increased appropriations by legislative enactment were provided for all branches of the public schools. Among the State commissions created during his term of office were the oyster commission and the State highway commission. The capitol building was enlarged, a governor's mansion was bought, laws were passed for the protection of workers in mines, child labor laws were improved, the fee system in Jefferson County was abolished by a constitutional amendment, the centenary of the battle of Horseshoe Bend was celebrated and numerous measures were taken by the legislative and executive department for the improvement of agriculture. While chief executive his gifts as a public speaker were constantly in demand, both in the State and outside its borders. Among the calls made upon him was an invitation to address the Chamber of commerce of New York, no other governor outside that state ever being honored in that way, his address being of such a practical nature on "Representative government and common law," that it was printed by Congress as a public document. His address in Mobile during the meeting of the Southern commercial congress, welcoming President Woodrow Wilson and the South American diplomats to the Gulf city was a model of logic and oratory. After completing his term of office as governor, he located in Birmingham, and was appointed referee in bankruptcy. In 1920 he entered the race in the Democratic primaries for nomination to the U. S. senate, as successor to Hon. John H. Bankhead, who had died in office leaving five years of an unexpired term, but was defeated by Hon. J. T. Heflin. He is a Knight of Pythias; an Elk, and a Presbyterian. Married: July 21, 1881, in Tuscaloosa, to Lizzie, daughter of Col. Samuel and Lizzie (Woods) Kirkman (q. v.). Children: 1. Elizabeth; 2. Kirkman, graduate of the U. S. Naval academy; 3. Olivia. Residence: Birmingham.

O'NEAL, R. L., sr., editor and publisher. Residence: Huntsville.

OPOTHLEYAHOLA, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

OPP, HENRY, lawyer, was born March 29, 1859, at Benton, Lowndes County; son of Valentine and Catherine (Hart) Opp, the former a resident of Benton and of Montgomery since the War of Secession. He received his early education in the schools of Montgomery, later attending the University of Alabama, where he graduated in 1878, receiving an A. B. degree. He began the practice of law in the spring of 1880, and practiced in Troy, Montgomery and Andalusia. He was county solicitor of Covington County, the latter part of 1888 and the early part of 1889; was elected mayor of Andalusia, 1899, and served several years; and was a delegate to the constitutional convention in 1901. He is a Democrat. Married: August 2, 1890, at Ozark, to Addie Belle Gardner. Residence: Andalusia.

O'REAR, RUFUS ALLEN, member constitutional convention, mayor, coal operator and farmer, was born January 29, 1869, at Jasper, Walker County, and is the son of Elijah and Sarah M. (Feltman) O'Rear. He was educated at the common schools of Jasper, and spent one year at the University of Alabama; and two years at the University of Nashville and Peabody normal college. He was tax commissioner of Walker County, 1901; member of the constitutional convention, 1901; captain, Troop B, 1st Alabama cavalry regiment, A. N. G., and served on the Mexican border and in the training camps, 1916-18; mayor of Jasper, 1919-20. He is a Democrat. Unmarried. Residence: Jasper.

ORMOND, JOHN J., was born in 1795, in England and died March 4, 1866, at Tuscaloosa. He came with his parents to the vicinity of Charlottesville, Va., in his infancy. During his childhood he was left an orphan, and was educated by friends of the family. He studied law, was admitted to the bar, and in 1827 came to Alabama. He began to practice law at Courtland, Lawrence County, in partnership with Col. James E. Saunders. He represented that County in the State legislature in 1832, and was elected to the bench of the supreme court in 1837. He came to Tuscaloosa County in 1840, remained on the bench for twelve years, then resigned January 1, 1848, because of failing health. He resumed the practice of law at Tuscaloosa until his death. He was one of three selected to prepare the code of 1852. He was a Whig and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Married: Minerva Jenkins Banks, of Lawrence. Children: 1. John James, physician, b. January 27, 1831, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B. and A. M., 1853, and from a medical college, M. D., practiced medicine at Faunsdale, served as register in chancery for Greene County, d. January 2, 1896; 2. William Banks, b. January 11, 1836, attended University of Alabama, d. October 16, 1854; 3. a daughter, m. Prof. Mallet, of Virginia, chemist; 4. a daughter, m. Hon. Charles Hays of Greene County. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

ORMOND, MARVIN THOMAS, lawyer and circuit solicitor, was born March 7, 1878, at Lauderdale in the county of Lauderdale, Miss., and died at Tuscaloosa; son of Benjamin Franklin and Elizabeth Jane (Watts) Ormond, the former a native of Hookerton, Green County, N. C., who spent his early life at Sumterville, Sumter County, moving to Lauderdale, Miss., and in 1882 to Meridian, Miss., where he engaged in the cotton and wholesale grocery business until his death in 1889; grandson of Fletcher and Frances (Sugg) Ormond, of Greene County, N. C., and of Capt. James and Eleanor (Bell) Watts, the former a captain of a cavalry company from Mississippi during the war; great-grandson of Samuel and Jane (Parke) Bell, the former who was born in Scotland and educated in Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, and of Elizabeth Chapman; great-great-grandson of Thrashly and Catherine (Edwards) Chapman and of Thomas and Beesle (Duke) Parke. His father, after the death of his parents, came to Sumter County, where he made his home with his bachelor uncle, Thomas Marvin. Marvin T. Ormond attended the public and private schools of Meridian, Miss., until he was sixteen years old, then entered the Southern university of Greensboro, on June 8, 1894; in 1898 the degree of B. A. was conferred upon him; and while a student there was sophomore orator and represented his literary society in joint debate several times. After reading law in the office of H. J. McLaurin, of Rolling Fork, Miss., in 1899, he attended the summer law school of the University of Mississippi, receiving the degree of LL. B. from that University in 1900, and the same degree from the University of Alabama in 1902. On November 22, 1900, he moved to Tuscaloosa and formed a partnership with Hon. Daniel Collier; in 1904 was appointed solicitor of Tuscaloosa County for a term of four years; was elected solicitor of the Sixth Judicial Circuit; was a member of the city council of Tuscaloosa; deputy solicitor of Tuscaloosa County; member of the state Democratic executive committee, 1907-11; delegate to the national Democratic convention from the sixth district to Denver in 1908. He is a member of the Methodist church, of which he has been steward; an Odd Fellow; an Elk; a Modern Woodman, and a member of Knights of Pythias. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

ORR, CYRUS PITMAN, insurance, was born August 21, 1858, at Oshawa, Ontario Province, Canada; son of William Henry and Ann Maria (Pedlar) Orr, the former of New Brunswick, residing principally at Montreal and Toronto, and was manager of the Aetna life insurance co., of Hartford, Conn.; grandson of Henry and Eunice (Kimball) Orr, of Bowmanville, Durham County, Ontario, and Henry and Nancy (Morrish) Pedlar, who lived at St. Blazey, Cornwall, England. Mr. Orr was educated in the local schools of Oshawa; in October, 1880, he came to Montgomery, and was employed by Bradford Dunham, superintendent of the L. & N. R. R. Co.; became chief clerk in the superintendent's office in 1881, at Birmingham; in the fall of 1881 went to Chicago, Ill., as private secretary to general superintendent of the Trans-Ohio divisions of the Baltimore and Ohio R. R. Co.; in 1882 he was moved to Newark, Ohio, where the offices of the Trans-Ohio management were located, and was a member of the firm of W. H. Orr & Sons, general agents of the Aetna life insurance co., of Hartford, in Toronto, being manager of that company in Western Canada, from Ottawa to British Columbia. He returned to Birmingham and became secretary to Col. John T. Milner and an official in Milner Coal & R. R. Co.; was a member of the firm of Chichester, Yancey & Orr, from 1899 to 1903, when he purchased and became president of the Southern mutual aid association, in which business he is now engaged in Birmingham. He has served as a member of the executive committee of Detroit conference, the governing body of the Industrial casualty insurance in U. S., and also member of the executive committee of the Southern casualty and surety conference. He was secretary of the senate for a number of years, and also confidential secretary to Col. John T. Milner (q. v.). He is still a British subject, never having been naturalized. He is a Presbyterian, and a Mason. Married: at New Castle, August 30, 1882, to Lillian, daughter of John Turner and Flora (Caldwell) Milner. Children: 1. Flora Caldwell, m. William R. Lathrop; 2. Dorothea, m. William Warren; 3. Lillian Milner; 4. Edith; 5. Marian; 6. Jocelyn; 7. Winnifred Evelyn. Residence: Birmingham.

ORR, J. FRASER, physician; graduate of the University of Edinburgh in 1901; licensed to practice in Alabama by the state board, 1910. Residence: Montgomery.

ORR, THOMAS EDGAR, lawyer, was born May 28, 1882 at Fayetteville, Fayette County, Ga.; son of Matthew and Ella (Clark) Orr, the former having served in the C. S. Army during the entire war. Mr. Orr was educated at the Lagrange high school, Lagrange, Ga.; the Central institute, Crossville, Ala.; Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., where he graduated LL. D. in 1909; and in 1910 entered the University of Alabama taking a special course for one year. In 1910, he was admitted to the bar and began practicing at Albertville; was prosecuting attorney for Marshall County, 1911-1915; elected delegate from the seventh congressional district to the 1915 National Democratic Convention; and was a member of the legislature from Marshall County in 1919. He is a Democrat; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; a Mason; Odd Fellow and Red Man. Residence: Albertville.

OSBORN, THOMAS CHILDRESS, physician, a former resident of Greensboro who removed to Texas.

OSTEEN, DAVID, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Morgan County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on May 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $23.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $69.99.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

O'SULLIVAN, JEREMIAH, Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese of Mobile, was born February 19, 1842, in the parish of Kantuck, County Cork, Ireland, and died August 10, 1896, in Mobile; son of John and Mary (Ahern) O'Sullivan, whose ancestry can be traced to the great O'Sullivan Beare family who were princes of Ireland prior to the 16th century when religious dissention between the Protestants and Catholics caused the loss of their vast possessions. He spent some time in a Latin school in Ireland, and emigrated to America in 1861. After a brief stay with Rev. Father Hennessey, in Jersey City, he repaired to St. Charles college, Ellicott City, Md., where under the direction of the Sulpician Fathers he completed his classical studies. He then entered the Theological seminary of St. Mary's, Baltimore, where he distinguished himself in philosophical and theological studies. In 1868 he was ordained to the priesthood in the Cathedral of Baltimore by Archbishop Martin John Spalding, of Baltimore. He was appointed assistant to the pastor of St. Patrick's church, Baltimore, who later became Archbishop Chapelle. Following this work he became pastor of a parish in the western part of Maryland; went to Washington, D. C., as pastor of St. Peter's church; on September 20, 1885, he was consecrated Bishop of Mobile, and on All Saints of that year was installed in his see by the venerable Bishop Manucy. In his work he insisted upon parochial schools, where the youth of the Catholic faith should be well grounded in religious, as well as secular education. He founded two burses in the Missionary college of the Jesuit Fathers near Limerick, Ireland, and completed the burse for his diocese in the American Catholic college, Rome, Italy. He labored to build up a native clergy; placed many students in the different seminaries throughout the country; and erected chapels in small communities. His body was interred under the sanctuary of his Cathedral in Mobile, to rest beside his brother bishops who had preceded him in the see. Last residence: Mobile.

OTTERSON, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, and a resident of

GEORGE H. STUBBS

Greene County; captain and major S. C. Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $525; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,585.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

OTTS, JOHN MARTIN PHILLIPS, Presbyterian minister, was born June 7, 1837, near Union, Union County, S. C., and died June 1, 1901, at Greensboro; son of Robert Goodjoin and Nancy (Hatchett) Otts, the former a school teacher of Union County, the latter a native of Spartanburg, S. C.; great-grandson of Phillip Otts and wife, a Miss Brandon, of Spartanburg. The Otts family is of German origin while the Beckwell and Hacketts were of English and French Huguenot descent. Dr. Otts attended the common schools of his native town; was graduated from Davidson college, N. C., A. M., 1858; and from the Presbyterian theological seminary at Columbia, S. C., 1861. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred on him by the University of Alabama in 1889. He enlisted in a South Carolina regiment and was present at the fall of Fort Sumter, after one year's service in the Confederate Army he was discharged on account of ill health. Seeking a genial climate he accepted a pastorate at Greensboro; in 1867 he was called to Columbia, Tenn.; removed to Wilmington, Del., 1871, where he served the Westminster Presbyterian church; in 1877 he was called to the Chambers Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, and remained there until 1884. At that time he was sent to Paris, France, as a representative of the McCall mission, and on his return from Europe he accepted the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church at Talladega. He retired from the ministry in 1888 to manage the estate of his father-in-law, who had died during that year. In 1890 he traveled in the Holy Land. He was a strong advocate of the re-union of the Northern and Southern Presbyterian churches. Author: "Nicodemus with Jesus;" "At mother's knee;" "Laconism, or, The wisdom of many in the words of one;" "The fifth gospel, or, The land where Jesus lived;" "Southern pew and pulpit;" "The gospel of honesty and essays on the beautiful;" "Our educational policy," and "The Huguenots." He also published numerous articles in secular and religious magazines. Married: December 31, 1863, at Greensboro, to Lella Jane, only child of David and Elizabeth (Lowrey) McCrary of that place; granddaughter of Squier Lowrey of Marion, through whom relationship is traced to the Earl of Granville (1776) and the Brandon, Locke and Gibson families. Children: 1. R. F. Otts, Allendale, S. C.; 2. J. M. P. Otts, m. Lida Nelson, Birmingham; 3. Lee McCrary, lawyer, University of Alabama, 1887, m. Eudora McQueen Somerville McEachin, resides at Greensboro; 4. Paul; 5. Marck C.; 6. James W., m. Sadie Randolph, of Greensboro; 7. Earnest V., m. Helen Poellintz, Greensboro; 8. Octavius M., m. Bertha Hanna, of Mobile; 9. Louis E., m. Leonora Graves, of Birmingham. Last residence: Greensboro.

OUSLEY, CLARENCE NEWDAYGATE, editor, assistant secretary of agriculture of the United States, was born December 29, 1863, at Ousley, Lowndes County, Ga.; son of William Henry and Henrietta (Scruggs) Ousley, the former a native of Culloden, Monroe County, Ga., who lived at Ousley, Ga., a village which he established, and moved from that place to Macon, Ga., just before the outbreak of the War of Secession; grandson of Rev. Newdaygate B. and Sarah Flournoy (Davis) Ousley, who moved from Culloden to Macon County, Ga., and of John F. and Frances Amanda (Goldwin) Scruggs, of Lowndes County, Ga., the latter a member of the long established Goldwin family, two of whom, John and James, were early settlers. The Ousleys of Georgia are descendants of Robin Ousley, a member of a Virginia family who came from England in early colonial times. The Ousleys of Kentucky and Alabama came from the same Virginia stock. Mr. Ousley attended the country schools of Lowndes County, Ga., and was graduated from the Agricultural and mechanical college of Alabama at Auburn, A. B., 1881. He received the honorary degree of A. M. from Simmons college, Abilene, Tex., in 1910. He taught at Marvin college, Waxahachie, 1881-1883; was superintendent of public schools at Waxahachie, 1883-1884; merchant, 1884-1885; entered journalism as editor of "The Farm and Ranch," Dallas, Tex., 1886 became editorial writer and managing editor successively of the "Galveston News," the "Galveston Tribune," and the "Houston Post"; established the "Fort Worth Record," and edited that from 1903 until 1913; made a tour of Europe in a study of rural co-operation as a member of the American Commission, 1913; director of extension of the Agricultural and mechanical college of Texas, 1914-1917; became assistant secretary of agriculture of the United States since August 17, 1917. He was a member of the board of regents of the College of industrial arts, Denton, Tex., for ten years, serving for eight years of that period as chairman; was a member and chairman of the board of regents of the state university at Austin, Tex.; was a delegate at large at the national Democratic convention in 1904; was for six years chairman of the Conference for Education in Texas; was active in originating the commission form of government, first put into operation in Galveston, where Mr. Ousley helped to draw the first commission charter and to cause its enactment and execution. He is joint author with Miss Harriet G. Smither and R. G. Hart of "Students History of the United States," a grammar school text; of many magazine and newspaper poems, some of which appear in the "Library of Southern Literature"; and has made many addresses and written much in behalf of more intelligent marketing of farm products, especially cotton. He is a Democrat, a Baptist, and a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Married: November 8, 1888, at Waxahachie, Tex., to Mary Young, daughter of William H. and Eliza E. (Harry) Young, of Lincoln, Ill. She was of Irish descent on her paternal line and of German origin through the Harrys who settled in Maryland. Children: 1. Angie, m. John E. Rosser, Dallas, Tex.; 2. Maggie Clare. Residence: Washington, D. C.

OVERALL, GIBSON YOUNG, lawyer, was born July 12, 1825, in Shenandoah County, Va., and died March 6, 1896, in Mobile; son of John Froman and Theresa Douglas (Young) Overall, the former a farmer, who served as trooper in the cavalry called for by President Madison in 1812, to defend Virginia against the British, and a relative of Joist Hite, one of the noted old settlers of northern Virginia, who helped build the first Protestant Episcopal church in that region; grandson of Edwin Young of Virginia; great-grandson of John Overall, who came from Thacksted, Essexshire, England, where the family of his name settled in the reign of Henry the Eighth, and of John and Catherine (Bruce) Young, the former of England and a companion of Lord Baltimore in the settlement of Maryland, and the latter of Scotland who is said to be descended from the victor of Bannockburn; and was a direct descendant of John Overall, Lord Bishop of Norwich, England, one of the translators of our present Bible, author of the Convocation Book so frequently spoken of by Macaulay, and with the assistance of Bishop Cosin, compiler of the Book of Common Prayer, who settled about the year 1740, in what was afterwards known as Shenandoah County, and whose son, John, was for many years one of the justices of the quorum under the colonial law. In 1833 the parents of Gibson Y. Overall moved from Virginia to Columbus, Miss., at which place Gibson attended the Franklin academy, and in his eighteenth year was appointed by the trustees of the academy to fill a vacancy occasioned by the death of one of their teachers. He acquired a knowledge of printing in his early life; went to Mobile, January 1, 1848, where he studied law and was licensed; in 1856 he was admitted to practice in the supreme court of Alabama. He was a member of the State Bar association; was for several years city attorney of Mobile; was senior member of the firm of Overall, Bestor & Gray; was elected to the legislature in 1859 from the county of Mobile and served one term; was elected a member of the State constitutional convention in 1865. He was exempted from military duty during the War of Secession, because of a physical disability contracted in youth. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: April 23, 1857, to Anna Louise Talbot, of New Orleans. Children: 1. Mrs. Price, deceased; 2. Dr. Walter Burnett, deceased; 3. Francis Edwin, b. July 30, 1859, m. Bessie Randall of Mobile; children: two daughters. Residence: Mobile.

OVERTON, ABIJAH JEFFERSON, merchant, was born July 10, 1869, at Conyers, Newton County, Ga.; son of William Mosley and Nancy A. (Boyd) Overton, the former of Conyers, the latter of Lithonia, Ga.; grandson of Abijah and Elizabeth (Rhodes) Overton, of Conyers, and of Robert and Sallie (Goddard) Boyd, of Lithonia. The Overtons are of Welsh descent. He was educated in the common schools of Cleburne County, and at Bowden college, Ga. He had held no public office except notary public, until elected to the legislature from Cleburne County, 1911. He is a merchant and a farmer. He is a Democrat; and an Odd Fellow. Married: December 25, 1895, to Louellen E., daughter of Noah Pennington and Jane Barton (Camp) Beason, of Beason's Mills. Children: 1. May Belle; 2. Maggie. Residence: Heflin.

OVERTON, JOHN WILLIAM, lawyer and State senator, was born September 3, 1875, at Lineville, Clay County; son of Reuben Oakley and Mary E. (Arnett) Overton; grandson of John B. and Maria Overton, and of William P. and Elizabeth (Wilson) Arnett. He was educated in the common schools of Clay County; graduated B. S., 1894, and A. B., 1895, from Lineville college; read law under Chancellor Kelly of Anniston, and with Judge Stell Blake, at Wedowee; admitted to the bar 1898; solicitor of Randolph County, 1898-1904; mayor of Wedowee, 1901-03; Democratic elector from fifth congressional district, 1904; and state senator, 1907, from the ninth district. He is a Democrat and has served as chairman of the county executive committee; a Missionary Baptist; and Knight of Pythias. He is unmarried. Residence: Wedowee.

OWEN, CALVIN NORRIS, physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama in 1888; licensed to practice by the county board of Mobile the same year. Residence: Mobile.

OWEN, FRANKLIN LEWIS, was born in 1803 in Brunswick County, Va., and died in 1878 in Mobile; son of Richard Brown and Louisa (Edwards) Owen of Brunswick County, and a brother of George W. Owen (q. v.). Franklin Lewis Brown located in Mobile in 1833; was for many years teller of the Bank of Mobile, and made wise business investments in that city. Married: Elizabeth, daughter of Philip and Ann (Cunningham) Maury of Franklin, Williamson County, Tenn., a descendant of Abram and Ann (de la Fontaine) Maury, French Huguenots who located in Virginia and were influential in educational and religious movements in that state. Children: among the children of Franklin Lewis Owen and his wife were: 1. Richard Brown (q. v.); 2. John Michaux, lawyer; editor, Southern Star; Macon, Miss., 1855, and died in Mobile that year; 3. Philip Albert, a merchant of Mobile, 1852-55, appointed 2nd lieutenant 9th Reg. U. S. Army, 1855, afterwards promoted to 1st lieutenant and captain, resigned his commission before his death in 1878, m. Margaret Wright of Oregon, 1857; 4. Goronwy, graduated in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, 1857, surgeon C. S. Army, member of board of health and board of censors for more than twenty years, professor in the Mobile medical college, m. Susan Norris of Selma, 1859; 5. George Washington. Last residence: Mobile.

OWEN, GEORGE WASHINGTON, lawyer, mayor of Mobile, and representative in congress, was born October 20, 1796, in Brunswick County, Va., and died August 18, 1837, on his plantation near Mobile; brother of Franklin

L. Owen (q. v.); son of Richard Brown and Louisa (Edwards) Owen, merchant, of Brunswick County; Davidson County, Tenn., and Monroe County, and a graduate of William and Mary college, Va.; grandson of Geronmy and Joan (Simmons) Owen, the former a native of Llanfair, Anglesea, Wales, a noted Welch poet, educated at Oxford, entered the Episcopal ministry and held a curacy at Bangor, Downington and Watton, later appointed, by the Bishop of London, professor in William and Mary college, Va., 1757, and also rector of St. Andrew's Parish, and died twelve years later in Brunswick County; and great-grandson of Geronmy and Sean (Parri) Owen. This family is not known to be related to the family of Col. Richardson Owen (q. v.). Mr. Owen went with his parents from Virginia to Tennessee and grew to manhood in Davidson County. He was educated in the country schools and in the University of Nashville. After graduation he read law in the office of Felix Grundy and was admitted to the bar in 1816. Two years later he located in Claiborne, Monroe County, and formed a partnership with John Gayle, who afterwards became governor of the State. He was elected to the first State legislature 1819; was speaker of the house in 1820; was elected to congress serving from 1823 to 1829; appointed collector of the Port of Mobile by President Jackson, who was his warm personal friend; elected mayor of Mobile, 1836, and was holding this position at the time of his death. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: June 21, 1820, in Mobile, to Louise S., daughter of Gilbert and Mary Josephine (DeJausang) Hollinger of that city. Children: 1. Mary Jane, m. George H. Gray; 2. Louisa O., m. Dr. C. C. Garrett; 3. Susan, m. George W. Harris; 4. Ann, m. B. C. Rowan; 5. Richard Rumford; 6. Catherine, m. Capt. H. R. Johnston; 7. Georgiana, m. (1) John B. Hogan, (2) Ben W. Johnston; 8. Alexina H., m. Charles E. Vincent; 9. Ada, m. a Clarkson; 10. Rubina, m. Major R. B. Snodgrass. Last residence: Mobile.

OWEN, GERONWY, physician. Deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

OWEN, HERNDON GAINES, physician, was born August 4, 1875, at Pleasant Hill, Jefferson County; son of William Marmaduke and Nancy Lucretia (McAdory) Owen (q. v.). He received his early education in his native community and at Jonesboro and Jasper, and attended Howard college, East Lake, through the junior year. He graduated from the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1908, and began the practice at Maxine. Later he removed to Dora where he now resides. He is a Democrat, Methodist, and 32nd degree Mason, Shriner, Odd Fellow and Woodman of the World. Married: September 19, 1905, near Russellville, Mary Claude, daughter of Thomas Pinckney and Emily Ann (Berrybill) Sibley of that place. Her ancestors came to Alabama from Mecklenburg County, N. C., in the early years of the State's history, and settled in Franklin County. Children: 1. Emily Lucretia; 2. Herndon Gaines, jr. Residence: Dora.

OWEN, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Autauga County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on January 26, 1835, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $26.66.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

OWEN, JOHN, physician; mayor of Tuscaloosa.

OWEN, LEWIS, merchant and railway president, was born October 4, 1803, in Brunswick, Me., and died August 18, 1894, in Montgomery; son of David and Lettise (Wilson) Owen, the former a native of Brunswick, and a resident of Wayne, Me.; grandson of John Owen, who lived at Wiscasset, Me., and of Isaac Wilson, of the same State. His education was obtained in common schools. On coming to Montgomery in 1830 he became proprietor of a jewelry store. For a number of years he was president of the Montgomery & Eufaula R. R. Co., and was largely instrumental in the construction of that road, now a part of the Central of Georgia, and for the promotion of which he expended a large part of his fortune, raising $80,000.00 on his personal note. To assist in providing immediate funds for the current expenses of the State, under the first administration after the close of the War, Mr. Owen raised $40,000 on his personal responsibility. At the age of ninety he made the journey alone to Maine, on a visit to his sister. He died while seated in his chair. He was an old-time Whig, and a Methodist. Married: June 3, 1836, in Lowndes County, to Jane Phillips, daughter of Pascal and Elizabeth (Phillips) Harrison, of the "Pantheron," Lowndes County, and granddaughter of Joseph Phillips (q. v.). Children: 1. David Wilson, d. unmarried; 2. Dr. Pascal Harrison, m. Mary Watkins Smith, lived and died in or near Montgomery; 3. Lewis Joseph Phillips, m. Mattie Caroline White, and resided in Montgomery and Lowndes Counties. Last residence: Montgomery.

OWEN, MARIE (BANKHEAD), director Alabama State department of archives and history, playwright, patriotic and civic worker, was born September 1, 1869, near Macon, Noxubee County, Miss., on the William Bankhead plantation, during the temporary residence there of her parents; daughter of John Hollis and Talulah James (Brockman) Bankhead (q. v.). Her early education was received in the country schools of Lamar County, and in Wetumpka; later attended Ward's seminary, Nashville, Tenn., 1885-87. After spending a winter in Washington, D. C., where her father was serving in congress, she traveled in Europe for several months. On the death of her husband she was elected by the board of trustees to succeed him as director of the Alabama State Department of archives and history and assumed her duties April 1, 1920. She was president-general, Woman's auxiliary, Southern commercial congress, 1912; State chairman, Woman's democratic league, during Woodrow Wilson's two campaigns for the presidency; State chairman, national league for woman's service, 1916-18; vice-president, Woman's committee, Alabama council of defense during the European war; chairman of the legislative committee, Alabama federation of clubs, for several years; trustee, Alabama boys' industrial school, East Lake; president, League of Southern writers, 1916-17. Author: for several years editor of the woman's page, "Montgomery Advertiser," and of the education section when made a separate eight page feature by that paper; member of the fiction and feature staffs of "Uncle Remus magazine," Southern Woman's Magazine," and other Southern periodicals; six history plays written for the Alabama centenary commission, 1919, for use in schools and colleges of the State during the centenary celebrations; compiler and editor, Montgomery "Blue Book," a guide to social, fraternal, civic and welfare organizations, 1909-10. She is a member of the Ionian, the No Name, the Business and professional woman's club, and the Press and authors club. Married: April 12, 1893, at Fayette, to Thomas M. Owen (q. v.). Children: 1. Thomas M., jr. (q. v.), m. Mabel Hays, Montgomery; 2. John Hollis Bankhead, died in childhood. Residence: Montgomery.

OWEN, RICHARD BROWN, lawyer and mayor of Mobile, was born July 3, 1828, at Franklin, Tenn., and died December 5, 1911, at Mobile; son of Franklin Lewis and Elizabeth (Maury) Owen (q. v.). He received his elementary education in his native town, and at the age of twelve entered the Spring Hill Jesuit college, Mobile, where he remained until his entrance into the University of Alabama, from which he graduated, A. B., 1847. He read law in the office of Judge John A. Campbell of the U. S. supreme court, and began the practice with his brother, John M. Owen, in Mobile in 1850; was elected to the legislature 1853-55; was clerk of the Alabama supreme court, 1861-64; secretary-treasurer Mobile & Spring Hill railroad co., 1865-78; president police board and recorder of Mobile, 1879-86; mayor of Mobile by three elections, 1879-88; secretary-treasurer quarantine board of Mobile Bay, 1894-1908. He was a Confederate soldier, serving as adjutant on the staff of Gen. Dabney H. Maury. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian, an Odd Fellow, and member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: June 27, 1850, in Mobile, to Anne, daughter of Levin and Anne (Brewer) Gayle, who lived at St. Stephen's, Washington County; niece of Gov. John Gayle (q. v.), in whose home she was married. Children: 1. Franklin L., m. Evie Quigley, Mobile; 2. Elizabeth Maury, m. William E. Nowell, of Nashville, Tenn.; 3. John M. married, New Orleans, La.; 4. Richard Brown, jr., m. Lola Sloutz, resides in Nashville; 5. Gayle, Mobile; 6. Alex; 7. Nannie Gayle. Last residence: Mobile.

OWEN, ROSE WELLINGTON, farmer, merchant and real estate dealer, was born near Jonesboro, Jefferson County, November 7, 1848, and died at his home in Owenton, near Birmingham; son of Thomas Hemington and Melissa (Sadler) Owen; grandson of Thomas and Mary Eliza (Elmore) Owen (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Jefferson County, entered the University of Alabama. He did not graduate, leaving college to enter the Confederate Army, but the end of the struggle came before he could attach himself to any command. After the cessation of hostilities he followed the life of a farmer, merchant and real estate dealer until his death. Owenton, a suburb of Birmingham bears his name. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: (1) in 1872, to Emma, daughter of Dr. Joseph R. and Margaret H. (Jordan) Smith, of Elyton; (2) Tallulah, daughter of Rev. Evan and Martha (Wynn) Nicholson, of Creighton, Lawrence County, the former a Methodist minister of the North Alabama conference, (3) to Fannie Myatt. Children: by first wife, 1. Mittie, m. E. R. McDavid, of Birmingham; by second wife, 2. Thomas H., d. in infancy; 3. Ethel Lee, m. Dr. Claud Zuber; 4. Tallulah, m. William Love; 5. Evan, m. Grover Thaxton; by third wife, 6. Rose W., jr., d. in infancy; 7. Lucien Elmore; 8. John Moreland. Last residence: Owenton.

OWEN, THOMAS McADORY, lawyer, historian, founder and director Alabama State department of archives and history, was born December 15, 1866, at the residence of his maternal grandfather, near Jonesboro (two miles below Bessemer), Jefferson County, died March 25, 1920, at his home in Montgomery and is buried in Greenwood cemetery, that city; son of Dr. William Marmaduke and Nancy Lucretia (McAdory) Owen (q. v.); grandson of Judge Thomas and Dolly Payne (Williams) Owen of Tuscaloosa, and of Major Thomas and Emily (Owen) McAdory of Jefferson County; great-grandson of Judge Marmaduke and Agnes (Payne) Williams (q. v.). He received his early education in the common schools, and was prepared for college by his uncle, Prof. Isaac Wellington McAdory (q. v.), at the Pleasant Hill academy (q. v.). He graduated with highest honors at the University of Alabama, with the degrees of A. B. and LL. B. and received the honorary degrees of A. M., 1893 and LL. D., 1904. He practiced law at Bessemer, 1887-1894, Carrollton, 1897-1900, and Birmingham, 1900-1901. He was city solicitor of Bessemer, 1890-93; assistant solicitor of Jefferson County, 1892; and chief clerk, division of Post Office inspectors, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C., 1894-97; chairman Democratic executive committee of Jefferson County, 1890-92. In Vol. 12, pp. 244-245, in "The South in the Building of the Nation" is the following: "Through Dr. Owen's activity and constructive leadership the Alabama State Department of Archives and History was established by legislative Act of February 27, 1901, charged with the care of the official archives (public records) and the promotion of all of the historical activities demanded on the part of the State. This step was the first known recognition and application of the principles of public support of archive preservation, and history work and enterprise through a separate bureau, commission or department of State, located in the capitol and administered by a State official regularly chosen and required to devote his entire time to his duties. This plan is altogether the creation of Dr. Owen, and it was his unique good fortune to be both the pioneer, maker and perfecter of a great institutional advance in American government and political science. This plan has been adopted by several States and efforts for the enactment of similar legislation have been made in other States." Dr. Owen was elected by a self-perpetuating board of trustees, Director of the Alabama State Department of Archives and History, March 2, 1901, for a term of six years and successively re-elected for like terms in 1907, 1913 and 1919, having at the time of his death served one year of a new term. His widow was elected as his successor. For years prior to his death he had taken a deep interest in all forms of historical work and enterprises and was a constructive force in the following activities and organizations: Secretary of the Sons of the Revolution in Alabama from its organization, April 16, 1894 to his death; one of the founders of the Southern History Association at Washington, April 24, 1896; secretary of the Alabama Historical Society from its reorganization, June 21, 1898 until its activities were taken up by the Department of Archives and History about 1904 when by consent of its members it ceased to function as a separate organization; commander of the Alabama Division, Sons of Confederate Veterans, and Commander-in-chief of the general organization for two terms, 1905-07, and after the latter date Historian General of the organization; founder in 1904, and president until his death, of the Alabama Library Association; founder, 1909, and president until his death, Alabama Anthropological Society; founder, and Secretary Pintlala Old Settler's Association (Montgomery County); founder and president Confederate History Club of Montgomery; promoted interest resulting in the organization of the Bartram Natural History Society of Alabama; organized and was secretary and curator of the collections of the Alabama Conference Historical Society (Methodist); one of the founders of The Thirteen, a literary club composed of men, Montgomery; president, Mississippi Valley Historical Society, 1907-08; promoted the plan to take a census of Confederate soldiers, 1907; participated in the promotion of the centenary of the Alabama Baptist Historical Society, held in Montgomery, 1907; member (charter) Iberville Historical Society, Mobile, 1901; Tennessee Valley Historical Society; Alabama History Teacher's Association and organizer of the Montgomery branch; Alabama Educational Association; Alabama State Bar Association; Confederate Roster Commission; Manuscript Commission, American Historical Association; U. S. Public Documents Commission of the American Library Association; Alabama Folk Lore Society. In addition to the foregoing he was a working member of, often holding official positions in the greater number of National Societies of an historical, scientific or civic character, throughout the United States. Ex-officio duties: Secretary Alabama Building Commission, 1907 and 1911, when the north and south wings were added to the capitol; Secretary Alabama Governor's Mansion Commission, 1911; Secretary Horseshoe Bend Battle Anniversary (centenary) Commission; Secretary Jefferson Davis Statue Commission; Secretary Alabama Law Reform Commission, 1915; Secretary and historian Alabama Centennial Commission, 1919; and of the Alabama Memorial Commission, 1919-20. Author: The literary work of Dr. Owen was extensive including in part, "History of Alabama and Dictionary of Alabama Biography," published posthumously in four volumes, 1921: Owen's edition of Pickett's "History of Alabama," with an addendum, "Annals of Alabama," in which that work was completed from 1819 to 1900, and published in the latter year; Bibliography of Alabama, 1897, and Bibliography of Mississippi, 1899, published in the Reports of the American History Association for those years; editor "Women's Memorial Supplements," issued simultaneously by several Southern newspapers, the text confined to Confederate history and women's memorial activities; Necrologies, in the annual proceedings of the Alabama Bar Association for a number of years prior to his death; issued in 1912 the first number of "The Gulf States Historical Magazine," published bimonthly; edited the "Transactions of the Alabama Historical Society," (vols. 1 to 4, 1898-1902), and the "Report of the Alabama Historical Commission," 1901; City Code of Bessemer, Alabama, 1888; genealogies of the Lester, Strother, Eaton, Stansel, Lacey, Kelly, Fisher and Ross families, all published, besides a number of genealogies left in manuscript form, relating to the several branches of his own and his wife's families, data being especially extensive in the case of the Owen and Williams families; "History of the Great Seal of Alabama," sketch of "Ephraim Kirby, the first Superior Court Judge in what is now Alabama." He compiled and issued through the Department of Archives and History, the "Official and Statistical Register," 1903, 1907, 1911, 1913, 1915; also Bulletins 1 to 5, and official circulars and reports, including "High Points in Alabama History."

Dr. Owen possessed marked executive and analytical powers and although a literary and professional man by training and experience, he had a practical insight in the affairs of his city and county and was sought for counsel in the business organization and in the civic and patriotic movements of his times no less than in the academic and cultural realms. He was a Methodist and a Democrat. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, the Red Men, the Sigma Nu College Fraternity, and of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity. Married: April 12, 1893, at Fayette, to Marie Susan (q. v.), daughter of Hon. John Hollis and Tallulah (Brockman) Bankhead (q. v.). Children: 1. Thomas McAdory, Jr., (q. v.); 2. John Hollis Bankhead, died in childhood. Last residence: Montgomery. See Archives and History, Department of.

OWEN, THOMAS McADORY, Jr., chief clerk in the Alabama State Department of archives and history, and soldier of World War, was born April 10, 1894, in Bessemer, Jefferson County; son of Dr. Thomas M. Owen (q. v.)

and Marie Susan (Bankhead) Owen (q. v.). He was educated in the public schools of Montgomery; received in 1913 the A. B. degree at Marion institute, Marion; and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., in 1915. He entered the military service of his country as a private soldier, August 26, 1916, in Troop B, First Alabama cavalry regiment, National Guard, and was commissioned first lieutenant of cavalry, September 3, 1916; saw service on Mexican border and at San Antonio, Texas; and returned to Alabama in 1917. After a period of training he was sent to Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga., where the 1st Alabama cavalry was reorganized as the 117th Field artillery; was later sent to Post Field, Okla., as an aerial observer in the field artillery but before finishing the course was transferred by war department orders to Del Rio, Texas, in March, assigned to the 313th cavalry. He spent parts of July and August as a student at Camp Perry, Ohio, in the Small arms firing school for officers of the line, from which he graduated, August 18, 1918. From Camp Perry he was ordered to Fort Sill, Okla., school of fire, for field artillery officers, graduated November 1, 1918, and assigned to 70th Field Artillery, West Point, Ky., where he was honorably discharged, December 20, 1918. He is now captain Field artillery reserve corps. During 1919-20 he served as historian and adjutant of the Alabama department, American Legion. After the armistice he became chief clerk, in the Alabama State department of archives and history. At Marion institute he took a prominent part in various school activities, and in the senior year won two gold medals, one as best essayist, the other as best society debater. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Knight of Pythias; Khorassan; member of the American library association; American historical association; American book plate society; United sons of Confederate veterans; Alabama anthropological society; Bartram natural history society; Sons of the Revolution and of "the Ritual Committee," Sigma Nu fraternity. Married: March 19, 1917, at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas, to Mabel Mary, daughter of the late Lincoln John and Rose Gertrude (O'Ferral) Hays, of Toledo, Ohio. Residence: Montgomery.

OWENS, AUGUSTUS HOWARD, lawyer, was born near Perry, Houston County, Ga., July 3, 1834, and died at Troy, September 21, 1914; son of Elijah Smith and Rebecca Eugenia (Saunders) Owens, the former of Milledgeville, who was a volunteer in the Creek War of 1836, and was a delegate from Pike County to the constitutional convention of 1865, being one of the only two delegates who refused to vote for the emancipation of the slaves; the latter of Perry, grandson of Elijah S. and Anne (Howard) Owens of Milledgeville, Ga., and of Robert and Martha (Westbury) Saunders of Perry, Houston County, Ga. Mr. Owens was educated in the country schools of Russell County; read law with Baker and Lewis at Kuseidell; was admitted to practice October 8, 1858, at Crawford, before John Gill Shorter; practiced in Barbour County prior to the War of Secession and after that time had practiced at Troy, Pike County. In February, 1861, at Buckhorn, Pike County, he was elected captain of a company of volunteer State troops and on being mustered into service was sent to Pensacola by Gov. Moore; in April his company was transferred to the Confederacy and became Co. "E", First Alabama volunteer infantry regiment, H. D. Clayton, colonel commanding; at the expiration of his service he re-enlisted as captain of Co. "A", Third Georgia cavalry, serving until his capture at Resaca, May 14, 1864, when he was carried a prisoner to Johnsons Island, Ohio, where he remained until his discharge June 15, 1865. He was a member of the state legislature 1878-1879 and judge of the law court of Pike County, November 20, 1904 to November 20, 1908. Prior to the War of Secession he was a Whig but later voted independently. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: June 10, 1866 at Brundige, Pike County, to Cornelia Jenette Wiley, daughter of Judge James Macaleb W. and Cornelia Ann (Appling) Wiley, and granddaughter of Rev. John Brown, who was the first president of the Presbyterian college at Athens, Ga. Children: (1) Cornelia Appling, m. James H. Patrick; (2) Oliver Guy, m. Pearl Brooks; (3) Gus Wiley, m. Mary Griffin; (4) Arthur Horatio, m. Josephine King; Metta, m. Luther Edgar Heath. Last residence: Troy.

OWENS, CLARENCE JULIAN, managing director of the Southern Commercial congress, and educator, for some years a resident of Alabama, was born July 4, 1877, at Augusta, Richmond County, Ga.; son of Alfred and Fannie Augusta (Easterling) Owens, the former a native of Dunbarton, Barnwell County, S. C., a Confederate soldier, private in Co. D, Third South Carolina cavalry, later a merchant of Augusta, Ga., and in 1881 removed to Williston, S. C.; grandson of Etheldred and Lavinia (Burckhalter) Owens of Dunbarton, S. C., and of Robert and Frances (Anderson) Easterling, of Augusta, Ga.; great-grandson of Griffin and Civil (Greene) Owens of Barnwell County, S. C., and of David and Mary Burckhalter. Dr. Owens was educated in the Williston, S. C., graded and high schools, at Houghton institute, Augusta, Ga., and graduated B.A., 1893, from the South Carolina co-educational college, then located at Williston; graduated from the Columbian university, Washington, D. C., now Georgetown university, with degree of M.A., 1900; received the honorary degree of LL.D. from Arkansas normal college and Shenandoah normal college, Va.; took a post-graduate course at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.; was admitted to candidature for degree of Ph. D. at Columbia university. He was principal of the public schools, Greenland, S. C., 1894-97; professor of English and literature, and commandant of cadets, Orangeburg college, 1897-1900; president of Orangeburg college, 1900-03; president, Sumter military academy, S. C., 1903-06; president, Anniston college for young ladies, 1906-09; president, Southern Alabama agricultural school, Abbeville, for three years. He became connected with the Southern commercial congress as commissioner of agriculture of that organization, and in 1912, was elected managing director which position he holds at this time, with headquarters at Washington, D. C. He was a member of the staff of Gov. Miles B. McSweeney of South Carolina; has held a number of positions in the Sons of Confederate Veterans and has been commander-in-chief of that organization. He was vice president, Alabama educational association for two years and a member of the department of city superintendents, and secretary of the department of industrial education. He has delivered numerous historic and patriotic addresses and orations. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Knight of Pythias; and an Odd Fellow. Author: "Introduction to southern literature," unpublished; "The Gallant Pelham," unpublished. Married: December 27, 1899, at Williston, S. C., to Marie Louise, a daughter of Capt. William Hamilton and Elizabeth (Merritt) Kennedy of that place, the former a Confederate soldier, who served as captain of the Second South Carolina artillery. Children: 1. Marie Louise; 2. Clarence Julian, jr.; 3. William Hamilton; 4. Alfred Arthur. There are several other children. Residence: Riverside Park, Md.

ROBERT N. L. BELL

OWENS, E. S., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Pike County.

OWENS, HASTING E., lawyer and planter, was born September 8, 1817, in South Carolina and died November 25, 1895, in Abbeville; son of Whitman H. Owens who lived in South Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama. He received a common school education, in Georgia and Alabama; practiced law in Alabama; was probate judge of Henry County, in the fifties, and again in the seventies; was a member of the Secession convention of 1861; and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875. He served in the Indian wars; was a Democrat, a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: (1) Frances J. Stewart; (2) Mary E. Haygood, a native of Georgia and sister of W. E. Haygood of Montgomery. Children: 1. G. B., married, of Headland; 2. H. W., married, of Abbeville. Last residence: Abbeville.

P

PACE, MATTHEW DOWNER, teacher, was born at Creek Stand, Macon County, December 5, 1867; son of John William and Sarah Ann (Dawkins) Pace; grandson of Stephen and Mary (McCoy) Pace, of Putnam and Harris Counties, Ga., and Macon County, and of Reuben and Elizabeth Dawkins of Lee County. He was educated in Auburn public schools and at the Agricultural and mechanical college, B. S., 1889; and C. E. 1890; was a tutor in the college, 1890; and has since April 1st, 1891, been professor of mathematics in the Troy State normal school. He is a Democrat, and a Methodist. He is editor of "Key to Taylors calculus." Married: Sarah Sinclair, daughter of J. M. and Kate (McLeod) Collier of Troy. Children: 1. Sarah Kathryn, m. R. W. Head, jr.; 2. Elizabeth Marshall; 3. Hollinger Brown; 4. Margaret Downer. Residence: Troy.

PACE, NATHANIEL, merchant, was born October 27, 1829, near Sandersville, Washington County, Ga., and died December 29, 1903, at Newton; son of Samuel and Nancy (Hardin) Pace, the former a native of South Carolina or of Georgia, but reared and educated in the latter, a resident of Florida later in life, and finally of Geneva, where he died in 1843. The family is English. The founder in America emigrating to Virginia during the colonial period. Mr. Pace received a limited education in the schools of Georgetown, Ga., and was self-taught in bookkeeping and accounting. He was a merchant at Gordon, Geneva and Newton; was post master of Gordon, 1870; mayor of Geneva and later of Newton; superintendent of education, Geneva County, 1885-86. He enlisted in the Confederate service in 1862, and the next year was transferred to Company B., 15th Confederate regiment, commanded by Col. Harry Maury. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; Sunday School superintendent for forty years; and a Mason. Married: January 25, 1857, at Campbellton, Fla., to Clara, daughter of Elijah and Elizabeth (Banks) Calloway, of that place, both natives of North Georgia, removing to Jackson, Florida, about 1828, the former served as an officer in the War of 1812; and was a Baptist minister. Children: 1. Annie, m. Pat Poyner, of Newton; 2. Ernest Milton, m. (1) Mary Parker, (2) Kate Knox; 3. Albert E., m. Mrs. Jennie Collins; graduate of the University of Alabama A. B., 1886; lawyer at Dothan. Last residence: Newton.

PADEN, JOHN SANFORD, merchant, was born February 14, 1842, in Cobb County, Ga.; son of John T. and Margaret (Foister) Paden, natives of South Carolina, the former a farmer and minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, who moved to Forsyth County, Ga., when a young man, and later located in Cobb County, Ga., where he lived until his death in 1881. He was reared in Roswell, Cobb County, Ga., where he received a limited education, and at the beginning of the War of Secession, enlisted in the C. S. Army, joining Co. H, Seventh Georgia infantry. He took part in the first battle of Bull Run, and in all of the fighting in and about Richmond; was with Gen. Longstreet at Chickamauga; and surrendered with Gen. Lee's army at Appomattox. After peace was established, he spent about two years in Indiana and Kentucky, then returned to Georgia, and entered the mercantile business with T. D. Evans of Cherokee County, Ga. In the fall of 1869, he went to Alabama and settled at Gadsden, where he entered the mercantile business. In 1878, he became a cotton merchant, in the business of advancing and crediting. He is interested in the two mineral land companies at Gadsden; is vice president of the Gadsden land and improvement company; is a director and stockholder in the Gadsden metallic paint company; has interest in the Gadsden air furnace company, the Electric light company, the Printup hotel and the First national bank of Gadsden. Aside from those business enterprises, he owns several large farms. He is a Methodist. Married: February 5, 1874, to Annie Hollingsworth, daughter of William P. and Mary J. (Lewis) Hollingsworth. Children: 1. William C.; 2. John S.; 3. Joseph P.; 4. Anna J.; 5. Alice M. Residence: Gadsden.

PADGETT, W. J. B., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Jackson County.

PAGE, EDWIN CAREY, lawyer, was born February 24, 1881, at Sparta, Conecuh County; son of Haskew and Laura (Autrey) Page of Sparta; grandson of Allen and Sallie (Wright) Page of Sepulga, and of Absolom B. and Sarah (Cary) Autrey of Sparta, the former who served in the Mexican War. The ancestors of the Pages and the Carys came from England, the Pages settling in Virginia and the Carys in Georgia. Mr. Page received his education in the schools of Evergreen, and was graduated LL.B. from the University of Alabama, 1901. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Evergreen; was mayor of his town, 1908, 1909; and was a member of the house of representatives, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World; and a Red Man. Married: April 5, 1906, at Birmingham, to Jessie Henderson Cleere, daughter of George D. and Nancy C. (Smith) Cleere of Russellville. Residence: Evergreen.

PAINE, A. B., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Tuskegee.

PAINE, MATHEW, soldier, age not given a resident of Marion County; private Tennessee Volunteers; enrolled on February 3, 1826, payment to date from October 26, 1825; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $706.65; April 24, 1816.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PALMER, SOLOMON, lawyer, teacher and superintendent of education, was born August 23, 1839, in Blount County, and died at East Lake Atheneum, May 15, 1896; son of Solomon and Elizabeth (Henderson) Palmer, of Village Springs, Blount County, the former born in South Carolina in 1787, settled in Blount County, in 1819, and died there in 1867. Solomon Palmer, jr., was the youngest member of his family. He was educated in the country schools; and graduated from the University of Alabama, 1861. On the organization of the 19th Alabama infantry regiment at Huntsville, August 4, 1861, he was elected lieutenant of Co. K. This regiment was in the battle of Shiloh, and Col. Joseph Wheeler, its commander, officially commended Lieut. Palmer, along with other company officers, as having "remained with the regiment during the entire two days and displayed commendable fortitude and manly courage." Soon after the battle he was promoted captain; at Chickamauga he was promoted major, and commanded the regiment to the close of the war. After the war he taught school in Blount county for three or four years. In this interval, 1865-1867, he also represented the county in the house of representatives. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1870; in 1874 moved to Guntersville for the practice; and in 1884 was elected State superintendent of education, which he held by re-election until 1890. From 1890 to 1896, the year of his death, he was president of East Lake Atheneum. He was a Democrat; a Knight of Honor; a Mason, and a Methodist. He was editor and proprietor of the "Guntersville Democrat," from 1882 to 1886. Married: in 1867, in Cherokee County, to Virginia A. Law. Children: seven daughters and one son. Last residence: East Lake.

PALMER, THOMAS WAVERLY, college president, was born May 19, 1860, at Snow Hill, now Furman, Wilcox County; son of Dabney and Martha Ann (Simpson) Palmer, the former a native of Snow Hill, where he lived until 1890 when he moved to Carson, Washington County, and served as a member of the constitutional convention of 1901; grandson of Stephen and Juliette (Hartwell) Palmer, of near Alton, Halifax County, Va., who moved in 1833 to Snow Hill, the latter a descendant of Sir John Hartwell, first American ancestor, who was knighted for bravery under Queen Elizabeth, and of Thomas Wesley, and Civility (Jackson) Simpson, the former a pioneer settler of Conecuh County; cousin of William Bradley Palmer (q. v.); great-grandson of Thomas, jr., and Rachael (Hurger) Simpson, the former was brought at the age of nine, by his parents from Scotland, locating in Orangeburg District, S. C., the latter of Dutch descent, and of Chilian and Mary (Pettus) Palmer, of Halifax County, Va.; great-great-grandson of Martin Palmer, a native of Kent County, England, who came to King William County, Va., served as a sergeant in the Revolutionary War and married a Miss Vaughn, of King William County, Va., and of John Pettus, jr., of Lunenburg County, Va.; great-great-great-grandson of Edwin Palmer, of Kent County, England, and of John Pettus, sr., of Lunenburg County, Va.; great-great-great-grandson of Stephen Pettus, of Hanover County, Va., a descendant of Thomas Pettus of England. Dr. Palmer was educated in the country schools; attended Howard college, Marion, 1877-88; graduated at the University of Alabama with the A. M. degree in 1891; and was the first student to enroll in the engineering department of the university, from which he graduated, B. E., 1882. He is a graduate student of the University of Chicago summer school, and received the honorary degree of LL. D. from the University of Alabama in 1906. He was instructor of mathematics, University of Alabama, 1881-82; associate professor of mathematics, 1882-83; professor of mathematics, 1883-1907; and dean of the academic faculty, 1905-07. In May, 1907, he was elected president of the Alabama technical institute and college for women, a position he still holds. He was a member of the Alabama text book commission in 1915, and has been chairman of the board of education of the public schools of Montevallo since 1912. From 1898 to 1907 he was secretary of the Society of the Alumni of the university. He is a Democrat; Baptist; and a Mason. Compiler: Register of the officers and students of the University of Alabama, 1831-1901. Married:

December 22, 1886, at Union Springs, to Lula, daughter of Capt. Joel Herron and Roxana Price Rainer (q. v.). Children: 1. Stella, supervisor of home economics, State of Arkansas, and professor of home economics, University of Arkansas; 2. Thomas Waverly, major, field artillery, U. S. Army, 1916-19, lawyer at Chuquicamata, Chile, South America, m. Marguerite Meehan; 3. Lula. Residence: Montevallo.

PALMER, WILLIAM BRADLEY, physician, was born March 1, —, at Furman, Wilcox County; son of William and Rachael (Bradley) Palmer, the former a native of Alton, Halifax County, Va., who came with his parents to Furman, Wilcox County, later living at Ackerville, served as a private in Co. I, 2nd Alabama cavalry, Ferguson's Brigade, Wheeler's Division, Army of Tennessee, was wounded three times, the last time in his right hand, shattering it and disabling him for further service; cousin of Dr. Thomas W. Palmer (q. v.); grandson of Ely and Allie (Simpson) Bradley, pioneer settlers of Conecuh County; great-grandson of Samuel and Mary (Presswood) Bradley, both natives of South Carolina, later of Conecuh County, the former the daughter of a Revolutionary soldier. The Presswoods are of Welsh descent and the Bradleys were French Huguenots. Dr. Palmer received his early education in private schools; graduated with the degrees of B. A., 1889, and B. L., 1891, at the University of Alabama. His professional education was received at the University of Maryland, school of medicine, which he attended for two sessions; Tulane medical college, New Orleans, receiving the M. D. degree, 1898; post graduate course, New Orleans polyclinic, 1898-99; New York post graduate, 1906; and Chicago polyclinic, 1908. Since 1899 he has practiced at Furman. In 1915 he was health officer of Wilcox County. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; Knight of Pythias; Columbian Woodman; Knight of Honor; and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. He is one of the assistant editors of the "Palmer Genealogy," now being compiled. He is unmarried. Residence: Furman.

PARK, DAVID, Presbyterian minister, was born October 16, 1873, at Memphis, Tenn.; son of Rev. John Samuel and Mary Elizabeth (Steele) Park, the former a native of Nashville, Tenn., a minister in the Presbyterian church for nearly fifty years, who lived at Memphis, Tenn., at Pensacola, Fla., at Corinth, Miss., and at Decatur, the latter who was born in the Presbyterian manse at Staunton, Va.; grandson of David Park, of Memphis, Tenn., who came from the North of Ireland to Philadelphia, then to Nashville, and then to Memphis, whose ancestors were driven from Scotland to the north of Ireland during the Claverhouse persecutions, and of Rev. John Steele, who lived at Staunton, Va., at Paris, Ill., and at Topeka, Kan. He obtained his early education at Pensacola, Fla., at a private school in Clay Center, Kan., and took preparatory work at the University of Kansas, at Lawrence. After four years at Princeton university, he was graduated, A. B., 1896; was graduated from a three year course at McCormick theological seminary, 1899; and spent two years in post graduate work there, 1909-1911, for which he received the degree of B. D. He served as a missionary of the Presbyterian church to Siam, 1899-1908; as pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Midland, Mich., 1911-1918; and since 1918 has been president of the Alabama Presbyterian college at Anniston. He became stated clerk of the synod of Alabama in 1919; is author of "Missionary Methods for Missionary Committees," 1898; and is a Democrat. Married: June 5, 1899, at Corinth, Miss., to Daisy Jane Booth, daughter of George Washington and Kate Anna (Sloan) Booth, who lived at Guntown, Miss. Her grandfather Booth came from Virginia and was captain of a Mississippi company throughout the War of Secession, and her grandfather Sloan was a Presbyterian minister for fifty years, was of Scotch Irish descent, and a blue-stocking Presbyterian. Children: 1. Mary Kate, Anniston; 2. Virginia Harper, Anniston. Residence: Anniston.

PARK, ROBERT EMORY, sr., state treasurer of Georgia and teacher, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in 1849, at LaGrange, Troup County, Ga., and died May 7, 1909, at Atlanta; son of John and Sarah (Neary) Park of Greenville, Ga., both of old respected families of that State. He was educated at Greenville academy and Brownwood institute, LaGrange; entered Emory college, 1860, and in 1861 was a member of the junior class at Auburn. At the beginning of the war he joined the Macon Confederates, a military company organized at Tuskegee, 12th Alabama infantry regiment; rose to the rank of captain and commanded his company until he was severely wounded and left in the hands of the enemy at the battle of Winchester, September 19, 1864. After the war he taught with his brother, Prof. James F. Park, in the Tuskegee high school; and was later elected principal of Lucas institute at Mount Meigs. On account of his health, he removed to Georgia, 1872, became Southern agent of a large publishing house; was chosen State treasurer for six consecutive terms and was serving the latter part of the fifth term at the time of his death. He had received the honorary degree of M. A. from both Emory college and the Alabama polytechnic institute. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: (1) to Stella Swanson, of LaGrange, Ga.; (2) to Ella H., daughter of Gen. William S. Holt, of Macon, Ga.; (3) to Mrs. Emily Hendree Stewart, of Atlanta. Children: 1. William H.; 2. Ella H. Last residence: Atlanta.

PARK, ROBERT EMORY, jr., teacher, a native and for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born December 11, 1868, at Tuskegee; son of James Fletcher and Emma Augusta (Bailey) Park, of Tuskegee, the former a brother of Capt. Robert Emory Park (q. v.). He was educated at the Park high school, Tuskegee; LaGrange high school; U. S. military academy, 1888-1889; received the degree of A. B., 1892, M. A., 1893, Litt. D. 1903, (honorary) from the University of Alabama; later attended the University of Chicago, and Oxford university, England. He has taught in the public and private schools of Georgia and is at present head of the department of rhetoric and English literature of the University of Georgia. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: August 17, 1897, to Mary Belle, daughter of Aaron and Arminda Wheelchel, of Gainesville, Ga. Residence: Athens, Ga.

PARKE, CLIFFORD DANIEL, physician, was born September 27, 1826, at Wadesboro, N. C., and died May 8, 1886, at Selma; son of Dr. Thomas Duke and Ann Amis (Shipman) Parke, the former a native of County Sligo, Ireland, born, 1793, one of twelve children, reared by his maternal grandfather, Alexander Duke, an Episcopal clergyman of County Meade, Ireland, immigrated to America 1815, clerked in New York for a while, studied medicine and attended college in Philadelphia, began the practice in Wadesboro, N. C., and later removed to Barbour, then Pike County, where he continued the practice of medicine until his death at Selma, November 18, 1862; grandson of Thomas and Eliza (Duke) Parke, who lived at White Castle and Castle Gal, County Sligo, Ireland, and of Daniel and Mary (Amis) Shipman of Columbus County, N. C., the former of Welsh stock, an immigrant to America with his brother James Shipman. C. D. Parke received his preparatory education in the private schools of Wadesboro, N. C., graduated from the Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia; took a post-graduate course in New Orleans in 1851; began the practice in Montgomery County; and removed to Selma in 1852 where he practiced until his death in 1886. He was president of the Medical association of Alabama, 1882-83; was councilman of Selma, 1876-77; and vestryman of St. Paul's Episcopal church for many years. Married: January 10, 1855, in Dallas County on the Swift plantation, to Louisa, daughter of John and Sarah (Barton) Swift of that county, the former born in Georgia, and granddaughter of F. or T. Swift, who came to Alabama in 1818. Children: 1. Thomas Duke (q. v.), m. Amy Smith, residence, Birmingham; 2. Clifford White, m. Annie Bungart, of Selma; 3. Julian Barton, m. Carrie McCord, of Selma; 4. Mary, m. Alex. Troy London (q. v.). Last residence, Selma.

PARKE, THOMAS DUKE, physician, was born December 28, 1857, at the old Swift home place, Dallas County; son of Clifford Daniel and Louisa (Swift) Parke (q. v.); grandson of John and Susan (Barton) Swift, of Dallas County. The Bartons came to America in 1690. Dr. Parke was educated in private and public schools of Selma. He entered the Louisville medical college, graduating in 1876; graduated from the University of New York, 1878; and did post graduate work in New York, Baltimore, London and Boston. He then located in Birmingham where he has continuously practiced. Married: May 3, 1893, to Amy, daughter of Thomas G. and Margaret (Drew) Smith of Mount Forest, Ontario; granddaughter of Thomas G. Smith of Mt. Mellick, Kings County, Ireland; and of Laurence and Isabel (Mc-Lauren) Drew; great-granddaughter of Sidney Smith also of Mt. Mellick. The Smiths were of Quaker stock. Residence: Birmingham.

PARKER, ELISHA, soldier of the American Revolution, "Departed this life in Morgan County, Ala., on the 21st ult., ELISHA PARKER, in the 97th year of his age, a native of Connecticut, and a soldier of the Revolution. He was greatly esteemed and respected by all who knew him."—The Democrat, Huntsville, Ala., May 6, 1846.

PARKER, GEORGE HENDERSON, business man, was born September 17, 1852, at Cincinnati, Ohio; son of Thomas Henderson and Mary Johanna (Cheever) Parker, the former who was a native of Dorchester, Mass., and was a deacon in the Baptist church; grandson of Daniel and Alice Eliza Cheever, of Providence, R. I., and Wrentham, Mass., and of Thomas and Sarah (Seaver) Parker, who resided at Roxbury, Mass.; great-grandson of Ebenezer Seaver who was a member of congress from Massachusetts during Jackson's administration. The progenitor of the Parker family in this country was Deacon Thomas Parker who came to this country from England in 1635, settling first at Lynn and later at Reading, Mass. Daniel Cheever was the progenitor of the family of that name in this country, having left Canterbury, England, in 1637, and settling at Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Parker received his early education in the common schools of Highland County, Ohio; at Washington street public school at Roxbury, Mass.; and at Roxbury high school. He studied law and was admitted to the bar at Hillsboro, Ohio, in 1873; was admitted to the bar at Blountville in 1875; became interested in the banking business at Cullman, 1884, as the senior member of the firm Parker & Company; was clerk of Cullman, 1875-77; was mayor 1889-97; and was re-elected in 1901, serving until 1903. He was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901 from the third senatorial district; was chairman of the committee on state and county boundaries; was a member of the committee on suffrage and elections in that body; was elected to the legislature in 1902; and was re-elected in 1906. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; and an Elk. He is the author of "The Parker Family," a short record of the Roxbury branch of the Parker family of Reading, Mass., and some of their descendants. Married: June 16, 1874, at Hillsboro, Ohio, to Cora Alice Heidelberg, daughter of Dr. George and Sarah (West) Heidelberg, of that place. Children: 1. George H., jr., b. March 18, 1875, d. April 10, 1904; 2. Mary Alice, b. July 27, 1877, m. M. L. Robertson, d. December 19, 1904; 3. Robert B., b. March 31, 1879, d. April 15, 1889; 4. Hattie Gude, b. October 29, 1881, d. January 2, 1891; 5. Sarah Seaver, b. August 23, 1884; 6. Harry, b. March 31, 1891. Residence: Cullman.

PARKER, GIDEON MARSENA, accountant and Confederate soldier, was born May 26, 1821, at Essex, Conn., and died in Mobile, January 25, 1874; son of Gideon and Eunice Mather (Post) Parker, natives of Connecticut, the former coming to Alabama in 1835, when but fourteen years of age and locating as a clerk in his father's mercantile establishment in Mobile, under a Mr. Reed. The earliest Parker ancestor in this country, of which there is any record is William Parker, who died December 21, 1686. His children in the direct line married into the Buckingham, Smith, Pratt, Lay, Denison and Post families. Gideon M. Parker came to Mobile, in 1835, when a boy of fourteen. He received a common school education only, and was an accountant and mayor of Mobile, 1872. He was 1st lieutenant in the "Woodruff rifles," 21st Alabama infantry regiment; was captured at Shiloh, after the battle, while searching for his brother-in-law, Capt. John Chamberlain; taken as a prisoner to Johnson's Island; was exchanged and later served as provost marshal of Mobile until the city was captured by Gen. E. R. S. Canby; and was imprisoned by him in a cotton warehouse. He was a Whig before the war, and later a Democrat. He was a Baptist until after his marriage when he became a Catholic. Married: in Mobile, November 15, 1843, (1) to Jane Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel and Marie Anastasie (Reingeard) Mills, resident of Mobile, the former of Connecticut, the latter of French descent; (2) August 31, 1861, to Sarah Jane Chamberlain, of Worcester, Mass., sister of Capt. John C. Chamberlain, and a first cousin to Judge Henry Chamberlain (q. v.). Children: by first wife: 1. Frances Sarah; 2. Marsena Robert, deceased; 3. Augusta Sophia, deceased; 4. Mary Jane, deceased; 5. Julia Elizabeth, deceased; 6. Isabella Annette, m. Charles D. Sands, resided in Montgomery; and by second wife: (7) Carrie Marsena, m. Frederick H. Butts, and lives at Newton Center, Mass. Last residence: Mobile.

PARKER, JABEZ J., secretary of State, 1870.

PARKER, JAMES MONROE, merchant, planter and legislator, was born November 7, 1848, at Equality, Coosa County; son of Leroy Monroe and Nancy (Freeman) Parker, the former was a native of Milledgeville, Ga., but in 1824 removed to Wetumpka, later living at Equality; grandson of Elisha and Nancy (Baker) Parker, of Georgia, and of Calvin and Sarah (Yeilding) Freeman; great-grandson of William Parker, of Georgia, and of Robert and Nancy (Morgan) Yeilding, natives of South Carolina, who removed to Early County, Ga., the former a Revolutionary soldier under Marion, and of — Baker, and wife, a Miss Renfro. He was educated in the common schools and at Braggs academy, Central, Elmore County. He entered the Confederate Army in 1862, and in 1865 was made a sergeant in Co. C, 6th Alabama Cavalry, Clanton's brigade. He is a merchant, planter and stock dealer. He represented Coosa County in the legislature of 1919. Married: Mattie, daughter of Josiah and Ann Caroline (Houser) Haigler, of Lowndes County. Children: 1. Mildred Augustin, deceased, m. Dr. John A. Penton. Residence: Equality.

Vol. IV—21

PARKER, JOHN HENRY, lawyer, was born September 6, 1853, in Coosa County, and died in 1902, at Wetumpka; son of Dr. Eli S. C. and Lucy (Lee) Parker, who lived at Nixburg, Coosa County, the former a native of Clarke County, Ga., who lived at that place until 1834, when his father's family moved to Chambers County, began to practice medicine with his brother in Monroe County, and a year later, moved to Nixburg, where he was one of the first settlers, represented Coosa County in the State legislature in 1862 and 1864, and retired from the practice of medicine in 1870; grandson of John and Fannie (East) Parker, the former of English descent, who settled in Clarke County, Ga., and later moved to Alabama, settling in Chambers County near the Randolph County line. Dr. Parker received his early education in the common schools of the county, and attended Washington and Lee University, 1872-1874. He withdrew from the university in his senior year, and taught school for several years, then read law with Oliver & Garrett in Dadeville. He was admitted to the bar in 1877, and the following year located at Rockford as a partner of Stephen J. Darby, in the law firm of Darby & Parker. He founded the Rockford "Enterprise," in 1879 and edited that paper until 1888; and served as register in chancery for Coosa County from 1879 to 1888. He resigned from the office in the latter year, and entered the State senate from the eighteenth senatorial district, serving through the session of 1888-1889, as a member of the judiciary committee, the committee on revision of laws, and the committee on penitentiary. In October, 1892, he moved to Wetumpka, where he continued the practice of law. He was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901 from the fifteenth senatorial district. He was a Democrat, served on the Hancock ticket as alternate elector in 1880, and was chairman of the state executive committee at one time. He was a Presbyterian, a Master Mason, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) December 28, 1880, to Alice Smith, who died August 11, 1890, daughter of Alexander Smith, at one time a member of the State legislature; (2) to Mary Mazelle Crawford, a granddaughter of Hon. Daniel Crawford, a member of the State legislature, and State treasurer for four years under Houston's administration. Children, by first marriage: 1. Jean Paul; 2. Alexander McKay; 3. John H., jr. Last residence: Wetumpka.

PARKER, MARSENA, sr., former mayor of Mobile. Deceased.

PARKER, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, a resident of Madison County; private 4th Regular U. S. Infantry; enrolled on September 6, 1820, payment to date from March 11, 1819; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,437.90; acts military establishment.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PARKER, WILLIAM J., acting commandant, University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1901.

PARKS, ISAAC H., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Crenshaw County; father of Chalmers Parks of Tallahassee, Fla.

PARKS, R. H., lawyer, living in 1913. Residence: Troy.

PARKS, WILLIAM HAYNE, teacher, lawyer, was born January 18, 1834, in Mecklenburg County, N. C.; son of William H. and Eliza (Hayne) Parks, the former a farmer, and a colonel in the State militia, who was born, lived and died in North Carolina, the latter a native of South Carolina; great-grandson of Gen. Isaac Hayne, who was hanged by the British at Charleston, S. C. Judge Parks was reared on a farm and educated at Davidson college, North Carolina. Leaving college in his senior year, he went to Alabama, taught school for three years, began the study of law, and was admitted to the bar in 1859. He practiced law continuously until he was appointed criminal judge of Pike County, by Gov. Seay, and he served in that position for eight years. He was elected to the State senate in 1872, and for four years was a member of that body, serving on several committees and as chairman of the committee on local laws. After the expiration of his term as judge of the criminal court, he became a partner of his son, W. L. Parks, and practiced for two years with him, at the end of which time the son was elected chancellor for the southeastern chancery division of Alabama, and appointed Judge Parks register in chancery of Montgomery County. He is a Methodist Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: in September, 1856, to Catherine Benbow, daughter of Richard Benbow, of Pike County. Children: 1. Richard H., lawyer, solicitor for the twelfth circuit; 2. Adam B., farmer; 3. Judge William L., chancellor of southeastern chancery division of Alabama; 4. Isaac T., farmer; 5. Clifford, clerk of chancery court; 6. Samuel, musician; 7. Selden, recording clerk; 8. Irene P., m. E. P. Hollis, Banks. Residence: Montgomery.

PARKS, WILLIAM LYCAN, lawyer, born August 22, 1861, in Troy, Pike County; son of William Hayne and Catherine (Benbow) Parks, the former who removed from Mecklenburg County, North Carolina, to Alabama in 1855, was admitted to the bar in 1859, practiced law until appointed judge of the criminal court of Pike County, was State senator, 1872 to 1876 from that county, and served as register in chancery of Montgomery County; grandson of William N. and Eliza (Hayne) Parks, the latter who was the granddaughter of Isaac Hayne, a Revolutionary patriot executed near Charleston, S. C., by the British, and of Richard and Nancy Benbow; and great-grandson of Capt. Hugh Parks, a Revolutionary soldier from North Carolina. Chancellor Parks received his education in the schools of Troy, and at the law school of the University of Alabama. He was elected chancellor August 1, 1898, and on November 8, 1904, was re-elected; resigned the office of chancellor of the southeastern chancery division of Alabama, 1907; located at Andalusia; engaged in law practice; and was chosen representative in November, 1910. He is a Democrat, was a delegate to the Chicago convention of 1896, which nominated Bryan for the presidency, and is a member of the Methodist church. Married: (1) to Vernon Hilliard; (2) to Susan Coleman, daughter of Walter and Fannie Coleman. Children, by first marriage: 1. Rockeport; 2. Vernon Hilliard; by second marriage: 3. Coleman; 4. Brickell; 5. Susan Coleman. Residence: Andalusia.

PARNELL, CHARLES NICHOLAS, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, 1891; licensed to practice by the county board of Chilton County. Residence: Maplesville.

PARR, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, "Died, on the 6th inst., at his residence about eight miles west of this place, Mr. John Parr, in the eighty-seventh year of his age. Mr. Parr emigrated from Fairfield District, S. Carolina, to this State about twelve years ago, and has since resided in the county till his death. He entered into the service of his country at the age of sixteen, in the Revolutionary war, and served two campaigns. No man has left behind him a more unblemished character."—Alabama Beacon, Greensboro, Ala., January 16, 1847.

PARRISH, CLARA WEAVER, artist, was born on Emerald plantation, near Selma, Dallas County; daughter of William Minter and Lucia Frances (Minter) Weaver, both natives of Dallas County, the former an honor graduate of the South Carolina college, Columbia, traveled abroad for a year and served with Gen. John Morgan, the cavalry leader, during the War of Secession; granddaughter of Philip J. and Ann Poure (Gardner) Weaver, and of Col. William T. and Susan (Bell) Minter, all of Dallas County. Mrs. Parrish had as a Colonial ancestor, Colonel Robert Rutherford, of Newberry District, S. C., who was with General Washington at Yorktown when Braddock surrendered to the American commander, and her Minter and Weaver progenitors were Revolutionary soldiers. She received her academic education in the Dallas academy and was trained in art at Cooper institute, where she received a bronze medal for portrait drawing, and in the Art students league, both of New York. She studied in Paris under Carlo Rosse and Raphael Collin and has exhibited her work at the Paris exposition and the Paris salon, the Royal academy, London, and current exhibitions in America. She has won prizes for water colors in New York, 1901, Knoxville, Tenn., 1910, and in New York again in 1913, the latter being offered by the Association of women painters and sculptors. She has designed many stained glass windows for Tiffany. Her work may be seen in St. Paul's Episcopal and the Baptist churches in Selma, and also in a Tuscaloosa church. She is an accomplished linguist, speaking besides her own language, French, German and Italian. She is a member of the Alabama society Colonial Dames; Daughters of the Confederacy; American water color society; International des beaux arts, des lettres, des sciences, Paris; New York water color club; Society of women painters; Lyceum club; New York and Paris; Pen and Brush, New York. Married: W. P. Parrish. Residence: New York City.

GEORGE W. CONNORS

PARRISH, J. S., lawyer, living in 1913. Residence: Montgomery.

PARRISH, JAMES ARTHUR, teacher, graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree, 1908; E. E. degree, 1909; principal of the Randolph County high school, 1913. Residence: Wedowee.

PARSONS, ENOCH, lawyer, came to Alabama from Tennessee in 1823, bringing with him the title of "General" probably received in local militia service, and the reputation of having served in the War of 1812 under Gen. Jackson. He was for many years associated professionally with Aaron B. Casper; represented his county in the legislature, 1828-30; was an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1835; and died about the year 1843, at his plantation near the junction of the Coosa and Tallapoosa, to which he had removed only a short time previously. His family removed to Pennsylvania where one of his sons is a planter. He was a brother of Hon. Silas Parsons of Madison, and of Gen. Peter Parsons of Talladega. Last residence: Montgomery County.

PARSONS, JOSEPH HEPBURN, lawyer, was born February 10, 1854, at Talladega, Talladega County; son of Lewis Eliphalet and Jane Ann B. M. (Chrisman) Parsons (q. v.). He received his early education in his native town; attended the U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., 1874-75; and was later a student at Rutgers' college, New Jersey. He graduated from the law department of Columbia university, Washington, D. C., 1879, and in 1881, took a post graduate course; entered upon the practice, June, 1882, at Grand Forks, North Dakota; later practiced in Washington, D. C., including the U. S. supreme court, and in 1887, located in Birmingham. In 1905, he removed to Talladega. From April, 1875, to December, 1882, he held a position in the judiciary division in the office of the secretary of the treasury. He was at one time a member of the Republican party. Author: "Historical papers upon the events of rare interest in the Napoleonic epoch," printed in two volumes, of more than four hundred pages each. Unmarried. Residence: Talladega.

PARSONS, LEWIS ELIPHALET, lawyer and provisional governor, was born April 28, 1817, at Lisle, Boone County, N. Y., and died June 8, 1895, at Talladega; son of Erastus Bellamy and Jennett (Hepburn) Parsons, the former a native of Hampshire, Mass., a farmer, and also interested with Gov. Dewitt Clinton in the construction of the Erie Canal; grandson of Eliphalet and Martha (Young) Parsons, of Hampshire County, Mass., and of Leonard and Louisa Hepburn; great-grandson of Elihu and Sarah (Edwards) Parsons; great-great-grandson of Rev. Jonathan and Sarah (Pierrepont)

Edwards, the former a graduate of Yale college in 1720, noted divine and theologian, and third president of the College of New Jersey; great-great-great-grandson of Timothy and Esther (Stoddard) Edwards, the former a graduate of Harvard college in 1691, for sixty years minister of the East parish Congregational church, of East Windsor; great-great-great-great-grandson of Rev. Solomon Edwards and wife, who was Mrs. Esther Mather, the former the pastor of the First Congregational church, at Northampton, Mass., from 1672-1729, and of Richard and Elizabeth (Tuthill) Edwards, the former a merchant of Hartford, Conn.; great-great-great-great-great-grandson of Anthony and Mary (Downing) Stoddard, the former an emigrant from England to Boston about 1639, admitted a freeman of the colony in 1640, and for twenty-three years a representative in the general court, and of William Edwards, a merchant of Hartford, Conn., who married an Englishwoman; great-great-great-great-great-grandson of Rev. Richard and Annie Edwards, the former a native of Scotland who in the time of Queen Elizabeth was a clergyman of the Established church in London, the latter, left a widow, married James Coles, and with her son, William Edwards, came to Hartford, Conn., about 1640, and of Emmanuel Downing of Salem, Mass. Governor Parsons was educated in the public schools and read law in the office of Frederick Tallmadge, in New York, and later under G. W. Woodward, in Pennsylvania. He came to Alabama in 1840, locating in Talladega, and forming a partnership with Alexander White. He was on the Fillmore electoral ticket in 1856, and in 1859 represented Talladega County in the legislature where he advocated State aid and internal improvement. In 1863 he again represented the same county in the State legislature and opposed the militia system of the State, because the Confederate government had full power in the premises. President Johnson appointed him provisional governor of the State, June 21, 1865, serving until in December of that year, at that date being elected without opposition a senator in the U. S. congress, but was refused his seat by the Republican party. He also served as U. S. district attorney for northern Alabama. He was a Presbyterian; Mason; Whig, then a Democrat, and later a Republican. Married: September 16, 1841, at Nicholasville, Ky., to Jane Ann Boyd McCullough, daughter of Col. Joseph and Celia (McDowell) Chrisman, of near Nicholasville, Ky.; granddaughter of Colonel McDowell, who commanded one of the Kentucky-Tennessee regiments at the battle of King's Mountain. Children: 1. George Wake; 2. Jennett Hepburn, m. Samuel Toole, both deceased; 3. Lewis Eliphalet, m. Kate Kelly; 4. Erastus Jonathan, deceased; 5. Celia, m. H. R. Boswell (q. v.); 6. Joseph Hepburn; 7. Jessamine Kentucky, m. James H. Stevenson, both deceased. Last residence: Talladega.

PARSONS, LEWIS ELIPHALET, jr., lawyer, U. S. district attorney, was born December 13, 1847, at Talladega, and died October 6, 1916, at Wetumpka; son of Gov. Lewis Eliphalet and Jane Ann Boyd McCullough (Chrisman) Parsons (q. v.). He was educated at the Baptist college at Talladega, under Prof. Adolphus Woodward, and at Eastman's business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. During the last year of the War of Secession, he enlisted in the First company of the Washington artillery, C. S. Army, and fought in the last battle of the war, against Wilson's cavalry, at Oxford, Ga. At that time he was in command of the only cannon the Confederate force of four hundred men had, to resist eighteen hundred of the enemy, and after the gun and its crew were captured, the prisoners were paroled on the field. He also participated at the battle of Drewry's Bluff, Va., when the first company, Washington artillery, and Belger's Rhode Island battery, advancing simultaneously to seize an important position on a slight rise in the wide expanse of an open field, in full view of both sides, actually charged each other at full gallop. The Confederate battery arrived first, unlimbered and opened upon Belger's battery, which halted within thirty yards. As it swung into line, and before it could fire a shot, the Union force, in less than three minutes, was totally annihilated, not a man or horse escaping. The Confederate force captured the entire battery which was presented to the first company on the field by Gen. Beauregard, in token of his admiration of the feat. After the war, Mr. Parsons studied law, was admitted to the bar, and practiced at Rockford and Birmingham, and in all the state and federal courts. He was appointed U. S. district attorney for the northern and middle districts of Alabama during the administration of Benjamin Harrison. He was a Republican. Married: to Catherine Kelley, daughter of Dr. James Kelley, who lived near Bradford, Coosa County. Children: 1. Margaret McNeil, m. Dr. Berney Saffold (q. v.), University; 2. James Kelley, colonel in U. S. Army, commanded the Thirty-ninth U. S. Infantry in the Argonne battles in France, during the war with Germany, was gassed, temporarily blinded and wounded, and on partial recovery was placed in command of St. Nazaire, one of the three principal ports of embarkation for the American troops, and held that position until the work was completed, receiving the distinguished service cross for gallantry and meritorious service, m. Volinda Henderson; 3. Erastus Jonathon, U. S. district attorney for northern and middle Alabama for one term, lawyer in New York City, m. Isabel Taylor. Last residence: Wetumpka.

PARSONS, SILAS, lawyer, was born about 1800, in Kentucky, and died in November, 1860, in Huntsville; brother of Gen. Enoch Parsons, a lawyer of Claiborne, who was the Whig candidate for governor in 1835, in opposition to Judge Clay, and of Gen. Peter Parsons, for many years a prominent lawyer and politician in East Tennessee. Little is known of his ancestry and early life. He came to Alabama from Tennessee, and first settled in Jackson County in 1819, as a farmer. He served as sheriff of the county from 1823 to 1826, and during that time studied law. Admitted to the bar, he practiced for a short time at Bellefonte, then went to Huntsville in 1831, and entered a partnership with Col. Byrd Brandon, and later with Judge Hopkins. He was elected the first chancellor of the northern division in 1838 by the legislature, but declined the office, and was appointed by Gov. Chapman and later elected by the legislature to fill the vacancy on the supreme court bench caused by the resignation of Justice Collier, 1849. He remained on the bench for two years, then was forced by failing health to resign. He moved to Texas and resided on a plantation about ten miles from Austin. While on a visit to Huntsville in 1860, he died, and was buried at that place. Married: to Miss Reed, a daughter of John Reed, of Madison, whose sister married Col. Jere Clemens. He had no children. Last residence: near Austin, Tex.

PARTLOW, WILLIAM DEMPSEY, physician and third superintendent of the Alabama insane hospitals, was born February 4, 1877, at Ashville, St. Clair County; son of David Alonso and Modena Catherine (Beason) Partlow, the former born at Ashville, where he made his home, and for two last years of the War of Secession was a private in the C. S. Army; grandson of Dempsey Winburn and Mary (Montgomery) Partlow, of South Carolina, who removed in 1820 to Alabama and of William Spruell and Julia Ann Deerman, the former of whom came, in boyhood, from Abbeville District, S. C., to Ashville. He obtained early education in the public school at Ashville, and in 1896 finished the course at St. Clair college, now Ashville high school. On April 3, 1901 he graduated in the medical department of the University of Alabama, delivering the valedictory for his class. He was a physician in the Bryce hospital at Tuscaloosa for the insane from graduation to October 1, 1908, when he was appointed assistant superintendent of the hospital, and this position he held until his election in 1919 as the successor to Dr. James T. Searcy. He has been twice president of the Tuscaloosa County medical society, is a member and a counsellor of the Medical association of Alabama, and orator of the association in 1909; a member of the American medical association, a member of the American medicopsychological association, and a member of the National geographic society. He is a Methodist. He has written a number of papers and essays, including "Degeneracy," "Value of employment and its relation to nervous and mental diseases," "Medicine and sociology—Their relation in the past and present." Married: April 26, 1905, in Birmingham, to Margaret Cummings, daughter of James Thomas and Margaret (Cummings) Nixon, of that city. Children: 1. William Dempsey, jr.; 2. Margaret Cummings; 3. Nixon Beason. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

PARTRIDGE, DANIEL, jr., lawyer, was born March 4, 1878, at Selma, Dallas County, and died August 14, 1915, in Selma, son of Daniel and Lucy Green (Harrie) Partridge, the former a Confederate soldier, born in Montgomery, but later a resident of Mobile; grandson of Daniel and Martha Jane (Steele) Partridge, the former a native of Maine, who located in Mobile in 1822, and of Levi Cunningham and Lucy Ann (Green) Harris, the former a native of S. C., a veteran of the battle of New Orleans in the War of 1812; great-grandson of Charles Steele of Mobile, and of Joseph Kirkland and Mildred Merriwether (Cabell) Green, of Jefferson County, Miss.; great-great-grandson of Thomas Marston Green, colonel in the Continental Army, member of congress from Mississippi Territory 1801-02, and of Col. William Cabell of Amherst, Va., member of congress from the Amherst District. Mr. Partridge was educated in the public schools of Selma, at Marion institute, and studied art two years in Paris. He graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1898, and located in Selma where he resided until his death; was appointed judge of the fourth judicial circuit by acting-Gov. R. M. Cunningham, April, 1904, to fill an unexpired term. He was an Episcopalian, and a Democrat. Married: November 26, 1903, at Chestertown, Md., to Grace Stewart, daughter of Charles Stewart and Eloise Sewell (Somervell) Solomon, who lived at Strathmore, Calvert County, Md.; granddaughter of Charles and Sara (Chandler) Solomon of Delaware, and of Alexander and Cornelia Olivia (Lowell) Somervell; great-great-granddaughter of Dr. James and Sarah (Howe) Somervell, the former a native of Scotland, born in 1692, a cadet of the house of Somervell, the founder of which went to England with William of Normandy, an ardent Jacobite who shared the fortunes of James Stewart, was taken prisoner and transported to the Colony of Maryland. Children: 1. Daniel; 2. Charlotte Louise. Last residence: Selma.

PARTRIDGE, JOHN WILLIAM, Baptist minister, was born December 18, 1872, at New Site, Tallapoosa County; son of Jesse Madison and Francis Elizabeth (Perryman) Partridge, the former who was a native of Meriwether County, Ga., later removed to Alabama, and was a farmer. The Partridges were of English and the Perrymans of Scotch-Irish descent. Mr. Partridge received his early education in the schools of New Site; was graduated A. B. from Howard college in 1906; and attended the Southern Baptist theological seminary at Louisville, Ky., for one year. He was ordained in the First Baptist church at Hurtsboro, Ala., October 1, 1898; served churches at Birmingham, Russellville, Dothan, and Prattville; was clerk in the office of the probate judge of Tallapoosa County in 1898; was a member of the legislature of 1919 from Franklin County; and has been pastor of the First Baptist church, Russellville. He is a Democrat; Mason; and Odd Fellow. Married: March 22, 1896, at Hurtsboro, to Lodeska Harsley, daughter of Dr. Henry M. and Mary Dalton (Boon) Harsley; and granddaughter of James M. Boon, who was a descendant of Daniel Boone. Children: 1. Jesse, teacher of domestic science, Florence; 2. Jimmie; 3. Eloise, Russellville. Residence: Russellville.

PARTRIDGE, ROBERT H., major, 15th Confederate cavalry, C. S. Army.

PASCHAL, GEORGE DENNIS, physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of New York, 1872; licensed to practice by county board of Russell. Residence: Hurtsboro.

PATERSON, WILLIAM BURNS, educator and horticulturist, was born February 9, 1850, at Tullibody, Clackmannanshire, Scotland, and died March 16, 1915, at Montgomery; son of John and Janet (Burns) Paterson, of Tullibody. He was a lineal descendant of John, brother of the poet Robert Burns. He had three years in the elementary schools of Scotland. In youth he was employed on the estate of Lord Abercrombie, located near Tullibody, and here he acquired that great love for flowers which played so important a part in his life. In 1869 he came to America, landing in New York; and after various experiences through the north and middle west, he drifted south to do construction work on a railroad being built out of Selma. In the early part of 1870 he opened a school for negroes near the McFadden plantation in the vicinity of Greensboro. From 1871 to 1879 he conducted Tullibody academy for negroes at Greensboro, so named for his old home. In the latter year he removed to Marion, where he became president of the Lincoln normal university for colored students. Here he remained several years, at the same time agitating in favor of State support. He finally succeeded in 1889, in securing an appropriation and also legislative authorization for relocation. Montgomery was selected, and Mr. Paterson opened the school in the Beulah Baptist church under the name of State normal school for colored students. He successfully presided over this institution as long as he lived. He overcame opposition to his plans, and vindicated his position in favor of public support. In 1890 he opened up a floral establishment, known as the Rosemont gardens, which grew from 16 x 50 foot greenhouse to an area of about five acres. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a charter member of the Alabama State horticultural society. Married: June 5, 1879, at Selma, to Margaret Bingham, daughter of Newton R. and Annie (Bingham) Flack. Mrs. Paterson, a teacher, was a graduate of Oberlin college and a native of Canfield, Ohio, she was of Irish descent. Children: 1. Annie Janet, m. Rupert D. Wilson; 2. William Burns, m. Carrie Burton McDade; 3. James Porter, m. Ila Watson; 4. John Haygood, m. Lucy Benton Young; 5. Wallace Bruce, m. Alice Gay. All reside in Montgomery, the proprietors of the Rosemont gardens. Last residence: Montgomery.

PATILLO, WILLIAM THOMAS, Methodist minister, was born November 16, 1840, near Loachapoka, Lee (then Macon) County; son of Rev. Nathan Winfield and Eliza Ann Rodgers (Hightower) Patillo, the former born near Liberty, Greene County, Ga., removed to Alabama in 1839 and from that date until his death October 3, 1878, resided near Loachapoka and Auburn; grandson of John and Mary (Winfield) Patillo, of Liberty and Whitesville, Ga., and of Elisha and Mary (Oelin) Hightower, of Upson County, Ga., who moved in 1869 to Texas, and died there at advanced ages; and great-grandson of Sam Patillo, also of Georgia. Rev. Mr. Patillo attended the country schools, and East Alabama male college at Auburn, 1859-61, but it was not until June, 1868, he was awarded his A. B. degree. He taught in the vicinity of his home, 1865-68; was principal of the preparatory school, East Alabama male college, 1868-69; and taught at Union school house near La Place, 1869-70. He was sergeant in Capt. J. W. Rush's co., 1st Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi infantry regiment, until the fall of Island No. 10; first lieutenant in the 54th Alabama regiment of mounted infantry, October, 1864, to April 26, 1865; and was present at the capitulation at Greensboro, N. C. In October, 1865, he was licensed as a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and in November, 1870, was admitted on trial into full connection in the North Alabama conference, in session at Gadsden. Married: July 16, 1870, at the residence of her family near La Place, to Sarah Virginia, daughter of Lindsay Harper and Elizabeth (Allen) Cole. Children: 1. Annie Lizzie, deceased, m. Dr. Charles S. Northen, of Talladega; 2. Marvin, a druggist, m. Eulah, daughter of W. V. Echols; 3. Mary Cole, m. A. F. Stinson, of Cullman; 4. Pierce, a druggist, at Hartselle, m. Ethel, daughter of A. A. Oden, of that place; 5. Helen Claude, teacher; 6. Sallie Will; 7. Wesley Allen, secretary Jefferson County building and loan association, m. Nannie Hughes, of Birmingham. Last residence: Montevallo.

PATRICK, BENJAMIN SWEAT, commandant Alabama polytechnic institute, was born June 9, 1874, at Greenville, S. C.; son of John Bellinger and Maria Louisa (Goodlett) Patrick, and a brother of Dr. R. G. Patrick (q. v.). Col. Patrick obtained early education in Greenville military institute, S. C., and the Patrick military institute, Anderson, S. C., from which he graduated, June, 1892; attended Furman university, September, 1892-January, 1893, and Alabama polytechnic institute at Auburn, 1895-98, graduating, B. Sc., 1897, and M. Sc., 1898; and also attended, in 1903, and 1904, summer sessions of the University of Chicago. In 1893-94, he was instructor in Patrick military institute; in 1894-95, was teacher in Bethlehem male college, Cuthbert, Ga., and 1898-1916, he was commandant of cadets and professor of military science and tactics in Alabama polytechnic institute. He is now professor of mathematics. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a member of the Chi Psi college fraternity. Married: August 18, 1910, at Ruston, La., to Bertie, daughter of Stephen Joseph and Mary Alice (Henry) Heard, of that place; and granddaughter of Charles and Parthenia (Davis) Heard, and of John Henry (Mitchell) Henry. Residence: Auburn.

PATRICK, GEORGE H., assistant secretary of the constitutional convention of 1867. Died July 30, 1920. Residence: Washington, D. C.

PATRICK, ROBERT GOODLETT, educator, was born January 15, 1866, at Greenville, S. C.; son of John Bellinger and Marie Louise (Goodlett) Patrick, the former born at Midway, Barnwell County, S. C., lived at Greenville, S. C., for more than thirty years was superintendent of Patrick military institute at Greenville and Anderson, S. C., was professor in Arsenal Academy, Columbia, S. C., and a captain in the C. S. Army; grandson of John Milliken and Lavinia (Gillam) Patrick, who lived at Midway, S. C., and of Col. Robert Poole and Lucretia (Young) Goodlett, who lived at Greenville, S. C., the latter of English and Welsh ancestry. He obtained his early education in a private school at Greenville, S. C., and in Patrick military institute, at that place. He was graduated from Furman university, B. A., June, 1885, and from the Southern Baptist theological seminary, Th.M. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him in 1896 by Howard College. He was ordained in the Baptist ministry in 1886, and served as pastor of the church at Yorkville, S. C., 1886-1891; as pastor of the First church at Maysville, Ky., 1892-1895; of Siloam church, Marion, 1895-1896. He became president of Judson college in 1896, and held that position until 1913; was secretary of the Alabama Baptist Educational Commission, 1912-1913; and was president of the Southern Baptist Educational Association, 1908-1913. He is a Democrat and a member of the Chi Psi college fraternity. Married: June 27, 1888, at Greenville, S. C., to Hellen Manly, daughter of Dr. Charles and Mary (Matthews) Manly, of that place, who lived at Tuscaloosa at the time of Mrs. Patrick's birth, and later lived at Murfreesboro, Tenn., at Staunton, Va., at Greenville, S. C., and at Lexington, Va., the former born in Charleston, S. C., in 1837; granddaughter of Basil and Sarah Murray (Rudolph) Manly, who moved from South Carolina to Alabama, where the former was the second president of the University of Alabama. Children: 1. Mary Louise, professor of mathematics at Bessie Tift College, Forsyth, Ga.; 2. Hellen Gurganus, Marion. Residence: Chicago, Ill.

PATTERSON, CHARLES R., business man, was born October 17, 1857, in Portsmouth, Ohio. He came to Alabama in May, 1886, was one of the organizers and is now president of the Dispatch printing and stationery company of Birmingham. He is a Mason. Married: June 27, 1883, to Florence J. Hite, of Clarinda, Ia. Residence: Birmingham.

PATTERSON, JOSIAH, lawyer, colonel C. S. Army and representative in the Tennessee legislature, was born April 14, 1837, in Morgan County, and died on February 10, 1903; son of Malcolm and Mary (Deloach) Patterson. He attended the old field schools of his native county; was a student at Somerville academy; read law without an instructor and was admitted to the bar, 1859; practiced in Morgan county, 1859-61; entered the C. S. Army as first lieutenant in the 1st Alabama cavalry and was promoted to colonel of the 5th Alabama regiment; resumed the practice of law in Morgan County, 1865, and removed to Tennessee, 1872; representative in the State Legislature, 1882, and democratic representative from the tenth Tennessee district in the 52nd, 53rd and 54th congresses, 1891-97. Married: in 1859, to Josephine, daughter of Judge Green P. and Eliza (Turner) Rice, of Alabama. Among children: Malcolm Rice (q. v.). Last residence: Tennessee.

PATTERSON, LAMAR GRAY, chemist and broker, was born September 19, 1865; son of Thomas Leiper and Louisa (Sprigg) Patterson. He graduated from the University of Virginia in 1885 and took special work in chemistry. He worked as a chemist in a private laboratory in Cumberland, Md.; was chemist, Mississippi experiment station, 1888; Washington carbon company, Pennsylvania, 1894; metallurgist, Aetna standard iron and steel company, 1898; chemist, Alabama steel and ship building company, 1899; Virginia State fertilizer company, 1900; formerly superintendent of the Lynchburg, Va., branch and later of the Montgomery branch of the Virginia Carolina chemical company. He is now the member of a brokerage firm in Montgomery. He is a fellow, London chemical society, and member, American philosophical society. Married: September 14, 1892, to Mary Humphreys, of Columbus, Miss. Residence: Montgomery.

PATTERSON, LORENZO D., Methodist minister, member of the North Alabama conference; living in 1913.

PATTERSON, L. D., prominent educator, who lived in DeKalb County. Deceased.

PATTERSON, MALCOLM RICE, ex-governor of Tennessee, was born June 7, 1861, at Sommerville, Morgan County; son of Josiah and Josephine (Rice) Patterson (q. v.). He was educated at the Christian brothers college, receiving the A. M. degree, and later attended Vanderbilt university; admitted to the bar, 1883; was elected to 57th and 59th congresses, 1901-7; governor of Tennessee for two terms, 1907-11. Residence: Memphis, Tenn.

PATTERSON, THOMAS H., major and later lieutenant colonel, 30th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

PATTERSON, WILLIAM C., major, and later lieutenant colonel, 35th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

PATTESON, BENJAMIN, U. S. marshal, was born September 15, 1789, at Scottsville, Albemarle County, Va., and died September 15, 1862, at Huntsville; son of Fenton Patteson. In company with his two brothers, Thomas and Fenton Patteson, and his sister Elizabeth, he went to Nashville, Tenn., at the time when Gen. Andrew Jackson was beginning his military career. Mr. Patteson became an intimate friend of Gen. Jackson, and with his sister accompanied Jackson to Huntsville on horseback.

Gen. Jackson appointed Mr. Patteson a brigadier general on his staff. On a corner of a street in Huntsville, a large rock stands, marking the spot where Gen. Jackson and his army of three thousand men halted at eight o'clock on the evening of October 11, 1813, after marching thirty-two miles in five hours. At that time and place, Gen. Patteson distributed to each man so many grains of parched corn. After the war question was settled with the Indians, Gen. Patteson returned to Huntsville. He was U. S. marshal for thirty-one years, and was again appointed to the position by Jefferson Davis. He left his home when war was declared, and spent the rest of his life with his family near Gunter'sville. He was a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: September 28, 1833, at Chilhowie, Va., to Sarah Sanders, daughter of John and Susan Sanders, of that place. Children: 1. Susan Wells; 2. Kate; 3. Fannie, m. Dr. Edwin Taliaferro, Huntsville; 4. Benjamin, m. Lena Welborn; 5. Sanders; 6. Sarah, m. George Scruggs, Memphis, Tenn.; 7. Elizabeth, m. Edward Weeks, Huntsville; 8. Senah, m. Rev. John A. Thompson, Montgomery; 9. Emma, m. John Almont Carter; 10. Lila Mastin, m. Jessie Walter Laxson, Huntsville. Last residence: Huntsville.

PATTON, CHARLES HAYS, planter, physician, manufacturer, was born in 1806, in Monroe County, Va., and died in Huntsville. He was a brother of Gov. Robert Miller Patton (q. v.), and of John Patton (q. v.). He was graduated from Yale University, and later from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, and entered the practice of medicine and surgery at Huntsville, about 1830. During the war with Mexico, he served as surgeon in the U. S. Army, and after the war, again practiced his profession in Huntsville, where he was also a large planter. He was president and practically owner of the Bell Factory Cotton Mill, built by his father, Col. Andrew Beirne and Mr. Donegan. The Bell Factory mill was the first cotton mill in Alabama and probably the first in the south. He was a Whig until the dissolution of that party, then became a Democrat. Married: in 1831, at Union, Monroe County, to Sarah Plunkett Beirne, daughter of Col. Andrew and Nancy (Keenan) Beirne, of that place, who came to America from Londonderry, Ireland. Children: 1. Mary Beirne, m. Maj. W. H. Echols, Huntsville; 2. Mattie Lee, m. Maj. J. R. Stevens; 3. Oliver Beirne, attended the University of Virginia, planter at Huntsville, m. Betty Irvine White, daughter of Addison White of Huntsville, children, Susie B., Irvine W., Oliver B., Mattie Lee, Alice G., and Milton H. Last residence: Huntsville.

PATTON, JOHN, merchant and planter, was born July 5, 1814, in Virginia, and died in June, 1887 at Huntsville. He was a brother of Gov. Robert Miller Patton (q. v.) and of Charles Hays Patton (q. v.). Early in life he entered his father's mercantile store, purchased his father's interest in 1836 and successfully conducted the business until 1856. He was also owner of an extensive plantation in Mississippi which he conducted until 1868, when he retired from active business life. Married: July 11, 1843, to M. Louise, daughter of James Walker of Virginia, a planter, and at one time a representative in the State legislature. Of the seven children born to the marriage, the following are living: 1. James H., planter and trader, Huntsville; 2. Robert H., merchant, Ellisville, Miss.; 3. Leila D., m. William H. Raymond, merchant, Selma. Last residence: Huntsville.

PATTON, ROBERT MILLER, planter, twentieth governor of Alabama, was born July 10, 1809, in Russell County, Va., and died February 28, 1885, at Sweet Water, near Florence; son of William and Martha Lee (Hays) Patton, natives, respectively, of Londonderry, Ireland, and Louisa County, Va., the former, born in May, 1778, who came to America with his parents in 1791, and settled in Virginia, went to Huntsville in 1818, where he became a planter and a merchant, was one of the founders of the Bell factory cotton mill, said to be the first cotton mill in the Gulf States, and died at Huntsville in 1846; grandson of Robert and Jane (Ramsey) Patton, of Londonderry, Ireland, who came to Monroe County, Va., in 1791, and of Charles Hays, of Louisa County, Va., who came with his wife from Ireland and settled in Louisa County, Va. Gov. Patton attended Green academy at Huntsville, the only academy in Alabama at that time, and after attending school for a few years, was placed in a commercial house to learn the business. He is said to have had charge of the first cotton gin ever operated in Alabama. In 1829, he moved to Florence, and began his mercantile life which continued until about 1857 or 1858, when his sons took over the business. He was a planter owning over four thousand acres and three hundred slaves. In 1832, he was elected to the State legislature at Tuscaloosa from Lauderdale County, Democratic territory, although he was a Whig, and in 1837 was a member of the special legislature called to relieve the people of the state from the distress caused by the financial panic of that year. From that time until the beginning of the War of Secession, he served almost continuously in one or the other branch of the legislature, and was president of the senate several times, holding that office at the outbreak of hostilities. He was a member of the national convention which met in Charleston, S. C., in 1860, and of the State convention which passed the secession ordinance. He opposed secession, believing that it meant war, but when the state left the union, gave his entire support to the southern cause, spending his time and fortune aiding it, and as commissioner under the Confederate government, raised millions of dollars to support the armies in the field. During the war, his large estate was overrun by the enemy, and much of his land laid waste.

Gov. Patton represented Lauderdale County in the constitutional convention of 1865, and later in that year was elected governor, defeating Col. M. J. Bulger and Judge William R. Smith, the latter having represented the more decided Union element. In 1867, he issued five hundred thousand dollars worth of what were known as "Patton certificates," to enable the state to pay a portion of its expenses in anticipation of the collection of taxes. Before his term had expired, every dollar had been redeemed in national currency. His administration was conducted under difficulties arising out of the conflicting sentiments of the people of the state and the hostile legislation of congress, and his orders and appointments were subject to the supervision of the military authorities. At the close of his term the bonded indebtedness of the state was little more than a million dollars, notwithstanding that he had paid interest on the debt incident to the war, had administered affairs for an entire year without collecting taxes, and had fed thirty thousand persons made paupers by the war. He was largely instrumental in having congress suspend the collection of the war tax due to the Federal government by each of the southern states, at a time when its collection would have ruined Alabama. In July, 1868, he was displaced under the reconstruction acts of congress. He organized an association of eastern capitalists to connect Chattanooga, Mobile and New Orleans by railway; was president of the road from Chattanooga to Meridian; of the South and North Alabama railroad company; and was active in building the Mobile and Chattanooga railroad. He aided in the rebuilding of the University of Alabama, burned by Federal troops; was trustee of the Missouri State university, of the University of Alabama, of the State normal college, and of the Florence synodical female college. The public school at Florence bears his name, and the Presbyterian church at that place, of which he was elder for fifty-four years, contains a window to his memory. He is buried in Huntsville.

Married: January 31, 1832, in Huntsville, to Jane Locke (q. v.), daughter of Gen. John and Mary (Weakley) Braham, of that place, the former a soldier in the War of 1812, serving as major general with Gen. Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans, and a warm personal friend of Gen. John Coffee; granddaughter of Col. Robert Weakley, of Nashville, a lieutenant in the Revolutionary War, whose wife was a daughter of Matthew Locke, born in 1730, in England, member of the house of burgesses, one of the court officers of the crown of England, who came to America in 1775, became a member of the congress which met at Halifax, N. C., April 4, 1776, and a senator from North Carolina at Philadelphia, 1793-1797. Children: 1. John Braham, captain in the C. S. Army, d. 1905; 2. William Anderson, first lieutenant in the C. S. Army, killed at the battle of Shiloh, April 6, 1862; 3. Mary J., d. 1908, m. John J. McDavid, whose son, Robert Patton McDavid (q. v.), was secretary of state of Alabama in 1899; 4. Mattie H., m. Col. John D. Weeden (q. v.) of the Forty-ninth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army; 5. Robert Weakley, member of the University of Alabama cadet corps, and orderly sergeant in the body guard of Brig.-Gen. Pillow, C. S. Army, killed in a skirmish around Selma, April, 1865; 6. John Simpson, d. in boyhood; 7. Charles Hays, d. August

JUDGE WILLIAM M. WALKER

12, 1891; 8. Thomas, d. in infancy; 9. Andrew Beirne, d. in 1882. Last residence: Sweetwater, near Florence.

PATTON, WILLIAM B., grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1823.

PAUL, ELZA BLAND, teacher and Methodist minister, was born September 25, 1877, at Orrville, Dallas County; son of John Washington and Elizabeth Permella (Booth) Paul, the former a native of South Carolina, who lived at Orrville, and served in the C. S. Army; grandson of William and Elizabeth Permella Booth, who lived near Rehoboth, and in Dallas and Wilcox Counties. He received his early education at home in a private school near Orrville, and in public schools at Orrville and Safford Station; attended the preparatory department of Southern university for one year, and the Columbiana fitting school for part of three years. He attended Southern university, 1893-1894, and 1898-1901, and was graduated in the latter year, A. B. He began life for himself as cashboy in a department store in Selma, in 1891; served as a tutor in the Columbiana fitting school in 1895; taught in the country school near Columbiana for a few months; farmed during the next spring; moved to Independence, Autauga County, in June, 1897; taught a private school at Ida Hoe school house during the summer, and public school at the same place during the winter; taught public school at Milton and Huckabee, Autauga County, 1898; at Calcis, Shelby County, summer, 1901; professor of mathematics and language in West Alabama agricultural school, 1901-1903; taught at Hamilton, Marion County; special tutor in North Alabama college at Fort Payne, six weeks; principal, Collinsville high school, DeKalb County, 1903-1904; taught at Huckabee, summer 1904; principal Albertville public school, Marshall County, 1904-1905. He was licensed to preach at Wetumpka in 1898, by the Prattville district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church South; was appointed to supply Rutledge Circuit, Union Springs District, in June, 1905; was admitted on trial into traveling connection, Alabama Conference, December, 1905; has served several charges; and is now stationed at Columbia. He is a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: July 5, 1903, at Billingsley, to Martha Eleanor, daughter of William and Elizabeth Jane (Farley) Hinton, who lived near Billingsley. Children: 1. Freddie Inez; 2. Ouida Fay. Residence: Columbia.

PAYNE, LEONIDAS WARREN, jr., teacher, was born July 12, 1873, at Auburn; son of Leonidas Warren and Mary Jane (Foster) Payne, formerly of Georgia, who moved to Alabama in 1837. He received his early education in the private schools at Auburn; graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute with the degrees of B. S. 1892, M. S. 1893, and was fellow in English, 1892-3; University of Pennsylvania, Ph. D., 1904, and elected Harrison fellow in English, 1903. He held several different positions at the Alabama polytechnic institute; taught English in various schools of the State; was associate editor of Lippincott's revision of Worcester's dictionary, 1904-06; removed to Louisiana and later to Texas where he is now connected with the English department of the University of Texas. Author: "The Hector of Germany," 1906; "A Word-List of East Alabama": "Southern literary readings," 1913. Married: October 27, 1897, at Lafayette, to Mary Susan, daughter of Rev. William Carey and Sarah Elizabeth (Higgins) Bledsoe, of that place. Children: 1. W. C.; 2. Leonidas Warren, III; 3. Sarah Farnham. Residence: Austin, Tex.

PAYNE, MATHEY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, resided in Walker County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 150.

PAYNE, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Marengo County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on March 13, 1835, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

PAYNE, WILLIAM WINTER, planter, representative in congress, was born January 2, 1806, in Fauquier County, Va., and died September 2, 1874, in Warrenton, Va. He was descended from a highly respectable family, and received a good academic education. In 1825, he moved to Alabama and settled at Tusculumbia, and in 1831 represented Franklin County in the legislature. Two years later he moved to Sumter County, and engaged in planting on a large scale. He was elected to the legislature from that county in 1836, and was re-elected in 1837 and 1838. The following year he was the candidate of the Democratic party for the senate, and was defeated by Samuel B. Boyd, by only four votes out of twenty-five thousand. Conceiving that he had grounds, he contested the election, and the matter was brought before the senate for investigation. The result was that Mr. Boyd's seat in the body was declared invalid, and another election was ordered, which being too late in the session for any practical use, was held over to the regular election in 1840 when Mr. Payne declined the contest. In 1841 he was elected to congress on the general ticket system; was re-elected in 1843 over Col. Elisha Young, the Whig candidate; and in 1845 over John Irwin of Greene County, the independent candidate. Mr. Payne was not re-nominated for congress in 1847, because of a two-thirds rule at the convention, and in the fall of the same year, returned to Virginia, and resided near Warrenton, engaging in planting for the rest of his life. In 1859 he presided over the Democratic state convention at Richmond. Married: in 1826, to a daughter of John J. Winston of Franklin County. His son was a colonel in the War of Secession, and his son-in-law, whose name was Payne, commanded a brigade of Virginia troops in the C. S. Army. Last residence: near Warrenton, Va.

PEACH, GEORGE W., lawyer, living in 1913. Residence: Clayton.

PEACH, JOHN HIXON, farmer, was born May 11, 1829, in South Carolina, and died September 20, 1905, at Clayton; son of George and Abigail (Hixon) Peach, natives of South Carolina. He was educated in the common schools, and removed to this State when quite young; served as a private in Co. B, 53rd Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army. He was a Democrat; Methodist; and a Mason. Married: (1) February 2, 1858, to Susannah R., daughter of Leford and Stacy (Lawson) Edwards, of Pike County; (2) February 15, 1876, to Nancy, daughter of Levi and Stacy Robertson (Turner) Wheelless, natives of Talbot County, Ga. Children: by first wife, 1. George Washington, m. Vela Lee; 2. Arthur Monroe, m. Lila Andrews; 3. Alma L., m. Robert L. Petty; 4. Henry Edwards, m. Lula Andrews; 5. Abigail Hixon, m. Robert A. Foster; by second wife: 6. Edna Irene, m. Arthur Henry Feagin; 9. Susie Ernestine, unmarried; 8. Annie Marvin, m. William Crawford Hightower; 9. John Hill, m. Bessie Roberts; 10. Ida Eloise, m. Clarence H. West. Last residence: Clayton.

PEACOCK, B. F., manager U. S. rolling mill, Anniston, was born in England, where at the age of eleven years he began to acquire a knowledge of the manufacture of iron and soon rose to managerial positions in some of the largest rolling mills in that country. He emigrated to America and first located in Pittsburgh, finally removing to Anniston where he was given the position of general manager of the United States rolling mill. He was considered one of the most skillful workers in wrought iron in the country. In 1891, he prepared for the Anniston meeting of the Alabama industrial and scientific society, a valuable paper on "The nature of the iron and steel industry in Alabama," a paper, "which is full of information and close reasoning and in which Mr. Peacock states his belief in the direct production of iron and steel from the ore without the intervention of the blast furnace and the puddling furnace, in view of the fact that a direct process was practiced by certain of the ancients." Married: in England, to Anna E. Port. Children: 1. Francis, a draughtsman and civil engineer; 2. Edward; 3. Benjamin H.; 4. Frederick A.; 5. Emily F.; 6. Anna L.; 7. Adelaide; 8. Ethel S.; 9. May. Residence: Anniston.

PEACOCK, GEORGE, iron and brass founder, was born May 5, 1823, on a farm near Stockton-on-Tees, County of Durham, England, and died about 1899, in Selma; son of Joseph Peacock who came with his wife from England to America in 1851 to visit his three sons in this country, and was accidentally killed by a railroad train. Mrs. Peacock returned to England and spent the remainder of her life there. When he was seven years of age, his parents moved to the town of Stockton, and he attended school at that place until he was fourteen years old. He was apprenticed by his father to the Patrick Lane iron works, and he served seven years to learn the trade of an iron molder. He was employed for three years as a journeyman in Liverpool, and came to the United States in September, 1848, accepting employment in Townsend's foundry and machine shop at Albany, N. Y., for two years. At the end of that time he went to Troy, N. Y., to the firm of Collier, Sage and Dunhams, and in less than a year was made superintendent of the works. During the three and a half years spent with that firm, Mr. Peacock invented the casing system of making piping, the drop pattern used in machine molding, the green sand core bar, the collapsible core bar, and the casing for bells. He went to Cleveland, O., and built a new works for Ashcraft, McCammon and company, designed especially for cast iron pipe, and manufactured all the piping for the city waterworks at Cleveland. He went to Louisville, Ky., built the waterworks for that city and erected a new foundry, and was managing the iron works of Churchill and company at Natchez, Miss., at the outbreak of the War of Secession. His knowledge of the manufacture of munitions secured for the Churchill people their first contract from the Confederate government. The fall of the lower Mississippi led to the removal of the iron works to Columbiana, and from that place, Mr. Peacock came to Selma in 1863 as superintendent of the Naval cannon factory, the office of superintendent having been created by special act of the Confederate congress at that time. While serving the government, Mr. Peacock invented a system of core-making for shells which made possible the manufacture of three times as many shells in a given length of time as had formerly been manufactured. He invented a system of tapping iron from furnaces, and instigated the use of wood in reverberatory furnaces in the melting of iron for cannon. He discovered a fine quality of tripoli in north Alabama and the first coking coal in the state. At the close of the war, he established the first foundry in Selma, and operated it for many years, and was also engaged in the manufacture of machinery. He was the inventor of the Peacock car wheel, a self-oiling tram car wheel, a cotton press and a plow. He was appointed a member of the board of trustees of Dallas academy in 1866, and held that position until his death, serving as chairman of the executive committee of that board for many years; was a Protestant Episcopalian; a Knight Templar; and an Odd Fellow. Married: in 1845, in England, to Mary Ripley, who died in 1875 at Selma. Children: 1. Mrs. M. R. Jarvis; 2. Mrs. H. U. McKinney; 3. Ida; 4. G. Harry; 5. William R. Last residence: Selma.

PEAGLER, THOMAS W., druggist, was born June 30, 1859, in Butler County, about twelve miles east of Greenville; son of George S. and Absilla (Thigpen) Peagler, the former a native of South Carolina, a planter; grandson of Gray and Penelope (Stallings) Thigpen. He was educated in the rural schools of Butler and engaged in farming until 1888, when he entered the drug business in Greenville in partnership with A. G. Stewart. Later this connection was dissolved and he formed a partnership with E. M. Kirkpatrick, this being dissolved, he conducted his business alone. He was captain of the "Greenville Rifles," finally being promoted to a majority in the 1st regiment, Alabama State troops. He still retains his agricultural interests. He is a Democrat; Knight of Pythias; and member of Ancient Legion of Honor. Married: November, 1882, at Greenville, to Ellen, daughter of J. L. Dunkin. Children: 1. W. Werle; 2. Myrtle; 3. Ila, deceased. Residence: Greenville.

PEARCE, HENRY ALLEN, lawyer and judge, was born March 1, 1861, near Milton, Santa Rosa County, Fla.; son of Samuel A. and Anna A. (Yonge) Pearce; grandson of Edmond A. and Eliza Pearce, originally from Virginia, and of Henry A. and Mary Yonge, of Geneva. He was educated in the public schools of Abbeville. Admitted to the bar, he has practiced at Abbeville, Columbia and Dothan; was mayor of Dothan in 1895, and again in 1900-01; was first elected judge of the twelfth judicial circuit, November 8, 1904, and again in November, 1910. He is a Democrat; and a Knight of Pythias. He is unmarried. Residence: Dothan.

PEARCE, JAMES PIZARO, farmer, miller, merchant, and member constitutional convention, was born June 4, 1845, at Hickstown, Paulding County, Ga.; son of John Mackeywood and Elizabeth (Skinner) Pearce, of Hickstown, Paulding County, Ga. He received his early education at Pearce's Mill. He entered the C. S. Army, June 10, 1862, as second lieutenant Co. K, 5th Alabama cavalry regiment, was commissioned captain of Co. M, that regiment, 1863, and served until the surrender. He is a farmer, miller, merchant and man of affairs. He is a Democrat; member of no church but subscribes to the Methodist doctrines. He was elected to the Constitutional convention, 1901, and served in that body. He is the uncle of Largus Pearce, a native of Guin, Marion County, who has made a comfortable fortune in a mercantile association with him. Married: in March, 1866, near Pickensville, Delia Elizabeth, daughter of William Clarke of Marion County. Children: 1. Clovis Marvin, merchant and planter, Carbon Hill. Residence: Pearce's Mill.

PEARSALL, JEREMIAH, planter, located in Lawrence County about 1821. He was a successful planter, and of his family Saunders says: "The Pearsalls were good Presbyterian people, cultivated, refined and hospitable. The head of the family not only squared his conduct with the law, but by the golden rule." Married: Patience, daughter of Abraham Molton, of Duplin County, N. C. Children: 1. James, m. Miss Mayor, of Colbert County and was a commission merchant of New Orleans, first the firm of Walter and Pearsall, and then of McMahon and Pearsall; 2. Edward, m. Parthenia, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Balthrop) Shearon, Colbert County, children: (1) Samuel Elliott; (2) Lucy, d. in infancy; (3) Nancy, d. in infancy; (4) Nathan G., m. Louise Shearon; (5) Catherine, m. John W. Rand; (6) Sarah Letitia, m. John D. Rather (q. v.); (7) Annie, m. Joseph C. Eve, of Georgia; (8) Jeremiah, d. unmarried; (9)

Edward, d. unmarried; (10) Thomas Ella, m. Joshua Burns Moore (q. v.); 3 Dolly, m. Metcalf DeGraffenreid, and his wife died in about two years leaving a daughter Catherine Metcalf; 4. Catherine, m. Bronson; 5. daughter, m. — Camp, (2) Nathan Gregg, and became the mother of Gen. John Gregg (q. v.).

PEARSON, HOSEA, farmer and legislator, was born March 20, 1853, in Talladega County; son of William Jasper and Elizabeth Brasher (Hosey) Pearson, of Shelby County; grandson of Jonathan and Martha (Rogers) Pearson, and of Jesse and Delila (Brasher) Hosey, of Russell's Valley, Tenn. He was educated in the common schools of his native county; has been a justice of the peace and represented Shelby County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: July 13, 1879, to Lucy Frances, daughter of Wiley and Frances (Mason) Merrell, of Shelby County. Children: 1. Mildred, m. G. D. Baldwin; 2. Wiley; 3. Orin; 4. Erman; 5. Evie; 6. Gordan; 7. Clayton; 8. Mason. Residence: Shelby.

PEARSON, J. M., educator; superintendent of the Alexander City schools; living in 1913.

PEARSON, PHILIP E., a prominent citizen of Talladega County a generation ago; father of Mrs. John J. Woodward. Last residence: Talladega.

PEARSON, ROBERT HENRY, lawyer, was born November 16, 1848, near Clayton, Barbour County, and died October 16, 1909, in Birmingham; son of Benjamin Franklin and Harriet Maria (Dismukes) Pearson, natives, respectively, of Fayetteville, Cumberland County, N. C., and of Wadesboro, Anderson County, N. C., who were married in that state and came to Alabama in 1840, settling on a large plantation in Barbour County; grandson of Herbert and Martha Anne (Rodgers) Pearson, who moved from Virginia to North Carolina, and of William and Elizabeth (Ward) Dismukes, of North Carolina, the latter who first married Joseph Pickett; great-grandson of George Dismukes, one of four brothers who came to this country from France with Gen. Lafayette, and fought in the Revolutionary Army. The Pearsons came to America from England. Mr. Pearson spent the early years of his life on his father's farm, and received the rudiments of his education at home. He attended the schools of Clayton, and taught in the high school at Midway for some time. He entered the law department of Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., and was graduated there in 1871. Later in that year, he was admitted to the bar at Union Springs and in February, 1872, went to Birmingham and began to practice law. He was for four years assistant solicitor of the circuit court for Jefferson County, and was chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Jefferson County for two years. While never holding office, except as stated, he was always one of the recognized leaders of the Democratic party in Birmingham. Several years before his death, he retired from the practice of law, and devoted his attention to his mining and private investments. He was a director in the Central coal and coke company which was derived from the Pearson coal and coke company of which he had been president; was connected with the Avondale land company; the Birmingham steel railway company; the East Lake land company; was president of the Jefferson coal and coke company; was one of the organizers of the Birmingham gas company; and of the Birmingham railway, light and power company. He was an Episcopalian, and for nearly twenty-five years was senior warden of the Church of the Advent in Birmingham. He was a Knight of Pythias.

Married: December 8, 1876, in Birmingham, to Sallie Cassell, daughter of Leonard Cassell and Sarah J. (Cook) Harrison, who lived near Selma, the former a native of Rockingham County, Va., born in February, 1807, who died August 7, 1866, near Selma, the latter a native of Camden, S. C., born January 17, 1812, who first married Rev. Thomas L. Wynn, and after his death Mr. Harrison, and who died April 26, 1897, in Birmingham; granddaughter of Reuben and Parthenia Harrison, and of William Cook, who joined the Revolutionary Army when he was sixteen years old, a native of Virginia, who lived most of his life in South Carolina, in Columbia and Charleston; great-granddaughter of Ezekiel and Sarah (Bryan) Harrison, the former a distinguished soldier in the Revolutionary Army. Children: 1. Mamie, m. (1) to Fred Northrup Rix, deceased, of Hot Springs, Ark., by whom she had two children, Fred Northrup and Sarah Frances, the latter deceased, (2) to Edwin Bertram Pike, of Pike, N. H., by whom she has a daughter, Constance Harrison; 2. Roberts, m. James Robertson Bridges, Birmingham, children, James Robertson, Mamie Pearson and Roberts. Last residence: Birmingham.

PEARSON, W. G. B., planter, was born April 17, 1836, in Fayetteville, N. C.; son of John Stokes and Anna B. (Beatty) Pearson; nephew of Chief Justice R. M. Pearson, and a relative of Montfort Stokes, both of whom were prominent in North Carolina history. Mr. Pearson attended the University of North Carolina, but did not graduate; in 1858 located in Tuscaloosa and engaged in the drug business. In April, 1861, although exempted from military duty, he enlisted in Co. G, 5th Alabama infantry regiment; served as a private until 1862 when he was discharged on account of his injuries; and was then given a place in the quartermaster's department at Tuscaloosa, where he remained until the close of the struggle. After the return of peace he engaged in planting in Tuscaloosa County; in 1878-79 he represented the county in the house, and was elected to the State senate on the reform ticket for 1892-93. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: in 1859 to Julia Penn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Snow, the former a descendant of the distinguished English Adams family, while Mrs. Adams was a descendant of the Penns of Pennsylvania. Children: 1. Lizzie S., m. Patrick H. Eddins; 2. John S. W.; 3. William B.; 4. Virginia P.; 5. Charles P.; 6. Henry; 7. Anna B. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

PEARSON, WALTER WASHINGTON, judge, was born January 16, 1862, in Tallapoosa County, and died May 9, 1916, in Montgomery; son of George Washington and Amanda Almira (Veazey) Pearson. He received the A. B. degree from Alabama polytechnic institute in 1892; taught at Barton academy, Mobile, 1882-85; was clerk in the office of the probate judge of Tallapoosa, 1885-86; admitted to the bar, 1885; engaged in the loan business at Tuskegee, 1886-87; practiced law in partnership, the firm being, successively, Callaway and Pearson, Sayre and Pearson, and Pearson and Richardson, in Montgomery, 1887-1907; judge of the fifteenth judicial circuit of Alabama, from March, 1907, until his death. Married: March 2, 1887, to Lavinia Tarrant Trimble of Montgomery. Children: 1. Julius Trimble, electrical engineer, Detroit, Mich.; 2. Walter W., electrical engineer, Detroit, Mich.; 3. Sally, m. Frederick B. Dent, Montgomery; 4. Frank W. Last residence: Montgomery.

PEAVY, C. A., educator, principal of the Escambia County high school. Residence: Atmore.

PEAVY, J. R., Methodist minister, member of the Alabama conference; living in 1913. Residence: Atmore.

PEAVY, JULIUS FRANKLIN, physician, was born February 8, 1861, near Reeves' Schoolhouse, Wilcox County; son of Bartlett and Rosa Jane (Roberts) Peavy, the former a native of Wilcox County, who lived in the community known as Gravel Creek, where he was a planter; grandson of Joshua and Martha (Smith) Peavy, who came from North Carolina to Alabama, first settling near Burnt Corn, Monroe County, and later in Wilcox County, and of Charles and Milly (Siggart) Roberts, of Wilcox County, the former who came to Alabama from Georgia, and whose family was of English origin. The Peavy family is said to have come from Maine to North Carolina in the early days, and the name, in the original French form, was Pevé. His paternal grandmother was the daughter of a British captain who remained in this country after the Revolution. Dr. Peavy was educated at Montgomery institute, in Wilcox County; and was graduated at the Medical college of Alabama, M. D., March 31, 1888. He took post graduate courses at the New York polyclinic hospital and university, 1893 and 1899. He began the practice of medicine in Marengo County, 1888, and two and a half years later moved to Fairford, Washington County. He located at Atmore, then William's Station, in January, 1894, and has continued his practice there with the exception of about two years spent at Asheville, N. C., around 1910. He served as chairman of the school board of Atmore for about fifteen years; is a Democrat; a steward in the Methodist Church; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. He is author of several papers on professional topics, including "Coloring Matter and Ferments," "Morbid Mental Actions from the Viewpoint of the Physiologist," and "Variability of Disease Germs." Married: (1) to Lorena Lillian, daughter of Frank J. and Jerusha (Smith) Foxworth, of Bear Creek, of Welsh and English descent, respectively; (2) to Alice, daughter of William Marshall and Adaline (Rayford) Carney, who were of Irish and English origin. Children: 1. Julius Franklin, Jr.; 2. DeWitt Thomason; 3. Marshall Carney; 4. Lawrence Barnard; 5. James Dudley; 6. Charles Roberts; 7. Richard Vance. Residence: Atmore.

PECK, DAVID L., professor of ancient languages and mathematics at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa; mathematics, 1871-72; ancient languages, 1872-74. He held the degree of A. M.

PECK, ELISHA WOLSEY, lawyer and chief justice supreme court of Alabama, was born in Blenheim, Schoharie County, N. Y., August 7, 1799, and died in Tuscaloosa, February 13, 1888; son of David and Christiana (Minturn) Peck, the former a farmer, and the son of a captain in the Revolutionary Army, who fought at Saratoga. The Peck family is of Welsh origin, the first American progenitor coming over in 1640. Judge Peck studied law under Judge Sherwood for five years; in 1825 went to New York to be examined; and was admitted to the bar in Syracuse. He at once moved to Alabama, and located at Elyton, then the county seat of Jefferson County, where he practiced until 1838 when he removed to Tuscaloosa, then the State capital. The next year, 1839, Gov. Arthur P. Bagby appointed him chancellor of the middle chancery division, which he held for two years. His successive partners in law in Tuscaloosa were Harvey W. Ellis and Lincoln Clarke. As a lawyer he was never known to prosecute, but was always for the defense. He was an old line Whig as long as that party maintained an organization. He was opposed to secession, and while not disloyal, was a decided Union man during the struggle. After the war he acted with the Republican party; and he was one of the few men of that party opposed to granting suffrage to the negro. About 1867 he moved with his family to Sycamore, Ill., thence in a short time to Rockford, where he bought a home, intending to spend the remainder of his life there. But, as he afterwards declared, he grew "homesick for the old red hills of Alabama," and soon returned to his old home in Tuscaloosa. On his return he was elected chairman of the military reconstruction convention of 1867; a few months later he was chosen chief justice of the supreme court of Alabama. His acceptance of this office under a Republican administration estranged many of his old friends, but he remained on the bench until 1874, resigning before his term expired. He was an Episcopalian. Married: in 1828, in Talladega, to Lucy Lamb, daughter of Samuel and Lucy (Lamb) Randall, the former moved with his family from Connecticut to Colchester, Tenn., in 1824, and the next year came to Montevallo, the latter born in Norwich, Conn., in 1808, of a family of English descent, which came to America in 1639. Children: 1. Roscoe, d. unmarried; 2. Henry St. John, d. unmarried; 3. Samuel Minturn (q. v.); 4. Lucy, m. John Mason Martin (q. v.). Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

PECK, SAMUEL MINTURN, author, was born in Tuscaloosa, November 4, 1854; son of Judge Elisha Wolsey and Lucy Lamb (Randall) Peck (q. v.). He attended the common schools at Tuscaloosa during the war period; for two winters after the war the public schools of Sycamore and Rockford, Ill., then again the Tuscaloosa schools, and in 1871 entered the University of Alabama, from which he was graduated, A. M., 1876. He took a post graduate course in criticism and literature, epochs of the drama at Columbia university, and at Alliance, Paris, France; studied medicine and was graduated from Bellevue hospital medical college, New York, M. D., 1879, but he never practiced the profession, completing the medical only to gratify his parents. He has never been a partisan in politics, always voting for the candidate least bad in the political field. He is an Episcopalian; and a member of the Author's club in New York. His first literary production was a lyric poem entitled "The Orange Tree," published in the New York Evening Post in 1878. Other lyrics published in after years are: "A knot of blue;" "The dimple on her cheek;" "Cupid at court;" "My little girl;" "The grapevine swing;" "My grandmother's turkey tail fan," all of which have been set to music. A poem of fifteen lines, "Among my books," has been published in an edition de luxe with twenty-seven full page illustrations. Apart from these individual poems, he is the author of the following books: "Cap and bells" (1886); "Rings and love knots" (1892); "Rhymes and roses" (1895); "Fair women of to-day" (1895); "The golf girl" (1899); "Alabama sketches" (1902); and "May bloom and myrtle" (1910). Residence: Tuscaloosa.

PECK, SARAH E., Author. Deceased.

PEEBLES, JOHN T., pioneer merchant and farmer, was born in Northampton County, N. C., in 1812, and died in Limestone County, September 29, 1874; son of Henry and — (Barclay) Peebles, both natives of North Carolina; came with his parents to Limestone County, in 1815; was reared on a farm and received but a limited education; after marriage, began merchandising with his brother, Robert B. Peebles, in Mooresville, on a very small capital; and by close application and scrupulous integrity, in time the two brothers built up a large business, all of which was lost through the fortunes of war except their lands. After the war Mr. Peebles settled on his farm and there passed the remainder of his life. He was a member of the Unitarian church. Married: December

2, 1842, to Martha, daughter of Shirley and Anna E. (Blick) Tisdale, the former a native of Virginia who came to Limestone County in 1839 and there lived until his death in 1865, and the latter the daughter of Major Blick, of the Revolutionary Army. Children: 9 in number, including: 1. Mary, m. B. F. Harn; 2. Henry, received a good education, after the war clerked at Mooreville until 1873, when he became a partner, is a Democrat, was a delegate to the two conventions which nominated Grover Cleveland for the presidency, and is a Knight of Honor; 3. John, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. S. and Emily (Stewart) Withers, is a merchant, and for many years chairman of the Democratic county committee, children: (1) John H.; (2) Anna; (3) Withers; and (4) Emily. Last residence: Limestone County.

PEETE, BENJAMIN BLOUNT, farmer and legislator, was born April 4, 1861, near Greensbrier, Limestone County; son of Benjamin Clemens and Jennie (Mahone) Peete, the former served in Capt. George Mason's company, 9th Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, Col. James C. Malone commanding; grandson of William and Jane (Ward) Mahone, and of Benjamin Blount and Darthula (English) Peete, all of Limestone County, the latter a native of Sussex County, Va., who removed to Alabama in 1818, locating about three miles from Decatur; great-grandson of Capt. Benjamin Peete, an officer in the War of 1812; great-grand-son of Dr. William Peete, surgeon in the U. S. Navy. The Peete family is of English descent. He was educated in the common schools and has been a farmer and real estate dealer. He represented his native county in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; Baptist; and an Odd Fellow. Married: February 14, 1906, to Edna Earl, daughter of Henry and Sarah (Lott) Brown. Residence: Athens.

PEGRAM, GEORGE, lawyer, was born September 9, 1877, at Dayton, Marengo County; son of William Edward and Vondalia (Van Dyke) Pegram, the former who was a native of Virginia, and served as surgeon in the Fourth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, and the latter of Tuscaloosa; grandson of Robert B. and Mary (Clarke) Pegram of Virginia and of Jefferson and Eliza (Cocke) Van Dyke of Tuscaloosa, the former who was state auditor of Alabama from 1836-1848. George Pegram is a descendant of Edward Pegram, who came to America about 1765, was a member of the engineer corps of Washington's army in the Revolution, and a juror in Aaron Burr's trial. Mr. Pegram was educated in the common schools; studied law; was admitted to the bar and began practice; was at one time city attorney of Faunsdale; and was a member of the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; a Mason; a Shriner; and an Elk. Married: January 8, 1901, to Olive Rowena, daughter of Robert W. and Josephine (Watkins) Price, of Dayton; and a descendant of John Marshall of Virginia, who was at one time chief justice of the U. S. supreme court. Residence: Faunsdale.

PEGUES, CHRISTOPHER CLAUDIUS, lawyer, colonel C. S. Army, was born August 3, 1823, in Chesterfield District, S. C., and died July 15, 1862, in Richmond, Va.; son of Christopher Butler and Eliza Hodges (Evans) Pegues, natives of Marlborough District, S. C., who came from South Carolina to Alabama, the former born June 6, 1789, who died in Dallas County, June 30, 1846, the latter born October 28, 1811, died in Montgomery after the close of the War of Secession; grandson of Claudius Pegues, who emigrated from England to Peedee, S. C., in 1760, married a Miss Butler in Charleston, S. C., in 1748, and later moved to Georgetown, S. C., and of Col. Thomas Evans, who died while a member of the U. S. senate. The great-grandfather Pegues left France after the revocation of the edict of Nantes, and with his wife a Swiss lady, settled in London, England. Col. Pegues entered South Carolina college when he was fifteen years of age, and was graduated from that institution in 1842. Later in that year, he moved to Dallas County where his parents had settled, and began the study of law under Col. Alexander Graham in Eutaw. Admitted to the bar in 1845, he located in Cahaba, and entered a partnership with Judge George R. Evans, which was terminated soon after by the death of the latter. He became associated with Henry B. Dawson, and later Judge Edward Pettus, afterward U. S. senator, in the firm of Pettus, Pegues and Dawson, which continued until the commencement of the War of Secession. He entered the Cahaba rifles as a private, was elected captain of the company on its organization in Pensacola, and led the company as a part of the Fifth Alabama infantry in Virginia. A year later, on the reorganization of the regiment, he was elected colonel, and led his command on the retreat from Yorktown, at Williamsburg and at Seven Pines. At the latter place he had two horses killed under him and a third wounded, then led the regiment on foot, being among the very first to enter the redoubt. He was fatally wounded while leading his regiment at Gaines Mill, June 27, 1862, and died from his wounds, July 15, 1862, in Richmond, Va. He was commended on the field at Seven Pines for his gallant conduct by Gen. Rhodes and Gen. Hill, and did not leave the field after receiving his wound at Gaines Mill, until quite exhausted by loss of blood. Married: to Caroline A., daughter of James B. Coleman, and sister of Hon. A. A. Coleman of Hale County. She married Brig-Gen. John Hough of the U. S. Army, some years after Col. Pegues' death. Children: 1. Charles Edward, d. unmarried; 2. Fanny Grey, m. John Walthall, resided at San Antonio, Tex., both deceased, children, Christine, John, Mattie and Carrie, twins, Leon, and a child who died in infancy; 3. George Evans, m. Mrs. Kate Chisholm Walter, resides at Wayneville, N. C.; 4. Ellerby, d. in infancy; 5. Lucy Mathews, d. young. Last residence: Cahaba.

PEGUES, JOSIAH JAMES, planter, sheriff, circuit court clerk, and colonel C. S. Army, was born July 19, 1825, in Cheraw, S. C., and died in Tuscaloosa, May 24, 1906; son of Christopher Butler and Eliza Hodges (Evans) Pegues, the former lived in Cheraw until about 1833 when he removed with his family to Dallas County, and settled on a large plantation near Uniontown; grandson of Claudius and Marchia (Murphy) Pegues, of Cheraw, S. C., and of Col. Thomas Evans and his wife; great-grandson of a Huguenot refugee named Pegues, who settled in London after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Col. Pegues received his early education under private teachers, and entered Mount St. Mary's college, Emmittsburg, Md., from which he was graduated in 1845. He then followed planting until 1861, when he came to Tuscaloosa, which was henceforth his home, saving a necessary absence in the Confederate Army. In the chaotic condition of affairs, following the close of the war, the sheriff of Tuscaloosa County was unable to execute process or preserve order. He expressed a willingness to resign if any one could be found who would be able to discharge the duties of that office. Upon the petition of many of the most influential citizens, Col. Pegues accepted the office, and by coolness and courage subdued the lawless and restored order. In 1882 he was appointed clerk of the circuit court of Tuscaloosa County, and in 1886 elected to the same office which he filled until 1892. At the time of his death he was commander of Camp Rodes, Confederate Veterans. On the outbreak of the War of Secession, he enlisted as a private in the "Warrior Guards," which became one of the companies of the 5th Alabama infantry regiment. From the lack of sources of information, it cannot be stated how long he was a member of this regiment. The official record of April, 1863, shows "Pegues' Command," as belonging to Gen. James Can'tey's brigade of the department of the gulf. To this brigade at that time also belonged the 2nd Alabama cavalry. "Pegues' Command," at some time after this date was certainly incorporated into this cavalry regiment, of which he became major and later was promoted lieutenant colonel. He was wounded in the engagement at Nickojack. He commanded the regiment when it acted as an escort to President Davis on his retreat from Richmond. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1848, to Cornelia C. Alston; (2) March 2, 1854, in Tuscaloosa, to Caroline Medora, the daughter of James Harris and Rebecca Emily (Alston) Fitts of Jackson, Clarke County. Children: by the first wife: 1 and 2, died in infancy; by the second wife: 3. Joseph Evans, m. Rosa Rowan; 4. Samuel Fitts, engineer, m. Mattie Alexander; 5. Ida, widow of Eugene Gerry Eaton, Knoxville, Tenn. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

COLONEL ROBERT A. HARDAWAY

PELHAM, ATKINSON, physician, was born December 6, 1797, at Pelham's Landing, Mason County, Ky., and died at Alexandria; son of Charles and Isabella (Atkinson) Pelham, natives respectively, of Virginia and of Mason County, Ky., who lived at Pelham's Landing, three miles up the Ohio River from Maysville, the former a major in the Virginia line of the Revolutionary Army. He was a brother of the surveyor general of Arkansas, whose son, a private in Terry's Texas regiment, C. S. Army, caused the legislature of that state to enact that as he "a hero in more than one hundred battles" had fallen while charging the enemy at Dalton, Ga., leaving no issue, the name of a certain child, a nephew, should be changed to Charles Thomas Pelham, to perpetuate his name. The Pelham grandparents lived in London, England, where they espoused the cause of Cromwell. They came to America and lived in Virginia until after the Revolution, when they moved to Mason County, Ky. Dr. Pelham received his early education in the common schools of Kentucky, and at the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill. He was graduated from Jefferson medical college, in Philadelphia, M. D., in 1824, and began the practice of medicine in the latter part of that year in Person County, N. C. He moved to Alabama in 1838, and continued the practice of his profession in Benton County. He was a Whig, strongly opposed to secession, but after the state had withdrawn from the union, he gave his support to the Southern cause. He was chairman of the county committee which sent clothing to the soldiers at the front, and supported their families during the struggle. He was a Presbyterian and a Master Mason. Married: in 1825, in Person County, N. C., to Martha Montford, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Clay) McGehee, of Person County, N. C., who moved to Alabama in 1832 and settled in Benton County. Children: 1. Charles (q. v.); 2. William, m. Lulu Hansell; 3. John (q. v.); 4. Peter, Poulan, Ga., m. Emma F. McAuley, d. in April, 1913; 5. Bettie, Social Circle, Ga., m. William S. Neal, deceased; 6. Samuel Clay, d. about 1870, at Kirkwood, Ga.; 7. Thomas Atkinson, d. in 1913, in Calhoun County, m. Tirza Morris, Anniston. Last residence: Alexandria.

PELHAM, CHARLES, representative in congress, was born March 12, 1835, in Person County, N. C., and died January 18, 1908, in Poulan, Worth County, Ga.; son of Atkinson and Martha Montford (McGehee) Pelham (q. v.); brother of Maj. John Pelham (q. v.). He moved with his parents to Alabama in 1838; attended the common schools of Benton County; studied law and was admitted to the bar; and began to practice law in Talladega County in 1858. He continued the practice of his profession at that place, until 1862, when he joined the C. S. Army, and served as first lieutenant of Co. C, Fifty-first Alabama regiment. After the war, he resumed the practice of law until 1868, when he was elected judge of the tenth judicial circuit. While discharging the duties of that office, he was nominated and elected by the Republican party to the Forty-third congress, serving from 1873 to 1875. Some time after the expiration of his term, he moved to Poulan, Worth County, Ga., where he spent the remainder of his life. Married: to Margaret L. Johnston, who died in 1883. Children: among these, John (q. v.). Last residence: Poulan, Worth County, Ga.

PELHAM, JOHN, major of artillery, C. S. Army, was born September 7, 1838, near Alexandria, and was killed March 17, 1863, at

Kelly's Ford, Va.; son of Dr. Atkinson and Martha Montford (McGehee) Pelham (q. v.); brother of Charles Pelham (q. v.). He remained in Calhoun County until appointed a cadet at West Point, 1856, by Hon. S. W. Harris. He was placed in the only five year class ever organized at the academy, and was considered the best athlete in the academy. His commission had been passed on, but before he received it, he left West Point, and in April, 1861, crossed the line at Louisville, Ky., disguised as one of Gen. Scott's couriers. He went at once to Montgomery, reported for duty in the C. S. Army, and was commissioned first lieutenant of artillery in the regular army, and ordered to take charge of the ordnance at Lynchburg, Va. He remained there a few days, then was assigned as drill master to Albertus', afterwards Imboden's, battery at Winchester. He handled those guns at the first battle of Manassas in such a manner as to attract the attention of his superior officers. He was entrusted with the organization of a battery of six pieces of horse artillery by Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, and in the fall of 1861, raised the required number of men from Alabama, Virginia, and Maryland. At Williamsburg, he was again conspicuous for valor and skill, and at Cold Harbor, he was personally congratulated by Stonewall Jackson. He thrust his pieces forward almost into the enemy's columns at the second battle of Manassas, and used them with fatal effect, again receiving the thanks of Gen. Jackson for heroic conduct. At Sharpsburg he was placed in command of nearly all of the artillery on the left of the field, and directed it with a master's hand. He was with Stuart in the retreat from Aldie to Markham's where he fought the immense odds of the enemy till they were within a few paces of the muzzle of his pieces, then limbered up and drew off to a better position, to renew the struggle. At the battle of Fredericksburg, he went to the foot of the heights with one Napoleon gun, opened the battle and drew upon himself the concentrated fire of half a dozen batteries. He fought until nearly every horse he had was killed, and after he had cleared the way, the forces of Gen. Jackson and Gen. A. P. Hill drew up and joined lines. At that time, Gen. Lee, in the presence of his corps commanders and his staff remarked on the youth and bravery of Pelham. He held his ground until his ammunition was exhausted, then retired in obedience to a peremptory order, and was assigned to the command of the artillery on the Confederate right. He advanced those pieces on the retreating enemy, and at nightfall was harassing their crippled flank. In Lee's general orders of that battle, he styled him "the gallant Pelham," a name that was at once adapted throughout the army. He was the only one under the rank of a general ever mentioned by Lee in general orders. His commission as lieutenant colonel was issued soon after, and only awaited confirmation by the senate when his death occurred. He had gone to visit friends in Culpeper County, Va., when the cannonading aroused and hurried him to Kelly's Ford on the Rappahannock. His artillery had not come up, but he joined a regiment that was wavering, and in the advance was struck by a shell fragment which penetrated the back part of his skull. He lingered till after midnight, and the news of his death was telegraphed by Gen. Stuart to Hon. J. L. M. Curry, saying, "The noble, the chivalric, the gallant Pelham is no more. He was killed in action yesterday. His remains will be sent you today. How much he was beloved, appreciated, and admired, let the tears of agony we here shed, and the gloom of mourning throughout my command, bear witness. His loss is irreparable." His body lay in state in the capitol at Richmond, then was taken to Jacksonville for interment. Last residence: Calhoun County.

PELHAM, JOHN, lawyer, was born August 23, 1865, at Alexandria, Calhoun County; son of Judge Charles and Margaret Louise (Johnston) Pelham (q. v.), the former who was a member of the congress from Alabama, 1871, and brother of John Pelham, who served throughout the War of Secession; grandson of Dr. Atkinson and Martha (McGhee) Pelham (q. v.), the former who came from Kentucky to Alabama in 1837, while the latter's family came from Person County, N. C., to Calhoun, then Benton County, about 1832, and of Judge George and Margaret (Talmadge) Johnston, the latter of Louisville, Ky. Mr. Pelham was educated at the Presbyterian school in Talladega; and was graduated LL. B. and LL. M. from the law department of the Columbian university, in 1888. He was admitted to the bar in 1888; practiced at Anniston; was elected judge of the seventeenth judicial circuit, 1904; on March 9, 1911, was named as an associate judge of the then newly created Alabama court of appeals for a term of six years; upon the resignation of Judge Richard W. Walker succeeded to the position of presiding judge; was re-elected November 7, 1916, for a full term of six years. He is a director of the Anniston City national bank; and of the City bank and trust company of Anniston. He is a Democrat, and a Presbyterian. Married: October 10, 1895, at Max Meadows, Va., to Ellen, daughter of George W. and Rebecca (Austin) Miles of Marion, Va. Residence: Anniston.

PELL, JAMES, lieutenant colonel, 6th Confederate cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

PENDEGRASS, SPENCER, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 69, resided in Talladega County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

PENICAUT, JEAN, French author and colonial ship-carpenter. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

PENICK, EDWIN A., Episcopal clergyman, was born October 8, 1851, near Danville, Pittsylvania County, Va.; son of Edwin A. and Mary Morris (Hamner) Penick, the former of the same county but a native of Campbell County, Va., a planter and a Confederate soldier who died from wounds received at the battle of Sharpsburg, the latter a great-niece of John Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence; grandson of Charles and Elizabeth (Fore) Penick of Campbell County, and of Clifton and Sallie (Anderson) Hamner of Charlotte County, Va. Rev. Mr. Penick was educated in private schools in Virginia, and graduated from the Theological seminary at Alexandria, June 28, 1877. He has served charges at Roanoke, Va., Frankfort, Ky., Camden, N. J., and at Tuscaloosa. He has been a deputy to the general Convention for over thirty years. Married: October 22, 1884, at Frankfort, Ky., to Mary, daughter of George and Arsinoe (Willey) Shipman, of Niagara Falls, N. Y. Children: 1. Clifton H., a lawyer at Tuscaloosa; 2. Edwin A., the third, rector church of the Good Shepherd, Columbia, S. C. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

PENLAND, ALEXANDER, Presbyterian minister, was born in 1818, and died June 10, 1896, in Madison County. He received a liberal education and his first pastoral work was at Courtland, where he had been a teacher. Afterwards he made his home in Madison County. Last residence: Madison County.

PENN, JAMES, physician, was born in 1818 in Wills Valley, in what is now De Kalb County, and spent all his early and middle life in Alabama, although he removed to Texas where he died in 1886; son of Rev. William and Mourning (Sullens) Penn, the former a Baptist minister; was born in Sequatchee Valley, Tenn., May 3, 1797; and moved from Morgan County to Wills Valley about 1815; grandson of Rev. Stephen Penn, a Baptist minister of Tennessee, later a resident of Morgan County; and great-grandson of William Chandler Penn, a Revolutionary soldier, who moved from Pennsylvania to Maryland. Dr. Penn was educated in the country schools; taught four years; attended the medical college in Memphis, Tenn., and subsequently graduated in medicine at Augusta, Ga. He practiced near Gadsden many years; in 1867 moved to Hopkins County, Tex.; bought lands near a little village which now bears his name; and there he practiced his profession until a few years before his death. He was a surgeon in the C. S. Army in Alabama during the first two years of the war. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: in 1842, in Morgan County, to Mary, his first cousin, daughter of Chandler and Hettie (Day) Penn. Children: 1. Henry Farmer, died just after the war, m. Amanda Phipps, one son born of this marriage, Judge J. W. Penn, of Gadsden; 2. Ellen Josephine, m. G. W. Day, of Waco, Tex.; 3. Letha Jane, m. Andrew Carter Ward, deceased; 4. William Warren, m. Natalia Evans Griffith, of Winnsboro, Tex.; 5. Richard Albert, m. Sallie A. Horton; 6. Mattie Pearl, m. Nathaniel Daniel Moon; both deceased; 7. Nathan Forrest, m. Elizabeth Talbert, of Covington, Ky. Last residence: Penn, Tex.

PENN, STEPHEN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Lawrence County; private Maryland State Troops; enrolled on May 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1862, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $31.33.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PENNINGTON, JAMES C., physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of Tennessee, 1894; licensed to practice that year by the county board of Crenshaw. Residence: Andalusia.

PENNINGTON, T. J., planter, was born June 23, 1840, in Meriwether County, Ga.; son of Thomas and Elinda (Phillipps) Pennington, the former who was born reared and married in Jasper County, Ga., who moved to Meriwether County, Ga., soon after his marriage and died at that place in 1842; grandson of Ephraim Pennington, who settled in Jasper County, Ga. The Pennington family is of English descent and settled in South Carolina before the Revolutionary War. Mr. Pennington's parents had a family of eleven children, including, Elizabeth, who married Judge John S. Bently, of Rockford; Nancy A., who married Rev. Harry Stearns, of Rockford; and four sons who served in the C. S. Army, and lost their lives during the War of Secession, Hilary who died of disease, James who was captured at Murfreesboro and never heard of afterward, Thaddeus and Winn, who both died of disease. Mr. Pennington was attending school at Central institute, Coosa County when the War of Secession began. Leaving school, he entered the C. S. Army as a private, joining Co. R, Third Alabama regiment, 1861. His regiment was the first that left the state, and he participated in the battles of Seven Pines, seven days' fight around Richmond, and in the Wilderness where he was severely wounded in the thigh. He spent some days in a hospital on account of his wound, and was not again in active service. After the war, he was a teacher in Central institute for two years, and afterward at Rockford for six years. Since that time he has been engaged in farming on his plantation near Rockford. He was elected superintendent of education of Coosa County in 1870 and served until 1890, with a short intermission. He is a member of the board of trustees of the high school at Rockford; is a Democrat; deacon in the Missionary Baptist church; and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: (1) December 19, 1869, in Coosa County, to Mary L. Bently, who died September 14, 1889, daughter of G. Bently; (2) June 8, 1890, in Elmore County, to Fanny Howle. Child, by second marriage: 1. Jefferson Cumley. Residence: Rockford.

PERCY, WALKER, lawyer, was born November 18, 1864, in Washington County, Miss.; son of William Alexander and Nancy (Armstrong) Percy, the former who was a native of Huntsville, was general counsel of the Yazoo-Mississippi Valley railroad company, and was speaker of the Mississippi house of representatives; grandson of Thomas G. Percy and a Miss Pope, the latter who was a daughter of Col. Pope, and of William Armstrong, who had charge of Indian affairs under Jackson's administration; great-grandson of Charles Percy, who came from England and settled in Natchez while it was a portion of the Spanish province of Louisiana. Mr. Percy received his primary education at Greenville, Miss.; was graduated M. A. from the Sewanee university in the summer of 1883; and was graduated LL. B. from the University of Virginia, 1885. He began the practice of law at Birmingham, and was a representative in the legislature of 1911 from Jefferson County. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: April 17, 1888, at Birmingham, to Mary Pratt, daughter of Henry F. and Ellen (Pratt) De Bardeleben (q. v.), of Birmingham; granddaughter of Daniel Pratt (q. v.), who came from New Hampshire, was founder of Prattville, building his cotton mills and gin factory there in 1840; great-granddaughter of Arthur Franz Ferdinand Von Bardeleben, a German officer who was born in Cattebburch, Germany, in 1750, and later settled in South Carolina, the correct family name being Von Berdeleben. Children: 1. LeRoy Pratt; 2. Ellen, m. M. H. Murphy. Residence: Birmingham.

PERIER, RENE BOUCHER DE LA, French Governor Louisiana. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

PERKINS, CONSTANTINE, lawyer, attorney general of Alabama, and legislator, was born in 1792, in Knox County, Tenn., and died September 17, 1836, in Tuscaloosa. He graduated at Cumberland college. During the Creek Indian War, he fought under Gen. Andrew Jackson, distinguishing himself for gallantry at the battles of Emuckfau and Talladega. He read law in Nashville and was a district solicitor for Tennessee. In 1819 he located at Tuscaloosa and was at once elected district solicitor, holding the office until 1825, when he became attorney general. He was elected to the legislature from Tuscaloosa County, in 1832, and in 1834 to the State senate, filling the office for many years, and until his death. Married: in 1824, to daughter of Judge Hume R. Field. Children: 1. Constantine Hume, physician; 2. daughter, m. Hon. Mathew W. Lindsay (q. v.) of Morgan County, attorney general in 1839; 3. daughter, m. Thomas Walthall of Perry County. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

PERKINS, HARDIN, State treasurer, president of the State bank, and legislator, was born in 1791, in Tennessee, and died in Tuscaloosa in 1850, came at an early day into the public life of Alabama. He was for several years State treasurer, and later president of the State bank, the capital then being at Tuscaloosa. In 1840, he was elected to the Alabama legislature and held that position for many years, including 1847-49-50. Married: Sophia Salina Holland. Children: included in the fruit of this union were, 1. Claudius Hardin, lawyer and planter, graduate of the University of Alabama, m. Hattie Earle of Elyton; 2. Thomas H., deceased; 3. Sophie Sarah Louisa, m. William Cochrane, parents of William Gilbert Cochrane (q. v.). Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

PERRIN DU LAC, Francois Marie, French administrator and traveler. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

PERRIN, ROBERT, lawyer, was born June 24, 1836, in Greene County; son of Dr. George Gwyn and Adeline (Burt) Perrin, the former a native of Abbeville District, S. C., who removed to Alabama, became the leading physician of Greene County and represented this county in the house in 1844 and the senate in 1851; grandson of Philip and Frances (Goode) Burt. He received his early education at Burtons Hill and graduated with the A. B. degree from the University of Alabama in 1855; was admitted to the bar at Eutaw in 1857, and served as lieutenant in Fowler's battery, C. S. Army. He removed to California in 1896 and resided at San Francisco and Fresno. In the latter place he and his brother, Dr. E. B. Perrin built the present system of irrigation which is successfully watering 200,000 acres of land. He removed to Williams, Ariz., where he is practicing law. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian. Author: Sketches of Greene County. Unmarried. Residence: Williams, Arizona.

PERRY, ABRAHAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 69, and a resident of Butler County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled October 3, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PERRY, HENRY GAITHER, physician, registrar of vital and mortuary statistics, was born, January 13, 1860, at Chapel Hill, Washington County, Tex.; son of Benjamin Franklin and Margaret Gaither (McLester) Perry, the former a native of Muskogee County, Ga., born February 13, 1836, who was graduated from Emory college, Oxford, Ga., was licensed to preach, joined the Texas conference at the age of nineteen, was stationed at Brownsville, San Antonio, Chapel Hill and Austin, Tex., was chaplain of the Texas secession convention, joined the Thirty-seventh Alabama regiment as chaplain, was captured at Vicksburg, exchanged, and became missionary to the army of Tennessee, served at Missionary Ridge, Look-out Mountain, and down to Atlanta, was a member of the Montgomery conference after the surrender, serving in the Lowndesboro charge, died September 22, 1868; grandson of Simeon and Martha (Guerry) Perry, natives of Edgefield District, S. C., who lived at Auburn, the former who moved to Georgia and was justice of the peace in Muskogee County, moved to Alabama in 1840, located at Auburn and aided largely in building both the East Alabama male college and the Auburn female college, the latter of Huguenot descent, and of Horatio and Sarah (Gaither) McLester, of Columbus, Ga., and Wetumpka; great-grandson of Doctor and Martha (Wimberly) Perry; great-great-grandson of Ezekial and Sarah (Eason) Perry, the former a captain in the Revolutionary Army, whose elder sons saw service in the same war; great-great-grandson of Benjamin and Susan (Walton) Perry, who moved from Virginia to Perquimans County, N. C. The Perrys came from England to Virginia. Dr. Perry received his early schooling in Auburn and was graduated from the Agricultural and mechanical college, A. B., 1880. After five years spent in teaching, he entered the Georgia eclectic medical college, and was graduated M. D., 1888. He has since taken several post-graduate courses in New York and Baltimore. He practiced medicine and surgery at Bolling for five years, at Greenville, six years, and at Greensboro, eleven years. He became connected with the state board of health in 1910; was occupied with field work for the hookworm commission, 1910-1911; established and conducted the first free dispensary for the free treatment of hookworm disease with county aid in the south; was elected registrar of vital and mortuary statistics by the state board of health, November, 1911; was county censor, 1889-1899, and president, 1905-1908, of the Butler County medical society; treasurer, 1896-1911, secretary since 1911, and counsellor for life since 1904, of the Medical association of the State of Alabama; member of American medical association; secretary of Hale County medical society, and a member of the county board of examiners; and examiner for ten life insurance companies. He has written a number of articles on medical subjects, published in professional journals; is a Democrat; and a Methodist, serving as steward in the church. Married: March 22, 1888, at Bolling, Butler County, to Emma, daughter of William Hampton Flowers. Her father was born in Darlington County, N. C., moved to Georgia in his childhood, and to Alabama about 1855, settling in Butler County, served in the Indian Wars, and was one of the pioneers in the lumber business, being president of the firm of Milner, Caldwell and Flowers, of Bolling, for more than thirty years. Children: 1. Henry Galtner, Jr., m. Lois Rennie of Pell City, Anniston; 2. Frank Flowers, D. D. S., m. Blanche Smart of Chambers County, Montgomery; 3. Frederick Barry, Montgomery; 4. Margaret Flowers, m. Capt. Samuel Everett Hunkin, of Cleveland, O., Montgomery; 5. Edward Flowers, D. D. S., Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

PERRY, HORATIO GATES, lawyer, State senator, was born in 1795, in Sumner County, Tenn., and died in 1834, in Dallas County. He settled at St. Stephens in 1815, and practiced law, later removing to Cahaba. He served Dallas County in both branches of the legislature, defeating Hon. Ezekiel Pickens for the senate in 1829. From 1832 to 1834 he was a circuit judge. He was a cousin of Hon. Simon L. Perry (q. v.) and of John C. Perry (q. v.). Last residence: Dallas County.

PERRY, JOHN C., state treasurer, 1822-29, died in Sumter County, December 24, 1842. Cousin of Horatio Gates Perry (q. v.) and Simon L. Perry (q. v.).

PERRY, ORION SANFORD, Methodist minister, was born November 8, 1843, at Warrior Stand, Macon County, and died at Greensboro; son of Dow and Tabitha Tillman Turner (Hunt) Perry, the former a native of Oglethorpe County, Ga., who lived at Milledgeville, McDonough, Lagrange, Columbus, and Whitesville in Georgia, at Warrior Stand, Chunnenuggee, Cotton Valley, Perote and Cowles Station in Alabama, and in Attala County, Miss., from 1860 to 1863, who was a Methodist local preacher for fifty-two years and taught school about forty years; grandson of Levi and Rebecca Ann Perry, the former a soldier in the Revolution who died in Russell County, and of Turner and Martha Hunt, who lived at Eatonton and McDonough, Ga., the former a Virginian, who served in the Revolutionary Army. Mr. Perry received a common school education in Macon County. He joined the Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Greenville; served the church at Tallassee, Brundidge Court, Fort Deposit, Mt. Hilliard, Bladon Springs, Suggsville, Villula, Crawford, Forest Home, Powelton, Marion Court, Gainesville, and Newbern; and was granted the superannuate relation at Opelika in 1909. He served in the C. S. Army, joining Co. G, Forty-fifth Alabama infantry regiment, May 10, 1862; was made a corporal in 1863, and a sergeant in 1864; and was wounded at Perryville, Ky., and at Franklin, Tenn. He was a Democrat; was chairman of the joint board of finance, Alabama conference, for fifteen years; and was a Mason. Married: December 19, 1872, in Macon County, to Nannie Kesia, daughter of Henry and Appolis Carr, of Macon County, the former of whom died while serving in the C. S. Army, and who was a member of the Carr family of North Carolina. Children: 1. Marcia Hunt, d. in infancy; 2. Mary Ethel, school teacher; 3. Henry Leroy, d. September 13, 1903; 4. Wilbur Dow, m. Carrie McMillan; 5. William Sanford; 6. Barton Heard, pharmacist; 7. Orion Streetman; 8. Walter Lamar. Last residence: Greensboro.

PERRY, PATRICK HENRY, planter, was born March 8, 1818, at Sparta, Hancock County, Ga., and died July 8, 1879, near Seale; son of Thomas Watkins and Smithy (Tarver) Perry, the former a member of the Petersburg volunteers in the War of 1812; grandson of James and Susan (Watkins) Perry, the former came to Virginia shortly after the American Revolution, from Wales; and of Absalom and Ursula (Smith) Tarver, a native of Wilkes County, Ga.; brother of Thomas Watkins Perry, lieutenant in Co. E, 34th regiment, volunteers, C. S. Army, a clerk of the circuit court of Russell County, and for a number of years a member of the board of county commissioners of Russell County. Mr. Perry received his education in the common schools of Sparta, Ga. He came to Alabama in 1846, settling ten miles west of Old Fort Mitchell, on the old Federal Road. In 1861 he, with two associates, organized a company which established a mill on Silver Run Creek. This point later became the present town of Seale. He was a Whig; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: April 21, 1846, to Elizabeth, daughter of Hartwell and Elizabeth (Mooreland) Bass. Children: 1. Hartwell Bass, m. Mrs. Eliza Boykin, five children; 2. Thomas Watkins, died unm.; 3. Elizabeth, d. unm.; 4. Benjamin Tarver, m. Octavia Camp; 5. Joseph Turner, m. Anna Brannon, one child. Last residence: Seale.

PERRY, SAMUEL, physician, was born in Franklin County, N. C., December 14, 1832; son of Samuel and Eliza B. (Williams) Perry, the former a North Carolina farmer who died in 1846, aged fifty-four years; grandson of Harry G. and Lucy (Tunstall) Williams. Samuel Perry, jr., came to Marion in 1846, and spent four years in Howard college; in 1850 studied medicine under his brother Dr. M. P. Perry in Warren County, N. C.; attended a course of medical lectures in the Jefferson medical college at Philadelphia; after which he took the medical course in the University of South Carolina college, from which he graduated in 1854. He located in Marion, where he practiced until 1857, when he removed to Birmingham. He was president of the Perry County medical society for many years. He served ninety days in the Confederate military service, after which he was exempted on account of his profession. He was a Methodist. Married: in 1855, to Selina, daughter of William A. Jones, of Marion. Children: 1. Albert J.; 2. Henry W.; 3. Samuel, jr.; 4. Charles J.; 5. Tunstall B.; 6. Fannie W., m. John House, jr., of Marion; 7. Anna P., m. Rev. Hugh McCormick, missionary to Mexico; 8. Mary Jones; 9. Patty P. Last residence: Birmingham.

PERRY, SIDNEY S., deputy grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1844.

PERRY, SIMON L., lawyer, was born in 1793, in Sumner County, Tenn., and died in Tuscaloosa; son of a Tennessee physician. He received his education in his native state; read law in Sevierville. Following the massacre of Ft. Mimms, he volunteered with the Tennessee troops who came to Alabama under Gen. Andrew Jackson, to defend the white settlers against the Indians. In 1815, he located in Madison County, and three years later removed to Tuscaloosa where he practiced law in partnership with Hon. H. W. Collier. He was elected to the legislature from Tuscaloosa County, in 1821, and in 1827 was elected to the bench for a term of six years. Married: Miss Lacy, of Tennessee. Children: Several children were born of this union, among them daughters who resided in Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

PERRY, WILLIAM F., planter, State superintendent of education and brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born in 1823, in Jackson County, Ga., and died December 18, 1901, at Bowling Green, Ky.; son of Hiram and Nancy (Flake) Perry, of Georgia, who removed to Alabama, locating in Chambers County, about 1833. He was largely self taught, having received his early education in Georgia, and in later years perfecting this by constant study. He was principal of the high school in Talladega, 1848-53; removed to Tuskegee; studied law under Judge Chilton, and was admitted to the bar in 1854. He was elected by the general assembly in February, 1854, as superintendent of education, and was twice re-elected, holding this position until the fall of 1858, when he resigned in order to take charge of the East Alabama college, at Tuskegee. The Confederate reverses in Tennessee in February, 1862, prompted him to enter the service. Enlisting as a private in the 44th Alabama infantry regiment, he was elected major, upon its organization, May 16, 1862. This regiment was attached to A. R. Wright's brigade, Gen. R. H. Anderson's division, 1862, reached Richmond, July 1, 1862, and took part in the second battle of Manassas. On September 1, 1862, Major Perry became lieutenant-colonel by the resignation of Lieutenant-Colonel Kent. At the battle of Sharpsburg, Colonel Derby was killed and he became colonel. The regiment was transferred to General Law's brigade, and at Gettysburg, under Colonel Perry, shared in the assault on Round Top, winning much praise. Colonel Perry commanded Law's brigade at Chickamauga and was recommended by General Longstreet for promotion for his gallantry. At the Wilderness he had two horses killed under him and at Spottsylvania the brigade again did splendid work. From Cold Harbor until the close of the war Colonel Perry commanded Law's brigade, though he did not receive his promotion as brigadier-general until March 16, 1865, to rank from February 21, 1865. His brigade formed at least one-tenth of General Lee's force paroled at Appomattox, April 9, 1865, so well did he preserve their discipline and morale. Returning to Alabama at the close of the war, he followed planting until 1867, when he removed to Glendale, Ky., where he took charge of a military college, later becoming professor at Ogden college, Bowling Green, Ky. Married: Miss Brown, daughter of George P. Brown, a lawyer from Kentucky who settled in Talladega County; granddaughter of Thomas Chilton (q. v.). Last residence: Bowling Green, Ky.

PERRYMAN, JEPHTHA VINING, planter and business man, was born February 9, 1798, in Twiggs County, Ga., and died March 30, 1861, at his home in Evergreen; son of Harmon and Margaret (Vining) Perryman, also of Twiggs County, the former of Huguenot origin. Mr. Perryman was educated at Sparta, Ga., later removed to Alabama; in 1835 was elected judge of the court of Conecuh County; 1836 and 1837 was a member of the house of representatives from that county; founded the Evergreen academy in which he installed one of his own former teachers as principal; in 1858 or 1859 he was made superintendent of education of the county. He joined in the movement for a railroad from Montgomery to Pensacola, secured subscriptions from other interested citizens to guarantee the venture through Conecuh County, took the contract for building one third of the road through the county, and exposure incident to this work brought on his fatal sickness. His son completed the contract at a financial loss. He was a Whig and opposed to secession, preferring to settle sectional differences in the Union, but when Lincoln was elected president Judge Perryman tendered, by telegraph to Gov. A. B. Moore, his two sons and $5,000 for the defense of the principle that the State had the right to direct its own affairs. He was a Baptist. Married: in 1824, in Conecuh County, to Kerenhappuch, daughter of William and Lucy (Andrews) Jones, who emigrated from near Sparta, Ga., to Alabama. The second farm house in the county was erected by Mr. Jones. Children: 1. Georgia Anna, m. Wm. Dwight Tomlinson; 2. Mary Carolina, m. Young Madison Rabb, of Brewton; 3. Jephtha Vining, Jr.; 4. James William, m. Evie Simpkins; 5. Lucie Amelia; 6. Harmon; 7. Thomas Jefferson; 8. Patrick Henry. Last residence: Evergreen.

RUFUS N. RHODES

PERSINGER, JESSE COLE, Methodist minister, was born April 26, 1863, at North Port, Tuscaloosa County; son of Elias and Martelia J. (Freeman) Persinger, who lived at that place, the former a native of Virginia, who came from Indiana in 1831, to Tuscaloosa and North Port where he died, December 27, 1865; grandson of Rev. Jesse and Rebecca (Cole) Freeman, who lived at Sheffield Post Office, Fayette County; great-grandson of Nicholas Freeman, who came to Tuscaloosa from Georgia about 1815, and of William B. Cole, who went from Virginia to Georgia, and from Georgia to Tuscaloosa in about 1816. He was educated in the country schools at Jasper and at North Port, and attended Godfrey high school, at Motes, Winston County. He became a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, South; was licensed to preach in 1881, by Rev. L. M. Wilson, presiding elder; attended school and taught for two years; joined the North Alabama conference at Birmingham in November, 1883; has served as pastor of circuits and stations; was for four years presiding elder of Decatur district; was pastor in Birmingham for more than nine years; and is now in charge of the First Methodist church at Ensley. He was a member of the board of trustees of Athens female college for twelve years; is a Democrat; a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: September 19, 1889, near Pickensville, to Mary Elener, daughter of Samuel C. and Lucinda (Mullen) Nabers, who lived at that place, the former a native of Jefferson County, the latter of Madison County. Children: 1. Martelia Oline; 2. Jessie Rowe; 3. Mary Boyd. Residence: Ensley.

PERSON, RICHARD J., major, 5th, Smith's, Confederate infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

PERSONS, AUGUSTUS ARCHILUS, teacher, was born November 15, 1866, at Enon, Bullock County; son of John William and Eliza Pauline (Persons) Persons; grandson of John William and Martha Ann (Flewellen) Persons, of Culoden, Ga., and of Nicholas William and Eliza (Stanford) Persons, of Auburn. The Persons is a North Carolina family, where the name was and is spelled Person, the s being added to it by those of the family that settled in Georgia. Person County, N. C., bears the family name.

Thomas Person, a brother of the great-grandfather of Augustus Archilus Persons, was a noted North Carolina patriot and a brigadier general in the Revolutionary army. John William Persons, Jr., lived successively at Culoden, Enon, Columbus and Auburn; enlisted March 11, 1862, in Co. C, 45th Alabama infantry regiment, and was honorably discharged on surgeon's certificate of disability, at Tupelo, Miss., July 8, 1862. Dr. Persons was reared in Bullock, Macon and Lee Counties, and much of his youth was spent on a farm; received his elementary education in the public schools of Columbus, Ga., and at Auburn; attended the Agricultural and mechanical college, now the Alabama polytechnic institute, from which he graduated B. S., 1886, and M. S., 1888; and later studied in the University of Chicago, and in Columbia university. He was professor of natural science, Troy State normal college, 1887-1890; professor of agricultural chemistry, Florida agricultural and mechanical college, 1891-1892; professor of general agricultural chemistry, same college, 1893-1898; was professor of chemistry and metallurgy, University of Alabama, 1898-1908; since 1908 has been consulting chemist of the Mobile and Ohio railroad; superintendent of the city schools of Bessemer, 1908, 1909; in 1906 was appointed by the President a member of the board of visitors of the West Point military academy; is at present deputy superintendent of the Alabama educational association. Was editor of the "Florida Citizen," 1894-1896, now amalgamated with the "Florida Times-Union." He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Author: The following technical bulletins, published while in Florida—"Soils and fertilizers;" "Fertilizers: How to make and use them;" "Some typical soils of the Florida peninsula;" "Some potable Florida water;" "The chemistry of the velvet bean;" "Sea island cotton, its chemistry and cultivation." Married: September 27, 1893, in Troy, to Mabel, daughter of John Brewer and Lula (Dinkins) Knox, of that place, the former a surgeon in the C. S. Army; granddaughter of Oscar and Susan (Kendall) Knox, of Brundidge, and of Edwin and Lucy Grey (Perry) Dinkins, of Midway. Children: 1. Augustus Archilus; 2. William Samford; 3. John Knox. Residence: Bessemer.

PERSONS, HENRY STANFORD, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Virginia, 1893; licensed to practice by the county board of Elmore the same year. Residence: Montgomery.

PERSONS, HENRY TURNER, teacher, was born April 22, 1845, near Newnan, Coweta County, Ga.; son of Amos Jones and Loiduska Ann (Hudgins) Persons, natives of Georgia, the former who spent the greater part of his life in his native county, Coweta, where he was a successful planter previous to the War of Secession, who joined Co. D, battalion of Phillip's legion, C. S. Army, and served through the war, moved from Coweta to Meriwether County, Ga., in 1870, and continued farming; grandson of Turner and Nancy (Robinson) Persons, who lived near Newnan, Ga., the former a soldier in the War of 1812, who was twice elected judge of the inferior court of Coweta County, Ga., and of Henry and Martha Hudgins, of Rome, Ga.; great-grandson of Jones Persons, who settled in that part of North Carolina now known as Persons County. He is of English ancestry. He was educated at the Newnan male seminary, Georgia, and received the degree of A. B., granted by the University of Chicago, in 1893. He enlisted in the C. S. Army, in June, 1861, joining Co. A, Newnan Guards, First Georgia infantry regiment. He served during the entire war, was wounded three times, captured in 1863, and confined in the old capitol prison at Washington, D. C. After the close of the war, he began teaching school, and continued that occupation until 1900, when he was elected county superintendent of education of Calhoun County. He was re-elected in 1902, 1904, 1908, and 1912. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: October 19, 1871, at Iron City, Calhoun County, to Nancy Elizabeth, daughter of John and Juliet Rebecca (Johnson) Ryan, who lived in St. Clair County. Children: 1. Linda, deceased, m. John Floyd Williams, Anniston; 2. Annie Ryan, Anniston; 3. Ada, Anniston; 4. Bessie, d. in childhood; 5. Jennie, Anniston; 6. Amos Walker, m. Jeannette Welch, Anniston; 7. Robert Waldon, Hachita, N. Mex.; 8. Paul, Birmingham. Residence: Anniston.

PETERS, JOSEPH LAWSON, lawyer, was born March 22, 1848, in Shelby County; son of William Joseph and Jane (Johnson) Peters, the former who moved from Tennessee to Shelby County in early life, represented that county in the State legislature in 1838 and 1840, was a member of the mercantile firm of Hutchison and Peters of Montevallo, for nine years, then engaged in teaching, which he continued for thirty years, until his death in 1870; grandson of Joseph and Nancy (Hutchison) Peters, and of William and Margaret (Runyon) Johnson of Shelby County; great-grandson of William Peters, who lived in Granger County, Tenn., and afterward moved to Cumberland County. He received his early education in the common schools of Shelby and Bibb Counties, in high school at Six Mile, Bibb County, and in Montevallo, and attended Howard college at Marion. He taught school for two years, studied law under J. N. Suttle and R. McIlvain, at Centerville; and was admitted to the bar at Centerville, to which place he moved, opening a law office in 1875. He entered into a partnership with J. N. Suttle; was for several years county superintendent of education; and for some time was county solicitor of Bibb County. He moved to Columbiana in 1883, and practiced law in that place in partnership with Henry Wilson and E. S. Lyon of Montevallo, under the firm name of Peters, Wilson and Lyon, which continued until the death of Mr. Wilson, in 1895. Mr. Peters was associated for two years with Rufus W. Cobb, formerly governor of the state, and for some time with J. R. Beavers. He served as county solicitor for twelve years; is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: in December, 1886, to Ella Wilson, who died May 2, 1891, daughter of Dr. John

B. and Mary (Dandy) Wilson of Montevallo. Children: 1. Mary Augusta; 2. Joseph L., jr.; 3. Ella Wilson. Residence: Columbiana.

PETERS, ROBERT FRIERSON, lawyer, was born October 11, 1862, at Tuscaloosa; son of Rev. Benjamin F. and Ada M. (Frierson) Peters, the former at the time of his death on November 3, 1903, the oldest living graduate of the University of Alabama, having entered in 1836; grandson of Robert Frierson, of Carthage, Tuscaloosa County. He was educated by his father and received the degree of LL. B. from the University of Alabama in 1887. He entered upon the practice at Fayette where he has since resided; clerk of the circuit court, of Fayette County, 1887-92; county solicitor, 1892-99; mayor of Fayette, 1896-1900; and has served in the legislature as a representative of Fayette County since the session of 1908. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. Married: June 2, 1891, to Annie L., daughter of James B. and Annie Jones, of Fayette. Children: 1. Annie Roberta. Residence: Fayette.

PETERS, THOMAS, promotor, was born October 29, 1812, in Wake County, N. C., and died in 1883, in Louisville, Ky.; son of James P. Peters, who moved from Wake County, N. C., to Maury County, Tenn., in 1815, and settled near Spring Hill, and fifteen years later moved to Henry County, Tenn. His ancestors were one of the English families who settled near Petersburg, Va., in the reign of Charles II. Mr. Peters received a limited education in the common schools of that country, then mostly forest land, and began his business career as a clerk on a steamer plying between Nashville, Tenn., and New Orleans, La., over the Cumberland and Mississippi Rivers. When he was twenty-one years old, he was engaged in buying and selling lands in the southwestern states. He bought considerable tracts in the northern counties of Mississippi from the Indians who sold their possessions preparatory to their removal to the trans-Mississippi reservations. In 1837, he moved to a plantation in Tennessee and became a cotton grower. He moved to Memphis, where he established himself as a real estate broker; and as a contractor, built thirty-five miles of the Memphis and Charleston railroad. In addition to railroad work, he took contracts in levee building along the Mississippi. He was living in Memphis at the outbreak of the War of Secession, and was appointed and commissioned by the governor of Tennessee as chief quartermaster of the state troops. On a more complete organization of the C. S. Army, he was commissioned major in that service, and assigned to the duties of quartermaster on the staff of Maj. Gen. Leonidas Polk. He remained in the field in that capacity until the assumption of the command of the army of the Tennessee by Gen. Hood. He was ordered to Selma in 1864 to take charge of army transportation under Gen. Richard Taylor, and was paroled from that place in April, 1865. Immediately after the war was ended, he directed his energies toward explorations for ores and coal into the mountains of Alabama. He traversed the unknown forests, locating mineral lands, and opening the way for cultivation. Before the railroads had entered the indicated lands, he went to reside in Minnesota with his son-in-law, who was forced to try that climate for his failing health. From there he went to Savannah, Ga., and entered the cotton trade; and in 1869, returned to Jefferson County. He settled at Elyton, the county seat, and engaged in mineral land speculations. He took charge of the exhibit made by the Alabama railroads from their lands and those adjoining at the Louisville exposition of 1883, and soon after succumbed to overwork and a severe attack of cold, dying at an infirmary in that city. His body was brought to Birmingham and interred there. He was a Methodist. Married: (1) in 1837, to Ann Eliza Glasgow of Tennessee, who died five years later; (2) in 1846, to Sarah J. Irion, who died in 1859. Child, by second marriage: 1. Amelia L., m. Robert L. Henley, first mayor of Birmingham. Last residence: Jefferson County.

PETERS, THOMAS MINOTT, lawyer, chief justice Alabama supreme court, was born December 10, 1810, at Clarksville, Tenn., and died June 14, 1888, at Moulton; son of Lemuel and Sarah (Minott) Peters, who lived in Clarksville, Tenn., until 1819, then they came to Alabama and located on a farm at Leighton. He was educated at LaGrange college, Franklin, now Colbert County, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1834, and A. M., 1845. He read law at Moulton with his brother, Samuel M. Peters, and was admitted to the bar in 1836. He began the practice of law at Moulton; was associated with D. G. Ligon for several years, and at the same time, was editor and owner of a newspaper in Moulton. He was elected to the State legislature from Lawrence County in 1835, and two years later served Walker and Lawrence Counties in the State senate. He was a Whig until 1844, and left his party at that time because of the annexation question. In 1860, on the Union issue, he supported Stephen A. Douglas, and during the secession contest proved himself to be an ardent and uncompromising friend of the Union. During the War of Secession, he went into the Federal lines. He was a member of the constitutional convention of Alabama in 1867 from Lawrence County; was elected justice of the supreme court of Alabama by the Republican party in 1868; and held that position until 1874, serving the year, 1873-1874, as chief justice. He was a Mason. Married: to Naomi, daughter of William and Naomi Leetch, of Moulton. Children: 1. Sarah; 2. William Lemuel; 3. Martha Leigh; 4. Anna; 5. Mary Minott; 6. Lutie Alice. Last residence: Moulton.

PETERSON, ALBERT JEFFERSON, physician, graduate of the medical department, Vanderbilt university, 1889, licensed by the county board of Coosa, the same year. Residence: Goodwater.

PETERSON, FRANCIS MARION, physician, was born August 29, 1821, in Pickens County, and died January 1, 1898, at Greensboro; son of James Jesse and Margaret (Cox) Peterson, who lived near Pickensville until 1850, then moved to northern Mississippi, the former a native of South Carolina, who came to Alabama with his mother when he was nineteen years old, was married there, became a planter, and represented Pickens County in the State legislature several years. His grandfather was a soldier in the Revolutionary Army under Gen. Marion, for whom Mr. Peterson was named. He gained his early education in elementary schools, but for the greater part was self-educated. For three years he taught in academies around Pickensville, and during that time studied medicine. He continued the study of medicine under Dr. Lincecum at Columbus, Miss., and other branches of study under a private tutor. He attended the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1845, at the same time attending the Blockley almshouse. He located in Greensboro in 1846 and engaged in the practice of medicine. After twenty years in the practice of his profession with a diploma from a western college, he entered the University of New York and was graduated, M. D., 1869. He returned to Greensboro and practiced there until his death. He was president in 1886, and later, senior counselor of the Medical association of the State of Alabama; was president of the Greensboro board of health; and professor of materia medica and obstetrics during the period in which a medical department was a feature of the Southern university at Greensboro. He was author of "New Theory of the Production of Puerperal Eclampsia;" of "Advances in Gynecology and Sim's Drainage Tube in the Treatment of Ovariotomy;" of a "Monograph on Diphtheria;" of "Dysentery in Alabama;" a "Criticism on Dr. Draper's Theory of the Production of Butter from Clover;" and other papers. He was a trustee of the Southern university and of the Greensboro female college; was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1846, at Greensboro, to Amanda Fitzalan Shivers, who died in 1858, daughter of Jesse and Nancy Shivers, who lived near Greensboro; (2) in 1861, to Margaret Jane, daughter of Dr. Alex and Winifred (Lane) Sledge, of Greensboro, a descendant of Col. Needham Bryan of Johnston County, N. C., of Col. John Smith of Johnston County, N. C., and of Thomas Bonner Beaufort, of Revolutionary and colonial fame. Children, by first marriage: 1. Dr. James J., deceased; son, Dr. Edward Wadsworth, physician; 2. Dr. John A., Methodist minister; 3. Dr. Francis Marion (q. v.); by second marriage: 4. Mrs. Harry Tutwiler Inge, Mobile; 5. Mrs. Pride Jones, Mobile; 6. Mrs. Phares Coleman, deceased. Last residence: Greensboro.

PETERSON, FRANCIS MARION, Methodist minister, president Alabama girls' technical institute, was born October 29, 1854, at Greensboro, and died March 3, 1908, at Montevallo; son of Francis Marion and Amanda Fitzalan (Shivers) Peterson (q. v.). He was educated in private schools at Greensboro, and was graduated from Southern university, M. A., 1873, and B. D., 1874. Later he took postgraduate work at the University of Chicago, and at the University of Virginia. He was licensed to preach, July 2, 1873, and admitted on trial into the Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in December, 1874. He was placed in charge of the Citronelle circuit, 1875; of the Mobile City Mission, 1876; was assistant pastor of the Franklin street church, Mobile, 1877; took charge of the preparatory department of Southern university at Greensboro, 1877-1878; was appointed professor of ancient languages in Southern university, 1878-1899; elected president of Alabama girls' industrial school, now Alabama girls' technical institute, 1899, and held that position until 1907, when he resigned because of failing health. He was a member of the first text book commission for the public schools of Alabama. During the thirty years in which he was continuously engaged in teaching, he was also active as a minister of the gospel. He received the honorary degree of D. D. from Southern university, 1900, and the degree of LL. D., from the University of Alabama in 1906. He was a Democrat; a Master Mason; and a Thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason. Married: December 2, 1880, at Bodka, to Helen Amanda, daughter of William Overton and Margaret Amanda (Morrison) Winston, of Bodka, the former a cousin of Gov. John A. Winston, and Senator Pettus, the latter a native of North Carolina, of the family of Morrisons of that state; granddaughter of Anthony and Sallie Ann (Watson) Winston; great-granddaughter of William and Barbara (Overton) Winston, the former a captain in the Revolutionary War. The Winston family is of English extraction. Children: 1. Margaret Amanda, d. January 9, 1907; 2. Lena Parham, m. Dr. Edgar Gilmore Givhan, Montevallo, child, Edgar Gilmore, jr.; 3. Nell Winston; 4. Amanda Fitzalan, d. in infancy; 5. Frances Marion, d. in infancy; 6. Mary Winifred, Montevallo; 7. Francis Marion; 8. Overton Winston. Last residence: Montevallo.

PETERSON, J. A., Methodist minister, member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Evergreen.

PETERSON, JAMES JESSE, physician; graduate of the medical department of Tulane university, 1899; licensed to practice in Alabama by the county board of Lee, 1909. Residence: Mobile.

PETRIE, GEORGE, author, history teacher, was born April 10, 1866, at Montgomery; son of George Laurens and Mary Jane (Cooper) Petrie (q. v.), the former a native of Cheraw, Chesterfield District, S. C., who lived at different times at Cheraw, S. C., Washington, Ga., Charleston, S. C., Marietta, Ga., Montgomery, Oakland, Miss., Greenville, Petersburg, Va., Charlottesville, Va., and was a Presbyterian minister who served as chaplain of the Twenty-second regiment of Alabama volunteers, C. S. Army, and was author of "Jacob's Sons," and of "Israel's Prophets"; grandson of George Hollinshead Whitefield and Mary Jane (Prince) Petrie (q. v.), and of George William and Mary Jane (Scott) Cooper, who lived in Sumter County, S. C.; great-grandson of George Petrie of Charleston, S. C., who was a first lieutenant in the South Carolina Army of the Revolutionary War; great-great-grandson of Alexander Petrie, who was born in 1717, lived in Elgin, Scotland, emigrated to Charleston, S. C., and died in 1768. Mr. Petrie attended the public schools in Petersburg, Va., and the public and private schools of Charlottesville, Va. He was graduated from the University of Virginia, with the degree of M. A., 1887, and held the Virginia scholarship at Johns Hopkins university, where he was graduated in history and political economy with the degree of Ph. D., 1891. He entered on the profession of teaching as adjunct professor of modern languages and history in the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1887-1889, and after completing his graduate work, was recalled to the institute as professor of history and Latin. He has held the latter position since 1891, and became academic dean of the institute in 1908. He served as a member of the summer faculty of the George Peabody college for teachers, 1916-1917; is a member of the American historical association; of the Alabama Educational association; of the Alabama history teachers' association, of which he has served as president since 1915; is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. He is the author of "Montgomery" in "Historic Towns of Southern States"; of articles on Gov. W. J. Samford and William L. Yancey in "Transactions of the Alabama Historical Society"; of the "Doctrine of Secession Historically Traced" and "Alabama, 1819-1865" in "The South in the Building of the Nation"; of an article on Yancey in "The Library of Southern Literature"; and of numerous other articles on historical and educational topics in periodicals. Dr. Petrie is also editor of four volumes of "Historical Studies," the work of students of the Alabama polytechnic institute. Married: August 30, 1893, in Auburn, to Mary Barkwell, daughter of Gen. James H. and Charlotte Randolph (Meade) Lane, who lived at Auburn, the former of whom was a brigadier general in the C. S. Army, and served from the beginning to the end of the War of Secession; great-granddaughter of Everard Meade of Virginia, a major in the Revolutionary Army, and aide de camp to Gen. Lincoln; great-great-granddaughter of Sir Richard Everard of Essex, England, the last proprietary governor of Carolina, 1726-1730. Children: 1. Mary Cooper, b. May 1, 1900, d. June 30, 1901. Residence: Auburn.

PETRIE, GEORGE HOLLINSHEAD WHITEFIELD, Presbyterian minister, was born May 5, 1812, at Charleston, S. C., and died May 8, 1885, at Montgomery; son of George and Esther Stiles (Tucker) Petrie, who lived at Charleston, S. C., the former a native of Charleston, S. C., a lieutenant in the South Carolina Army during the Revolutionary War, the latter, who was a Mrs. Randle before her marriage to Mr. Petrie, and a native of Bermudas; grandson of Alexander and Elizabeth (Holland) Petrie, of Charleston, S. C., the former who was born in 1717, came from Elgin, Scotland, and settled in Charleston, where he died in 1768, the latter who lived in Philadelphia, until her marriage, and of William and Mary Tucker, who lived at Bermudas. Rev. Dr. Petrie received his early schooling in Charleston, S. C.; was graduated from Charleston college, 1831; attended Columbia Presbyterian theological seminary, from which he was graduated in 1834; and received the honorary degree of D. D. from the University of Alabama in 1859. He was licensed to the Presbyterian ministry by the Charleston Union Presbytery in 1834, and ordained by Harmony Presbytery in 1835. He served as pastor at Williamsburg, S. C., 1834-1835; at Darlington, S. C., 1836-1837; at Washington, Ga., 1838-1850; at Charleston, S. C., 1851-1853; at Marietta, Ga., 1854-1856; and at Montgomery, 1857-1885. His fifty years of ministerial work were brought to a close at the latter place by his death. Married: February 16, 1837, to Mary Jane, daughter of Lawrence and Charlotte (Benton) Prince, who lived at Cheraw, S. C. Children: 1. Esther Tucker, Kissimmee, Fla., m. July 17, 1884, to James Caldwell, deceased; 2. George Laurens (q. v.); 3. Charlotte Benton, Kissimmee, Fla. Last residence: Montgomery.

PETRIE, GEORGE LAURENS, Presbyterian minister, was born February 25, 1840, at Cheraw, Chesterfield County, S. C., son of George Hollinshead Whitefield and Mary Jane (Prince) Petrie (q. v.). He obtained his early education at Sachtleben's school, in Charleston, S. C.; at the Classical school, Marietta, Ga.; and at Georgia military institute, Marietta. He attended Davidson college, North Carolina, for two years; was graduated from Oglethorpe university, Georgia, with first honor, A. B., 1859, and later A. M.; was graduated from the Columbia Presbyterian theological seminary, B. D., 1862; and received the degree of D. D. from Hampden-Sidney college, Virginia, 1887. He served as chaplain of the Twenty-second regiment of Alabama volunteers, C. S. Army, 1863-1865; taught a classical school in Montgomery, 1865-1866; was professor of Latin, Oakland college, Mississippi, 1866-1869; pastor of the Presbyterian church at Greenville, 1870-1872; pastor of the Presbyterian church at Petersburg, Va., 1872-1878; and since 1878 has been pastor of the Presbyterian church at Charlottesville, Va. He is author of "Jacob's Sons," and of "Israel's Prophets;" and is a Mason. Married: November 29, 1864, at Rollinsdale, Sumter County, S. C., to Mary Jane, daughter of George William and Mary Elizabeth Cooper, who lived at that place. Children: 1. George (q. v.), m. Mary Lane, Auburn. Residence: Charlottesville, Va.

PETTIGREW, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 73, and a resident of Greene County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Greene County, June 1, 1840, aged 79.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

Vol. IV—23

PETTIT, JOHN W. A., lawyer, was born about 1800, in Georgia, and died about 1850 in Memphis, Tenn. He was a lawyer, and served in the State legislature of Georgia where he was originally an adherent of the Clark party in opposition to Troup and the treaty, in the scenes of 1825-1826, but when the Carolina doctrine of State rights was promulgated, he was among the few of his local party to adopt it. A short time afterward, he moved to Montgomery and became editor of the "Alabama Journal," supporting state rights and remedies. Some time later, he withdrew from editorial work and devoted his attention entirely to the practice of law, at Irwinton, now Eufaula. In 1839, he was elected to the Alabama legislature from Barbour County, and during the session introduced an unsuccessful bill to establish a branch bank at Irwinton. He was re-elected to the legislature 1842, and the following year was nominated for congress in the Montgomery district, but was defeated at the election by James E. Belser. Soon after, he moved to Memphis, Tenn., and spent the remainder of his life at that place. Last residence: Memphis, Tenn.

PETTUS, EDMUND WINSTON, lawyer, justice, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, U. S. senator, was born July 6, 1821, in Limestone County, died July 27, 1907, in Hot Springs, N. C., and is buried in Live Oak cemetery, Selma; son of John and Alice Taylor (Winston) Pettus, the former a Virginia planter, who removed to Tennessee, later to Alabama, settling in Madison County, afterwards in Limestone; grandson of Captain Anthony and Kezia (Jones) Winston, the former a Revolutionary soldier of Virginia; great-great-grandson of Isaac Winston, an English emigrant who settled in Hanover County, Va., the father of seven sons and two daughters. The Pettus family was of English and Welsh origin. General Pettus was educated in the old-field schools of Limestone County, and at Clinton college, in Tennessee. In 1840 he began the study of law in Tusculum, under William Cooper, who was the leader of the bar in north Alabama. He was admitted to practice in 1842, and settled in Gainesville, as the partner of Turner Reavis, and in 1844 was elected solicitor of the seventh Alabama judicial circuit. He served as lieutenant in the Mexican War, 1847; was elected judge of the seventh circuit in 1855, but resigned that office in 1858, and removed to Dallas County, where he resumed the practice of law as a member of the firm of Pettus, Pegues and Dawson. He, with a party of neighbors, made the trip on horseback from Alabama to California during the gold excitement in the west. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, Judge Pettus, as he was then known, was appointed commissioner of Alabama to the State of Mississippi, of which state his brother, John J. Pettus, was governor. In August, 1861, he entered the army at Cahaba and was made major of the 20th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and soon afterward was promoted to lieutenant-colonel and held that rank until the siege of Vicksburg. On September 18, 1863, he was promoted to brigadier-general and placed in command of a brigade composed of the 20th, 23rd, 30th, 31st and 46th Alabama regiments, and led that command until its final surrender at Salisbury, N. C. He took an active part in the engagements beginning with the skirmishes around Covington, in which he commanded the advance, and culminating in rapid succession, in the battles at Port Gibson, Baker's Creek, siege of Vicksburg, Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge, where he held the right under Hardee; Crow's Valley, Dalton, Rocky Face, Resaca, New Hope Church, Kenesaw Mountain, siege of Atlanta, Jonesboro and Columbia, Tenn., where he forced a crossing of the river, and at the head of three regiments charged and captured the enemy's breastworks; both the battles of Nashville; thence by the way of Florence, through Mississippi to South Carolina, where he took part in the battles about Columbia; on to Kingston, and finally at Bentonville, N. C., March 19, 1865, where he was seriously wounded. When peace was declared, General Pettus returned to Selma and resumed the practice of law. In November, 1896, he was nominated by the Democratic party, and elected by the legislature of Alabama, United States senator for the term commencing March 4, 1897; at the State Democratic primary, August 27, 1906, he was nominated as his own successor without opposition, on January 23, 1907, and he was unanimously re-elected by the legislature for a six years term, from March 4, 1909, to March 4, 1915, but died before the expiration of his second term, and was succeeded by Gov. Ralph F. Johnston. He was a Presbyterian. Married: June 27, 1844, to Mary L., daughter of Judge Samuel Chapman (q. v.). Children: 1. Mollie, m. Theophilus Lacy; 2. Lucy, m. ——— Roberts; 3. Francis L. (q. v.). Several children died in infancy. Last residence: Selma.

PETTUS, ERLE, lawyer, circuit solicitor and legislator, was born February 4, 1877, at Elkmont, Limestone County; son of Joseph Albert and Musie (Cartwright) Pettus, who lived successively at Pettusville, Elkmont and Athens, the former a physician and a private in the Confederate Army, being wounded in action; grandson of Thomas C. and Mary (Fowlkes) Pettus, who lived at Pettusville, Limestone County. The Cartwright grandparents lived at Shoalford, Limestone County. Mr. Pettus was educated in the public schools of Elkmont, and graduated at the University of Alabama, with the A. B. degree, 1897. He was editor-in-chief of "Crimson-White"; class representative in debate in the law department; and University representative in intercollegiate debate, Talladega, 1897. He attended the law school, Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., 1897-98, and graduated LL. B. from the University of Alabama, 1899, entering upon the practice at Athens that year. In 1906 he removed to Birmingham and formed a partnership with Judge Zell Gaston. He was a member of the Alabama legislature, 1898-99, 1900-01, and during the former session introduced and passed a resolution favoring direct election of U. S. senators; author of the anti-trust law, 1900-01; author of the first primary election law ever placed on the Alabama statute books; nominated in the Livingston County primaries as delegate to the proposed constitutional convention of 1901; appointed solicitor of the sixteenth judicial circuit, and served one year, was re-nominated for a full term, but the act creating the office was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. He served as acting commandant of the cadet corps, University of Alabama, 1899-1900, with rank of colonel by courtesy of the University. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and a Mason. Married: November 27, 1907, at Huntsville, to Ellelle, daughter of Reuben and Rosalie (Sheffey) Chapman of that place; granddaughter of Gov. Reuben Chapman (q. v.), and of Dr. Sheffey of Huntsville. Children: 1. Erle. Residence: Birmingham.

PETTUS, FRANCIS LEIGH, lawyer and legislator, was born October 7, 1858, at Cahaba, Dallas County, died March 6, 1901, in Montgomery, and is buried in Selma; son of Gen. Edmund Winston and Mary L. (Chapman) Pettus (q. v.). He received his early education in the public and private schools of Selma; attended the Virginia military institute at Lexington for one year; spent some time in Dallas County on a farm on account of ill health; entered Davidson College, N. C., where he took a two year classical course. He located in Galveston, Tex., after leaving college in 1877, and was employed in a cotton commission house for one year. He removed to Selma; studied law in the office of his father; was admitted to the practice, April 9, 1879; and opened an office in Selma. At one time he was a member of the law firm of Pettus and Dawson, and at the time of his death was practicing in partnership with his father. He was clerk of the supreme court, 1882-84; elected to the house as a representative from Dallas County, 1886, and re-elected in 1888, 1890, 1892, 1900, serving as speaker in 1892 and 1900. He was elected to the State senate in 1894 and was also elected its president for that session. He was colonel on the military staff of Gov. Thomas Seay. He was a Presbyterian; Mason; Elk; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 28, 1880, at Selma, to Mary Eleanor, daughter of Maj. William S. Knox, of that place. Children: 1. Alice; 2. Edmund Winston, m. Mary B. Dawson. Last residence: Selma.

PETTUS, MAIA, author and writer. Residence: Athens.

PETTUS, RICHARD EMMETT, business man, was born November 18, 1853, at French's Mill, five miles east of Athens, Limestone County; son of William Rowlett and Charlotte Harris (Day) Pettus, the former a native of Halifax County, Va., who removed to Alabama, lived in Limestone and Madison Counties where he was a planter and slave owner; grandson of Thomas Pettus, of Halifax County, Va., and of Richard and Lucinda Day, of Spotsylvania County, Va. Mr. Pettus was educated in the public schools and graduated A. B., 1876, A. M., 1877, from the University of Alabama. He was assistant professor of chemistry at the University of Alabama, 1877-79. He was a merchant at Cluttsville for a short time, and later removed to Rep, Madison County, which took its name from his initials, where he opened a general store and was postmaster until 1886. In the fall of 1886 he bought the "Huntsville Independent Weekly" becoming editor and proprietor until July, 1887, when he represented the associated press and reported for several dailies. He then retired from newspaper work on account of ill health and re-entered the mercantile business; was president, Building and loan association, 1890; also president, board of trade, 1890; president, chamber of commerce, 1893-1903; and since 1894, in the wholesale grocer business with his brother, W. E. Pettus. He was president of the Alabama Baptist State convention, 1910 and 1911; has served on the board of trustees of Howard and Judson colleges and was a member of the Alabama educational commission. He is a Baptist; Democrat; member Tennessee Valley historical society; Odd Fellow; and a member of the Sigma Nu college fraternity. Author: contributor to a number of periodicals and newspapers. Married: January 14, 1885, to Julia Augusta, daughter of Rev. Jackson and Elizabeth (Ellett) Gunn, of Trinity. Children: 1. Herbert Augustus, educator, A. B., University of Alabama; 2. Ruth Elizabeth. Residence: Huntsville.

FRANK NELSON, JR.

PETTY, FRANK PAUL, physician; graduate of the medical department of Vanderbilt university, 1892; licensed to practice by the county board of Limestone the same year. Residence: Albany.

PETTY, THEOPHILUS, sen., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, resided in Butler County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

PETTY, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Madison County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on February 21, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $50.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PFISTER, ARMAND P., bookseller, musician, and grand secretary of the grand lodge, grand chapter and grand council, of Alabama, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, was born in October, 1802; at Nassau, on the Island of New Providence, and died at Montgomery, January 28, 1857, but is buried in Mobile; son of German parents who immigrated in 1814 to Pennsylvania settling near Philadelphia. He was educated at Mount Airy college, near Queens-town. In 1818 he located at Mobile, whence he went in a few weeks to Demopolis where he resided until 1823; and from 1823 to 1826 he was bookkeeper for a Mobile mercantile establishment. In the latter year he removed to Tuscaloosa where he remained until 1846, locating in Montgomery when the seat of government was changed to that place. For many years he was associated with Joel White, under the name of White, Pfister and co., in the retail book business. At one time he taught music, and Garrett speaks of him as "a very accomplished teacher." He became a Mason prior to October 15, 1824. In 1837 he was appointed grand secretary pro tem, and in 1838 was elected grand secretary of the grand chapter, grand council and grand lodge, which position he occupied until his death. "A suitable monument was erected over his grave at Mobile by the Grand Lodge." He was never married. Last residence: Montgomery.

PHARR, JOSIAH ROBINS, business man and legislator, was born December 11, 1867, at Canton Bend, Wilcox County; son of George Mathis and Martha Ezra (Robins) Pharr, of Canton; grandson of Ephraim Alexander and Mary Elizabeth (Mathews) Pharr, the latter a granddaughter of Governor Mathews of Georgia, the former a soldier in the Indian Wars and the second sheriff of Wilcox County, and of John Bowdoin and Henrietta (Sherrell) Robins. He was educated in the common schools of his native county; is a farmer and merchant. He was one of the representatives from Wilcox County to the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: April 22, 1896, at Gastonburg, to Lula Rae, daughter of Egbert and Mary (Green) Westbrook, of McKinley, Marengo County, the former a graduate of Howard college, was a soldier in the C. S. Army. Children: 1. Grace Robins; 2. Mary Green; 3. Lula Rae. Residence: Catherine.

PHELAN, CHARLES, circuit judge, 1868.

PHELAN, ELLIS, lawyer, secretary of State, was born August 11, 1843, in Marion, and died August 5, 1897, in Waterbury, Conn.; son of Judge John D. and Mary Anne (Harris) Phelan (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of his community and graduated from the University of Alabama. He entered the Confederate army, as a captain in the 45th regiment Alabama volunteers; and was major when wounded in the battle of Atlanta. After the close of the war he studied law and was admitted to practice. During the administration of Gov. Edward O'Neal, he was secretary of State, for two terms. He removed to Birmingham and was prominent in the early development of that city. He was clerk of the house of representatives of Alabama, 1870-77. About 1890, he removed to Waterbury, Conn., where he was elected circuit judge, which position he resigned to resume the practice of law. He was a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: (1) in 1870, to Amy Hawkins, of Elyton; (2) in 1884, to Mary Frisbil, of Waterbury. Last residence: Waterbury, Conn.

PHELAN, JAMES, lawyer, State and Confederate States senator, was born October 11, 1821, in Huntsville, and died May 17, 1873, in Memphis, Tenn.; son of John and Priscilla Oakes (Ford) Phelan, Irish immigrants, brother of Judge John Dennis Phelan (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Huntsville; served as apprentice to "The Huntsville Democrat," 1835-42; became associated with Samuel A. Hale as editor of "The Flag of The Union," Tuscaloosa, 1842; State printer, 1843. He studied law and practiced in Huntsville, 1846-49, and in Aberdeen, Miss., 1849-60. He returned to Alabama, and was elected State senator, 1860; Confederate State senator, 1862-64. He introduced in the Confederate senate, 1863, a bill to "impress" all the cotton of the South, to pay for it in Confederate bonds, and use it as a basis for a foreign loan, but the bill failed to pass. In 1864-65, he was judge advocate of Alabama. About 1866, he removed to Memphis, Tenn., where he practiced until his death. He was a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: September 22, 1846, to Eliza J., daughter of Dr. Alfred and Eliza (Jones) Moore of Madison County. Children: 1. George Richard, m. Julia Tate Hunt; 2. James, jr., m. Mary Early. Last residence: Memphis.

PHELAN, JOHN, jr., lawyer, Confederate State senator, and Tennessee congressman, was born November 22, 1842, in Marion, Perry County, and died February 11, 1890; son of Judge John D. and Mary Anne (Harris) Phelan (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Marion, and in 1861, graduated from the University of Alabama, in the first class of military cadets to receive diplomas. In the fall of 1861, he organized an artillery company known throughout the War of Secession as "Phelan's Battery." This company fought at Chickamauga, Resaca, Franklin, and through the Atlanta campaign. He served as a member of the Confederate senate. After the close of the war, Capt. Phelan studied law in Montgomery, and was admitted to practice in 1867; removed to Tennessee and served that state in congress. He returned to Alabama, and located in Birmingham, 1885, as manager of the cotton and produce exchange. He was a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: December 26, 1871, at Moulton, Lawrence County, to Anne Owen Sale. Children: 1. Owen; 2. Sale; 3. Anna May; 4. John Ellis; 5. Joe. Last residence: Birmingham.

PHELAN, JOHN DENNIS, supreme court judge, attorney general, member Alabama legislature, lawyer and educator, was born in 1810, in Brunswick, N. J., and died in September, 1879, in Marion; son of John and Priscilla Oakes (Ford) Phelan, Irish immigrants, who removed to Richmond, Va., and later to Huntsville where the son grew up. He was educated in the common schools, later graduating from the University of Tennessee. He read law with Hon. B. W. Leigh, of Virginia, and was admitted to practice, 1832. He located in New Orleans; after a short time there, removed to Huntsville and edited "The Democrat." He represented Madison County in the legislature, 1834, in 1836, elected attorney-general; in 1838, removed to Tuscaloosa, representing that county, in the legislature, 1839. He was elected circuit judge, 1841-52, and removed to Marion, Perry County. In 1852, he was elected a supreme court judge for four years; for eight years, he was clerk of the supreme court. In 1864 he was appointed to fill a vacancy on the supreme court bench. In 1865, he was removed by the "Reconstruction" carpet-bag ruler of Alabama; held the office of supreme court clerk until 1868, when again he was "disqualified." He then accepted the professorship of law, in Sewanee university, Tenn., where he labored until his death which occurred while on a visit to Alabama. He was a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: in 1836, near Huntsville, to Mary Anne Harris (q. v.), of Limestone County, daughter of Gen. Thomas Kent and Mary Anne (Moore) Harris, of White County, Tenn. Mrs. Phelan was one of the charter members and officer of the Ladies memorial association, of Montgomery, organized April, 1866. Children: 1. Thomas, Confederate soldier, killed at Fredericksburg; 2. Watkins, Confederate soldier, killed at Petersburg; 3. John (q. v.), Confederate soldier, m. Anna O. Sale; 4. Ellis, m. (1) Amy Hawkins, (2) Mary Frisbil (q. v.); 5. Mary Anne, m. Robert Watt, of Montgomery, first proprietor of the Exchange hotel with Sidney Lanier, Confederate soldier, and lost his arm in the service; 6. Caroline, m. Jesse Beale of Montgomery; 7. Sidney, m. Palmer Graham, removed to Atlanta. Last residence: University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.

PHELAN, JOSEPH, clerk of the State senate and Methodist minister, lived in Tuscaloosa, and died in 1858, in Coosa County. He was elected assistant clerk of Alabama House of representatives in 1838, and re-elected 1839 and 1840. From 1842 to 1847, he was clerk of the body. In 1847 he was ordained to the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and served the conference acceptably. In 1853, he was elected secretary of the Alabama senate; reelected in 1855. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: to Laura Powell, sister of Col. James R. Powell, the founder of Birmingham. Children: 1. James Powell, m. Caroline Charles, of Greensboro; 2. Sidney Marcellus, New York financier. Last residence: Coosa County.

PHELAN, MARY ANNE (HARRIS), patriotic worker, was born April 26, 1816, in Winchester, Tenn., and died May 22, 1870, in Montgomery; daughter of Gen. Thomas Kent and Mary Anne (Moore) Harris, the former a native of Virginia who removed to Tennessee and represented that state in congress for one term. Mrs. Phelan was the first vice-president of the Ladies' (Confederate) memorial association. Married: John D. Phelan (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

PHILLIPS, ANDREW, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Pickens County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolu- tionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PHILLIPS, BERRIEN TROUP, lawyer, was born January 30, 1864, at Loachapoka, Macon County, now Lee County; son of Julius C. and Anne E. (Leftwich) Phillips, the former who was a native of Talbotton, Ga., and later removed to Opelika; grandson of Dr. Reuben and Mary (Baldwin) Phillips, the former who came with his family from Talbotton, Talbot County, Ga., to Notasulga; and of John Trigg and Sarah (Lane) Leftwich of Bedford City, Va. The Phillips family originally came from middle England and Ireland, and the Leftwich family from Cheshire, Wales. Mr. Phillips was educated in the common schools of Loachapoka and Opelika, and later attended the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn. He studied law in a private law office; was admitted to the practice of law upon examination in the supreme court of Alabama, and was State senator from the twenty-seventh district in 1919. He is a Democrat; a member of the Methodist church, South; and an Odd Fellow. Married: October 17, 1895, to Susan Mizell, daughter of Dr. J. W. R. and Elizabeth (Bulard) Williams. Children: 1. Frances Elizabeth; 2. Annie; 3. Winnifred. Residence: Opelika.

PHILLIPS, EDMUND AVERY, merchant, was born November 9, 1859, near Covington, Newton County, Ga.; son of John Bluford and Martha Jane (Avery) Phillips, the former who was born near Covington, Ga., served in Co. B, Fifty-third Georgia regiment, C. S. Army, and lived at Ashland, Clay County, from 1868 until his death in 1907; grandson of Edmund and Adaline (Sawyer) Phillips, of Covington, Ga., the former a Georgian, whose father was also a Georgian, and of Samuel and Amelia (Sims) Avery, who lived near Covington, Ga. The Phillips family came originally from Virginia, but moved to Georgia at an early date. Mr. Phillips was educated at Ashland, and taught school in Clay County during the years 1879, 1880, 1883 and 1884, and farmed during the intermediate years until 1886. He was elected clerk of the circuit court of Clay County on the Democratic ticket, 1886-1892; was elected judge of probate of Clay County by the populists, 1892-1898; and was a delegate of the Populist party to the constitutional convention of 1901. He was a delegate to the first Populist convention ever held in Alabama, at Birmingham, June, 1892, and at that time was chosen a delegate to the national convention in Omaha, Neb. He is a Baptist. Married: November 13, 1884, at Ashland, to Martha Elizabeth, daughter of Jefferson Lafayette and Angeline (Harbison) Blackstock, of Ashland. Children: 1. Ethel; 2. Spencer; 3. Stella; 4. Albert Sawyer. Residence: Birmingham.

PHILLIPS, GEORGE, physician, member constitutional convention 1819, was born May 1, 1769, in Delaware, and died September 15, 1835, at Selma; son of George and Jane (Edgar) Phillips, the former a native of Ireland, who came to America and settled in Delaware in 1768, bringing with him his wife and one child, William E., who later served in the Revolutionary Army, and after living in Delaware for several years, moved to Mecklenburg County, N. C.; grandson of Llewellyn and Jane (Campbell) Edgar. He was of Welsh and Scotch origin; his ancestors went with Cromwell's army into Ireland, and settled there about the middle of the seventeenth century. Dr. Phillips studied medicine and became a practicing physician. In 1803, he moved to Georgia, where he remained for several years, then came to Huntsville. He practiced his profession there until 1815, at that time moving to Shelby County. He was elected to the constitutional convention from Shelby County in 1819, and later in the year, moved to Dallas County. At that time he withdrew from the practice of medicine and devoted his entire time to planting. When the first legislature of Alabama met, Dr. Phillips was a candidate for U. S. senator, but was defeated. He was elected to the State legislature from Dallas County in 1823, and to the State senate in 1831. He was one of the incorporators of the University of Alabama and was a trustee of the institution, 1821-1833. In 1814, during the Indian war, he served as surgeon under Gen. Andrew Jackson. He was a Whig and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in Georgia, to Jemima, daughter of Lerol and Jemima (Jones) Pope; (2) to Mary Martin. Children, by first marriage: 1. Matilda E., m. William Blevins; 2. Eliza P.; 3. William S. (q. v.); 4. Francis M., m. Martha Sherrer; 5. Jemima G., m. William Johnson; 6. Robert M.; by second marriage: 7. George Crawford (q. v.); 8. Mary A., m. Andrew Hunter; 9. Emily R., m. Charles Lewis; 10. Nancy M.; 11. John B., m. (1) Mary Swift, (2) Isabella Porter. Last residence: Selma.

PHILLIPS, GEORGE CRAWFORD, planter, was born May 15, 1815, in Georgia, and died August 30, 1872, in Dallas County; son of George and Mary (Martin) Phillips (q. v.); brother of William Sidney Phillips (q. v.). He was, for the most part, reared in Dallas County, and attended the University of Alabama. He studied medicine under his father and was about to leave for a medical college, when the death of his father occurred. He became administrator of his father's estate and engaged in planting. He represented Dallas County in the State legislature in 1847 and again in 1853, serving in the latter session as a member of the committee on ways and means. For twenty-one years he was a member of the board of commissioners of Dallas County holding the office until the reconstruction period after the War of Secession. During the war he was a colonel of militia, but took active part only to the extent of aiding in the defense of Selma. He had been opposed to secession, but during the war gave his entire support to the Confederacy. He assisted in the organization of the Alabama and Tennessee River railroad, was a stockholder in the company and a director for several years. He was a Whig until the dissolution of that party, then became a Democrat; and was a Presbyterian. Married: February 25, 1835, to Adoline Dillingham Crawford, of Dallas County, daughter of John Crawford, who came to Dallas County from Tennessee in 1817. Children: 1. and 2. d. in early life; 3. John Crawford, sergeant, Co. G, Forty-fourth Alabama Infantry, C. S. Army, d. August 7, 1862, near Drury's Bluff, Va.; 4. Mrs. L. A. Privett; 5. Mrs. Frank H. Bates; 6. Miss E. R.; 7. Dr. W. C.; 8. George, corporal, fifth sergeant, orderly sergeant, Co. G, Sixth Alabama cavalry, brigade commissary sergeant, C. S. Army, warehouseman and planter, m. Sarah Ellen McIlwain, Selma. Last residence: Dallas County.

PHILLIPS, JOHN HERBERT, educator, superintendent city schools of Birmingham, was born December 12, 1853, at Covington, Ky.; son of Evan and Elizabeth (Herbert) Phillips, natives of Wales, who came to the United States in 1849, located at Louisville, Ky., later moved to Gallia County, O., and then to Jackson, O., where the former died in 1889; grandson of John and Jane (Davis) Herbert. He attended the common district schools of Kentucky and Ohio, and the Gallia academy, then taught in the rural schools of West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio, from 1871-1875. He entered Marietta college, Marion, O., and was graduated from that institution A. B., 1880, A. M., 1883; has taken post graduate work at the University of Edinburgh and the University of Chicago. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by Marietta college in 1905 and by the University of Alabama in 1906. He served as principal of a high school at Gallipolis, O., 1880-1883; and resigned that position in the latter year in order to accept the work of reorganizing and establishing the public school system of Birmingham. He has continued as superintendent of the public schools of that city since that time. In 1885, he was elected president of the chauteauqua class of 1889, and delivered addresses in connection with that work throughout the country. He was president of the Southern educational association in 1895; president of the council of education, National educational association, 1902; has contributed to numerous magazines; and is author of "History and Literature in Grammar Schools," 1892, "The Negro and Education," 1894, and "Old Tales and Modern Ideals," 1905. He is a Democrat; ruling elder in the Presbyterian church; a thirty-third degree Mason, a member of all branches of Masonry, and deputy to the sovereign inspector general for Alabama; and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Married: (1) December 27, 1886, to Nellie T. Cobbs, who died in 1893; (2) August 17, 1898, in Washington, D. C., to Minnie M., daughter of B. O. and Fanny (Moore) Holman, who lived at Camden, the former a lawyer of Wilcox County, who died in a Federal prison in 1865. Residence: Birmingham.

PHILLIPS, J. W., Baptist minister; living in 1918. Residence: Mobile.

PHILLIPS, JOHN W., business man, was born April 17, 1860, in Mobile. He removed to Gadsden in 1887, engaged in the furniture business; removed to Anniston in 1889; and returned to Mobile in 1893, where he again engaged in the furniture business. He sold his interest in that business in December, 1910; was one of the organizers of the American laundry company and the Gulf City works, and is president of both companies. He is a Mason. Married: September 3, 1882, to Lydia E. Goodman, of Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

PHILLIPS, JOSEPH, pioneer citizen, born probably about 1766, presumably in Wilkes County, Ga., and died in Clarke County; son of Joseph Phillips, of Wilkes County, a minute man in the Revolutionary War, who received a grant of two hundred and fifty acres of land in Washington County, Ga., for his services and died in Morgan County, Ga.; grandson of William and Harriet (Horn) Phillips, whose ancestors were Welsh. Colonel Phillips lived in Greene and Morgan Counties, Ga., and in 1811 or '12 was induced by Gen. Sam Dale to move to the present site of Jackson, Clarke County. He was a member of the committee to locate an academy in Washington or Clarke County, which decided upon St. Stephens, a flourishing school being the result. He was chief justice of the orphans court of Clarke County; owned a sawmill in the county which was named in honor of Gen. John Clarke, son of Col. Elijah Clarke, in whose command Col. Phillips' father served in the Revolutionary Army. Married: (1) Jane Walker, (2) Patsey Hall. Children: 1. Elizabeth, or "Betsey," m. Pascal Harrison; 2. Mary, m. Reuben Saffold (q. v.); 3. James Ray; 4. Sidney; by the second wife: 5. Amaranth Lowndes; 6. Zeno; 7. John Clarke. Last residence: Clark County.

PHILLIPS, PHILIP, member Alabama legislature, member congress and lawyer, was born December 17, 1807, in Charleston, S. C., and died January 14, 1884, in Washington, D. C. He was of Hebrew parentage. He was prepared for college in the private schools of Charleston; entered the Middletown military academy of Connecticut, in 1823, graduating in 1826, and in 1836 the South Carolina university conferred upon him the degree of A. M. He studied law under Mr. Gadsden, and was admitted to the bar, 1828. He located in Cheraw, Marlborough District, where he practiced law. He was a member of the nullification convention, 1832; member of South Carolina legislature, 1834. In 1835, he removed to Mobile and resided there twenty years. In 1844, he was elected to the Alabama legislature; was law partner with Gov. Gayle, Judge Dargan, R. B. Sewall and Thomas Williams; attorney for the Bank of Mobile until 1852; in 1840, prepared and published a digest of decisions of the Supreme court of Alabama which he edited in 1846, this work being the first of its kind for the State; delegate to Democratic convention, in Baltimore, that nominated President Pierce; elected to congress, 1852-53. In 1855, he removed to Washington, D. C., to practice his profession. When the War of Secession began, he and his wife were arrested and held for some time as "Southern sympathizers." When released, they removed to New Orleans where Mrs. Phillips incurred the displeasure of Gen. Butler, through a misunderstanding, which she refused to explain. She was sent to Ship Island and with one woman companion, confined rigorously, in a rude cabin, for three months. Parton, the historian of Butler, says she was detained "several weeks and released;" he explains the reason of her imprisonment as having "insulted the remains of Lt. DeKay," as his funeral cortege passed her home. At the close of the war Mr. Phillips returned to Washington where he resided until his death. He was counsel in some of the most noted law cases in America. Author: besides the Alabama Digest, "The Practice of the supreme court of the United States." He was a member of the board of governors at the Metropolitan club of Washington. He was a Democrat; an ardent Southerner, but opposed to nullification and secession. Married: September 7, 1836, to Eugenia Levy. Children: 1. Clavius; 2. Fanny, m. Charles S. Hill, of Washington; 3. Caroline, m. Frederick Myers; 4. Salvadora; 5. Eugene; 6. John Walker; 7. John Randolph; 8. William Hallett; 9. Emma L., m. Octavius Cohen; 10. Philip Lee, of Washington, D. C. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

PHILLIPS, REUBEN, physician, was born December 25, 1800, in Wilkes County, Ga., and died May 12, 1851; son of David and Mary (Davis) Phillips, who lived in Wilkes County, Ga.; grandson of Jonathon and Lucy (Gibbs) Davis, the former a native of England, who came to America in 1730, when quite young, the latter a daughter of a prominent Virginia family. He studied medicine, and was graduated from a medical college in Philadelphia, Pa., and began the practice of his profession in Covington, Ga. After practicing in that place for several years, he moved to Talbotton, Ga., and from there came to Alabama. He located in Notasulga, as a physician, and continued his profession there until he was forced by failing health to retire. He was a Whig; a Baptist; and a member of the Sons of temperance. Married: May 26, 1825, in Covington, Ga., to Mary Baldwin, daughter of Francis Burwell and Eliza (Henderson) Smartt, of Smartt, Hillsboro, Ga. Children: 1. Julius Caesar, deceased, m. Anne E. Leftwich, Opelika; 2. Mary Ann Eliza, m. Dr. Myles Jefferson Greene (q. v.), Clanton; 3. Berrien Troup, killed at the battle of Seven Pines; 4. Frances Angelina, Clanton, m. John H. Hannon, deceased; 5. Amanda Cornelia, m. Benjamin F. Dupree, both deceased; 6. Randolph Macon, deceased, m. Martha Stroud, Sylacauga; 7. Reuben David, m. Achsah Beasley, both deceased; 8. Ella Clay, San Antonio, Tex., m. W. W. Pearce, deceased; 9. Emma Virginia, deceased, m. John Stroud, Gadsden; 10. Thomas Smartt, deceased, m. Glenara Lamar, Clanton; 11. William H., deceased, m. Eleanor Jackson. Last residence: Notasulga.

PHILLIPS, WILLIAM BATTLE, mining engineer, resident of Alabama, 1891-94, was born at Chapel Hill, N. C., July 4, 1857; son of Charles and Laura Caroline (Battle) Phillips, both of North Carolina. He received his early education in the private schools of North Carolina and at Bingham school, Asheville, N. C.; later attended Davidson college, Davidson, N. C.; received the degrees of A. M. from the University of North Carolina, 1877, and Ph. D. from the same University, 1883; and studied at the Royal school of mines, Freiberg, Saxony. He has practiced his profession in New York City, Pittsburgh, Pa., Birmingham, and Austin, Tex.; and has taught in the universities of North Carolina, Alabama and Texas. He is a contributor to many scientific and technical publications. He is a Democrat; Mason; and Presbyterian. Married: (1) October 8, 1879, at Fayetteville, N. C., to Minerva Ruffin, daughter of George and Elizabeth (Drury) McNeill, of that place; (2) January 21, 1908, at Columbia, S. C., to Angie Isabel, daughter of John Martin and Mary Angelina (Nichols) Miller. Children: by first marriage, 1. William Battle, jr., m. Lida Fulton, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; 2. Drury McNeill, of Alba, Tex.; 3. Laurance U., of Austin, Tex. Residence: Houston, Texas.

PHILLIPS, WILLIAM SIDNEY, lawyer, member constitutional convention 1861, was born September 30, 1805, in Georgia, and died July 7, 1872, at Selma; son of George and Jemima (Pope) Phillips (q. v.); brother of George Crawford Phillips (q. v.). He studied law and was admitted to the bar in Georgia, but came with his parents to Dallas County at an early age. He practiced law at Cahaba for several years, but devoted his time chiefly to planting. He was elected to the State legislature from Dallas County in 1837, and in 1839; and served in the State senate from 1840-1842, being leader of the Whig party during the session. He was a member of the secession convention of 1861. Married: in 1842, near Marion, Perry County, to Louisa, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Wallace) Barron who lived at that place. Children: 1. Elizabeth J., m. Richard E. Baker; 2. George Crawford, served as fourth sergeant, Co. G, Sixth Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army, d. September 6, 1872; 3. John Barron, m. Bettie Craig; 4. Emily L.; 5. William M., m. Amanda Cunningham; 6. Mary A.; 7. Frances Jefferson, m. Eula Lassiter, Greenville, Tex.; 8. Carrie W. Last residence: Selma.

PICKEL, JAMES M., professor of chemistry and metallurgy, at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1892-98. He held the degree of Ph. D.

PICKENS, EZEKIEL, lawyer, circuit judge, was born in December, 1794, in Charleston, S. C., and died August 30, 1860, in Jasper County, Miss.; son of Ezekiel Pickens, a lawyer, who married a Miss Bonneau of Huguenot descent; grandson of Gen. Andrew and Rebecca (Calhoun) Pickens, the former of Revolutionary fame, for whom the county of that name in Alabama was called. Left an orphan in 1811 or 1812, he was sent to school, and some time later was graduated from the South Carolina college with honors in law. For a short time after he left college, he acted as private secretary to his uncle, Andrew Pickens, who was governor of South Carolina at that time, then moved to Abbeville to study law under his brother-in-law,

Col. Patrick Noble. He moved to Alabama in March, 1820, and was admitted to the bar in May, at Cahaba. In January, 1821, he moved to Linden, Marengo County, where he began the practice of law, and soon after moved to Erie, Greene County, forming a partnership with Seth Barton. He moved to Greensboro in 1825, then to Dallas County, and settled near Selma. He was elected to the State legislature from Greene County in 1824, and from Dallas County in 1828. He was elected to the bench of the circuit court in 1835, and remained on the bench, declining a nomination for congress in 1839, until February, 1848, when he resigned because he had been defeated by Hon. Nat Cook for the position, although his term had not yet expired. In 1850, when the election was transferred from the legislature to the people, Judge Pickens was re-elected over Mr. Cook and another opponent, with a larger majority than the combined vote for his opponents. He was spoken of as a candidate for governor in 1850, but refused to allow his name to come before the nominating convention. He resigned from the circuit bench in 1852 and devoted his later years to farming. In 1857, he moved to Jasper County, Miss., where he died three years later. He was never married. Samuel B. Pickens of Dallas County and the first wife of Gov. Noble of South Carolina were his only brother and sister. He was a cousin of John Henderson Pickens (q. v.). Last residence: Jasper County, Miss.

PICKENS, ISRAEL, governor of Alabama, was born January 30, 1780, in Mecklenburg County, N. C., and died April 24, 1827, in Matanzas, Cuba; son of Capt. Samuel and Jane (Carrigan) Pickens, of North Carolina, the former a Revolutionary soldier and a descendant of French Huguenot settlers. He was educated in the private schools of his day and graduated from the law department of Washington college, Pennsylvania. He was a member of the North Carolina senate, 1808-10, and a representative in congress, 1811-17. In 1817, he removed to the Alabama Territory, just before the State was admitted to the union, and was register in the land office at St. Stephens. He represented Washington County, 1819, in the constitutional convention that formed the State of Alabama. In 1821, he was elected governor of the new state, holding the office four years; he was the third governor and is known as the "constructive governor," as he completed the thorough organization of the State. In 1826 he was appointed by Pres. John Quincy Adams to the U. S. senate to fill an unexpired term. During his term of governor, Gen. Lafayette visited Alabama and was met and welcomed by Gov. Pickens at Montgomery, and escorted to the capital city, Cahaba, where he was entertained. Gov. Pickens was given to scientific research and invented a lunar dial. In 1827, he went to Cuba, in search of health, and died there and was buried in Matanzas, but later the Alabama legislature made provision for the removal of his remains to this State, and he is buried in the family burying-ground, near the old Pickens homestead, Greensboro. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: June 9, 1814, at Fort Defiance, Yadkin River, N. C., to Martha Orilla, daughter of Gen. William and Ann (Ballard) Lenoir, of North Carolina, the former a Revolutionary soldier. Children: 1. Julia, m. Lt. C. S. Howe, U. S. Army; 2. Andrew Lenoir, m. Caroline Gordon; 3. Israel, jr., m. Eliza Nelson. Last residence: Greensboro.

PICKENS, J. M., minister of the Christian church. Deceased.

PICKENS, JAMES, member of the constitutional convention of 1819, from Monroe County.

PICKENS, JOHN HENDERSON, assistant adjutant general, C. S. Army, was born February 1, 1842, at Marion, and died May 13, 1905, at Abilene, Tex.; son of Joseph and Caroline J. (Henderson) Pickens, who lived at Eutaw, the former a native of Hopewell, Pendleton District, S. C.; grandson of Gen. Andrew and Rebecca (Calhoun) Pickens, the former born September 19, 1739, in Paxton Township, Pa., lived at Tommassee, Pendleton District, S. C., commanded a division of Gen. Nathaniel Greene's army corps during the southern campaign, Revolutionary War, was at the battle of Eutaw Springs, and other memorable conflicts with the British; and of John D. and Elizabeth Henderson of Eutaw and Mobile; great-grandson of Ezekiel Calhoun. He was a cousin of Hon. Frank Pickens, the war governor of South Carolina during the Confederacy, and of Judge Ezekiel Pickens (q. v.). He attended private schools in Eutaw, and entered the University of Alabama in 1858. He was sent from the University as drill master to Mobile in the fall of 1860; joined the fourth Alabama regiment of infantry, and was made drill sergeant; was elected third lieutenant of Co. G, and rose to the captaincy of the company; served in the Deer Creek campaign and at the fall of Vicksburg; was exchanged at Vicksburg, and ordered to the army of the Tennessee; served under Gen. Joseph E. Johnston in Georgia, under Gen. Hood in his Tennessee campaign, with Gen. Stevenson, Gen. Clayton, and Gen. Holtzclaw as inspector general; had his horse shot under him at Atlanta, Ga.; acted as assistant adjutant general of Holtzclaw's brigade when Mobile was evacuated by Gen. Maury, and issued the last order in that department. After he was paroled, Capt. Pickens returned to Eutaw, engaged in farming and the drug business until July, 1868, when he went to California; served as deputy county clerk of San Francisco, Calif., 1876-1879; moved to Taylor County, Tex., and engaged in sheep-raising; served as deputy county clerk of Taylor County, Tex., 1886-1891; moved to Abilene, Tex., and entered the abstract business; served as secretary of the city of Abilene, and as assessor and collector of that city. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Knight Templar. Married: November 12, 1890, at Abilene, Tex., to Mrs. Evalyn (Polk) Brigham, daughter of Horace M. and Ophelia (Bills) Polk, who lived in Bolivar, Tenn.; a descendant of Gen. Thomas Polk of

ALLAN H. WOODWARD

North Carolina, who signed the Mecklenburg declaration of independence and read it from the court house steps in Charlotte, N. C., who was made colonel of Salisbury District in 1775, was appointed colonel of the Fourth regiment and joined the army under Gen. Washington, and was one of the commissioners of his state to receive Gen. Lafayette on his return to the United States in 1824; a relative of President James K. Polk, and of Gen. Leonidas Polk, C. S. Army. Last residence: Abilene, Tex.

PICKENS, SAMUEL, State auditor, 1819.

PICKERING, ALFRED S., major, 20th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

PICKETT, ALBERT JAMES, planter and historian, was born August 13, 1810, in Anson County, N. C., and died October 28, 1858, in Montgomery County; son of Col. William Raiford and Frances (Dickson) Pickett (q. v.). He was educated in the private schools of Neil Blue and Joseph Hall. In 1827, he entered the military academy of Middletown, Conn.; and was later, 1828, a student of Stafford County academy, Virginia. In 1830, he returned home and studied law under his brother, William Dickson Pickett, but preferring to write for the newspapers, he became a regular contributor on political economy and historical subjects, his articles appearing in "The Alabama Journal" and "The Planters' Gazette." He acquired a large farm in the neighborhood of his father's home and gave some attention to agriculture. During the Creek War of 1836 he was active in the field and was made aid-de-camp to Gov. C. C. Clay. In 1837, he located permanently in Montgomery, acquiring the brick residence at the junction of Clayton and Moulton streets, now occupied by the Barnes school. By marriage, he also acquired the great tract of land now known as "Pickett Springs," on which Camp Sheridan was located in 1917-1919, during the World War. The residence on this plantation, which was occupied by A. J. Pickett for many years, was afterward bought by Mr. Malcolm Chisholm, with a large portion of land, and now comprises the little town of Chisholm, four miles north of Montgomery. In 1847, he began his "History of Alabama" and in 1851, it was published. He acted on the citizens' committee for the erection of the State capitol, at Montgomery. He was a Democrat, of the "Jackson school;" and an Episcopalian. Married: March 20, 1832, in Montgomery, to Sarah Smith, daughter of William and Mary (Alston) Harris, of "Pickett Springs," near Montgomery. Children: 1. William Raiford, m. Laura Holt; 2. Martha, m. Col. Michael Woods; 3. Corinne, m. Edward Brett Randolph; 4. Eliza W., m. Edwin Banks; 5. Mary, m. Rev. Samuel Harris (q. v.), bishop of Michigan; 6. Sarah Julia, m. Robert Carter Randolph; 7. Albert James, Jr., m. Eugenia Durden; 8. Alston Harris, m. Elizabeth Jackson; 9. John Gindrat. Last residence: "Forest Farms," Pickett Springs and interred in Oakwood cemetery.

PICKETT, ALEXANDER HAMILTON, planter and business man, was born December 8, 1836, on Chunnenuggee Ridge, Macon County, and died January 11, 1900, in Union Springs; son of James and Martha Amanda (Robinson) Pickett, pioneer settlers of Chunnenuggee Ridge, one of the richest and most aristocratic settlements of slave-holding planters in east Alabama. He was educated by tutors and graduated from the University of Alabama. He engaged in extensive planting, with slave labor. In the War of Secession, he was a captain and adjutant of Battle's brigade, Rhodes' division, C. S. Army. In 1870-71 he was one of the promoters of the Montgomery-Union Springs-Eufaula railroad, now a part of the Central of Georgia railroad system. In 1886, to 1898, he was clerk of the circuit court. He was a Democrat. Married: April 20, 1864, in Union Springs, to Virginia Eliza Powell. Last residence: Union Springs.

PICKETT, RICHARD ORRICK, lawyer, colonel of cavalry, C. S. Army, was born August 22, 1814, in Fauquier County, Va., and died November 27, 1898, at Leighton, Va.; son of Steptoe and Sarah Orrick (Chilton) Pickett, who moved to Alabama in 1829 and settled in Limestone County; grandson of Martin and Ann (Blackwell) Pickett, of Warrenton, Fauquier County, Va., the former who was lieutenant colonel of the Third Virginia infantry regiment, of Gen. Washington's Army, Revolutionary War, who was a delegate to the convention at Williamsburg, Va., in 1776, which declared Virginia independent of the British Empire, was a delegate from Fauquier County to the convention of 1788, which accepted the Federal constitution, and of Charles and Elizabeth (Blackwell) Orrick; great-grandson of Joseph and Lucie (Steptoe) Blackwell, and of Orrick and Felicia (Corbin) Chilton; great-great-grandson of William and Sarah (Orrick) Chilton, of Currioman, Westmoreland County, Va., the former a descendant of John Chilton, who came to Virginia in 1660, bought a tract of land in Westmoreland County, and called his estate Currioman, for whom the town of Chilton, Va., was named; great-great-great-grandson of John and Susannah (Hamond) Orrick, of Anne Arundel County, Md., the former a descendant of the Orrick family of Scotland and Maryland, who signed the Regman Roll in 1296, were lairds of a barony in Scotland; great-great-great-great-grandson of Col. Thomas and Lady Rebecca (Larkin) Hamond. The Chiltons came from an old English family of French origin, tracing their lineage to the time of the Crusades. The name was written de Chilton. Col. Pickett was educated in the common schools; studied law in the office of James Irvine at Florence; was admitted to the bar in 1845; and began the practice of law at Moulton, where he remained until the outbreak of the War of Secession. He was elected judge of Lawrence County in 1846; was a representative in the legislature in 1849, 1853, 1855, 1857, and 1861, and during the latter session was elected adjutant and inspector general of the state. He resigned that position soon after, and raised a company of infantry for the C. S. Army, which became Co. H, Thirty-fifth Alabama infantry, and of which he was elected captain. He led his company at Baton Rouge, Champion Hill and Bakers Creek; was captured at Corinth, Miss.; exchanged at Vicksburg; entered the cavalry and became colonel of the Tenth Alabama cavalry, Roddy's command, with which he served until the end of the war. He resumed the practice of law at Florence; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875; and was elected to the legislature, 1884-1885, and 1886-1887. He was a delegate to the Democratic national conventions which nominated Seymour, Buchanan and Cleveland for president; and was a Royal Arch Mason. Married: January 8, 1837, in Florence, to Fannie Louisa, daughter of William and Margaret Sarah (Wrenshall) Boggs, of Pittsburgh, Pa., the former a native of Ireland, the latter born in England, a daughter of Lady Spencer who married Frank Wrenshall of Ireland, and a descendant of the Duke of Argyle. Children: 1. Sarah Benington, deceased, m. Samuel Darwin; 2. Richard Orrick, d. in infancy; 3. Julia Plummer, deceased; 4. Fannie Corbin, deceased; 5. Emily Irvin, m. Stephen Ewing Rice, Apalachicola, Fla.; 6. Lucy Blackwell, deceased, m. Charles H. Patton; 7. Steptoe, m. Paul S. King, Leighton; 8. Richard Orrick, d. in infancy; 9. Katie Canton, deceased. Last residence: Leighton.

PICKETT, WILLIAM DIXON, circuit judge, 1834-37, vice John W. Paul.

PICKETT, WILLIAM RAIFORD, legislator, merchant and planter, was born in 1777, in Anson County, N. C., and died in Autauga County, in 1850. He removed his family to Autauga County, in 1818, and acquired large holdings of land, engaging in farming on an extensive scale. He built a large house on his plantation, three miles west of Autaugaville, which is still in a good state of preservation. He engaged in merchandising as well as planting, trading not only with the white settlers but with the Indians who were very numerous there at that time. It was this contact with the Indians that gave the son, Albert James, the historian of Alabama, his intimate knowledge of the red man. Mr. Pickett served his county in both branches of the State legislature and three times he was presidential elector of his party. He was a Democrat. Married: to Frances Dickson, of North Carolina. Children: 1. William Dickson; 2. ———, daughter, m. Gen. Mosely Baker (q. v.); 3. Albert James, historian (q. v.), m. Sarah Smith Harris, of Montgomery. Last residence: Autauga County.

PICKETT, WILLIAM RAIFORD, planter, was born April 2, 1833, at Montgomery, and died April 7, 1889, in the city of his birth; son of Albert James and Sarah Smith (Harris) Pickett (q. v.). He was educated in the public and private schools of Montgomery and attended a university. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he entered the army and held four commissions from the Confederate government, the last was that of quartermaster general for Alabama with station in Montgomery. He was an Episcopalian. Married: July 14, 1859, at Montgomery, to Laura, daughter of Samuel Doak and Laura (Hall) Holt (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary Alston, m. Josiah Morris Davidson, three children, (1) William Pickett, m. Bessie Werden, (2) James Armstrong, captain 31st Division, A. E. F.; (3) Florence, m. William B. Taylor, of Mobile; 2. Samuel Holt, died in infancy; 3. Albert James, m. Florence Lascellis Collins, general freight agent for the Mobile and Ohio railroad company, three children: (1) Albert James, jr.; (2) Robert William; (3) Laura Kate. Last residence: Montgomery.

PIERCE, CHARLES WILSON, farmer, representative in congress, was born October 7, 1823, at Benton, Gates County, N. Y., and died February 18, 1907, at Waverly, Nebr.; son of Spooner Reed and Mary (Wilson) Pierce who lived in Genesee County, N. Y., in Huntsville, O., and in Havana, Ill., the former who was born near Albany, N. Y.; grandson of Elisha and Susan (Castle) Pierce, who moved from Middleboro, Mass., to New York, the former a soldier in the War of 1812, and of Thaddeus and Bethania (Parshall) Wilson, of Rochester, N. Y., and later of Tiffin, O. The records of the Pierce ancestors, who came from England, had been traced back as far as 1313. The first Pierce in America settled in Plymouth colony in 1623. Maj. Pierce was graduated from the academy at Rochester, N. Y., and was occupied as a contracting painter until 1861. He enlisted as first lieutenant, Co. B, Eighty-fifth Illinois volunteer infantry, U. S. Army, in August, 1862; was transferred to the veteran reserve corps, November 2, 1863, because of poor health; was assigned to the quartermaster department and stationed at Camp Chase, Ohio; sent to Washington, D. C., as acting brigade quartermaster of Hardin's division; served on staff duty and was promoted to captain, then to major, for meritorious conduct; was ordered to Alabama on the staff of Gen. Swaim in 1865; was appointed head of the freedmen's bureau for a district of thirteen counties; and was mustered out of the service January 1, 1868. He was elected a member of the Fortieth congress from the fourth district of Alabama, 1867, and declined a re-nomination. In 1869, he was appointed assessor of internal revenue of the first district of Alabama; moved to Nebraska in 1872, and settled on a farm near Warsaw; was a member of the constitutional convention of that state in 1875, which drafted the present constitution of Nebraska; was elected State senator of Nebraska to fill a vacancy, and was re-elected for another term; served as register of the U. S. land office at Lincoln, Nebr., 1880-1886. He was a Republican; a Knight Templar; a Shriner; a member of the Loyal Legion; and of the Grand Army of the Republic. Married: November 5, 1850, at Republic, O., to Isabella Maria, daughter of William Smith and Nancy Emerson (Russell) Burton, who lived at Norwich, Vt. The progenitor of the family, John Burton, an Englishman, settled in Salem, Mass., in 1637, and was granted land adjoining that of Gov. Endicott. Children: 1. Charles Eugene, d. August 30, 1852; 2. James Burton,

d. April 27, 1856; 3. Edith Mary, d. June 25, 1856; 4. Florence Belle, Waverly, Nebr.; 5. Charles Albert, d. May 8, 1902, m. (1) Ida Shepard, (2) Mary Scott, Tecumseh, Nebr. Last residence: Waverly, Nebr.

PIERCE, HUGH, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Jefferson County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on September 17, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

PIERCE, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, and a resident of Dallas County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on March 5, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40; sums received to date of publication of list, $120.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Dallas County, June 1, 1840, with Benjamin Crumblin, aged 95.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

PIERCE, JUNIUS J., major, 24th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

PIERCE, LOVICK, Methodist minister; pastor of the Court Street church, Montgomery, 1842.

PIERCE, SIMEON C., business man, was born February 22, 1822, in Somerset County, Me. He served for six years an apprenticeship as machinist at Lowell, Mass.; located in Columbus, Ga., in 1848, in order to put up some machinery for Governor Drew, of Florida, and Col. John G. Winter, the latter later employed him as manager of the Montgomery iron works where he remained until 1852, when he removed to Selma. He was employed by the Alabama manufacturing company for one year; served as locomotive engineer, Alabama and Tennessee rivers railroad company, 1853-55; and master mechanic, Alabama and Mississippi rivers railroad company. While in the latter position with his labor and under his direction, the "Canebrake," the first engine on that road, and the "Uniontown," the second, were put up. He held this position until the beginning of the War of Secession, when he entered business for himself. He left descendants, among these, George Pierce, of Selma.

PIGG, CHARLES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Madison County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on December 31, 1832, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $60.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PILLANS, HARRY, lawyer, member constitutional convention 1901, mayor of Mobile, was born June 27, 1847, at Bonham, Tex.; son of J. Palmer and Laura (Roberts) Pillans (q. v.).

He was educated in the public schools of Mobile, and was prepared under P. A. Towne to enter the junior class at college, when he enlisted in the C. S. Army in 1864. He served as a private during the last year of the war; studied law in the office of Peter Hamilton in 1866; was assistant city engineer and official of the city map and ward books of realty, 1867; read law in the office of Smith & Henderson, 1868-1870; and was admitted to the bar at Mobile, February, 1870. He practiced actively in the courts of Mobile, of Alabama, in the Mississippi supreme court, in the coast court, and from time to time in the Federal supreme court and the court of appeals of the fifth circuit. He was first associated in the practice with Huri-osco Austill (q. v.), later with George N. Steward, the early Alabama reporter and jurist, then with the firm of Rillans, Torrey & Hanaw, and finally in partnership with Henry Hanaw and Palmer Pillans, his eldest son. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901; a member of the Mobile River Commission for six years; and commissioner of the city of Mobile, for some time. During the reconstruction period, he served on the old Democratic central council; and while in the constitutional convention, was influential in amending and rendering more flexible the judiciary clause, and suggested and procured the adoption of a pardon board. He is a member of the board of trustees of the Medical college of Alabama; is a Democrat; and a member of the order of Moose. Married: April 28, 1875, at Claiborne, to Elizabeth Henshaw Torrey, daughter of Judge Rufus C. and Elizabeth (Henshaw) Torrey, who lived at that place, the former a native of Massachusetts, a graduate of Harvard university, who moved to Alabama in his youth, and lived there for the remainder of his life. Mrs. Pillans is a descendant of the Henshaws of Massachusetts and of the Isbells of Virginia, her New England ancestry running back to John Alden and his wife Priscilla. Ruth Alden, the daughter of John and Priscilla (Mullins) Alden, from whom John and John Quincy Adams were descended, married John Bass; Joseph Bass, son of the latter, married Mary Belcher; Elizabeth Bass, the latter's daughter, married Daniel Henshaw; their son, David Henshaw, married Mary Sargent; their son, Andrew, married Elizabeth Isbell; their daughter, Elizabeth Sargent Henshaw married Rufus C. Torrey. Mrs. Pillans' great-uncle, David Henshaw, was secretary of the navy, and her grandfather, Andrew Henshaw, was U. S. deputy surveyor. Children: 1. Palmer, was graduated from the University of Alabama, 1897, lawyer at Mobile, m. Emma D. Price; 2. Mary Isbell, m. George S. Gaines, Mobile; 3. Laura, Mobile; 4. Harry T., officer in the U. S. Army. Residence: Mobile.

PILLANS, JOB PALMER, lawyer, civil engineer, was born January 30, 1816, at Edisto Island, Colleton District, S. C., and died June 22, 1898, Mobile; son of John Christopher and Elizabeth (Palmer) Pillans, who lived at Charleston, S. C., where the former was born, at Edisto, S. C., and in Madison County, Fla.;

grandson of Robert and Ann (Clark) Pillans, of Charleston, S. C., natives, respectively of Edinburgh and of Glasgow, Scotland, who emigrated to South Carolina about 1780, the former a descendant of a Huguenot family who fled to Scotland after the revocation of the edict of Nantes, and of Job and Sarah (Morgan) Palmer, of Charleston, S. C., the former a native of Falmouth, Mass., born August 26, 1747, died in 1845, who moved to Charleston in March, 1772, the latter a native of Bermuda, who died in 1797; great-grandson of Rev. Samuel and Mercy (Parker) Palmer, respectively of Middlebury, Mass., and of Boston, the former a pastor in Falmouth, Mass., for forty-five years, whose son, "Esquire" Palmer served in the Revolutionary Army, and who was fifth in descent from William Palmer of Nottinghamshire, England, who emigrated to Plymouth in 1621 in the Fortune, the second ship to reach that place, his wife following him in the Ann, in 1623. Mr. Pillans was educated at Charleston, S. C., in Courtney's, Coates' and Bruns' schools, being a tutor in the last named; and was graduated from Charleston college, A. M., 1835, in a class of thirteen members. He read law in the office of Holmes & Bentham, Charleston, S. C., 1834-1835; taught school a year; volunteered in 1836 for the Seminole War, going out as sergeant, and later being commissioned lieutenant of Capt. Tripp's company, South Carolina volunteers; was engaged as a civil engineer in the survey of a railroad through Rabun Gap, Ga., from Charleston to Cincinnati; was in the service of the U. S. topographical reconnaissance of the Cherokee country, in North Carolina and Georgia, and in the early railroad project there; went to Texas and received a commission of major in the army of the republic of Texas from Sam Houston; later as a civilian and an owner in the Mercer colony, resided for a time in northern Texas and then went to Santa Fe, N. Mex.; led the party in opposition to a pure military autocracy in New Mexico; defeated the government party; was selected by the first convention for organizing a state as chief justice of New Mexico, but the state was denied admission. He was licensed to practice law in South Carolina and Florida, but never practiced except in Texas and New Mexico. He returned to Mobile in 1853; was city surveyor and later city engineer of Mobile, 1853-1871; a member of the police board of the port of Mobile; member of the board of commissioners of Mobile, 1880-1883. During the War of Secession, he was captain of the Mobile Grays, and later lieutenant colonel of the Second Alabama state regiment; and was engineer-in-chief in the field in connection with the fortifications of Mobile. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Master Mason; and was at one time grand master of the grand lodge of Alabama. Married: in 1845, at Mobile, to Laura Malvina Roberts, daughter of Dr. Willis and Asenath (Alexander) Roberts, of Putnam County, Ga.; granddaughter of Willis Roberts, of North Carolina, a Welshman, and his wife a Miss Herndon, and of Col. Samuel and Olivia (Wooten) Alexander, who moved from Georgia to North Carolina, the former of whom served in the Continental Army with his brother James. Children: 1. Ida, Mobile, m. Orway B. Norvell, deceased; 2. Harry (q. v.); 3. Edith, m. Rev. Howard R. Walker, Mobile; 4-7. sons, all four of whom d. in infancy. Last residence: Mobile.

PILLEY, C. B., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference; living in 1913. Residence: Dothan.

PILLEY, HENRY BASCOM, lawyer and legislator, was born August 20, 1857, at Hardaway, in Macon County; son of Stephen Fatherly and Sarah B. (Graham) Pilley, the former a native of Darlington, S. C., who lived in Butler County; the latter was of Moss Point, Miss.; grandson of John Graham, of that place. Both maternal and paternal grandparents were soldiers in the War of the Revolution. He was educated in the common schools; admitted to the bar at Greenville, in November, 1878; and was appointed in December of that year register in chancery of Butler County. In 1903 he was one of the representatives in the legislature from Butler County. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: December 19, 1877, to Missouri A., daughter of William Porter and Martha (Hammons) Shine, of Butler County. Children: 1. Robert Floy; 2. Effie Gertrude; 3. Henry B., jr.; 4. Bettie Lewis; 5. Stephen Porter. Residence, Greenville.

PILLEY, STEPHEN F., pastor of the Court Street Methodist church, Montgomery, 1844.

PINCKARD, JAMES S., lawyer, was born August 4, 1859, at Forsyth, Ga.; son of James S. and Martha W. (Herbert) Pinckard, the former a lawyer for forty years at Forsyth, whose ancestors were among the pioneers of Monroe County, Ga. He was educated at Forsyth, Ga., studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1882. He began the practice of law at Forsyth, and soon moved to Montgomery, where after two years he formed a partnership with B. K. Collier, in the firm of Collier & Pinckard, for the general practice of law in all its branches. Later he was associated with Judge John M. Chilton, and at the present time is in partnership in both the practice of law and in the abstract business with Jack Thorington. The abstract business, owned by Mr. Pinckard, is conducted under the name of the Alabama Abstract Company. Married: to Nina Winter, daughter of Judge John G. and Sarah (Calhoun) Winter of Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

PINCKARD, LUCIUS, colonel, C. S. Army, was born August 4, 1841; son of William and Sarah (Calloway) Pinckard, of Tuskegee. He entered the University of Alabama in 1859 from Tuskegee, and left the University in 1861 to enter the C. S. Army. He was commissioned first lieutenant and adjutant of the Fourteenth Alabama regiment; was promoted to lieutenant colonel at the battle of Sharpsburg; and soon afterwards was appointed colonel of the Fourteenth Alabama. He was elected sheriff of Macon County in 1884, and served in that position for four years. Later he moved to Atlanta, Ga., and engaged in the life insurance business at that place. Married: February 29, 1865, at Tuskegee, to Fannie L. Graves. Residence: Atlanta, Ga.

PINCKARD, WILLIAM E., major of the 61st, also called 59th, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

PINCKARD, WILLIAM PEYTON, lawyer, was born in Chambers County; son of Peyton Jett and Edna Armstrong (Gross) Pinckard, the former who was born in Coweta County, Ga., who lived in Tallapoosa and Chambers Counties, in Troup County, Ga., and in Lee County, who was captain of Co. I, Thirty-fourth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, and was honorably discharged for physical disability; grandson of Peyton and Elizabeth (Robinson) Pinckard, who lived near Newnan, Ga., and of Bluford and Elizabeth (Armstrong) Gross, who moved from Pike County, Ga., to Camp Hill, Tallapoosa County, about 1840; great-grandson of James and Elizabeth (Smith) Pinckard, who moved from Lancaster or Westmoreland County, Va., to Greene County, Ga., in 1783; great-great-grandson of Thomas and Ann Corbin (Griffin) Pinckard, of Lancaster County, Va., and of Peyton Smith, whose mother, Mary (Peyton) Smith, was the daughter of William Peyton, of Stafford County, Va.; great-great-great-grandson of Thomas and Eliza (Downman) Pinckard; great-great-great-great-grandson of Thomas and Frances (Anderson) Pinckard, and of William and Ann (Conway) Downman, the latter the sister of Eleanor (Conway) Madison, mother of James Madison, president of the United States; great-great-great-great-grandson of Capt. Thomas and Elizabeth Pinckard, the former who was sheriff and justice of Lancaster County, Va., of Rev. Charles Anderson, and of Edwin and Ann Elizabeth (Ball) Conway; great-great-great-great-great-grandson of Capt. John Pinckard, probably born in England of Norman-French ancestry, who was a burgess and a justice of Lancaster County, Va., and whose residence in Virginia was first recorded in 1683, and of Joseph and Ann Elizabeth (Romney) Ball, the former whose daughter by a second marriage married Augustine Washington, and became the mother of George Washington. Mr. Pinckard attended the common schools of Chambers County, and of Troup County, Ga.; spent some years at Howard college; and was graduated in law at the University of Virginia. He was admitted to the bar of Alabama at Opelika and in the supreme court of Alabama at Montgomery, and practiced law in eastern Alabama for eight years. He was special attorney for the Corbin Banking Company at Tuscaloosa, 1882-1886; moved to Birmingham in 1886; was a pioneer in the development of the DeBarteleben Coal & Iron Company at Bessemer, of the Bessemer Land Company, the Bessemer Rolling Mills, the Bessemer & Birmingham Street Railway; helped found the old "Herald" company, and later the "Age-Herald" company; was a majority owner and directed the policies of the morning newspaper at Birmingham from its organization until 1894; helped organize the Republic Iron & Steel Company; opened up and developed a new and valuable coal and iron field at Dudley, Tuscaloosa County. He is a Democrat and a Missionary Baptist. Married: January 15, 1880, to Lucy E. Ryburn, daughter of Rev. P. M. and Antoinette (Lumpkin) Ryburn, of Georgia; granddaughter of Matthew and Elizabeth (McArthur) Ryburn, both of Scotch birth, and of Henry Hopson and Lucy (Milner) Lumpkin, of Georgia, the latter of English ancestry, who had a common ancestor with Lord Chatham, William Pitt. Children: 1. Ryburn; 2. Marie Lumpkin; 3. Peyton; 4. Peter; 5. Lucy; 6. Marian; 7. Paul. Residence: Opelika.

PINKSTON, GREEN BERRY, planter, was born in Sparta, Ga., and died in Mt. Meigs, Montgomery County. He removed to Alabama about 1818, being one of the first settlers of the eastern part of Montgomery County, and one of the founders of the Antioch Baptist church, near Mt. Meigs. He acquired large tracts of land, a part of which is still in the possession of his descendants and planted on an extensive scale. He was a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married three times. Children: 1. Miner, m. Louise Graves; 2. James, m. Matilda Mosely; 3. Ann, m. John Harper; 4. Dorothy, m. Frank Howard; 5. Evalina, m. William McLeMore; 6. Franklin C., m. (1) Miss Hopper (2) Christianna Nelson, (3) Aurelia Graves, children: (1) Alexander F., m. Mamie Howard; (2) Charles G. m. Sallie Judge; (3) John Henry m. Sallie Irby Burch; (4) Dr. Camillus Lewellyn, m. Posie Ellen Mitchell; (5) William Green, m. Mattie C. Ray; (6) James A., m. Elizabeth Jones; (7) George Belton, m. Pauline Hill; (8) Evie, m. L. Williams; 7. John Henry, m. Elizabeth Ann Ray, children: (1) John Ray, m. Carrie Jones; (2) William F., m. Capitola Haden; (3) James Conyers, m. Hattie Tuttle; (4) Martha Evalina, m. John C. Judkins; (5) Rebecca Ross, m. Bolling Kavanaugh; (6) Mamie S., unm. Last residence: Mt. Meigs.

PITCHLYNN, JOHN, United States interpreter for the Choctaw Nation. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

PITTMAN, JOHN EDWIN, farmer and legislator, was born December 26, 1873, at Banks, Pike County; son of Elisha and Martha (Windham) Pittman; grandson of Hiram and Annie Pittman, and of Edwin Windham, all of whom came from South Carolina to Banks, Pike County. He was educated in the common schools of Pike County; represented Coffee County in the legislature of 1911; and is a farmer. He is a Democrat; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Red Man; and a Woodman of the World. Married: at Victoria, Coffee County, to Fannie, daughter of Thomas and Catherine Chapman, of that place. Children: 1. Hiram; 2. Mattie; 3. Cora; 4. Johnie Mae. Residence: Enterprise.

PITTMAN, MARTIN POLK, legislator, was born July 18, 1844, near Roanoke, Randolph County; son of James Madison and Emilia (Gathright) Pittman, the former who was born May 7, 1812, near Jefferson, Jackson County, Ga., where he remained till 1834, when he removed with his father's family to Roanoke, was a teacher, and a farmer; grandson of Martin Hughes and Nancy Pittman, who resided in Alabama, and of William Moseley and Emilia Gathright, who lived in Jefferson, Ga. Mr. Pittman was educated in the rural schools of Randolph County; served his county as justice of the peace from 1884 to 1888; as tax assessor for seventeen years; was elected to the legislature, 1918; and again in 1919; served in the C. S. Army, entering the army at Montgomery, July 19, 1861; was sergeant in Co. I, Thirtieth Alabama regiment; was in the army of Virginia from 1861 to 1865; and was wounded at Cold Harbor and Chancellorsville. He is a Democrat; and a member of the Christian church. Married: November 8, 1866, to Eliza Ellen Taylor, daughter of Tilman and Sarah (Brock) Taylor, who lived near Roanoke. Children: 1. Laura Varina, m. Daniel Brewer, Atlanta, Ga.; 2. Escar Albert, m. Hattie A. Davis, d. August 9, 1899; 3. Sarah Lola Emilia, m. Franklin Richard Wood, d. May 17, 1913. Residence: Roanoke.

PITTS, ALEXANDER DAVIDSON, lawyer, was born February 4, 1851, at Uniontown, Perry County; son of Philip Henry and Mary Margaret (Davidson) Pitts, the former who was a native of Lloyds, Essex County, Va., later removed to Uniontown, and was a planter; grandson of Thomas Daniel and Mary (Gray) Pitts, who resided at Uniontown, the former who was a captain in the War of 1812, and of John Howard and Martha (Caldwell) Davidson, who resided at Uniontown; a cousin of William Lee Pitts (q. v.) and a descendant of Alexander D. Pitts, who removed from Pennsylvania to Mecklenburg County, N. C., was a signer of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, and a major in the Revolutionary War. The Pitts family came from England, settling in New York, but removed to Essex County, Va., before 1700; the Grays came from Scotland to Virginia; and the Caldwells came from Scotland to North Carolina, and were well represented in the Revolution. Mr. Pitts attended the common schools in Uniontown; was prepared for college by Henry Tutwiler at Green Springs; entered Davidson college, N. C., in 1868, and was graduated there in 1872. He was admitted to the bar at Uniontown in 1879; practiced there until 1893, when he removed to Selma; in 1875 was appointed tax assessor for Perry County; represented Perry County in the legislature of 1888-89; in 1906 was elected to the legislature from Dallas County; was re-elected in 1910; and December 20, 1913, was appointed U. S. attorney for the southern district of Alabama. He is a Democrat, served as county chairman during the Jones-Kolb gubernatorial campaign; is a Presbyterian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: February 24, 1886, at Eutaw, Greene County, to Juliet Merriwether, daughter of John Samuel and Alice (Coleman) Merriwether. Residence: Selma.

PITTS, JOHN W., farmer, was born August 5, 1836, in Dallas County; son of Noel and Clara (Dunn) Pitts, the former a native of North Carolina, a farmer who came to Dallas County in 1833, and died in Selma in 1874. He was reared on the farm, educated at Summerfield, and followed the profession of civil engineer for five years. In August, 1861, he enlisted in Co. I, Eighteenth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, but as he was colonel of State militia at that time, he was ordered to return to his command. In March, 1862, he organized Co. K, Thirty-first Alabama infantry regiment, and became its captain, serving until December, 1862, when he met with an accident, resigned and returned home. The next year, he organized Co. C, Sixty-second Alabama infantry; and served as its captain until January, 1864, when he was elected major. He participated in the battles of Spanish Fort, Tazewell, and Murfreesboro; was taken prisoner in April, 1865, and held at Ship Island until the end of the war. After the war, he engaged in farming. He represented Shelby County in the State legislature, 1878-1879; is a Populist; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1859, to Calvinia Condon, who died April 19, 1865, daughter of Calvin and Louisa (Singleton) Condon; (2) April 2, 1867, to Carrie H. Pitts, who died August 19, 1880, daughter of Miles G. and Mary F. (Adams) Pitts; (3) September 10, 1882, to Mary L. Creswell, who died December 31, 1890, daughter of Samuel and Louisa (Walton) Creswell. Children, by first marriage: 1. Lulu, m. W. H. Kidd; 2. John Singleton, elected tax assessor of Shelby County in 1896, and again in 1900, m. Ada McGraw, daughter of Dr. A. E. and Lucy (Fluker) McGraw; 3. Claude; by second marriage: 4. Peyton T.; 5. Giles; 6. E. D.; 7. deceased; by third marriage: 8. Walter C.; 9. Zemula W.; 10. Clara L. Residence: Shelby County.

PITTS, PHILLIP HENRY, lawyer and probate judge of Dallas County, was born January 27, 1849, at Uniontown, and died July 20, 1918, at Selma; son of Phillip Henry and Margaret (Davidson) Pitts, the former a native of Midway, Va., and a planter who early in life removed to Uniontown; grandson of Thomas Daniel and Mary (Grey) Pitts, natives of Virginia, the former a captain in the 6th Virginia volunteer regiment, War of 1812-14, and of Col. John H. and Martha (Caldwell) Davidson, natives of North Carolina, who early located in Uniontown; great-grandson of Henry Pitts and John Davidson, the latter a soldier in the Revolutionary War from Virginia; great-great-grandson of David Pitts who removed from New York to Virginia before 1735, and a descendant of Rev. David Caldwell of Alamance, N. C., for whose head the British offered a large reward, because of his allegiance to the revolutionary principles. Judge Pitts received his early education in the schools of Uniontown and at Green Springs academy under Dr. Henry Tutwiler; at the University of Alabama, 1863-1864; and at Davidson college, N. C., from which he graduated A. B., 1871. For one year he taught school in Uniontown, and took up the study of law, under Col. J. W. Bush; was admitted to the bar, 1874, by the circuit court, Marion, Perry County. In 1875 he formed a partnership with his preceptor, Col. Bush, and practiced at Uniontown until 1878 when he was appointed solicitor for Perry County, elected by the legislature in 1880 as solicitor for the 4th district, and was re-elected in 1886, thus holding the position fourteen years; removed to Selma in 1889 where he became the junior of the firm of Dawson and Pitts, 1891-93. Later he formed a partnership under the title of Pitts and Pitts; member house of representatives from Dallas County, 1896-97; member constitutional convention, 1901, and chairman of the committee on representation in that body. He was appointed probate judge of Dallas County, by Gov. W. D. Jelks in 1901, and by successive re-election filled the position until his death. Judge Pitts left the University of Alabama in March, 1864, with Capt. Shockley's company of cadets. Later he joined the 9th Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army. He was a Democrat; Presbyterian; and Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) September 17, 1872, in Lincoln County, N. C., to Amanda Hope, daughter of Dr. William Bain and Catherine (Hope) McLean, and granddaughter of Dr. William McLean, who was a surgeon in the war of the Revolution; (2) October 16, 1889, in Selma, to Marie Louise, daughter of Judge William M. and Maria (Massey) Byrd (q. v.). Children: 1. William McLean, married Eleanor Kirvin; no children; 2. Kittie Mims, unmarried, Selma; 3. Maud Dickon, unmarried; 4. Arthur Morrison, m. Grace Lee Fitzpatrick, Selma; 5. Robert McLean, unmarried, Stanley, Lincoln County, N. C.; 6. Janie Caldwell, d. in infancy; 7. Phillip Henry, jr., d. in infancy. Last residence: Selma.

DR. JAMES B. WHITFIELD

PITTS, SAMUEL R., merchant, planter, was born May 20, 1847, in Stewart County, Ga.; son of Richard M. and Maria (Calhoun) Pitts, the former a native of Sumter District, S. C., born in 1805, who was married in Macon, Ga., moved to Stewart County, Ga., in 1837, and lived there until 1842 when he moved with his family to Russell County, near Seale; grandson of John Pitts, born in the northern part of the United States, a sailor, who during a voyage to England married a Miss Ingram, an Englishwoman, returned to the United States and settled in Charleston, S. C., later moving to Sumter District, S. C., and then to Washington County, Ga., and grandson of John Calhoun, a relative of John C. Calhoun. Mr. Pitts enlisted in the Columbus Guards in April, 1861, as a private soldier. At the end of his first year's enlistment, he was elected first lieutenant of Co. C, Second Georgia volunteer regiment, and served through the war in that capacity, surrendering with Gen. Lee at Appomattox. He was in the seven days' fight around Richmond, at the second battle of Manassas, at Fredericksburg, Sharpsburg, South Mountain, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, where he was badly wounded, and in the trenches around Richmond and Petersburg. After the war, he became a planter. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Master Mason. Married: January 15, 1874, in Russell County, to Emma Anderson, daughter of Thomas Anderson, of Edgefield, S. C. Residence: Pittsboro.

PITTS, WILLIAM LEE, planter, was born December 7, 1849, in Perry County; son of David William and Eliza Violet (Campbell) Pitts, the former who was a native of Essex County, Virginia; became a planter at Uniontown, served in the C. S. Army as lieutenant, and was killed at the first battle of Manassas; grandson of Thomas Daniel and Mary (Gray) Pitts, the former who was of English descent, and served in the War of 1812, and the latter who was of English descent, and of William and Eliza (McLean) Campbell, the former who was a Scotch emigrant to South Carolina, but afterwards removed to North Carolina; and a cousin of Alexander Davidson Pitts (q. v.). Mr. Pitts received his education in the common schools about Uniontown; at Prof. Tutwiler's school at Green Springs; at Andrews military college, Statesville, N. C.; and at Davidson college, N. C. He was deputy collector of internal revenue during Cleveland's first administration; appointed U. S. internal revenue agent in Cleveland's second term; continued in office during the first administration of President McKinley, and then resigned. He is a Democrat; has been a member of the county democratic committee for several years; is a Presbyterian; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; and a Knight of Honor. Married: November 14, 1871, at Selma, to Mattie Llewellyn, daughter of Dr. Llewellyn and Polly Ann (Horne) Blevins. Children: 1. William Llewellyn, lawyer, probate judge of Perry County, 1915, was captain of Co. M, Second Alabama volunteer infantry, U. S. volunteers, in Spanish-American War, d. February 7, 1917, m. Mattie Lea Harwood; 2. David Samuel, deceased; 3. Eliza Leonard, m. Allen Lewis Morgan. Residence: Uniontown.

PLANCK, DAVID ANDREW, Presbyterian minister, was born April 5, 1846, in Fleming County, Ky.; son of Isaac and Nancy (Howe) Planck, the former a Kentuckian, and a farmer, the latter a South Carolinian; grandson of Andrew and Charlotte Planck, and of David J. and Sarah Howe, all of Fleming County, Ky. He was educated in the schools of his native county, and is a graduate of Central college, now Central university, Louisville, Ky., 1869, and of Princeton theological seminary, 1873; received the honorary degree of D. D. from Southwestern Presbyterian university, Clarks-ville, Tenn. Dr. Planck entered the ministry, 1873, at Port Gibson, Miss., where he remained sixteen years. In 1899 he accepted a call from the Jackson street Presbyterian church, Mobile. For several years he was an instructor in the Chamberlain Hunt college. Author: "Bible course of study," 1885. Married: January 5, 1875, at Port Gibson, to Blanche, daughter of M. O. and Enfield (Johnson) Hopkins, of that place. Children: 1. Mary Enfield; 2. Nan Wharton; 3. Ernest, m. Julia Lake, Mobile; 4. Blanche, m. D. H. Edington; 5. Susan. Residence: Mobile.

PLATTENBURG, WESLEY, planter, was born April 13, 1803, in Anne Arundel County, Md., and removed at the age of two with his parents to Brooke County, Va. He located in Selma, in 1829, engaging in the business of merchant tailor, later, when he came into possession of a fine estate, he became interested in planting. After some years he moved to Giles County, Tenn.

PLEASANTS, JAMES JAY, secretary of state, was born September 2, 1797, in Virginia, and died at Huntsville; son of Tarleton and Anna (Woodson) Pleasants, the former a planter, living near Richmond, Va., the latter a descendant of John Woodson, Dorsetshire, England. His ancestor, John Pleasants, born in 1645, in Norwich, England, founder of the family of Pleasants, and a member of the Society of Friends, who emigrated to Virginia in 1665, settled in Henrico County in 1668, married Jane, the widow of Samuel Forester, and died in 1698. Members of the Pleasants family of Virginia married with Randolphs, Cairys, Foresters, and other distinguished families of Virginia. Mr. Pleasants obtained his education in Richmond, Va., and in a printing office in Charlottesville, Va. He was a member of the cotton firm of Martin, Pleasants Company, and spent much of his time in New Orleans, La., where the firm was located. He was a Whig and a member of the new school of Presbyterians. Married: at Belle Mina, the family homestead, to Emily Julia Bibb, daughter of Gov. Thomas and Pamela (Thompson) Bibb, (q. v.). Children: 1. Thomas Bibb, d. in young manhood; 2. Julia, m. Judge David Creswell, Shreveport, La., both deceased; 3. Adaline Bradley, d. in young womanhood; 4. James Jay, d. August 3, 1898, in Huntsville, m. Laura Kathleen Robinson, Memphis, Tenn.; 5. Emily Bibb, d. in Memphis, Tenn., m. (1) William Keenan Hill, deceased, (2) Col. Creswell; 6. Samuel, deceased, m. (1) Mary Walter Robinson, deceased, (2) Mary Shelby, Huntsville; 7. Florence, m. Stith Green, Jackson, Miss., both deceased; 8. Robert St. George, d. unmarried. Last residence: Huntsville.

PLEASANTS, SHELBY S., lawyer and assistant U. S. district attorney, was born May 2, 1872, at Huntsville, where he died, June 20, 1916; son of Samuel and Marie (Shelby) Pleasants, the former a merchant of Huntsville; grandson of James and Emily (Bibb) Pleasants (q. v.), and of David and Mary (Bouldin) Shelby, the former a native of Tennessee, but who early in life removed to Madison County, where he lived and died. Judge David D. Shelby (q. v.) was his uncle. Mr. Pleasants was educated under private teachers, in the common schools of Huntsville, and in the school of Prof. Charles O. Shepherd. He read law in the office of his uncle, Judge Shelby, was admitted to practice in the trial courts August, 1891, admitted to the supreme court January 28, 1895, and admitted to the U. S. supreme court, November 1, 1899. In 1897, he was appointed assistant U. S. attorney for the northern district of Alabama, but resigned in September, 1900, and returned to the practice. In May 1911, he was elected city attorney of Huntsville but declined the office. He was for some years a private soldier, a member of the Huntsville company of the Alabama national guard, 3rd infantry regiment, and on September 5, 1894, he was promoted lieutenant, a position he held for three years. He was a Republican; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias, an Odd Fellow, and an Elk. Unmarried. Last residence: Huntsville.

PLOWMAN, A. W., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Talladega County; father of Hon. T. S. Plowman (q. v.).

PLOWMAN, GEORGE PARIS, merchant, farmer, member constitutional convention of 1867, was born July 8, 1808, in Buncombe County, N. C., deceased; son of Jacob and Jane (Paris) Plowman, the former of England, the latter of North Carolina, who lived in North Carolina until 1812, when they moved to McMinnville, Tenn. He was educated at McMinnville, Tenn., under the direction of Charles P. Samuels, and became a merchant at that place until 1829, when, because of weak lungs, he learned the tanner's trade. He was a captain of volunteers in the Creek Indian war, and was a major of Alabama militia, prior to the War of Secession. He was mayor of Talladega in 1864 and 1865; was elected to the State legislature from Talladega County, in 1865 and 1866; and served as probate judge of Talladega County for two terms. Politically, he was an old line Whig, acting at all times with the party of Henry Clay as long as it existed. An unconditional Union man, he voted against secession, and opposed every measure of the War of Secession. After the war, he was a Republican. Married: August 12, 1835, at Talladega, to Agatha Tennessee Scales, daughter of Nicholas and Elizabeth (Parkins) Scales, who lived at Franklin, Tenn., and moved to Talladega in 1835. Among his children are Hon. Thomas S. Plowman, of Talladega, and George Harden Plowman, who was graduated from Harvard university, LL. B., 1872, a lawyer at Dallas, Tex., who married (1) Laura Worth McClellan of Talladega, and (2) Estelle Hunt of Riesel, Tex. Last residence: Talladega.

PLOWMAN, THOMAS SCALES, business man, was born June 8, 1848, at Talladega, Talladega County; son of George Paris and Agatha Tennessee (Scales) Plowman, the former who was a native of Buncombe County, resided in McMinnville, Tenn., removed to Talladega in 1833, was mayor of that place, a member of the legislature and probate judge of Talladega County; grandson of Jacob and Jane (Paris) Plowman, natives of England who emigrated to this country and settled in Buncombe County, N. C., and of Rev. Nicholas and Leah (Perkins) Scales, of Franklin, Tennessee. Mr. Plowman was educated in the common schools and in the Talladega Baptist college. On the outbreak of the War of Secession he enlisted in Co. F, Fifty-first Alabama mounted infantry, commanded by Col. John Tyler Morgan, and was wounded in the battle at Atlanta. He was mayor of Talladega, 1872, 1879; was a member of the fifty-fifth congress, 1897-99, from the fourth congressional district; was a member and chairman of the Talladega County jury commission, 1910-11; and served as a State senator in the legislature of 1912. He is a Democrat, has served as chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Talladega County for several terms, and as chairman of the executive committee of the seventh judicial circuit; is a Methodist; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; an Elk; and a Knight of Honor. Married: October 4, 1877, at Lincoln, to Annie Montgomery, daughter of James M. and Olivia (McClellan) Montgomery; and granddaughter of Gen. William B. McClellan, graduate of West Point, a brigadier-general of militia, and a colonel in the C. S. Army. Children: 1. Claude Montgomery, m. Anna Moody; 2. Thomas Scales, jr.; 3. Olive, m. T. Weir Labatt. Residence: Talladega.

PLUNKETT, J. T., Presbyterian minister; member of the North Alabama presbytery. Deceased. Last residence: Birmingham.

POE, WILLIAM T., major of the 8th, also called 9th, Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

POELLNITZ, CHARLES AUGUSTUS, lawyer, was born in 1807 on his father's plantation in Marlboro District, S. C., and died at Linden, Marengo County; son of Gen. Julius and Eliza (Rogers) Poellnitz; grandson of Baron Von Poellnitz (q. v.). He received his preparatory education in private classical schools, and graduated in 1828 at South Carolina college under the presidency of Dr. Thomas Cooper; was annual orator of the Euphradian society; read law in a private office and was admitted to the bar about 1832; practiced in Pee Dee circuit until 1836, when he removed to Linden and became head of the firm of Poellnitz and Brooks; retired to devote his entire time to his cotton plantations; and elected major general of militia in 1840. He was a Calhoun Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: Mary, daughter of Nicholas Peay of Fairfield District, S. C., a man of large wealth in cotton plantations and negroes. Children: 1. Euphradia, m. George D. Johnston (q. v.); 2. Elizabeth, m. Dr. T. J. DeYampert, of which union there was one son and one daughter; 3. Ellen, m. William A. Gunter (q. v.); 4. Charles Augustus, m. Mary Withers, of Hale County, of which union there were children; 5. John D. B.; 6. Julia, m. (1) — Keble of Selma, (2) — Sewell; 7. Eric; 8. Caroline; 9. Ida; 10. Stella, m. Capt. R. A. Hardie (q. v.). Last residence: Marengo County.

POELLNITZ, FREDERIC CHARLES HANS BRUNO VON, planter, son of Baron Wilhelm Christian Gottlieb Von Poellnitz, was of noble Prussian family, whose lineage dates from 1238. He was a great favorite of and had many honors conferred upon him by Frederick the Great. He removed to Marengo County with a French colony of Napoleon's adherents about 1818. Married: in France to Mlle. DeBondelle. Children: 1. Wilhelmina; 2. Charles; 3. Alex; 4. Julius.

POINTER, MARCELLUS, lieutenant colonel, 12th Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

POLLARD, CHARLES T., planter and captain, C. S. Army, was born May 29, 1842, in Montgomery and died in that city; son of Charles T. and Emily Virginia (Scott) Pollard, the former a native of Fredericksburg, Va., a prominent railroad contractor, who built a number of important lines, including the Atlanta and West Point, the road from Montgomery to Selma, the Alabama and Florida line, and was president of the companies that managed these roads for years, the latter was a daughter of John B. Scott, a native of Virginia who built the State house at Milledgeville, Ga., and in whose honor Scottsboro, Ga., is named, later a citizen of Montgomery, and donor of the site on which St. John's Episcopal church stands, and also of Scott's free burying ground, Oakwood cemetery; brother of Joseph Pollard, a student in the University of Virginia at the beginning of the War of Secession, who enlisted as a private in the Montgomery Blues, was made a lieutenant of Semple's battery, and died of wounds received at the battle of Murfreesboro; brother of John S. Pollard, who enlisted at the age of sixteen years in the 7th Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army, and served until the end of the war, and who at the time of his death in 1873, was auditor of the Mobile and Montgomery railroad; brother-in-law of Dr. Paul C. Lee, who held the rank of surgeon in the Confederate Army, and cousin to James Boswell, who served as a major of engineers on the staff of Gen. Stonewall Jackson, and was killed at the battle of Chancellorsville. Captain Pollard attended the University of Virginia and was a classmate of Senator John W. Daniel, of Virginia. Returning home in June, 1861, he enlisted as a private in Co. A, 3rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was on duty with this regiment about Norfolk, Va., from the summer of 1861, until the spring of 1862, when he fought in the battles of Seven Pines, and through the seven days' battles before Richmond, closing with the assault on Malvern Hill, July 1, where he was wounded, causing his absence from the front until he rejoined the regiment at Shepherdstown. Subsequently he served four months as a drill officer and when the 61st Alabama infantry regiment arrived in Virginia and was attached to General Rodes' old brigade, then under General Battle, he was appointed its adjutant. In April, 1864, he was transferred to the western army, and assigned to the staff of Brig. Gen. William W. Allen, as aide-de-camp, with the rank of captain; serving in this capacity through the campaigns of General Wheeler in Georgia, Tennessee and Carolinas, and was paroled with the army of Gen. J. E. Johnston. At the close of the war he returned to Montgomery, and for many years was actively engaged as a planter. He held the offices of sheriff, and tax assessor of the county. Married: in June 1867, to Rebecca Ann Marks. Children: 1. Virginia, m. Burwell Boykin, Mobile; 2. Dr. Charles T. (q. v.); 3. Rebecca, m. Erit Waeber, New York City. Last residence: Montgomery.

POLLARD, CHARLES TEED, jr., physician, was born September 9, 1872, in Dallas County; son of Charles Teed and Rebecca Ann (Marks) Pollard (q. v.). Dr. Pollard received his primary education in local schools and in 1885 entered Dr. F. L. Hall's preparatory school at Mitchell's Station, Va. In 1888 he was appointed to the United States naval academy, Annapolis, Md., but resigned with an honorable discharge in 1890. He entered the University of Virginia in 1892, graduating in medicine in 1894, and in 1895, passed the graduating examinations of Tulane university, entered the New Orleans charity hospital, graduating in 1897. During the fall of 1897 he was placed in charge of the yellow fever epidemic in Montgomery. In 1898 he was appointed major of the 5th Alabama volunteer infantry regiment, and was on active duty at Santiago, Cuba, during the Spanish-American War. He then entered the Alabama polytechnic institute graduating with the B. Sc. degree in 1901, and has practiced in Montgomery since that date, having also served as county physician. From February 1, 1918 to September 12, 1918, he was a member of the United States medical advisory board and on the latter date received a commission in the medical corps, United States army, with the rank of major. He was then made instructor of physical diagnosis and was also on the headquarters staff at Camp Greenleaf, Chickamauga Park, Ga. He is a member of the Montgomery City and County board of health. Married: October 1, 1907, to Juliet, daughter of George William and Jennie (Baldwin) Craik (q. v.). Children: 1. Jean Craik. Residence: Montgomery.

POLLARD, MRS. WILLIAM (WEBB), patriotic worker, was a native of Virginia. She gave much of her time and talents to the work in the Confederate hospitals and to the Ladies' memorial association, Montgomery. Married: William Pollard. Last residence: Montgomery.

POND, EBENEZER, an early citizen of Montgomery who removed to Coosa County.

POOL, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Perry County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on June 5, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20; sums received to date of publication of list, $50.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

POOL, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, resided in Russell County, June 1, 1840, with Matthew Pool.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

POOLE, FRANK ENGLISH, lawyer, was born April 14, 1875, in Choctaw County; son of Charles and Elizabeth (Maiben) Poole; grandson of Dr. R. and Christina (English) Maiben, of Finchburg. He was educated in the schools of Choctaw County, and spent two years at the Southern university, but did not graduate. Entered upon the practice of law at Thomasville in 1896; represented Clarke County in the legislature of 1900-01, and was re-elected in 1902. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. He is unmarried. Residence: Thomasville.

POOLE, ROBERT RANSOM, planter, was born February 9, 1853, near Uniontown, Perry County; son of Ransom R. and Susan (Ivey) Poole, the former who was a native of North Carolina; grandson of J. K. C. and Ridley (Ransom) Poole, both of Johnson County, N. C., the latter being a member of the Ransom family of that state. Mr. Poole attended the private schools; the Greene Springs academy; and the Howard college, but did not graduate. He was editor of the "Marengo Democrat," 1894-98; was a representative in the general assembly, 1898; in 1900 was elected commissioner of agriculture; and was re-elected in 1902; and has been chairman of the board of control of the Canebrake, agricultural school for a number of years. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Knight of Pythias; and an Elk. Married: December 10, 1874, to Corinne E. McRae, daughter of John and Josephine (Ravesies) McRae of Hale County. Residence: Faunsdale.

POPE, BENJAMIN F., grand master of the grand council, Masons, 1887-88.

POPE, BURWELL T., lawyer, circuit judge, was born January 7, 1813, in Oglethorpe County, Ga., and died May 8, 1868, in Gadsden; son of Wiley and Sarah (Davis) Pope, of English descent. He was educated at Athens, Ga.; read law under Judge Clayton; and was admitted to the bar in 1836. He went to Alabama the next year, and began the practice of law at Wetumpka; moved to Ashville in 1844, and practiced his profession at that place until he moved to Gadsden in 1867. He was elected to congress in 1865, over James Shield, but was refused his seat in that body. In 1867 he was appointed judge of the circuit court, and while on the bench in the courthouse at Jacksonville, in April, 1868, he was arrested by a lieutenant in the Federal army, and taken to jail for refusing, at the command of the officer, to place negroes on the juries. He was released within a few days, but being in feeble health, never recovered from the violence employed, and died soon after. Married: to Johanna T. Lester, who died in 1870, daughter of Joseph Lester of Wetumpka. Of the eight children born to that marriage, the following are living: 1. Benjamin F., taught school in the Ashville Academy, studied law, and became a law partner with his father, served as grand master of the grand council of Masons in 1888, and was elected solicitor of the city court of Gadsden, m. Sarah E. Germany, ten children; 2. Sarah Attalla, m. Richard Hammond, deceased; 3. Lula R., Birmingham. Last residence: Gadsden.

POPE, LEROY, lawyer, planter, Revolutionary soldier and pioneer settler, was born in 1765, in Westmoreland County, Va., and died

June 17, 1844, in Huntsville; son of John and Elizabeth (Mitchell) Pope. He received his education in his native state and in 1780, when fifteen years of age, he served in the Revolutionary Army and was in the siege and battle of Yorktown. In 1790, in company with a colony of friends, all in quest of new homes, he removed to Georgia, coming in 1809, to Alabama and settling in Madison County. He acquired the tract of land on which Huntsville is now built, and took an active interest in the establishment and growth of the town from its beginning to the day of his death. The name "Twickenham," first given to the site, proving unsatisfactory to a majority of the pioneer settlers, that of Huntsville was substituted, the honor going to John Hunt, the pioneer who first discovered the "Big Spring." Judge Pope was one of the five justices presiding over the first court held in Madison County, being the chief justice. A local historian has said: "Col. Pope was called upon to serve his people in varied capacities, and was the moving spirit and dominating influence of nearly all positive action in the life of the settlement." He was one of the promoters of the Indian Creek navigation company, and was among the founders of the first Episcopal church in Huntsville, which was organized June 15, 1830. He was a large slave owning planter. He was one of the commissioners named by the legislature of the Mississippi Territory, December 11, 1866, to open books at Huntsville for subscriptions to the capital stock of the first banking corporation organized in Alabama, then the eastern half of the Mississippi Territory, the "Planters and merchants bank of Huntsville," with an authorized capital of $500,000. Married: Judith, daughter of Cornelius and Jane (Dawson) Sale, of Amherst County, Va. Children: among the descendants of this union was Malinda, who married John Williams Walker, and became the mother of LeRoy Pope Walker (q. v.). Last residence: Huntsville.

POPWELL, WILLIAM LAFAYETTE, planter and legislator, was born January 20, 1868, near Clanton; son of Madison and Louanza Jane (Wilson) Popwell, both of Chilton County; grandson of Reuben and Sallie (Moore) Popwell, of Chilton County, and of William Harris and Louanza (Goodwin) Wilson, of Maplesville; great-grandson of John Wilson, a Revolutionary soldier from North Carolina. He was educated in the common schools of Chilton County. He is a farmer and a mill man, and represented Chilton County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Republican. Married: December 23, 1893, in Chilton County, to Katie Lee, daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Nancy (Mullins) Atkinson, the former of Chilton County, the latter of Talladega. Children: 1. Horace; 2. Myrtle; 3. Mary Lee. Residence: Clanton.

PORTER, BENJAMIN FANEUIL, lawyer, author and editor, was born in 1808, at Charleston, S. C., and died June 4, 1868, at Greenville; son of Benjamin Richardson and Eliza (Seabrook) Fickling Porter. The father was born of English parents in the Bermudas, escaped from the vigilance of an uncle who was his guardian, came to Charleston, S. C., as a stow-away, secured employment in a furniture store as bookkeeper and four years later, having married the proprietor's daughter, became owner of the business. The Porters are scattered over England, Ireland and Scotland. The American branch was originally descended from the De la Portes from Normandy, the name being finally anglicized to its present form. Mr. Porter received his early education in his native city, and at fourteen was placed by his father in a counting-house where he remained for more than a year. His next employment was in the office of Dr. Thomas Legare, where he began the study of the fundamentals of medicine, a science he later practiced professionally. Having occasion to visit the courts of the city on one occasion he heard the most eloquent orators of the period, Robert Y. Hayne and William Crafts, and at once he resolved to adopt the legal profession as his life's vocation. Arrangements were effected for his study of the law in the office of Mr. Crafts. In 1826 he was admitted to the bar, and located at Chester Court House, Chester District.

Two years later he removed to Claiborne, and for a while practiced medicine. Upon being admitted to the Alabama bar he gave up the former profession, and devoted himself to the law. He was elected to the legislature from Monroe County, 1832, 1833, and 1834; after removal to Tuscaloosa, was elected from that county to the legislature, 1837, 1838, 1839, and 1840; in 1832 he was elected judge of the court of Monroe County, and held that office until his removal to Tuscaloosa to accept the position of supreme court reporter to which he was elected in 1834, and while filling the latter place he brought out fifteen volumes of reports, nine of which were decisions handed down during his incumbency, and six during that of his predecessor, George N. Stewart. In 1840 while a member of the legislature, he was elected by that body judge of the tenth judicial circuit, but a few months later resigned, owing to the point being raised that he was ineligible because he had been a member of the legislature that created the office, and also because of his well known opposition to capital punishment, which he had several times attempted by bills, to have abolished in Alabama. He presided, however, one term in Mobile, which city was included in his circuit, and cleared the docket of several thousand cases, some of which had been pending for years. He also freed scores of miserable men and families who had been incarcerated in the jail without a hearing for a considerable period of time.

The legislative record of Mr. Porter was conspicuous. In 1837, when the State banks began to excite very considerable attention, a joint committee of both houses was raised of which Mr. Porter was chairman. From the figures of a carefully prepared statement, showing the proportion of circulation to specie, for five years, commencing with 1832, he disclosed the recklessness of bank management, which tended to arouse the legislature to a sense of danger. He thought, however, that the legislature went to the other extreme of error, with the haste and suddenness with which it put the State bank system into liquidation, thus causing the financial ruin of many of the State's best citizens. It was upon the passage of a bill in 1839, introduced and vigorously advocated by him, that Alabama abolished imprisonment for debt; he advocated the abolition of summary executions upon insufficient evidence of guilt; a penitentiary for criminals, a measure that resulted in the establishment of the Alabama penitentiary; he was also the advocate of education and introduced a bill, which was defeated, whereby a common fund for public education should be created by taxation; and he was the author of the law setting apart for the wife the home and necessary appurtenances for making a living.

In 1850 he returned to Charleston, S. C., to reside, having been tendered the editorship of the "Charleston News;" and he also opened a law office in that city. But within a year, not having realized all the hopes that induced him to change his residence, he moved to Georgia, but finally returned to Alabama and settled in DeKalb County where for some years he had owned a summer home. He here practiced law, and edited the "Will's Valley Post," conducted a farm, was County superintendent of education, and president of the Will's Valley railroad. In 1860 he removed to Greenville, where he spent the remaining years of his life. In politics he was a Whig, but owing to the many political revolutions through which he lived he did not always vote with his party. After the War of Secession he accepted the judgeship of the 12th judicial district at the hands of the Republicans, then in power, and shortly thereafter died. While opposed to secession he was an ardent State's Rights advocate, and was a leader among those who emphasized that principle in the debates of the thirties. During his residence in Tuscaloosa he was made a trustee of the University and introduced the resolution creating the professorship of law. He was later appointed to fill the place, but as it was without salary and the fees from applicants for the proposed lectures were not sufficient to maintain the position creditably, he resigned. He was also attorney for that institution. Author: besides his work as editor of fifteen volumes of supreme court reports, and his editorial writings for the several newspapers with which he was connected at various periods of his life, he was the author of, "Treatise on the offices of executors and administrators;" "Forms and entries for judges and clerks of the orphan's court;" "Translation of Heinneicus' elements of the institutes;" "Characteristics of Alabama;" "Memories of O'Neal's bench and bar of South Carolina;" articles in "Southern quarterly review," "Hunt's merchant's magazine," and other magazines. He made numerous translations which he adapted as a "Southern Ode." During the four years of the war he wrote many war songs and poems, among which were, "War Song of the partizan rangers," dedicated to Capt. John H. Morgan, "Carnage, revenge and famine," a war ode, "When parting from the friends we love;" "The race in Dixie," "Ye cavaliers of Dixie;" "Eulogy," to the Southern men who fell in defence of southern independence; and "The Confederate banner." He left an unfinished document which he had intended to be the reminiscences of his own life and the story of events and public men of his times. He was an Episcopalian; and a member of Odd Fellows. Married: in 1829, at Buckhamsville, Chester District, S. C., to Eliza Taylor, daughter of Capt. John and Adelaide (Adair) Kidd, of that place, the former a soldier of the war of 1812, who emigrated to Monroe county; great niece of Baron Adair, founder of Chesterville, S. C., named for his home in England. Baron Adair brought to America four sons who fought for independence in the Revolutionary War. Mrs. Porter's memory is sacred because of her services in the Confederate hospital at Greenville during the War of Secession. Children: 1. John Richardson, physician and planter, freshman at the University of Alabama, 1846, graduate Nashville medical college, surgeon Walthall's brigade, C. S. Army, and killed in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., m. Lucy Meriwether Howard, about 1856; 2. Rev. James Dellett, adjutant of Blount's battalion, contracted pneumonia at Shiloh while burying his dead comrades in arms, but recovered his health, practiced law, edited a newspaper, filled the office of county clerk, rector St. Thomas' church, Greenville, where he died, m. Ellen (Ferguson) Porter of Burlington, Vt.; 3. Benjamin F., jr., m. Mary Thomas, railroad official, Eureka, Calif.; 4. Laura E. M., m. Maj. Joseph R. Abrams, civil engineer, Greenville, who had among other children, Kate, who married Frank Persons, a druggist, but now deceased; she and her sons reside in Montgomery, which for years had been the family home; 5. Julia R., m. John Pratt, inventor of the first typewriter in the world, the original model of which is now in the British Museum; 6. Emma H., m. Capt. Harry Bedell of Clanton's cavalry, Galveston, Tex.; 7. Annie, m. Capt. John Anderson, of Tennessee; 8. R. Yeadon, mayor, fire adjuster, m. Etta Wilson of Greenville; 9. Ina Marie, m. (1) Capt. George L. Henry, (2) Albion Ockenden, (q. v.); 10. a child who died at five years of age. Last residence: Greenville.

PORTER, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, a resident of Dallas County; service and date of enrollment not given because of the loss of papers by the burning of the office of the War Department, 1801 and 1814; payment to date from September 5, 1808; annual allowance, $24, under which the sum of $177.17 received; transferred from Ire-dell County, N. C., from September 4, 1824; on April 30, 1816, to date from Jan. 22, 1816, rate increased to annual allowance of $48, under which the total sum of $733.82 received; and "on account of increased disability," rate increased, to date from May 4, 1831, to annual allowance of $96, under which the sum of $272.27 received to date of publication of list.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Dallas County, June 1, 1840, aged 80.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

WILLIAM H. STOCKHAM

PORTER, JOHN, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Cherokee County. *

PORTER, JOHN HENRY, farmer, was born January 25, 1841, at McDonough, Henry County, deceased; son of John and Sarah (McClane) Porter, who lived at McDonough, Henry County, Ga., and later at Stewartsville, where the former died, March 15, 1873. He was educated in the common schools of the county, and engaged in farming. He served in the C. S. Army as captain of Co. A, Fifty-ninth regiment of Alabama volunteers, army of northern Virginia, from May 12, 1862, to April 9, 1865. At the time of the surrender at Appomattox, he was in command of the Fifty-ninth Alabama regiment, as senior captain, all the regimental officers being wounded. He was appointed and commissioned colonel of militia forces of Coosa County, September 30, 1865; was elected to the State legislature, and served through the sessions of 1882-1883, 1896-1897, 1898-1899 and 1900-1901. He represented Coosa County in the Constitutional convention of 1901. He was an elector on the Weaver and Fields ticket for president in 1892; was the Republican candidate for secretary of state in 1900; and served as justice of the peace for twenty years. Before the War of Secession he was a Whig, and after that time a Republican. He was a steward in the Methodist church for thirty years. Married: October 25, 1860, at Stewartsville, to Frances A. Wood. Last residence: Iwana.

PORTER, MITCHELL ALBURTO, lawyer, was born August 17, 1859, at Elyton, Jefferson County, deceased; son of Mitchell Thomas and J. Catherine (Martin) Porter (q. v.). He received his early education at the old field schools at Elyton, and in the public schools at Birmingham; and was graduated from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1881. He returned to Birmingham and engaged in the practice of law with his father under the firm name of Porter & Porter. The partnership lasted until the fall of 1884, when his father was appointed probate judge of Jefferson County. Mr. Porter then became associated with Hewitt & Walker, in the firm of Hewitt, Walker & Porter. He was elected to the State legislature in 1888 and served one term. He is an Episcopalian. Married: December 21, 1886, at Tyler, Tex., to Hattie Earle, of that place. Last residence: Birmingham.

PORTER, MITCHELL THOMAS, lawyer, lieutenant colonel, C. S. Army, was born October 10, 1825, at Montevallo; son of Dr. Mitchell A. and Mary (Wade) Porter, natives of Virginia, the former who came to Alabama from east Tennessee and practiced medicine at Montevallo, Shelby County, until his death in 1826, the latter who moved with her infant son to Elyton, near which place her father lived on a farm. He received his early schooling in Elyton, and was graduated from the East Tennessee University at Knoxville, in 1848. He returned to Elyton and read law under Judge William S. Mudd; was admitted to the bar in 1850; and began the practice of law at Elyton. He took into partnership, Alberto Martin (q. v.), which association continued until the death of Mr. Martin in 1879, with the exception of the years of the War of Secession. On the outbreak of the war, Judge Porter organized Co. C, Twentieth Alabama infantry, and entered the C. S. Army as captain of that company in September, 1861. He was assigned to the Tennessee army and first saw service in Mobile. In 1862, his regiment was located in east Tennessee, and from there it was transferred to Kentucky, where he served under Gen. Kirby Smith. He served at the siege of Vicksburg and was at the surrender of that city in 1863, when he was paroled and afterward exchanged. He was nominated and elected State senator while he was with his command at Dalton, Ga., in 1863, and served one term. In the spring of 1864, when he had attained the rank of lieutenant colonel, he was forced by failing health to resign from the army, and returned to his home in Elyton. He moved to Birmingham in 1881, and continued his law practice in that city; was appointed judge of probate to fill an unexpired term of two years by Gov. O'Neal in 1884; was elected for a term of six years in 1886, and again in 1892. At the end of his fourteen years service on the bench, he declined re-election, and retired from active business. He was an Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: March 9, 1858, to J. Catherine Martin, who died in 1897, daughter of Col. John M. Martin of Jefferson County. Children: 1. Mrs. Sarah E. Hunley; 2. Mary C., m. J. P. Stiles; 3. Jennie, m. Mr. Ellis; 4. John M., a graduate of West Point; 5. Mitchell A. (q. v.); 6. William A., paying teller of the Alabama State Bank, who served for some time as clerk of the probate court; 7. Thomas W., deceased. Last residence: Birmingham.

PORTER, WILLIAM FRANKLIN, lawyer, was born August 1, 1877, at St. Stephens, Washington County; son of Benjamin Franklin and Mary E. (Shinn) Porter, who lived at St. Stephens, the former a native of Mobile, who was clerk of the circuit court for six years and probate judge for eighteen years, and served in the C. S. Army as a captain during the War of Secession; grandson of Thomas Shinn who lived in Washington County, and moved to Texas in 1886. He received his early education in the public schools of Washington County, and in the Mobile District high school at St. Stephens. He was graduated with honor from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1899, and was admitted to the bar at Mobile in July, 1899. He began the practice of law at St. Stephens, and continued his profession at that place until 1901, when he moved to Bessemer. He became city attorney of Bessemer in September, 1901; represented Washington County in the State legislature, 1900-1902, serving as a member of the congressional executive committee; is a Democrat; Methodist; Elk; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; and a Mason. Married: June 17, 1903, to Sallie P. Nicol, daughter of Capt. T. W. Nicol, of Mobile, who was a civil engineer for many years.

and was connected with the U. S. government engineering corps in Alabama. Residence: St. Stephens.

PORTIER, MICHAEL, Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese of Mobile, was born September 7, 1795, at Montbrison, France, and died May 14, 1859, in Mobile. His early education was obtained in the Seminary of Lyons, France, where he was ordained deacon. He then offered himself for the difficult and trying American mission and in company with Bishop Dubourg, sailed from Bordeaux. After a voyage of sixty-five days, he landed at Annapolis, Md., September 4, 1817. He spent nearly two months under the hospitable roof of the venerable Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, the last of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He then went to St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md., where he completed his theological studies. In this college he had for his preceptors Rev. John Du Bois, afterwards bishop of New York, and Rev. Simon Gabriel Brute, D. D., afterwards first bishop of Vincennes, Ind. He was ordained priest in June, 1818, at St. Louis, Mo., by Bishop Dubourg of New Orleans, and was at once appointed to work in the latter city. He realized the need of a high class college and established one on the Lancasterian system. He was made vicar-general of the diocese of Alabama, Florida, and Arkansas, being consecrated bishop of "Olona," i. p. i., in St. Louis cathedral, November 5, 1826, by Bishop Rosati. He immediately took charge of his extensive territories, and having need of more priests and teachers went to Europe and secured them. Some of these later became distinguished in the service of the church. Not only did he labor to supply the spiritual wants of his flock, but he also strove with zeal and success in the cause of education.

To his untiring efforts the Catholics of Alabama are indebted for the founding of Spring Hill college, the Academy of the Visitation, and also the schools of the Sacred Heart. Two presidents of Spring Hill college, Rev. Matthew Loras and Father John C. Bazin, were made bishops, the former of Dubuque, the latter of Vincennes. He built a convent and academy for the Nuns of the Visitation in 1832 at Summer-ville, and in 1835 began the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception, which was finished in 1850. He welcomed members of the Society of Jesus, founded orphan asylums, and introduced a colony of Sisters of Charity to conduct them. To him was due the introduction of the Brothers of Christian Instruction, and he also founded parish schools and a school for girls at St. Augustine, Fla. In 1849 he once more visited Europe, and was for some time previous to his death, senior bishop of the American hierarchy. Last residence: Mobile.

PORTIS, JOHN WESLEY, lawyer, colonel, C. S. Army, was born in 1818, in Nash County, N. C., deceased; son of Ira Portis, who went from North Carolina to Clarke County in 1818, and settled near Suggsville; grandson of John Portis, of Fishing Creek, Ransom's Bridge, Roanoke River, N. C.; great-grandson of George Portis, who came from Wales and settled on the Isle of Wight, Va., in 1760, and was buried in the old Petersburg cemetery. Mr. Portis was educated at the University of Virginia, and studied law in the office of Cooper & Parsons, at Claiborne. He was admitted to the bar; engaged in the practice of law and in planting at Suggsville; was elected to the State legislature from Clarke County as a mixed basis Democrat in 1843, and was re-elected in 1844. He was a trustee of the University of Alabama from 1844 to 1860. On the beginning of the War of Secession in 1861, he volunteered as a private in the C. S. Army, and was later elected a lieutenant in the Forty-second Alabama regiment. A year later, he was elected colonel of the Forty-second Alabama; led it at Corinth, where he was wounded; resigned soon afterwards and returned home. After the war, he resumed the practice of law at Suggsville; served for some time as postmaster at that place; and engaged in merchandising to some extent. He was a Democrat, a delegate to the national conventions at Cincinnati, Charleston, and Baltimore, and a Methodist. Married: to Rebecca Griffin, daughter of Richard Rivers. Children: 1. Richard Rivers, b. October 24, 1845, d. May 4, 1885, private in the C. S. Army, 1864-1865, lawyer and merchant at Suggsville, m. (1) Maimie Deas, (2) Mary Barnes; 2. Ira David, b. October 24, 1845, private in C. S. Army, 1864-1865, lawyer at Suggsville, m. Onie Mae Poole; 3. Ira Rivers, b. May 24, 1847, private in C. S. Army, was graduated, M. D., from Tulane university, physician and planter in Smith County, Tex., until 1899, private, U. S. Army, Philippine War, 1898; 4. Emma; 5. Ella; 6. Mary; 7. Lucy. Last residence: Suggsville.

POSEY, HEZEKIAH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 90, resided in Benton County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

POSEY, HIRAM MOUNGER, business man, was born November 20, 1842, near Old Wakefield, Washington County; son of Andrew Trail and Eliza Ann (Mounger) Posey, the former who was a native of Spartanburg district, S. C., but at an early age emigrated to Alabama; grandson of Hiram and Berthenia (Denley) Mounger, of Washington County. Mr. Posey received his early education in the common schools and academies of the state. He was elected tax assessor of Washington County, 1884, for a four year term; was elected to the legislature, 1888; was re-elected in 1902; and later engaged in planting and milling. He served in Co. I, Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment infantry, June 1862, and was wounded in the battle of Chickamauga, and at New Hope church, Ga., was elected but never commissioned lieutenant of his company after the battle of Atlanta. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Residence: Sunflower.

POSEY, SIDNEY CHERRY, lawyer, circuit judge, State senator, and member Secession convention, was born May 4, 1805, in Pendleton District, S. C., and died December 22, 1868, at Florence; son of Jesse N. and Eleanor (Brooks) Posey of South Carolina, who removed to Madison and later to Sumter County. He received his academic education in the common schools of the period in Madison County, and after teaching school in Tusculumbia, read law and was admitted to the bar in that town. In 1832 he removed to Florence where he remained until his death. He was elected to the Alabama legislature, 1835-36, and to the State senate in 1837-44-47. Before this time he had served as judge of the county court of Lauderdale for several years. In 1847 he was elected circuit judge which place he held until 1850. He was a member of the Secession convention, but being bitterly opposed to the withdrawal of the State from the union, refused to sign the ordinance. In 1861 he was again elected to the lower house of the legislature and in 1865 was appointed judge of the circuit court by Gov. Lewis E. Parsons, and served several months, but failed of election. As chairman of the ways and means committee of the Alabama legislature, 1861, he rendered invaluable service in helping to devise ways of raising means for the public defence. In 1826 he was licensed as a Methodist minister, and while never entering the itineracy, his Christian qualities added greatly to his usefulness to Alabama. Married: February, 1833, to Calista, daughter of Horatio and Eliza (Harris) De Prieste, of Campbell Court House, Va. Children: 1. John Coffee, a student at the University of Alabama, 1851, private 4th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and died August 12, 1861, from wounds received in the battle of Manassas; 2. Elizabeth Ellen, m.—Taylor; 3. Harriett Calista; 4. Mary L.; 5. Rachael A.; 6. Andrew Hutchings. Last residence: Florence.

POTTER, JOHN, member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Cherokee County.

POUNDS, LEWIS BARNETT, farmer and Missionary Baptist minister, was born November 2, 1859, at Oakmulgee, Perry County, son of Isham and Harriet Elisabeth (Barnett) Pounds, who lived at Oakmulgee. He attended the country schools and the high school academy at Centerville, and was occupied at various times in teaching in the country schools, preaching, farming and merchandising. He was postmaster of Clanton, 1897-1899. He is a Populist and a Missionary Baptist. Married: (1) at Oakmulgee, to Lenanna Lawrence; (2) at Clanton, to Lutie Riggins. Residence: Thorsby.

POWELL, ABNER RILEY, lawyer and legislator, was born December 12, 1875, at Andalusia; son of N. B. Powell and wife, who was a Miss Smith, natives of Georgia; grandson of John Smith, also of that state. He was educated in the common schools of his native town, and studied law at the University of Alabama. Before engaging in the practice of law he was a journalist, edited "Covington Times," 1895-97; with M. S. Carmichael established in 1897, the "Elba Clipper"; returned to Andalusia, 1904, where he now practices his profession. He represented Covington County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. He is unmarried. Residence: Andalusia.

POWELL, DEMPSEY MONROE, lawyer, was born March 16, 1863, near Snow Hill, Wilcox County; son of Dempsey Monroe and Mary Ann (Scott) Powell, the former who was a native of Butler County, served under Forrest and later in the Seventeenth Alabama regiment during the War of Secession. Mr. Powell was educated in the common schools of Butler County, the Collegiate institute and other schools at Greenville. In 1881 he began to work as clerk in the office of his uncle, J. S. Powell, at Greenville; studied law there; was admitted to the bar in 1886; became connected with the law firm of Powell, Hamilton & Steinhart, of Greenville, Powell, Hamilton & Middleton of Hayneville, Sentell, Hamilton & Powell of Luverne, and Powell and Albritton of Andalusia; was elected to the State senate in 1900; and again represented the seventeenth district in 1903. He is a Democrat and a deacon in the Baptist church. Married: March 5, 1889, to Eugenia Hinnant, daughter of H. H. Dudley and Elmira Hinnant of Russell County. Residence: Greenville.

POWELL, EZEKIEL A., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from the ninth district.

POWELL, EZEKIEL ABNER, merchant, lawyer, was born May 27, 1817, at Abbeville District, S. C., and died September 1, 1892; of Welsh descent, whose ancestors lived in South Carolina during the Revolutionary War. His parents came to Alabama during his boyhood, and settled in Fayette County, where he received six months schooling under his father. He worked on a farm in his early manhood, then went to Tuscaloosa County and was a merchant at Northport for several years. He studied law; was admitted to the bar; and entered a law partnership with James M. Van Hoose, in Tuscaloosa. From 1855 to 1867, he was almost continuously a member of one or the other branch of the State legislature, defeating Hon. Robert Jemison in 1865. He was an officer in the C. S. Army during the War of Secession; was ordained to the Methodist ministry during the last years of his life; and was author of a history entitled "Fifty Years of Alabama." He was a Democrat and a Mason. Married: (1) December 22, 1846, at Northport, to Malvina Lee, who died March 9, 1872, daughter of Isaac and Elizabeth (Prewitt) Lee, of that place, the former a descendant of one of three brothers who came to South Carolina from Ireland before the Revolutionary War, and who fought on the side of the colonies in that war, one of whom lost a leg at the battle of Cowpens, and another who was badly wounded under Gen. Greene at Guilford Court House; (2) August 27, 1873, to Mrs. Caroline Murray. Children: 1. Missouri Ann, d. October 1, 1892; 2. William James; 3. Reuben Lee, d. January 1, 1853; 4. Ezekiel Abner, Jr., d. August 17, 1883, in Sumter County; 5. Alice Amanda, d. November 3, 1862; 6. Susan Fletcher; 7. Sarah Elizabeth. Last residence: Northport.

POWELL, GEORGE, pioneer settler and historian of Blount County, was born in 1794, in Pendleton District, S. C., and died February 5, 1872, at his home on the Warrior River; son of James and Rebecca (Bynum) Powell; grandson of John and Alice (Brewer) Powell; great-grandson of John, sr. and Mary (Cromwell) Powell, of South Carolina, the latter being a relative of Oliver Cromwell. He was educated in the log-house schools of Pendleton District and continued his education by means of a local study-club that progressed through the subject of trigonometry; he read, and later studied, surveying and geology. He removed to Alabama in 1819, and acquired lands on Turkey Creek, Blount County. He rendered important service to the U. S. surveyors on their original survey of this region. He erected the first grist mill, on Turkey Creek, in all that region. In 1821, he began to teach, and moved his school about to suit the convenience of the settlers. He was appointed to survey Blount County, and was county surveyor for forty years. He piloted the first flat-boat down the Warrior River to Mobile. In 1838, he began the study of geology and his private explorations and discoveries of mineral deposits attracted the attention of State geologist Toumey, who in 1848 visited him and from that time co-operated with him in mineral surveys of Blount, Jefferson, Winston, Walker, Marion, Lawrence and Franklin Counties. In respect for his geological and educational work, in 1855, he was elected a life member of the Alabama historical society. In 1850, he was a member of the Order of the Sons of Temperance, and an ardent prohibitionist. He was a Whig; then a Democrat and States Rights man. Married: in 1812, to Elizabeth, daughter of Jonathan and Nancy (Kirksey) Davis, of Pendleton, S. C. Children: 1. Anthony Wayne; 2. Jonathan Winchester; 3. Christopher Columbus; 4. Mary, m. Jesse Hughes; 5. Nancy Kirksey, m. Julius Tidmore; 6. Rebecca Laura; 7. Lumina Rogers, m. Thomas Eubanks; 8. Alice, m. Tyler Dickerson; 9. Violanta Elizabeth, m. Wilson B. Clowdus, of Oneonta, Blount County. Last residence: Blount County.

POWELL, JAMES ROBERT, promoter and business man, was born December 7, 1814, in Brunswick County, Va., and died in 1883, on his plantation on the Yazoo River; son of Col. Addison Powell, of Virginia. He worked on a farm in Virginia for two years and came to Alabama in 1833. He had been well educated, and for a time assisted in the teachers' department of an academy in Lowndes County. Some time later his father joined him in Alabama, and together they conducted a hotel at Lowndesboro and at Montgomery. He moved to Wetumpka in 1836, and began his career as stage owner and mail contractor, which lasted for twenty-five years and was thick with stirring incidents. His contests with Robert Jemison of Tuscaloosa, John G. Winter of Montgomery, and others for the possession of stage routes and mail contracts, are among the fire-side stories of Alabama. His rate war with Mr. Jemison lasted until the rivals had practically ruined each other, when they came to terms, joined forces, and were known as Jemison, Powell, Ficklen & Company. Mr. Powell engaged in cotton planting; served for some time as sheriff of Coosa County; and in 1845 represented the county in the legislature. He was elected to the State senate in 1853, and was re-elected in 1855. On the expiration of his term in the senate, he moved to Montgomery. During the War of Secession he furnished an entire company with horses at his own expense, and gave liberally towards their equipment. He gathered a large quantity of ice from the Alabama River during the winter of 1863, when the ports were blocked and ice could not be obtained; refused to sell the ice although offered forty thousand dollars for it; and presented the whole supply to the Confederate government for use of the wounded. He purchased many acres of cotton land in Mississippi during the war, and entered into a contract with John C. Calhoun, grandson of the famous statesman, to operate his plantation. He offered wages to his negro employees, and as a result, his lands were quickly colonized and rapidly increased in value.

Mr. Powell went to Birmingham in 1871, shortly after the site of the town had been located, and as president of the Elyton Land Company, laid the foundation of a manufacturing city in the midst of the mineral resources of Jefferson County. Under his direction grants of land for parks were made by the land company to the city; to the railroads for yards and depots; and to the churches, for lots on which to build. He invited capital and labor to locate in Birmingham, and advertised the coal and iron resources of the surrounding country in every part of America and Europe. In 1874, the press association of the city of New York convened in Montgomery at his invitation, at the same time as the Alabama press association met, and the papers throughout the civilized world published the facts placed before those bodies by Mr. Powell, drawing much attention at once to the immense iron deposits in the country surrounding Birmingham. Mr. Powell retired from Birmingham to his plantation in 1874. Four years later he was invited to return to Birmingham to canvass for the mayoralty, and after a bitter campaign was defeated. He contested the election and was again defeated. He returned to his plantation on the Yazoo, and in the fall of 1883 met death from a pistol shot. Three sisters of Mr. Powell were married to Hon. Thomas D. Clarke, of Talladega to Hon. J. H. Weaver of Coosa County, and to Joseph Phelan. Last residence: a plantation on the Yazoo River.

POWELL, JOHN BOLLING, business man, was born August 31, 1862, at Greenville, Butler County; son of Jonathan Louis and Lucinda Elizabeth (Bolling) Powell, the former who served in the C. S. Army as private and then as lieutenant in a company commanded by Capt. T. J. Burnett, in the Seventeenth Alabama infantry regiment, and was a lawyer; grandson of William and Mary (Yeldell) Powell and of Samuel Jackson and Mary (Ewing) Bolling, all of Butler County. The Powells came from South Carolina, and the Bollings from Virginia. Mr. Powell received his early education in the common schools of Greenville; attended Howard college, 1878-79; and the University of Alabama, 1879-80. He studied law; was admitted to the bar in 1890; resided in Escambia County for a few months; was county solicitor of that county, 1890; and later removed to Butler County, where he formed a partnership with Hon. Jesse F. Stallings in Butler County; was county solicitor of Butler County, 1890-94; in 1894 retired from practice; entered the real estate business; and served as tax commissioner from 1907-13. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 21, 1881, at Greenville, to Virginia Laura Reid, daughter of Archibald and Elizabeth (Herbert) Reid. Residence: Greenville.

POWELL, JOHN R., lieutenant colonel, 10th Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

POWELL, LEVIN, merchant, postmaster, was born in 1794, in Loudon County, Va., and died in 1833. He was educated in Virginia and grew to manhood there. He served with Gen. Andrew Jackson during the War of 1812, and contracted rheumatism in camp, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. Shortly after the war, he went to Alabama and became a merchant at Huntsville in partnership with John M. Taylor and P. A. Foote. After a short time in that city, he moved to Tuscaloosa, and in 1822, was elected to the State senate from Tuscaloosa and one or two adjoining counties, and was retained in that body until his death, serving as president of the senate in 1828 and 1832. He was also postmaster and justice of the peace, and was very popular and influential with the people. For the last ten years of his life, in a majority of conflicts between citizens and neighbors throughout the county, the matters of difference were submitted to Mr. Powell. Married: to a sister of Hon. Washington Moody, who survived him and resided in Tuscaloosa County. Last residence: Tuscaloosa County.

POWELL, NORBORNE BERKELY, business man and legislator, was born November 30, 1849, at Chunnennuggee, Macon, now Bullock County; son of Richard Homes and Mary Anne (Blackmon) Powell, the former was a prominent lawyer of Union Springs, and was lieutenant colonel of the 3rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Norborne B. Powell, of Monticello, Ga., and of John P. and Mary Anne (Mobley) Blackburn. He was educated in the schools of Union Springs; is a merchant; was city clerk of Union Springs, 1881-86; was a member of the general assembly from Bullock County, 1888-89, 1890-91, 1903, and again in 1907. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. He is unmarried. Residence: Union Springs.

POWELL, PEYTON, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Madison County; lieutenant first Regular Virginia Line; enrolled on August 29, 1828, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1826; annual allowance, $320; sums received to date of publication of list, $2,720;

Lemuel Mead, agent.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840, aged 80.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

POWELL, RICHARD HOLMES, planter, lawyer and editor, was born November 2, 1821, at Monticello, Jasper County, Ga., and died in 1884, at Union Springs; son of Norborne Berkeley and Eliza (Holmes) Powell, the former a native of Amherst, Va., a soldier of the War of 1812, physician, representative in both branches of the Georgia legislature while living in Talbot County, removed to Alabama with his family in 1839; grandson of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Cowper) Powell, the former a member of the committee of safety in Amherst County, Va., 1775, soldier of the Revolution and present with Washington at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, and of Rev. Richard and Susannah (Johnstone) Holmes of Talbot County. The Powells were of Welsh origin. Richard Holmes Powell was given his early education in the Oldfield schools; in 1844 he entered Randolph-Macon college from which he graduated in 1843. He was president of the Franklin society. Prior to the War of Secession he was an extensive planter and slave owner, but after the end of that struggle he became a lawyer and an editor. In 1868 he was admitted to the bar in Union Springs. About this time he became proprietor and editor of the "Union Springs Herald." He was elected mayor of Union Springs in 1856 and re-elected a number of times. In 1860 he established the first bank in Union Springs. He represented this county in the legislature of 1882-83. He entered the Confederate Army as captain of the "Southern Rifles" which was mustered in the 3rd Alabama infantry regiment commanded by Col. Tennent Lomax; was promoted to major and later to lieutenant colonel of the regiment; was wounded at Malvern Hill and again at Spottsylvania. In 1868 he was president of the Alabama press association, and through his paper he vigorously fought the black menace of radicalism. He was a Methodist, and superintendent of the first Sunday school in Union Springs which was organized in his home; a delegate to the general conferences of 1870, 1874, and 1882. He was a Democrat; grand patriarch of the Alabama Sons of Temperance, grand worthy chief templar of the Independent Order of Good Templars; president State temperance alliance; chairman of the temperance committee during his membership in the Alabama legislature, and stumped the State at the age of twenty-one, with Gov. Henry W. Collier, for the cause of temperance. He is the author of a history of the 3rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, published in "Union Springs Herald," 1866-67; and was a regular contributor to the "Southern literary messenger" under the name of "Cottager." Married: in 1844, in Chunnennuggee, to Mary Ann, daughter of John Polk and Mary Ann (Mobley) Blackmon of Savannah. Children: 1. Virginia Eliza, m. Alex. H. Pickett; 2. Mary Carter; 3. Norborne Berkeley; 4. Homer Blackmon; 5. Nathaniel;

6. James Blackmon, m. Myra Hinson Brown. Last residence: Union Springs.

POWER, THEODORE DWIGHT, lawyer and legislator, was born March 20, 1862, in Cobb County, Ga.; son of George Abner and Winifred (Copeland) Power, the former a native of Laurens District, S. C., later residing in Franklin, Fulton and Cobb Counties, Ga.; grandson of Joseph and Isabella (Ballou) Power, who were married in Laurens District, S. C., in 1804, the latter being the cousin of President Garfield's mother; great-grandson of John Power, who was born and educated in Ireland, and who emigrated about 1760, with an uncle and settled in Maryland, married a Miss Woodall, served in the Revolutionary War, and was present at the surrender at Yorktown. Mr. Power was educated in the common schools of Fulton and Cobb Counties, Ga.; graduated, B. Ph., in 1886, from the University of Georgia; was admitted to the bar in 1889, at Marietta, Ga.; removed to Opelika, where he was a member of the city council from April, 1899, to April, 1901, and April, 1905 to 1907. He represented Lee County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; and Elk. Married: December 14, 1892, at West Point, Ga., to Fannie, daughter of George Ware and Nancy Poole (Ward) Houston, who resided in Harris County, Ga. Children: 1. Samuel Houston. Residence: Opelika.

POWERS, JAMES KNOX, teacher, president of the University of Alabama, and of Florence State normal college, was born August 15, 1851, near Oakland, Lauderdale County, and died August 15, 1913; son of Wm. and Rosanna (Reeder) Powers, the former a native of North Carolina who removed to Lauderdale County where he was tax assessor for several terms; grandson of Thomas and Jane Powers, who removed from North Carolina in 1820, and of Jacob and Sarah (Wesson) Reeder, all of whom were residing in Lauderdale County at the time of their deaths. The Powers family was of Scotch-Irish origin. He received his preparatory education in the neighborhood schools of his native county; in 1869 entered the Florence Wesleyan university where he remained two years as student and tutor; was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. M., 1873. His class record during his senior year there has never been equalled, averaging 99 1/5 in five subjects. His alma mater conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D., 1897. He was professor of mathematics, 1873-77, in the State normal college at Florence, successor of Florence Wesleyan university, which had passed out of existence immediately after the war for lack of patronage; in 1888 he became president of the school and held that position until 1897 when he was elected president of the University of Alabama. He resigned four years later, 1901. He then accepted a position with the B. F. Johnson publishing co., of Richmond, Va., and for ten years was the representative of that firm throughout the Southern States. His career as an educator had been so creditable that in 1911 he was invited to once more take the presidency of the State normal school at Florence. A remarkable growth of the institution followed his return to its head, and at the time of his death it was enjoying its greatest popularity. He was superintendent of education of Lauderdale County, 1885-86, by appointment, and declined re-appointment. He was a Democrat; a Methodist and delegate to the general conference, 1894 in Memphis, Tenn.; a Knight of Pythias and a Knight of Honor. He was one of the founders of the Alabama educational association, and held its several offices, including the presidency. He was the author of numerous educational papers and addresses. Married: January 31, 1879, in Nashville, Tenn., to Lou Adeline, daughter of Calvin Allegre and Elizabeth (Abernathy) Reynolds, who lived near Pulaski, Tenn. Children: 1. Reynolds James, B. S., University of Alabama, 1899, graduate of U. S. military academy, 1903; and assigned to 8th U. S. cavalry, second lieutenant, promoted to first lieutenant, 1911, and killed in the Philippines in the line of duty, February 12, 1912; 2. Lula Knox, A. B., University of Alabama, 1903, A. M., Columbia university, N. Y., 1910, assistant in mathematics State normal college; 3. Pearl Polk, graduate Tuscaloosa female college and Florence State normal college, m. Mr. Moody; 4. Elizabeth Lee, graduate State normal college; 5. Anne M., graduate State normal college; 6. James K., jr., Denver, Colo.; 7. Marshall Wilson, d. in infancy. Last residence: Florence.

POYAS, FRANCIS DeLEISSELINE, early Methodist preacher in Pickens County.

POYNOR, DIGGES, planter and lawyer, was born November 14, 1835, at Lawrenceville, Brunswick County, Va.; son of Digges and Eliza Caroline Clifton (Purdy) Poynor, the former a native of Caswell County, N. C., who later removed to Lawrenceville. He is descended from English and French Huguenot stock that emigrated to America before the Revolutionary War. His maternal grandfather was an Irishman who located first in North Carolina and later removed to Virginia. Digges Poynor, the second, received his early education from his older brother, D. T. Poynor, who for many years taught a preparatory school in Brunswick County; and in 1856 he entered the Virginia military institute from which he graduated July 4, 1860. The following year he became instructor in infantry and artillery tactics, with the rank of captain, at the University of Alabama, a position which he held until that institution was burned by Federal soldiers, April 6, 1865. He was solicitor of Greene County, 1873-77. He is a Democrat, and an Episcopalian. Married: March 7, 1872, at Pleasant Ridge, to Mary Eleanor, daughter of Henry G. and Sarah (Kennedy) Jones of that place; granddaughter of Thomas Kennedy of South Carolina, who later removed to Alabama, and the great-niece of Anne Kennedy, of South Carolina who threw a British soldier out of the house, and rode sixty miles alone on horseback to carry a dispatch to the American officer, probably Gen. Francis Marion. Children: 1. Henry Purdy; 2. Eliza Mary, m. Wm. T. Horton, Pleasant Ridge; 3. Wilmer Smith, Episcopal minister, resides Columbia, S. C., and a twin sister; 4. Sallie Clifton; 5. Mattie Virginia, m. Henry B. Summerville of Eutaw; 6. David Thomas, Mt. Hebron; 7. Julia Ann, professor of Latin at the Alabama girls technical institute and college; 8. Lelia Kate, Mt. Hebron; 9. Dudley Digges, resides at Tuscaloosa. Residence: Mt. Hebron.

LACEY EDMUNDSON

PRAIGG, JOHN GRANT, Presbyterian minister, was born June 27, 1837, at Louisville, Ky.; son of John Grant and Arabella Scott (Tod) Praigg, of Louisville, Ky., the former a native of Washington, Washington County, Pa., who engaged in the wholesale and retail hat, cap and fur business; grandson of James and Mary (Brice) Praigg, who lived at Washington, Pa., and of William and Margaret (Grant) Tod, who came from Scotland in 1801, and settled at Lexington, Ky., the former bringing with him, it is said, the first cotton spinning machinery that was established west of the Allegheny Mountains. He is of Scotch descent on both sides, his mother's grandfather on her mother's side, and one of the great-grandfathers of his father on his mother's side, both being named John Grant, and each living in the vicinity of Edinburgh. He received his early education in Louisville, Ky.; was graduated at Center college, Danville, Ky., A. B., 1857; received the honorary degree of A. M. from that institution in 1873, and of D. D. in 1893. He studied law under private instructors, and was licensed to practice at Harrodsburg, Ky., 1871. Later he turned his attention to the ministry, and was graduated from Union theological seminary, Virginia, B. D., 1879. He was ordained a minister in the Presbyterian church; has served several churches; was for seven years professor in Stillman institute; and for one year vice president and acting president of Daniel Baker college, Brownwood, Tex. He was elected superintendent of education of Pickens County, 1884-1885. During the War of Secession, he served throughout the war as a private in the C. S. Army, first under Gen. N. B. Forrest, and later under Gen. John H. Morgan. He is a Democrat, and has been stated clerk of the Tuscaloosa Presbytery for several years. Married: April 6, 1893, in Tuscaloosa, to Mesia Pleasants Lewis, daughter of Thomas Pleasants and Caroline Mary (Neal) Lewis, of Tuscaloosa; great-great-granddaughter of John Augustine Washington, brother of George Washington and great-granddaughter on her mother's side of Alice Page Skinner, of Prince William County, Va. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

PRATHER, JOHN S., major and later lieutenant colonel, 8th Confederate cavalry battalion, C. S. Army. Residence: Atlanta, Ga.

PRATHER, WILLIAM BUTLER, physician, was born September 25, 1846, at Green Hill, Stewart County, Ga., and died at Seale; son of William Clarke and Emily Carraway (Grimes)

Prather, the former born in Wilkes County but later lived in Harris and Stewart Counties, the latter of Muscogee County, Ga.; grandson of Richard and Jency (Jones) Prather, and of Josiah and (Carraway) Grimes; great-grandson of Joseph Prather of Maryland. The Prathers came to America from England in the seventeenth century. Dr. Prather was educated in the common schools of his county, and at the Atlanta medical college, graduating from the latter institution, 1874, but began the practice of medicine at Florence, Ga., three years before his graduation. He served as a private in the Warehouse Parish, Louisiana, reserve corps, C. S. Army, surrendering on May 26, 1865. He was a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: January 23, 1873, near Florence, Ga., to Martha Louise, daughter of Robert Christopher Columbus and Jemina (Moore) McGinty of Providence, Stewart County, Ga. Children: 1. Robert Clarke, m. Effie Howard, Girard; 2. Eva Butler, m. (1) Frank Manson Brannon, (2) I. S. Perkins; 3. Rosa, m. Robert F. Powell, Troy; 4. Martha, m. Samuel Franklin Rhodes; 5. John, physician. Last residence: Seale.

PRATT, A. M., physician, was born November, 1827, in York District, S. C.; son of John J. and Dorcas E. (Moore) Pratt, the former a native of Newberry, S. C., for twenty-one years probate judge of Union District, a planter, shoe and leather manufacturer and extensive slave owner who located in Cherokee County in 1851; grandson of John J. Pratt, a native of Salem, Mass., who removed to Fauquier County, Va., in 1780, and Newberry, S. C., 1790. His forefathers came to America in the "Mayflower" in 1620. He received his academic education in Unionville, S. C., where he was reared and graduated in medicine from the Colleges of Charleston, S. C., Jefferson, Philadelphia, Pa., and Stuyvesant university, N. Y. He entered upon the practice of his profession in his native state but removed to Carnesville, Ga. in 1853. In 1857 he located in Cherokee County, and in 1860 removed to Centre. He was appointed post surgeon in 1863 and held this position until the close of the war. He belonged to a gifted family, one of his sisters being distinguished in literature, his brother, John J., invented one of the first typewriters. He was a Mason. Married: in 1853, in Carnesville, Ga., to the daughter of Dr. Henry Freeman, a successful physician and member of the senate and house of the Georgia legislature. Last residence: Centre.

PRATT, DANIEL, sr., inventor, manufacturer and promoter, was born July 20, 1799, at Temple, N. H., and died May 13, 1873 at Prattville, Autauga County; son of Edward Pratt; grandson of Daniel and Asenath (Flint) Pratt of Reading, Mass.; and great-grandson of Ebenezer Flint of Welton, N. H. Mr. Pratt received a very limited elementary education, but through a wide experience became a man of culture. At the age of sixteen he was apprenticed to learn the trade of carpenter, served faithfully a period of five years, and in 1819 located in Savannah, Ga. He later removed to Milledgeville, and in 1831 located at Clinton, Ga., where he associated himself with Samuel Griswold in the manufacture of cotton gins. In 1833 he removed to Autauga County, where after a brief experience he founded Prattville which bears his name. The Pratt gin factory became during his administration the largest of its kind in the world. He continued to make improvements and showed such marked skill as an inventor, that no cotton gin has yet surpassed his in merit. This claim is vouched by its world-wide use wherever cotton is grown. He owned extensive tracts of mineral land in north Alabama, and was among that group of pioneers who developed the Birmingham district. He built the furnace at Oxmoor and the Pratt coal mines were opened by his son-in-law, Henry F. DeBardeleben, and was named in his honor. In 1847 the University of Alabama conferred upon him the degree of Master of mechanical and useful arts. He represented Autauga in the Alabama legislature during the whole period from 1861 to 1865. He was a Methodist, a Mason and a Democrat. Married: in 1827, Esther, daughter of — Tickner of Jones County, Ga. Children: 1. Mary, d. in infancy; 2. Ellen, m. Henry F. DeBardeleben, of Birmingham; 3. Maria, d. in infancy. Last residence: Prattville.

PRATT, DANIEL, jr., manufacturer and banker, was born February 12, 1866, at Prattville, Autauga County; son of Merrill Edward and Julia Adelaide (Smith) Pratt (q. v.). He attended the common schools of his native town, and graduated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1885. He entered the business of cotton-gin manufacturing in 1885; was elected treasurer of the Prattville cotton mill, in 1887; also the owner of the Northington-Munger-Pratt company of Birmingham, became manager of the Continental gin company at Prattville, 1900; was elected president Autauga banking and trust company, some years later; was member city council of Prattville for a number of years; was elected a member of the board of trustees of the University of Alabama in 1896, and he has served continuously since. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 2, 1887, at Prattville, to Ellen, daughter of Leonard and Sallie (Graham) Sims of that place. Children: 1. Merrill Edward, m. Florence Marks, daughter of Samuel B. and Clara Lee (Jewett) Marks, of Montgomery; 2. Leonard Sims; 3. Dora Ellen; 4. Julia; 5. Jennie Allyn. Residence: Prattville.

PRATT, HARRY SOUTHWORTH, professor of English literature, at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1837-40. He held the degree of A. M.

PRATT, JACKSON MCPHERSON, teacher and legislator, was born February 16, 1881, at Palmetto, Pickens County; son of James Madison and Jane Lee Dorcas (Valentine) Pratt, the former served nine months in the C. S. Army and resided in Pickens County; grandson of James and Elizabeth (Brooks) Pratt, of Newberry, S. C., and of Joel Kennedy and Hester (McPherson) Valentine, of Anderson District, S. C., the former served as a bugler in Co. G, General Martin's brigade, C. S. Army, and after the cessation of hostilities was a teacher in Vann's Valley academy, Rome, Ga. He was educated in the schools of Pickens County; and graduated 1905, from the Florence normal school. He has taught school at Reform and Carrollton. He established the Pratt library at the Carrollton academy, in 1906; began the agitation for local taxation in Pickens County, which was successful in 1905, and was leader of the movement for better school houses in that county. He represented Pickens County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; Mason; Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Unmarried. Residence: Reform.

PRATT, JOHN WOOD, professor of English literature at the University of Alabama, 1850-55; of logic, rhetoric and oratory, 1855-65. He held the degree of A. M.

PRATT, MERRILL EDWARD, manufacturer, was born February 23, 1828, at Temple, Hillsboro County, N. H., and died at Prattville, November 23, 1889; son of Edward and Dorcas (Pevey) Pratt of Temple; grandson of Edward and Asenath (Flint) Pratt of Temple, and of Peter and Lucy (Cummings) Pevey of Andover, Mass., the former a Revolutionary soldier. Mr. Pratt received a common school education in his native town and in Prattville. He went to work in the gin business with his uncle, Daniel Pratt, with whom he was successfully associated for years, and whom he succeeded in the control of the business after the latter's death. He was mayor of Prattville, 1872-74; and a member of the legislature, 1888-89. He was 1st lieutenant, Co. K, 1st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, serving with that command until captured at Port Hudson, July, 1863; sent to New Orleans as a prisoner of war, and after three months transferred to Johnson's Island, Lake Erie, where he was confined until 1864. He was a Methodist, and a Mason. Married: November 2, 1862, at Prattville, to Julia Adelaide, daughter of Samuel Parrish and Adelaide Julia (Allyn) Smith who lived at that place; granddaughter of Richard and Julia (Phelps) Allyn; great-granddaughter of Samuel and Jerusha (Bissell) Allyn; great-great-granddaughter of Peletiah and Mary (Stoughton) Allyn; great-great-great granddaughter of Matthew and Elizabeth (Wolcott) Allyn; great-great-great granddaughter of Samuel and Abigail (Warham) Allyn, the former a captain in the Continental militia. All of these families were of English stock, early seated in Massachusetts and other New England states. Children: 1. Daniel (q. v.), m. Ellen Sims, Prattville; 2. Mary Vaughn, m. Judge Joseph Bennett Bell (q. v.), Prattville; 3. Edward Samuel, died in infancy; 4. Dora Adelaide, m. Walter Herbert Barnes, Prattville; 5. Julia Augusta, m. Judge Columbus Eugene Thomas (q. v.), Prattville; 6. Henry Merrill, m. Lilla Young Franklin, Memphis, Tenn.; 7. Merrill Eugene, died in infancy. Last residence: Prattville.

PREER, C., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Tallassee.

PRESTON, WILLIAM H., farmer, Baptist minister, and legislator, was born March 25, 1845, at High Falls, Monroe County, Ga.; son of William G. and Delania (Smith) Preston, the former of Monticello, Ga., was a soldier in the Indian Wars of 1836, also in the War of Secession; grandson of Archibald and Sarah Smith, of Indian Springs, Ga. He was educated in the common schools of his native county; served as a corporal in Co. A, Bartow's battalion, 1864-65; is a farmer; was postmaster, Lineville, 1881-92; census enumerator. He was a member of the house of representatives from Clay County, 1903 and 1911. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; and a Mason. Married: July 23, 1863, in Randolph County, to Lovie W., daughter of Thomas J. and Miranda Rollins, of Lineville. Residence: Lineville.

PRESTRIDGE, JOHN ELIJAH, physician, was born November 8, 1817, in Shelby County, and died at Selma, February 24, 1867. He graduated in medicine at New Orleans, La.; practiced medicine in Perry County until 1865, when he moved to Selma and entered the business world. He was a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: in Perry County, to Sarah, daughter of Rev. Abner Gary and Mary (Jones) McCraw. Children: 1. Francis McCraw; 2. Bettie, m. B. F. Bagley, Louisville; 3. John Newton (q. v.), m. Fannie Clardy, Louisville; 4. Kate, m. Dr. A. P. Van Der Veer; 5. Sadie. Last residence: Selma.

PRESTRIDGE, JOHN NEWTON, Baptist minister and editor, was born February 5, 1853, at Selma, and died October 29, 1913; son of Dr. John Elijah and Sarah (McCraw) Prestridge (q. v.). Dr. Prestridge received his early education in the public schools of Selma; was a student at Howard college, 1869-71; Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky.; and was a D. D. of Furman university, S. C., 1900; Georgetown college, Ky., 1900, and Bethel college, Ky., 1900. He was ordained a Baptist minister, served churches in Kentucky and Texas; was president of Williamsburg institute, Ky., 1894-98; founder 1898, and editor, 1898-1908, of the Baptist Argus; was one of the organizers of the Baptist world publishing company which purchased the Baptist Argus and began the Baptist World, May 1, 1908. He also suggested and promoted to success the Baptist world congress, London, July, 1905, and was chosen secretary for America. Author: The church a composite life; Modern Baptist heroes and martyrs. Married: May 17, 1887, to Fannie Clardy, daughter of Dr. J. D. and Ann (Bacon) Clardy, of Hopkinsville, Ky. No children. Last residence: Louisville, Ky.

PRESTWOOD, JAMES MORGAN, was born April 24, 1881, at Andalusia, Covington County; son of James Austin and Mary Elizabeth (Fletcher) Prestwood, both of Covington County; grandson of Thomas Francis and Margurite Prestwood, of Coffee County, the former who fought in the War of Secession, falling mortally wounded at Resaca, and of Andrew Jackson and Martha Fletcher, of Covington County; and great-grandson of John McIntosh, a native of Scotland. The Fletchers were originally from Virginia. Mr. Prestwood received his early education in the public and private schools of Andalusia; in 1901 was graduated from Howard college, A. B.; and received the degree of LL. B. at the University of Alabama in 1903. He has been practicing law in Andalusia since 1903; and served as senator from the seventeenth senatorial district in the 1919 session of the State legislature. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; and a Woodman of the World. Married: October 19, 1904, at Andalusia, to Ellie Jane Snead, of Scotch ancestry, the daughter of John Morgan and Sibbie Annie (Kennedy) Snead, of that place, the former who was a soldier in the C. S. Army, a member of Co. H, Fifty-seventh Alabama, Scott's Brigade, Loring's Division, Johnson's Corps. Children: 1. Sibbie Louise; 2. Mary Rosalind; 3. Roger Austin; 4. James Morgan; 5. Hugh Loring; 6. Ara Jean. Residence: Andalusia.

PRICE, CALEB, mayor of Mobile, 1868-69.

PRICE, EDWARD MARION, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1901; licensed to practice by the county board of Bibb, the same year. Residence: Birmingham.

PRICE, EDWIN ARMSTRONG, lawyer; graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree, 1880. Residence: Nashville, Tenn.

PRICE, GEORGE HUNTER, professor of diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, in the medical department of the Vanderbilt university; graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree, 1878; M. S., 1879; M. D., 1888. Residence: Nashville, Tenn.

PRICE, JAMES L., lawyer and business man, was born in Richmond, Va., and died December 14, 1867. He removed to Alabama about 1833 or 1834 and settled in Perry County, where he practiced his profession for several years. Afterwards he devoted his time to planting and works of internal improvement. He served in the State legislature of 1866 and was the first president of the Selma and Meridian railroad. Last residence: Perry County.

PRICE, THOMAS H., lawyer, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in 1829, died 1882; studied law at the Harvard law school; practiced law in Missouri until the War of Secession when he entered the C. S. Army, becoming major under the leadership of his distinguished uncle, Gen. Sterling Price, commander of the department of Arkansas. After the war, he removed to Mobile where he engaged in the practice of his profession and was a member of the house of representatives, 1875-76 and 1880-81. He died at the age of fifty-three. Last residence: Mobile.

PRICE, T. W., teacher, was born about 1808, in Virginia. He accompanied his father to Alabama, 1817, and made his home with James Magoffin, Magoffin's store, Clarke County. His father went on to Mobile and died there. Mr. Price clerked in the Magoffin's store until 1829, attending school at the same time. At the age of twenty-one, he began teaching at Grove Hill; attended the school taught by William C. Dickinson, at White Hall, Marengo County; taught near Linden for two years; spent the year, 1832, in travel through Virginia; returned to Linden where he taught for one year and the following year took charge of a new academy in connection with Richard Dickinson; farmed in Marengo County, 1835-40; took charge of the academy at Dayton, at the same time keeping the hotel, 1840-49; opened a new school in Creagh's neighborhood, 1849, and remained there until 1851; taught at Rehoboth, Wilcox County, 1851-61; was admitted to the bar, and also to practice in the supreme court, 1859; practiced alone, 1861-68, when he formed a partnership with R. C. Jones, of Camden, which continued until 1871; was appointed claim commissioner, August, 1864, by the Confederate congress; elected judge of the new court of Wilcox County, 1871, and continued in this office until its discontinuation, in December, 1873. He was married in 1835 while in Virginia and to this union children were born. Last residence: Rehoboth.

PRICE, WILLIAM JONES, minister and legislator, was born October 24, 1850, at Glennville, Barbour County; son of William Edward Price and wife, who was Mrs. Emma M. (Hunt) Wood, the former of Charleston, S. C., the latter of Augusta, Ga.; grandson of William E. and Eliza Ann Price of South Carolina, originally immigrants to America. He was educated in the common schools; entered the Methodist ministry, December, 1879, and is now in the superannuate relation. He was mayor of Girard, 1906-07; represented Russell County in the legislature of 1907; and was State senator, 1915. He is a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: Caroline Elizabeth, daughter of William and Harriet (Ray) Espy. Children: 1. William Edwina, m. Thomas Moore Hall; 2. Coleman Espy; 3. Emma Ray; 4. Hubert Dent; 5. Eloise; 6. Edward Barnett; 7. Wreford Stough. Residence: Girard.

PRIDDY, RICHARD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Morgan County; sergeant Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on June 4, 1818, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from May 13, 1818; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,228.90.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PRIDE, BURTON, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Morgan County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $60; sums received to date of publication of list, $150.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

PRIDE, JAMES HARVEY, lawyer, was born in Madison County, April 3, 1877; son of J. Willsey and Katherine (Mason) Pride; grandson of James Harvey and Amanda (Butler) Pride, and of John Lettles and Elizabeth (Rowe) Mason, the former who served in the C. S. Army and was killed by Federal soldiers in Lincoln County, Tenn., 1863; great-grandson of Willsey Pride and a Miss Gray, the former who was from Virginia, and of Griffen and Martha (Toney) Butler, and of William Rowe, who came from Louisa County, Va., to Madison County, and served in the War of 1812; and great-great-grandson of William Butler, who served in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Pride received his early education in the public and private schools of Madison County; attended the South Kentucky college at Hopkinsville, from which he was graduated, B. S., in June, 1898; and was graduated LL. B. from the University of Alabama, 1900. He was admitted to the bar; began practice at Huntsville, 1900; about a year later formed a partnership with Milton H. Lanier; was solicitor of Madison County, 1907-11; was city superintendent of public schools in Huntsville, 1903-07; and was State senator from the fourth district, 1915. He is a Democrat and a member of Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: December 30, 1908, in Huntsville, to Sallie LeRoy Betts, daughter of Judge Tancred and Maud Minor (Broun) Betts, the former who was a lawyer, for twenty years chairman of the State Democratic committee, solicitor of Madison County and first judge of the law and equity court of that county; granddaughter of Judge Edward Chambers and Virginia (Swoope) Betts, the former who was the first probate judge of Madison County and the first commissioner of agriculture of Alabama, and of Dr. William LeRoy and Sallie (Fleming) Broun, the former who was of Scotch and French descent, was an educator, and was for many years president of the Alabama polytechnic institute at Auburn, and the latter who was a Virginian and a direct descendant of George Washington, Robert E. Lee, Patrick Henry. Children: 1. Elizabeth Broun; 2. Carolynne Mason. Residence: Huntsville.

PRINCE, A. FULLER, merchant and captain C. S. Army, was born in 1845 in Tuscaloosa. He was educated at the University of Alabama, withdrawing in 1863, at the age of seventeen, to enlist in the Confederate Army, and was assigned to Co. F., 8th Alabama cavalry, under Col. Charles P. Ball. He was mustered in as a second lieutenant, and later promoted to first lieutenant and captain. In 1864 he took part in the engagement with Rouseau's raiders in northeast Alabama, and the attack upon Lafayette, Ga., under the command of General Pillow; was in the campaign from Rome, Ga., to Atlanta and Jonesboro, and subsequently served with the cavalry covering the rear of Hood's army during the march through Alabama. Later he was ordered to the Gulf region, where they combatted the Federal advance on Mobile in the spring of 1865. The last service of his regiment was fighting Wilson's raiders before Columbus and LaGrange, Ga., after which it was ordered to Gainesville, where it was paroled with the command of General Forrest. After the war he was a successful merchant in Tuscaloosa, and served several years as a member of the board of aldermen. Married: in 1866, to Sophia, daughter of Elijah Williford, a planter of Tuscaloosa County. Children: 1. Hugh. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

PRINCE, FRANCIS MARION, physician, was born June 6, 1827, at LaGrange, Franklin County, and died May 17, 1911, at Bessemer; son of Edmond and Elizabeth Toole (Lawrence) Prince, the former who was born near Hickford, Va., who came to Alabama in 1825, and was an extensive and wealthy planter at Tuscaloosa; grandson of Nicholas and Mary (Mitchell) Prince, who lived near Hickford, and of Josiah and Charity (Haywood) Lawrence, of Pitt County, N. C.; great-grandson of Col. William and Charity (Hare) Haywood, of Edgecombe County, N. C., the former who was colonel of the militia forces of Edgecombe County during the Revolutionary War, was a member of the council of safety for the Halifax District in 1775, a member of the provincial congress of North Carolina at Halifax, April, 1776, and again in November, 1776, and was a member of the committee in the latter body which drafted the state constitution and bill of rights, a member of the council of state in 1776, and one of the commissioners who signed the Revolutionary currency of North Carolina. Dr. Prince was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1846, and A. M., 1850; and from the Jefferson medical college, M. D., 1849. He practiced medicine in Dayton, Marengo County, for ten years; moved to Tuscaloosa and practiced there until 1861; organized a company at the beginning of the War of Secession and was elected captain, but before going into active service was commissioned surgeon by Jefferson Davis; travelled throughout the various encampments of the C. S. Army to inspect the hospitals; moved to Old Jonesboro, Jefferson County, after the war; and lived there until his death. He was a member and vice president of the State Medical Association of Alabama; a charter member of the Surgical and Gynecological Society; a member of the Tri-State Medical Society; organizer and president for many years of the Jefferson County Medical Society; and president of the Bessemer Medical Society; was a Democrat; chairman of the board of stewards of the Jonesboro Methodist Episcopal church; and a Mason. Married: January 29, 1850, in Jefferson County, to Martha Gaines Jordan, daughter of Mortimer and Lucy (Gray) Jordan, of Jefferson County. She was fifth in descent from Col. Robert Bolling, the first of the name of Bolling to settle in Virginia. He came from Bolling Hall, near Bradford, England, where many generations of his ancestors had lived, and settled in Virginia, in 1660. In 1675 he was married to Jane Rolfe, daughter of Capt. Thomas Rolfe, who was the son of John Rolfe and his wife, the Indian princess, Pocahontas. Children: 1. Francis Marion, jr., deceased, m. Mary Ray; 2. Mary Ella, m. John Wesley Beggs, Bessemer; 3. Martha Elizabeth, m. Alexander Monroe Robertson, Abilene, Tex.; 4. Arabella, deceased, m. Dr. Thomas Franklin Robinson, Bessemer; 5. Lella Wetona, m. Dr. Elisha Miller Robinson, Birmingham; 6. Sarah Jordan, deceased, m. Richard Henry Carter, Birmingham; 7. Eva Grace, m. Arthur Henry Brigham, Miami, Fla.; 8. Margaret, m. Charles Fairchild DeBardeleben, Birmingham; 9. Edmond Mortimer, m. Sarah Hillhouse, Birmingham. Last residence: Bessemer.

PRINCE, SYDNEY TROTTER, lawyer, was born May 20, 1847, at Bladon Springs, Choctaw County, and died January 7, 1910, at Mobile; son of Thomas McCarroll and Lucy Anthony (Trotter) Prince (q. v.). He attended the University of Alabama where he was a member of the cadet corps, and left the University early in 1865, to join the C. S. Army. With two other cadets, he organized a company of cavalry from military cadets, and was elected second lieutenant of the company. On account of the absence of the captain, he commanded the company under Gen. Forrest during Wilson's raid through Alabama, and until the end of the war, and received the rank of brevet mayor. For a number of years after the close of the war, he engaged in the mercantile business at Mount Sterling, and during that time studied law. He was admitted to the bar in Choctaw County, 1875; practiced at Butler, Choctaw County, until 1880; moved to Mobile and entered a partnership with Harry T. Toulmin and George W. Taylor, under the firm name of Toulmin, Taylor & Prince; and on the dissolution of the firm in 1887, continued his practice alone. He was lieutenant colonel and chief of staff under Maj. Gen. Whitney, Alabama state troops; represented Choctaw County in the State legislature; and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875. He was a Democrat, serving as a presidential elector on the Tilden ticket in 1876, and on the Cleveland ticket in 1884; was an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: May 20, 1873, at Livingston, to Helen Maria Rhodes, who died in April, 1887, daughter of James and Maria Edna (Kornegay) Rhodes, who lived at Bladon Springs, the former of whom moved to Alabama from Goldsboro, N. C.; granddaughter of Gen. James and Anna (Bass) Rhodes; great-granddaughter of Dr. Andrew Bass, a native of Wales, who emigrated to North Carolina, where he attained great prominence, becoming a member of the provincial congress which met at Halifax, October 15, 1776, and assisting in the organization of a civil government. Children: 1. Annie, m. Dr. Eugene DuBose Bondurant, Mobile; 2. Sydney Rhodes, Mobile; 3. Helen, m. William Tolson Kelly, Mobile; 4. Carroll Thomas, Mobile; 5. Mary Kate, m. William Norman Hunter, Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

PRINCE, THOMAS MCCARROLL, planter, was born in 1807, in North Carolina, and died October 16, 1871, in Choctaw County. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, 1827; moved to Alabama; and resided for some time at Mobile, where he was a merchant in the commission house of Prince & Garrett. He was elected to the State legislature from Mobile County in 1840 and was again elected in 1845. Sometime later, he moved to a plantation in Choctaw County, and in 1855 was elected to the State senate from Sumter, Choctaw and Washington Counties, defeating Hon. William Woodward. At an early day he spent a year or two in Liverpool, England, as a member of a large commercial house there, for the transaction of American business, pursuant to the recommendations of a convention of Southern planters held in Macon, Ga., in 1839, so as to obtain advances on the cotton crop, through the agency of post notes, and to secure good prices for the cotton by holding the stock until it was demanded for immediate consumption by spinners. Among the agencies in Europe for the sale of American cotton, and for the carrying out of the plan agreed upon, was the house of Fontaine, Prince & Company. Mr. Prince was a Whig. Married: in Choctaw County, to Lucy Anthony Trotter. His son, Thomas McCarroll Prince, jr., born July 28, 1842, was lieutenant colonel of the Twenty-second regiment, Alabama volunteer infantry, C. S. Army. After the War of Secession, he became a planter at Louisville, Ky.; married Gertrude Ingersoll, at Mobile, 1867; and died in 1869. Last residence: Choctaw County.

PRITCHETT, JOHN ALBERT, physician, graduate of the University of Virginia, in 1870, admitted to the practice by the Lowndes County board, in 1873. Died in 1897. Last residence: Hayneville.

PROCTOR, JOHN FRANKLIN, lawyer, was born September 4, 1868, near Scottsboro, Jackson County; son of Robert Franklin and Mary E. (Bynum) Proctor, they lived near Scottsboro, the former of whom served in the War of Secession; grandson of John Bynum. He received his early education in the country schools, and in Scott academy at Scottsboro; attended the Winchester normal school, Winchester, Tenn., in 1887; was graduated from the State normal college at Florence, 1889; took a post graduate course at Scottsboro college and normal school in 1891; and was graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1893. He taught school at Oakman, 1889-1891; was clerk in the probate office at Scottsboro, 1886; assistant clerk of the house of representatives during the sessions, 1892-1893, 1894-1895; secretary of the senate, 1896-1897, 1898-1899; was appointed solicitor for Jackson County in 1899, and successively re-appointed until 1910 when the office became elective; was elected to the office in 1910 for a term of four years; represented Jackson County in the constitutional convention of 1901; was a member of the board of directors of the State normal college until the administration of Gov. Comer; was a member of the State Democratic committee for several years; is a Presbyterian; a Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World; and an Elk. Married: February 9, 1898, at Scottsboro, to Stella Moody, daughter of James W. Moody, who lived at Scottsboro. Children: 1. James Moody. Residence: Scottsboro.

PROSKANER, ADOLPH, major, 12th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

PROUTY, WILLIAM FREDERICK, geologist and mineralogist, for some years a resident of Alabama, was born August 15, 1879, at Putney, Vt.; son of Charles Eaton and Cora Sophia (Walker) Prouty, of Vermont and New York, respectively. He obtained his early education in the private and public schools of his State; received the degrees of B. S., 1903, and M. S. 1904, Syracuse university; and the Ph. D. degree from Johns Hopkins university, in 1906. He has taught in both of his alma maters and is at present professor of geology and mineralogy, University of Alabama, and chief assistant State geologist. Married: June 9, 1909, at Tuscaloosa, to Lucile Thorington, daughter of William Sewell and Willella (Chilton) Thorington, (q. v.) of Montgomery. Children: 1. Frederick Morgan. Residence: University.

PROWELL, DAVID MYERS, planter, was born November 27, 1838, near Dayton, Marengo County; son of William J. and Sarah Elizabeth (Pickering) Prowell, both natives of South Carolina, whose ancestors had lived in that state for several generations. His parents both moved to Marengo County at an early day, and were married there. They settled three miles south of Dayton, on a plantation, and lived there for the rest of their lives. He attended the schools at Dayton, and the University of Alabama, leaving the latter institution on the death of his father, in his junior year, in order to take charge of the plantation. Since that time he has been engaged in planting in Marengo County. He represented Marengo County in the State legislature, 1874-1878, serving two terms; was mayor of Dayton for six successive terms; and was president of the board of trustees of the Dayton female academy for many years. During the War of Secession, he enlisted in the C. S. Army, joining Co. D, Fourth Alabama infantry, in April, 1861; was wounded at the second battle of Manassas, August, 1862; was detailed to the commissary department and stationed at Dayton during the rest of the war. Mr. Powell is a brother of William J. Powell, a lumber dealer at East Lake. Married: March 20, 1862, to Virginia S. Jones, of Linden. Children: eleven. Residence: Marengo County.

PRUDE, JAMES OSCAR, planter and county official, was born September 23, 1856, on his father's plantation in Tuscaloosa County; son of William Wellington and Lucretia Eliza (Owen) Prude, the former a native of Jefferson County, the only child of his parents, although each by former marriages had large families, and after the death of his parents he became a member of the household of his half brother and guardian, Col. James McAdory, was placed in the Jack Baker school at Jonesboro, where he remained four years, receiving a sound practical education, grew to manhood and became a large planter and slave owner in Jefferson County, owning the "Glenn Springs" property, west of the present city of Bessemer, going in 1848 to Tuscaloosa County, was for many years member of the commission board of Tuscaloosa, rendered great aid to the Confederate cause as a manufacturer of clothing and shoes for the soldiers, died and is buried in Evergreen cemetery, Tuscaloosa; his wife, was born at what is now Birmingham, the Owen home standing on the site of the present Louisville & Nashville depot; grandson of William and Celia (McAshan) Prude, the former a native of Laurens District, S. C., who in 1815 settled on the Jones Valley trail in the Pleasant Hill community, near what is now McCalla, Jefferson County, removing to Tuscaloosa County in 1825, where he purchased lands twelve miles from the county site, in the Sipsey River bottoms, and conducted a cattle ranch, the latter a native of Ca Ira, Buckingham County, Va., who removed with her father to Christian County, Ky., where she met and married her first husband, Thomas McAdory, whose widow she was at the time of her marriage to Mr. Prude, and of Thomas and Mary Eliza (Elmore) Owen, the former a native of Abbeville District, S. C., was educated at the old LaGrange college, near Guntersville; located in Okolona, Miss., in 1849, and passed the remainder of his life there; great-grandson of John and Mary Prude, of Laurens District, S. C., the former a Revolutionary soldier, and of David and Lucy (McGraw) Owen, the former a Methodist minister who are both buried at Russellville, Franklin County; great-great-grandson of John Prude of Manchester, England, who came to America prior to the Revolutionary War, and located in Charleston, S. C. The Prude family is of French extraction, having emigrated from Normandy to England. The McAdory family is of Scotch-Irish origin, and the Owens are of Welsh stock. Mr. Prude received his preparatory education at the Pleasant Hill academy, under Prof. I. W. McAdory, 1870-73, and entered the University of Alabama from which he graduated with the B. S. degree, 1876. After completing his own education he was made principal of a rural school in Tuscaloosa, which position he held during 1877-79. During that time he read medicine under an eminent practitioner, but later abandoned the idea of becoming a physician. He was appointed clerk of the probate court of Tuscaloosa County, serving under Judge Newbern Hobbs Brown, and held that position during 1880-84, after which date he was elected sheriff for a term of four years. In 1892 he became clerk of the circuit court, and served six years. In 1898 he opened a bond and brokerage business in Tuscaloosa which he conducted until 1909, after which time he retired to his plantation, "Owenwood," to devote his entire time to agriculture and livestock. He is a progressive farmer and applies all modern methods to his business. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: December 20, 1882, at Bolton, Hinds County, Miss., to Lucy Avery, daughter of Alonzo Latham and Agnes Emily (Brumby) Brown, residents of Hinds County, Miss., who refueed in 1863, to Greensboro, during the War of Secession, the family residence in Bolton having been taken by the Federal troops for use as a hospital, the former a graduate of the University of Mis-issippi, a merchant and delta planter, a large slave owner, and soldier of the Mexican War, being under Col. Jefferson Davis, in the siege of Monterey, and during the War of Secession raised a cavalry company for the Confederacy in which he served; granddaughter of Jesse and Ann (Stevenson) Browne, of Benton, Holmes County, Miss., and of Dr. Robert Horatio and Agnes (Benlow) Brumby, the latter a native of Charleston, S. C., a Baptist and graduate of Judson college, Marion, and a descendant of Richard and Elizabeth (Hesse) Haynesworth, who settled in Sumter District, S. C., in 1738, and from whom descended a line of distinguished educators, and professional men of the south; great-great-granddaughter of Henry and Lucy (Warmack) Browne, of Wake County, N. C., Whigs and Episcopalians; great-great-granddaughter of Jesse Browne of South Hampton County, Va., native of Jerusalem, Va., born 1768, a physician, Episcopalian and Whig, who migrated to North Carolina; great - great - great - granddaughter of Jesse Browne who emigrated to America from England about 1735, whose father, prior to coming to the United States, was an eminent physician in Manchester, England, of Irish descent; great-great-great-great-granddaughter of Jesse Browne, a native of France and whose wife was of Irish descent. Mrs. Prude was born in Greensboro, at the Avery home, 1863, and was educated at Clinton, Miss., and at Mary Sharp college, Winchester, Tenn., and was a cultivated and lovable woman; died at Tuscaloosa, June 30, 1900, and is buried in Evergreen cemetery. Children: 1. Agnes Brumby; 2. James Oscar, jr.; 3. William Wellington, a graduate of the U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., and died in young manhood; 4. Mary Eloise; 5. Eugenia Owen; 6. Alonzo Latham; 7. Lucy Avery. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

HENRY WARTEN

PRUET, WILBOURNE ROUNDTREE, farmer, was born February 27, 1844, at McDonough, Newton County, Ga.; son of Alexander and Mildred Roundtree (Wilbourne) Pruet, the former who was a native of Spartanburg County, S. C., a veteran of the War of 1812; grandson of Obadiah and Mary (Palmer) Pruet, of South Carolina, and of Elisha and Mildred (Cox) Wilbourne, also of South Carolina, both grandfathers serving in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Pruet received his education in the common schools of what is now Clay County; was school trustee for thirteen years; was one of the county pension examiners, having entered on his service in 1899 and serving until 1905, and again going into office in 1911 and serving until 1915; and was a representative in the legislature of 1915 from Clay County. He was a member of Co. I, Thirtieth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; was wounded and captured at Baker's Creek, Miss.; imprisoned at Ft. Delaware, Md., and Pt. Lookout. He is commander of Camp Pettus, United Confederate Veterans, at Ashland, and a major in the Fourth Brigade, United Confederate Veterans. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: September 12, 1867, to Susan Francis Danielly, daughter of John and Martha (Castleberry) Danielly, of Louisa; (2) September 6, 1883, to Lucy Ann Kirk, daughter of Stephen and Sarah Ann (Danielly) Kirk. Children, by first marriage: 1. Eliza Mildred, m. G. W. Arnold; 2. Nancy Malinda, m. Charlie O. Horn; 3. John Alexander, m. Leora Black; 4. Carson Floyd, deceased; 5. Bennett Wilbourne, m. Vernie Allen; 6. Francis Danielly, m. Myrtle Wesley; 7. Hiram Owen, deceased; by second marriage: 8. William Stephen, deceased; 9. Clarence Madison, m. Bessie Ellis; 10. Fannie Lola, deceased; 11. Infant boy, deceased; 12. May, deceased; 13. Wilbourne Respus, deceased. Residence: Ashland.

PRUETT, DAVID P., physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1906; licensed to practice by the county board of Bullock County, the same year. Residence: Midway.

PRUETT, EUGENE MEALING, farmer, was born June 28, 1847, in Muscogee County, near Columbus, Ga.; son of Alvin Hamilton and Frances Elizabeth (Mealing) Pruett, the former who was a native of Harris County and the latter of Muscogee County, Ga.; grandson of Jacob Henry and Elizabeth (Knight) Pruett, and of William Mealing of Muscogee County, Ga. Mr. Pruett was educated in the schools of Midway; took a business course in Baltimore, 1869; engaged in farming; was county surveyor; served in the C. S. Army as a member of Co. F, Sixth Alabama cavalry, 1864-65; and was a member of the house of representatives, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; a Woodman of the World; and a Knight of Honor. Married: June 9, 1870, at Midway, to Caroline, daughter of Haywood and Eliza (Cameron) Pipkin of Midway, the former who represented Barbour County in the legislature just after the War of Secession. Residence: Midway.

PRUETT, WILLIAM HENRY, probate judge, major, C. S. Army, was born May 20, 1841, in Barbour County; son of James M. Pruett, of Barbour County; brother of John E. Pruett, lieutenant of Co. I, Alabama infantry regiment, who was captured at Island No. 10, and killed at Port Hudson; of Samuel T., a lieutenant in the 63rd Alabama infantry regiment, who was wounded at Spanish Fort; and of James W., an orderly sergeant of the 63rd Alabama infantry regiment; grandson of John Pruett, son of a Revolutionary soldier who died in the war for independence. Judge Pruett was a student at the university of Virginia when the War of Secession began, and returning home assisted in the organization of a company for the 15th Alabama infantry regiment, of which he was made orderly sergeant. He resigned soon afterward and organized Co. I, 1st Alabama infantry regiment, of which he was elected captain, at Pensacola, Fla., early in 1862. The regiment was soon ordered to Island No. 10, in the Mississippi, where after arduous service under fire of the enemy's fleet the Confederate force was surrendered. He and about one hundred and sixty-five others of his regiment escaped across Reelfoot Lake to Memphis, and later he served at Fort Pillow until the fall of that post. He participated in the two days' assault upon the Federal works at Corinth, in October; fought at Davis' Mill; in 1863, was promoted to major; next served at Port Hudson and gained distinction for gallant service both as artillerist and sharpshooter. May 20, 1863, he was captured and taken to New Orleans, but escaped and later was on post duty at Jackson, until 1863. In May, 1864, he took part in the battles of New Hope Church, Pine Mountain, Kenesaw Mountain, Peachtree Creek and Atlanta, and during Hood's Tennessee campaign fought at Franklin and Nashville. In the spring of 1865, his regiment joined the army in North Carolina just before the surrender at Greensboro. He was twice wounded during his service. At the close of the war he was engaged in business at Eufaula, and in 1892, was elected probate judge of Barbour County. He was the first commander of Barbour camp, United Confederate veterans. Married: (1) in 1867, to Anna Browder; (2) to Ann Roberts; (3) in 1894, to Mrs. Janie McDowell. Children: by first wife, 1. Browder; 2. Williannie; 3. James Garnett; by second wife, 4. Albert Roberts. Last residence: Eufaula.

PRYOR, LUKE, lawyer, U. S. senator, representative in congress, was born July 5, 1830, near Huntsville, Madison County, and died August 6, 1900, at Athens; son of Luke and Anne Batte (Lane) Pryor, the former a native of Virginia, who was first married to Martha Scott, sister of Gen. Winfield Scott, and who lived at Petersburg, Va., until after his second marriage in 1808, when he moved to Brunswick and later Nottoway Counties Va., and came to Alabama in 1820, first locating in Madison County, near Huntsville, where he farmed and taught school for a few years, and later moving to Limestone County, where he died in June, 1851; grandson of John and Anne (Bland) Pryor, the former a native of England, who came to America about 1700, and purchased land in Virginia, and of Benjamin and Sylvia (Perry) Lane, natives of Virginia, who lived in Brunswick County, Va.; great-grandson of Samuel and Prudence (Thornton) Pryor, and of Richard and Ann (Poythress) Bland, who lived at Jordan's Point, Va.; great-great-grandson of Col. William Thornton of Gloucester County, Va. Mr. Pryor received his early education at Mooresville, Limestone County, and for a short time was a student at Washington college, near Natchez, Miss. He began the study of law in 1841, under Judge Daniel Coleman, and received a license to practice in the local courts the same year. He entered into a partnership with Robert C. Brickell, the late chief justice of the supreme court of Alabama, and continued that association until 1843; was law partner of Col. Egbert Jones for a short time; was appointed with Gen. Leroy Pope Walker as bank attorney at Decatur, 1844; was re-appointed in 1845 with D. C. Humphries as attorney for the same bank; resigned that position later in the year, continuing the practice of law in connection with farming at Athens; was elected to the State legislature in 1855, pledged to the work of securing authority to subscribe two hundred thousand dollars to the capital stock of the Tennessee and Alabama central railroad company, at Nashville and Decatur, and secured the bill raising that tax, enacted over the veto of Gov. Winston; entered into a partnership with George S. Houston in 1866, which lasted until 1874, when Mr. Houston was elected governor; continued his practice alone until in December, 1879, when he was appointed by Gov. Cobb to the U. S. senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Houston; served as senator from December 31, 1879, until the legislature met in November, 1880, when he declined to be a candidate to complete the unexpired term; abandoned the law and gave his attention to farming, remaining in quiet life for two years, until in 1883, without his knowledge, he was nominated for representative in congress from the eighth district by acclamation at the convention assembled in Decatur. He was elected and served 1883-1885, declining a second term.

Married: August 20, 1845, to Isabella Virginia Harris, born January 7, 1826, in Limestone County, who died in June, 1889, daughter of John H. and Frances (Rowzee) Harris, natives of Virginia, who lived in Albemarle County, Va., the former a captain in the War of 1812; granddaughter of Matthew and Elizabeth (Tate) Harris, and of John and Isabella (Miller) Rowzee, of Essex County, Va.; great-granddaughter of William and Mary (Netherland) Harris; great-great-granddaughter of Matthew and Elizabeth (Lee) Harris. Children: 1. Aurora, Athens, m. Robert A. McClellan, deceased; 2. William Richard, deceased, m. Ida Harris, Harris; 3. Memory, Athens, m. William Shirley Peebles, deceased; 4. Anne Battle Lane, deceased, m. MacIn Sloss, Birmingham; 5. Frances Snow, Athens; 6. Isabella Benjamin, d. in infancy; 7. Mary, m. Thomas Bass Leslie, West Point, Miss.; 8. Harriett Emily, deceased, m. Robert J. Lowe (q. v.). Last residence: Athens.

PRYOR, S. P., Presbyterian minister; living in 1913. Residence: Athens.

PUGH, E. S., educator; superintendent of city schools at Union Springs, in 1913.

PUGH, ISAAC, farmer, of Welsh descent, was born January 10, 1868, near Grove Hill, Clarke County; son of Jesse Pickens and Sophia Melissa (Bettis) Pugh, both of whom were natives of Clarke County, the former who was a lieutenant in the C. S. Army; grandson of Isaac and Hannah (Baskin) Pugh and Zack and Elizabeth (Talbert) Bettis, who lived at Grove Hill; great-grandson of Elijah Pugh, who was a soldier in the Revolutionary War from North Carolina, after the war went to Wilkes County, Ga., and in 1811 removed to Clarke County. Mr. Pugh received his education at King institute, Grove Hill; was connected with the Clarke County "Democrat" for several years; in 1900 engaged in farming; was U. S. commissioner in 1901-02; and in 1903, 1907 and 1915 represented Clarke County in the legislature. He is a Democrat, in 1888 was made chairman of the Clarke County Democratic executive committee, and served also on the first congressional district executive committee of his party; a Missionary Baptist; and a Mason. Residence: Grove Hill.

PUGH, JAMES LAWRENCE, lawyer, representative in congress, U. S. senator, was born May 3, 1819, near Waynesboro, Burke County, Ga., and died March 9, 1907, at Washington, D. C.; son of Robert and Anne Silvia (Tilman) Pugh, who lived near Waynesboro, Ga., until the death of the latter in 1824, after which Mr. Pugh moved to Alabama with his son, and settled in Pike County, on some public lands immediately west of Pea River, known as the Hobdy plantation. His paternal ancestors were of Welsh descent. The name of Pugh, according to tradition, was Ap Hugh, the Welsh for "Son-of-Hugh," and the family traces its lineage from Hugh Glendower, a younger son of Sir Owen Glendower, the last prince of Wales. In 1666, Francis, Daniel and Thomas Pugh, gentlemen and sons of a Welsh squire of Caernarven Shire, emigrated with their families to Jamestown, Va. Daniel and his family moved to Georgia or South Carolina, and from his branch were descended Senator Pugh, and George E. Pugh, lawyer and U. S. senator from Ohio. After his father's death in 1830, Senator Pugh, then eleven years old, moved to the home of his cousin, James Pugh, at Louisville, Barbour County. He attended school for ten months at Louisville, Barbour County; and at Rocky Mount, Autauga County, for ten months, in 1832. For four months of the next year, he attended the school of Samuel Brown, a teacher, store-keeper, inn keeper and mail contractor, in payment for which he carried the horse mails on Saturdays from Louisville to Franklin, on Chatahoochee River, in Henry County, returning on Sundays. In 1834, he was a student at a night school in Irwinton, and clerked for Selden Walkley during the day. He attended the school of Otis Smith, at LaGrange, Ga., for nine months in 1835, and afterward finished his academic education at the schools of Allen K. Merrill at Eufaula, and Mr. Goldthwaite, afterwards justice of the supreme court of Alabama, and U. S. senator.

In 1836, he joined the Eufaula Rifles, commanded by Seth Lowe, for service in the Indian War, and was honorably discharged with the company at the end of that war. He studied law in the office of John Gill Shorter and Jefferson M. Buford, in Eufaula, and was admitted to the bar there in 1841. He practiced law at Eufaula for thirty-nine years; for twelve years in partnership with Jefferson Buford, and later with Judge John Cochran, in the firm of Pugh and Cochran. He canvassed the state for William Henry Harrison for president in 1840; supported Henry Clay in 1844; was an elector at large for Taylor and Fillmore in 1848; was an unsuccessful candidate for congress against Hon. Henry W. Hilliard, former minister to Belgium, 1849; was elector at large for Buchanan in 1856; elected to the Thirty-sixth congress without opposition in 1859; resigned from congress when Alabama seceded from the Union, December, 1860; enlisted as a private in the Eufaula Rifles, Co. A, First Alabama infantry, 1861, which company acted as escort to Jefferson Davis when he was inaugurated president of the Confederate States of America; served for a year in the C. S. Army; was elected to the First and Second Confederate congresses, serving from February 22, 1862, to the close of the Confederate government; resumed the practice of law at Eufaula in 1865; was elected president of the State convention of the Democratic and Conservative party, which nominated George S. Houston for governor in 1874; was a member of the State constitutional convention of 1875; an elector at large for Tilden and Hendricks in 1876; was a candidate for the U. S. senate in 1878 against Gov. George S. Houston and was defeated by two votes; was elected to the U. S. senate in 1880, to fill the unexpired term of Senator Houston, deceased; was re-elected to the senate in 1884 without opposition; and was again elected to the U. S. Senate in 1890, and served until March 3, 1897, a period of sixteen successive years. He was chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate in the Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth congresses, and his report on the Tenure of Office Act, during the Forty-ninth congress, was said to have been "one of the greatest State papers of the last forty years." In 1888 President Cleveland in an autographed letter, offered the position of justice of the supreme court of the United States to Mr. Pugh, who declined because of his advanced age of sixty-six years. He was a Whig until 1850, then became a Democrat, supporting the doctrine of the sovereignty of the state; was a Presbyterian until after his marriage when he became an Episcopalian; was a Mason. He is buried at Eufaula.

Married: in 1847, in Eufaula, to Sarah Sarena Hunter, who died November 22, 1911, in Washington, D. C., and was buried at the side of her husband in Eufaula, daughter of John Linguard and Sarah Elizabeth (Bowler) Hunter (q. v.), of Eufaula, who moved from South Carolina where they owned a plantation and many slaves, to Irwinton, now Eufaula, about 1832, and acquired large landed estate immediately south of and in Eufaula, the former who served throughout the Indian war of 1836; grand-niece of Mrs. Barefield, better known in her later life as Aunt Polly, who built the first Methodist Episcopal church in Barbour County. Mrs. Pugh's ancestors were of English and Scotch descent. She was a descendant on her mother's side of the Aikens and the Barnwells of South Carolina. Children: 1. Laura Theresa, m. Alfred W. Cochran, New York City; 2. Edward Lawrence, chief bureau of equipment, interstate commerce commission, Washington, D. C., m. October 19, 1898, at New York, to Anais O'Conner, of Charleston, S. C.; 3. James Lawrence, jr., m. Bessie Sowden of Allentown, Pa., Washington, D. C.; 4. Sallie Sarena, m. Albert Elliott of York, Pa., Atlanta, Ga.; 5. John Cochran (q. v.); 6. Henry Linguard, assistant cashier, Washington gas light company, lawyer, Baltimore, Md., married; and Sarah Sarena, Jefferson Buford, and Robert, all of whom died in infancy. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

PUGH, JOHN COCHRAN, lawyer, circuit judge, was born January 10, 1869, at Eufaula, Barbour County; son of James Lawrence and Sarah Sarena (Hunter) Pugh (q. v.). He received his early schooling at Eufaula until 1881; attended the academic schools of Georgetown university, District of Columbia, 1881-1882; entered the University of Alabama in 1882, and was graduated, A. B., 1886; was graduated from Georgetown university, LL. B., 1888. He moved to Gadsden in 1889, and studied law in the office of William H. Denson; was admitted to the bar in 1889 at Gadsden; purchased an interest in and became manager and associate editor with Col. Denson of the Gadsden "Leader" during the political campaigns of 1890-1892; began the active practice of law at Gadsden, in partnership with Oliver R. Hood, under the firm name of Pugh and Hood, 1891; moved to Birmingham in 1897, and continues the practice of law at the place. Judge Pugh was solicitor of the tenth judicial circuit of Alabama, 1904-1906; and was appointed by Gov. O'Neal, judge of the circuit court of Jefferson County, April 13, 1911. He participated in the organization of the Etowah rifles, which became Co. C, Third infantry, Alabama National Guard, 1889, and served successively as first sergeant, second lieutenant, first lieutenant, and captain. He delivered the memorial address at Gadsden upon the occasion of the public services held on the day of the burial of Jefferson Davis; was elector for the state at large for Bryan and Knox in 1908; is a Democrat, serving on county and state committees, and as delegate to many Democratic conventions; is a Baptist; a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity; a Knight of Pythias; and an Elk. Married: June 6, 1906, at Florence, to Inez, daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Frances (Kennedy) Powers, of that place, the former who served throughout the War of Secession under Gen. Bedford Forrest, and was clerk of the circuit court of Lauderdale County for six years; granddaughter of Rev. Enoch and Rebecca Louisa (Chisholm) Kennedy, of Lauderdale County, the former a minister in the Methodist church. Children: 1. John Cochran, jr., b. March 12, 1906, at Birmingham; 2. James Lawrence, b. February 23, 1911, at Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

PULLEN, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Jefferson county; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on April 12, 1831, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Jefferson County, June 1, 1840, aged 82.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

The grave of William Pullen is in Jefferson county, in the suburbs of Birmingham, in an old family burying ground about fifty yards from the old Avondale street car line, south-side, between 34th and 35th streets. For many years this old graveyard was as isolated and secluded as if situated in the heart of a lonely forest, but, in the last year or two, houses have been built up thickly around it and are encroaching upon its boundaries. The grave of the soldier lies at the foot of a large oak tree; it is a rough mound of brown stones with a flat tablet topping them which bears this inscription:

Sacred to the Memory of WILLIAM PULLEN
A Soldier of the Revolution,
Who died April 4th, 1845,
Aged 37 years.

"His wife lies at his feet but the lettering of the tablet at her grave is illegible, only the words 'Wife of William Pullen.' William Pullen was born in Virginia in 1758, on the Appomattox River near Petersburg. He entered the Revolutionary War from Virginia and was in service for seven years. Soon after the Revolution he moved to South Carolina and in 1820 he came to Alabama and settled near where he was subsequently buried.

"It is shown in the files of the Record and Pension Office, 'that one William Pullen served as a private in Captain George Lambert's company of Continental regulars of the 14th battalion, 14th Virginia regiment of foot, commanded by Colonel Charles Lewis, Revolutionary War.' He enlisted January 1, 1777, to serve three years, and his name last appears as that of a private on a roll dated Camp near Morristown, December 9, 1779, of Captain Overton's company, 10th Virginia regiment, commanded by Col. William Davies. The records further show that the 14th Virginia Regiment became the 10th Virginia regiment about November, 1778, and that about May, 1779, the 1st and 10th Virginia regiments were incorporated and designated the 1st and 10th Virginia regiment."—Mrs. P. H. Mell, in Transactions of the Alabama Historical Society, Vol. iv, pp. 558-560.

Children: 1. Clarissa, who married Jesse Hickman, and they were the parents of W. P. Hickman, at one time county commissioner for Jefferson County; 2. Sarah who married James Rowan, the parents of Peyton Rowan, of Jacksonville; 3. William, married Nancy Brooks; 4. Martha, married Joseph Hickman; 5. Mary, married Samuel Rowan; 6. Elizabeth, married Richard Tankersley.

PULLEY, EDWARD L., lawyer, was born May 21, 1871, at Huntsville; son of Robert L. and Georgia Anna (Strong) Pulley, who lived at Huntsville, the former who was born and reared in Coffee County, Tenn. He was prepared for college in Huntsville, in the public schools, and entered Vanderbilt university, September, 1884, graduating, B. A., in June, 1888, and B. L., 1890. He practiced law in Huntsville from 1890 until 1896, and in New York City, 1896-1897, returning to Huntsville after the latter year. He was city attorney for Huntsville, 1891-1893; served as first lieutenant of Co. M, Third Alabama national guard, 1893-1896; and was elected State senator from the Fourth district of Alabama, 1898-1902. He is a Democrat, and is author of "Manual of Parliamentary Law," 1888. Residence: Huntsville.

PURCELL, CLARE, Methodist minister, was born November 17, 1884, at Columbia, Henry County; son of William Henry and Mary E. (Callen) Purcell, the former a native of Robeson County, N. C., of Scotch and English descent, who left Davidson college, North Carolina, to join the C. S. Army, enlisting in Co. B, Thirteenth battalion, North Carolina light artillery in 1861, and served throughout the War of Secession; grandson of Malcolm and Clarky (Drake) Purcell, who lived in Robeson County, N. C., the latter a descendant of one of the Drake lines leading back to the time of Sir Francis Drake of Spanish Armada fame, in 1588, and of Dr. Thomas A. and Mildred D. (Smith) Callen, of Columbia. He obtained his early schooling in Columbia; was graduated from Roanoke college, A. B., 1903; attended Emory college, Georgia, 1904-1905; and received a diploma in theology from Vanderbilt university, 1910. He became a minister of the gospel, and received his first appointment to Wedowee in 1906. He supplied the First Methodist church at Huntsville during the fall of 1910; was appointed to the church at Madison, 1910, 1911, 1912, during that time serving as president of the North Alabama conference epworth league; and is at present pastor in charge of the Methodist church at Hartselle. He has served as assistant secretary of the North Alabama annual conference; is a Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: December 28, 1910, at Roanoke, to Ida Bernice, daughter of Robert Toombs and Willie (Wood) West, of Roanoke. Children: 1. William Woodrowe, b. December 19, 1911. Residence: Hartselle.

PURIFOY, JOHN, judge, was born March 21, 1842, near Minter, Dallas County; son of Francis Marion and Lucinda (Thigpen) Purifoy of Dallas and Wilcox Counties; grandson of John and Nancy (Williams) Purifoy and of John and Susanna (Scott) Thigpen; and a descendant of Capt. Thomas Purifoy, who was principal commander of Elizabeth City County, Va., in 1631, was a member of the house of burgesses, 1629-30, and a member of the council in 1631. The Purifoy and Thigpens were early settlers in Virginia and North Carolina, whence they came to Georgia and other southern states. Mr. Purifoy was educated in the common schools of Wilcox County, and the Tennessee university, Knoxville, from which institution he entered the C. S. Army, April, 1861, in the Jeff Davis artillery and served throughout the war. After the war he taught school for several years; engaged in farming; served as probate judge of Wilcox County, 1880-86; was elected a member of the house of representatives from Wilcox County, 1890; and in June, 1892, was appointed by Gov. Thomas G. Jones to fill the unexpired term of Cyrus D. Hogue as state auditor, and in November of that year was elected for a full term; was re-elected in 1894; served as state deputy tax commissioner for a few months in 1897; was examiner of accounts, 1897-1900; from 1900-1907, acted as expert accountant; in 1907 was named examiner of accounts by Gov. B. B. Comer; in 1910 was elected state treasurer; and November 3, 1914, was elected secretary of state, in opposition to Frank Feltus, Republican, T. T. Nock, Progressive, and R. E. L. Connolley, Socialist. Married: December 6, 1895, to Elizabeth S., daughter of William P. and Sarah (Watts) Routon, of Greenville, Butler County. Children: 1. Martha H., m. J. E. Wood, East Lake; 2. James L., m. Kate P. Davis; 3. Francis M.; 4. John, jr.; and four other children who are deceased. Residence: Montgomery.

PURSER, DAVID INGRAM, Baptist minister, was born December 24, 1843, in Copiah County, Miss. His parents were natives of South Carolina who spent a few years in Pike County, finally settling in Mississippi. He received his early education in the neighborhood schools and attended the high school at Hazlehurst, Miss. At the age of seventeen and a half years, he entered the C. S. Army, as a member of "The seven stars artillery," and served throughout the war in this company. Immediately after the war he entered upon a business career; was licensed to preach in 1868, but did not take up this work until two years later. He began to preach in October, 1870, and four months later was ordained a minister. He began as a missionary in West Mississippi; was pastor of several churches in that state, but soon became a noted evangelist and labored from New Orleans to St. Louis. In 1883 he was appointed State evangelist by the mission board of the Alabama convention; accepted a call to the First Baptist church, Birmingham, April 1, 1884, at the same time serving as city evangelist, and building chapels and Sunday Schools in the city and its environments. Married: (1) October 7, 1864, to Dicy Jane Bass, of Covington County, Miss.; (2) June 28, 1883, to Sallie A., daughter of Judge Washington Moody (q. v.). Children: There were six children by the first marriage, three of whom died young, and two by the second marriage, a son and a daughter, of whom David Ingram Purser, jr., a Baptist minister, was one. His widow resides in Gadsden.

PYRNELLE, LOUISE (CLARKE), author, was born July 10, 1850, at Uniontown, and died in Birmingham, August 26, 1907; daughter of Dr. Richard and Elizabeth Carson (Bates) Clarke, the former a prominent physician and the organizer of the "Canebrake rifle guards," Co. D, 4th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, of which he was made captain; granddaughter of Col. William and Anne (Rowlette) Clarke, of Virginia, the former a member of Gen. Lafayette's staff in the Revolution, and of Gen. William and Annie (Carson) Bates of Alabama, the former served in the Indian war and was at the Fort Mims massacre. Mrs. Pynelle received her early education under the direction of private tutors; attended Hamner Hall, Montgomery, 1865-67; later attended Mrs. Anna Randall Diehl's college of education, Long Island, and graduated from Prof. McKay's Delsarte academy, New York City. She began the profession of teaching as a governess, later teaching in the public schools of Texas, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. She also gave public readings throughout the South. She was an Episcopalian. Author: "Diddie, Dumps and Tot;" "Tales and romances of the Southland;" "Sugar babe;" "Among the hill billies;" "Elocution as I teach it;" "Miss Li'l Tweety," 1917. Married: in 1880, at Columbus, Ga., to John R. Parnell. Last residence: Birmingham.

Q

QUARLES, WILLIAM WASHINGTON, lawyer, was born May 24, 1865, at Pleasant Hill, Dallas County; son of William Washington Quarles, who came from Edgefield District, S. C., in the territorial days of Alabama, served in the C. S. Army, and died about the close of the War of Secession from pneumonia contracted from exposure while in the service; a descendant of Robert Quarles, at one time poet laureate of England; relatives of Gen. J. M. Quarles, of Nashville, Tenn., of Judge W. W. Quarles, of Clarksville, Tenn., and Senator Roger Quarles Mills, of Texas. Col. Quarles was successful as a boy farmer, and educated himself out of the proceeds of his farm products. He was graduated from Moore's business university in 1881; read law under Capt. Joseph F. Johnston in Selma for two years, and under Col. S. W. John for one year; was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B. and LL. B., 1887, and A. M., 1892. During his attendance at the University of Alabama, he was, by appointment of the faculty, one of the three editors of the Alabama university Monthly, and one of the two editors of the "Commencement Daily," issued during the commencement of 1887. He became principal of the Greenville public schools in 1887; was elected president of the South Alabama institute in 1888, but declined the management of the school; was licensed by the supreme court of Alabama to practice law in all the courts of the state, June 30, 1888; returned to Selma, where he entered the practice of law in partnership, successively, with Col. S. W. John, H. S. D. Mallory, and Mr. McLeod; was elected city attorney of Selma in May, 1888, and re-elected in 1889; was elected to the State legislature in 1890 from Dallas County, serving as a member of the judiciary and revision of laws committee, and as chairman of the committee on military; declined re-election to the legislature in 1892; was elected by the State legislature as solicitor of the fourth judicial circuit, comprising Dallas, Hale, Lowndes, Perry and Wilcox Counties, November 21, 1892; held that position until 1904, when he declined to run for re-election; and since that time has been engaged in the general practice of law in Selma, Dallas County, and the surrounding counties, and in conducting his private and farming interests. At the organization of the Third Alabama regiment in 1885, Col. Quarles was appointed sergeant major of the regiment; was made adjutant with the rank of captain in 1886; and elected colonel, 1888, resigning that position July 11, 1891. In January 1891, he was one of five delegates from Alabama to the national guard convention at Washington, D. C. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta college fraternity, and has served as national historian and national president of the fraternity. Married: February 24, 1892, to Ida B., daughter of Washington M. Smith, deceased. Children: 1. Sherrod H., a graduate of Annapolis, who served through the war with Germany on the cruiser Birmingham, and left Norfolk, January 8, 1920, with the Atlantic fleet for Cuba, as first lieutenant, first assistant engineer on the Oklahoma; 2. William W., jr., student at the Massachusetts institute of technology; 3. George P., Selma. Residence: Selma.

DR. BENJAMIN B. GLASGOW

QUEEN, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, and a resident of Morgan County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $55; sums received to date of publication of list, $165.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st Sess., 1833-34. He resided in Morgan County, June 1, 1840, aged 80.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

QUIN, WILLIAM EVERETT, physician, was born April 21, 1851 at Palo Alto, Chickasaw County, Miss.; son of William Staughton and Margaret Graham (Moore) Quin, the former who was a native of Lincolnton, N. C., removed to Floyd County, Ga., when fourteen years of age, or in the year 1834, served as orderly sergeant in the Mexican War, belonged to the Mississippi state troops in C. S. Army, was captured at Vicksburg, exchanged and joined Sixth Mississippi cavalry as orderly sergeant, removed to Mississippi after the war, was at one time treasurer of Clay County, and was a member of the Mississippi legislature; grandson of Hugh and Frances (Curneth) Quin, the former who removed from Floyd County, Ga., to Mississippi with his son William S. Quin, and of Col. Everett Byrd and Annie (Graham) Moore, the former who was an early emigrant from Tennessee to St. Clair and shortly afterwards to Shelby County, Alabama; great-grandson of Peter Quin who removed from North Carolina and settled in Pike or Amite County, Miss., in 1813. The Quins were emigrants from Ireland in the colonial times and settled in the two Carolinas, Lincolnton, N. C., becoming their home, while the Moores were of English origin. William E. Quin was educated in the Quin academy at Palo Alto, Miss., and in the Clinton college, same state, from which latter institution he was graduated, A. B., in 1874; studied medicine and attended school of medicine, University of Louisville, Ky., and was graduated, M. D., in 1881. He has several times been mayor of Fort Payne, once serving six consecutive years; in 1898 he was appointed by Gov. Johnston civil surgeon to help organize the examining board, and to examine the First Alabama regiment of volunteers for the Spanish-American War; during the session of 1911 was a member of the house of representatives from Dekalb County. He is a member of the Dekalb medical society and of the State medical association, the former which he has served as president and of which he is now serving his second term as secretary, and has also served several times as delegate to the meetings of the State medical association. He is a Democrat, serving for more than twelve years as chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Dekalb County, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October, 1883, at Chattanooga, Tenn., to Marie Jane, a daughter of Joe John and Maggie Caroline (Wisdom) Nix of Chattanooga, the latter who was a daughter of Abner James Wisdom, who was at one time a resident of Rome, Ga., and afterwards of Chattanooga. Children: 1. Hugh Langdon, graduate of Mobile school of pharmacy, in drug business at West End, Birmingham; 2. William Everett, jr., graduate of St. Louis watch making school, m. Jennie White, Fort Payne; 3. Joe John, drug clerk, Fort Payne; 4. Margaret Graham, Fort Payne; 5. Marie J. Residence: Fort Payne.

QUINLAN, JOHN, second Roman Catholic Bishop of the Diocese of Mobile, was born October 19, 1826, at Cloyne, County Cork, Ireland, and died March 9, 1883, in New Orleans, La. He came to America in 1844, and entered the theological department of Mount St. Mary's seminary, Emmitsburg, Md., where he was a classmate of William George McCloskey, later bishop of Louisville, Ky., and of Richard Gilmore, who became bishop of Cleveland, O., and a student of Dr. John McCaffrey and Dr. William H. Elder, afterwards archbishop of Cincinnati, O. He was graduated with honor, and was ordained priest in Cincinnati by Archbishop Purcell, August 30, 1852, and was placed in charge of St. Mary's parish, Piqua, O. He was appointed assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church, Cincinnati, 1855, and at the same time served as president and professor of philosophy and theology at Mount St. Mary's college. In 1859, he was elected bishop of the diocese of Mobile, and was consecrated at New Orleans, La., December 4, 1859, by Archbishop Blanc, assisted by Bishop Elder of Natchez and Bishop Coadjutor Wood of Philadelphia. In 1860, he went to Europe to secure means and laborers to cover the needs of his diocese and to pay a visit to the pope, and during the War of Secession ministered to the wants of the wounded on both sides. He built St. Patrick's and St. Mary's churches in Mobile, and many church schools, convents and mission stations in different places. In 1869, he went to Rome, and took part in the deliberations of the Vatican Council; and while visiting Rome again in 1882, contracted the Roman fever from which he never fully recovered. It was at his invitation that the Benedictine Fathers came to Alabama. Last residence: New Orleans, La.

QUINN, MICHAEL, soldier of the American Revolution, private, particular service not disclosed; annual allowance, $96; transferred to South Carolina.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

QUISENBERRY, RALPH DICKINSON, manufacturer, was born August 15, 1875, at Laurel Brook, Spottsylvania County, Va.; son of William and Jane (Hiter) Quisenberry, who lived at Belmont, Va., the former a native of that place; grandson of Elijah and Lucy (Nelson) Quisenberry, who lived at Rose Valley, Spottsylvania County, Va., the former who was born March 10, 1781, and died June 29, 1845, the latter, born April 18, 1783, died January 10, 1848, a lineal descendant of the first Thomas Nelson, of Yorktown, Va. He received his early education in the public schools of Spottsylvania County, Va., and in the Glade Spring military academy, Virginia, under the instruction of Paul V. Bomar, later president of Judson college. He taught in the public schools for two years; attended Richmond college, Richmond, Va., 1895-1897, receiving diplomas in English, physics and chemistry; took a stenographic course in the Mueller school, Cincinnati, O.; received a diploma from the business department of the Massey business college; and on leaving school, entered the manufacturing business. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce of Montgomery; was formerly president of the Montgomery Rotary club; governor of the fifth district, International Rotary clubs; and is a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason. Married: December 22, 1904, at Montgomery, to Nellie, daughter of Richard Stanley and Mary (Sweeney) Williams, of Montgomery. Children: 1. Elva, b. December 9, 1906; 2. Ralph Dickinson, jr., b. August 20, 1912. Residence: Montgomery.

R

RABB, C. S., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Evergreen.

RABB, MILTON A., lawyer; living in 1913, Brewton.

RABB, WILLIAM, sr., pioneer settler, was born January 10, 1775, in Fairfield District, S. C., and died September 20, 1859, at Rabbville, Conecuh County. His father was a native of Ireland. His educational advantages were meagre owing to the conditions of those days. He removed to Alabama, in 1819, settling what was subsequently known as Rabbville, or Rabb's Store, five miles east of Evergreen, in Conecuh County, and becoming a merchant and planter. Married: in 1804, to Sarah McDonald, of Edgefield District, S. C., and of Scotch parentage. He left descendants. Last residence: Rabbville.

RABB, YOUNG M., planter, was born April 4, 1826, in Old Town Beat, five miles east of Evergreen, Conecuh County. He was educated at the Evergreen academy, but was unable to graduate on account of the death of his brother, as the management of his father's estate fell upon his shoulders. He was a successful planter and a deacon in the Baptist church of Evergreen for a number of years. In 1856 he entered the mercantile business in Evergreen with S. A. Barnett, and was a member of the commissioner's court of that county. After the War of Secession he removed to Escambia County, Fla., and embarked in the timber business. He later returned to Conecuh County, was a candidate for judge of the probate court but was defeated. Married: in 1848, to Polly H. Stallworth. Last residence: Evergreen.

RAGLAND, EDWARD MERCER, editor, cotton statistician, and legislator, was born April 6, 1852, at Chattanooga, Tenn.; son of George Orville and Mary (Foote) Ragland, of Tuscumbia, the former coming to Tuscumbia from Virginia on horseback; grandson of Edward Mercer and Ursula (Dudley) Ragland. The Ragland family is of Welsh descent, came to America in the 17th century, and is related to the Davis and Dudley families of Virginia. He was educated in the primary schools, and entered the office of the "Tuscumbia North Alabamian" in 1867. He established the "Sheffield Standard" which he edited. From 1911 to 1915 he served as State cotton statistician. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 26, 1892, to Ellen, daughter of John and Catherine (Griffith) O'Sullivan, both natives of County Kerry, Ireland, who came to America in early life and lived at Jefferson City, Mo. Residence: Sheffield.

RAGLAND, PATRICK, librarian of the Alabama supreme court library, 1868-72; secretary of State, 1872.

RAGSDALE, MILTON CLAY, physician, was born March 29, 1847, in Philadelphia, Monroe County, Tenn.; son of Sterling and Sarah Alice (Hicks) Ragsdale; grandson of Edward and Ruth (Farris) Ragsdale, of Madisonville, Tenn.; great-grandson of Harrison Ragsdale, of Virginia; great-great-grandson of Hubbard Ragsdale, an emigrant from England. He removed with mother's family to Jackson County, Ark., in November, 1860; enlisted in Co. H, 32d Arkansas infantry regiment, C. S. Army, in May, 1862; paroled at Marshall, Tex., in April, 1865. He studied medicine and began the practice in Independence County, Ark., 1869; removed to Tuscaloosa, 1871; and to McCalla, January, 1873. He represented Jefferson County in the legislature, 1907. Married: (1) December 20, 1871, to Louisa E., daughter of Rev. Robert and Louisa (Hill) Oldham, of Bibb County; (2) August 25, 1892, to Alice, daughter of A. W. and Rachel (Miller) Varmon. Children: 1. Ethel L.; 2. Eugene H.; 3. Robert O.; 4. M. Clay; 5. Velspau; 6. Stirling B.; 7. Rosebud; 8. Ruby A.; 9. Luney V.; 10. Alonzo B.; 11. Rachel E.; 12. John M., 13. Alice V. Residence: McCalla.

RAILEY, CHARLES R., lieutenant colonel, Confederate Guards, Louisiana militia, during the War of Secession.

RAILEY, F. G., Presbyterian minister; member of the Tuscaloosa presbytery. Residence: Selma.

RAINER, STERLING PRICE, business man, was born January 24, 1850, in Bruceville, Bullock County; son of Joel Herron and Roxana (Ellis) Rainer; grandson of Jarvis and Hannah (Ward) Rainer, who lived in Sampson County, N. C., the former who was a planter and the latter who was the daughter of James Wood, a North Carolina planter of Scotch ancestry, and of Isaac W. and Betsy (Alford) Ellis, who lived near Pine Level, Montgomery County. His father, Capt. Joel H. Rainer, was a native of Sampson County, N. C.; was educated in the schools of Troy in young manhood; taught school for a year; engaged in merchandising at Bruceville; removed to Alabama from Sampson County, N. C.; in 1860 represented Pike County in the legislature; enlisted in the C. S. Army, September 15, 1861, as a private in Co. I, Seventeenth Alabama infantry regiment; was elected first lieutenant after the battle of Shiloh; was soon afterwards made captain on Gen. George D. Johnson's staff, remaining there until the surrender at Greensboro, N. C., at the close of the war; farmed until 1869; removed to Union Springs and entered the mercantile business which he followed for many years; and was president of the Merchants' and farmers' bank at that place. S. P. Rainer received his early education in the common schools of his county and later attended the Eastman business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., graduating in 1878. Became interested in the mercantile business and went into business in 1880 with J. H. Rainer, sr., and W. W. Rainer and continued in this business until 1902; sold his interests and is now engaged in farming and the buying of cotton; in 1907 he was a member of the house of representatives from Bullock County; in 1909 was a member of the city council of Union Springs; and has been a director in the Merchants' and farmers' bank; served in War of Secession, first as first lieutenant, but promoted captain. He is a Democrat and for more than twelve years was chairman of Third congressional district committee, and member of the county executive committee. Married: March 12, 1884, at Union Springs, to Minnie Lee, daughter of Col. Isaac Ball and Sarah (Hall) Feagan (q. v.), the former who was a colonel of the Fifteenth Alabama infantry regiment, lost a leg during the war, served as sheriff of Barbour and Bullock Counties after the war, and in 1880 was elected probate judge of the latter county. Children: 1. Sterling Price, jr.; 2. James Walton; 3. Minnie Lee; 4. Isaac Feagan; 5. Joel Herron. Residence: Union Springs.

RAINEY, LILIUS BRATTON, lawyer and representative in congress, was born July 21, 1876, at Dadeville, Tallapoosa County; son of Samuel Laurence and Elizabeth Bass (Walker) Rainey, the former who was born in Dadeville, Tallapoosa County, and who lives at Ft. Payne, De Kalb County; grandson of Samuel Laurence and Caroline Rainey, who lived at Dadeville, and of James A. and Sarah Walker, who lived at Ireland Home, Tallapoosa County; great-grandson of Dr. James Maurice Rainey; great-great-grandson of Samuel Rainey, who was born in 1743, served in the Revolutionary War under Brig.-Gen. Thomas Sumter, and was one of the one hundred and thirty-three Whigs who defeated a body of Tories at Brattonsville, July 12, 1780, while serving under Col. William Bratton. His early education was obtained at the schools in Dadeville and Ft. Payne. He attended the Alabama polytechnic institute at Auburn from January, 1896, to June, 1899; and the University of Alabama law school, from which he was graduated, LL. B., June, 1902. He practiced law from July, 1902, to September 30, 1919, serving as circuit solicitor from January 15, 1911, to January 15, 1917; was captain of the Alabama National Guard, Co. C, Third regiment, from 1903-1907; and was elected representative to congress, 1919. He is a member of the Democratic party and served as secretary of Etowah County Democratic committee, from 1904-1908. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and is a Mason; Shriner; Odd Fellow; Elk; Woodman of the World; member of the Junior Order of the United American Mechanics; and of the Knights of Pythias. Married: at Rome, Ga., July 18, 1911, to Julia La Coste, daughter of James B. and Julia Smith of Gadsden; and a relative of the La Costes of South Carolina, and the Butterfields of New York. Children: 1. Audrey Rainey; 2. Lilius Bratton, jr.; 3. Samuel Laurence, jr.; 4. Kenneth La Coste. Residence: Gadsden.

RAINS, JOHN, State senator, was born in Newbern, N. C., and died at Linden, Marengo County, about 1839 or 1841; son of Gabriel M. and Esther (Ambrose) Rains, the former a furniture merchant between New York and the West Indies, who later located at Newbern, N. C., the latter the daughter of a retired English army officer, who had taken up his residence on Albemarle Sound; grandson of John Rains, "a man of enlarged views and philosophic tastes and a great traveller in his day" (Representative men of the South); great-grandson of John Rains, a native of England who migrated to America and settled in Essex County, Va., early in the eighteenth century; and the oldest brother of Gen. Gabriel Rains and Col. George Washington Rains, of the C. S. Army. Mr. Rains was a graduate of the University of North Carolina, 1823, and afterwards studied law in the office of Judge William Gaston. He located in Alabama shortly after it was admitted to the Union, where he established himself as a planter. He afterwards became a prominent lawyer of Linden, Marengo County; represented that county in the legislature of 1833 and 1834; was a member of the senate, 1835 and 1836, and served as chairman of judiciary committee while in that body. He was a Whig. Married: Martha Jane Bondurant, of Cumberland County, Va. Children, among others: 1. John Bondurant, lawyer, b. at Linden, June 23, 1830; student at Lebanon Tenn., and Pennsylvania; captain Co. A., 11th Alabama infantry regiment; m. Elizabeth Simmons, a daughter of John Benton and Elizabeth (Kimbrow) Bruce, natives of North and South Carolina, respectively, who located in Alabama in the thirties; d. at Nashville, Tenn., December 16, 1886, leaving a wife and two children. Last residence: Linden.

RAISLER, CHARLES W., cabinet maker, druggist, soldier and legislator, was born in Pennsylvania; son of Frederick and Elizabeth (Himeberger) Raisler, natives of Wurtemberg, Germany. He learned the cabinet maker's trade when a lad in New York City, and later located in New Orleans, from which point he joined Co. F, 2nd Louisiana regiment of volunteers, and served throughout the Mexican War, under Gen. Zachary Taylor. He came to Alabama and settled in Triana, where he engaged in the manufacture of furniture until 1856 when his business was destroyed by fire. He then removed to Athens where he worked as cabinet maker until the beginning of the War of Secession. He raised a company of volunteers, May, 1861, which became a part of the 40th Tennessee infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was with his command until captured at Island No. 10, and taken to Johnson Island where he was held as prisoner for fourteen months. Upon being paroled his command was re-organized with the 54th Alabama Infantry regiment, and he was assigned to the captaincy of Co. B, and was with his troops until captured near Jackson, following the battle of Baker's Creek, and again sent to Johnson's Island, where he was held until within one month of the fall of Richmond, being one of the eighteen survivors of his original company of one hundred and twenty-seven men. Captain Raisler represented Limestone County in the legislatures of 1865-66-67-70-71-82, and 1883; was mayor of Athens, 1878; later he engaged in the drug business. He was a Democrat; Mason; Knight of Honor; Golden Rule; and an Episcopalian. Last residence: Athens.

RALEY, CHARLES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Morgan County; private of Cavalry Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on September 17, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $77.72; sums received to date of publication of list, $194.30—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

RALLS, JOHN PERKINS, physician, member of constitutional convention 1861, representative in the Confederate congress, was born January 1, 1822, at Greensboro, Greene County, Ga., and died November 23, 1904, at Gadsden; son of Hector and Sallie (Stowe) Ralls, the former a native of Virginia; grandson of Abraham and Mary (Harris) Stowe, who lived on Yadkin River, Surry County, N. C. Three Stowe brothers came from England and settled in Virginia, and one of the three afterwards settled in the north. The Ralls family also came from England. Dr. Ralls received his early education at the academy in Greensboro, Ga., and at Cassville, Ga., and later attended the Medical college at Augusta, Ga., where he graduated in the spring of 1845. In the summer of 1844, he commenced practice at Cassville; attended hospitals in Paris, France, in 1846, and a part of 1847. He later became county and city physician of Gadsden. He was a delegate from Cherokee County to the Secession convention in Montgomery, in 1861; was a representative in the Confederate States congress from 1862-63, defeating Hon. W. R. W. Cobb of Jackson; a member of the constitutional convention in 1875; and a member of the legislature in 1878. He was a member of the democratic party, and of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, of which he was local elder. He was a prohibitionist. Married: in Cassville, Ga., August 1, 1847, to Agnes Mary Hamilton, who died November 27, 1899, a daughter of Joseph and Sarah (Blount) Hamilton who lived at Cassville, Ga.; granddaughter of Thomas Blount of Jones County; and niece of Hon. James Blount, at one time a member of congress from the Macon District, Ga. Children: 1. Helen Slade, m. William N. Moody, Atlanta, Ga., five children; 2. Hamilton Blount, m. Emma Williams, Montevallo, nine children, one of whom is Dr. Arthur William Ralls of Gadsden, who was born August 5, 1881, is physician and surgeon of Hammond's mines, physician to federal prisoners, and examiner for the Penn mutual, Washington life, New England mutual, National life of the United States of America, Security trust and life, and Manhattan life insurance companies; 3. Oscar Black, m. Lucy Slade, Gadsden, five children; 4. John Perkins, m. Ada Tolson, Atlanta, Ga., two children; 5. Sallie Stowe, m. William Clinton Ballinger, Gadsden, eight children; 6. Edgar Lee, m. Addie Selbert, Birmingham, four children. Last residence: Gadsden.

RAMSAY, ERSKINE, mining engineer, inventor, business man, vice president and chief engineer of the Pratt consolidated coal company, was born September 24, 1864, at Six Mile Ferry, a suburb of Pittsburgh, Pa.; son of Robert and Janet (Erskine) Ramsay, the former born October 28, 1840, near Dunfermline, Fifeshire, Scotland, married January 4, 1861, at Elgin Colliery, near that place, came to America with his father, William Ramsay, in 1863, and went to work in Hays' coal mines, near Pittsburgh on the Monongahela River, and later was a machinist in Robinson and Reed's Pittsburgh shops, removed in 1865 to Shafton, on the Pennsylvania railroad where he became hoisting engineer for the Shafton coal company, at the first coal shaft in the United States west of the Alleghany Mountains, was later put in control as mine boss, promoted superintendent of the company in 1870, with entire charge of all operations, at the same time studying engineering, surveying the mines, making maps, and inventing devices for improving the operating machinery, became in 1881, superintendent and engineer of the Carnegie's Monastery coal mines and coke works near Latrobe, Pa., owned by Carnegie brothers and company, limited, and when the property was consolidated with the Frick interests was made superintendent of all the mines of the new H. C. Frick coke company, making all examinations and reports on new properties, became consulting engineer of the entire company, and superintendent of the Standard mines in 1888, in association with his brother, Morris Ramsay, chief engineer of the H. C. Frick coke company, he planned and built the new Standard works, the then model of the Connellsville coke region, the shaft holding the world's record for the largest daily output from a single shaft mine, invented self oiling mine car wheel, coal weighing basket, safety cages, self acting incline, empty car hoist, automatic car-stops, automatic gravity switch, steam mine-car dump, devices for the utilization of waste heat and gas from bee-hive coke ovens in the generation of steam, and died in Scotland while on a visit to relatives, August 11, 1899, his remains being brought back to America by his widow and children and interred at Shafter, Pa.; a Mason, a musician of marked talent, being a master of the violin, piano and other instruments; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Sharp) Ramsay, of Dunfermline, Scotland, the former a coal miner and operator, who migrated to Pennsylvania in 1852, returned to his native land four years later, but again came to America in 1863, and permanently located at Larimer, Pa., died and is interred in the family burying ground at Shafter, Pa., and of William and Margaret (White) Erskine, the former a coal miner who lived at Elgin Colliery, near Dunfermline, Scotland; great-grandson of Robert and Elizabeth (Morris) Ramsay, coal miner in Lady Elgin pit, Milesmark, and later coal operator at "White Threshes," near Cowdenbeath, both buried in the churchyard of the old abbey of Dunfermline, in which is interred the body of King Robert the Bruce; great-great-grandson of William Ramsay, a native of Fifeshire, Scotland, a coal miner in the Dunfermline district, the workings, among the oldest in Britain, date back to 1291, A. D., and still in active operation.

Erskine Ramsay received his early education in the Wentling, Shafter and Irwin public schools of Pennsylvania. In 1882, he entered as a day pupil, St. Vincent college, Westmoreland County, Pa., graduating in 1883 at the head of his class, winner of the college gold medal, having taken in addition to the regular academic course, technical and commercial courses. His first instruction in engineering and mechanics was derived from experience, under the guidance of his father and uncle, Morris Ramsay, while engaged in their profession for the Shafter, Carnegie and Frick companies. While still a youth he had done practical work in the railroad car-shops, blacksmith, and machine shops, and was familiar with handling every type of machinery used in the operation of the coal and coke business. He also had early training in the administration and sales side of the business. Almost immediately upon graduation, at the age of eighteen, he became superintendent of the Frick company's Monastery mines and coke works, a plant of two hundred and eight ovens, succeeding his father, whose promotion to the mine superintendency of all the Frick company's operations required his removal to Mount Pleasant, Pa. His success in making low cost and output records attracted the attention of Mr. Frick and brought him high praise. In 1885 he was put in charge of the Morewood coke company, ltd., one of the Frick holdings and the second largest works in the coke region, an exceptional responsibility for a young man just attaining his majority. To this position was quickly added the superintendency of the South West coal company, with works at Tarr and Stonerville, to which was soon added by purchase, the Red Top works. A consolidation of these operations under the name of the South West coal and coke company made it the third largest coke company in the region. The following year, 1886, he became assistant engineer for the H. C. Frick coke company, being put in charge, along with other work, of the construction of the new Standard plant at Mount Pleasant, Pa., planned and built by his father and uncle.

In 1887, upon a tender from T. T. Hillman, vice president of the Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company, he became superintendent and chief engineer of that company's Pratt mines division, and removed to Alabama, locating at Pratt mines. He at once organized a corps of engineers and surveyed and mapped the mines, brought the physical conditions of the plant to a higher standard, and introduced many improvements, and by the installation of accepted and original inventions brought about an increase in output and enlargements in the works. During the years immediately following the industry faced many vicissitudes but by great ingenuity weathered the economic storms of the panicky era, and marked a steady growth. In 1894 Mr. Ramsay was made chief engineer and assistant general manager of the entire company holdings. He remained with that company for fifteen years, making many changes and improvements in its various plants covering a wide range, taking in the plan of ore and coal mine workings, the ventilation, including the introduction of the split system, the improvement of tracks, mechanical haulage and changes in the type of mine cars and wheels, the complete re-design of tipples, shaking screens and coal washers, the installation of boiler plants at beehive coke ovens for raising steam from the waste heat and gasses, the introduction of inside boilers furnishing steam to pump and haulage engines and giving mine ventilation of the furnace order. During his connection with the Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company, many mines were opened and plants constructed, the design and construction of which were looked after by Mr. Ramsay in detail. In 1897, Pratt mines was producing two and a third million tons of coal annually, half of the total coal then mined in the entire State of Alabama, and employed three thousand men. He was the pioneer in the introduction at bituminous mines in this country, of shaking screens, the first one being designed by him and installed at Slope No. 4, about 1890. When the Tennessee company organized the Birmingham southern railway company to which it transferred all of its Alabama railroad property, the engineering work incident to new locations and extension was done by Mr. Ramsay. The Pratt consolidated coal company, organized in 1904, and of which Mr. Ramsay is first vice-president and chief engineer, now owns about one hundred thousand acres of the best coal lands in Alabama and operates a number of mines, the nearest being only five miles from Birmingham, the most remote fifty miles distant, the annual production being two and one-half million tons. His company also has large operations in the State of Tennessee. The openings are nearly all drifts, but there are several slopes and one shaft mine. All the mines are equipped with the best and most modern machinery, hoisting, hauling, pumping and undercutting being done very largely with electric power. He is a one-half owner in the New Castle property and is connected with a number of other coal property developments. Besides his large coal operations he has assisted in the development of banking, commercial, real estate, construction, manufacturing and investment companies in the Birmingham district as well as in other states outside of Alabama. His position in the coal world was recognized by the government in 1911, when he was chosen as a member of the engineering commission sent by the U. S. bureau of mines to study the coal mines and conditions of Europe. During the European War he was appointed by the president to membership on the fuel board and assigned to the committee on coal production, of which he was designated as one of the two members of the board who were technical engineers. He is now vice president of the National coal association. Author: numerous technical and scientific articles bearing on coal, coke and iron, contributed to various journals of the country specializing in those subjects. Inventor: a number, all relating to machinery and devices in connection with the operation of coal mines and furnaces, the preparation of coal for the market, improved coke ovens and plants, the manufacture of pig iron and the operation of blast furnaces. During his connection with Alabama development, Mr. Ramsey has been offered many tempting positions by the largest mining companies in the United States and Canada, but he steadfastly clung to his belief in the future of this State to whose material development he has made an immense contribution. He takes an active part in all social, civic, patriotic and philanthropic movements of his city and country; belongs to a number of organizations and clubs; is a Kiwanian and a Presbyterian. Unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

RAMSAY, JOSEPH REID, merchant, was born January 30, 1869, near Gainesville, Sumter County; son of Joseph Reid and Sarah Elizabeth (Wrenn) Ramsay, the former who was a native of Pendleton District, S. C., and who lived near Gainesville, served three times as a member of the lower house of representatives of Alabama, and was a private in the First Alabama battalion, C. S. Army; grandson of Alexander and Sarah (Reid) Ramsay, of Pendleton District, S. C., who later resided in what is now Oconee County, S. C., and of James and Eliza Phillips (McDow) Wrenn, of Gainesville; great-grandson of a Reid and Alexander Ramsay, both of whom served in the Revolutionary War and were discharged at Ninety-Six, S. C. The Ramsays came from Scotland about the middle of the eighteenth century, first settling in Pennsylvania and afterward emigrating to South Carolina. Joseph R. Ramsay was educated in the schools of Gainesville and Sumterville. After completing his education he started in the mercantile business at Hamner, in 1899, and has been engaged in the same line of business at Sumterville. During the session of 1911 he was a member of the house of representatives from Sumter County. He is a Democrat, has been a member of the Democratic executive committee, and is a ruling elder in the Presbyterian church. Married: (1) to Lucie, a daughter of Dr. J. M. Godfrey of Sumterville; (2) June 23, 1909, at Union Springs, to Nellie, daughter of Raymond Barnard and Mary Catherine Sloan, of Nashville, Tenn., the former who was a native of Virginia, was a lawyer, judge of the criminal court for many years, president of the Jeffersonian club, of Nashville, captain and lieutenant-colonel in the C. S. Army, was wounded at Chickamauga, and was in command of the Confederate gunboat, Alphanta, which was stationed on the Coosa River when the war was closed: Children: 1. Godfrey Reid. Residence: Sumterville.

RAMSEY, D. W., Missionary Baptist minister living in 1913. Residence: Pine Apple.

RAMSEY, THOMAS YANCEY, teacher, Methodist minister, was born September 7, 1818, and died March 15, 1891; son of Ambrose Knox and Nancy Graves (Yancey) Ramsey, of Sumter County; brother of James B. Ramsey, who was a student at the University of Alabama, 1839-40. He entered the University of Alabama from Tuscaloosa, in 1836, was graduated A. B., in 1838, and received the honorary degree of A. M., in 1847. He was professor of chemistry at the Centenary institute, at Summerfield, 1851-54; was president of Greensboro female college, 1865-67. He was licensed to preach and served as pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Mobile; at Greensboro, Marion, and Summerfield; and at Columbus, Miss.; was presiding elder in the Mississippi conference for eighteen years; was traveling preacher for forty-seven years; and was trustee of the Vanderbilt university. Married: February 4, 1846, to Elizabeth Bancroft of Mobile. Last residence: Durant, Miss.

RANALDSON, J. A., clerk of the Alabama Baptist State convention, 1823-24.

RAND, PARKER N. G., planter, was born in October, 1829, at La Grange, Colbert County; son of John and Martha (Curtis) Rand, both natives of Wake County, N. C., the former of Scotch-Irish ancestry, who was a planter, settled in Alabama in 1826, and located near Franklin, now Colbert County, and the latter who was a daughter of John Curtis of Wake County, N. C., and of Irish ancestry. He is a brother of Dr. John W. Rand, who was born at Raleigh, N. C., in 1822, came with his parents in 1831 to Alabama, and settled near Leighton. He was a graduate from La Grange college and from Louisville, where he received his M. D. degree. He practiced at Leighton until 1859, when he engaged extensively in planting. After the War of Secession he resumed farming, and afterwards his practice of medicine, being a physician at St. Joseph, Tenn., for many years. Parker N. G. Rand was brought up on a farm, and received a common school education. In 1845, he entered La Grange college, and was graduated A. B. in 1849. He then engaged in farming with his father until 1855, when he was married, then farmed near La Grange. He was elected magistrate and held that office for over thirty years. In the spring of 1863, he raised a company of soldiers, was elected their captain, and entered a battalion under Major Williams of the C. S. Army. This company was merged with another, and later, Major Williams was killed, when it merged with Co. H, Eleventh Alabama, commanded by Col. James Burtwell, a West Point graduate. He served with the regiment until the end of the war, in 1865, being in the battles of Tishomingo Creek, and at the fall of Selma. After the war, he resumed farming and was the magistrate of Colbert County for more than forty years. In 1892, he attempted to secure the nomination for probate judge, and was defeated, but rendered all the assistance in his power to his party, with the result that Colbert County was carried by the Democratic party for the first time in years. He represented Colbert County in the State legislature from 1894-1895. He was a Democrat; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church; of which he was steward for many years, and the worshipful master of his Masonic lodge. Married: on February 8, 1855, to Martha A. Smith, daughter of John and Susan (Rogers) Smith, of Lawrence County. Children: 1. Dr. Edgar, m. Jessie Rand of Holly Springs; 2. Henry A., m. Pattie King; 3. Pattie, m. Henry Kumpke; 4. Parker Jr.; 5. John B. m. Lena Burton; 6. Hal, merchant and farmer, deceased; 7. Mary Sue. Residence: La Grange, Colbert County.

JOEL WHITE

RANDLE, E. TROUP, Confederate soldier, was born September 18, 1825, near Sparta, Hancock County, Ga., and died March 14, 1903; son of Edmund and Sarah Hines (Colquitt) Randle, the former who was a descendant of a family from Virginia that settled in Georgia, the name Randle being an abbreviation of Randolph, the original English family name, and was a lieutenant under Gen. Andrew Jackson, in the War of 1812, and the latter who was a sister of Walter H. Colquitt, senator from Georgia, an aunt of Alfred H. Colquitt who was a major-general in the C. S. Army, governor of Georgia, and U. S. senator, a kinswoman of Col. Hines Holt, jurist and statesman of Columbus, O.; grandson of Henry and Nancy Singleton (Holt) Colquitt, the latter who after the death of her husband, married Hartwell Traver of Hancock County, Ga. Capt. Randle had three brothers all of whom served in the War of Secession. He was educated in Georgia under the tutorship of Carlyle B. Beman. In 1846, he went to Alabama and engaged in farming, in what is now Bullock County, but was then a part of Macon. In April, 1861, he went to Lynchburg, Va., where he was mustered in as third sergeant of the Southern Rifles, Co. D, Third Alabama infantry, under Col. Jones M. Withers; was elected first lieutenant under Capt. P. H. Powell, in the spring of 1862; and in 1863, was commissioned captain. He participated in the battles of Seven Pines, the Seven Days battles before Richmond, and in September, 1862, in the Maryland campaign, sharing the famous defense of the gaps of South Mountain against McClellan's army. He was shot through the hips at Boonesboro Gap, and was disabled for six months. He was again wounded at Chancellorsville, when he led the Third Alabama through the Wilderness over the Federal works, his arm being shattered, necessitating amputation, and in 1864, he withdrew from active service. He again engaged in agricultural pursuits, after the war, and from 1866-67, served as sheriff of Bullock County. He was grand marshal for life of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and E. Troup Randle Camp, Sons of the Confederacy, of Bullock County is named in honor of him. Married: On November 22, 1866, to Mary Carter, daughter of Col. James F. and Mary (Powell) Carter, the latter who was of "Chunnenuggee," seat of the most aristocratic families in southeastern Alabama; granddaughter of Farish and Eliza (McDonald) Carter, and of Norborne Berkely and Eliza Ann (Holmes) Powell; great-granddaughter of Col. Carter and of Charles McDonald, who was born in "Dumfrieliem" Castle, Isle of Skye, Scotland. Children: 1. Annie E.; 2. Emily Colquitt; 3. Sarah Hines; 4. Mary Carter; 5. Edmund Troup; 6. Lucy Powell; 7. James Henry. Last residence: Bullock County.

RANDOLPH, ABRAHAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Lawrence County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on April 13, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

RANDOLPH, FRANCIS CORBIN, soldier, lawyer, jurist, major, 7th Alabama cavalry and probate judge, was born December 6, 1841, at Tuscaloosa, and died May 27, 1906, at Montgomery; son of Benjamin Franklin and Anna Page (Corbin) Randolph, the former born in Fredericksburg, Va., who in 1819 came to Tuscaloosa, and in 1850 moved to Montgomery; grandson of Brett and Lucy M. (Beverley) Randolph, who lived at Curl's Neck, on the James River, then in Culpeper County, Va., and of Francis and Anna Munford (Beverly) Corbin, who lived at "The Reeds," Caroline County, Va.; great-grandson of Richard and Jane (Bolling) Randolph, the former of Curl's Neck, in 1736 treasurer of the Colony of Virginia, his wife, fourth in descent from the Indian princess, Pocahontas, and of Richard Corbin, of Laneville, Va., in 1776 receiver-general, and president of the King's council of Virginia; great-great-grandson of William Randolph, who emigrated from York County, England, and settled in Virginia, wherein he was, in 1696, a member of the Royal council, and was attorney-general. Judge Randolph received his early education in Montgomery and at Dr. Henry Tutwiler's school at Greene Springs. He obtained a collegiate education at the University of Virginia, an accident causing him to leave before time for graduation. In 1860 he studied law, and was admitted to the bar. In 1865 he began practice in Montgomery; in 1866 was justice of the peace at Montgomery, and from October, 1880, to March, 1895, was judge of the probate court of Montgomery.

County. In the War of Secession he was a member of the "Metropolitan Guards" of Montgomery; in 1863 adjutant of the 7th Alabama cavalry, and captain of Co. A in this regiment, in 1864; major of the 7th regiment, at the age of twenty-one, and known as "the boy major." In the battle of Nashville, December, 1864, Major Randolph and the 7th Alabama regiment pressed back a large force of Federal cavalry and effected the escape of Gen. E. W. Rucker, who had been surrounded. After the war, Gen. N. B. Forrest, in whose command the 7th Alabama served, stated publicly in Montgomery that, by the movement named, Major Randolph saved the Army of Tennessee. He was always a Democrat, was Chairman of the Central Committee of the County, and a member of the State Committee and was very efficient in the time of Reconstruction, in establishing the control of his party. He was an Episcopalian; a member of the Knights of Pythias; Knights of Honor; and the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Married: December 6, 1866, at Uniontown, Sarah Tayloe, daughter of Robert Wormeley and Mary (Shearer) Nicholson, who lived at Uniontown. Her ancestors included four of the Virginia line bearing the name of "Ralph Wormeley," and holding responsible posts, such as members of the King's council, and secretary of colonies, Sir Dudley Digges, of England, Edward Digges, colonial governor of Virginia, and John Tayloe of Virginia, signer of the Declaration of Independence. Children: 1. Mary Nicholson, m. Dr. James R. Jordan, deceased of Elmore; 2. Anna Page, m. Cecil Wilcox, Jacksonville, Fla.; 3. Evelyn Byrd, m. Harris Wilcox, Charlotte, N. C.; 4. Emily Nicholson, m. William L. Stewart, Montgomery; 5. Frank. Last residence: Montgomery.

RANDOLPH, HUGH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 85, resided in Franklin County, June 1, 1840, with David Fuller.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

RANDOLPH, RYLAND, journalist. Deceased. Last residence: Birmingham.

RANJEL, RODRIGO, private secretary to Hernando DeSoto, chronicler and explorer. Aside from the events connected with the DeSoto expedition nothing is known of Ranjel's history. He kept a diary, and each step of the route covered by the expedition is given in detail in his narratives. This account remained unpublished until 1851. The first American edition is that edited by Bourne, 1904.

RANKIN, CHARLES F., business man and mayor of Brewton, was born July 10, 1849, in Monroe County; son of Duncan and Nancy (Baggett) Rankin, a Monroe County planter, soldier of the Creek War, under Gen. Andrew Jackson; grandson of Duncan and Janet Rankin, natives of Glasgow, Scotland, who came to the United States in 1797, and settled in South Carolina, where they resided until 1822, at which time they removed to Alabama. Mr. Rankin's early education was limited to a brief attendance in the common schools, interrupted by the War of Secession, which carried his four elder brothers into Confederate service and left him to do his part by toiling in the fields for the support of his parents. He later engaged in merchandising in Brewton. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Knight of Honor and Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) in 1875, at Brewton, to Lillie Lovelace, who died of yellow fever in 1883; (2) in 1887, at Union Springs, to Susan, daughter of William Martin, of Mallock County. Children: by the first wife: 1. Albert L.; 2. Herbert C.; 3. Howard P.; 4. Clifford; by the second wife, 5. Gordon; 6. Lillie Bell. Residence: Brewton.

RANKIN, ROBERT, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Washington County; Lieutenant 3rd Regular Virginia Line; enrolled on September 8, 1828, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1826; annual allowance, $320; sums received to date of publication of list, $2,880; W. Crawford, agent.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

RAOUL, NICHOLAS, soldier, was a native of France, where he probably died. He was a colonel under Napoleon, accompanied him in his banishment to Elba and led his advance guard of two hundred grenadiers upon his return march to Paris. He was among the group of French colonists who settled the Vine and Olive colony, near Demopolis. For a time he kept a ferry on Big Prairie Creek, and later on French Creek. In 1824, he went to Mexico where he took part in the revolution. Finally he returned to France where he became a general in the French army and held other important positions in the service of his country, among which was governor of Toulon. Married: the Marchioness of Sinibaldi, who was a native of Naples. She and her two children by a former marriage accompanied the Colonel in his travels. Last residence: France.

RAPIER, CHARLES WILLIAM, lawyer, circuit judge, was born in 1819, in Nelson County, Ky., his father being a farmer of English descent. He received his education at Bardonia and Lexington, graduating from the law school at the latter place. He read law with Judge Rowan, afterwards federal senator. In 1842, he went to Mobile, where he opened a law office; in 1853, was elected to the circuit bench over the incumbent, Hon. John A. Cuthbert; and in 1859 was again elected for a second term of six years over Major O. S. Jewett of Clarke. The war ended at the close of his term, and he was kept on the bench by Gov. Parsons at the request of the bar, and was again re-elected in May, 1866. He held this position until the congressional reconstruction of July, 1868, forced him to withdraw from office. Married, in 1867, to Miss Labretta, a Mobile lady of Italian birth. Last residence: Mobile.

RAPIER, JAMES T., congressman and slave, was born in 1840 in Florence. He completed his preparatory studies; studied law; was admitted to the bar; practiced; and held various local offices. He was elected as a Republican to the Forty-third congress, serving from March 4, 1873-March 3, 1875, and was defeated for the Forty-fourth congress.

RAPIER, JOHN LAWRENCE, editor and publisher, was born June 15, 1842, at Spring Hill, Mobile County; son of Thomas Gwynne and Melina (Senac) Rapier, the former who was born near Bardstown, Ky.; grandson of Pierre and Agnes (Krebs) Senac of Pensacola, Fla. After receiving a good education he became identified with commercial interests, and engaged as a clerk in a mercantile business in Mobile, until 1861, when the War of Secession broke out. He enlisted in the Chasseurs-a-pied, under the command of Henry St. Paul, going with that organization, first to Pensacola, and then to Virginia. The company afterwards became a part of a Louisiana battalion, commanded by St. Paul, as major. In 1862, when the reorganization took place, the battalion was assigned to the First Battalion Zouaves, under command of Col. Gaston Coppens, with which Wheat's command was consolidated at a later date. After the battle of Seven Pines, he was promoted to the rank of sergeant-major of the battalion, and a month later, during the Seven Days' battle, was promoted to adjutant. He participated in the campaign of second Manassas, Sharpsburg, and Fredericksburg, while serving with the Second Louisiana brigade under command of Gen. W. E. Stark, and was then transferred to southeastern Virginia. He took part in the siege of Suffolk, and several fights in this vicinity, during Longstreet's campaign. In December, 1863, Mr. Rapier was ordered to Richmond for examination to enter the regular service of the C. S. Army, and was commissioned and assigned to duty at Drewry's Bluff, below Richmond, and afterwards at Mobile. He was appointed adjutant of a battalion, August 3, 1864, which was organized to reinforce the forts for the impending combat with the enemy, and being stationed at Ft. Gaines, was captured there, August 5, when the combined forces of the Federal fleet and army attacked the fort. He was imprisoned first at the Picayune, and then in the Union Press at New Orleans, was selected for exchange in three weeks, and was removed to a business office, and kept under guard. On the night of October 13, 1864, thirteen of the party escaped through a hole in a brick wall, leaving only five of their comrades behind, among them being Paymaster Richardson who was disabled by a wound. Mr. Rapier and his friend Fendall, sought refuge with friends in the city, and after securing some money, were taken out of the city, and after seven days and nights of travel on the treacherous bayous, reached Ponchatoula, a distance of fifty miles. He returned to Mobile and meeting Capt. Fry, a confederate naval officer who lost his life years after at the hands of the Spaniards at Santiago, Cuba, was given command of two thirty-two pounder guns on his gunboat, which position he held until the boat surrendered, April 21, 1865, on the Tombigee River. After the war he engaged in the newspaper business at Mobile, establishing "The Register" and becoming president of The Mobile Register Company. During the second administration of Cleveland, he was appointed postmaster of Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

RATHER, JOHN DANIEL, lawyer, circuit judge, was born January 7, 1823, at Somerville, Morgan County, and died March, 4, 1910, at Tuscumbia; son of John Taylor and Barbara (McClellan) Rather (q. v.). His education was received at the Somerville academy, and the common schools of the county and at East Tennessee college. He read law under Judge Coleman in Athens, and in 1843, commenced the practice of law, first at Somerville and then at Decatur. In 1849, he represented Morgan County in the legislature, and was re-elected in 1851, accepted the Compromise adjustment of the territorial questions, and at the opening of the session was elected speaker of the house over Nathaniel Davis. He was elected brigadier-general of militia about 1846, or 1848. In 1856, he was on the Democratic electoral ticket; in 1857, was elected to the senate from the district of Morgan and Limestone; and in 1859, was elected president of the senate, serving in that capacity for two years. In 1864, he was appointed by Gov. Watts as judge of the circuit court, to fill the vacancy created by Judge Lewis' resignation. At the close of the war he returned to Tuscumbia and opened a law office where he practiced for many years. He was elected to the State senate in 1878, and re-elected in 1880, serving during the latter session as president of the senate. Prior to the War of Secession, he had served as brigadier-general of militia. He was vice-president and afterwards president of the Memphis & Charleston railroad. Married: (1) January 26, 1843, at Athens, to Jane Charlotte Keyes, who was a sister of Hon. Wade Keyes of Lauderdale; (2) February 21, 1856, in Franklin County, to Letitia S. Pearsall, who was a daughter of Edward Pearsall of Morgan County. Children: by first marriage, 1. George Taylor, b. January 5, 1844, m. Fannie Godley; children, Jessie Godley, m. Robert H. Jones, resides at Dallas, Tex., and Frances Taylor; 2. Silas Parsons, b. February 18, 1846, and died March 16, 1901, served in the C. S. Army, and served in each branch of the general assembly, being state senator at the time of his death, m. Annie Dixon Kirby, children, Margaret, Jane, Barbara, John D., all of whom died in infancy, and Ella Augusta, m. William Day, resides at Ancon, Panama; 3. Eldon Rutledge, b. November 23, 1848, m. Julia Cooper, children, Elizabeth Cloyd, and Letitia Palmer living in Tuscumbia, and William Taylor who died in infancy; 4. Mattie Keyes, d. in infancy; by second marriage: 5. Henry Chambers, b. January 12, 1857, m. Eliza Jabine, children, John Daniel III, Hal Jabine, Charles Pearsall, and Gordon Smeade, all residing in Little Rock, Ark., and Lucy who died in infancy; 6. Ella Pearsall, b. September 6, 1857, m. James T. Kirk, one child, Mary Wallace, resides at Tuscumbia; 7. Jane Keyes, d. in infancy; 8. John Taylor, d. in infancy; 9. Anne Eva, b. February 18, 1865, m. John B. Weakley, reside at Birmingham; 10. Charles Courtney, b. September 19, 1866, d. December 3, 1910; 11. Pearsall, b. December 16, 1869, d. April 15, 1894, A. B. University of Alabama; 12. John D. Rather, jr., b. March 30, 1876, A. B. at University of Alabama, m. Nona Pratt Wildberger, one child, John Daniel IV, reside at Tuscumbia; 13. Mary Wallace, twin of John D., d. in 1881. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

RATHER, JOHN TAYLOR, merchant, public official, was born March 14, 1792, in Prince Edward County, and died at Tuscumbia, January 3, 1881; son of Daniel and Frankey (Taylor) Rather, the former who moved from Virginia to Tennessee and thence to Huntsville, in 1811, and was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. When a young man he moved to Alabama and settled in Madison County. In 1812, he was appointed deputy sheriff, and in the same year was commissioned lieutenant in the Seventh U. S. infantry serving in the War of 1812, and was in the recruiting duty, descending the Mississippi River with troops in flat boats, when Jackson fought the battle of New Orleans. He was mustered out in 1815, and again became deputy sheriff of Madison. He came to Morgan County in 1818 and engaged in the mercantile business at Somerville, and built with his own hands the first house that was ever erected at Somerville. In 1820 he was chosen to represent the county in the lower house of the general assembly, when the capital was at Cahaba. He was re-elected to this position nine times, and in 1835, was chosen a member of the senate. In 1841, he was on the Whig "general ticket" for congress, and in 1865, was commissioned to represent Morgan County in the Reconstruction convention. About 1867, he moved to Tuscumbia, where he made his home with his only son, John Daniel Rather, until his death. He was a member of the Methodist church, and had held the office of steward during the greater part of his life. Married: (1) in 1819, at Somerville, to Barbara McClellan, who was a sister of Gen. W. B. McClellan, of Talladega; (2) to a Miss Roberts of Somerville, who was a sister of Mrs. John Banks. Children, by first marriage: 1. John Daniel Rather (q. v.). Last residence: Tuscumbia.

RATTRAY, CHARLES, farmer, was born March 19, 1835, at Upham Parish, Kings County, Province of New Brunswick, British America; son of James and Lidia (Ganter) Rattray, the former who was a native of Dunkeld, Perthshire, Scotland; grandson of James Rattray who lived in Dunkeld, Perthshire, Scotland, and of William Ganter of Sussex Vale, N. B. The Ganter were Dutch and the Rattrays were Highland Scotch, the genealogy of the Rattray family dating back to the eleventh century. Charles Rattray was educated in Upham Parish, and in 1852 removed with his father to Illinois, where his education was continued in private schools. He engaged in farming until 1861; enlisted as private in Co. I, Twelfth Illinois infantry regiment, U. S. Army; at expiration of three months service re-enlisted as first sergeant; was commissioned captain in 1862; later became major and lieutenant-colonel; was brevetted colonel by the U. S. senate; was mustered out of service, July, 1865, at Ridgeway, Ky. He came to Alabama in 1868; engaged as a farmer and contractor; served in the legislature, 1888-89, and voted, among other things, for an appropriation to erect a monument commemorative of the valor of Confederate dead; served in legislature again in 1907. He was a Democrat and an Odd Fellow. Married: On June 30, 1873, at Gaylesville, to Theodora McWhorter, the daughter of Dr. Abbott and Malala Jane (Davis) McWhorter. Children: 1. Charles McWhorter, m. Carrie Cannon; 2. Abbott Milton, m. Willie Sue Wimpey; 3. Jessie Blanch, m. Charles Jager; 4. Mary Ethel, m. James Clarke; 5. Benjamin Franklin, deceased; 6. James Malcolm; 7. Leon McTyeire; 8. Robert Kyle, deceased; 9. Herbert Marvin. Residence: Jamestown.

RAWLINS, RICHARD H., president of Judson college, Marion, 1872-75.

RAWLS, JAMES BENJAMIN, lawyer and probate judge, was born at Snuggsville, Clarke County; son of John Franklin and Lucretia Jaqueline (Davis) Rawls, the former a native of Harris County, Ga., later a resident of Mobile; grandson of William and Frances (Dancy) Rawls of Harris County, Ga., and of Shugan Ransom and Mary (Sorsby) Davis of near Ransom's Bridge, Halifax County, N. C., the former served in the War of 1812, from North Carolina, stationed at Norfolk, Va.; great-grandson of William and Amy (Ransom) Davis, of North Carolina, and of Benjamin and Susan (Davis) Sorsby, the former was of English descent, and served in the Revolutionary Army, enlisted in Nash County, N. C., under Capt. Jacob Turner's company, 3rd North Carolina infantry regiment, commanded by Col. Jethro Sumner. He received his early education in private schools in Mobile and at Summerville institute, Noxubee County, Miss. He read law by a correspondence course and entered upon the practice, having successfully passed an examination before the presiding judge of the circuit court of Washington County, 1905. He has served as notary public and justice of the peace several years; was county commissioner two terms; probate judge one term, and elected tax commissioner of Washington County, 1907, an office he still holds. He was a member of the home guard of Mobile at the close of the War of Secession, having been taken prisoner at the capture of Mobile and held until Lee's surrender at Appomattox. He is a Democrat, Methodist, and Mason. Married: February 4, 1873, near Columbus, Ky., to Ruth Morrison, daughter of Edwin Ruthven and Harriet Magruda (Brown) Ray, of that place; granddaughter of Col. Peter W. and Susan (Ray) Brown of Lebanon, Ky., and Dennis and Nancy (Hayes) Ray of Clinton, Ky. Children: 1. Carrie L., m. John C. Maclay, Moss Point, Miss.; 2. Harriet M., m. William R. Leon, Deer Park; 3. James B., jr., unmarried, Lucedale, Miss.; 4. Mary D., m. Dr. Warren D. Ratliff, Lucedale, Miss.; 5. Ellen H., unmarried, St. Stephens; 6. Ruth R., m. Samuel E. McGlathery, Chatom; 7. Dennis B., Mobile; 8. Robert M., Francis, Okla.; 9. Fletcher H., St. Stephens; 10. Antoinette, St. Stephens; 11. Louise D., Mobile; 12. Edgar D., St. Stephens; 13. Ebenezer T., St. Stephens. Residence: St. Stephens.

RAWLS, ROBERT M., editor and publisher, was born January 6, 1861, in Lincoln County, Tenn., son of Luke H. Rawls, who was a merchant during his life and died in 1878 at the age of sixty-six years. He received his education at Jackson, Tenn., and when sixteen years of age entered a newspaper office there and learned the printer's trade. After working on Fayetteville "Observer," for eighteen months, he took charge of the "Sentinel," at Lynchburg, Tenn., and left there within a few months for a position on the Nashville "World." He remained on the "World" until January, 1883, when he went to Athens, and in partnership with J. J. Turrentine, purchased the "Alabama Courier," a weekly Democratic paper. Mr. Turrentine withdrew from the paper in 1884, and since that time, Mr. Rawls has been sole proprietor. In May, 1886, he was elected treasurer of the Alabama Press Association, which position he held for some time. Married: in Athens, May 8, 1883, to Fannie Black, daughter of John W. Black. To this union two children have been born, a son and a daughter. Residence: Athens.

RAY, FREDERICK, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and resident of Tuscaloosa County; private Virginia State Troops; enrolled on April 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $36.66.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

RAY, JACOB USRY, physician, was born May 4, 1864, at Woodstock, Tuscaloosa County; son of Jacob Usry and Laura (Brown) Ray, the former was a native of Woodstock, Tuscaloosa County; grandson of James and Lucinda Ray of Woodstock, and of Randall R. and May Brown who resided northeast of Tuscaloosa on the Tuscaloosa and Huntsville road; great-grandson of John A. Brown, who came from Virginia to Alabama in 1819; and a descendant of Usry Ray, who came from Woodstock, England to Jamestown, Va., in the seventeenth century. His education was received in the county schools, and he later attended the University of Alabama. He then attended the medical college of the University of Tennessee, at Nashville, Tenn., where he was graduated M. D., in 1893. He practiced medicine for five years in Blocton, and two years of that time for the Coal, Iron & Railroad company. He then practiced for over a year and a half at Greensboro, and retired from active service in 1901. He has done only office work since that time. He was appointed postmaster at Woodstock, March 12, 1903, which position he filled for several years. He also served as health officer for Bibb County; as censor in Bibb and Hale Counties; counsellor in the Medical Association of the state of Alabama; and as secretary and treasurer of the Association of Surgeons of Southern Railroad, being elected to this position in 1904. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Shriner and a Knight Templar. Married: September 26, 1896, to Sarah Nelson Waller, daughter of Robert B. and Virginia I. Waller who resided at Greensboro. Children: 1. Robert Usry, b. April 21, 1902; 2. Laura Virginia, b. October 11, 1905. Residence: Woodstock.

RAY, JAMES JASPER, lawyer, of English ancestry, was born July 31, 1857, near Pilgrim P. O., Fayette County; son of Elijah and Lucy Ann (Wright) Ray, both of whom were natives of Virginia, but emigrated to Fayette County; grandson of Jesse and Elizabeth Wright. Judge Ray received his education in the common schools, and was graduated from the University of Alabama with the LL. B. degree in 1881; in that year was admitted to the bar; practiced in Fayette for some time, later removing to Jasper; was register in chancery, July 16, 1883, to November 10, 1900; was state senator from the twelfth district, 1900-01; was appointed judge of the newly created fourteenth judicial circuit on February 25, 1907. He is a member of the Democratic party. Married: (1) On October 14, 1884, at Newtonville, to Ida J. Jones, d. August 31, 1887, daughter of Dr. W. W. Jones; (2) on May 1, 1890, to Ella E. Edney, daughter of John M. Edney. Children, by first marriage: 1. Alex B.; by second marriage: 2. Ida Louise. Residence: Jasper.

RAY, S. O. Y., Missionary Baptist minister; living in 1913. Residence: Alabama.

RAY, WILLIAM O., business man, was born in Mt. Meigs, Montgomery County, and died in Montgomery; son of John Washington and Martha (Conyers) Ray, of Greene County, Va., who removed to Mt. Meigs, among the early settlers of the county; grandson of Ross and Betty (Denson) Conyers, of Franklin County, N. C., who removed to Georgia; great-grandson of William and Mary (Ross) Conyers, of Sumter, S. C., the former a soldier in the Revolution; great-great-grandson of Capt. Richard and Margaret (Arrundel) Conyers, of North Carolina, who came from the Bermudas, before the Revolution, and who assisted in establishing American independence. He was educated in the schools of Mt. Meigs community; removed to Montgomery and engaged in business, as a cotton-broker and a wholesale grocer. He was a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: about 1849, in Montgomery County to Mary Steele. Children: 1. Sallie, m. Thos. Wilkerson; 2. Mattie, m. Capt. William B. Jones; 3. John, m. Maggie Smith. Last residence: Montgomery.

RAYBURN, SAMUEL KING, merchant, major-general of militia, was born in Beach Grove, Bedford County, Tenn., October 15, 1812, and died July 15, 1892, at Guntersville; son of John and Elizabeth (Shanklin) Rayburn, both natives of Botetourt, Va., the former who moved to Barren County, Ky., about 1795, and thence to Tennessee, where he settled about fifty miles from Nashville, the latter who was a daughter of Capt. John Shanklin, who served in the Revolutionary War; grandson of John and Jean (McClarín) Rayburn, the former who was a large land owner, and settled in Botetourt County, Va., near Salem, the latter who was of Scotch birth; great-grandson of Henry Rayburn and a Miss Ross, the former who emigrated to America from the north of Ireland some years before the Revolutionary War, and settled in Virginia, east of the Alleghanies, near the Roanoke River, the latter who was a native of north Ireland. He received a common school education, and in 1819 came to Alabama with his parents. In 1834 he went to Guntersville, where he engaged in the mercantile business, and with the exception of two years was in that business until 1847, when he volunteered as a member of Capt. John M. Gee's Independent company, and served in the Mexican War. He returned to Guntersville in 1848; was elected, in 1849, as clerk of the circuit court of Marshall County, which office he held for eight years; in 1857, was elected to the State senate; and in November, 1858, was elected president of the Tennessee & Coosa Railroad Company, holding that office until 1868. In 1861, at the outbreak of the War of Secession, he was elected by the people of Marshall, Jackson, DeKalb, and Cherokee Counties, major-general of militia, resigned in 1862, and was appointed on the staff of Gov. Moore. In the fall of the same year he raised a company of volunteers, was commissioned captain of Co. B, Forty-eighth Alabama infantry, was compelled by sickness to resign, returned home, and in the early part of 1863, was appointed deputy collector of revenue, which position he held until the close of the war. In 1866, he was appointed register in chancery, holding the office until his death; from 1870-1876, he was county solicitor; was justice of the peace; and mayor of Guntersville, several times. He was one of the organizers of the Tennessee & Coosa Railroad, was one of its directors and for about ten years held the position of its secretary. He was a Democrat and a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Married: (1) in 1840, to Mrs. Sarah Davenport, who died in January, 1860; (2) in May, 1861, to Mrs. Evergreen (Rainey) Findley, who was killed by the explosion of a shell of the enemy at Guntersville, in 1862; (3) in December, 1863, at Guntersville, to Nannie Nix, who died November, 1874; (4) in May, 1880, to Jane Warren of DeKalb County. Children, by first marriage, 1. Capt. John Rayburn, a graduate of Cumberland university, and a captain in the Ninth Alabama infantry, commanded by Col. Wilcox, who lost his life at Sharpsburg, Md.; by third marriage, 2. Mrs. Brooking; 3. Samuel King, jr., b. June 21, 1876, teacher, Guntersville academy, d. December 23, 1888; 4. John S.; 5. William C.; 6. Mrs. John D. Chandler. Last residence: Guntersville.

RAYBURN, WILLIAM C., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Guntersville.

REA, B. F., physician, was born in November, 1819, in Greene County, Ga.; son of Robert and Jane (Smith) Rea, both of Scotch-Irish extraction, the former, a farmer, who was born in Cumberland County, Pa., in 1775, moved to Greene County, Ga., where he lived until 1845, and then moved to La Fayette, Chambers County, having represented Greene County for twenty-three years, in the Georgia legislature, serving during that time in both branches, and was for many years one of the judges of the inferior county court; grandson of Samuel Rea, who came to this country a few years before the Revolutionary War, took an active part in the struggle, and settled in Cumberland County, Pa., and of William Smith who came from near Dublin, Ireland, with Samuel Rea, and who served as an officer in the Revolutionary War, resided in Greene County, Ga., for a number of years, and afterwards went to Tennessee. He received his early education in Greensboro, Ga., began the study of medicine with Dr. T. W. Grimes, of that place, and remained there for two years. He then entered Jefferson medical college at Philadelphia, from which he graduated in 1842, and during his two years in this college was a private pupil of Dr. Robley Dunglison. After his graduation he returned to Greensboro, where he practiced until 1852, when he moved to Lafayette. During the War of Secession, he was a surgeon in Gen. Joseph E. Johnston's army. He was president of the Chambers County Medical Society for several years, serving at the same time as president of the board of censors; was a Democrat, a Master Mason and an elder in the Presbyterian church. Married: (1) in 1847, to Laura V. Gresham, who was born in Georgetown, D. C., but who resided in Greensboro, Ga., and who died in 1858; (2) in 1855, to Sarah Williams, a native of Tuskegee, who died in 1865. Children: by second marriage: 1. Ida, deceased; 2. Carrie Lee, m. Charles Schuessler of Lafayette; 3. William R., salesman, resides at Roanoke; 4. Frances M., deceased; 5. B. Franklin, physician at Lafayette; 6. Sarah, deceased. Last residence: Lafayette.

READ, GEORGE WASHINGTON, Methodist minister, was born April 15, 1861, in Philadelphia, Pa.; son of John Randolph and Kate (Weingartner) Read; grandson of Franklin and Catharine Read, the former a nephew of Deborah Read, wife of Benjamin Franklin, and closely related to George Read who signed the Declaration of Independence. He received his early education in the public schools of Philadelphia and graduated, B. P., from the Birmingham college, May 31, 1899; D. D. from the Blountsville agricultural school, 1900. He is a Methodist minister; secretary board of education; assistant secretary of the conference and chairman of the examining committee; member of committee to locate, build and equip the Birmingham college, chairman of the building committee and treasurer of the board of trustees until the work was completed. He is at present stationed at Athens. He is a Mason. Editor: "Christian Advocate," "Spectator" and "Ensley Herald." Married: August 28, 1879, in Philadelphia, to Clara Virginia, daughter of Sylvester and Frances (Shanks) Harvey of that city. Children: 1. Harry George, deceased; 2. Frances H., m. M. W. Glasgow, physician, Ensley; 3. Wesley, Gadsden. Residence: Athens.

DAVID ROBERTS

READ, JOHN BRANAN, physician, inventor, was born June 11, 1816, at Huntsville, and died January 20, 1900, at Tuscaloosa; son of Col. John Read, a native of Bedford County, who resided at Huntsville, was ensign for two years serving in the U. S. Army under Gen. Wilkinson, removed to Huntsville in 1811, where he established the first U. S. land office, was appointed register, and after being in the mercantile business for five years, retired; grandson of Lord Talbot, Earl of Salisbury, of England. His early education was received in the schools of Huntsville. In 1834 he graduated from the University of Alabama with the degree of A. B., and in 1850 the degree of A. M. was conferred on him. In 1842 he received his M. D. degree from the University of Louisiana, at New Orleans. He practiced medicine and surgery at Tuscaloosa, and during the War of Secession, he served as surgeon of the Alabama corps of cadets, with the rank of major, at the University of Alabama. He was professor of physics and astronomy, at the Agricultural and mechanical college of Alabama, from 1872-73; and was surgeon at the University of Alabama, 1874-1878; and was county health officer, Tuscaloosa, from 1890-99. Dr. Read was an inventor of some note, having invented the rifle shell system now in use with rifle guns of the U. S. army and navy, and a process for making good paper from the okra plant. He was a member of the Democratic party, and a member of the Presbyterian church, which he served as elder for more than fifty years and as superintendent of the Sunday school for forty years. Dr. Read wrote for medical journals, and had completed a book "A New Cosmogony," which has never been published. Married: in Tuscaloosa, August 16, 1837, to Susan Weaver Childress, daughter of Maj. James L. and Mary (Phifer) Childress, the former who was born in Virginia in 1773, removed in early manhood to North Carolina, was married at Salisbury, came to Tuscaloosa in 1818, and resided at Childress Hall, which was located where the capitol building now stands, the latter who was a daughter of Martin Phifer. Children, an adopted daughter, Susie Read, president Stonewall chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Chicago, m. August 16, 1888, to William Benton Logan, who died October, 1891, (2) on June 13, 1893, to John Willis Heatfield, Chicago, Ill. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

READY, SHADRACK, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 88, and a resident of Madison County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on December 5, 1820, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from September 11, 1820; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $438.13. Died April 3, 1825.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

REAGOR, L. A., Presbyterian minister; living in 1913. Residence: Winchester, Tenn.

REAVES, R. L., educator, principal of the Pickens County high school, 1913. Residence: Reform.

REAVIS, TURNER, lawyer, circuit judge and State senator, was born June 18, 1812, in Wake or Johnson County, N. C., and died June 18, 1872, at Gainesville, Sumter County. His educational advantages were limited to six months in the school room, but being gifted by nature with a brilliant mind and a studious disposition, he acquired a remarkable range of knowledge and accumulated the best private library in the state. Very little is known of his antecedents, save that they were eminently respectable farmers of North Carolina. He was apprenticed at twelve years of age to a confectioner at Hillsboro, that state, and upon his employer's removal to Raleigh accompanied him thither. At the age of nineteen he entered the employ, as a clerk, of a mercantile firm in Raleigh, N. C., and later the same capacity in a dry goods store at Smithfield, N. C. A short time afterwards in partnership with two friends, an independent mercantile company was formed under the firm name of Reavis, Gully and Minnie. A ship load of goods, that was insured by the buyers, was lost on the Atlantic coast, and the claim was placed by Mr. Reavis in the hands of a Smithfield lawyer, a Mr. Husted. This gentleman, recognizing the extraordinary mental qualities of his client placed in his hands the law books relating to the subject. Within three days the young merchant had not only become an authority on insurance laws, but had determined to master the legal profession. Through the continued courtesy of Mr. Husted he had the use of the necessary law books for private study and six months later stood one of the most brilliant examinations before the supreme court of North Carolina recorded in the history of that body, and was at once admitted to the practice. During this period, 1838, in company with a number of North Carolinians removing to Alabama he came to this state and located at Gainesville, Sumter County, where he passed the last thirty-four years of his useful life. His immediate partnership connection was with Harrison W. Covington, also from North Carolina. In September 1851, upon the election of Judge William R. Smith to congress, followed by his resignation as circuit judge, Governor Collier, without the solicitation of Mr. Reavis, who represented in political views another party, appointed him to the vacancy. This selection was made because of the superior legal abilities, judicial temperament and freedom from acrimony and prejudice of the appointee. Owing to political questions he was defeated for election the following year, but two years later, 1854, he was again appointed circuit judge by the newly elected governor, John A. Winston. In 1860 Judge Reavis was a strong supporter of Breckenridge and Lane and assisted in the campaign for these candidates. In 1861 he was elected State senator from the counties of Sumter and Choctaw and served four years in that body, taking always a leading part in the measures designed to aid secession. He was very active in regard to the loan for the defense of the Confederate States, traveling and taking subscriptions for the fund. At this time he was a Whig, but after the war he became an ardent Democrat and freely gave of his valuable council in activities of that party. While not a member of any church, he assisted in the support of all denominations, realizing the value of Christian influences in the upbuilding of the State. Author: in 1847 he commenced the "Digest of the decisions of the Supreme Court of Alabama" and executed the arduous task with great credit to himself, and to the satisfaction of the legal profession. In 1850, under appointment of Gov. Andrew Moore he revised the code of Alabama. He made occasional contributions to the press on the public issues of the times, and always with telling effect. Judge Reavis was married three times, his widow still surviving and making her home in Little Rock, Ark. Married: (1) to Susan Gatlin, daughter of Ex-Gov. Gatlin of North Carolina, who lived but a short time; (2) to Mary Strathan (Barret) Jesse, daughter of Dr. John S. and Nancy (Temple) Barret who at one time lived in Gainesville, granddaughter of Col. Benj. and Mary (Baylor) Temple of Virginia, the former holding the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in the Revolutionary War; (3) to Sarah Jane, to whom he was married a year before his death, daughter of Prof. John S. and Frances Brooks (Newman) Mosby, of Natchez, Miss, the former was descended from the Virginia family of that name and was himself a gentleman and scholar of the highest order, a teacher by profession, the latter descended from the venerable Brooks family of Massachusetts and related to Philips Brooks, the noted Episcopal bishop. Children: by the first wife, 1. Susan Gatlin, m. Hon. Charles Cooke of Virginia; by the second wife, 2. Lucie Barret, m. Maj. T. H. Jackson of South Carolina; 3. Mittie, m. Capt. John V. Moore of New Orleans, La.; by the third wife, 4. Sallie Turner, m. Julian Hamilton Miller formerly of Natchez, Miss., but now living in Little Rock, Ark. Last residence: Gainesville.

REDDEN, R. D., major, 26th, O'Neal's, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

REDDEN, ROBERT JAMES, physician, was born June 16, 1848, near Russellville, Franklin County; son of Raymond Dial and Elizabeth Charlotte (Kirk) Redden, the former born in Lancaster District, S. C., removed to Alabama and resided in Pickens, Tuscaloosa, and Lamar Counties, served in the 26th Alabama infantry regiment, first as captain and later as major, physician and surgeon; grandson of Jesse Redden and wife, and of William and Elizabeth Kirk, all of Lancaster District, S. C. He was educated in the common schools; studied medicine at the University of Louisville, Ky., 1869-70, and graduated with M. D. degree from Washington university, Baltimore, Md., February 22, 1872. He has been engaged in the practice of medicine since 1870. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Daniel and Margaret (Miller) Hollis (q. v.). Children: 1. Blanche Kathleen, m. Robert Green Hill; 2. Stella, m. Albert Sidney Gray; 3. Raymond, m. Mildred Eudocia Cobb; 4. Robert Grey, m. Ella Mayberry; 5. Inez, m. Clyde Vernon Matthews. Residence: Sulligent.

REDWOOD, RICHARD H., major, 8th, Hatch's, also called 9th, Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

REED, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, and a resident of Fayette County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on November 15, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30; sums received to date of publication of list, $90.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

REED, NATHAN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Perry County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on September 17, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30; sums received to date of publication of list, $75.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

REED, ROBERT, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of St. Clair County; private and sergeant N. C. Militia; enrolled on February 4, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $65; sums received to date of publication of list, $195.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in St. Clair County, June 1, 1840, aged 75.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

REEDER, WILLIAM C., major and later, lieutenant colonel, 26th, O'Neal's, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

REESE, CARLOS H., manufacturer and Confederate soldier, was born May 4, 1847, at Eutaw, Greene County; son of Edwin and Charlotte (McKinstry) Reese, the former a native of South Carolina, who served as captain of home guards during the War of Secession, the latter a native of Connecticut. He was reared in his native town, and in the spring of 1862, volunteered as a private in Capt. W. H. Fowler's battery, C. S. Army, serving with this command at Mobile until the spring of 1863, when it joined General Bragg's army at Tullahoma, Tenn. He was in the battles at Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Dalton-Atlanta campaign, Franklin and Nashville, ending at Mobile. After the capitulation of General Taylor he was paroled at Meridian, Miss. Since 1882, he has resided at Birmingham and is a manufacturer. Married: in 1872, to Mary Clinton. Children: two daughters. Residence: Birmingham.

REESE, GEORGE, planter and State senator, was born September 16, 1776, in Pendleton District, S. C., and died January 26, 1877, in Chambers County; son of George and Ann (Story) Reese of Pendleton District; grandson of David Reese, of near Charlotte, Mecklenburg County, N. C., signer of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, May 20, 1775, and a Presbyterian. He was the fourth son of his parents and received his education from a Mr. Breckenridge who taught school in the community school house made of hewn logs and erected by the first settlers in 1800, among whom were the Whitner, Calhoun, Pickens and Taylor families. When he was twenty-three years of age, his parents, having determined upon an agricultural career for him, sent him on horseback to New England to see the model farms of that section. While on this journey he visited Yale college, at New Haven, and also met a number of celebrities at other points. In his journal he has left an interesting narrative of his experience on this journey. He met Joseph Bonaparte and was entertained in his home in New Jersey, saw Aaron Burr, and Van Buren in New York, and in Washington City found Senator Earl of South Carolina "sitting in his seat with his hat on, dressed in homespun." In 1836 he volunteered to fight the Indians and was assigned to the command of Major-Gen. Thomas Pinckney. He was elected to the South Carolina legislature, and later removed to Georgia, and thence to Chambers County, 1839. He was elected, by the Democratic party, to the senate of this State and served three terms. In 1865 he was a candidate for congress from the 3rd district but was defeated by Gen. Cullen Battle. Married: in 1824, in Sumter, S. C., to Mary Ann, daughter of Gavin Witherspoon of Revolutionary fame, descendant of John Witherspoon, D. D., of Princeton, signer of the Declaration of Independence and a brother-in-law of John Knox, the noted Scotch Presbyterian minister. Children: 1. David Addison; 2. Anna Story; 3. Gavin Witherspoon; 4. Jeanette Amelia, educated at LaGrange college, Ga., m. Donom Witherspoon, her cousin, of Yorkville, S. C.; 5. Osenappa; 6. Milton Eli, educated at the University of Georgia and read law at the University of Virginia, m. Mrs. Ella Cooper Hagerty, Wetumpka; 7. Edwin Horatio; 8. Marah. Mr. and Mrs. George Reese celebrated their golden wedding in 1874 at the home of their son, Milton E., West Point, Ga. Last residence: Chambers County.

REESE, HENRY FONTAINE, lawyer, was born December 15, 1863, near Demopolis, Marengo County; son of Henry Winston and Julia Malvina (Winn) Reese, the former who was a native of Buckingham County, Va., settled in Marengo County about 1836, was a physician, soon becoming one of the leading physicians of that section of the state, and was a third cousin of Patrick Henry, and the latter who was a descendant of the ancient Winn, Wynne, or Gynne family of Welsh ancestry who claim to trace their lineage back to the ancient rulers and princes of Wales as far as to the date of the Christian era; grandson of Herod and Frances Winston (Walker) Reese, who lived in Buckingham County, Virginia, and of Capt. Asa B.

Winn and a Miss Schwartz who lived in Marengo County, near what is now Van Dorn; great-grandson of Lieut. William Winston, who was an officer of the colonial military service of Great Britain for many years before American independence. Henry F. Reese received his early education under a governess, Miss Rose Pendleton, daughter of Gen. W. N. Pendleton, C. S. Army; later attended Howard college for three years; entered the state university and was graduated A. B., in 1883; graduated from the law department of Georgetown university, 1885, with LL. B. degree, and from the same department in 1888 with the degree of LL. M.; was admitted to the bar of the supreme court of the District of Columbia in 1886; practiced in Washington, D. C., from June, 1889, to December, 1889; then removed to Selma; was for five years president of the bar association of Dallas County; was law clerk in the U. S. treasury department, 1884 to 1889; represented Dallas County in the constitutional convention of 1901; served on the committees on education, legislative department and state and county boundaries; was the author of and responsible for the constitutional provisions providing for private trials in rape cases, of provision fixing property basis of representation in legislature, and also of an ordinance providing for an election of a railroad commission; was a member of the committee of the convention which prepared an address to the people of Alabama, advising the adoption of the present constitution, and in November, 1906, was elected to the state senate. He is a Democrat, a Mason, and was for three terms a member of the committee on Masonic Jurisprudence of the Grand Royal Arch chapter of Alabama, and a Baptist. Married: on December 8, 1886, in Selma, to Miss Kate Lamar, daughter of Dent and Elizabeth (Law) Lamar. Children: 1. Henry Fontaine, jr.; 2. Katherine Lamar; 3. Frances Lamar. Residence: Selma.

REESE, JAMES ELEY, lawyer and State senator, was born July 12, 1802, in Pendleton District, S. C., and died July 2, 1876, in Opelika, while temporarily absent from his home; sixth son of George and Ann (Story) Reese of South Carolina and brother of George Reese (q. v.). He received his preparatory education in his native county and graduated in both the academic and the law departments, South Carolina college, Columbia, S. C. He removed to Lafayette in 1842 and entered upon the successful practice of his profession. He was a Whig in politics and represented that party in the Alabama State senate in 1843, succeeding his brother, George, who had previously served in the upper branch of the legislature as a Democrat. He was a Presbyterian. His remains were interred in the old Hopewell cemetery, West Point, Ga. Married: in 1843 in Lafayette, to Lucy Allison, of that place. Last residence: Lafayette.

REESE, LITTLETON, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, resided in Autauga County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

REESE, WALTER P., physician, was born November 30, 1818, in Putnam County, Ga., and died February 21, 1878, at Selma. His early education was received at Rocky Mount, Autauga County. In 1840, he attended one course of lectures at the Medical university of Pennsylvania, and in 1842, attended a second course of lectures at the Medical university of Louisville, where he graduated in 1842. In 1843, he removed near Pleasant Hill, Lowndes County, where he commenced to practice medicine, and in 1851, removed to Selma. He was elected a member of the State medical association, in 1848; was treasurer of that association from 1852-1857; was president of the Selma medical society, 1865-66; was president of the Selma board of health, in 1875; and in 1876-77, was sanitary superintendent and register of vital statistics of Selma. He contributed freely to various medical journals, was the author of an essay on yellow and typhoid fevers, and the following articles: "Marasmus peculiar to the black race," "Hypodermic Medication," published in 1861, "On the use of the Obstetric Forceps," "Influence of the mind in health and disease," "Abortions," "Public Hygiene," "Sickness Tax," "Drainage," "Food Inspection," "School Hygiene," "Preventive Medicine," "Sanitary Science," "Water Pollution," and many others. He was an Old Line Whig, and in 1860, supported Bell and Everett. He was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Married: to Mary Turner. Children: 1. William, b. June 7, 1846, courier in the Jeff Davis artillery, C. S. Army, d. in C. S. Army. Last residence: Selma.

REESE, WARREN STONE, planter, cotton merchant, mayor of Montgomery, was born October 12, 1842, at Sylacauga, and died December 16, 1898, at Montgomery; son of Dr. James Thomas and Mary Spencer (Powell) Reese, the former who was a Virginian, practiced medicine at Rome, Ga., was mayor of Selma before the War of Secession, served in the Creek War of 1836, and was surgeon in the C. S. Army, the latter who was a sister of Col. James R. Powell (q. v.); grandson of Col. Addison and Katherine (Spencer) Powell, who lived at King George County, Va., and moved to Coosa County, in 1820; a descendant of members of the Powell and Reese family who were engaged in the early development of the country, and who fought in the Revolutionary War, and of David Reese, a Presbyterian minister, who was the son of a Presbyterian minister, who moved from Pennsylvania, to North Carolina. He received his education in the country schools, later attending Marion institute. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he was engaged in business for his uncle, but resigning, he enlisted in the Montgomery mounted rifles. He was made a first lieutenant when the company merged into a regiment, and when the regiment went into Kentucky, under the command of Gen. Bragg, he was promoted to captain. When he was nineteen years old he was promoted to the rank of colonel by Gen. Joseph Wheeler, for gallantry on the field of Chickamauga, and was assigned to the Twelfth Alabama cavalry, with which he served until the close of the war. He was recommended for promotion as brigadier-general, but because of the condition of affairs, the papers never reached headquarters, and the commission was never received. Colonel Reese was the youngest colonel in the army of the Tennessee. After the war he returned to Montgomery, and engaged in the planting and cotton commission business. He served as mayor of Montgomery in 1885-87, and 1887-89, but was absent for a time in 1887, when he attended the Paris exposition, having received his appointment of commissioner from President Cleveland. In 1896, he was the fusion candidate for election to the U. S. senate, but was defeated by John T. Morgan. He was a delegate to the Presbyterian convention; was influential in raising money for the erection of a soldier's monument at Montgomery; was president of the Alabama soldier's monument association; was originator of the Hon. Jefferson Davis tour through Alabama and Georgia, was president of the Montgomery shooting club; and of the Alabama sportsman association. He was a Mason; an Elk; Knight of Pythias; Knight of Honor; and a Redman. Married: on December 29, 1846, in Montgomery, to Mary Ludlow, daughter of Col. John A. and Laura (Martin) Elmore, who lived at Edgefield, S. C.; granddaughter of John A. Elmore (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary Powell Elmore, resides at Montgomery, m. William Elijah Richardson, lawyer of Montgomery, b. December 15, 1855, A. M. and LL. B. from the University of Alabama, d. June 13, 1895, children, (1) Minnie Reese, m. George Bushrod Magg, (2) Coralye Reese; 2. Warren Stone, b. January 31, 1866, LL. B., from University of Alabama, U. S. attorney, middle district of Alabama, 1897 and for several years, m. Essie Lee Whitfield of Brunswick, Ga., lawyer at Montgomery, children, Warren III; 3. Laura Martin, deceased, m. Lord Dodd; 4. Kathryn Spencer; 5. Carrie Bostick, deceased, m. William Pullum. Last residence: Montgomery.

REEVES, JAMES AVERY, lawyer, examiner of accounts, was born November 22, 1842, in Jasper County, Ga., and died February 11, 1900, at Center; son of James Madison and Susan Rice (Watt) Reeves, who came from Georgia in the early thirties and settled at Cedar Bluff, Cherokee County. His father died when he was twelve years old, and his mother married Rev. O. D. McNeely. He received his education in the schools of Cherokee County, entered the college of Murfreesboro, Tenn., in 1858, and withdrew the year he was to have graduated to enter the C. S. Army. He enlisted in August, 1861, in the Nineteenth Alabama, was severely wounded at Shiloh, discharged, and in the fall of 1863, entered the quartermasters department, in which he was assigned to post duty at Center and Golden. He was appointed by the governor as special aid in 1864, with the rank of colonel, and was assigned to the duty of raising and organizing state troops. In September, 1865, he began the study of law, was admitted to the bar at Center, in the fall of 1867, and entered into partnership with Maj. Thomas B. Cooper. He was elected county treasurer in 1865, held that office for one year, and from 1866-1867, was journal clerk of the House of Representatives. He had been appointed register in chancery, in 1865, and held this office in addition to his other duties until 1880. In February, 1868, he was elected to the legislature, and was appointed state examiner of public accounts by Gov. Seay, in the spring of 1887, holding this office through Govs. Jones' and Oates' administrations. He was a member of the Democratic party, and in 1874, when the radical party had control of the state, and George S. Houston was running for governor, Mr. Reeves, Henry Clay Tompkins, Gen. James Clanton, his intimate friend, and B. B. Lewis, toured the state in the interests of the Democratic party. He was a Mason. Married: (1) on December 20, 1866, to Mary E. Haynes of Center; (2) to Elizabeth Harrison, daughter of Marion Augustus and Celia (Fitzpatrick) Baldwin (q. v.), who lived at Montgomery, the former who was for nineteen years attorney general of the state, the latter who was a niece of Gov. Ben Fitzpatrick; granddaughter of Joseph Fitzpatrick, who represented Montgomery County in the legislature in 1820-22; and a descendent of Abraham Baldwin, who was the founder of the University of Georgia, and for whom Baldwin County is named. Children, by first marriage: 1. Maggie, Rome, Ga.; 2. James Haynes, captain in the U. S. Army, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.; 3. Mary T.; 4. John A., B. S., 1896, Center college; by second marriage: 5. Helen Baldwin, m. December 11, 1912, to Hon. Oscar Alexander Lane, an attorney of Greenville, one daughter, Helen Elizabeth. Last residence: Center.

REEVES, WILLIAM N., major, 4th battalion artillery, Hilliard's Alabama Legion, C. S. Army.

REID, AUGUSTA (RANDOLPH), manager woman's department State fair and author, was born July 25, 1859, at Eutaw, Greene County; daughter of Brett and Emma (Herdon) Randolph, the former, during several terms, State senator from Blount County; granddaughter of Victor Moreau and Augusta (Granberry) Randolph, the former commander of the "Albany," and of Thomas H. and Emma (Toulmin) Herndon, who lived at Erie, Hale County. Mrs. Reid was educated at Miss Quigley's school in Mobile. In 1898 she was made manager of the woman's department of the Alabama State fair, at Birmingham, and has held that position to date. Author: numerous special feature articles and fiction for the current press. She is an Episcopalian. Married: October 2, 1878, at Blount Springs, to John Bradley, son of Dr. John H. and Ann (Perry) Reid, who lived at Marion. Mrs. Reid, sr., m. (2), Samuel H. Fowlkes, of Marion. Children: 1. Emma Toulmin, m. H. S. Ryall, Birmingham; 2. Annie Perry, deceased, m. John Wade Watts, Birmingham; 3. Augusta Randolph, m. W. Lee Roueche, Birmingham; 4. Brett Randolph, m. Rufus A. Russell, Birmingham; 5. John B., jr.; 6. Oliver Fowlkes. Residence: Birmingham.

REID, CLIVE ESKELE, lawyer, was born January 8, 1867, near Mount Willing, Lowndes

County; son of George Edward and Laura Olivia (Harris) Reid; the former who was born at Ft. Deposit, and was a lieutenant in Co. F, Twenty-third Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Alexander and Nancy (Cook) Reid, and of Buckner and Sarah Marion (McKeithen) Harris. Clive Eskelle Reid received his education in the county schools and in the Ft. Deposit high school. He has been a bookkeeper; engaged as a teacher; was a railroad agent; read law and was admitted to the bar in 1897; was a member of the Lowndes County Rifles, 1888, 1889 and 1894; was elected to the state senate in November, 1906, and again in 1907. He is a Democrat; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, which he has served as steward; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) in 1890, to Josephine Tennille, daughter of Joseph C. and Mary E. (Douglas) Avent; (2) in 1900, to Rose, daughter of W. W. Drane of Hayneville; (3) in 1903, to Mary Charlotte, daughter of S. M. and Sallie E. (Frierson) Cumming. Residence: Andalusia.

REID, GEORGE P. L., deputy grand commander, grand commandery, Masons, 1878.

REID, JOHN COLEMAN, lawyer, colonel in C. S. Army, was born December 6, 1824, in Tuscaloosa County; son of Thomas and Mary (Coleman) Reid, the former, who was of Irish ancestry, was a planter, a native of North Carolina, who came to Alabama in 1818, lived for many years in Tuscaloosa County, and then removed to Memphis County, where he died, the latter who was a descendant of the branch of the Coleman family that traced its ancestry to Germany. He received his education at Memphis; at the age of nineteen began to study law; was admitted to the bar at Jacksonville, Tenn., in 1843; began to practice at Purdy, Tenn.; went to Kingston where he lived from 1845-51; and then removed to Marion, where he remained for seventeen years. In 1856, Col. Reid, at the head of a company of twenty-eight men, started on a volunteer expedition to explore the "Gadsden Purchase," the territory which now comprises Arizona and that part of New Mexico lying west of the Rio Grande. The expedition lasted ten months. Col. Reid, at the time he purposed to go on the expedition was prominent in politics, was a member of the legislature, and a Fillmore elector, and it was to get out of politics that he went on this "tramp." The story of the expedition was published under the title of "Reid's Tramp" in 1858. In 1860, he supported Bell and Everett, was opposed to secession, however, after the election of Lincoln, he gave his unqualified support to the south. He was a "Know nothing" and was at one time elected to the State legislature. In April, 1861, he entered the C. S. Army, as first lieutenant of Co. A, Eighth Alabama, and in the following October was commissioned to raise a regiment of infantry, afterward known as the Twenty-eighth Alabama, of which he was lieutenant-colonel, until just before the battle of Murfreesboro, when he was promoted to the rank of colonel. In the fall of 1864, he was advanced, by Gen. Johnston, to the rank of brigadier-general, and was in command in north Alabama of a part of a cavalry brigade, from that time until the end of the war. He was with Magruder on the expedition across the peninsula of the James and York Rivers, and as colonel of his regiment, participated in the battles of Murfreesboro, and Chickamauga. At the close of the war, he resumed his law practice at Marion, and removed to Selma, in 1871. He was a Catholic. Married: (1) in 1850, to Mrs. Alice Coughlin, who died eighteen months after her marriage; (2) at Robertson's Spring, to Adelaide O. Reid, who died October 22, 1883; (3) in February, 1886, at Selma, to Mary Frances, daughter of Francis Erwin, Esq., of Dallas, Tex. Residence: Selma.

REID, SAMUEL GERSHAM, editor, was born September 17, 1834, at Greensboro, Hale County, and died in April, 1881, at his home near Montgomery. Mr. Reid came of distinguished ancestry on both sides of the house, his grandfather being a descendant of the Lord High Admiral of Scotland in the great days of Bruce, while his grandmother was of old colonial and English stock. The family came from England to America and settled in North Carolina. Mr. Reid began his education in Greensboro and later attended Davidson college and the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He entered upon his professional career as editor in Marion, 1853. On account of having weak lungs he could not enter the active fighting militia service of the Confederacy, but his pen was busy defending the principles of States Rights for which the South was fighting. For a short time during the contest between the slaves and the free gollers, he conducted a Southern rights paper in Kansas, and attained distinction as a vigorous writer. In 1859 he became editor of "The Montgomery Advertiser" and throughout the period of his connection as editor and part owner, he was an ardent advocate of the theory of Secession, and was the close personal and political friend of Wm. L. Yancey. In 1868 he disposed of his holding in the newspaper and in 1870 joined the Republican party. He was an Episcopalian. Married: January 3, 1861, in Montgomery, to Clara Medford, daughter of Pearley and Camilla (Sanford) Gerald (q. v.) of that city. Children: 1. Pearley, d. in childhood; 2. Hattie, m. (1) James Johnson; (2) Leon Logan, reside at Chimney Rock, N. C.; 3. Camilla, unmarried; 4. Emily, m. W. H. Lawrence, of Livingston; 5. Helen, m. James W. Singleton, Florence; 6. Gaston, d. in infancy; 7. Maude, m. Edward Wood Naylor, lives in Montgomery; 8. Julia, d. unmarried. Last residence: Montgomery.

REILLY, ANDREW JACKSON, civil and mining engineer, was born January 3, 1858, at Philadelphia, Pa.; son of Andrew Jackson and Catharine Elizabeth (Cassaday) Reilly, the former a major in the Federal Army during the War of Secession and for thirty-five years clerk in the court of common pleas in Philadelphia, a position held by his father, Paul Reilly, for twenty-five years previous to his appointment. The latter was a soldier of the war of 1812, and a Jackson Democrat. Mr. Reilly was educated until fourteen years of age in the public schools of his native city. At twenty-two he entered upon his professional career and practiced it in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and for the past fifteen years in Alabama. He was justice of the peace in Charlotte County, Va., 1879-80. He is a Democrat and a Catholic. Married: May 31, 1879, in Philadelphia, to Katherine Theresa Dolan of that city. Residence: Ensley.

REMBERT, JAMES MONROE, planter, was born at Camden, Sumter County, S. C., in 1819, and died from wounds received at the battle of Shiloh; son of Caleb and Mary Magdeline (Michau) Rembert, the former a native of South Carolina, who removed to Alabama, located at Rembert Hills, Marengo County, where he became an extensive farmer. Capt. Rembert was educated in the schools of Marengo County and later at the University of Alabama. He served as captain of the 21st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was mortally wounded at the battle of Shiloh. Married: to Elizabeth De Bondelle, daughter of Gen. Julius and Elizabeth (Rogers) Poellnitz (q. v.). Children: 1. James, d. in infancy; 2. Celeste, m. Frank N. Kitchell; 3. Mary Louise, d. in infancy; 4. Caleb, m. Gus Askew; 5. Elizabeth, d. in infancy; 6. Julius, m. Susie Lyon, who with his family, except Helen and Rosa, were drowned in a steamboat explosion, near Demopolis. Last residence: "Rembert Hills," Marengo County.

RENFRO, NOAH P., banker and legislator, was born October 3, 1855, at Cusseta, Chambers County; son of N. P. and Nancy (Rinehart) Renfro, the former was a farmer and died in July, 1855. He was educated in the schools of Cusseta; later at West Point, Ga.; attended Howard college, Marion; and in 1877 engaged in the grocery business with his brothers, F. and F. M. Renfro. In 1888 this business became a banking and warehouse firm exclusively. He became vice-president of the First national bank of Opelika in March, 1886, and a member of the city council of Opelika. He is a stock holder in the Cherwackia lime works, situated near Opelika. He was one of the delegates from Lee County to the constitutional convention of 1901; and a member of the State senate from the twenty-seventh district in 1911. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: in 1885, at Greenville, to Maggie, daughter of T. P. and Laura (Williamson) McCall, of that place. Children: 1. Neville P. Residence: Opelika.

RENFROE, JOHN JEFFERSON DEYAMP-ERT, Baptist minister, chaplain in C. S. Army, was born August 30, 1830, in Montgomery County, and died June 2, 1888, at Birmingham. He had meagre educational advantages, and in 1848 was baptized into the fellowship of the Caleb Baptist church, in Macon County, by Rev. A. N.

MAJOR F. Y. ANDERSON

Worthy, and was soon authorized by the church to preach. He then studied for a time at Prof. John's scientific institute at Tuskegee, and going as pastor to Cherokee County, continued his studies as best he could. In 1852, he was ordained to the full work of the ministry, and served churches in Calhoun and Cherokee Counties for the next five years. On January 1, 1858, he became pastor of the church in Talladega, where he remained over twenty-nine years. His brother, Rev. N. D. Renfro, pastor at Jacksonville, entered the C. S. Army at the beginning of the war, as lieutenant, and was killed when in command of his company, near Hamilton's Crossing, in the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862, and it was in this same year that Rev. Renfro began service in the C. S. Army, as chaplain of the Tenth Alabama Regiment in the army of northern Virginia, with which he served until the end of the war. In 1872, at the meeting of the Alabama Baptist state convention in Eufaula, he championed the organization of a state mission board; in 1875, the degree of D. D., was conferred upon him by Howard college. He made addresses throughout the state during the Centennial convention of 1876; and was one of the editors of the "Alabama Baptist." For more than a year before his death, in 1880, he was pastor of the Southside Baptist church of Birmingham. He published a sermon he had preached in the army of northern Virginia after the defeat at Gettysburg, and has left a volume of war sermon notes, together with incidentals of their delivery. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Married: in Cherokee County, to Elsie Lee, who died in September, 1887, daughter of Dr. Lee, who lived at Washington County, Ga., but moved to Cherokee County during the childhood of Mrs. Renfro. Children: 1. Graves; 2. Theodosia; 3. Curry; 4. Annie, m. Dr. John R. Sampey (q. v.), reside at Louisville, Ky.; 5. Croquette; 6. John; 7. Elsie Lee; 8. Ruby; all deceased except Mrs. Sampey. Last residence: Birmingham.

RENFROE, N. D., Baptist minister, was born October 7, 1833, in Macon County, was killed, December 13, 1862, in the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., and is buried in Talladega. He received his education at Cedar Bluff academy and Union university, Tenn. He was ordained as pastor of the Jacksonville church, in 1859. He entered the Confederate service at the opening of the War of Secession. He was unmarried. Last residence: Jacksonville.

RENO, CONRAD, lawyer and inventor, was born December 28, 1859, at Mt. Vernon; son of Maj. Gen. Jesse Lee and Mary Bradley Beanes (Cross) Reno, the former a native of Wheeling, W. Va., a brigadier-general in the Union Army, who at one time, 1859-60, had charge of the arsenal at Mt. Vernon, and who was killed in action, September 14, 1862. Conrad Reno was a student at Lehigh university, 1878-80, and Harvard law school, 1880-82; received the LL. B. degree from Boston university, 1883; and attended John Hopkins university, 1913-14. He practiced in Boston, 1883-1914; drafted the public service tri-partnership bill, 1907, for regulating rates and changes, dividends and wages in public service corporations; also the railroad tri-partnership bill, 1908; gas tri-partnership bill, 1909; business tri-partnership bill, 1911; and the interstate tri-partnership bill, 1911. He is the inventor of the "stream" method of wireless transmission of energy. He was a member of the First corps of cadets of Boston, 1887-90, and of the Veterans' association, 1915-18. Author: "State regulation of wages," 1891; "Non-Residents and foreign corporations," 1892; "Employers' liability acts," 1896-1903; "History of the judicial system of New England," 1900; "The Partnership of man"; also a contributor to law and other journals. Married: April 13, 1887, to Susan M., daughter of Rev. William T. Eustis, of Springfield, Mass. Residence: Springfield, Mass.

REPASS, W. G., major, 7th Confederate battalion, C. S. Army.

REQUIER, AUGUSTUS JULIAN, lawyer, Federal and Confederate district attorney, author, was born May 27, 1825, at Charleston, S. C. and died March 19, 1887, in New York City. His father was a native of Marseilles, France, and his mother was the daughter of a French Haytian planter who fled to the United States during the insurrection. He received a classical education, and in 1844 was admitted to the bar in his native city. Six years later he removed to Marion, S. C., where he continued the practice of the law. In 1850 located in Mobile, and three years later, 1853, he was appointed by President Buchanan, U. S. district attorney for the southern district of Alabama. At the beginning of the War of Secession he was continued as Confederate States attorney. After the war closed, he removed to New York City where he at once took a secure place at that bar, and was later appointed assistant district attorney. He was a corporation lawyer of much ability. While not a practical politician he took a prominent part in Tammany. In 1842, at the age of seventeen, he wrote a play, "The Spanish Exile," in blank verse which was acted with success, and which gave him prosperity as an author. "The Old Sanctuary," a pre-Revolutionary romance, appeared two years later. In 1859 he published "Marco Bozzaris: A Tragedy"; "Crystalline, and Other Poems." Other poems of merit were "Ashes of glory"; "Only a dream"; "Clouds in the West"; "Who was it"; "The legend of Tremaine"; "Ode to Shakespeare"; "Ode to victory, 1862-64." He wrote a number of Confederate poems of which "Ashes of glory" a martial lyric, was written as a reply to Father Ryan's "Conquered banner." Upon his departure from Mobile to make his home in New York a newspaper of the former city said: "It is natural that we should grant grudgingly what we cannot afford to part with; and in the present case we thus constrainedly contribute a jurist of eminent skill, energy and acquirements; an orator who blends the impassioned fervor of Prentiss with the laboriously informed acumen of Pinckney; a litterateur whose productions are foremost among those which illustrate the artistic resources of his section; and last but not least, a gentleman whose amiable deportment and refined manners are the genuine reflex of a soul incapable of guile." Last residence: New York City.

REYNOLDS, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Chickasaw Indian agent, was born in 1788 in Fayette County, Ky., and died in 1843, at Newport, Franklin County. He removed to Maury County, Tenn., in 1807 and served in both branches of the legislature of that State. He was captain in the 39th regiment and was wounded in the battle of Horseshoe Bend. He assisted in burying Maj. Lemuel P. Montgomery, who fell in the first charge in that sanguinary battle. When General Jackson became President he appointed Capt. Reynolds agent for the Chickasaw Indians and in 1830 he removed to Franklin County. He was elected to the house of representatives from that county three terms, 1839, 1840 and 1841. He was a presidential elector in 1840. He was a Democrat. Married: Mrs. Katherine (Gray) Allen, of Kentucky. Children: 1. Chambers, m. Levenia Cowan, Riverton; 2. Montgomery, m. Amelia Carter; 3. Marandy, m. Julian Carter, moved to Texas; 4. James Allen, m. Cynthia Allan, Newport; 5. Benjamin Franklin, jr., m. Cornelia Ann Avery, was killed in the Mexican War, 1846, while fighting under Sam Houston, Newport; 6. Thomas, m. Sara Tuberville, Riverton; 7. Katherine, m. Alexander Dugger, Iuka, Miss.; 8. Nancy, m. Mastin Green, Allsboro. Last residence: Newport.

REYNOLDS, FIELDING, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Dallas County; private and sergeant S. C. State Troops; enrolled on March 8, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $93.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $279.99.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

REYNOLDS, HENRY CLAY, business man and first president Alabama girl's technical institute, was born March 11, 1838, in Warren County, Tenn.; son of Elisha and Nancy (Petty) Reynolds, the former left Tennessee in 1841, located in Alabama, and resided successively in Montgomery, Greenville, Selma and Montevallo, in association with Wade Allen established a line of stages between Montgomery and Mobile, was a mail contractor, during the Mexican War ran a "pony express," and died in Shelby County; grandson of a Revolutionary soldier whose home was in North Carolina. He was reared in Selma, where he received his early education; also attended school in Montgomery and Greenville, and for one year attended the Georgia military institute at Marietta; served in the War of Secession under Colonel John T. Morgan, in the first Alabama "Partisan Rangers" later known as the 51st Alabama cavalry regiment, was orderly sergeant, 1st lieutenant and captain. He was a Democrat, and a Baptist. Married: (1) April 30, 1861, to Mary Jane, daughter of Hugh and Elizabeth Boyd, of Chester, S. C.; (2) Mrs. Hattie Meredith; (3) Mrs. Augusta Nelson. Children: all by first marriage: 1. William Boyd, m. Martha, daughter of Mims Walker of Faunsdale; 2. Bessie Elminor, m. R. S. Allen, merchant of Birmingham; 3. Eugene DuBose, m. Sallie, daughter of Mims Walker, Faunsdale; 4. Herbert Elisha (q. v.), graduate of the University of Alabama and of the University of Virginia, a lawyer and merchant, member of the State Senate, died in Birmingham from an operation for appendicitis, m. Nora, daughter of Judge John Leeper; 5. Frederick Knox, a physician residing in Birmingham, m. Maud Thompson; 6. Fannie Belle, m. Frederick Rogan; Montevallo; 7. Henry Clay, jr., Birmingham; 8. Mary Maud, Montevallo, dec. m. Emmet Jones; 9. Cecil Cleveland, d. in infancy; 10. Lucia Louise, m. Henry White, lives in Marion. Last residence: Montevallo.

REYNOLDS, HERBERT E., lawyer, merchant and legislator, was born October 8, 1869, at Montevallo, Shelby County; son of Henry Clay and Mary J. (Boyd) Reynolds (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Montevallo; graduated A. B., 1889, and LL. B., 1890, from the University of Alabama; attended the University of Virginia, 1890-91; and from 1891 to 1894 practiced his profession at Columbiana. From 1900 to 1904 he was mayor of Centerville; and was for sometime a member of the Bibb County board of education. He is now a planter, and in the cotton and mercantile business. He was State senator from the eighteenth district in the legislature of 1901. He was a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: October 20, 1896, at Birmingham, to Nora (Woodruff) Leeper, daughter of Judge John and Francis (Woodruff) Leeper; granddaughter of Judge Samuel Leeper, of Shelby County. Children: 1. John Leeper; 2. Eugene Du Bose. Last residence: Centerville.

REYNOLDS, JAMES, farmer and merchant, was born July 12, 1818, at Woodville, Greene County, Ga., and died November 1, 1899, at Butler Springs; son of John Reynolds of Woodville. He was a successful farmer and merchant and was for many years prior to the War of Secession postmaster at Pine Flat, Butler County, to which place he moved in early manhood. He purchased the home of his father-in-law, and resided there from 1848 to his death, more than fifty years. He was a Methodist, and a steward in the local church for thirty years. Married: March 7, 1846, at Pine Flat, to Martha M., daughter of Abel and Martha Barge of that place. Children: 1. Molly, m. Wm. H. Lloyd, Pine Apple; 2. Seaborn Marion, m. Susie C. Key, Liberty; 3. Mattie E., m. (1) Jerre C. Lloyd, (2) Elder A. V. Atkins, Los Angeles, Calif.; 4. Emma E., m. John A. Smith, Los Angeles; 5. Minnie E., m. J. T. Moncrief. Last residence: Butler Springs.

REYNOLDS, LEWIS HENRY, merchant and probate judge, was born October 16, 1864, at Tuskegee; son of William Jobe and Susan Morris (Jordan) Reynolds, the former a native of Tuskegee, and a member of Co. K, 45th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was shot in the eye while in the service, and located in Chilton County in 1872; grandson of William Lewis and Nancy Reynolds, of Edgefield District, S. C., and of Samuel and Sarah Jordan, of Campbell County, Va. W. A. Reynolds, a brother of L. H. Reynolds, was a member of the legislature of Alabama, 1919. Judge Reynolds was educated in the country schools, and is a farmer and a merchant. He was a representative from Chilton County in the legislature, 1896-97, 1898-99, and 1903. He was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901 from Chilton County, serving on the committees on local legislation and banks and banking; and was probate judge of the county, 1904-1910. He is a Progressive Republican; a Methodist; a Mason; a Shriner; a Woodman; and a Red Man. Married: February 26, 1888, at Birmingham, to Dora Cornelia, daughter of James and Margaret Marshall, of Watkinsville, Ga. Children: 1. Grady, a lawyer at Clanton; 2. Lewis Claude; 3. Winnie Davis; 4. Willey Myrtle; 5. Omar. Residence: Clanton.

REYNOLDS, ROBERT DAVIS, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, 1880; licensed to practice by the county board of Dale, 1887. Residence: Ozark.

REYNOLDS, ROBERT MCCONNELL, State auditor, was born August 27, 1826, at Rix Mills, Muskingum County, Ohio, and died June 1, 1885, as the result of an accident, at St. Louis, Mo.; son of John and Agnes (McConnell) Reynolds, a native of McConnellsville, Pa., later a resident of Rix Mills, Ohio; grandson of Judge McConnell of Morgan County, Ohio. The family is of Scotch-Irish descent, and Covenanters in religion. He was principal of a private school at North Prairie, Ill., later principal of a large private school in Keokuk, Iowa, and later still president of the North Protestant Methodist college, then located at Henry, Ill., but now at Adrian, Mich. He enlisted in the Union Army, June, 1861, as 1st lieutenant, Co. A, 1st Iowa volunteer cavalry, was promoted captain, and severely wounded at Little Rock, Ark. After the War of Secession he located in Alabama; was a delegate from Wilcox County to the constitutional convention of 1867; appointed State auditor, 1868; appointed collector of the Port at Mobile, 1872; appointed U. S. Minister to Bolivia, South America, 1874; auditor in the U. S. treasury department, 1878-1885. He was a Republican and Presbyterian. Married: February 19, 1850, at Laharpe, Ill., to Orpha Wood, daughter of Rev. Rufus and Jemima (Gittings) Richardson, D. D., M. D., of that place; granddaughter of Jesse and Annie (Jones) Richardson, the former a Revolutionary soldier who served in the Connecticut line, and of Ason and Eliza (Clark) Gittings; great-granddaughter of David and Rachael (Richards) Richardson, who was of English stock. Children: 1. Rollo; 2. Annie Jones; 3. Susie; 4. Lovell Knowles, captain U. S. Navy, the recipient of four medals for bravery in line of duty, and died in February, 1893, in Washington, D. C., at the age of thirty-six; 5. Robert McConnell; 6. Francis Joseph, m. Martha Isabel Maloney, residence New York City. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

REYNOLDS, THOMAS HENRY, planter, was born May 11, 1828, at Forsyth, Warren County, Ga., and died October 29, 1892, at Nottingham, Talladega County; son of Walker and Epsey Ann (Gibson) Reynolds (q. v.). He received a good early education in the private and public schools of Talladega, in 1844, entered the University of Georgia, and in 1845 entered the University of Alabama, as a sophomore. During the War of Secession he served in the commissary department of the C. S. Army. He was defeated for secretary of state, by Mr. Langdon, of Mobile, in the early eighties, and engaged in planting in Talladega County. He was a member of the Democratic party, a Baptist and a Mason. Married: (1) on September 27, 1849, at Aberdeen, Miss., to Morglan Reynolds, his first cousin, who died December 24, 1858; (2) on December 12, 1860, at Shorters, Macon County, to Elizabeth Amanda Jordan, daughter of Jesse James and Amanda Frances Jordan of Montgomery. Children: by first marriage, three who died in infancy, 1. Walker; 2. Young; 3. Tallulah; by second marriage, 4. Jessie A., Atlanta, Ga., m. Thomas Finley, deceased, child, Thomas Reynolds; 5. Thomas Jordan, b. January 27, 1864, teller Merchants' and Planters' National Bank, president of the Fourth National Bank, Montgomery, m. (1) Mollie E. Mitchell, (2) Emily E. Allen, Montgomery, children, Joseph Allen, Thomas Jordan, Jr., Emily Campbell; 6. Walker Reynolds, Rendalia; 7. Henry Pearly, deceased; 8. Jordan Fred, deceased; 9. Gibson, b. January 16, 1877, A. B. degree from University of Alabama, 1897, M. D., 1901, Columbia university, N. Y., interne at the General memorial hospital, N. Y., unmarried. Last residence: Nottingham.

REYNOLDS, WALKER, planter, promoter, was born August 28, 1799, in Warren County, Ga., and died January 18, 1871; son of Reuben and Margaret (Walker) Reynolds, the former who was a native of Madison County, Va., the latter who was a Georgian; grandson of Thomas Reynolds, who was of Scotch-Irish descent, and who lived and died on the Rapidan River, Va., and of George Walker, who came from Ireland and settled in Burke County, Ga. He received a limited education in the oldfield schools of that day, and did some studying and reading at home. He came to Alabama in 1832, and settled among the Indians in Talladega County. In 1849 he was elected to the legislature on the Whig ticket, and during his service there, he succeeded in securing the passing of a charter giving to the county a railroad running through its entire length, then known as Alabama & Tennessee Rivers Railway, and afterwards as the Selma, Rome & Dalton Railroad. After the session of 1849, he was not again in public life, but engaged in planting and milling, and the buying and selling of public lands. He opposed secession, but went with his adopted state when she seceded. Because of his age he could not enter the C. S. Army but he aided largely in the support of the needy families of the Confederate soldiers during the war, and raised and equipped a company at his own expense. He was known by the title of major, presumably, from his connection with the militia. He was a Baptist. Married: (1) to Epsey Ann Gibson, who died in 1838, daughter of Churchill and Polly (Thompson) Gibson, the former taught school in Warren County, Ga., about 1838, and they lived on the railroad between Carnak and Mesena, the old house which is still standing is known as the "Polly Gibson Place;" granddaughter of Luke Gibson, who served in the Revolutionary War; (2) in Talladega County, in 1841, to Hannah Elizabeth Welch, daughter of Rev. Oliver and Elizabeth (Mallory) Welch, who lived near Alpine, Talladega County, the former who was a pioneer Baptist minister of the old school from Virginia. Children: by first marriage, 1. Thomas Henry (q. v.); by second marriage, 2. Eppie Ann, d. in 1876, m. (1) to Capt. Newton McCraw, of Selma, deceased, (2) to Dr. I. T. Tichenor, at one time president of the Alabama polytechnic institute, at Auburn; 3. Jane Pincard, Montevallo, m. Capt. James Crook of Jacksonville, d. in 1918; 4. Margaret Elizabeth, Birmingham, m. Capt. Hugh A. Haralson of Selma, d. in 1904; 5. Mary Welch, m. John F. Flournoy, Columbus, Ga.; 6. Oliver Mallory, postmaster at Anniston, was elected to the legislature in 1882 by the Democratic party from Talladega County, m. in 1879, in Frankfort, Ky., to Eliza Talbot Smith, daughter of Col. E. R. and Margaret E. (Dudley) Smith, children, Randolph, Margaret D., Walker, Hannah E., 7. Maude, principal of the W. M. U. Baptist Training School, Louisville, Ky., m. Thomas E. McLure, of Chester, S. C., d. in 1899. Last residence: Talladega County.

REYNOLDS, WILLIAM ARCHIE, merchant, was born June 11, 1870, near Tuskegee, Macon County; son of William Job and Susan J. (Jordan) Reynolds, the former who was a native of South Carolina, came to Tuskegee at the age of fourteen years, in 1872 removed to Chilton County, was a member of Co. A, Twenty-fifth infantry, was wounded at Perryville, Ky., and still resides in Chilton County, at Clanton; grandson of William Reynolds, who was a colonel in the state militia prior to 1860 in Macon County, and of a Jordan and his wife a Miss Walker who lived first in Virginia and later removed to Tennessee, and finally to Alabama, where the former died of yellow fever in Montgomery about 1860. William Archie Reynolds received his education in the public schools of Chilton County. He later engaged in the mercantile business and has remained in that business for twenty-five years. From 1900-08 he was postmaster of Jemison, and for two years was mayor of Jemison. He is a Republican, a Methodist, and a Mason. Married: to Miss Sudie Lenora, daughter of Albert J. and — (O'Neal) Ware, who lived in Perry County, the former who served in the Confederate army in the company of Gen. Pettus. Children: 1. Lesie, graduate of the University of Alabama with the class of 1913; 2. Annie; 3. Rubin, served on the Mexican border, later was attached to Headquarters Company, One Hundred and Sixty-seventh, U. S. infantry, served in the World war, in the battles of the Champagne front, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, and Argonne forest, gassed October 26, 1918 and was in hospital until March, 1919; 4. Myrtle; 5. Julius W.; 6. Hoyt Brown; 7. Willadean. Residence: Clanton.

RHETT, ROBERT BARNWELL, planter, editor, author, was born in 1828, in Charleston, S. C.; son of Robert Barnwell and — (Burnets) Rhett; great-grandson of a Burnets who came from Aberdeen, Scotland, in the colonial days, and of Daniel DeSaussure, whose son, W. H. DeSaussure, was first controller of the U. S. mint, and whose wife, Sarah McPherson, was of Badenoch-Cluny descent. He was prepared for college chiefly by William R. Abbott, of Georgetown, D. C., and entered Harvard from Charleston in 1845. He was a speaker at the June exhibition of the class of 1847, 1848, and on commencement day in 1849. After graduation he returned to Charleston, studied law in the office of James L. Petigru, and was admitted to the bar at Columbia, S. C., in 1851. He also served on the staff of Governor Means. In 1853, he became a rice planter in Colleton District, N. C., and two years later, after close application to business and study, he dispensed with an overseer and managed his own plantation, at the same time supervising his father's plantations and overseer. While engaged in planting, his cousin, William R. Taber, editor of the Charleston "Mercury," was killed in a duel. He had been challenged for publishing an anonymous communication from a personally responsible author, who criticized in stringent terms, a candidate to succeed Hon. William Aiken in congress. Col. Rhett bought the interests of Taber in the "Mercury," and later that of his partner, John Heart. He then gave up planting and in March, 1857, edited the "Mercury." Early in the summer of 1860, after the death of his first wife, and while at Saratoga for his health he was elected, in August, to the legislature from Charleston. In November, upon the election of Mr. Lincoln to the presidency of the United States, Col. Rhett, through the Columbia "Guardian," called a meeting of the members of the legislature, at Kinsler's Hall, on Main street. At this meeting, he presented a number of letters he had obtained from public men of the different southern states, having the confidence and respect of the people of South Carolina, which were replies to specific questions as to what course South Carolina should pursue in the contingency anticipated. He was then in the House of Representatives, and offered a joint resolution in that body for the call of a state convention, on December 6, for the election of delegates, and December 17, for the assembling of the body, and this resolution, in the form of a bill was passed unanimously, by both houses. The State convention then met at Columbia, adjourned to Charleston, and unanimously adopted the ordinance of secession, on December 20. When Major Anderson transferred his command from Ft. Moultrie, to Ft. Sumter, on December 24, Col. Rhett urged its immediate seizure, by the state authorities, as this move was held contrary to the understanding of the committee of the state, with President Buchanan. For the flag of South Carolina, he proposed the old blue field, and white crescent with a colorless palmetto added, and this proposition was carried. He first suggested Montgomery, as the meeting place for the convention of the seceding states, in an editorial in the "Mercury," and on February 4, the delegates assembled there. In 1861-1862, he served on the staff of Gen. R. S. Kipley, in South Carolina; edited the "Mercury," and served as a member of the legislature. After the evacuation of Charleston he was appointed on the staff of Gen. J. E. Johnston. He had four brothers who served in the C. S. army from the beginning to the close of the war; Lieut. Robert W. Rhett, who was killed at Cold Harbor in 1862; Capt. Edmund Rhett and Maj. A. B. Rhett, both of whom died a few years after the war from the effects of wounds; and Col. Alfred Rhett, of Fort Sumter fame. The course employed by Col. Rhett, in editing the "Mercury" during the war, was distinct and positive in regard to foreign diplomacy, financial matters, and military and naval affairs. After the war, when suffrage was conferred upon the negroes, he failed in his attempt to impress upon the people the importance of canvassing among the new voters before the agents of the Freedman's bureau could array them as Republicans against their white neighbors, and for ten years the Union League had its own way. The publication of the "Mercury" was resumed in 1866, and in 1868, Col. Rhett advocated the nomination of Gen. Hancock for president, by the New York Democratic convention. When the reconstruction convention was held in Charleston, he exposed a number of Republican politicians, was threatened with assassination by them, and was also threatened with imprisonment in Castle Pinckney, by Gen. Sickles. In 1870, he moved to Alabama, and engaged in cotton planting in Madison County and in Noxubee County, Miss. In 1872, he opened the state canvass of Alabama with Col. Herndon, nominee for governor, and they offered resolutions supporting Mr. Greeley, not as a Democrat, but as an alternative to Grant. He soon afterward accepted an invitation from the "N. O. Printing and Publishing Company," to edit the "Picayune," during which time he exposed the various men who had engaged in Kellogg's enterprise of fraud and usurpation, and while defending Louisiana, the "Picayune," and himself, he became personally involved with Judge William H. Cooley, and a duel was fought between them at Montgomery Station, Miss., in which Judge Cooley fell at the second fire. He took an active and responsible part in the canvass which freed Mississippi from carpetbag domination, in 1875. He became editor of the Charleston "Journal of Commerce," in 1876, was elected to the legislature, with Gen. Rutledge, and assisted in the rehabilitation of the state, the settlement of the state debt and the reestablishment of her credit. In 1878, he returned to Huntsville, and in 1880 advocated the nomination of Hancock and engaged in the election of Gen. Wheeler as a member of congress from the eighth district. In 1882, he opened the canvass for state offices at Athens; in 1884, attended the Chicago Democratic Convention; was chairman of the Democratic Convention of Alabama, in 1886, which endorsed the administration of Mr. Cleveland, and he proposed two planks, civil service reform and an equitable revision of the tariff for revenue; was elected head of the executive committee of the state; and was appointed by Gov. O'Neal, trustee of the University of Alabama. He presided over the first meeting in Huntsville for the building of the Elora Railroad to connect with Nashville, Tenn., and over the first meeting concerning the Cincinnati, Huntsville & Birmingham Railroad. He was the author of an article among the "War Papers" of the "Century" Magazine on the confederate government of Montgomery. He was president of the Cleveland Club at Huntsville, a member of Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. Married: (1) to a young lady of Huntsville, who died in 1860; (2) in 1867, to Harriett Moore, daughter of Dr. David Moore (q. v.). Children: by second marriage, 1. Harry Moore, b. December 28, 1873, student at University of Virginia, 1895-1897. Last residence: Huntsville.

RHODES, WILLIAM JAMES, business man, was born November 11, 1831, in Mobile, and died August 26, 1898, in Talladega. He entered the Confederate service as lieutenant of Co. I, 31st Alabama infantry regiment, originally known as "Alabama Rifles," and was later captain of his company. He was twice mayor of Talladega. He was a Mason. Last residence: Talladega.

RICE, AMANDA BUTLER (PEARSON), patriotic worker, was a native of Winsboro, S. C.; daughter of Dr. Edward and Lavinia Pearson, of the same place. Mrs. Rice was one of the most prominent members of the Ladies' Confederate memorial association, Montgomery. Married: Samuel F. Rice (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

RICE, FLEETWOOD, lawyer, was born December 3, 1875, in Fayette County; son of Tolbert Alexander and Sarah Elizabeth (Shelton) Rice, the former who was a native of Fayette County, enlisted for the War of Secession at the age of sixteen years and served four years as private in Roddy's cavalry; grandson of James and Mariah T. Rice who lived in Fayette County, the former who was a native of Anderson District, S. C., and came to Tuscaloosa with his father Orthonville, being among the early settlers of the state, and of Joseph and Jane (Chancellor) Shelton, who lived in Tuscaloosa County. Fleetwood Rice received his early education in the common schools of Tuscaloosa County; in the preparatory department of Howard college, East Lake; later entered the freshmen class at the University of Alabama, 1894, and was graduated B. S. in 1898; in 1903 received the degree of LL. B. from the same institution; represented the university in the Gulf State Intercollegiate Oratorical contest in 1898; served as quartermaster sergeant in the cadet corps; practiced law at Tuscaloosa; was a member of the legislature from Tuscaloosa County in the session of 1907; in the same year was appointed aide-de-camp with rank of colonel on Gov. Comer's staff; was re-elected to the legislature in 1911. He is a Democrat, a Baptist, and a Mason. Married: on September 19, 1899, at Midway, to Josephine Tait Ray, daughter of S. O. Y. and Josephine (Tait) Ray. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

RICE, FRANCISCO, physician and probate judge, was born December 6, 1822, at New Market, Madison County, and died January 20, 1896, at Huntsville; son of Joseph and Hannah (Bayless) Rice, the former who was of Irish descent, was a native of Coke County, Tenn., served in the War of 1812, with Gen. Andrew Jackson, was justice of the peace for fifty years, and lived at New Market at the time of his death, the latter who was of Welsh descent; grandson of Spencer Rice, a soldier in the Revolutionary War, who resided in Maryland, Tennessee, and North Carolina, but finally removed to Alabama where he died, in 1807, and of Heseekiah and Jane (Evans) Bayless, the former who was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and had resided in Maryland, Tennessee, North Carolina, and came to New Market, in 1806. He received a common school education and later accepted a position as clerk in a store at New Market. He then assisted his father in shipping cotton to New Orleans. When he was about twenty-one years of age he was severely injured by a sawlog falling on him, and he went west in search of health. In 1846, while in Texas, he joined a Texas regiment commanded by Col. Albert Sydney Johnston, and engaged in the Mexican War. After his term of enlistment expired he returned to New Market. In 1852, he was graduated M. D., from the Memphis medical college, and started in to practice medicine at New Market and the adjoining country, in partnership with Dr. Roberts. In 1854, he moved to Jackson county, where he resided for about ten years. Before the War of Secession, he practiced medicine and engaged in the mercantile business. In 1860, he was elected to the State senate over Gen. Austin, and when the war broke out, having refused a position as brigade surgeon, he joined the Fourth Tennessee cavalry, and was elected captain of Co. K. He obtained leave of absence from the army when the general assembly of Alabama was in session, and went to Montgomery. When that body adjourned, he returned to the army, thus performing the duties of both soldier and statesman throughout the war. He was elected to the legislature in 1870, being on the first Democratic ticket that was successful after the war; was elected again in 1874, in 1876, and in 1878. In 1884, he was a candidate for state auditor, but was defeated by Hon. Malcolm C. Burke; in 1886, was a candidate for probate judge, but was defeated by Hon. Thomas J. Taylor, and was nominated and elected to the state senate; he was candidate for probate judge in 1892, was again defeated by Judge Taylor, and with Hon. A. S. Fletcher, was nominated and elected to the legislature. The office of probate judge becoming vacant on the death of Judge Taylor, November, 1894, he was appointed by Gov. Thomas J. Jones, to fill the vacancy. He served Jackson County, four years in the Alabama senate, and Madison County ten years in the senate and six in the lower house, making a total of twenty years service. He was a Democrat and a member of the New Market Baptist church, where he served as deacon, a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: (1) in 1847, to Cyrena Caroline Taliaferro, who died early in 1859, daughter of Rev. Richard Taliaferro, a Baptist minister; (2) on March 25, 1860, to Adelia T. Haden, who died October 30, 1885, daughter of Anthony Winston Haden; (3) in May, 1888, to Mrs. Sallie Childress, daughter of John Whitaker, of Lincoln County, Tenn. Children: 1. Bettie, m. W. A. Power, widow, resides at Huntsville; 2. Joseph T., m. Ophelia Brown, reside at Texarkana, Ark.; 3. Rev. N. E., Baptist minister, m. Mollie Spelce, reside at New Market; 4. Carter H., m. Lena Stone, reside at New Market; 5. Solon F., m. Jennie Lipscomb, reside at Huntsville; 6. Adelia T., deceased, m. George T. Willson; 7. Mary Oats, m. Joseph W. Macon, reside at Chase; 8. Sophia Tate, m. Dr. William Cannon, reside at Fayetteville, Tenn.; 9. George W., resides at Fayetteville, Tenn.; 10. Holden, Fayetteville, Tenn.; 11. Florence, Fayetteville, Tenn. Last residence: Huntsville.

RICE, GREEN PRYOR, lawyer, public official, was born about 1795, in Missouri, and died in Somerville, March 4, 1857; son of Joel and Mary (Hickman) Rice, the former a North Carolinian, who was among the early settlers of Madison County, where he engaged in farming. He grew to manhood in Madison County, but later moved to Illinois where he lived for two or three years. He was at one time a minister of the gospel in Kentucky, and practiced law at St. Joseph, Mo. He returned to Alabama and was several times a member of the general assembly. At the time of his election to the Alabama senate, in 1838, he was judge of the county court, and at the session of 1839, he was elected president of the senate. He was re-elected in 1840, and after serving his term was, in 1842, returned to the house of representatives, and was in the legislature for the last time in 1855. He was a Democrat, a Presbyterian, and a Master Mason. Married: in Somerville, April 10, 1822, to Ann Eliza Turner, daughter of Sugars and Nancy Turner, who resided at Somerville. Children: 1. Green Pryor, deceased, m. Mary Jane Campbell; 2. Turner Benjamin, deceased; 3. Jackson, deceased, m. Lizzie Lester; 4. Hamilton, deceased; 5. Edward, deceased, m. Sarah Malone; 6. Mary, deceased, m. John Bedford Weakley (q. v.); 7. Josephine, m. Josiah Patterson (q. v.), reside at Memphis, Tenn.; 8. Septimus Decimus, m. Eliza Brock, reside at Florence. Last residence: Somerville.

RICE, JOHN ANDREW, Methodist minister and author; a native of South Carolina who was transferred to the Alabama conference, and appointed to the pastorate of the Court Street church, Montgomery, 1903-06. Residence: South Carolina.

F. W. MONNISH

RICE, NEANDER H., secretary of State, 1873.

RICE, RIGHT, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Wilcox County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on January 26, 1835, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

RICE, SAMUEL FARROW, lawyer, chief justice, legislator, state printer and editor, was born June 2, 1816, in Union District, S. C., and died in Montgomery; son of William and Sarah (Herndon) Rice of Union District, State senator and for twenty years the judge of ordinary in that district; grandson of Heseekiah and Mary (Sanders) Rice, also of Union District. The Rices were of Welch ancestry and the Herndons were of English origin. Judge Rice graduated at the South Carolina college, Columbia, in 1833, read law in the office of U. S. Senator William C. Preston and was licensed to practice in 1838. He opened an office in Winnsboro, S. C., but during the same year removed to Talladega County. During his residence in that county, he practiced with Philip E. Pearson, John T. Morgan and Thomas D. Clark. He owned "The Watchtower" in Talladega which he edited for six years. He was elected to the Alabama legislature, 1840-41, and showed marked skill in debate. In 1841, he was elected State printer but resigned three months later to devote himself to his profession. During this year he was nominated by the Democratic party for congress but was defeated by Gen. Felix G. McConnell. He was again nominated in 1847, as a Tyler man but was defeated by F. W. Bowden. In 1851, he was nominated by the Southern Rights Party for congress but was defeated by Alexander White. In 1852, he removed to Montgomery and the following year was elected to the supreme court. One year later he became chief justice, which position he held for three years. He retired from the bench to return to the practice of law. In 1854, he was elected to the legislature, and to the State senate from the Montgomery and Autauga District, 1861-65. During his residence in Montgomery as a practicing lawyer he was associated in partnership at various times with Col. James E. Belser, George Goldthwaite and Henry Semple. He became a Know Nothing in 1855 and a Republican in 1870. He was for many years connected with the Methodist Church. Married: (1) June 10, 1835, at Winslow, S. C., to Amanda Butler, daughter of Rev. Dr. Edward and Lavinia Pearson; (2) October 8, 1872, at Montgomery, to Mary Ellen Fitzgibbon. Children: by the first wife: 1. Lavinia, m. Ferrie Henshaw; 2. Ida, m. Henry Bethea; 3. Samuel F., jr.; 4. Willie, daughter; 5. Edward Pearson; 6. Benjamin Adolphus; 7. Daisy, m. (1) James G. Glaze, (2) George H. Smathers; by the second wife, 8. Ferrie, dec.; 9. Edwin, dec.; 10. Cornelia, dec.; 11. Samuel B.; 12. Nell, dec.; 13. Marguerite, m. Dr. J. N. Baker (q. v.). Last residence. Montgomery.

RICE, SEPTIMUS P., educator; president of the State normal college, Florence, 1873-81. Deceased.

RICH, JOSEPH CARLOS, lawyer and mayor of Mobile, was born in Perry County, September 10, 1859; son of Sterling Brown and Anna Elizabeth (Daniel) Rich, of Wilson County, Tenn.; grandson of Joseph and Rebecca Daniel, of Perry County. Mr. Rich was educated in the country schools of State Line, Miss.; in the University of Mississippi at Oxford; and Vanderbilt university. He opened his office at Mobile in March, 1881, and excepting enforced absences on official duty, has successfully continued in the active practice of law to the present date. He was a member of the city council in 1882; mayor of Mobile from 1888 to 1894 inclusive; and was elected to the house of representatives of 1903, and served as chairman of the judiciary committee of that body. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: January 8, 1885, at Mobile, to Mary Toulmin, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Campbell) Adams of Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

RICHARDS, EVAN GOODWIN, minister and lawyer, was born August 26, 1807, at Northampton County, N. C., and died December 31, 1893; son of Evan and Nancy (Malone) Richards, the former who was a native of Wales, who settled in North Carolina and in 1815, moved to Madison County. He went to the country schools of that county for less than two years, and in the fall of 1825, he, wishing to prepare for the ministry, joined the Methodist church. In the fall of 1830, he was licensed, at a quarterly conference held at Decatur, by Joshua Boucher, presiding elder. On December 15, 1834, he was ordained a deacon at Greensboro, by Bishop Andrew, and on January 20, 1844, was ordained elder by Bishop Soule, at Columbus, Ga. He came to Lafayette, October 1, 1833, and December 11, 1833 attended a session of the Alabama Conference at Montgomery, with the result that the Alabama Conference sent two ministers, Sidney Squires and Hugh M. Finley, in 1834, to what was then called the Creek territory, and they organized the Methodist church at Lafayette, which was constituted with only three members, Kittora Driver, Sarah Dudley, and Evan G. Richards. In 1834 he was admitted to practice law at La Grange, Ga. He later settled in Lafayette, where he practiced law for more than fifty years. He was appointed to represent the state as prosecuting attorney at the first court ever held in Chambers County, and was probate judge of Chambers County from 1836-1840. He was not in the regular service of the C. S. Army, being over age, but was appointed judge advocate of a regiment of old men and boys, called to camps at West Point, Ga., in 1864. He was a member of the state constitutional convention of 1875. He was one of the chief promoters of the Opelika, Oxford & Guntersville Railroad, and was the first president of this road. He was also among the first to advocate the building of cotton factories in the south after the war, and with other citizens of Chambers County, and of West Point, Ga., organized the company that built the first of the three large cotton factories located on the Alabama bank of the Chattahoochee River, in Chambers County, and was for many years one of its directors. He was a Democrat, and one of the sixty in Chambers County, who supported Stephen Douglas in 1860. Married: In Perry County, May 21, 1835, to Sarah Dickens Clark Webb, daughter of Thomas and Martha (Dickens) Webb who resided in Perry County; granddaughter of William Webb, who was a native of Essex County, Va., moved to Greenville, N. C., in 1776, was a physician and tobacco grower. Children: 1. Thomas E., b. May 31, 1836, private in C. S. Army, m. (1) Alabama E. Todd, who died in 1857, (2) to Sarah J. Hally, daughter of Greenlee Hally of Tallapoosa County; 2. Martha A., b. February 15, 1838, m. James M. Reid of West Point, Ga.; 3. Robert Webb, b. April 28, 1840, first lieutenant in Co. A, Sixteenth Georgia battalion, d. in Graham, Tex., May, 1870, m. Mary J. Fretwell; 4. John Henry, b. December 19, 1841, served in the Fourteenth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, d. December, 1873, m. Sarah J. Bullard, of Lee County; 5. Andrew Jackson, b. March 15, 1844, member of Co. I, Thirty-seventh Alabama regiment, m. Jimmie E. G. Winston; 6. Mary Parthenia, b. March 8, 1846, m. John E. Roberts of West Point, Ga., reside in San Diego, Calif.; 7. James M. Richards, b. February 8, 1848, was too young to enter the C. S. Army, but under Gen. Forrest with other young boys and some old men, helped to defend Selma, when that city was attacked and captured April 3, 1865, was a newspaper man, having published the Chambers "Tribune," the LaFayette "Reporter," the Pensacola "Mail," the Opelika "Locomotive," and the "Morning News," was admitted to the bar in 1869, in 1872, was elected on the Democratic ticket, as county solicitor of Chambers County, in 1879, was elected county judge, attended every state convention in Alabama from 1872 to 1876, was alternate elector on the Tilden and Hendrick's ticket for the fifth congressional district of Alabama in 1876, and in 1896, was elected as a delegate from the eighth congressional district of Texas, to the National Democratic Convention at Chicago, m. Irene C. Hawkins, Weatherford, Tex; 8. Elizabeth Ridley, b. July 23, 1849, m. Benjamin L. Dyer, reside at Opelika; 9. Frances Lucretia, b. November 6, 1851, d. 1872, m. Capt. Isaac H. Vincent; 10. William Webb, deceased; 11. Sarah Emma, deceased; 12. Charles Sidney, b. January 31, 1857, m. Martha Le Grand, Hereford, Tex.; 13. Stephen Malone, b. Feb. 29, 1860, at the time of his death in 1902 was holding the office of sheriff of Chambers County, m. Dora Stanley. Last residence: Lafayette.

RICHARDS, J. DE FOREST, professor of natural sciences and astronomy, at the University of Alabama, 1869-71.

RICHARDSON, ASON GITTINGS, planter, sheriff and member Alabama legislature, was born May 1, 1830, at Zanesville, Muskingum County, Ohio, and died November 11, 1903, at Wichita, Kan.; son of Rev. Rufus and Jemima (Gittings) Richardson, D. D., M. D., the former a native of Somers, Tolland County, Conn., soldier of the War of 1812, teacher, physician, Methodist minister, located in Otsego, Ohio, later removed to Laharpe, Ill., where he is buried; grandson of Jesse and Annie (Jones) Richardson of Somers, and of Ason and Eliza (Clark) Gittings of Fairfax County, Va.; great-grandson of David and Rachael (Richards) Richardson, of Scotch and English ancestry, respectively, married in the former country, a Revolutionary soldier of the Connecticut line. Ason Gittings Richardson acquired his early education in the private schools of Laharpe, Ill., and completed his academic studies at Knox college, Galesburg, Ill., where he received the degree of bachelor of liberal arts upon graduation in June, 1853. In early life, through an accident he lost an arm, and hence could not perform military services. He located in Alabama during the reconstruction period, having acquired a plantation in Wilcox, which county he served as sheriff in 1867 under the authority of the constitutional convention which appointed him to that office. He was a member of the Alabama legislature in 1868-69. In 1870 he removed to Harvey County, Kan., and served as county commissioner there, 1872-74, and was elected to the legislature of that state, 1874-75. After this service he was again elected county commissioner. While in both Alabama and Kansas he owned and operated farms, upon scientific principles. He was a Republican; and a Presbyterian. Married: May 21, 1877, at Zanesville, Muskingum County, Ohio, to Eliza Wylie, daughter of John and Eliza (Watson) Anderson of that place. The Watsons were of Scotch-Irish descent, of Covenant stock, and ardent abolitionists. Children: 1. Rufus Gittings, m. Mary Elizabeth White, Foraker, Okla.; 2. Robert Anderson, m. Florence Fay Wolfe, Wichita, Kan.; 3. John Levi; 4. Orpha Edna, Wichita; 5. Ralph Lovell. Last residence: Wichita, Kan.

RICHARDSON, JULIUS CEASAR, lawyer, was born April 18, 1851, in Key West, Fla., and was killed in an automobile accident, August 9, 1910, between Greenville and Montgomery; son of Rev. Simon Peter and Mary Eliza (Arledge) Richardson; grandson of Peter and Katherine (Hornung) Richardson of Newberry, S. C., and a lineal descendant of the Richardsons and Canteys, pioneer settlers of Camden, S. C., and Revolutionary soldiers. He was educated at the East Alabama male college, Auburn, now the Alabama polytechnic institute, at Summerfield, and the Southern university, Greensboro. He taught school two years. In 1873 he received the LL.B. degree from the law department of Cumberland university; in 1874, began the practice in Greenville; State senator, 1886, and member of the joint committee to revise the code of Alabama; elected judge of the 2nd judicial circuit in 1898; re-elected in 1904 and held that office at time of death. He was a Democrat; a Knight of Pythias; and a Methodist. Married: November 22, 1874, in Greenville, to Bettie McCall, daughter of D. T. and Martha (Cook) McCall, of Butler County. Children: 1. Judge Terry, m. Margaret Crommelin (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

RICHARDSON, NICHOLAS DAVIS, physician, was born November 30, 1832, at Athens, and died January 3, 1895, in Nashville, Tenn.; son of Wm. and Anne Bradley (Davis) Richardson (q. v.). Dr. Richardson was educated at the academy of John Frazer in Athens; at LaGrange college, the University of Virginia, 1852-54, and the Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, M. D., 1856. He located at Mooresville and practiced there and at Athens until 1881 when he removed to Nashville, Tenn. He entered the Confederate Army in 1861 as 1st lieutenant, Capt. Jim Henry Malone's company, but was later made surgeon of the 26th Alabama infantry regiment, which afterwards became the 26th-50th regiment; and was paroled in 1865. He was of Whig antecedents, but became a Democrat after the war. He was a Methodist; and a Mason. He was the grand cyclops of the Limestone division of the Ku Klux Klan from 1868-69, and together with Robert Anderson McClellan and Robert Donwell, contributed strong aid to the maintenance of order in that day of civil disorder. Married: (1) at the home of her uncle, James M. Malone in Limestone County, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Roswell and Mary Hobbs (Malone) Hine, of that place; (2) Mrs. O. D. Sledge. Children, by first marriage: 1. Roswell Hine, m. Mary Eloise Walker, of Athens; 2. Anne Davis, m. Thos. Maclin Hobbs (q. v.); 3. Charles Beaumont, d. unmarried; 4. Wm. Edward, d. unmarried; 5. Mary Pleasants, m. George Augustine Washington, jr. and resides in Mobile; 6. Nicholas Davis, surgeon with rank of captain in the U. S. marine medical corps, d. at San Francisco, Calif., m. Eloise Gregory. Last residence: Nashville, Tenn.

RICHARDSON, SCHUYLER HARRIS, lawyer, was born May 9, 1890, at Quid Nunc plantation, the parental home in Limestone County; son of Wm. Nicholas and Minnie (Harris) Richardson (q. v.). He was prepared for college at Branham and Hughes' school, 1902-05, and graduated major of 1st. battalion cadet corps, Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1909, and from the law department of the University of Alabama, 1911. He began the practice of law in Birmingham immediately after graduation. He is unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

RICHARDSON, TERRY McCALL, lawyer, circuit judge, was born December 24, 1876, in Greenville, and died September 16, 1907, at Luverne; son of Judge Julius Caesar and Bettie (McCall) Richardson, of Greenville; grandson of Rev. Simon Peter Richardson, of the Alabama M. E. conference. He was educated in the collegiate institute at Greenville, entered the University of Alabama, 1892, graduating in 1896 from the law department, and in 1898, was admitted to the practice. He located in Troy, and was city attorney 1897-99; captain Co. I, Troy rifles, A. N. G., 1898-99, Spanish American War. He removed to Montgomery and was made county solicitor in 1901; was appointed by Gov. Jelks to succeed Judge John G. Winter, deceased, judge of the 15th judicial circuit, which position he held at the time of his death by accident. He was a Democrat; Knight of Pythias; Elk; Red Man; member of the Sigma Nu fraternity, and a Methodist. Married: February 5, 1902, in Montgomery, to Margaret, daughter of Henry and Lucie (Metcalf) Crommelin, of that place. Children: 1. Henry Crommelin; 2. Terry; 3. Margaret Lucie. Last residence: Montgomery.

RICHARDSON, WARFIELD CREATH, educator and author, was born June 23, 1823, in Maysville, Ky., and died in Tuscaloosa 191—; son of Thomas Gaines and Sarah (Perry) Richardson, formerly of Virginia, removing to Kentucky as a pioneer settler of Maysville; locating in Tuscaloosa. Dr. Richardson's education was received at Maysville academy, where he was the schoolmate of Ulysses S. Grant. In 1839 he entered the University of Alabama, graduating with the A. B. degree in 1843 and A. M., 1846. The Alabama polytechnic institute conferred the degree of Ph.D. on him in 1878 and the University of Alabama, the LL.D. degree in 1906. He was a teacher for more than thirty-five years; principal of Wilcox academy, Camden 1851-55; professor of natural sciences, Centenary institute, Summerfield, 1855-62; lecturer in chemistry, University of Alabama, 1864-65; president, Tuscaloosa female college 1866-68; acting-professor of Greek, University of Alabama 1876-77; adjunct professor of English literature and instructor in mineralogy and geology, 1877—. He was in demand as a lecturer on education and temperance themes. Author: edited the first two temperance papers in Alabama, "The Crystal Fount," in Tuscaloosa and, "The Orion," in Montgomery. He contributed to other papers and magazines, and was the author of "Gaspar" a political romance; "The fall of the Alamo" a poem, "The wondrous age," "Semi-centennial ode." He was a State Rights Democrat; organizer of the Sons of Temperance, in Tuscaloosa County and city; and a Methodist. Married: November 16, 1855; in Camden, to Kate Cole, daughter of Rev. John Cargill and Mary Ann (Walker) Jones, of that place; great-granddaughter of John Jones, twice speaker of the Virginia house of burgesses, occupying the chair when Patrick Henry made his historic speech. She was also the sister of Miss Sallie Jones, of Camden, the organizer of the Alabama division, U. D. C. Children: 1. Lucy Belle, m. John Calhoun Harrison; 2. Clement Warburton, deceased; 3. Ida May, m. Sterling A. Wood, of Birmingham. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

RICHARDSON, WILLIAM, sr., lawyer, was born December 21, 1797, in Goochland County, Va., and died December 15, 1866 in Athens; son of George Richardson of an old Virginia family. He removed to Limestone County in 1825, and located in Athens, where he practiced law until his death. He, a Whig in a strong Democratic County, was elected to the house of representatives in 1830 and again in 1832. He was a Methodist and was one of the founders of the Athens female college, and from 1844 until his death was a trustee of that institution. Married: about 1827, to Anne Bradley, daughter of Nicholas and Martha (Hargrave) Davis, sr. (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary Pleasants, m. (1) Joshua Richardson, and had among other children, William N. Richardson (q. v.); and (2) Thompson Anderson, merchant, of Nashville, Tenn., and had children; 2. Nicholas Davis (q. v.), m. (1) Sarah E. Hines, (2) Mrs. O. D. Sledge; 3. Sarah Elizabeth, m. Dr. L. H. Binford, of Courtland, and had three sons; 4. Edward Ripley, m. Susan Hamilton, Nashville, and reared a large family; 5. Anne, m. Henry E. Jones of Nashville, and had children; 6. William Richardson (q. v.), m. Elizabeth Rucker; 7. James Benagh, m. Sarah Evans, of Nashville, and reared a family; 8. David Michel, physician, d. unmarried; 9. Samuel, d. young; 10. George, drowned in boyhood. Last residence: Athens.

RICHARDSON, WILLIAM, lawyer, judge, and member of congress, was born May 8, 1839, in Athens, Limestone County, and died March 31, 1914, at Atlantic City, N. J.; son of William and Ann Bradley (Davis) Richardson (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools, and at Florence Wesleyan university. Early in 1861 he entered the C. S. Army, at Athens, as a private. He was severely wounded at Shiloh and taken prisoner. He escaped from the Federal authorities and in endeavoring to come through the lines at Nashville in company with James Paul, a spy, was recaptured and ordered to be shot as a spy, but was rescued by General N. B. Forrest before the hour set for their execution. Captain Richardson was disabled for further military service by wounds received in the battle of Chickamauga, 1863, at which time he was captain of Co. E, 50th Alabama infantry regiment. Upon the cessation of hostilities he entered upon the study of law, and in 1867 was admitted to the bar. He represented Limestone County in the legislature of 1874; and in 1875 was elected probate judge of Madison County, which position he filled until 1886. In 1888 he was a Democratic elector for the state-at-large. Judge Richardson was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1890, and although he had a strong following, withdrew his name at the convention in Montgomery in order to bring harmony to the party. On July 3, 1900, he was elected by acclamation to succeed Gen. Joseph Wheeler in congress, the latter's resignation having taken effect April 20, of that year, and served as a member of that body from December 3, 1900, until his death, March 31, 1914. In a memorial address delivered in congress, January 31, 1915, Mr. Mann, of Illinois stated: "I had the honor of serving with him for many years on the committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, during a time when that committee had charge of many important matters of legislation. The Revenue letter service was reorganized; the Public Health Service was reorganized; the Light-house Service was reorganized; the Life-Saving Service was greatly extended; the Department of Commerce and Labor was created; the Bureau of Corporations was organized; the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission were made adequate; the Panama Canal was provided for and largely constructed, and in all of these matters Mr. Richardson had very great prominence." He also served as a member of the committee on pensions, of which he was for several years chairman. He was a member of the Tennessee river improvement association; Madison County and the Alabama bar associations. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: December 18, 1872, to Elizabeth B., daughter of Ambrose B. and Sarah Jane (Benagh) Rucker, of Lynchburg, Va. Children: 1. Sara, m. Sledge Tatum; 2. Anne, m. William S. Wells; 3. Elizabeth, m. Thomas B. Howell; 4. Barnes, Washington, D. C.; 5. William, m. Katherine Branch. Last residence: Huntsville.

RICHARDSON, WILLIAM NICHOLAS, planter, was born January 29, 1849, in Athens, and died at Athens; son of Joshua Clinton and Mary P. (Richardson) Richardson, the former a native of Tennessee, who located at Athens in 1847, practiced law, married, and in 1850 returned to his native state where three years later he was elected to the legislature and was a lieutenant in the Mexican War; grandson of Wm. and Anne Bradley (Davis) Richardson (q. v.); and great-grandson of Capt. Nicholas and Martha (Hargrave) Davis (q. v.). Mr. Richardson, was reared and educated in Athens, and at the age of fifteen entered the Confederate Army as a member of the Georgia militia, but was later transferred to Ward's battery, and, while with the latter organization, was captured at Selma, thrown into the Federal stockade at that place, and after the surrender at Appomattox was paroled at Montgomery. He was a man of great courage and active after the war in the movement to re-establish white supremacy in Alabama. He took a commercial course in Pittsburgh, Pa., and for two years thereafter held clerical positions with mercantile or industrial concerns in Alabama and Tennessee, finally returning to plantation life. Married: April 1875, in Athens, to Minnie, daughter of Schuyler and Anne (DeWoody) Harris, natives of Virginia who removed to Limestone County. Children: 1. Anna D.; 2. Minnie L.; 3. Ruby; 4. William N.; 5. Schuyler Harris; 6. James B.; 7 and 8 deceased. Last residence: Limestone County.

RICHARDSON, WILLIAM W., deceased Presbyterian minister, mentioned in Stillman's "Dead of the Synod of Alabama," 1882-90.

RICHARDSON, WILSON GAINES, Presbyterian minister and teacher, was born December 9, 1825, in Maysville, Ky., and died July 5, 1886; son of Thomas Gaines and Sarah (Perry) Richardson of Tuscaloosa; brother of Dr. Warfield Creath Richardson (q. v.). He was educated in Kentucky and in Alabama; began the career of teacher, as tutor in ancient languages at the University of Alabama, 1846-49; professor of languages and English literature, 1849-50; professor of Latin and French at the University of Mississippi, 1854-59; and in Oakland college, Miss., 1859-62; assistant paymaster C. S. Navy, 1862-65; professor of ancient languages and French, at Davidson college, N. C., 1866-74; professor Latin and French, Central university of Kentucky; graduate of Princeton theological seminary, 1883; ordained to preach and pastor of Presbyterian churches at Danceyville, and Staunton, Tenn., until his death. Married: (1) February 4, 1857, in Jackson, Miss., to Louise Hinson Kennon; (2) February 10, 1876, at Harrisburg, Va., to Mrs. Anne Herring McAfee. Last residence: Staunton, Tenn.

RICHESON, CHARLES GIBSON, teacher and legislator, was born December 9, 1882, at Cherry Hill, Franklin County; son of William Elliott and Mary Elizabeth (Farned) Richeson, the former of Cherry Hill, the latter of Russellville; grandson of Jesse and Celina Gibson (Childs) Richeson, of Newberg, and of William and Adeline (Sugg) Farned, of Russellville. He was educated in the common schools and at the State normal college, of Florence. He was one of the representatives from Franklin County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and a Woodman of the World. He is unmarried. Residence: Russellville.

RICKS, RICHARD HENRY, lawyer and planter, was born March 28, 1820, at Raleigh, Halifax County, N. C., and died February 24, 1858, at LaGrange; son of Abraham and Charlotte Bryant (Foort) Ricks, the former of English ancestry who moved to Courtland in 1823, and then in 1826, to LaGrange, Colbert County, then Franklin County, where he engaged in farming, until his death, November 23, 1852; grandson of S. and Charlotte (Bryant) Foort, the former who was of Scotch ancestry; and a brother of William F. Ricks, planter, who lived in LaGrange. His early education was received in the schools of the county, and he later attended the University of Alabama, from where he was graduated A. B., 1838, and A. M., 1842. He was a law student at Harvard university from August 12, 1840, to July 10, 1842, when he was recommended to the practice of law, receiving his diploma from there August 24, 1842. He became a planter and never practiced law. In 1847-1848, he represented Franklin County in the legislature, and was a member of the State senate, from 1851-1853. He was a Whig. He was never married. Last residence: LaGrange.

RIDDICK, CORNELIUS B., Methodist minister, transferred to the North Alabama conference, and appointed to the pastorate of the first Methodist church, Birmingham, prior to 1900. He later removed west. Residence: San Diego, Cal.

RIDDLE, JAMES HAMILTON, teacher, was born at Fair Mount, Gordon County, Ga.; son of James Washington and Senith Matilda (Franklin) Riddle, the former a native of Calens, Pittsylvania County, Va., farmer, Confederate soldier and captured in Kentucky, lived for forty years near Fair Mount; grandson of James A. and Nancy (Evans) Riddle of Swansonville, Va., and of Samuel and Senith Franklin of near Fair Mount, Ga. The first American ancestor came from England or Ireland to Maryland, thence to Loudoun and Pittsylvania Counties, Va., whence they removed to Gordon County, Ga. Mr. Riddle received his elementary education in the public schools of his native place and later attended Rinehardt college, Waleska, Ga., and Wesleyan university, Athens, Tenn., from which he graduated in May, 1887, with the degree of Ph.B. He entered upon the profession of teaching in Whitfield County, Ga., 1876, and taught in Cherokee County, Ga., and in Lineville, Ashland, and Hartselle, having taught thirty years. He surveyed the boundary line between Clay and Talladega counties. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason. Married: Mary Emma, daughter of Rev. John R. and Sarah (McKennon) Conger, of Hackneyville. The McKennons are of Scotch ancestry. Residence: Hartselle.

RIDNER, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, resided in Benton County, June 1, 1840, with Jos. Ridner.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

RIGGS, BENJAMIN HOGAN, physician, was born August 18, 1838, at Mobile, and died January 11, 1888, in Selma; son of Daniel M. and Ann (Hogan) Riggs (q. v.). Dr. Riggs was educated at Barton academy; studied medicine in the office of Drs. Mabry and Kent, Selma, 1855; attended lectures in the medical department of the University of Louisiana, 1856; spent two years, 1857-58, at the Marine hospital, Mobile, and was graduated from the Medical department, University of Pennsylvania, 1859. He began the practice of his profession at Prairie Bluff but soon gave this up to enter the Confederate service; enlisted as private in Captain Robbins, "Wilcox Rangers," rose rapidly to the rank of senior surgeon and served under Generals Bragg, Johnston and Hood, until the end of the war. At the close of the war he returned to Selma there to continue the practice of medicine until his death. He was president of the Alabama state medical association, 1884, and a member of the State board of censors and committee of public health; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. He was a contributor of many important articles to the Medical monthly and the Medical and surgical journal. Married: June, 1867, to Fannie Gray, daughter of Henry C. Robertson. To this union three sons and one daughter were born. Last residence: Selma.

RIGGS, DANIEL M., banker, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in 1800, in Surry County, North Carolina, and died at Selma, in 1860; son of Zadock and Nancy (Fleming) Riggs, of North Carolina, and brother of Joel Riggs, (q. v.) and of the wife of Dr. A. G. Mabry, (q. v.). He removed with his parents at an early age to Tennessee, later to Alabama, residing in Cahaba about 1819, where he was in the land office. Upon the removal of the capital to Tuscaloosa, he also made the change and became connected with the banking interests of the State. After its removal to Montgomery he accepted the position of cashier in the Merchants and planters bank, of Mobile, about 1883, and took up his residence there. He purchased a plantation in Dallas County, 1844, and resided there until a few years after the financial crash of 1847, in which he lost heavily, when he removed to Selma. Married: near Cahaba, to Ann Hogan, sister of Dr. Benjamin Rush Hogan (q. v.). Children: 1. Daniel; 2. Annie, m. Bacchus W. Huntington; 3. Dr. Benjamin Hogan, m. Fannie Gray Robertson (q. v.); 4. Jane, m. brother of Judge Price Williams; 5. Victoria, m. Col. A. W. Speight; 6. Joel; 7. Gertrude, m. Dr. Frank Tipton; 8. John Zadock. Last residence: Selma.

RIGGS, EDWARD POWELL, physician, graduate of the College of physicians and surgeons, Baltimore, 1881, and licensed to practice by the County board of Dallas that year. Residence: Birmingham.

RIGGS, JOEL, banker and comptroller of public accounts, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born April 30, 1812, near Stone Mountain, N. C., and died in Montgomery, November 13, 1865; son of Zadock and Nancy (Fleming) Riggs, of North Carolina, and brother of Daniel M. Riggs (q. v.) and of the wife of Dr. A. G. Mabry (q. v.). Mr. Riggs came to Alabama when young, and was sent to the Military academy at West Point, where he received his education. For several years he was teller in the State bank, and was noted for the accuracy with which he kept his accounts. As comptroller he managed the affairs of his office with great regularity, bringing order out of confusion and introducing system, of which very little had been practiced for years. He opened an entirely new set of books, and digested the tax returns with little or no help. As the head of his department, he stood at his desk from morn till night rendering to the State honest services for the compensation he received. His official reports showed the results in the information they furnished as a basis for estimating the public revenue from taxation, and other sources, to replenish the treasury. He later became one of the editors of the "Mail." Married: (1) at Tuscaloosa, to Georgena Rebecca, daughter of Junius Alexander and Eliza Inglis (Clitherall) Moore, and niece of Judge Alexander Clitherall; (2) Martha Jones, of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Eliza Moore, m. Benjamin Tarver; 2. William Crutcher; 3. Junius Alexander; 4. James; 5. Annie Fleming, m. Edward Pegram Galt; 6. Junius Moore, m. Elizabeth Harris Green (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

RIGGS, JUNIUS MOORE, librarian of the supreme court, was born November 29, 1851, at Montgomery; son of Joel and Georgena Rebecca (Moore) Riggs (q. v.). He received a common school education. He has been marshal and librarian of the supreme court since 1874. He is a Knight of Pythias; Knight of Honor, and a member of the National fraternal union; a Democrat; and Episcopalian. He is the compiler of the catalogues of the supreme court library and the state library. Married: April 11, 1888, at Selma, to Elizabeth, daughter of John Templeton and Elizabeth (Harris) Green, of Vicksburg, Miss., granddaughter of Thomas M. and Mary (Templeton) Green. Residence: Montgomery.

RIGGS, WALTER MERRITT, educator, graduate of Clemson college, S. C., with the B. S. degree in 1893; E. and M. E., 1894; director of the engineering department and professor of electrical engineering and acting president of Clemson college.

RILEY, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Baptist minister, was born July 16, 1849, near Pineville, Monroe County; son of Enoch and Sophronia Irving (Autrey) Riley, the former who was a native of Edgefield District, S. C., and who lived near Pineville, Monroe County; grandson of Jeremiah and Jane Riley, who resided at Monroe County, and of Alexander and Parthenia Autrey, who lived near Sparta, Conecuh County; a descendent of three brothers, then called by the name of O'Riley, who came to America from Ireland, some time before the Revolutionary War, one settling in the north, another in the middle west, and another in the south. The Autreys were of Norman ancestry, the name Autrey, being D'Autrey, and were descended from Count D'Autrey, an ancestor of the maternal grandfather, who was a member of the LaSalle expedition. He received his early education at Pineville; was graduated A. B., from Erskine college, 1872; received the degree of D. D., in 1885, from the University of Alabama, in 1887, from Erskine college; and in 1903, from Baylor; the degree of F. S. Sc. from the Society of Science, Letters and Art, London, 1898; and the degree of LL. D., Simmons college, Tex., 1907. He attended the Southern Baptist theological seminary, Greenville, S. C., and Crozer theological seminary, near Philadelphia, Pa. He was ordained Baptist minister in 1873, at Pineville, and served the following pastorates, Snow Hill, Opelika, Albany, Ga., Livingston, and Houston, Tex. In 1888, he was elected president of Howard college, and was professor of English and oratory at the University of Georgia, from 1898-1900. He was influential in securing the enforcement of the law closing the saloons on Sunday in Texas, and in making gambling in that state a felony, and was active in the adjustment of race relationship in the south. By addresses, lectures and writing, he aided in the elevation of the negro, and in relieving him of the oppression to which he had been subjected. He was a prohibitionist, and was superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon league, 1907-1909. He was the author of "History of Conecuh County," 1884, "Alabama As It Is," 1888, "History of the Baptists of Alabama," 1893, "A History of the Baptists of the Southern States East of the Mississippi," 1898, "History of the Baptists of Texas," 1907, "The White Man's Burden,"

C. H. NESBITT

